Cabinet quits in Philippines

Resignations follow call to reorganize government

MANILA, Philippines (AP) — President Corason Aquino's entire Cabinet resigned today to allow her to reorganize a government widely assailed since last month's bloody coup attempt.

Presidential spokesman Teodoro Benigno said 23 officials, including the 25 Cabinet members and three others from the Presidential Commission on Good Government, submitted their resignations during a 15-minute emergency Cabinet meeting.

Aquino curtly declined to comment on possible personnel changes. Asked by reporters when she would announce the new Cabinet, Aquino snapped: "You will know."

Palace sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said she went straight from the meeting to a studio to record an announcement. "The Cabinet fell. It was appropriate for anyone to tender their resignation so that the president can have a totally free hand if she feels a need for a revamp," said Finance Secretary Jaime Ongpin.

Benigno said Vice President Salvador Laurel, who is on a tour of Mindanao, submitted his resignation as foreign affairs secretary by telephone. Laurel remains vice president.

Among those who resigned was Executive Secretary Joker Arroyo, considered the second most powerful person in the government.

The resignations followed growing calls for a government reorganization after the Aug. 25 coup attempt, the most serious challenge to the 18-month Aquino administration. The government has since been widely criticized for lack of leadership.

Arroyo's ouster had been demanded by business and military groups and members of Congress who urged the government to strengthen its stand against communist rebels and halt a cycle of right-wing coup attempts.

During meetings conducted last week, thousands of soldiers cheered calls for the ouster of Arroyo, who the military accuses of anti-military views and communist sympathies.

Arroyo, a former human rights lawyer, told reporters the resignations have "nothing to do with the

Hop River folks ask for action

COVENTRY — Problems along Hop River Road have some residents hopping mad.

"How much garbage do we have to put up with before you improve the road?" resident Tom Welles asked the Town Council during a meeting Tuesday night at the Town Office Building.

He was one of about a dozen residents who accused town officials of being slow to act on the poor condition of the single-lane dirt road and the bridge along it. They also complained that officials had misled them on the date repairs would be done.

Town Manager Harold Hodge said the state closed the bridge because of safety concerns. He said a town crew had put gravel on the road.

Residents, in turn, complained that the gravel had large rocks and was damaging their cars.

Welles said people have been trying to get the road fixed since the gravel was moved to the area. Over the past few months, residents have put together a petition, asking officials to widen and improve the road.

"All we have now is cobblestones," Welles said.

Per Johnson, another resident, called the road a "cowpath." She said Town Manager Harold Hodge had promised her that the bridge would be fixed in June, and then in July.

"Now the cold weather is getting ready to set in. What's your story?" Johnson asked.

Johnson said she is residing on the road don't get mail or newspapers, nor can garbage trucks use the road.

"I don't want to hear a lot of figures. I just want the facts. I've heard all the stories. What's being done now and when are the repairs going to be done?" Johnson asked.

She said she was considering calling the town into question to complain about the situation. "If the town's liability insurance is canceled, the town will be in rough shape," Johnson said.

Residents also complained that vehicles travel at high speeds down the road, and asked for speed limit or warning signs be posted.

Town Council Chairman Joan Lewis assured the group that the council had already approved $8,000 for an engineering study of the bridge.

When the study is returned, Lewis said, if repairs cost under $100,000, the repair project will go to a town meeting for approval. However, if the cost is more than $100,000, it will have to go to a referendum.

The council voted unanimously Tuesday to ask the state if temporary repairs could be done to the bridge in the meantime.

"It's a matter of urgency that action be taken to look into temporary repairs," said Lewis.

Lewis promised that repairs to the bridge and the road will become a priority, and the town attorney will be notified.

"I'll take that information to him myself tomorrow," Hodge said.

This needs to be pursued, but if it can't, the truth needs to be told to these people. No games," said Councilman Patrick Flaherty. "If he's going to take a while, if he has to go to referendum, it's important to be honest and let these people know that the state isn't going to let us open up the bridge."

The residents said they plan to return in force to the next council meeting, which is Sept. 21.

Iraq bombs Iran in 'day of revenge'

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — Iraq said its warplanes bombed 13 oil, industrial and other targets inside Iran today in what it called a "day of revenge." Iran vowed swift retaliation in a flare-up of the Persian Gulf war prior to a U.N. peace mission.

Iraq said it shot down three Iraqi jet fighters, and Baghdad announced attacks on shipping off Iran.

The attacks surprised diplomats in the region, who had predicted Iraq would refrain from raids while U.N. Nations Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar visited both nations in an effort to end the 7-year-old war. The U.N. official is due to arrive in Tehran on Friday night.

Iraq's official news agency, monitored in Nigeria, quoted a military communique as saying the air raids were a "day of revenge" for "Iranian attacks on Kuwait's commercial and oil lanes and the firing of missiles into Kuwaiti territory."

It said two unidentified ships were hit in air strikes Tuesday night near Iran's big Kharg Island oil terminal in the northern gulf.

Tehran radio, also monitored in Nigeria, reported earlier that five people were killed and 25 wounded in an Iraqi air raid Tuesday on the western Iranian city of Bakhtiaran.

The official radio said civilian areas were bombed in raids on Arak, Doroud, Desful, Khorramabad and Islamabad-e Gharb in southwestern and western Iran.

Iraq said three Iraqi jets were shot down, one of them during Tuesday night's attacks and two Tuesday. Iraq denied any planes were

Bannon to beef up tax enforcement

HARTFORD (AP) — State Tax Commissioner Timothy Bannon moved today to beef up the enforcement of tax laws, including additional training for investigators and public reporting of tax violators.

Bannon, who took over the Department of Revenue Services a month ago, said he was responding to an apparent public perception that tax law were not being adequately enforced.

"We're saying that you cheat on your taxes in Connecticut at your own peril," Bannon told a state Capitol news conference. "We will keep tax cheats guessing, and when they guess wrong, they will go to jail."

Bannon refused to estimate how much the state might be losing each year to tax cheats. His predecessor, John G. Groppo, estimated earlier this year that the total could be as much as $1 billion.

The Department of Revenue Services came under fire this year for allegedly lenient treatment of tax delinquents, including the waiving of millions of dollars in penalties.

His proposals today include creation of a priority investigation system, which will match investigative functions to areas where the need is the greatest.

Bannon said today he was confident that episode had been put to rest.

His department now has eight tax investigators and he is asking for three more in his 1988-89 budget.

His proposals today include creation of a priority investigation system, which will match investigative functions to areas where the need is the greatest.

Flood warnings seen along Atlantic Coast

By The Associated Press

Showers and scattered thunderstorms prevailed across much of New England and rivers rose in the rain-soaked middle Atlantic Coast states today, while powerful thunderstorms gusted across the lower and middle James River in Virginia, which is expected to cause minor flooding Thursday at Richmond with a crest at 11 to 12 feet above flood stage.

In eastern Pennsylvania, more than 5 inches of rain had fallen across the lower Lehigh River basin since Tuesday afternoon, causing rapid rises along the eastern Pennsylvania river, some basement flooding and minor traffic accidents. Showers and thunderstorms with high, gusty winds were widely scattered over the High Plains from western Nebraska south into eastern New Mexico and the western Texas Panhandle.

Isolated thunderstorms hit parts of the Deep South, downing trees and power lines near Elberta, Ala., damaging homes northeast of Atlanta, and toppling a semi-trailer in Pensacola, Fla.

Dense fog cut visibilities to a mile or less across much of the Great Lakes region from lower Michigan through northern Ohio, northwest Pennsylvania, upstate New York, West Virginia and along the northwest coast of California.

Elsewhere, skies were mostly clear from the western Great Lakes into the mid-Mississippi Valley and the central Plains.

Today's weather picture was drawn by Alyssa LaBonta, 10, who lives on Main Street and attends Robertson School.

Astrograph

Your Birthday
Thursday, Sept. 10, 1987

Try to devote a substantial portion of your time and energies in the year ahead to ventures or enterprises that have strong, creative elements. The aspects indicate you could be fortunate in these areas.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Even though it may cause you a degree of inconvenience, strive to honor your promises today. Don't give associates reasons for questioning your word.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This can be a reasonably productive day for you, provided you are not hampered by stilted co-workers. Don't let the less energetic ones determine your pace.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your luck has its limitations today, so exercise your best judgment in situations that have strong elements of chance. If you do something impulsive, you might regret it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Maintain the status quo on the homefront today if everything is running harmoniously. Don't be the author of unnecessary discussion.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Things should proceed in an orderly fashion today, provided you don't make last-minute changes. Impulsive alterations could gum up the works.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) There's a strong chance that a statement you make will be challenged today. Don't pass off something as gospel if you don't have the facts to back you up.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Be extremely careful when you take into your confidence today. Don't talk about discreet matters to someone you know from experience cannot keep a secret.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) It's best not to spring changes on your companions today. Even though you might think your ideas are great, they may not be inclined to agree.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Operate along logical lines today. Don't let your emotions cloud your better judgment and cause you to make avoidable mistakes.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Disciplined, prudent management will keep you on the plus side of the column in your financial affairs today. If it isn't essential, don't buy it now.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your budget is teetering in delicate balance today. If you cater to your extravagant whims, you could easily tip it over. Try to patch up a broken romance? # A veteran and a newcomer to fill GOP vacancies

By Andrew Yurkovsky
Herald Reporter

The Republican Town Committee endorsed two candidates Tuesday night — one a political newcomer — to fill openings on the November slate for Board of Education.

John Tucci, 47, who ran unsuccessfully last year for state representative from the 12th District, was endorsed for a three-year term on the school board this year.

Bradford Ingraham, 27, who is the assistant director of a recreation center in Vernon, was endorsed for a seat on the board beginning in 1988.

Tucci, a barber who works in West Hartford, has been outspoken in the past about educational issues in Manchester. Ingraham has not run for public office before.

came vacant last month when Beverly Malone dropped out of the race to work on the campaign for Board of Directors.

Donald K. Kuehl, the town GOP chairman, said the town committee decided not to field a candidate for treasurer in order to concentrate on the directors' campaign.

The candidate for treasurer would have run against incumbent Treasurer Roger M. Negro, a Democrat running for his eighth consecutive term.

Tucci will fill the slot on the ticket originally occupied by David Dampier, who served on the school board from 1982 to 1985. Kuehl announced two weeks ago that Dampier was withdrawing from the race because of a change in his working hours.

Ingraham will fill the slot left by incumbent school board member Anne Guvin, whose withdrawal from the race was announced at the same time as Dampier's. Guvin decided to drop out of the campaign because of recent surgery, but she has said she will complete her first term on the board.

Kuehl on Tuesday reiterated that Guvin plans to run again for Board of Education in two years.

The original Republican slate for the November elections was announced in July. Tuesday's additions were made just in time to meet today's deadline for changes on the ballot.

Officials in Andover resolve differences

By Bruce Motzkin
Herald Reporter

ANDOVER — Town Tax Collector Sandra G. Bidwell and First Selectman Earle B. Duchesneau have apparently resolved their differences over a change in tax collecting policy, Duchesneau said Tuesday.

"It seems now to be an understanding between us that the move I made was in the best interests of the services we provide," Duchesneau said.

Bidwell had said earlier that Duchesneau acted unprofessionally by not consulting her before making the changes.

Bidwell became upset when she discovered that Duchesneau was no longer allowing the selectmen's secretary, Marilyn LeBel, to collect taxes when Bidwell wasn't there.

The practice until Aug. 2 had been for taxpayers to pay LeBel if they came to the Town Office Building when Bidwell wasn't there.

Duchesneau discontinued this after discovering a Connecticut statute that requires any person collecting taxes in place of the tax collector to be appointed by oath.

"I think her professional courtesy took a back seat," Bidwell said.

Bidwell said she was also upset about the way her office was moved over the weekend into the assessor's office.

Bidwell told Duchesneau last week that security is needed for the tax collector's office, and by moving in with the assessor, such security would be lacking in the assessor's office, which is often visited by the public.

The complaint, filed Aug. 24 in Hartford Superior Court, says that Marlon Hamilton of 21 Perkins St. was walking on the sidewalk between Connecticut Bank & Trust Co. and J. Garman Clothier on Sept. 12, 1986, when she fell, cutting her chin and bruising her neck and her knees.

The sidewalk was in disrepair at the time of the accident, with one portion of the walk three-quarters of an inch higher than the other, according to the complaint.

Hamilton is seeking more than $15,000 in damages, the complaint says. Also named in the suit is C.D.P. Ventures of Manchester, which was responsible for the sidewalk's upkeep, according to the complaint.

The complaint says that some of Hamilton's injuries may be permanent.

Go with the gray

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Television game show host Bob Barker got a standing ovation on the set of "The Price Is Right" for giving up his dyed brown pompadour and reverting to his natural gray-white shade.

"The women were screaming and whistling and howling. 'You look gorgeous!'" Barker's publicist, Roger Neal, said Tuesday.

"He's going to let the people decide how to wear his hair," Neal said. The television audience will be asked to write in with their choice, he said.

Barker said Tuesday that he stopped dyeing his hair while on a recent vacation in Europe. When he returned to CBS studios, "They all said go with the gray."

"Barker's beauties — the girls on the show — said they see me now in a whole new light. They think I'm much sexier, and I said, 'It's about time.'"

Barker's "new look" debuts Oct. 15 on the popular game show, which was videotaped on Labor Day.

British debut

LONDON (AP) — Peter Sellars, the American director whose offbeat staging of plays and operas has excited and enraged critics, makes his British staging debut next month at tony Glyndebourne opera house in the Sussex countryside.

Sellars, 29, will direct the Oct. 5 world premiere of "The Electrification of the Soviet Union," an opera adapted from Boris Pasternak's 1929 novella "A Tale known in England as 'The Last Summer.'"

Sellars, known for controversial stagings of operas like Mozart's "Così fan tutte" and "Don Giovanni" and such plays as "King Lear" and "Sophocles' Ajax," said he was attracted by the "symphonic reality" of the opera.

High-flying flight

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — It was no act when Poland's leading film star overpowered a man who attacked a stewardess and tried to force his way into a jetliner's cockpit during a flight.

"I've had many flights before, but this was my first flight at an altitude of 10,000 meters (more than 30,000 feet)," said Daniel Olbrychski, who trained as a fighter for an early starring role in a 1966 Polish film, "The Boxer."

Olbrychski, 42, went into action Saturday on a LOT Polish Airlines flight from Warsaw to Athens, when a 25-year-old Greek who was being deported from Poland jumped up, struck a flight attendant and ran toward the cockpit.

"I grabbed him by the legs and felled him, then the other passengers helped me," Olbrychski told the newspaper Kurier Polski. He was flying to Athens to finish a film in which he plays a suspected terrorist.

Connecticut In Brief

Rail commuters give their opinions

NORWALK — A survey of 4,000 railroad riders will provide "ammunition" to a panel that oversees the new commuter line, the panel chairman says.

Harry Harris, panel chairman, said most of the comments offered by commuters responding to a June survey were as expected. He would not elaborate on the report, which was scheduled to be released today during a meeting of his group, the Metro-North New Haven Rail Commuter Council.

Harris said the results will give the 14-member committee "definite ammunition" when it sends its recommendations to the state Legislature this year. The council recommendations will be released at the same meeting.

The council was established by the Legislature in 1985, along with the Metro-North Commuter Railroad, Connecticut partly funds the railroad.

Ex-official jailed for ballot fraud

WATERBURY — A former affirmative action officer in the state Judicial Department has received a 30-day jail term and was ordered to perform 300 hours community service for his role in a ballot fraud case stemming from a 1986 Democratic gubernatorial primary.

Vanessa Gatling, 33, had pleaded guilty to six counts of absentee ballot fraud in the May 20, 1986, gubernatorial primary in Waterbury.

The council was established by the Legislature in 1985, along with the Metro-North Commuter Railroad, Connecticut partly funds the railroad.

In Waterbury Superior Court Tuesday, Judge Anne C. Dranginis sentenced Gatling to three years in prison, suspended after 30 days, five years' probation and 300 hours of community service.

Gov. William O'Neill defeated challenger Toby Moffett by 43 votes in the primary to win the city's 48-member delegation. The defeat left Moffett 20 delegates short of the total needed to qualify for a statewide primary.

Gatling was listed as a district leader in O'Neill's campaign.

Court throws out $1.1 million award

HARTFORD — The state Supreme Court has thrown out a $1.15 million award to a woman whose husband was killed when a canopy outside a Caldor store in West Hartford collapsed on him six years ago.

In an unanimous decision Tuesday, the court said the original suit should have been dismissed when it reached Superior Court, concluding that state law bars such a suit three years after the act complained of, in this case, the construction of the canopy.

The wooden canopy had been built in 1973.

The ruling came in the case of Patricia O. Ecker, whose husband Robert W. Ecker died the day after being injured in the accident on Feb. 11, 1981. She had sued West Hartford and its building inspector.

A jury ruled in her favor and awarded her $1.15 million last year.

Judge to rule on 'tainted' evidence

HARTFORD — A judge's decision whether to allow jurors to handle evidence stained with the blood of a rape victim who has tested positive for AIDS will be the first of its kind in Connecticut, a prosecutor said.

"Every legal precedent is with us," Assistant State's Attorney Kevin McMahon said Tuesday. "It's a question of setting policy for the whole state."

Judge John P. Maloney was to decide today whether jurors in the sexual assault case will be given the evidence or photographs and duplicates instead.

On Tuesday, prosecutors argued that the state's case against Steven K. Gagner, 22, of New Britain, would be prejudiced if jurors could not see and handle the evidence in the case.

"It's very difficult to try a case without the best evidence rule — the actual items," State's Attorney John Bailey said.

CCAG offers recycling booklet

HARTFORD — Connecticut residents unsure of how to deal with the demands of recycling can find some answers in a booklet explaining how to recycle and reduce waste.

The booklet by the Connecticut Citizen Action Group, a citizens' lobbying organization, is being distributed to the public at no charge. CCAG claims the booklet is the first comprehensive household guide on recycling solid waste.

"The booklet can be used by the whole family. Everyone can learn about recycling and participate in the state's recycling program," said Marion McLaughlin, co-chair of the organization.

A new law passed this year by the General Assembly mandates 25 percent recycling by 1991, meaning each community must develop a plan for recycling one-quarter of its trash. The legislation made Connecticut the second state to adopt mandatory recycling.

More sought for higher education

HARTFORD — A need for larger college libraries, better equipment and more scholarship aid has prompted state officials to propose a 20 percent increase in the 1988-89 higher education budget.

The state Department of Higher Education held budget hearings Tuesday on a tentative $485 million budget, $83 million more than the 1987-88 figure and the latest in a series of budget increases running well in excess of inflation.

The budget, which proposes undergraduate tuition increases ranging from 5.9 percent to 15 percent, comes as national college enrollments continue to decline in Connecticut.

Unless colleges receive more aid, "we as an nation will lose our ability to compete" in the marketplace, said state Higher Education Commissioner Norma Foreman Glasgow.

Man's death was accidental hanging

NAUGATUCK — A 23-year-old man whose body was found in Whittemore Glen State Park died as the result of an accidental hanging, state police said.

The body of Richard L. Murzyn of Naugatuck was discovered on Monday by hikers in a wooded area of the park near the Naugatuck-Middlebury line, police said.

NEW HAVEN (AP) — Fire ants, a troublesome insect not previously found in Connecticut, were found in the soil of a potted plant sold in Cheshire last week after they stung a person at the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station, said Tuesday.

A Cheshire resident, who was not identified, received medical treatment after being stung by the ants. Louis A. Magnarelli, the station's chief entomologist, said Magnarelli, citing the person's privacy, would not discuss the extent of the bites and said the person was an adult.

Fire ants, a problem pest in several Southern states, were in the soil of a weeping fig tree purchased at the Cheshire Home Shop & Shop supermarket. Magnarelli said the ants were killed, he said.

Magnarelli compared the bite of the ants to bee stings, saying some people could be allergic to the venom.

The station quarantined all other possibly infested plants from the store on Friday to prevent the possible spread of other fire ants. Magnarelli said the insects have not been found in any of the other plants, he said.

The insect is known as the red imported fire ant. Magnarelli said it builds large mounds and is common in at least eight southern states, including Florida, Mississippi and Louisiana.

"We still only have evidence of one plant that was found to have had fire ants in the soil," Magnarelli said. "The quarantined plants have been isolated and are to be treated under the supervision of the experiment station to kill ants that could be present in the soil."

"These ants are under scrutiny. People are careful about not letting them getting into a new area," he said.

He said he had "no knowledge" of any ants leaving the plant and getting into the environment.

Four people were arrested during the march for marking sidewalks with peace slogans and symbols. Most of the rest were arrested for refusing to follow police orders to clear the area around the museum.

Bridgeport keeps eye on schools

Opening day goes smoothly as educators watch for gun-toting high school students

By Lindo Stowell
The Associated Press

BRIDGEPORT — Teams of school officials set up to stop trouble before it starts didn't find any on the first day of classes in city schools that were plagued by gun-toting students last year.

The first day of classes at two city high schools and here went smoothly Tuesday after city and school officials spent the summer developing plans to keep guns out of classrooms.

One of those plans was the formation of teams of school officials called "sweep teams" who patrol hallways.

"I'm hopeful there won't be a problem," said Dr. Emma Jean Stepherson, principal at Bassick High School. "But you can never completely relax... you have to be on guard at all times."

Last year, eight guns were found in the possession of 10 pupils in the schools. The number of gun incidents peaked in March when five were reported. Stepherson said Bassick had one incident last year.

Last year's record of eight compares with no guns found in the schools in the 1985-86 school year, three in 1984-85 and one in 1983-84.

The city and schools handed together last spring to develop solutions to the gun problem including:

- Mayor Thomas W. Bucel formed a Task Force on a Weapon Free Environment For Youth.
- The school board adopted a random desk and locker search policy.

EMMA JEAN STEPPERSON
"on guard at all times"

- Several of the schools, including Bassick, initiated the "sweep teams."
- Students will not be allowed to wear winter coats around the schools because officials are afraid they can conceal weapons in bulky clothes. Students caught with dangerous weapons are expelled.

A protester who identified himself as "Supreme Vermin, the Faceless Shadow of Nuclear Death" walks past security guards at the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp. in Groton Tuesday. He was part of a peaceful demonstration by peace activists outside the submarine manufacturer.

Anti-nuke protesters arraigned

NEW LONDON (AP) — Anti-nuclear protesters arrested during a march and demonstration at the Nautilus Memorial in Groton have been arraigned in Superior Court.

Twenty-eight protesters were arrested Monday during a three-mile march to the Nautilus Memorial and Submarine Force Library and Museum, adjacent to the U.S. Naval Submarine Base, and during a demonstration at the site.

Four people were arrested during the march for marking sidewalks with peace slogans and symbols. Most of the rest were arrested for refusing to follow police orders to clear the area around the museum.

Eight people climbed a model of a nuclear reactor outside the museum and unfurled a peace banner. Those arrested were charged by Groton city and town police with various offenses including disorderly conduct, resisting arrest, and criminal misconduct.

All were released from custody following their arraignments Tuesday, a court clerk said.

Monday's march and demonstration followed services earlier in the day at the Union Baptist Church in the Mystic section of Groton, where participants in two separate peace walks originating in Maine and Massachusetts ended their demonstrations.

In a related incident, six of the peace walkers assembled Tuesday morning at the gates of Electric Boat, a division of the General Dynamics Corp., as white-collar workers filed in.

The demonstration was subdued. Some demonstrators carried plastic trash bags and picked up litter. "I'm picking up trash and I hope Electric Boat will clean up its act," said one of the demonstrators, Yeshua Moser.

U.S./World In Brief

Thousands evacuated in Venezuela

MARACAY, Venezuela — Searchers dug for bodies today along a three-mile stretch of mountain road where a torrent of mud swept away hundreds of cars. At least 200 people were reported dead in the mudslide and floods.

More than 250 people were missing, 1,000 were injured and 20,000 left homeless following heavy rains Sunday that left a trail of destruction from the Occumare resort on Venezuela's northern coast to the city of Maracay, 20 miles south.

No official casualty figures were released and officials said a thorough search for bodies could take weeks.

Soldiers, civil defense units and volunteers today turned to digging out bodies near the mountain road that links Occumare and Maracay. On Tuesday, they evacuated more than 1,000 survivors along the two-lane highway.

Ortega trip pleases White House

WASHINGTON — Reagan administration officials are delighted by Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega's planned trip to Moscow, believing it will give a boost to the White House's troubled campaign to aid the Contras rebels.

"Whoever is planning Danny Ortega's schedule is obviously on our side," one White House official said Tuesday. "We love it."

"It's hard to believe he would do it," said another official, who like the first, spoke only on condition of anonymity.

Publicly, the administration declined comment about the trip. Two years ago, Ortega made his first official visit to Moscow, after the Democratic-controlled House had voted down an aid package for the Contras. Angered by Ortega's trip, the House quickly reversed itself and approved Contra funds.

Hoping Ortega's plan will have the same impact again, the administration adopted a low-key stand about the announcement that the Nicaraguan leader will be in Moscow to celebrate the Russian Revolution on Nov. 7, the day a newly signed Central American peace plan is to go into effect.

Danish premier resigns amid crisis

COPENHAGEN, Denmark — Prime Minister Poul Schluter resigned today after his center-right minority coalition suffered an unexpected election setback.

Schluter, 58, who lost his working majority in Parliament in Tuesday's voting, handed his resignation to Queen Margrethe II at Amalienborg Palace after a meeting with opposition leaders and his partners in the four-party coalition.

"I have informed Her Majesty the Queen that I am handing in my resignation," Schluter said.

The queen must now consult the nine parties in Parliament to resolve the deadlock.

Schluter indicated he expected the monarch to ask him to try to form a new government. He said he hoped a majority would back him "if this heavy burden falls on me to lead a government in a difficult situation."

Illinois denies parole for killer

CHICAGO — Convicted mass killer Richard Speck was denied parole today by the Illinois Prisoner Review Board, 21 years after the brutal slayings of eight student nurses in a Chicago apartment.

The 11-member board was unanimous in its decision, according to a two-sentence statement issued by chairman Paul J. Kliner.

Speck's next parole hearing was set for September 1990.

Last week, Cook County prosecutors and some friends and relatives of the victims jammed an emotional hearing on Speck's parole request, pleading with the Illinois Prisoner Review Board to keep him behind bars.

Speck, who is imprisoned at the Stateville Correctional Center, did not appear at the hearing.

Speck was originally sentenced to death for the deaths of the women, who lived together while studying nursing at South Chicago Community Hospital. But that sentence was voided along with the Illinois death penalty in 1972.

East German leader ends summit

BONN, West Germany — East German leader Erich Honecker ended a historic two-day summit with Chancellor Helmut Kohl by urging West Germany to avoid "sweet dreams" of reunification.

The 75-year-old Honecker, the first East German leader to visit West Germany, was scheduled to meet today with prominent industrialists and planned to travel through Germany's industrial Ruhr region.

On Tuesday, the East German Communist leader ended a two-day political summit in Bonn. The meetings were dominated by Kohl's support for reunification of East and West Germany and Honecker's rejection of the idea. The two German nations were formed in 1949 after Adolf Hitler's Third Reich was defeated.

Shultz optimistic on Soviet relations

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State George P. Shultz says the United States and the Soviet Union are better able to deal with the problems that afflict their relationship than at any time in his more than five years on the job.

Shultz, in an interview Tuesday, also said the ban on intermediate-range nuclear weapons nearing completion in Geneva would be "the strongest of any arms control agreement we've ever had."

While the schedule for dismantling the weapons still must be determined, Shultz said the decision to eliminate all U.S. and Soviet weapons of that type makes anti-cheating arrangements "much simpler."

Shultz told reporters from The Associated Press and United Press International that, despite some strains, U.S.-Soviet relations now are "on the whole, businesslike and straightforward."

Cities rush to get ready for pope

By The Associated Press

Carpenters pounded nails into place on outdoor altars, empty teams welded down manhole covers and church officials scrambled to meet budgets today as cities from coast to coast prepared for the pope's second U.S. tour.

In Miami, the first of nine cities John Paul II will visit in 10 days beginning Thursday, Archbishop Edward A. McCarthy set a tone of public celebration Tuesday by blessing a giant rosary dangling from a downtown apartment building. The rosary consisted of 50 Styrofoam beads, each 2 feet by 1 inch, extending 80 feet across the building and hanging over a 12-foot-by-8-foot wooden cross.

From Miami, the pope will fly to Columbia, S.C., then New Orleans, San Antonio, Texas; Phoenix, Ariz.; Los Angeles; Monterey, Calif.; and San Francisco. His final U.S. stop is in Detroit, but before heading back to Rome, he will visit Fort Simpson in Canada's Northwest Territories on Sept. 20.

Most of the stops are in the Sunbelt, where the Hispanic population plays an increasingly vital role among the nation's 53 million Roman Catholics, and where the pope's visit is sure to produce huge crowds.

In Phoenix, for instance, so many people are expected to throng the streets Monday that the U.S. Postal Service said mail delivery might be postponed for a day.

Aside from that possible complication, Phoenix Bishop Thomas J. O'Brien said "every 'I' has been dotted and every 't' has been crossed" in the way of preparations. "I'm sure that some little things will come up that we haven't anticipated, but we believe all of the major areas have been covered."

Not quite all the money, however. O'Brien said a special collection would be taken up in churches Sunday in hopes of raising the last $150,000 of the $1.5 million budget for the visit.

In San Antonio, the Rev. Larry Stueben, chairman of the Texas Papal Visit Committee, said a $2.5 million goal was still $600,000 short, but he remained optimistic.

Workers lay planks on one of the camera stands in front of the newly erected stage in Hamtramck, Mich., Tuesday as preparations continue for the arrival of Pope John Paul II in the Detroit area Sept. 19. The pope will begin his second U.S. tour Thursday in Miami.

In each city along his route, the pope, who survived a May 1981 assassination attempt in St. Peter's Square in Rome, will ride in an enclosed, bulletproof car known as the "popemobile." Police, National Guardsmen and Secret Service agents plan to divert rush-hour traffic, weld manholes shut, station sharpshooters on roofs and even make airliners change course.

During his first stop, in Miami, the pope will be protected by 2,000 Dade police officers, 1,000 Miami officers, 2,400 National Guardsmen, 900 state troopers, scores of Secret Service agents and a contingent from the Vatican's own Swiss Guard. They'll be equipped with rifles, bomb-sniffing dogs, 8mm automatics and pistol-grip grenade launchers.

"This will certainly be the biggest combined law enforcement effort in South Florida's history," said Jack Kippenberger, special agent in charge of Miami's Secret Service office.

The Archdiocese of San Francisco and a national gay Catholic group on Tuesday signed a statement condemning violence and promoting free speech during John Paul's visit. "I may not agree with the pope, but I will defend his right to speak," said Tom Carroll, regional director for Dignity, a gay Catholic group. Gays have promised protests during the pontiff's visit.

In many of the cities on the tour, workers are completing special facilities to accommodate the crowds expected for a series of papal Masses.

In Detroit, construction began Tuesday on a 100-foot-wide, 100-foot-deep, 70-foot-high platform at Hart Plaza on Detroit's riverfront. The platform is being elevated to avoid having the pope stand directly at the foot on the bronze sculpture of Detroit's Joe Louis at the foot of Woodward Avenue.

Industry turns to Soviets for space launch

WASHINGTON (AP) — A year after President Reagan kicked commercial satellites off the space shuttle in hopes of spurring a U.S. private-launch industry, a Houston lawyer is working with the Soviets to give Western satellite owners an alternative path to space.

Aerospace lawyer Arthur Dula is negotiating to buy launches from the Russians and sell them to the companies that need a lift into orbit, a service that became precious after the January 1986 Challenger accident grounded American space shuttles.

"It's in the interests of both countries for this kind of commercial activity to take place," Dula said in an interview Tuesday after returning from a weeklong trip to Moscow, his third to discuss details of the project.

Dula declined to specify how many contracts his company, Space Commerce Corp., has with the Soviets or what companies have signed them.

"I think the Soviets are serious," he said. "They're in this business to earn hard currency. They've got the rocket and hopefully we've got some use for it."

The hitch, however, will likely be in the United States, at the State Department, which has said that sending U.S. satellites to the Soviet Union for launching would violate export restrictions.

Dula said he expects to apply for an export license before the end of the year and sees none of the technology-transfer problems the U.S. government envisions.

"We're just buying transportation services," he said. "We have some strong guarantees out of the Soviets that they won't touch the things."

Dula said a Soviet launch would cost about $10 million to $20 million less than the price of Western launches because of the number of rockets they fire — 80 last year, about 10 times as many as the United States launched. He estimated launching aboard a U.S. rocket will cost between $35 million and $110 million.

Dula, who pointedly states he's not an agent for the Russians but merely a middleman in the deal, says the arrangements can help U.S. companies in more ways than just getting their satellites into orbit.

"The Soviets buy an awful lot of stuff from us. If we don't buy something from them, they aren't going to be able to buy anything from us," he said. He added that the Soviets "are very good capitalists."

In Sunday's New York Times, the head of the main Soviet space agency, Aleksandr I. Danayev, was quoted: "There are very many customers for these services in the world. The potential of international cooperation on the basis of commercial contracting is almost limitless."

Since the Challenger accident, several U.S. companies and foreign governments have begun developing launch services.

The French-based Ariane space program was poised to take advantage of U.S. delays, but ran into its own problems with the failure of one of its rockets, which grounded the program temporarily.

Now, however, Ariane rockets are back in the skies and the program's eight launches a year are booked through the beginning of 1991. Each rocket usually carries two spacecraft, though some larger satellites must be launched alone.

China has no formal contracts with any U.S. companies for launches aboard its Long March rocket, but several agreements are under negotiation.

Is elected treasurer necessary?

When a minority party fails to run a candidate for an office or runs a candidate who has no hope of winning and makes no effort to win, it may be a sign that the office should not be an elective post.

Roger Negro is the Democratic candidate for town treasurer and he is seeking his eighth consecutive term. In one of the last six elections, Negro had no Republican opposition and in the other five he easily beat Republican opponents, some of whom graciously allowed their names to be entered merely to make the Republican slate complete.

On Tuesday night the Republican Party filled a couple of vacancies on its slate for the Nov. 3 town election, but decided not to run a candidate for town treasurer.

Republican Town Chairman Donald Kuehl said that while the party did have people willing to run, they were more valuable to the party running for other offices. And he intimated that the post of treasurer was not very important in any event, suggesting that the work of the treasurer is duplicated by the finance department.

The theory behind having a popularly elected treasurer is that the treasurer serves as a check on the appointed administration, including the financial administrators. It is one of the few checks in the council-manager form of government.

Whether that check is needed or whether it is effective is questionable. The popularly elected Board of Directors probably does the job just as well anyway.

But certainly if the party out of power virtually concedes the office to the majority party, that check ceases to be of any great importance.

In fact, the presence of the position on the ballot has a negative political effect. When a popular and perennial candidate is challenged, even feebly, he campaigns. He gets out the vote for himself, and in the process, automatically gets out votes for other majority party candidates who should be getting votes on their merits.

If the position of town treasurer is a necessary one in the town government, it should be made appointive. If it is not needed, it should be eliminated.

"Oh good, we're early — the next coup attempt isn't until 4:45."

Growth supports need for a mall

To the Editor:

Three cheers for the various actions taken by the town's Board of Directors relative to the Mall at Buckland Hills. Judy Morin's letter of Sept. 4 hit the nail on the head as she commended the board and cited needs for the mall. Robert W. Calnen's Sept. 2 board was equally forthright and to the point.

The growth experienced in the town east of the river supports the need for a mall. There will be one built, come what may! Buckland Hills is the place, recognizing its proximity to Interstate 94 and, in turn, its major feeders including Interstate 384 and Route 2. If the mall is not to be in Manchester, it is quite probable that South Windsor will see it developed there.

The Manchester Property Owners Association has done nothing to convince me of the merits of its position. I.e. the Buckland Hills mall will be a tax burden to the town. On the contrary, every time its chief spokesperson comments, my resolve to vote in favor of the bond referendum is reaffirmed.

Soviet situation worse than ever

To the Editor:

With all the recent talk about

"glasnot" (openness) being the new liberal policy in the Soviet Union, many may believe that the situation may be improved for those Jews who have been suffering for years as refuseniks. A refusenik is one who has applied for a visa to emigrate to Israel to be reunited with family, as permitted by the Helsinki Accord which the U.S.S.R. has signed. These people have been repeatedly refused permission. These people, some for as long as 20 years, suffer tremendous privations due to their status. "Glasnot" has done nothing to improve their lot.

Now, in a letter from Sister Ann Gillen, executive director of the National Interreligious Task Force on Soviet Jewry, I have learned that the situation is in fact worse than ever. An anti-Semitic group called "Pamyat" has arisen. A group of 28 refuseniks from five cities have written an appeal wish to bring to the attention of the people of Manchester.

"Twenty years of anti-Zionist propaganda in the mass media have now born fruit. Anti-Semitic fires which have smoldered in the depths of Soviet society have now burst into the open in the form of Pamyat.

"In seeking reasons for the destruction of traditional Russian culture and social order, Pamyat has found a suitable and defenseless enemy to be blamed for all the failures and mistakes of the past years — the Jewish people.

"Following the example of pre-Revolutionary anti-Semitic groups, they have resurrected the Protocols of the Elders of Zion. They have adjusted Hitler's slogans on the 'international plot of world financiers, Jews and Bolsheviks' to Soviet conditions and restored them in the guise of an 'international plot of Zionists, Mason and imperialists.'

"None of the numerous Soviet publications has contained an unequivocal and sharp rebuke against their crude anti-Jewish charges. Moreover, Pamyat has enjoyed the tacit support of influential personalities who have granted its members permission to use various premises for meetings. No Pamyat leader has ever been charged with inciting anti-Semitism and racial hostility under Article 74 of the Criminal Code. Moreover, the May 6th meeting between Pamyat representatives and Boris Veltin, Candidate Member of the Politbureau and chairman of the Moscow Soviet, gave the group an aura of political recognition.

"Pamyat's slogans are directed against both Jews wishing to leave and those choosing to remain in the U.S.S.R. The situation could get out of control of the authorities by allowing freedom of meetings and demonstrations. Verbal slogans could easily lead to physical violence. All this recalls the alarming memories of the slogans and methods of the Nazis in 1930s.

"Before Pamyat stages its first pogrom, before any Jew becomes its victim, we demand:

"1. An immediate end to the wave of anti-Jewish propaganda and the restraining of those calling for physical anti-Jewish violence.

"2. Permission to repatriate to Israel all Jews wishing to do so. In cases where some must delay their departure for a certain period, permission to leave for their families.

I want to urge the caring people of Manchester to communicate with these refuseniks by mail, just to let them know their plight is of concern to us. Furthermore, we must write to Soviet officials to tell them of our indignation and concern. I would be happy to supply names and addresses to whom ever is willing to write.

Iran economy is foundering

WASHINGTON — As Iran's minister of heavy industries, Behza Nabavi is the proverbial steward rearranging the deck chairs on the sinking Titanic. The Khomeini regime is foundering on the iceberg of fundamentalist inefficiency, corruption and, most of all, the war with Iraq.

Through Nabavi makes numerous speeches and grants interviews to the kept Iranian press, he is generally closed-mouthed about the devastating effect the war has had on Iran's industrial base — a key indicator of the Iranian economy's slide into bankruptcy.

But even his cheerleading public statements sometimes contain revealing nuggets of information. And secret conversations he has had with confidants, the gist of which has been slipped to us by Tehran sources, are even more candid. First the public revelations:

• In a speech at Tehran's Mell University, Nabavi complained that his ministry "should be capable of building factories, but it lacks the capacity to create a fan-making unit." As a result, he said, the ministry has inherited "a bunch of little, inefficient vehicle and engine assembly plants."

• In an interview with the newspaper Jomhuri Islami, Nabavi disclosed that he had shut down the Iranian Mazda factory. "Of course, in reality, I did not shut it down," he said. "The lack of foreign currency did. If foreign currency were available, I would not have done this. We would have had to come up with $45 million to keep Mazda from closing, which we could not do."

• In a speech reported by the government newspaper Kayhan, Nabavi said: "Planning for heavy industries is a difficult job. For example, although we have not made our plants dependent on foreign currency, they are dependent on electricity. In the wake of frequent blackouts, our production projects are at a standstill."

• In a speech at Tehran University's school of economics, Nabavi voiced this plaintive plea: "Some people say, 'Change the line of products; don't shut down industry.' But how can we miraculously change our product line? To do so, we need foreign currency."

At a hush-hush meeting with newspaper editors, Nabavi gave an astonishingly frank appraisal of Iran's desperate economic situation, so that the editors could do a better job of censoring and keep hints of trouble from reaching their readers. He ordered that no notes or tapes be made of the meeting, but not everyone obeyed. A detailed summary of the meeting was smuggled out of Tehran to us.

Nabavi revealed that the only way the regime made it through the year that ended in March was "to draw on $2 billion of foreign currency reserves, which was against the law and which we falsely denied. But (this year), we can no longer do such a thing and the situation will be that much worse."

Iran's once-thriving auto industry is a shambles, Nabavi confided. To pay salaries at the Khodro plant, the government had to sell shares at ruinously low prices. A British manufacturer "has totally stopped sending spare parts because of our failure to meet our debts," and the parts on hand are taken by influential officials "for themselves and their families and friends."

Nabavi complained to the news executives: "The parliamentary deputies have made so many requests for Nissan (vehicles) that we have been forced to resort to a lottery for the people who already paid for Nissan light trucks and were supposed to take delivery."

Factories are kept running at a loss, Nabavi said, because they turn out material for the military as well as their normal products. Obviously, none of this creates revenue-producing heavy industry for Iran, and Nabavi knows this better than anyone. "The situation is so bad that it cannot be controlled," he lamented at the secret meeting.

Crouch coming?

Some officials in the Energy Department are warning that the gas lines of the 1970s will seem like a day at the beach compared to the next energy crisis — which they see arriving practically any day now. This crunch will be a shortage of electric power, caused by the inadequacy of existing generating plants and the lack of new power-generation construction.

Most of the country has enough juice for now, the officials say, but the lights could be dimming in some East Coast cities before the end of the year. Why are the utility companies building new plants if the demand is growing so fast? The power companies explain that skyrocketing costs and — you guessed it — government regulation have killed any incentive they might have to produce more electricity.

Coal and nuclear power could be cheap sources of electric power, but both fuels have health, safety and environmental problems that require strict government oversight. The utilities' pleas for relaxation of regulation are likely to fall on deaf ears in Congress.

Hart still wants to be part of American political debate

By Donald M. Rothberg
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — For Gary Hart, the unprecedented admission that he had not intended to run for president, before an audience of millions, was a painful moment but a price he was willing to pay for a chance to play a role in shaping the presidential campaign debate in 1988 — or later.

Hart insisted during an interview Tuesday night on ABC-TV's "Nightline" that he had no plans to revive his 1988 presidential candidacy. "I have no plans to run for president. I want to be part of this debate," Hart said.

For an hour, the former Colorado senator answered questions on late night television, apologizing for the behavior that drove him from the race and admitting he had been unfaithful to his wife, a statement he called "about as painful" as any public official could make.

Those who hoped the Hart interview would inject some high drama into the campaign were disappointed. But the odds remained long that the fallen front-runner's admissions would end public curiosity about his personal life and enable him to contribute to development of the campaign agenda.

Even if the public appetite for further details of Hart's relationship with Miami model Donna Rice were to subside in the weeks ahead, it would be unprecedented for a former candidate to succeed in shaping the agenda for those who remain in the race.

"The system does not absorb ideas in the abstract," former Hart campaign adviser John Holm said. "Ideas must be linked to political possibilities."

"What Gary Hart is saying essentially is 'my new ideas should be part of the agenda,'" said Peter Hart, who was Walter F. Mondale's pollster in 1984. "That may be, but it's pretty hard for the American voters to totally around that kind of cause."

There's no touchstone for Gary Hart. How are they supposed to relate to him?

Robert G. Beckel, who was Mondale's campaign manager, also said that Hart's effort "to get himself reinvolved in the dialogue" would run up against the political reality that the active candidates would be dominating the scene with a series of debates and other appearances.

"I don't think Hart's going to have much to say or do about this election," Beckel said. "It may not be fair, but that's just the way it works."

However, Hart may have taken an important step toward salvaging his political career. There was no moving forward for Hart without first confronting the past. That he did, though not as completely as some would have liked.

Landon marks 100th birthday

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Alf M. Landon, who turned 100 today, predicts a lively race for the 1988 GOP presidential nomination, an event "I don't want to miss."

Landon, whose own White House bid in 1936 ended in an overwhelming defeat by President Franklin Roosevelt, said in his annual Associated Press interview Tuesday, "I think it's too early to pick a winner. But I predict it's going to be entertaining."

The former Kansas governor and the oldest of the GOP's elder statesmen was to spend his birthday more quietly than he spent Sunday, when President and Mrs. Reagan came to Topeka to pay tribute and help him blow out a single candle on a cake shaped like an elephant, the symbol of the Republican Party.

Today, Landon was expected to receive a telephone call from Vice President George Bush, as well as a visit from an old political antagonist, former New York Congressman Hamilton Fish.

Fish, who had opposed Landon's bid for the GOP nomination for president in 1936, will be 99 years old in December.

Landon's daughter, Sen. Nancy L. Kassebaum, R-Kan., was to deliver a Landon lecture at Kansas State University today, and a video tape of her speech was to be brought to Landon to watch.

Hart admits adultery, won't run

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Democratic presidential front-runner Gary Hart, grappling with the issue that drove him from the 1988 campaign, admits he has committed adultery and says he doesn't plan to re-enter the race even though he still wants to be "part of this debate" over the country's future.

"I'm not running for president," Hart said in a 60-minute appearance on ABC-TV's "Nightline" program Tuesday night. "I have no plans to run for president."

The former Colorado senator was contrite and defiant by turns during the question and answer session, which concluded with an emotional apology to his children, Andrea and John.

"I just want to say to one very special young woman and young man how sorry I am for letting them down, or many others like them. Have courage, we are not defeated and we will not be. I will find some way, I promise you, to continue on," he said.

Thus ended an extraordinary late-night television session in which Hart took full responsibility for the "serious mistake" of keeping company with Miami model Donna Rice. Questions about his relationship with Miss Rice led to Hart's withdrawal last May 8, at a time when he was the prohibitive front-runner for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"I made a serious mistake. I should not have been in the company of any woman who was not a friend of mine or my wife," Hart said. "I should not have been with Miss Rice."

"I am totally and fully responsible for my own actions and I want to say to everyone how sorry I am. I want to apologize to you for those actions," Hart said.

Hart has stayed out of the public spotlight since his withdrawal from the race, and his appearance on the television program marked the beginning of his re-emergence as a public figure. He said he plans to meet later today with New York Gov. Mario Cuomo, and has scheduled a speech in Philadelphia on Thursday that marks the start of a series of such addresses.

Asked by interviewer Tom Koppel whether he had an affair with Miss Rice, Hart refused to answer directly.

"If the question is in the 29 years of my marriage, including two public separations, have I been absolutely and totally faithful to my wife, I regret to say the answer is no," Hart said on "Nightline."

But the question of whether he had committed adultery with Miss Rice remained unanswered.

Hart said he was "never going to answer any specific questions about any individuals. I have no privacy. My wife has privacy. Other innocent people have privacy. And I don't care what questions are asked me, I'm not going to answer them on any specific instance."

"I've been forced to make a declaration here that I think is unprecedented in American political history, and I regret it. That question should never have been asked, and I shouldn't have to answer it."

Later, Hart said to interviewer Tom Koppel, "We've been talking about sin here tonight, not crime, but sin and bad judgment."

Time and again he referred to sin. "The Bible says that being unfaithful is a sin," he said. "It also says we are all sinners. ... And it says further that one of the greatest sins is to waste God-given talent. I've been given some talents. And what I've realized in the last three months is that I cannot waste those talents."

"And I've got to figure out a way to contribute."

Hart also delivered a lecture to Koppel on the propriety of the question.

"I've been forced to make a declaration here that I think is unprecedented in American political history, and I regret it. That question should never have been asked, and I shouldn't have to answer it. I will say to you this, and I would say this to the national press corps: never ask another candidate that question. It isn't anybody else's business."

As for his political future, Hart said that while he has no plans to run for president, "I want to be part of this debate. ... I'm going to give speeches and I am going to have an impact," said the man who ran a surprisingly strong race for the 1984 Democratic nomination before losing out to Walter F. Mondale.

"I'm not going to create a campaign organization. I'm not going to raise money. I'm not going to hire a pollster. ... And I hope, by getting what I think are irrelevant issues behind us, and certainly focusing on what is a real issue — and that is the privacy of political leaders — so we do get the best leadership for this country — I can make that contribution. And that's all I want to do."

He recalled that he had refused last spring to answer the question of whether he had ever committed adultery.

"If the question is in the 29 years of my marriage, including two public separations, have I been absolutely and totally faithful to my wife, I regret to say the answer is no," Hart said on "Nightline."

However, Hart may have taken an important step toward salvaging his political career. There was no moving forward for Hart without first confronting the past. That he did, though not as completely as some would have liked.

Robert G. Beckel, who was Mondale's campaign manager, also said that Hart's effort "to get himself reinvolved in the dialogue" would run up against the political reality that the active candidates would be dominating the scene with a series of debates and other appearances.

"I don't think Hart's going to have much to say or do about this election," Beckel said. "It may not be fair, but that's just the way it works."

T. Clark Hull is certainly one of a kind

Judge T. Clark Hull of Danbury says his nomination to the state Supreme Court is the "capstone" of his career.

Well, as capstones go, this certainly qualifies as one in the long list of appointments and nominations Gov. Bill O'Neill has made during nearly seven years in office.

He would be all that even if his credentials in law and as a jurist were the only test. But Clark Hull is one of a kind as a person, too. He has never let his scholarly grasp of the law stand in the way of his zest for life.

"I'm a high-spirited guy," he acknowledged the other day when I caught him by phone at home on his way out to play tennis (he's 66).

Hull's reputation as a bright, quick study of the law and matters before his bench got its start when he was on the Judiciary Committee of the Legislature as a senator from Danbury. "He could walk into the middle of a meeting and get what it was all about immediately," recalls J. Brian Gaffney of New Britain, an attorney who was in the House then.

Much of the state's penal code is Hull's work. I can recall finding a shirt-steved Sen. Hull closeted in a State Capitol committee room on a late summer evening — before air conditioning — grinding away at that project of revising the criminal statutes.

But Hull's ability with the books was never as well known as his image as an irrepressible, witty and very funny extrovert having one whole of a time.

Capitol Comments

to mobilize the Governor's Foot Guard and Horse Guard, whose colorful uniforms really knocked him out, and "invade Massachusetts."

His friends say the upcoming tour on the Supreme Court may cramp his style a bit, but not totally. "Clark will be Clark," predicts former House Speaker Fran Collins of Brookfield, an attorney and longtime Hull fan. "He isn't giving up life." Collins added.

What Hull is giving up, however, is a career-long, deep desire to be governor of Connecticut. He used a kid himself publicly about sitting by the phone at home, waiting for it to ring with the call to go for it. Hull wanted that job so he could taste it. My source? None other than Hull himself, in a confidence one day at the State Capitol during a party marking his departure from active politics as a new appointee to the Superior Court bench.

And while the dream never faded — it was still alive early in 1986 though Judge Hull could do nothing to encourage it — he has come to grips with reality. "That's one we will simply have to put to rest," he said in that recent phone conversation.

Topeka, Kan. (AP) — Alf M. Landon, who turned 100 today, predicts a lively race for the 1988 GOP presidential nomination, an event "I don't want to miss."

Landon, whose own White House bid in 1936 ended in an overwhelming defeat by President Franklin Roosevelt, said in his annual Associated Press interview Tuesday, "I think it's too early to pick a winner. But I predict it's going to be entertaining."

The former Kansas governor and the oldest of the GOP's elder statesmen was to spend his birthday more quietly than he spent Sunday, when President and Mrs. Reagan came to Topeka to pay tribute and help him blow out a single candle on a cake shaped like an elephant, the symbol of the Republican Party.

Today, Landon was expected to receive a telephone call from Vice President George Bush, as well as a visit from an old political antagonist, former New York Congressman Hamilton Fish.

Fish, who had opposed Landon's bid for the GOP nomination for president in 1936, will be 99 years old in December.

Landon's daughter, Sen. Nancy L. Kassebaum, R-Kan., was to deliver a Landon lecture at Kansas State University today, and a video tape of her speech was to be brought to Landon to watch.

He recalled that he had refused last spring to answer the question of whether he had ever committed adultery.

"If the question is in the 29 years of my marriage, including two public separations, have I been absolutely and totally faithful to my wife, I regret to say the answer is no," Hart said on "Nightline."

However, Hart may have taken an important step toward salvaging his political career. There was no moving forward for Hart without first confronting the past. That he did, though not as completely as some would have liked.

Quarry decision possible

By Bruce Matzkin
Herald Reporter

BOLTON — The Zoning Board of Appeals will meet Thursday night to possibly decide whether the Bolton Notch Quarry should be permitted to operate in a residential zone.

Last week, the board heard arguments from lawyers representing American Heritage Stone Inc., the current owner of the quarry, and the Bolton Zoning Commission, which in May 1986 denied the quarry's annual permit. Several of the 15 residents present spoke up, most of whom complained about the quarry.

ZBA Chairman John H. Roberts said that the public hearing has been closed. He said that he doesn't know if a decision will be reached Thursday, because the board has to sort out a lot of technical information presented by the two sides. It is likely that the ZBA will ask the lawyers for clarification of some of the complicated legal points, Roberts said.

Mark Brane, the attorney for the quarry owner, told the ZBA last week that the decision should not be based on the residents' feelings about the quarry.

"It makes no difference if every man, woman, and child doesn't want a quarry on this site," Brane told the ZBA. "The only thing being decided is if this quarry is permitted under the facts of this case and the laws of this town."

Brane argued last week that the Bolton Notch Quarry is permitted to quarry in the residential zone. He said that when former owner David C. Buck submitted his 1983 permit application, the Zoning Commission requested a map of the site. The map showed that quarrying was being done in the residential zone and the Zoning Commission, after reviewing the map, made permanent the temporary permit that was issued before the map was supplied.

Buck's firm, Box Mountain Quarries Inc., owned the quarry from October 1982 until its recent sale to American Heritage Stone Inc.

Brane cited a letter from 1983 from Dooley to Buck which said that the right to quarry in the residential zone had been established, since previous owners had always done so. Brane said that the denial of the 1986 permit application, which was the same as the three previous years, showed that the Zoning Commission members simply changed their minds in midstream. "For reasons we don't understand and probably never will."

Mitchell Kallet, the attorney for the Zoning Commission, argued that the 1983 permit was issued because the Zoning Commission thought quarrying was being done only in the industrial zone. Kallet told the ZBA, "If you can buy that, I've got some land in Florida for sale."

The other argument was over whether quarrying could be a legal, non-conforming use. To be considered non-conforming, Kallet said, the quarrying operation predated regulations which made it a non-permitted use. Brane said this took place in 1982 or earlier.

Brane said Tuesday that he is confident the ZBA will permit that quarrying is permitted in the residential zone. "I think they will approach this factually and rationally, and not be persuaded by any of the emotional arguments," said Brane.

Kallet declined to comment Tuesday.

Post office hunt narrows

U.S. Postal Service officials have narrowed the search for a site for a new central post office in Manchester to one site, a postal spokeswoman said this morning.

The spokeswoman, Linda Crabtree, refused to name the site or say whether other ones had been considered. She said the postal service is negotiating with the owner of the property. She did not know when those negotiations would be concluded.

The search for a new post office was prompted by a shortage of space in the main office and a delivery center on Broad Street.

Smoke slows fight against West fires

HAYFORK, Calif. (AP) — Dense smoke from blazes that have charred more than half a million acres across the state prompted health warnings and crippled efforts to build fire lines around the 163 fires still uncontained today.

At least 22,000 firefighters were continuing to battle flames that had consumed more than 640,000 acres in California and Oregon, said Mickey Coover, a spokeswoman at the Interagency Fire Center in Boise, Idaho.

"That's the only place we really have fire going. We have very little other commitment or activity elsewhere," Ms. Coover said late Tuesday.

Since Aug. 23, fires started mostly by lightning have blackened more than 1,000 square miles in eight Western states.

In California, 1,081 fires had been extinguished or controlled except for hot spots, John Carter of the Joint federal-state fire information center in Sacramento said early today. He said 163 fires remain uncontained by fire lines.

Fifty people remained under evacuation orders in the Tuolumne area, where the state's largest fire blackened more than 129,000 acres of the Stanislaus National Forest, Carter said. About 670 other people may be staying away from homes in areas where officials recommended evacuations, he said.

"The weather changed, unfortunately not in our favor," he said. "It got hotter and dryer and the wind came up. What happened before we had a major fire was that we were able to get a lot more work done and strengthen containment lines."

With no vehicles allowed in the wilderness area, firefighters used hand tools to clear fire breaks.

Officials said their highest priority was here in the Shasta-Trinity national forests region, where a cluster of fires grew slightly Tuesday to more than 63,000 acres.

In the Klamath National Forest, 49 fires had consumed more than 117,000 acres and destroyed seven of the 38 California homes lost in the blazes.

Since the fires began, 97 structures have been destroyed, three firefighters have died in accidents and 10 firefighters have been injured, dozens suffering from smoke inhalation, said spokesman Art Wrinks of the Sacramento fire command.

About 1.2 billion board-feet of lumber worth about $120 million has been lost in the national forests, according to Ray Weinmann of the Forest Service in San Francisco.

State health chief Kenneth Kizer said the smoke had created air pollution levels hundreds of times above acceptable standards in Siskiyou County and other areas.

He warned people near the worst fires — especially the young, elderly, and those suffering from respiratory and heart problems — to remain indoors and avoid unnecessary exertion.

Forest Service spokeswoman Pat Irwin said the Klamath area was so filled with smoke that trucks had to inch along behind a man carrying a flashlight. Firefighters' helicopters and air tankers were grounded Tuesday for a second straight day.

Area men join battle

A Bolton man and an Andover man are among 19 National Forest Fire Crew members from Connecticut and Rhode Island who were activated Sept. 1 to help fight fires in the Umpqua National Forest in Oregon.

Steven Bates of 41 Hebron Road, Bolton, and Robert Rocks of Boston Hill Road, Andover, arrived in Roseburg, Ore., Wednesday, Sept. 2, about 4 a.m. Bates works for the state's Department of Environmental Protection while working out of his home. Rocks is with the DEP's forestry bureau.

Along with the rest of the Rhode Island-Connecticut crew, the two went directly to the Apple Fire Complex, one of 33 fires under command of the North Umpqua National Forest Unified Command.

Peter Babcock, the DEP's forest fire-control officer, said last week that the crew would be in the area for about two weeks.

Bates' father, Stanley Bates, said he was proud that his son is not worried about his job.

"I have no particular feelings about it. He's very prepared for the job, and he's very interested in forestry and fire control."

Stanley Bates was himself a forester in Oregon, after graduating from college with a degree in forestry.

"That's where his interests come from," he said of his son. He said he expects him home Sunday.

The Rocks family could not be reached this morning.

Homart wants more time to finish open-space plan

The Homart Development Corp. of Chicago is asking for more time to prepare its final open-space plan, said Robert Hanlon, Manchester senior planner.

Joseph LeBuc, a senior development director for Homart, said the company would seek an additional 60- to 90-day extension. He said the company has three landscaping firms to help with the plans.

LeBuc said the firm's work would be asked tonight to authorize the proposed Mall at Buckland Hills, which will ask the Planning and Zoning Commission tonight for more time to prepare its final open-space plan, said Robert Hanlon, Manchester senior planner.

NFL players set strike date

By David Ginsburg
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The upcoming NFL season will be halted after two games if the league's union and management do not make significant progress in contract negotiations over the next two weeks.

The NFL Players Association on Tuesday set a strike deadline for Sept. 22, one day after the conclusion of the second week of the regular season. (Gene Upshaw, executive director of the union, said the walkout date was set by the Management Council to the bargaining table.)

"Management left us no choice but to set a strike date," Upshaw said. "By setting a deadline we hope to get management to talk to us."

The announcement came after a meeting between the union executive board and most of the league's 28 player representatives. Upshaw said the vote to set a strike date was unanimous and it was 24-0 on the Sept. 22 date.

The two sides have met for just 4½ hours since Aug. 14 and the contract expired Aug. 31. Regardless of which side is at fault, if there isn't a movement soon toward a settlement there will be a strike, the union said.

"Unless there is significant progress I just can't see us moving the date," NFLPA assistant executive director Mark Murphy said. "Management would have to show they were willing to negotiate. They haven't so far."

Upshaw, asked if the date could be moved, said, "At this point the date is there, but everything is negotiable."

The current deadline is the same as it was five years ago, when the players struck after the second week of the regular season. The walkout lasted 87 days, eliminating seven games of the 16-game regular season.

The last four negotiations with the union have resulted in strikes, a fact that has not gone unnoticed by Jack Donlan, executive director of the Management Council.

"The history of this union is to get negotiations in crisis," Donlan said in a prepared statement. "They've never had a negotiation without a five-hitter Tuesday night and Santana snapped a 2-2 sixth-inning tie with a two-run single as the Mets moved to within 2½ games of first place in the National League East with a 5-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

The second-place Mets fought through fog, drizzle, and two rain delays — totaling 1:50 — to gain a win on the division-leading St. Louis Cardinals, who lost 4-1 to the Montreal Expos.

"A lot of good things happened out there," Mets manager Davey Johnson said. "I don't even know what I look at when the Cardinals did to required surgery. "The first inning, I didn't have any rhythm. I felt like I never left."

By Ojeda, who won 18 games in 32 starts last year, pointed out that he's still not ready to start. "I'll be ready when I feel I can go a strong seven innings," he said.

Ojeda, pitching with 2½ leads, was hit by a batter in the sixth. He struck out Juan Samuel on three pitches.

Four Mets pitchers — Sid Fernandez, Bob Ojeda, Terry Letcher, and Doug Sisk — combined on a earned run in 25 1/3 innings.

Oakland took the lead in the third inning when Luis Polonia led off with a home run. He was hit by a pitch when he swung at a ball that struck him in the head.

The Rangers scored five times to take the lead on a fielder's-choice grounder. In the Yankees ninth, Dan Pasqua hit an RBI single and pinch-hitter Claudell Washington hit a three-run homer, his ninth.

White Sox 4, Twins 3
Gary Redus broke out of a three-game slump with three hits including a two-run homer, to buck the combined eight-hit pitching of Fred Lennie and Bobby Thigpen as visiting Chicago topped Minnesota, 4, 1. It was only the Twins' 23rd loss in 71 home games.

Red Sox 8, Yankees 6
Todd Beninger's three-run homer in the sixth inning gave the Yankees a 3-1 lead and the Red Sox over New York in a rain-delayed game at Boston. The game was held up for two hours, 24 minutes with no outs in the bottom of the fourth. After play resumed, Beninger connected with two outs scored the winning run. Rain again halted play in the top of the seventh for another 30 minutes. Boston starter Al Nipper, 9-11, got the victory and is 3-0 against the Yankees since Bill Gullikson, 2-1, was the loser.

Following the first rain delay and with a runner on first, Pete Filson replaced Gullikson and got the next two batters on forecasts at second. But third baseman Mike Pagliaro pitched Jim Rice, who hit a double play. Schmidt went after a 2-1 edge when he hit a home run behind 1-0 in the first when Samuel led off with a homer.

Sisk pitched scoreless, one-hit relief over the final three innings for his third save.

by lining a 1-1 fastball to left field. "Ruffin's pitches had great movement," Phillies manager Lee Ellis said. "He threw only two straight pitches all night — the one to Santana, and the gopher ball to McReynolds."

McReynolds' 25th homer, a two-run shot in the fourth, gave the Mets a 2-1 edge over New York. He led behind 1-0 in the first when Samuel led off with a homer.

Sisk pitched scoreless, one-hit relief over the final three innings for his third save.

Mets close in on Cardinals with pitching help

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — One by one from the disabled list, the New York Mets starting pitchers return to the rotation, and each successful comeback sends a disturbing message to their rivals.

When Charlie Hough is on the mound, the Oakland Athletics have a trouble hitting him and Gene Petralli has trouble catching him.

The Texas knuckleball pitcher held the Athletics to just three hits Tuesday night as the Rangers clubbed Oakland 12-1. The A's lone run scored on one of the unassisted hits.

The catcher made up for it in the Texas fourth when the Rangers scored five times to take the lead on a fielder's-choice grounder. In the Yankees ninth, Dan Pasqua hit an RBI single and pinch-hitter Claudell Washington hit a three-run homer, his ninth.

White Sox 4, Twins 3
Gary Redus broke out of a three-game slump with three hits including a two-run homer, to buck the combined eight-hit pitching of Fred Lennie and Bobby Thigpen as visiting Chicago topped Minnesota, 4, 1. It was only the Twins' 23

Sukova lone winner at rain-delayed U.S. Open

By Barry Wilner
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Helena Sukova read some magazines, nibbled at some fruit and watched a little television. She did those things for nearly 4 1/2 hours.

Sukova also played some tennis when the rain held off long enough to permit it. And the sixth seed became the only winner Tuesday at the U.S. Open with a 6-1, 6-3 victory over No. 9 Claudia Kohde-Kilsch of West Germany.

The Sukova-Kohde-Kilsch match was the only one completed as the poor weather wrecked the Open schedule. Other seeded players got out to the court included Sweden's Stefan Edberg and Mats Wilander, the No. 2 and No. 3 seeds, respectively.

Edberg led countryman Jonas Svensson 5-2, 5-1 when the fourth-round match was postponed. Wilander was beating Ken Flach 6-3, 6-4 when their match was halted.

Those matches were to resume today. Also scheduled were fourth-round men's matches between No. 5 Miloslav Mecir of Czechoslovakia and Mark Woodford of Australia, and Andre Chesnokov of the Soviet Union against Ramesh Krishnan of India.

A pair of men's quarterfinal matchups featured No. 6 Jimmy Connors meeting No. 13 Brad Gilbert at night, top-seeded Czechoslovak Ivan Lendl against No. 8 John McEnroe.

The other three women's quarterfinals were scheduled for today. Second-seeded Martina Navratilova faced No. 8 Gabriela Sabatini of Argentina, with the winner headed for a semifinal showdown with Sukova. Top-seeded Steffi Graf of West Germany played the Open in a slump. After surprising Navratilova in the finals of the Eastbourne grass court tournament that serves as a Wimbledon warm-up, she lost to Pam Shriver in the quarterfinals at Wimbledon.

"Wimbledon was very disappointing. It is impossible to describe how it feels," Sukova said. "I felt I should have beaten Pam. A win could have helped me more than it didn't help me by losing to her."

"I started playing badly when I came to this country. I did not do well in Los Angeles or Toronto or Mahwah."

She wasn't thrilled with the state of her game earlier in this tournament, either. A first-round struggle against Melissa Grunert, which she won 6-7, 6-4, she only emphasized her troubles.

"Last year, I came over here very confident. And having to come again very early today was maybe a little too much."

Kohde-Kilsch never got untroubled against the hard-serving Czechoslovak. She was untroubled, the conditions and the effects of her match with Navratilova.

"It was the toughest conditions I've ever played in," she said. "Coming over on the court and watching for hours, and then to lose it." The Giants manager said Tuesday night after his team defeated second-place Houston 6-4.

"If we had lost tonight, it would have been a real tough moment for tomorrow (Wednesday) and the rest of the season."

The Giants, who lost to the Astros on Monday night, regained their 5 1/2-game lead when Mike Aldrete hit a two-run double with two outs in the ninth inning. Houston rallied from a 4-0 deficit to tie the score in the seventh.

"The kid showed he could handle pressure," Craig said of Aldrete. "It was the biggest hit of the year."

Astros second baseman Bill Doran, who keyed the Houston rally in the seventh with a two-run double, said a loss in tonight's game would probably kill the Astros' chances.

"If we lose, the Giants pretty much have to collapse and with their pitching staff, you can't expect them to do that," Doran said.

Kevin Mitchell had a two-run homer and scored another run with a walk, two stolen bases and a throwing error, helping the Giants take their 4-0 lead.

San Francisco starter Mike Krukow took a three-hit shutout into the seventh. But Doran's two-run double and Bill Russell's RBI single in the eighth tied the score and buoyed Houston's hopes for a series sweep that would

Craig feeling good about Giants' prospects

Roger Craig is feeling pretty good about the San Francisco Giants' chances in the National League West.

"They've got to play .800 ball and we've got to fall flat on our face to lose it," the Giants manager said Tuesday night after his team defeated second-place Houston 6-4.

Dodgers 5, Reds 3
Franklin Stubbs broke out of a long slump with two hits and three RBIs as Los Angeles beat Cincinnati for its second victory in 12 games. Stubbs, who has no hits in his 33 previous at-bats, keyed a four-run third inning with a two-run triple. He singled home another run in the sixth.

Breves 4, Padres 2
Dale Murphy knocked in all four runs in a three-run eighth and home run and sacrifice fly and Pete Smith held San Diego to three hits in the first eight innings of his first major-league appearance.

Smith did not allow a baserunner until John Kruk beat out a bounce to short for a single with two outs in the fourth. Smith fired in Dan Gullett giving up three more hits, including an RBI single to Chris Brown, before Jim Acker got the last out for his ninth save.

Murphy's homer off Ed Whitton, 10-11, in the first inning, was his 38th of the season, one more than his previous high in 1985.

Pirates 4, Cubs 1
Pittsburgh's superb Frank Lucchesi's managerial debut for Chicago came when Mike Diaz and R.J. Reynolds hit run-scoring singles in the eighth inning, breaking a 1-1 tie.

Mexican-born pitcher Vicente Palacios earned his first major-league victory, with eight innings of six-hit pitching. Palacios was making his first start for the Pirates since he was called up from Vancouver, where he was 13-1. Lucchesi was named interim Cubs manager earlier Tuesday, replacing Gene Michael, who resigned.

Pittsburgh's Barry Bonds has a smile on his face as he steals second base in Chicago Tuesday in the fifth inning as the Cubs' Shawn Dunston goes for the tag. The Pirates won, 4-1.

Lunch bags pack a puzzle for all moms

Even dietitians wonder how to create a pleasing menu

By Nancy Pappas Herald Reporter

It's a question that every mom in America has heard as the kids slide into the breakfast table: "Hey, Mom, what did you pack me for lunch?" Here's an absolute given: No matter what you've packed, you're likely to hear a resounding "Yuck!" They liked tuna fish just last week? Today they disdain it. Sliced turkey and egg salad are usually favorites? This morning the kids are turning up their noses.

Preparing lunches can be a problem, even if the mom in question is a professional nutritionist. "It's not my favorite part of the day," admitted Peggy Grogan, the nutrition consultant for the Manchester public schools and mother of four. A recent nationwide survey found that 25 million school children carry lunches several times each week. This survey, by Roper Inc., determined that about 3 billion lunches are carried to school in the course of a single American school year.

GREGAN CONSIDERS herself fortunate. When her children are not buying the school lunches that she helps to plan, there are at least four things she can count on their eating: sliced turkey, chicken, peanut butter or tuna fish on whole-wheat bread.

But some kids get stuck in a rut. "We recently heard about a girl who ate nothing for lunch but salami — and I do mean nothing — until she was about 9 years old," said Grogan. "Talk about a picky eater!"

Susan Frampton, a community health educator at Manchester Memorial Hospital, has one answer for the lunch box lament: She lets her 8-year-old daughter, Melissa, pack her own lunches. Melissa generally puts in yogurt or a sandwich — peanut butter and jelly or ham and cheese — a cookie, fruit roll-up or granola bar, and some fruits and vegetables.

"That's where she really goes to town. She really gets carried away," said Frampton. On a typical day, Melissa will put a plum, a peach, a banana, some chopped cucumber and a few other veggies into her lunch box. "I have to take out some of those things before she goes to school," said her mother. "That's really more than one child can eat at lunch."

MOST PARENTS aren't so fortunate in their "problems." Children may want to load up on bags of potato chips, caramel-dipped popcorn, chocolate-dipped granola bars, and candies coated with yogurt.

"It's a shame to see perfectly awful things masquerading as nutritious foods," said Frampton. "I don't care for chocolate-dipped anything, or yogurt-dipped candies. Parents see the word 'fruit' on a label, so they think they can substitute it for a real fruit."

On the other hand, Frampton does not object to fruit roll-ups or the small treats known as fruit wrinkles or fruit funs, so long as they are handled as desserts. Desserts and other lunch box treats seem to be a sore subject between children and their parents. Some families permit salty items, such as pretzels and potato chips, but steer clear of the sweets.

For Grogan, a complete lunch includes the sandwich, fresh or canned fruit, carrot sticks and a "treat." The treats may include cookies, such as oatmeal-raisin or peanut butter with M&Ms, homemade blueberry muffins, an extra piece of fruit or some ice cream money.

Frampton suggests popcorn or raisins as "goodies." She never buys products such as packaged cupcakes because she sees no nutritional value in them. And she doesn't permit potato chips, because they have too much salt.

JAN HORN, the president of the Connecticut Dietetics Association, has been preparing lunches for her older son, Benjamin, for several years. The problem in her house is compounded because the Temple Beth Shalom nursery school, which he attends, requires that children bring only dairy foods.

"We've put together a lot of cheese sandwiches. And yogurt is popular with many smaller children," said Horn.

Children seem willing to eat peanut butter with any number of other ingredients. We've heard about kids munching down peanut butter with apples, raisins, walnuts, sliced bananas, mayonnaise and purple onions, bacon, dry-roasted peanuts and even jalapeno peppers!

And what will be packed to wash down all of that peanut butter? Frampton objects to juice boxes because the consumer ends up paying $1 for about 24 ounces of juice, and a lot of packaging. In other forms, $1 will frequently buy 64 ounces of juice, or more.

On the other hand, Grogan doesn't mind juice boxes — so long as they truly are juice. "So many people do not realize that the juice drinks are not the same as juices, and that the drink is not an alternative to the juice," she said. Juice drinks usually contain about 10 percent juice, with the rest being flavorings and water.

Even those juice drinks with added vitamin C do not seem like a good value to Grogan. "They're fortifying it with vitamin C, and that's fine. But what about all the other nutrients you could be getting from a real juice?"

Here are some ideas for loading up lunch boxes. The first is great when your tour through the refrigerator brings up little in the way of ingredients.

Vegetable-cheese spread
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese
1/2 cup chopped cherry tomatoes

1/2 cup chopped green pepper
Dry basil and salt to taste
Combine all ingredients and spread on a whole grained bread.

Chili-cheese twists
1 cup flour
1 teaspoon chili powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon cayenne pepper (omit for most children)
4 tablespoons butter
1/2 pound sharp Cheddar cheese
4 tablespoons sour cream

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. In mixing bowl, combine flour, chili powder, salt and cayenne pepper. If using it, cut butter into mixture until it resembles coarse meal. Add cheese. Stir to mix. Stir in sour cream and press to form dough.

Roll out onto lightly floured surface, into a rectangle that's about 16-by-10 inches. Cut 1/2 inch long strips. Bend each of these in half and twist. Place on lightly greased baking sheets. Bake in the preheated oven for 10 minutes, or until lightly browned. Makes about 3 1/2 dozen, which may be frozen or used right away. Allow three per serving.

Tuna with a twist
17-ounce can tuna, drained
2 tablespoons shelled sunflower seeds
1 cup chopped celery or cucumber
2 tablespoons lowfat yogurt
1 tablespoon mayonnaise
1 tablespoon fresh dill, or 1 teaspoon dried dill
3 bagels

Combine all ingredients, except the bagels. Mix well. Split open bagels, toast if desired, divide tuna mixture among the three. Wrap well in plastic wrap.

Keep cool to keep safe

Kids' tastes vary, but everyone agrees lunches need to be kept as cool as possible to ensure safety.

The newest crop of lunch boxes this year are padded, laminated tote bags with zippers along three sides. They are insulated to keep yogurt and juices cold.

To play it safe, the U.S. Department of Agriculture suggests adding one of the new sealed, mini-sized freezer packs to the lunch box. These can be refrozen each night. Manchester grocery and drug stores carry them. They cost 79 cents to $1.25.

A gift from your garden is a most welcome gift

A gift from your garden is welcome by any hostess. Of course, your family can also enjoy these tasty treats. Pickles, relish, or a spicy chutney may be just the right thing to add to an otherwise lackluster meal and give it a special touch of excitement.

The recipes suggested all use fresh fruits and vegetables which your garden may have supplied in abundance. This will be a wonderful way to use some of the garden produce which may now be in over-supply. If not, your local store can provide you with the necessary fruits and vegetables at a reasonable price at this time of year.

tional methods, these homemade specialties have a true and natural flavor. They make a lovely gift when presented in an attractive jar or bottle.

These pickles and relishes are prepared in quick pickling liquid, and are packed into sterilized jars after microwaving. They are not pressure- or water-bath-canned, so they require refrigeration after preparation until they are served.

Although the actual food items to be preserved can be prepared in the microwave oven, the microwave is not recommended for sterilizing or processing jars.

Antipasto jar
Pickling liquid:
1 cup water
1/2 cup cider vinegar
1 tablespoon salt
1 tablespoon vegetable oil

Three cups fresh vegetables; use a combination of the following to equal 3 cups:
broccoli florets and stalks sliced 1/2-inch thick
brussels sprouts (1/2 pound) cut lengthwise
sliced carrots, 1/2-inch thick
1/2 cup water

One cup fresh vegetables; use a combination of the following to equal 1 cup:
fresh whole mushrooms, 1 inch in diameter
green or ripe olives
green pepper, cut into 1-inch pieces
sliced cucumber

Garnish: add to one or more of the following:
1 lemon slice

1 bay leaf
1 sprig fresh dill, basil or oregano
Mix pickling liquid in a 4 cup measure. Microwave at high 3 1/2 to 5 1/2 minutes, or until boiling, stirring after half of the time.

Combine desired 3 cups of vegetables in a 2-quart casserole. Add 1/2 cup of water. Cover. Microwave at high for 2 to 4 minutes, or until color of vegetables intensifies, stirring once. Place immediately under cold running water to cool. Drain and add remaining 1 cup of vegetables.

Pack vegetables into sterilized 1-quart jar, layering if desired. Include choice of garnish. Pour pickling liquid over vegetables; cover. Refrigerate 2 to 3 days before serving. Store in refrigerator for no longer than 1 month.

Watermelon pickles
1 pound watermelon rind
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup cider vinegar
1 tablespoon crystallized ginger

2 teaspoons grated fresh orange peel
4 whole cloves
1 stick cinnamon
Trim dark outer green skin from the rind. Cut trimmed rind into 1-inch pieces. (Yields 3 cups.) Place pieces in a 1 1/2-quart casserole. Add sugar, tossing to coat. Cover and let stand overnight.

Stir in vinegar, ginger, orange peel and cloves. Add cinnamon. Microwave, uncovered, at high for 10 to 13 minutes, or until pieces are transparent, stirring every 3 minutes. Remove cinnamon stick. Spoon into hot sterilized 1 pint jar; cover. Refrigerate 1 week before serving. Store in refrigerator no longer than 1 month. Makes 1 pint.

Cabbage relish
2 1/2 cups shredded green or red cabbage
1/2 cup chopped red onion
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1 cup white vinegar
2/3 cup sugar

2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon celery seed
1/2 teaspoon mustard seed
1/2 teaspoon ground tumeric
In a medium bowl, combine: cabbage, red onion, green pepper. Divide mixture evenly between two sterilized 1-pint jars. Set aside.

In a 4-cup glass measure combine vinegar, sugar, salt, celery seed, mustard seed and tumeric. Microwave at high for 2 to 4 minutes, or until boiling, stirring after half of the time to dissolve the sugar and salt. Divide between the two jars; cover. Refrigerate 1 week before serving. Store in a refrigerator for no longer than 1 month.

Beef and cheese buns

1/2 pound lean ground beef
1/2 cup chopped green pepper
1/2 cups tomato sauce
1/2 of a 1.3-ounce envelope dry onion soup mix (1/2 cup)
1/2 teaspoon dried oregano, crushed
1/2 teaspoon dried basil, crushed
1/2 cup low-fat cottage cheese, drained
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
8 individual 6-inch French-style rolls

In a skillet cook meat and green pepper until meat is brown; drain off fat. Stir in tomato sauce, soup mix, oregano and basil. Bring to boiling; reduce heat. Cover and simmer 5 minutes. Combine cottage cheese and Parmesan. Cut a thin slice off the top of each roll. Use a fork to hollow out the bottoms of the rolls, leaving 1/4-inch shells. (Save excess bread for another use.) Spoon half the meat mixture into the roll bottoms. Spoon cheese mixture over meat. Top with remaining meat mixture; cover with roll tops. Wrap individually in foil or place on a baking sheet and cover with foil. Bake in a 400-degree oven 20 to 25 minutes or until hot. Makes 8 servings.

Lemon pickle relish

3 cups chopped seeded cucumber
1 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped sweet red pepper
1/2 cup water
2 tablespoons pickling salt
1 teaspoon crushed red pepper
2 lemons, seeded and cut up
1/2 cup cider vinegar
1/2 cup sugar
1 teaspoon whole cloves
1 teaspoon mustard seed
1 teaspoon celery seed
1/2 teaspoon ground turmeric

Combine cucumber, onion, sweet pepper, water, salt and crushed red pepper. Cover and chill 2 hours. Drain vegetables; rinse with cold water and drain again. Grind lemons in blender container or food grinder. In Dutch oven combine 1 cup of the lemon, the vinegar, sugar, cloves, mustard seed, celery seed and turmeric. Bring to boiling. Reduce heat; simmer, covered, 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Add vegetables; simmer 5 to 10 minutes more. Ladle into hot, clean half-pint jars, leaving 1/2-inch headspace. Adjust lids. Process in boiling water bath 5 minutes (start timing when water boils). Makes 6 half-pints.

Ray Jamieson's hot sauce

1 large onion, chopped (1 cup)
1 medium green pepper, chopped (1/2 cup)
1/2 stalk of celery, chopped (1/2 cup)
2 cloves garlic, minced
2 tablespoons margarine or butter
15-ounce can tomato-herb sauce
1 cup tomato juice
1/2 of a 6-ounce can (1-3rd cup) tomato paste
3 to 4 tablespoons lemon juice
1/2 lemon slice
2 teaspoons crushed red pepper
1/2 teaspoon pepper
Few dashes bottled hot pepper sauce
1/2 cup corn whiskey (optional)

In a 3-quart saucepan cook onion, green pepper, celery and garlic in margarine until tender but not brown. Add tomato-herb sauce, tomato juice and tomato paste. Bring to boiling; reduce heat. Simmer, uncovered, 15 minutes. Add lemon juice, lemon slice, red pepper, pepper and hot pepper sauce. Cook, uncovered, 15 minutes more. Stir in whiskey. Cook, covered, 15 minutes more or until heated through. Cool. Strain through sieve; discard solids. Makes about 2 cups.

Simple salmon salad

10-ounce package frozen peas
10-ounce package frozen rice
4 ounces Swiss cheese, cubed
1/2 teaspoon dried dillweed
7/8-ounce can salmon, drained, skin and bones removed, broken into chunks
2 cups spinach leaves
1/2 cup shredded carrot
1/2 cup creamy cucumber salad dressing

Place peas in a colander under cold running water for 2 min. tes to thaw. Place rice pouch under warm running water until mixture can be broken up, about 5 minutes. Toss together rice, peas, cheese and dillweed. Add salmon; toss lightly. Line 4 plates with spinach; place salmon mixture on top. Arrange carrot around edge. Pass dressing. Makes 4 servings.

Chocolate banana bread

1 cup all-purpose flour
1/2 cup whole wheat flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
2/3 cup sugar
1/3 cup margarine or butter, softened
2 eggs
2 tablespoons milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 cup mashed ripe banana
2/3 cup flaked coconut pieces

In a mixing bowl stir together all-purpose and whole wheat flours, baking powder, soda and salt; set aside. In a small mixer bowl beat sugar and margarine with electric mixer until light, scraping sides of bowl often. Add eggs, one at a time; beat well after each addition. Stir in milk and vanilla. Add flour mixture and banana alternately to sugar mixture, beating until smooth after each addition. Fold in coconut and chocolate pieces. Turn batter into a lightly greased 9-by-5-by-3-inch loaf pan. Bake in a 350-degree oven 45 to 50 minutes or until a wooden toothpick inserted near center comes out clean. Cool 10 minutes. Remove from pan; cool on wire rack. For easy slicing, wrap loaf in foil and refrigerate overnight. Makes 1 loaf, 20 slices.

It's a duet, but he wears the apron

By Anita M. Caldwell
Herald Reporter

Though Jay T. Hostetter wears the pants in his house, he also wears the apron. Jay and his wife, Patience, of 94 Plymouth Lane, have been a duet in the kitchen for 17 years but Patience admitted he's the real cook.

"I polish the silver, do the floral arrangements and prepare the hors d'oeuvres," said Patience. "Who wants to have 14 people for dinner and serve meat loaf?"

Patience pointed out that her mother prepared exotic meals and zippy dishes for the family when Patience was growing up. Jay's mother, on the other hand, preferred cooking plainer fare. The unusual twist in their tastes has made for lively family gatherings and parties.

"You just can't make a hamburger," Patience said, looking affectionately at her husband. "He always adds something." Patience, however, is not so daring when adding ingredients to a dish. "I'm afraid I'll add something toxic!" she said.

But Chef Hostetter does have his weaknesses. "I'm not a baker," he said. When he tried shortbread, it was a disaster. "I had visions of Lorna Doones coming out of the oven and little trucks come out."

Jay is a senior vice president at United Bank & Trust Co., and even in his chef attire, looks part of the banker. Blessed with a dry wit to accompany his finesse in the kitchen, he admitted his friends often threaten to hire him out for an event.

Patience, who works at the Regional Occupational Training Center with visually impaired students, confesses to a love for pasta. "I could eat a pound of pasta," she said, adding she'd eat it even if it was her last meal.

Choosing a favorite menu as a "last supper" is a game the Hostetters often play at dinner. Heather, 15, claims her last request would be pasta, too. Adam, 10, would ask for "dad's (pork) ribs and fresh broccoli." Dad would choose sweetbreads. But Meredith, 14, wasn't available to speak for herself. Mom teasingly said her daughter would probably ask for "a cigarette and a martini."

Hootenanny

6 eggs
1 cup milk
1 cup flour
Pinch salt
1 tablespoon honey
 Beat by hand using wire whisk or egg beater, or throw all ingredients in blender. Put a tablespoon of butter on the bottom of a 9 X 13 pan and pour in ingredients. Bake in 350-degree oven for 20 minutes. The dish should be puffed up around the edges.

Cheesy spinach side dish

4 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 eggs
1 cup flour
1 cup milk
1 teaspoon baking powder

Jay Hostetter and his wife, Patience, Hootenanny. The duo usually cook together.

15 ounces shredded Monterey Jack cheese
2 packages frozen chopped spinach
 Thaw spinach and drain. Melt butter in 1 1/2-quart casserole. Combine eggs, flour, milk and baking powder. Add shredded cheese and mix. Add spinach and mix. Pour into pan of melted butter. Bake in 350-degree oven for 30 to 35 minutes.

Brandy Alexander pie

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/2 cup cold water
One-third cup granulated sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 eggs, separated
1/2 cup cognac
1/2 cup creme de cacao
2 cups heavy cream, whipped
1 graham cracker crust
1 chocolate curls
 Sprinkle gelatin over cold water in a saucepan. Add sugar, salt and egg yolks. Stir to blend. Heat over low heat, stir until gelatin dissolves and mixture thickens. Do not boil. Remove from heat, stir in Cognac and creme de cacao. Chill until mixture starts to mound slightly. Beat egg whites until stiff. Gradually beat sugar into egg whites and fold into thickened mixture. Fold in one cup whipped cream. Turn into chilled graham cracker crust and chill for several hours or overnight. Garnish with remaining cream and chocolate curls.

Pork chops Diane

6 loin pork chops, 3/4-inch thick and boned
3 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup chopped onions
1 teaspoon cornstarch
1 1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
1/4 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
1 cup hot beef broth
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 Trim fat from chops. Split chops in half horizontally but do not cut all the way through. Open flat like a book. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in skillet; brown chops on both sides. Remove chops. Heat remaining butter in pan, add onions and saute three minutes. Blend in the cornstarch, salt, mustard and pepper. Gradually add broth, stirring steadily to boiling. Add Worcestershire and return the chops. Baste the chops several times, cover and cook over low heat 30 minutes until tender. Serves 6.

Pre-School Classes

These classes are designed to establish in the three and four year old a sense of rhythm, build better coordination, establish right and left directional ability and improve gross motor skills. Through ages four and five, a youngster's play is still a major channel for exploring, practicing and consolidating new knowledge. Dance classes can provide part of the variety of stimuli necessarily needed, at this stage of development.

Talk to manager about short weight

Meat, Poultry, Seafood, Other Main Dishes (File No. 6)

DEAR MARTIN: I am the owner of a supermarket and think I can add some information to your response to the reader who complained about short-weighted meat. Some packages of meat, especially red meat, may have a soak pad between the meat and the tray. Some weight loss may be due to the fluids that are absorbed by the pad. The only other honest explanation for a package being short weighted is an ounce or more (an ounce is the sure!) would be a failure in the weighing equipment. If I were this shopper, I would talk to the store manager. If the store manager does not respond immediately to this concern, I would buy five or six packages of meat of different sizes and varieties and take them to a nearby competitive store. I can almost guarantee that the store manager there will be more than happy to double check the weights, and call the weights and measures bureau if her suspicions are correct.

The only other honest explanation for a package being short weighted is an ounce or more (an ounce is the sure!) would be a failure in the weighing equipment. If I were this shopper, I would talk to the store manager. If the store manager does not respond immediately to this concern, I would buy five or six packages of meat of different sizes and varieties and take them to a nearby competitive store. I can almost guarantee that the store manager there will be more than happy to double check the weights, and call the weights and measures bureau if her suspicions are correct.

Clearing a path

By James Jacoby The final contract was good. North had understated his values when he bid only two diamonds. When his partner continued with two spades, North was well within his rights to cue-bid the ace of hearts. South then subsided in three no-trump.

The bidding had been precise, but the play now became a little heavy-handed. Declarer took the ace of hearts right away and played A-Q of diamonds. Unfortunately the suit did not divide. Declarer continued with a diamond to dummy's king and then had to win the fourth diamond trick in his hand with the nine, leaving dummy's fifth good diamond stranded. Meanwhile West had discarded two clubs and a spade. When declarer existed with the heart jack in the vain hope of some favorable end position, West led the king of clubs right away to let East know which black nine he should guard against. That made it impossible for declarer to cash any kind of defensive error, and he had to go down a trick.

Declarer had overlooked a somewhat rare play. Since a problem in communication did figure to arise in the diamond suit (3-1 is the normal division), South should have looked for a solution. All he had to do was duck the opening lead and then duck the queen of hearts continuation. When declarer wins the third heart lead with dummy's ace, he should discard a diamond from his hand. He can now return to his hand with the A-Q of diamonds, lead to dummy's king and then cash out dummy's last two good diamonds to make his contract.

A new book by James Jacoby and his father, the late Oswald Jacoby, is now available at bookstores. It is 'Jacoby on Card Games,' published by Pharos Books.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY - Can you tell me how to use stick cinnamon in recipes? - VI DEAR VI - Stick cinnamon is rolled pieces of cinnamon bark. It's available in lengths of about 10 to 12 inches if you buy it from a bulk spice shop or wholesaler, or usually in lengths of about 3 inches if you buy it in little bottles in the supermarket. Longer sticks can be broken into smaller pieces as needed.

If you have a good grinder, such as a sturdy electric coffee grinder, you can grind cinnamon sticks, but it's difficult to get it as fine and powdery as commercially ground cinnamon, which is best for using in baked goods. The most effective use for stick cinnamon is to let it steep in liquid, giving off its flavor.

For example, you can simmer a stick of cinnamon in milk or cream to use in making puddings, custards, ice cream, sweet sauces or even baked goods.

A small stick of cinnamon simmered in stew, soup and braised meat dishes can add an interesting flavor note, especially in Indian, Middle Eastern, Greek and Mexican cuisines. Try adding a small stick of cinnamon to your favorite chili recipe as it cooks. Delicious!

Spice up fruit juices (especially apple cider) by heating gently with a stick of cinnamon. Cinnamon sticks can be left in cold juices in the refrigerator for using in iced teas and other beverages. Try using a cinnamon stick as a stirrer in a cup of hot or iced tea, coffee with milk or hot chocolate.

Bury a stick of cinnamon in a covered bowl of sugar, then use the sugar to sprinkle on top of baked goods, toast, cookies etc.

Thoughts

Recent scandals in some Christian ministries have stirred up old questions about money and religion. I often trigger a "Catch 22" way of thinking by Christianity's critics. The criticism usually goes something like this: If Christians ask for money then they are being unspiritual and critics wink at the "materialistic motive" behind the "spiritual front." On the other hand, if Christians say they are focusing on the issue of the individuals relationship with God and eternal life, then critics ask why Christians don't get practical and deal with the material problems of real life (usually meaning the things that cost money). I respect sincere criticism of problems within the church, but please, if we are criticizing, let's be honest enough to ask ourselves if we are trying to have our cake and eat it too. A real Biblical faith always relates to the material world and money. "Talk is cheap" and "put your money where your mouth is" remind us that any belief that doesn't deal with the use of material possessions is a Sunday-only religion. Mixing money and religion is not automatically a sign of materialistic motivation but should be a sign that the person or ministry is practicing a holistic faith. Gary Asperhager, The Salvation Army

Advice

Blackmailer makes sure wife won't forget her indiscretion

DEAR ABBY: My husband travels for his business about three or four days a month. We've been married for four years, and I really do love him. One of my friends (she's divorced) invited me to her place for a party, and she had a lot of unattached guys and girls there. Anyway, I got very drunk and went to bed with a guy I had never seen before. I couldn't believe it until he showed me the evidence; he had some guy take pictures of us "in the act."

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

Now I am being blackmailed. The guy I went to bed with is a big coke user and he is hitting me up for money. I don't have a whole lot, but I'm not about to help him support his habit. I've given him $100 twice, then $50 another time, with a promise to give him more when I get it. I have not had any kind of thank-you for my gift. Wanda would flip if she knew her daughter-in-law had not written her thank-you notes. (At least, I didn't get one.) Should I tell Wanda I haven't received a thank-you note yet? If I were my son, I would want to know. Maybe the note got lost in the mail. What should I do?

up? I think you were.

DEAR ABBY: My very good friend "Wanda" is also my neighbor. Our children grew up together. Wanda's son got married about five months ago. Wanda didn't care very much for the girl. She didn't think she was good enough for her son, but now that they are married, she's trying to accept it. My wedding gift to this couple was selected with much care, and because I am so close to the family I spent more than I usually do for a wedding gift. "Please tell 'Missing Calls' she ain't missing much."

ing trouble accepting? If you believe the note could have been lost in the mail - or was misaddressed - get in touch with the couple. And don't "blame" the bride. A wedding gift is intended for both husband and wife, and the responsibility for acknowledging wedding gifts is now frequently shared.

DEAR ABBY: "Missing Calls" complained because people would hang up instead of leaving a message on the answering machine provided for that purpose. You said, "Don't sweat it - they'll call back."

You're so right. And when they do call back, it's with scoldings: "I've been calling you for days - you're the hardest person to get hold of!" They also ask nosy questions such as: "Where have you been?" And, "How long does it take you to get home from work, anyhow?" Some tell outright lies: "I let the phone ring 20 times!" "Please tell 'Missing Calls' she ain't missing much."

WAIT FOR THE BEEP!

CONFIDENTIAL TO J.R. IN FALL RIVER, MASS.: Help yourself. Imitation is the sincerest form of plagiarism. (Oscar Levant)

Is your social life in a slump? Lonely? Get Abby's booklet, "How to Be Popular" - for people of all ages. Send a check or money order for $2.50 and a long stamped (39-cent), self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Popularity, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054.

Pinochle scores announced

The pinochle scores for Thursday's game played at the Army & Navy Club are: Peter Casella, 604; Ada Rojas, 590; Don Anastasio, 589; John Klein, 587; Arnold Jensen, 586; Arline Paquin, 578; Sam Schora, 578; Bud Paquin, 572; Jennie Forbes, 570; John O'Neill, 570.

Turkey supper planned

The First Congregational Church of Coventry will have a roast turkey supper on Saturday from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. in the fellowship hall on Main St. The public is invited. General admission is $4.50, seniors are $4; children 7-12 are $2 and under 6 are admitted free.

Koffee Klatch meets

The monthly Koffee Klatch will meet today from noon to 1:30 p.m. All-you-can-eat for $2 of sandwiches, desserts, tea and coffee. Chowder and salad are 45 cents extra. Served by the Friendly Circle of the First Congregational Church.

Bridge Club scores announced

The scores for the Manchester A.M. Bridge Club played Aug. 31 and Sept. 3 are:

Monday - North - South 1, Ellen Goldberg-Sue Henry; 2, Al Berggren-John Greene; 3, Louise Kermod-Jim Baker; East - West 1, Jue Wang-Yifan Zou; 2, Marion McCarthy-Virginia Petersen; 3, Betty Messier-Bev Taylor.

Thursday - North - South 1, Sara Mendelsohn-Carol Lucal; 2, Eleanor Berggren-Louise Miller; 3, Morris Kamins-Murray Powell; East - West 1, Mike Franklin-Tom Regan; 2, Betty Messier-Bev Taylor; 3, Eleanor O'Donnell-Peg Franco.

Local musicians perform

Manchester natives Bill Wallach and Joe Cohen will perform at the 4th annual mandolin celebration on Thursday from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. at Center Church in Hartford. The event, produced by Bill Wallach, features Wallach and his colleagues playing a variety of musical styles including jazz, bluegrass and classical. The concert is free.

X-rays are sometimes best

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is it possible to diagnose lung and heart disorders without the use of X-rays?

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband is a diabetic and injects himself with insulin daily. He also smokes almost two packs of cigarettes a day. Aside from the obvious health effects, will smoking affect nutrient absorption in diabetics?

DEAR DR. GOTT: My knowledge, cigarette smoke will not reduce diabetic's absorption of nutrients. Nevertheless, cigarettes are dangerous for a number of reasons. Tobacco smoke increases the tendency of the blood to clot within the body. This is one reason that heart attacks and strokes are more common among smokers than among nonsmokers. Since diabetics have less efficient circulation than other people, smoking can accentuate this unhealthy consequence. Of course, diabetes and susceptible to the standard problems of smokers: cancer, emphysema and bronchitis. Because diabetes causes premature arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries) and smoking contributes to this problem, diabetics have even more reason not to smoke.

If your husband is genuinely concerned about his health, he should give up cigarettes and closely follow his doctor's advice with respect to diet, exercise and medication.

Dr. Gott's new Health Report on lung disease explains the causes and management of chronic lung problems. For your copy, send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to ask for Dr. Gott's Health Report, Living With Chronic Lung Disease.

Your Neighbors' Views

How has the opening of school changed over the years?

Diane Bretemps: "I think it's good. They start them earlier so they get out earlier."

Dean Page: "I didn't realize it came so soon."

Bonnie Sandstrom: "I've spent more money! I have to clothe four kids now, so I guess I kind of splurge."

Jerry Caron: "I think it's better to start earlier. Get them out faster."

Kathy D'Amigo: "I don't like that it starts before Labor Day."

Herb Johnson: "It used to be all in one day. Now, one town opens, one town is closed."

You can't recoup 'lost' interest of a new car purchase

As a typical buyer of a new car in these, the top auto promotion months of the year, you can recoup your car's "running" expenses before you select your model. Gas and oil — these are the most obvious of your car expenses. They hit you every time you slide behind the wheel and are accepted topics of conversation with your fellow commuters at social gatherings.

The "running" costs for a typical driver amount to about 25 percent of the estimated annual $4,848 cost of running and operating a compact car — far from the biggest outlays. The biggest outlays are for your "standing" expenses: depreciation, insurance, license, taxes, fees and the huge item of interest, both paid and lost. This accounts for the overwhelming balance of 75 percent of the total charges of your car, according to Hertz Corp. statistics. The "lost" interest is the money you would have earned if you had merely left your funds in a savings account.

Don't make the mistake of thinking you can recoup that interest "lost" on a cash purchase or down payment simply by making monthly "payments" into your savings account. That's what a U.S. government "how to" guide to car cost calculations actually advised. The U.S. government has now conceded the error and has withdrawn the "how to" from circulation; it "forgot" that if you hadn't withdrawn the cash you'd be getting interest on it and on your monthly "payments" too.

What's more, don't ignore your down payment just because it came in the form of the dealer's allowance to you for the trade-in value of your old car. That trade-in affects the depreciation expenses for your old car, not the new one. And, of course, you could have sold that old car, deposited the proceeds in your savings account and earned interest on it.

Both increases in purchase prices and operating outlays occur in the 102 percent rise in the overall consumer price index in the same 4-year period from 1972 to 1986. Most of the current-year increase in outlays stems from the rise in vehicle sticker prices, up 6.2 percent last year, and from the service station charges. True expenses are probably even higher than the $4,848 annually for a compact because the Hertz calculations exclude parking and tolls and such items as washing, polishing and any traffic fines. Although both gasoline prices and car loan interest rates have plunged during the past two years, auto ownership and operating costs have continued to edge up. To 48.48 cents a mile in 1986 from 47.64 in '85 and 45.87 in '84. These are the latest figures for typical new cars — compact-sized models driven a normal 10,000 miles a year and kept for a usual five years. In 1987, expenses are headed up again — probably more than the 2 percent they increased in '86 and the 4 percent they rose in '85. This, however, is well below the double-digit increases of the 1970s and early 1980s. With auto prices heading ever higher, especially with the latest crisis in the Persian Gulf that could impact the price of gas and oil, what should you do to keep your auto transportation costs under control?

Sylvia Porter

category of insurance, license and fees, up 11.3 percent.

Keep your car as long as possible. The longer you keep a car, the less it costs, because the big factor of depreciation is greater in earlier years, less later on.

Pick the smallest, fuel-efficient model that meets your needs to save on gas.

Bypass the bigger models of those "hot" new "passenger trucks" so many of you are buying and, by doing so, reduce depreciation cost.

Greenwich leads swank suburbs

NEW YORK (AP) — Any street in the nation's most exclusive suburbs could be called Millionaire's Row, a survey indicates. The survey, released Tuesday, says the average price of a single-family home sold by members of a large broker network is $1.2 million in Greenwich, Conn., and Mill Neck, N.Y., two New York bedroom communities that share the distinction of being the nation's most expensive suburbs.

California with 10. Connecticut's lower Fairfield County had three in the top 10, with Greenwich at $1.2 million, and New Canaan and Darien at $800,000 each. New Jersey's Bergen County had two $1 million-dollar suburbs, Alpine at $1.18 million and Saddle River at $1.15 million. Montville, a community in northern New Jersey, was at the bottom of the list of elite, with an average home price of $440,000. The survey did not specify the average size of these homes. But Peter Helie, who runs the William Pitt Inc., real estate brokerage in Fairfield County, said that in Greenwich, $1.2 million would buy four beds, 2 1/2 baths, one to two acres, a two-car garage and maybe a solarium — and that's on a

More banks offer home equity loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — More banks are offering home equity loans as Americans look to get back some of the benefits they lost under the new tax law, an industry survey shows. "Banks are in effect responding to a new policy handed to them by Capitol Hill," she added. "So don't blame the banks. They are responding to consumer demand."

Rules govern T bill discount credits

QUESTION: I own U.S. Treasury bills. As each one matures, I roll it over to buy a newly issued T bill under the new Treasury Direct system. When one of my T bills matures on July 16, I took my savings account passbook to my bank to have the "discount" on my new T bill credited to my account. I was told I was too early and to come back on July 20. I did and the bank credited my account on the 20th — not the 16th. I would have lost interest on the money for four days. At my insistence, this was corrected. I spoke to the officer at the bank and — hopefully — this will not happen again.

ANSWER: It's impossible to say how many — or how few — T bills are rolled over. However, that information, because the information is provided to them. You receive a Treasury Direct statement of account whenever there is a change in your account. There have been some improvements to the Treasury Direct system. Since about the middle of July, that statement lists the issue date of any new U.S. Treasury security you purchase, the discount amount and other information.
