Rain cools mid-South as deep South sizzles

By The Associated Press

A heat wave-snapping cold front brought more than 2 inches of rain to the North Carolina coast overnight, while cooling, scattered showers and thunderstorms ranged across much of the rest of the Middle South today.

A cold front that relieved the Midwest from the 19-day-old heat wave pushed southeast, but today's forecast called for temperatures in the middle 90s to 100 degrees from the southern Plains to the lower Mississippi Valley.

Cherry Point, N.C., got 2 1/4 inches of rain in the six hours ending at 2 a.m. today as the scattered storms ranged from Georgia across Mississippi, Arkansas, southeast Missouri, western Tennessee and western Kentucky.

Showers also reached from New Mexico across Arizona. Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 40 degrees at Marquette, Mich., to 93 degrees at Las Vegas, Nev.

The National Weather Service forecast for today called for showers and thunderstorms scattered from southern New England, the mid-Atlantic states and the Tennessee Valley through the Gulf of Mexico coast from Florida across the Mississippi Delta. Showers and thunderstorms also should be widely scattered across the northern Plains.

High temperatures should be in the 80s and 90s across much of the nation, in the 70s over the Pacific Northwest and from the Great Lakes through New England; in the middle 90s to around 100 degrees from the lower Mississippi Valley through the southern Plains.

Today's weather picture was drawn by Shaun Provencher, 9, who lives on Rachel Road and attends Robertson School.

Podiatrist's Yellow Pages ad did some walking

By Andrew J. Davis
Herald Reporter

Someone didn't want Dr. Loren J. Schneider in the Yellow Pages. The Manchester podiatrist claims that his advertisements for the Manchester and Hartford Yellow Pages were deliberately "sabotaged."

When the new Hartford and Manchester books appeared this spring, the ad that he placed was missing. Officials from the Southern New England Telephone Co. claim it was a simple mistake, but Schneider believes it was a deliberate act. While it hasn't affected business, Schneider said, there are still many unanswered questions.

In fact, he is not even sure who would want to sabotage the advertisements.

"I thought about it many times," Schneider said. "I don't know who it is. It's surprising. It would take kind of a bright person to think of such a thing, but they were hoping to do more damage than they did."

knowledge of the phone company and the Schneiders because the caller knew enough to say that Randi Schneider had requested the change, he said. The change was requested past the filing deadline of January, but went through anyway.

SNET SPOKESMAN Michael R. Gomez said the error occurred, in part, because of a mistake made in the company's business office. He said he could not confirm the allegations of sabotage because it was a "confidential matter" between the phone company and Dr. Schneider. However, he said, such incidents happen infrequently.

"It's a rare occasion, happily," Gomez said. "We've had several discussions in the past several months with the doctor, and we hope to work more diligently on the doctor's account."

The phone company has since made provisions to avoid such an occurrence in the future, Gomez said. He would not give details on the measures taken.

Biker has sights set on cards

For years, international travelers have been told that carrying the American Express Card is the best safeguard against theft. But if the Rev. Robert "Kaiser" W. Hershberger has his way, many travelers will be leaving home without the well-known credit card.

Hershberger, the pastor of the Manchester Mission Church of Bikers, is upset about a recent commercial for the American Express card in which a couple is robbed by a group of motorcyclists. He said the commercial perpetuates stereotypes about bikers, and he wants it taken off the air.

"I wonder if they had a black person taking the pocketbook, how many black people would turn in their American Express card?" Hershberger said Monday.

If the offending commercial is not off the air by Friday, Hershberger plans to call on fellow bikers to turn in their cards. He estimates he can take 5,000 cards out of circulation within the next two weeks by publicizing the issue in a column he writes for bikers' magazines.

Officials blame phone co. for Vernon St. delay

By Andrew Yurkovsky
Herald Reporter

Mayor Barbara B. Weinberg said Tuesday she will write to the state Department of Public Utilities Control in an effort to have Southern New England Telephone Co. speed up work on Vernon Street so construction of the road can proceed on schedule.

Weinberg's statement came after Public Works Director George A. Kandra told the Board of Directors Tuesday night that the contractor for the project, Bristol Construction Co. of Bristol, now estimates work on the road will be finished Nov. 30, a month behind schedule.

The town is contributing $340,000 of the $2.2 million for the project, which is being supervised by the state Department of Transportation. Vernon Street residents have complained that Bristol Construction has worked infrequently since beginning work more than a year ago.

Kandra told the directors that SNET utility poles in the roadway have yet to be removed, one reason for the delay. He said that workers from SNET and Northeast Utilities have been scheduled on many occasions to perform work on Vernon Street but have not shown up.

The contractor's latest completion deadline is based on the premise that utility poles will be removed from the roadway by Oct. 9, Kandra said. Bristol Construction estimates that the roadway would be completely passable by Oct. 13, he said.

Director Stephen T. Penny, a West Vernon Street resident, said that work on Vernon Street has not been proceeding quickly enough, despite the fact that crews were to have begun working full force on the project at the beginning of last month.

"I haven't been down that street for weeks. Once a week, I walk down it to see what hasn't been done," he said.

PEOPLE

Valerie's back

The producers of "Valerie" say they're "thrilled and delighted" to have actress Valerie Harper back following her salary dispute that caused her to miss an episode of the NBC sitcom.

Harper and her husband, co-executive producer Tony Cacchetti, refused to report for work on Monday, July 27, in a demand for a higher salary, said a Lorimar-Telepictures spokeswoman.

Lorimar and NBC declined to meet her demand and the show was filmed without her. Lorimar also filed a lawsuit against her, seeking to prevent her from working elsewhere during the remaining four years of her six-year contract.

Lorimar spokeswoman Barbara Brogna said she could not comment on the settlement.

There was no comment on Harper's present salary or how much she was asking, but Lorimar spokesman Barry Slagg said she was "one of the highest-paid performers in television," suggesting a salary in excess of $100,000 a week.

"We are thrilled and delighted that Valerie and Tony are back," said David E. Seltzman, president of Lorimar Television, in a statement. "We have resolved our differences and put this matter behind us."

we've got this little catch phrase, "no showers, no dreams." We haven't painted ourselves into a corner. I will say the story continues where it left off," he said Tuesday.

Selleck was referring to last year's shower scene in a "Dallas" season premiere that allowed Patrick Duffy to come back after his character died with the explanation that "it was all a dream."

Last season's final episode of the Hawaii-based action series ended with Magnum, who had been shot, walking off into the heavens. Selleck would say only that Magnum had an "out of body" experience and was dying, not dead.

"You won't feel manipulated when you see it, I hope," he said.

Magnum lives

Even though Tom Selleck's character apparently died in last season's finale of "Magnum, P.I.," the actor is returning for an eighth TV season as the laid-back private eye.

"We keep saying to ourselves,

Ankle Injury

Ballet star Mikhail Baryshnikov, hobbled by an ankle injury, has canceled part of a tour across the South.

Baryshnikov was scheduled to dance in Tallahassee, Fla., Thursday in a benefit for the Big Bend Hospice. The tickets, which sold for $50, $100 and $200 each, will be refunded and benefit chairman Marcia Elder.

"He felt badly about it," she said. "He expressed his sincere regrets."

Baryshnikov hurt his ankle during a performance in Atlanta last week. He re-injured it at a Sunday night performance in Jacksonville, and his doctor ordered the dancer to stay off his feet for seven to 10 days, Elder said.

Baryshnikov, who dances with the American Ballet Theater, also had to cancel dates at Birmingham, Ala., and Pensacola, Elder said.

Brazil wonderful

New York Philharmonic conductor Zubin Mehta is applauding the huge Brazilian audiences that have turned out during the orchestra's tour of South America.

Mehta conducted the United States' oldest symphony orchestra in a packed performance Tuesday at Rio de Janeiro's municipal theater. On Sunday, the orchestra performed for 150,000 people in Sao Paulo, South America's largest city.

"The Brazilian public has been absolutely wonderful," Mehta told a news conference.

The orchestra performed in Brasilia, the capital, Sao Paulo, Belo Horizonte and Rio, before departing for Buenos Aires.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Police didn't know what they had caught when they snared a 2 1/2-foot-long reptile lurking near a storm sewer. But they brought it back alive anyway.

Officers put a muzzle around its snout Tuesday and took the beast to the Pennsylvania Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, where it was identified as a common smaller but nevertheless nasty member of the crocodile family.

"It looked very lifeless. But it's in a large bathing tub in a grooming room now, and it looks pretty alert. You wouldn't want to pet it," said SPCA spokeswoman Elaine Newton.

July 4 'profits' get earmarked

The Board of Directors voted 8-1 during its meeting Tuesday night to establish a separate fund for annual proceeds from the town's Independence Day celebration.

In past years, proceeds from the celebration have been used to reimburse the town for money it fronted the private Independence Day Celebration Committee for the fireworks display and other festivities held during the day. But because this year's proceeds of $2,500 exceeded the $18,000 in front money, the question of where the difference should go came up for the first time.

Director Geoffrey Naab, who helped solicit donations during this year's festivities, expressed concern last month and during Tuesday's meeting that money speculators had donated to offset the fireworks display might be returned to the town's general fund.

The issue irritated Director Stephen T. Penny, who said Tuesday that donations for the fireworks were minuscule compared to the number of spectators. About $2,500 was raised from the 30,000 spectators, said Director William J. Diana, a member of the Independence Day Committee. The bulk of the money raised for the celebration came from professionals and businessmen, Diana said.

"I think that's an embarrassment," Penny said of the small sum contributed by spectators.

Penny, who voted against creating the special fund, said that Naab's concern over where the proceeds would go was misguided because the town actually subsidizes the celebration by paying for police and fire protection from a line item in the town budget.

Town Manager Robert B. Weiss had recommended that the fund be established for the Independence Day Celebration Committee in case expenses for a future Fourth of July celebration exceed the expected income.

Town, 8th talks to resume tonight

Negotiators for the town and the Eighth Utilities District will go back to the table tonight in an attempt to resolve an impasse that developed Monday over installation of a major sewer line in territory over which the district now has jurisdiction.

The two teams of four negotiators from each side failed, during a long and tense meeting Monday, to find a way to proceed with the sewer construction. The object is that neither government should put itself at a disadvantage, in case no agreement is reached for an exchange of fire and sewer jurisdictions and assets.

At stake is about $1 million in outlet fees that would be collected from developers. If the town takes over district sewers, as provided in an agreement being worked out, the town would get the fees.

If the district installs the sewer line the way it wants to, and retains the sewers, it could collect the fees. If the sewer is installed the way the town wants it installed, the town could collect the fees.

Kevin O'Brien, former town attorney and one of the town negotiators, has been studying a means of resolving the impasse since Monday's meeting.

Tonight's meeting is set for 7 in the gold room of Lincoln Center.

Homeowners get radon education

By Judd Everhart
The Associated Press
HARTFORD — Now that health officials have confirmed that nearly a fifth of Connecticut homes tested have higher than acceptable levels of potentially cancer-causing radon gas, they want homeowners to know what they can do about it.

Although the officials said there have been no reports of phony contractors preying on fearful homeowners, Galbraith recommended that homeowners choose a licensed contractor to do the tests. If possible, tests should be done in the winter, when homes are less thoroughly ventilated.

A blow for freedom from technology

It should come as no surprise that there is a rebellion against computerized communication, particularly as it is embodied in a word processor, which stares its screen back impassively at the writer while it swallows into its innards any hint of individuality the writer might dare.

And when people articulate their protest by returning to the fountain pen as a tool of personal expression, they are striking a symbolic blow for freedom from technology.

Overlook the fact that today's fountain pen is technologically superior to its leaky ancestor — now made spillless and explosion-free, according to representatives of the pen makers who are touting the fountain pen as a new status symbol and style accessory.

Ignore the guilty recognition that today's otherwise traditional fountain pen is fitted with a cartridge instead of the old unreliable ink sac.

The point is that we as people want to be our individually illegible selves from time to time, and the fountain pen gives us the means.

The pen makers know why we are setting aside the ballpoint pen and the felt tip in favor of the metal-pointed version.

"It gives a certain character to handwriting that can't be obtained with a rollable pen or ball pen," says one.

"It's a chance for personal expression in a somewhat impersonal world," says another.

Oh, there are peripheral reasons why sales of fountain pens have risen steadily from 8.6 million in 1980 to 11 million last year. Users can have several colors and styles and match them to their clothes. Showoffs can sport 18-karat-gold versions that cost $6,500.

But it is not the quest for prestige that motivates most fountain pen users. It's the lack of uniformity the yielding pen point imparts to the written word.

It is no accident that doctors are a tremendous part of the new fountain pen market. They are asserting their privilege to write as they please. Ask any druggist.

"Hey, listen, baby — I was punching out photographers and fans long before Sean Penn was EVEN BORN."

Back to school for state Republicans

Back-to-school is still a month away for the kids of this state, but a couple hundred Republican grown-ups are headed for the classroom next week where they'll get back to basics in politics.

The seminar at Trinity College in Hartford, which Pauline Kezer of Plainville is putting together, are to help Republicans work on the trick of winning elections until they get it right. From their record at the polls, they need lots of practice.

In September, other Republicans will tackle similar stuff in Eastern Connecticut. Like the program at Trinity, it will be run by party colleagues who believe they have some of the answers. Dennis Murphy of East Lyme is unofficial "dean" of this effort.

BY COINCIDENCE, the GOP urge for education in how to fix its campaign machinery comes in a season when a real-life lab in basic politics is running full tilt in the 4th Congressional District.

Republicans who aren't directly involved in the special election ought to have a look. It could inspire such courses as:

THE SPECIAL ELECTION on Aug. 18 appears to

"Now make it a good clean fight — even though Killer Khomeini's goons are probably taking your family hostage at this very minute."

What would Congress do without a debt-limit crisis?

By Steven Komarow

WASHINGTON — Congress is racing to raise the national debt ceiling for the third time in four months to prevent the Treasury from being pushed into default.

But it's not like the Lone Ranger riding out to save humanity. It's like a junkie needing a fix.

Lawmakers could dispose of the Treasury's debt needs for years, simply by approving the credit that it already knows the government will need. Instead, Congress just keeps passing short-term debt bills, good for a year or two at the most and often only good for days.

The reason? Amendments, Congress loves to load the debt bill with items that often have nothing to do with the national debt. After waiting until the last minute to extend the government more debt, whatever gets attached to the debt bill is on a fast track to becoming law.

FOR CONGRESS, creating an occasional debt crisis raises the pulse and gets the legislative juices running. Only a few times a year does a bill come along that must be passed, that speeds its way through the House and Senate and is signed by the president.

In the 1970s, annual cost-of-living increases for Social Security were the usual dressing on the debt bill. Then Congress made that automatic.

The House then decided to make the debt bill itself automatic, deemed to have passed when the House approves the budget. That left the Senate alone to think up amendments, and the Senate took complete advantage. Last year's debt bill was loaded with everything from Indian fishing rights to free feed for drought-plagued livestock farmers.

The debt limit and the Gramm-Rudman deficit reduction law have now been linked since 1985. Even many conservatives view Gramm-Rudman as a logical excuse to vote for a debt bill.

The amendments help to sugar coat the bitter medicine, giving lawmakers a politically acceptable excuse to vote for a bill that Congress has no choice but to swallow.

"It has nothing to do with the realities of the debt ceiling," says Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif., a member of the House task force on budget reform. "It's every thing to do with legislative strategy."

SOMETIMES THE FUSS over the debt bill all seems a charade, since most lawmakers never would allow the Treasury actually to default. Congress has often pushed it to the brink, but never beyond.

Debt bills are a kind of therapy for a Congress that has done little over the years to reduce red ink. Spending is much more fun, and the $2.3 trillion in debt is a legacy of government mismanagement for which future generations of Americans will pay.

Members take to the floors of the House and Senate and rail against it, forgetting that they passed the spending bills that caused it. House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, describes it in terms of dollars bills lined up to the sun and back.

If cashed into pennies, the debt would fill every train boxcar on the world every time over, other members have said.

HOUSE MAJORITY LEADER Thomas S. Foley, D-Wash., calls the debt bill a fraudulent issue for those opposing it, and he constantly pushes for long-term extensions acknowledging the spending and tax patterns that Congress and the president have adopted.

Sen. Bill Armstrong, R-Colo., says the House should "fall out of courage" by making its debt bill an automatic procedure — and not for fear the legislation would get tied up with amendments there.

Armstrong is one of a few conservatives in Congress who have suggested turning the budget strategy on its head. Instead of controlling the debt by cutting spending or raising taxes — an approach that has failed so far — he suggests killing debt bills to force the government to live within its means.

"The amount of debt now is so large that it's beyond an economic issue and it's a moral issue now," says Armstrong, pointing to the huge burden on the future presented by today's deficits. A default by the Treasury would be "a humiliation for our national credit standing, a great pity and a disaster," he says.

"But we've gone so far, and we're now so deeply in debt and the prospects for the future are so gloomy," he says, "I really think default at this stage is the lesser evil."

Steven Komarow writes for The Associated Press.

Baldrige saw space as the true frontier

WASHINGTON — The violent death of Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige has cheated America of a leader who had a vision of the future. In his quiet corner of Washington, he sought to open up the space frontier to entrepreneurs as well as explorers.

As he saw the future, it would belong to the nation that conquered space. For the technology of tomorrow, he believed, will be developed on the space frontier.

Baldrige watched in dismay as the Soviet Union, like the tortoise, pulled relentlessly ahead in the space race. Rabbit-like, America would leap ahead briefly, then sit back on its haunches while the plodding Russians moved steadily onward and upward.

The Soviets launched their rockets in all kinds of weather, undeterred by accidents or failures. A few cosmonauts died, some on the launch pad, others in orbit. The Soviet Union paused a moment to mourn and deliver medals to the survivors, then immediately resumed the space flights.

All told, the Soviets have sent up 40 times more space launches than we have. Of 103 rockets that roared into orbit last year, 91 came out of the Soviet Union. It was their lowest number in six years.

SOVIET COSMONAUTS have had far more experience in space than American astronauts. The cosmonauts have performed unmatched feats in space. They have trained aboard space stations that the United States won't be able to duplicate until the mid-1990s.

Jane's Space Flight Directory, the most eminent authority on space, calls the Soviet lead in space "frightening." According to Jane's, the Soviet Union is now 10 years ahead of the United States in space development.

Yet Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev has assigned still higher priority to the Soviet space program. Intelligence reports explain that he believes space exploration will boost Soviet technology and give the Soviet Union an edge in the high-tech age.

These facts troubled Malcolm Baldrige. He believed that progress in space was too important to be left to the scientists and specialists alone. "Space is no longer the exclusive domain of science," he contended. He wanted to turn the free enterprise system loose on this new frontier.

"Cutting-edge technology has always been one of America's competitive advantages," he wrote shortly before he died. "It is important to our security and prosperity that we maintain leadership in this field." We will fall behind in technology, he warned, unless we "maintain our space leadership into the 21st century and beyond."

BALDRIGE CONTENDED that "government should devote itself to research and leave the commercial development and application of new technologies to the private sector." He looked upon space as a "national laboratory" where the government should conduct research. But as fast as business could adopt the new technologies and operate in space, he wanted to declare the orbit path around the earth a "commercial zone" open to entrepreneurs.

It was his vision that space explorers and entrepreneurs, working together, would develop technologies that would improve everyday life, thus ensuring that America's best years lie ahead.

Mini-editorial
"A man cannot be too careful in his choice of enemies," said Oscar Wilde (who proceeded to break his own rule with disastrous consequences). Throughout our collective 50-plus years in this business, we've always chosen our enemies judiciously, and as a result have been attacked by both the extreme right and the extreme left (to say nothing of the extreme crooked). Our recent column on the threat posed by North Korea to the 1988 Olympics in Seoul inspired this wrathful comment, carried by the communist North Korean Central News Agency: "Anderson fully serves the dirty aim of the USA and the South Korean puppets. So trashy is he."

U.S./World In Brief

Yellow ribbons greet USS Stark

MAYPORT NAVAL STATION, Fla. — The USS Stark came home today to yellow ribbons, hand-lettered welcome signs, a brass band and dozens of raucous fans. The crew, but the homecoming hoopla was subdued by the memory of the 37 men killed aboard the ship.

The Stark and its crew of 170 pulled into Bravo 2 dock, from which it departed exactly six months ago for the Persian Gulf where it was hit by an Iraqi missile. Earlier, the Stark's sister ship, the USS Steven W. Groves, steamed up the St. Johns River docks shooting streams of red water in great arcs from its bow, then tied up at waiting sailors stood at attention. The Stark was struck and set ablaze May 17 by two missiles fired by an Iraqi warplane off Kuwait. A memorial to the dead was unveiled here Saturday.

Soviets, Iran plan joint projects

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union and Iran have agreed to cooperate in large-scale economic projects and have condemned "dangerous actions" by the United States in the Persian Gulf, Pravda said today.

The Communist Party daily said Soviet First Deputy Foreign Minister Yuri M. Vorontsov held talks with top Iranian officials, including President Ali Khamenei, during a trip to Tehran that ended Tuesday. Vorontsov is on a three-nation tour of the Middle East and Persian Gulf region that Soviet media say is aimed at helping negotiate an end to the nearly 7-year-old war between Iran and Iraq. Vorontsov has already visited Iraq and Syria.

Runoff due in Mississippi election

JACKSON, Miss. — Crusading state Auditor Ray Mabus finished No. 1 in Mississippi's eight-way Democratic primary for governor, but history favors the No. 2 vote-getter, plantation owner Mike Sturdivant, in the runoff. In the GOP primary Tuesday, Tupelo businessman Jack Reed easily won the Republican slot in the November general election. With 76 percent of the state's 2,059 precincts reporting, Mabus had 230,738 votes or 39 percent; Sturdivant 96,698 votes or 16 percent; former Gov. Bill Waller 75,376 votes or 13 percent; and John Arthur Eaves 63,218 votes or 11 percent.

Iran says it will launch submarine

MANAMA, Bahrain — An Iranian military commander announced that Tehran would deploy its first submarine this week, and he said Iran's missiles are prepared for launching in case of provocation in the Persian Gulf, official media reported today.

The Iranian news agency quoted Mohsen Rezaie, the commander of the Revolutionary Guards, as saying the submarine would be launched during the three-day war games codenamed "Martyrdom" that began at midnight Monday.

Iran has been at war with Iraq since 1980. Rezaie told reporters the naval maneuvers were being staged to increase Iran's capacity "to confront plots of the United States and international arrogance," according to the Islamic Republic News Agency, "monitored in Nicosia, Cyprus." Iran has threatened U.S. vessels in the Persian Gulf since the Reagan administration agreed to re-register and protect 11 Kuwaiti tankers Friday's killing of hundreds of Iranian pilgrims in a clash with Saudi Arabian police in Mecca.

Officer wins third mayoral term

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. — Mayor Carl Officer won a third term by a landslide in a twice-delayed election that included two ex-candidates among the seven candidates.

Officer, a Democrat, received 5,600 votes, or 59 percent of the approximately 8,500 ballots cast Tuesday, according to final, unofficial returns. His nearest challenger, independent Charles Merritt Sr., received 1,151 votes.

Independent Johnny Scott and Wyatt Fraser followed with 999 and 709 votes, respectively. Republican Delores Turnbow had 322, independent Anne Walker had 125 and independent Raymond Cason 98.

The election originally was scheduled for April 7 but was held up by a court battle over ballots cast in February's Democratic primary.

About 70 city police officers, the St. Clair County Sheriff's Department and the State Police stood guard at the polls in this desperately poor, high-crime city of about 85,000.

Report says Meese in violation

WASHINGTON — Attorney General Edwin Meese III failed to comply with financial disclosure requirements, and two government officials didn't press him for information about the matter, a General Accounting Office report says.

Rep. Gerry Studdert, R-Mich., called for an investigation today of the House Civil Service subcommittee on human resources to examine the report dealing with Meese's links to a businessman tied to the Wedtech Corp. scandal. The report by the GAO, the congressional watchdog agency, said that in 1985 financial disclosure forms, Meese "did not disclose the assets held, purchased, or sold by his partnership with FMI (Financial Management International Inc.), or income attributable to specific assets of the partnership, as required by the Ethics in Government Act."

Financial Management is a firm of W. Franklin Chinn, a San Francisco businessman and former Wedtech director. Chinn is under criminal investigation for ties to Wedtech, a New York City defense contractor accused of bribing public officials.

New York state to study AIDS

NEW YORK — New York state will undertake a statewide blood test study, the first of its scope in the nation, to determine how many of its people carry the AIDS virus.

The survey, to begin this fall, calls for anonymous, confidential blood tests of 100,000 people. Gov. Mario Cuomo and state health officials announced Tuesday the state's own projection that by 1991 the most ambitious attempt yet to determine the scope of AIDS. Health officials have estimated that 300,000 to 500,000 New Yorkers carry the HIV virus that can cause AIDS. But Cuomo said health planners need more accurate figures.

The testing program, Cuomo said, "can give us more accurate information about what we're dealing with... about the extent of the problem." State Health Commissioner David Axelrod said articles in research journals indicate the need for "credible scientific data" about the extent of AIDS. The state's own projection that by 1991 it will have 10,000 AIDS patients is a "guess... based on very flimsy information," he said.

Exchanges heated in Demjanjuk trial

JERUSALEM — Prosecutor Michael Shaked ended six days of heated cross-examination of Demjanjuk today, saying "there is no way to avoid concluding" the former Nazi man operated gas chambers in a World War II death camp.

"That's a lie... you want to trip me up," Demjanjuk replied, shaking his hand in the air as his face reddened. As he spoke, many spectators in the audience of 450 murmured and laughed. Demjanjuk, 67, a retiree, they described from a program in Cleveland, is accused of being the notorious guard "Ivan the Terrible," who ran the gas chambers in the Treblinka death camp in Nazi-occupied Poland. About 850,000 Jews were killed in the camp's gas chambers in 1942-43.

Saudis vow to defend shrines

Officials say Iran planned to take over Grand Mosque

JIDDA, Saudi Arabia (AP) — Saudi officials say thousands of pilgrims in Mecca and the annual Moslem pilgrimage planned to seize the Grand Mosque and pray for Khomeini's religious leader.

In Mecca today, King Fahd vowed to defend Islam's holy shrines and Saudi Arabian territory against any conspiracy and hate.

The first planeload of Iranian pilgrims wounded in Friday's clashes in the holy city landed in Iran's capital of Tehran today, the official Islamic Republic News Agency said. The pilgrims reiterated Iranian officials' claims that Saudi authorities were to blame for the violence that left hundreds of people dead, according to the agency, monitored in Cyprus.

The plane also bore the bodies of 58 victims.

"We will never rebel in the defense of our homeland and sacred shrines with souls and money," Fahd told heads of Moslem delegations making the annual hajj, or pilgrimage.

The Saudi monarch did not mention Iran directly, but his address clearly alluded to the clashes, in which Iranian pilgrims battled with Saudi riot police. Saudi officials said at least 402 people were killed, 275 of them Iranians, and hundreds were injured in a stampede.

Iran claims Saudi police mowed down pilgrims with machine guns, killing at least 600 Iranians and injuring 4,500. Saudi authorities say no shots were fired.

Meanwhile, Syrian Foreign Minister Farouk al-Sharaa headed for Tehran with a letter from President Hafez Assad to Iranian President Ali Khamenei, an official announcement in Damascus said today.

Sharaa's visit was seen as a Syrian attempt to cool down the Saudi-Iranian confrontation. Sharaa flew to the Iranian capital Tuesday night. No details were given. Without giving direct quotes, IRNA said Dezful recounted that "pilgrims were subjected to a barrage of stones from nearby buildings and were also shot in the streets below, and when ambulances of the Iranian Red Crescent Society approached the scene, the Saudis rigged them with bullets as well."

The agency also quoted Mansur Qassemi, "who had been hit by 40 fragments of dum-dum bullets which had torn his spinal cord."

IRNA said another of the wounded, Mohammed Adhamian, 28, said most of the injured were "transferred in vehicles used for carrying livestock," and that many died "due to lack of proper treatment... or because they were beaten up again."

Their versions were the first by Iranian participants in the clash. Musavi said the flight delay caused one pilgrim to die during the trip from Jidda.

The pilgrims' accounts contradicted Saudi claims that no shots were fired. Saudi officials said the violence grew out of an anti-American demonstration by the Iranians and that 402 people, including 275 Iranians, were killed.

When news of the Mecca violence broke in Tehran on Saturday, angry mobs attacked the Saudi Arabian Embassy and captured four diplomats. Saudi officials said Tuesday that one diplomat was still being held and they were seeking permission for all four to leave Tehran.

A Saudi newspaper, Okaz, quoted official sources it did not identify as saying only one-fourth of the Iranians who came for the hajj were true pilgrims.

It said the rest were Revolutionary Guards, "suicidal volunteers" or "revolutionary generation" fanatics.

The culmination of the hajj took place Tuesday on the Plain of Arafat, 16 miles outside Mecca.

Fairness doctrine out; debate still on

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fairness doctrine supporters say the Federal Communications Commission's decision to abolish the broadcast policy strikes at the heart of the law requiring broadcasters to serve the public interest.

Media groups, however, hailed Tuesday's landmark decision as an important step toward leveling the broadcast playing field. The same First Amendment guarantees that have protected the print media — a freedom of broadcast — will be handled "professionally and fairly," they say.

Members of Congress promised to accelerate efforts to write into law the doctrine that requires broadcasters to present contrasting views of controversial issues.

They claim the FCC's action was an "end-run" around Congress, which earlier this year passed a bill to codify the doctrine but has been unable to override President Reagan's veto.

The doctrine, which evolved through FCC decisions and case law, required radio and TV stations to cover "controversial issues of public importance" in their commentary and present contrasting views on those issues.

If someone bought time to present a position on a controversial issue, the station had to ensure that its overall programming covered all sides of the issue or making free time available to groups with opposing views.

Unless and until Congress acts, radio and television broadcasters no longer will have to use the doctrine as a measure of their fairness in news and public affairs coverage.

"This action really strikes at the American system of broadcasting, at the Communications Act of 1934," the basis for most broadcast regulation, said former FCC commissioner Abbott Washburn, who served on the FCC from 1974 to 1982.

"The foundation of the act is the trusteeship concept" that broadcasters are licensed to serve the public interest, "and the fairness doctrine is at the core of that concept," Washburn said. "You're really undermining the system of broadcasting that has worked so well in this country."

The broadcast and print media dismissed such concerns. "Government does not belong in any newsworld," said Bob Mulholland, director of the Television Information Office, which represents the commercial television industry.

The commissioner's four sitting members voted unanimously to abandon the doctrine on grounds that it allows government to intrude in the editorial affairs of broadcasters in violation of the Constitution, and that the proliferation of radio and TV stations has made the policy unnecessary in assuring that diverse viewpoints are aired.

Court: Cost no factor in nuke-plant safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission is being ordered to rewrite its rules to exclude cost as a factor in determining if nuclear plants need upgrading to meet minimum safety standards.

The U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia ruled Tuesday that using cost-benefit analysis in defining compliance with minimum safety standards was a violation of the Atomic Energy Act.

The overall focus and purposes of the act, as reflected in its history, support the conclusion that the commission may not consider economic costs in ensuring the adequate protection of health and safety, the court said in an opinion by Judge Abner Mikva.

The NRC "must determine the content of the adequate-protection standard without reference to economic costs; the commission must then apply that standard to individual applicants and licensees notwithstanding any pleas of poverty," Mikva said.

The court overturned the 1985 NRC rule, which was challenged by the Union of Concerned Scientists. Diane Curran, an attorney for the group, called the ruling "a clear mandate to the NRC that safety comes first."

She said the NRC must consider how to upgrade the safety of many existing nuclear power plants. "The major issue is going to be how to deal with them," she said.

The judges did, however, reject the union's argument that the NRC could not use cost-benefit analysis under any circumstances.

The court said the NRC could weigh the cost of retrofitting a plant that has already met minimum safety standards against the resulting improvements beyond the minimum requirement. Agency spokesmen emphasized that part of the ruling in their Briggs Jr. agency.

William H. Briggs Jr., the agency's solicitor, said the court's decision was narrow. "It was clear all along that the main thrust of the rule was things we were requiring over and above adequate protection," he said.

Bolton selectmen name panel to study problems in athletics

By Bruce Matzkin
Herald Reporter

BOLTON — The Board of Selectmen Tuesday officially formed the Town and School Athletics Study Committee, which will examine the problems facing Bolton athletics.

The committee will concentrate on three specific areas — program, personnel, and facilities — and will report its findings back to the Board of Selectmen and Board of Education by Dec. 1, so that budget requests can be made based on its findings.

The committee was suggested by Board of Education Chairman James Marshall at a July meeting. The ideas arose out of concern over Bolton athletics, which has been plagued by several problems, including lack of facilities, poorly maintained facilities, scheduling conflicts, and poor participation. The issue was brought to a head last spring, when the Bolton High School baseball team was forced to disband because of a lack of players.

The decision to form the committee came two weeks ago after members of the Board of Selectmen and Board of Education met to discuss the issue. At that meeting, it was decided that the committee would consist of Bolton High Athletic Director David Lee, Bolton High Principal Joseph V. Fleming, Parks Maintainer Raymond Boyd Jr., representatives from the Board of Education, and Recreation Commission, and any citizens at large who expressed interest in serving.

First Selectman Sandra W. Pierog presented a list of 23 people Tuesday who had expressed interest in serving on the committee.

Those appointed to the committee Tuesday were: Robert Neil and Patricia Finin, who were appointed co-chairmen, William Blafin (the Little League Association President), Ronald Morin, Larry Wilson, Richard Tutbill who works with the Bolton soccer program, Lori Baker, Donna O'Leary, Robert Yaps, Conrad Tomas, Diane DuBock, Diane Dubois, Greg Fortin, Linda Fortin, Thomas Manning, Linda Boothroy, Mark Buonome, Lee, Fleming, and Boyd. The representatives from the Board of Selectmen, the Board of Education, and the Recreation Commission were still undetermined.

"These people took the initiative," said Pierog. "They expressed interest in serving on the committee."

Teen is charged in break-in try

A teen-age girl was charged Thursday in connection with the attempted burglary of a Wells Street home July 16, police said. Jamie Simon, 16, of 88 Barry Road, was charged with third-degree criminal attempt to commit burglary.

Police stop teen in stolen car

A Manchester man was arrested early Tuesday morning after police discovered he was operating a stolen vehicle, police said. Kenneth P. Andruot, Jr., 16, no address available, was charged with third-degree larceny and criminal impersonation.

Police said they received a report of a suspicious car following an all-terrain vehicle on Finley Street sometime between 2:30 and 3:00 a.m. The car was followed by police until it was stopped at the intersection of Finley and Barry roads.

Whiteheads separate, cite Baby M stress

Surrogate mother Mary Beth Whitehead and her husband, Richard, have separated with no immediate intention of reuniting, Mrs. Whitehead's lawyer announced Tuesday.

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A lawyer for the couple who was in custody of the girl once known as Baby M said surrogate mother Mary Beth Whitehead's separation from her husband confirms the Whitehead home was unstable.

Mrs. Whitehead, whose rocky, 13½-year marriage became an issue in the landmark court battle for the baby, announced her separation in a statement issued Tuesday by her lawyer, Harold Cassidy. Cassidy said the Whiteheads' love each other very much but have no immediate intention of reuniting.

"Mrs. Whitehead believes that the extraordinary stress placed upon her marriage and the public discussion of private matters rendered Mr. and Mrs. Whitehead's marriage an inevitable casualty of this unusual case," Cassidy said.

The state Supreme Court, which is to hear Mrs. Whitehead's appeal Sept. 14, was notified of the separation, as were the baby's court-appointed guardian and attorneys for the child.

Glastonbury man faces charges

A Glastonbury man was arrested Tuesday evening after police found marijuana in his car. Edward C. Riley, 22, of Glastonbury, was charged with possession of marijuana under a 1986 ban.

Riley was arrested on Monday night's 11-2 win over the Rangers and had two on Sunday at Kansas City, giving him five in the last three games and 25 for the season. His game-winning homer in the ninth Tuesday night came after a four-run lead was cut in the top of the eighth by a pinch-hitter Don Baylor.

Auto crash nets DWI charge

COVENTRY — A Massachusetts man was arrested Saturday after police responding to a crash in which he was involved discovered the man was intoxicated, police said.

David G. Nergarian, 27, of Holden, Mass., was charged with driving while intoxicated. Police arrested Nergarian after responding to an accident at Highland Cross Streets.

Woman charged in Coventry

COVENTRY — A Coventry woman arrested July 29 when police answered a motor vehicle call at Ripley Hill Road and Route 31.

Heather P. Cromie, 22, of 210 Ripley Hill Road, was charged with driving while intoxicated and possession of marijuana less than four ounces. It was great to see Calvin win here because he hasn't had much luck in this place," said Red Sox manager John McNamara.

Drugs slow MD deterioration

NEW YORK (AP) — Researchers have developed a drug treatment that slows muscle deterioration in children with severe muscular dystrophy, delaying their need to use wheelchairs fulltime by about two years, it was announced Tuesday.

Two studies reported in the current issue of the Archives of Neurology conclude that prednisone has long-term beneficial effects delaying the loss of walking ability by approximately two years, and that muscle and lung function improved over the short term.

Yankees can't handle Tribe

CLEVELAND — The New York Yankees held a brief team meeting to remind themselves that they were still in first place after their 15-3 loss to the Cleveland Indians. "We're a first-place ballclub. We're going to put this game aside and come out and play tomorrow," Manager Lou Piniella said Tuesday night after his team's lead over Toronto in the American League East dwindled to one-half game.

Cleveland starter Ken Schrom, who pitched on Monday, May 24, limited the Yankees to three runs, two of them earned, on six hits in seven innings, striking out six and walking none. Schrom, 15, spent the previous two weeks in the bullpen after being bothered by a sore chest muscle.

"I really knew I was going to win another one sooner or later," he said. "We've had a lot of guys with long dry spells this year. I didn't throw until June, but in July I thought I threw well and didn't have anything to show for it."

New York starter Tommy John, 44, gave up seven runs, five of them earned, on six hits in 3 1/3 innings. Reliever Al Holland, making his first start since being called up from Class AAA Columbus on Sunday, allowed six runs on five hits in 1 2/3 innings. Dennis Rasmussen then yielded solo homers to Brett Butler, his third, and Cory Snyder, his fourth, and Corey Patterson in four innings and scored three to lead Cleveland's 13-hit attack. Butler also scored three times.

Yankee first baseman Don Mattingly sits on the top step of the dugout and eyes the action Tuesday night against the Cleveland Indians in Municipal Stadium in Cleveland. The last-place Indians beat the first-place Yankees for a second straight night, 15-3.

Mets force Gooden to sweat out victory

NEW YORK (AP) — After pitching eight innings in the oppressive heat and humidity, Dwight Gooden watched the ninth in the air-conditioned comfort of the New York Mets' clubhouse. He still sweated.

Going into the eighth with a 3-1 edge, New York opened the game up when Howard Johnson hit a two-out, two-run double off reliever Wally Ritchie.

Gooden had two of the Mets' eight hits, singling twice to raise his career hit total to 50. Keith Hernandez had a 12-game hitting streak snapped, going 0-for-3 with a walk.

to shut down the other team and give you a chance. That's what happened tonight. Our relievers were great," Raines said. Elsewhere, New York beat Philadelphia 5-3. Chicago edged Pittsburgh 3-2 in 11 innings. Cincinnati pounded Los Angeles 6-4. Houston defeated San Francisco 5-4 and Atlanta outlasted San Diego 12-7.

St. Louis' Tom Herr falls to the ground after fouling a Neal Heaton pitch off of his left knee during Tuesday night's game with the Expos in Montreal. The Expos rallied from a 5-0 deficit for a 10-5 win over the first-place Cardinals.

Manchester's Bill Masse disillusioned young man

Thoughts ApLENTy

Len Auster Sports Editor
The well-proportioned 6-0, 185-pound 1984 East Catholic High School graduate lives and breathes what's known as the national pastime. Baseball is not a passing thing with Masse. It is a religion. He thing playing it since who knows when, and, as he said Monday, "I'll be in baseball as long as baseball wants me."

Bits and pieces

Andy Baylock, popular University of Connecticut baseball coach, called the other day and brought up a familiar name. Bill Masse, who was a member of the Cape Cod All-Star team for the second consecutive year, said Monday. What Masse has to do now is sit back and wait, wait for the 1988 draft. The 21-year-old is transferring from Davidson College, where he had three stellar collegiate seasons, to Wake Forest. He's following his college coach, George Greer. Academics has nothing to do with it. Masse was a member of the National Honor Society at East Catholic and he was on the honor roll each semester. He has a 3.1 grade-point average, one of a possible 4, and he's majoring in math. He is far from image of a "jock."

Campbell hopeful with Mack Lobell in Hambletonian

By Ed Schuyler Jr. The Associated Press

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — John Campbell, who has won a lot of races and a pile of money, likes his chances of winning his first Hambletonian on Saturday. The 32-year-old harness driver certainly can't be accused of whistling in the dark. Campbell will drive Mack Lobell in the prestigious trot for 3-year-olds.

"If Mack's as good as he has been, he'll be awfully hot to beat," Campbell said of the colt, the 2-year-old trotting champion of 1986 who is unbeaten in four starts this year.

He opened his 3-year-old campaign on June 28 by winning the Yorkers Trot at Yorkers Raceway in 1:57.4-5, a world record for 3-year-old trotters on a half-mile track. The Yorkers Trot, the Hambletonian and the Kentucky Futurity make up the Trotting Triple Crown, which was last won by Super Bowl in 1972.

In his last start, Mack Lobell won the Beacon Course Trot on July 24 in 1:54, equalling the all-time record for trotters on the Meadowlands one-mile track.

"He does all the work," Campbell said.

After a third horse emerges to win the second heat, a three-horse raceoff will be required.

The California Angels' hitters stole the show in the fourth meeting of 300-game winners in this century. They hammered out a season-high 19 hits, including home runs by Doug DeCinces and Wally Joyner, appling Steve Carlton's debut with Minnesota and pounding the Twins 13-3 Tuesday night at the home stadium.

"I don't know how hard he threw. We didn't have a gun on him," Minnesota Manager Tom Kelly said of Carlton, who was acquired last Friday from Cleveland and was battered for 11 hits and nine runs in 4-2-3 innings. "But I thought he threw pretty well."

The Angels loved the way Carlton threw. Bill Buckner had RBI singles in the first and third innings and DeCinces led off the third with his first homer since July 7. Gary Pettit capped the Angels' three-run third with a run-scoring double, his first RBI since the All-Star break.

The Angels chased Carlton through a five-run fifth, capped by DeCinces' two-run single off Roy Smith. They made it 13-3 in the sixth on Pettit's RBI single and continued their assault in the seventh on Wally Joyner's 22-run homer. His 23rd career hit was a lead-off home run.

The setback cut Minnesota's lead in the American League West to one game over Oakland, a 9-3 winner over Seattle, and 1/2 over California. In the East, Cleveland crushed New York 15-3 and sliced the Yankees' lead to one-half game over Toronto, which defeated Chicago 4-1.

Don Sutton allowed four hits over six innings, including Gary Buehrler's three-run homer in the fourth, for his 318th career victory.

Glenn Construction outslugged Popovich's Filadelfia Phillies. Paul Molitor and Rick Sheehan smacked four home runs for the Angels. The Angels' offense was led by Steve Garvey, who hit three home runs, including a grand slam.

San Diego's Tim Lincecum pitched a gem, allowing only two runs and two hits while striking out 11.

The Expos added three runs in the sixth, two on Raines' 11th home run and one on Law's sacrifice fly.

"A game like this shows the kind of character we have," Raines said. "A lot of people are expecting us to fold up, but we don't quit."

Ozzie Smith, Willie McGee, and Jose Guendo hit RBI singles and Jim Lindeman hit a sacrifice fly in the first inning against Neil Heaton.

"I told them that wouldn't be enough," St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog said.

Dawson hit his 32nd home run of the season in the 11th inning to lift Chicago over St. Louis.

Baked fish Scandinavian

1-pound package frozen fish fillets
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped celery
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1 tablespoon margarine or butter

1 small tomato, peeled, seeded and chopped
1 tablespoon snipped parsley
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon dried dillweed
Salt and pepper

Let fish stand at room temperature for 20 minutes. Blot excess moisture from fish fillets. Meanwhile, in a small saucepan cook onion, celery and green pepper, covered, in margarine until tender but not brown. Stir in tomato, parsley, lemon juice and dillweed. Arrange fish slices, overlapping slightly, in a ungreased 12-by-7-by-2-inch baking dish; sprinkle with salt and pepper. Spoon vegetable mixture over fish. Bake, uncovered, in a 450-degree oven about 15 minutes or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. With a slotted spatula lift fish and vegetables to serving platter. Makes 4 servings.

Microwave four-bean bake

1 large onion, chopped (1 cup)
1 green pepper, cut into 1-inch pieces
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons water
17-ounce can lima beans, drained
15-ounce can butter beans with molasses sauce and bacon
15-ounce can red kidney beans, drained

15-ounce can garbanzo beans, drained
8-ounce can sliced water chestnuts, drained
1/2 cup ketchup
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1 tablespoon Dijon-style mustard
1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon pepper

In a 3-quart microwave-safe casserole combine onion, green pepper, garlic and water. Micro-cook, covered, on 100 percent power (high) 4 to 5 minutes or until tender; drain. Stir in lima beans, undrained butter beans, kidney beans, garbanzo beans, water chestnuts, ketchup, brown sugar, mustard, Worcestershire and pepper. Cook, covered, on high 10 to 12 minutes or until hot, stirring after every 5 minutes. Makes 15 servings.

Microwave beef burgundy

2 slices bacon
4 teaspoons all-purpose flour
1/2 teaspoon instant beef bouillon granules
1/2 teaspoon dried basil, crushed

1/2 pound boneless beef stew meat, cut into 1/2-inch cubes
7/8-ounce can tomatoes, cut up
1/4 cup dry red wine
1/2 cup frozen pearl onions
8 small whole fresh mushrooms

In a 1-quart casserole micro-cook bacon, loosely covered, on 100 percent power (high) for 2 to 2 1/2 minutes or until done. Drain, reserving drippings in casserole. Crumble bacon and set aside. Stir flour, bouillon granules and basil into drippings. Add beef, undrained tomatoes and wine; mix well. Cook, covered, on high 2 minutes, stirring once. Cook, covered, on 50 percent power (medium) 15 minutes, stirring twice. Stir in onions and mushrooms. Cook, covered, on medium 12 to 18 minutes more until meat and vegetables are tender, stirring twice. Sprinkle crumbled bacon on top. Serves 2.

Shrimp salad with vanilla

3 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
8 ounces fresh whole green beans (2 cups)

2 carrots, cut into thin strips (2 cups)
2 tablespoons cooking oil
1 pound shrimp, cooked, peeled and deveined
Lemon slices (optional)

In a small bowl combine lemon juice, vanilla, salt and pepper; set aside. In a medium saucepan cook green beans, covered, in a small amount of boiling water for 4 minutes. Add carrots; cook, covered, 4 minutes or until vegetables are nearly tender; drain. Meanwhile, in a large skillet cook shrimp, half at a time, in hot oil for 2 to 3 minutes or until the shrimp turn pink and are opaque. Add vegetables and vanilla mixture. Toss to coat. Cool 10 to 15 minutes before serving. Serve with lemon slices. Store any leftovers covered in the refrigerator. Makes 4 servings.

Quick-for-kids calzone

1/2 pound ground beef
1/2 cup chopped onion
8-ounce can pizza sauce
2 tablespoons chopped ripe olives

1 teaspoon dried basil, crushed
1/2 teaspoon dried oregano, crushed
3 individual French rolls (about 8 inches long)
1 1/2 cups shredded mozzarella cheese (8 ounces)

In a saucepan cook meat and onion until meat is brown; drain off fat. Remove from heat. Stir in pizza sauce, olives, basil and oregano. Cut a thin slice from the top of each roll. Hollow out bottom of roll to within 1/2 inch of edge. Sprinkle about 3 tablespoons onion to the bottom of each roll. Spoon meat mixture over each. Sprinkle with remaining cheese. Replace roll top. Wrap individually in foil. Refrigerate for 3 to 24 hours or freeze for up to 3 months.

To serve, place foil-wrapped sandwiches on baking sheet. Bake in a 375-degree oven about 40 minutes if refrigerated, 60 to 70 minutes if frozen. Makes 3 servings.

Warm up your one-dish meal ideas

By Antio M. Caldwell
Herald Reporter

COVENTRY — If you like the simplicity of a one-dish meal that you get frostbite when you cook a frozen dinner, then let Marjorie Roach warm up your supper ideas. "I like anything I can cook in one dish," said Roach. She said she likes simple and basic cooking, but with variety. For example, she'll prepare not one vegetable to dress a roast beef, but two or three.

On 10 acres of land with 15 sheep providing a chorus of "baas," Roach prepares her basic meat dishes (no lamb stew, thank you) but admits her favorite food is pasta that she could eat three times a day. Roach started cooking more after she was married. One of her earliest dishes was a "salmon wiggle" which was salmon, peas, sour cream and sauce. But she said her husband, David, "wasn't crazy about it."

Today, instead of wiggles, Roach makes her meals look appealing in other ways. She said it's important for a meal to look good and she will arrange vegetables with different colors to add life to a plain meat dinner. Simplicity in cooking makes it easy to find the right pots and pans. Roach said she'd be lost without her electric fryer pan, but she doesn't use a microwave or food processor. Still, most good cooks admit minor disasters no matter what they use.

For Roach, her specialty in culinary accidents is burning vegetables. "I know how to do that very well," she said with a chuckle adding that the day after the Herald called her for the interview she left vegetables steaming too long and they burned completely. "It's easy to forget her mistakes after one bite of her Norwegian sour cream cake. You don't have to be Scandinavian to love it."

Norwegian sour cream cake

1/2 pound butter or oleo
1 cup granulated sugar
2 eggs
1 cup sour cream
1 teaspoon vanilla

Marjorie Roach of Coventry shows off her Norwegian sour cream cake.

2 cups flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking soda

TOPPING:
1/2 cup granulated sugar
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
1/2 cup walnuts

Blend together the butter and sugar. Add to the mixture the eggs, sour cream and vanilla. Stir flour, baking powder, salt and baking soda and add to mixture. Pour one-half the batter into pan. Sprinkle one-half topping into mixture, pour rest of batter into pan and sprinkle remaining with topping. Bake at 350 degrees for 45 minutes in a greased angel food pan.

One-container stuffed shrimp
8 large jumbo shrimp
Seasoned bread crumbs or crushed garlic and herb crustons
1 tablespoon butter
Green olives (scallions)
1/2 teaspoon oregano

Combine and mix, then pour over duck 1/4 of marmalade, preserve, honey, brandy, cointreau and curacao. After 10 minutes, apply remaining glaze and finish roasting until glaze is caramelized.

Glaze for duck
Roast duck
Orange, apple, celery, pear
1 cup apricot preserve
1 cup orange marmalade
1/2 cup honey
2 tablespoon apricot brandy or any orange liquor

1 tablespoon Cointreau
1 tablespoon curacao

Preheat oven to 450 degrees. Roast duck and stuff with orange, apple, celery and pear. Remove before serving. 20 minutes before done, remove from oven.

Reasons to nix receipt requirements

By Martin Sloane
United Feature Syndicate

DEAR MARTIN: Why do manufacturers' refund offers ask for cash-register tapes? If I had not purchased the item, I could not have the box top, label or other proof of purchase. And that tape requirement can cause all kinds of problems. Here are a few good reasons why manufacturers should reconsider the requirement:

1. How many times is the tape missing from the grocery sack when you get home?
2. How often are the tapes too pale to read?
3. One store in our town does not date its register tapes. Another store keeps the tapes for all their customers. Two stores print coupons on the back of the tapes.
4. A recent supermarket promotion asked shoppers to turn in $275 worth of supermarket register tapes. I have a friend who automatically throws away any refund offers that ask for tapes. I don't blame her.

CAROL H. BALDWIN

DEAR CAROL: If manufacturers would stop worrying about the few customers who get their box tops from relatives and show more concern for the growing number of consumers who are inconvenienced and frustrated by the tape requirement, we would not have this problem.

Federal Redemption Center Update: One of my columns this past winter included warnings from readers about Federal Redemption Center of Miami, a company that advertised that consumers could earn up to $360 a week by selling Consumers who received their coupons and made payment for the coupons they sent it. But Federal kept cashing the $25 registration-fee checks that were pouring in from all over the country.

Unfortunately, Federal did not live up to its end of the agreement, and the fund was never established. And for some unknown reason, it took the Postal Service more than three months to take action and stop Federal's mail after Federal failed to come up with the $300,000. It may never be known how many registration-fee checks Federal was allowed to receive in its mail and stay in business.

Key lime pie is key to new success

By John Piotro
The Associated Press

GOULDS, Fla. — The man who lays claim to making the world's best key lime pie is a transplanted New Yorker who once sold surgical supplies and never lived in the Florida Keys where the tasty dessert originated.

Bert "Lee" Wexelbaum, 68, has been selling the tart delicacy from a nondescript cement block building here in southern Dade County for 35 years without ever advertising or having a telephone in his shop.

"I sell out every day and as soon as I sell them all I go home," said Wexelbaum, a cheerful bachelor who enjoys his customers.

"I do this as a hobby. I meet people and I make people happy," he added. "I don't make any money."

Neither does Wexelbaum bake anything else that's made in an oven — just key lime pies.

Wexelbaum does sell bottled key lime juice and is a national distributor for the nectar extracted from the greenish-yellow citrus fruit native to the Florida Keys.

"Unlike most successful bakers who begin their careers as young apprentices, Wexelbaum had a surgical supply business in New York City until he gave that up in 1955 for South Florida's warm climate.

To enjoy the sunshine, he bought a truck and peddled bakery goods from door to door. His favorite was key lime pie, which, he said, was made commercially only in the Keys at that time.

In 1952, at age 33, he bought his current building. Experimenting at home, Wexelbaum developed his own key lime pie recipe and then found someone to bake the pies for him. Over the years, four different people have made the pies, but the bakers remain anonymous.

"It's the same recipe all these years. No changes," he said.

Wexelbaum charges $5.25 including tax for his 10-inch pies. "In the Keys they cost $10-$12," he said. "I don't do it for the money."

Wexelbaum has built a clientele by word of mouth. Most know he's closed on Mondays and usually sells his last pie somewhere around 4 p.m. Customers come from as far as West Palm Beach, more than an hour away.

Wexelbaum reminds everyone he has no phone.

"If you want a pie, get in your car and come down. If I'm closed, come back again."

Try a leisurely Sunday brunch

For those of us who live by the clock, have an early breakfast and rush off to work, nothing can be more delightful than a leisurely Sunday brunch.

This midday meal, which combines the favorite foods of an elegant breakfast with some more substantial fare, and is served at a "civilized" hour, is becoming a favorite of hosts and guests alike.

Brunch is an open invitation to imagination and creative menu planning. Because it is served midday, brunch allows busy people to take advantage of a couple of hours of extra sleep, and still entertain with flair. Of course, to make a microwave to aid in the preparation, the time required to create a lovely brunch is truly minimal.

Eggs Benedict are a favorite for the brunch crowd. The eggs are poached in the microwave and the English muffins toasted conventionally. Tangy microwave Hollandaise Sauce tops the eggs. Note: You may want to use the 2 egg whites that are left over from the Hollandaise sauce to make Ramos Gin Fizz, a popular New Orleans brunch drink.

A second suggestion for brunch is Hot Sausage Quiche, Rotatouille, and Bran Muffins. Planned to serve 6 people, this menu is sure to be a crowd pleaser. Take advantage of your microwave and these quick and simple suggestions to prepare a brunch for your family and friends this next Sunday.

Microwave Kitchen

Marge Churchill

Hollandaise sauce
1/2 cup butter
2 large eggs
2 tablespoons fresh squeezed lemon juice
1 tablespoon vermouth or dry white wine
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
cayenne pepper
salt to taste

Place butter in a 2-cup glass measure. Cover with plastic wrap and microwave on high for 1 1/2 minutes, or until boiling.

Separate yolks from whites of eggs. Put yolks into a blender or food processor. Set whites aside for another use. Add lemon juice, vermouth, and Worcestershire sauce to yolks in blender and blend well. Sprinkle a little cayenne pepper on the surface of the mixture.

When butter is bubbling, turn blender on and remove feeder cap from blender lid. Pour hot butter in steady stream through opening in lid. Blend about 30 seconds.

Eggs Benedict
4 large eggs
4 English muffins
8 small round slices of ham
butter

For garnish, small bunch of grapes, fresh strawberries, fresh orange slices.

Make Hollandaise sauce and set aside. Poach eggs according to directions below. While eggs are microwaving, use a fork to split muffins and toast conventionally. Separate slices of ham and place on a paper towel lined plate. After the eggs come out of the microwave, put the plate of ham in the microwave, and cook on high power for 2 to 2 1/2 minutes, or until hot.

To assemble, lightly toast the English muffin halves. Put two halves on each dinner plate. Top each muffin half with a slice of hot ham. Put an egg on top of each. Pour some of the Hollandaise sauce over each portion. Serve immediately, appropriately garnished with grapes, fresh strawberries, and orange slices.

Transfer mixture to same cup used to melt butter.

Just before pouring sauce over eggs, microwave on 50 percent (medium) power for 30 to 60 seconds, stirring with a small whisk after every 15 seconds. Sauce should thicken slightly and be warm. Makes about 1 1/2 cups. Note: Since egg yolks are the only thickening ingredient in Hollandaise Sauce, be very careful when reheating the sauce. If you microwave it too long, you will end up with scrambled eggs instead of a smooth elegant sauce.

Poached eggs
4 eggs
2 cups water
1/2 cup vinegar

Add 2 cups of water to a large flat-bottomed 1 1/2-quart casserole dish. Bring water to a boil by microwaving on high for 3 1/2 to 4 minutes. Add 1/4 cup vinegar and 1/2 cup water. Carefully crack 4 eggs, one at a time into utensil. Pierce each yolk carefully with a wooden toothpick. Cover with plastic wrap and microwave at 50 percent (medium) power for 6 to 7 minutes. Remove from microwave and let stand covered until desired amount of doneness. Remove eggs, one at a time, from water with a slotted spoon and place on top of prepared muffins.

Ramos Gin Fizz
4 tablespoons heavy cream
4 tablespoons milk
3 ounces gin
2 large egg whites
2 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon orange juice
2 cups crushed ice

In an electric blender, combine cream, milk, gin, egg yolks, lemon juice, sugar and orange juice. Add

Hot sausage quiche
8 ounces spicy bulk sausage
1/2 green bell pepper, chopped
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup half and half cream
3 large eggs
1/4 cups sharp Cheddar cheese, grated

1 baked pie crust
1/2 cup paprika

Crumble sausage into a dishwasher-safe plastic colander set into a 1-quart casserole. Sprinkle bell pepper and onion over top. Microwave on high for 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 minutes, stirring midway through cooking.

Drain and discard grease, and set aside sausage. Beat together half and half cream and eggs in the same casserole. Stir in cheese and desired sausage mixture.

Pour mixture into baked pie crust. Sprinkle with paprika. Rotate quiche every 3 minutes, microwave on 70 percent (medium-high) for 9 to 10 minutes, or until center is set. Let stand for at least 10 minutes before serving. Yields 6 servings.

Creme de la creme
1/2 cup whipping cream
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup vanilla
1/2 cup flour
1/2 cup butter

Whip cream until stiff peaks form. Add sugar and milk. Beat until smooth. Add vanilla and flour. Beat until smooth. Melt butter in a small saucepan. Add mixture. Cook until thick. Serve with strawberries.

Hot sausage quiche
8 ounces spicy bulk sausage
1/2 green bell pepper, chopped
1/4 cup chopped onion
1/4 cup half and half cream
3 large eggs
1/4 cups sharp Cheddar cheese, grated

1 baked pie crust
1/2 cup paprika

Crumble sausage into a dishwasher-safe plastic colander set into a 1-quart casserole. Sprinkle bell pepper and onion over top. Microwave on high for 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 minutes, stirring midway through cooking.

Drain and discard grease, and set aside sausage. Beat together half and half cream and eggs in the same casserole. Stir in cheese and desired sausage mixture.

Pour mixture into baked pie crust. Sprinkle with paprika. Rotate quiche every 3 minutes, microwave on 70 percent (medium-high) for 9 to 10 minutes, or until center is set. Let stand for at least 10 minutes before serving. Yields 6 servings.

Peach of a deal turns rotten for couple selling an orchard

DEAR ABBY: Our problem is fall. Now, in our late 60s, my husband and I have lost all of our savings in an effort to do more for our children, especially our 40-year-old son who talked us into mortgaging our farm and going into debt to purchase a nearby peach orchard in Georgia.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a real couch potato. Now, don't get me wrong, I like TV as much as the next person, but here's my problem: He stays up until all hours watching old movies and reruns and then comes to bed late. It's not that he ignores me or is trying to avoid sex - it's just the opposite. He wakes me up at 2 or 3 a.m., wanting to be romantic.

MRS. COUCH POTATO
GLENDALE HEIGHTS, ILL.

DEAR MRS. POTATO: Forget spontaneity and plan ahead. Talk this out together while you're both wide awake.

DEAR ABBY: This October, my husband and I will have been married for five years, and I have never sent thank-you notes to relatives and friends who gave us wedding gifts. Needless to say, I feel terribly guilty about this.

Is there a way I can now, at this late date, send the thank-you along with an apology? I guess what I'm hoping for is a "magic phrase" that I can incorporate into the "Thank-you" note which will enable them to forgive me, and, I hope, to understand that I not only want to thank them, but also want to correct this seemingly rude omission.

DEAR C.H.M.: The "magic phrase" is: "We are profoundly embarrassed to be writing at this very late date to thank you for the beautiful ice bucket you gave us when we were married. Please forgive us for what must seem an inexcusably tardy acknowledgment. Believe us to be terribly ashamed. However, the pleasure we have received from that wonderful ice bucket would warm your heart."

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is it bad to consume a lot of vinegar? I put it on everything I hear of a person drinking vinegar, so I cannot comment on the possible hazards of such massive quantities. The amount that is usually added to food is unlikely to cause disease and will not affect either your kidney stones or the gout for which you are taking Zyliprim.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My friends call me "Old Yellow-stain" because of the marks on the armpits of my T-shirts. Each new shirt becomes stained after two or three uses. I bathe frequently. Why does this happen?

Dr. Gott
Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR READER: Perspiration contains skin oils as well as moisture. The oils can become trapped in fabric after the moisture evaporates. When sweat has a high oil content, the oil oxidizes to a yellow color. Often this material is difficult to wash out and causes permanent staining.

DEAR DR. GOTT: We have several outside dogs and cats. Can my kids get worms from walking barefoot in the yard or being licked on the face?

DEAR READER: Hookworm is the most common temperate-zone parasite that can penetrate unbroken skin. The larvae, which hatch in soil contaminated with feces, mature in about 10 days and can enter the skin. These larvae may exist dormant in soil for several months.

Oil in sweat stains clothes

DEAR DR. GOTT: My friends call me "Old Yellow-stain" because of the marks on the armpits of my T-shirts. Each new shirt becomes stained after two or three uses. I bathe frequently. Why does this happen?

Thoughts

The seeds Jesus told a parable: "A sower went out to sow. Some seeds fell along the path... other seeds fell on rocky ground... other seeds fell on good soil."

world: one is the Word, the other is the Spirit. God's Word is knowledge and truth about God and the creation; the Spirit is the living person of Jesus Christ.

How does the seed of the Word get planted in us? Lots of ways. Through reading the Bible, talking with each other about God, even listening to sermons in church.

Ex-combat pilots high injury risks

WASHINGTON (AP) - Pilots who fly in combat are more likely than other military pilots to be hospitalized years later for injuries, and the problem may stem from boredom that leads them to engage in "high-risk" activities, Navy researchers say.

Another explanation was that combat pilots were more likely to seek high-risk activities out of frustration for having to adjust to a duty assignment involving administrative work or one providing few opportunities to perform highly demanding flight tests.

The study was based on a review of medical records for more than 10,000 pilots who flew for the Navy dating back to 1969 - 3,048 with more than 275 combat hours in the air; 2,792 with less than 275 combat hours; 79 former POWs who were pilots, and a control sample of 4,775 Navy pilots who never flew in combat.

Ducking the heat

The relentless summer heat wave has even this duck looking for shelter, under a diving board on Lake Murray in Columbia, S.C. Temperatures in the South remained in the 90s Tuesday.

Mental illness is pervasive and frightening in its extent

As one candidate for public office after the other is undermined by disclosures of family disorders, drug abuse, alcoholism, similar horrors, the questions are propelled to the forefront: How pervasive are these illnesses in our country? Are they commonplace? Extraordinary? Answer: They are frightening in extent; in their economic consequences comparable to cancer and heart disease.

The shortfall created over the last two decades... Indications that someone might need treatment for depression, Meltzer reported, include feeling severely depressed or suicidal, loss of appetite, inability to sleep, loss of interest in sex, and loss of the ability to function at work. Should one or more of these symptoms occur, he added, "Medication is often necessary to facilitate psychotherapy. For many disorders, especially schizophrenia, mania and severe depression, psychotherapy will usually be ineffective and may not enhance medication."

New blimp
Workers roll out the newest blimp, "Spirit of Akron," at Good-year's Wingfoot Lake facility at Sufield, Ohio, Tuesday. The new blimp is larger than any of Good-year's airships and has a top speed of 65 mph.

SEC: Investments across boundaries reach new highs

By Tom Roun The Associated Press
WASHINGTON — Americans purchased a record $102 billion in foreign stocks last year, but that amount was dwarfed by the $277.6 billion foreigners invested in U.S. stocks, also a record, the Securities and Exchange Commission said today.

Medical advances ease life for dwarfs

By Ted Duncombe The Associated Press
PHILADELPHIA — The day his son Christopher was born, Steve Fers wondered when the boy would become a first round draft pick for the Philadelphia Eagles.

The diagnosis allows doctors, for example, to perform surgery to strengthen fragile vertebrae that could otherwise damage the spinal cord and cause paralysis, he said. Babies with achondroplasia, the most common form of dwarfism, sometimes have trouble breathing, because their spinal cord is pinched at the neck, says Reed E. Peyeritz, a specialist in internal medicine and medical genetics at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

Defer tax on U.S. savings bonds

QUESTION:
In October 1986, I invested $15,000 in Series E, U.S. Savings Bonds. I plan to keep them until they mature, when they will be worth $30,000. I know I can wait until I re-accumulate the bonds at maturity and, on the federal income tax I file for that year, pay tax on all the $15,000 accrued interest. From reading your column, I also know I can report and pay tax on the interest as it builds up each year.

Investors' Guide
William A. Doyle

ANSWER: Unless your other taxable income is quite small and you are in a low tax bracket, my thoughts are to defer reporting your savings bond interest until you redeem the bonds. The new tax law sets five federal income tax brackets for 1987 — 11, 15, 28, 35 and 38.5 percent. For 1988 and beyond, there are scheduled to be two brackets — 15 and 28 percent, but a 5 percent surtax will granted extended maturities of up to 40 years. Although the U.S. Treasury Department has made no promises, it is generally expected that EEs will be given extended maturities. Assuming that happens, you'll be able to cash your EEs over a period of years and spread out your tax liability on the interest long after your EEs pass their original stated maturities. Even if EEs are not given extended maturities, you can exchange them for HH bonds and defer paying tax on the EE interest until you redeem the HHs received in the exchange.

It said that, over the past two years, Japanese markets grew at an annual rate of 68 percent compared with 22 percent for U.S. markets. "Even when the decline in the value of the U.S. dollar is taken into account, the Japanese equity (stock) market grew by 34 percent between 1984 and 1986," the study said.

Oil futures down; stock prices lower

By The Associated Press
The Middle East crisis continues to dominate the financial markets, affecting prices of everything from oil to precious metals to stocks. Oil futures prices dipped but hovered just below the critical $22 per barrel level Tuesday. The stock market also gave up some recent gains, while gold prices advanced and the dollar firmed.

West Germany beats U.S. as top exporter in world

By Carl Hartman The Associated Press
WASHINGTON — West Germany has overtaken the United States as the world's top exporting nation, and Japan is close behind, according to figures compiled by the International Monetary Fund. West Germany's sales rose to $243.3 billion in 1986 from $183.9 billion the previous year. U.S. exports, meanwhile, were increasing more slowly, to $217.2 billion in 1986 from $213.1 billion in 1985.

Show to feature a modular house

A modular house will be one of the exhibits at the Product Show to be held Sept. 26 and 27 by the chambers of commerce of Manchester, East Hartford and South Windsor. The exhibit has not been shown before in this area because of lack of space.

Billionaire says casino sure bet

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A Japanese billionaire who doesn't gamble says the troubled Dunes Hotel and Casino looked like a good bet so he purchased it for $157.7 million less than 60 days after being approached. Masao Nangaku, president of the Tokyo-based Minami Group, is the third Japanese businessman to buy a Las Vegas hotel-casino in two years. He believes more Japanese investors are headed for this gaming capital.

Maritime unions to merge

NEW YORK (AP) — Two of the country's largest maritime unions have announced a merger they say would strengthen their bargaining positions and streamline delivery of service to members. The announcement Tuesday by the National Maritime Union, founded in 1937, and the Marine Engineers Beneficial Association, MEBA-District 1, founded in 1875, followed a meeting in New York City.

Holy mackerel! CBS suit keeps Amos off stage
WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (AP) — Holy mackerel, Andy! Amos and Andy and Sapphire and the Kingfish won't be coming to Broadway. U.S. District Court Judge Gerard Goettel ruled Tuesday that CBS still holds the rights to the characters from the "Amos 'n' Andy" show — and CBS has so far refused to give permission for a musical based on the old radio and TV series.

Public awareness is increasing, said Daniel R. Margulies, national president of the San Bruno, Calif.-based organization. "Things get better all the time." The group helps distribute information to doctors who don't normally see dwarfism and helps educate members about new research findings.
