Economists say market rally is probably an over-reaction

By Rick Gladstone The Associated Press

NEW YORK — A plunge in the trade deficit electrified financial markets Friday for one of the best days since the October crash, jacking up the dollar, depressing interest rates and adding nearly 40 points to the Dow Jones average. Economists cautioned that the one-

Economists cautioned that the onemonth trade statistics released by the Commerce Department could be unreliable, and some characterized the market behavior as an overreaction.
But others called the market response

But others called the market response justified because the trade report was surprisingly positive, reflecting a significant surge in exports that could help the economy avert a recession for the sixth straight year.

"This is what we want to do, sell more goods to the world. This is a plus," said John Makin, senior economist at the American Enterprise Institute for Public Policy Research, a non-partisan research and educational organization in Washington, D.C. "This is the trigger that's critical."

The Commerce Department said the trade deficit fell 25 percent in November to $13.2 billion, compared with the record $17.6 billion in October.

The main reason for the drop was a 9.4 percent rise in exports in November to $23.8 billion, a record for overseas sales of U.S. goods that was largely attributed to the dollar's protracted decline in

"Obviously the numbers came in at a level better than most had expected," said John A. Conlon Jr., executive vice president at Nikko Securities Co. International in New York. "The impact on the dollar was immediate and dramatic, which led the stock and bond markets into a broad-based rally."

Nevertheless, he said, the buying binge probably was a temporary response to good news and not a long-term trend, especially in the stock market, where the gains were likely to induce selling next week by investors still nervous over the Oct. 19 crash and its uncertain aftermath.

King was "a man who dedicated his life to the pursuit of a dream, a dream not just for himself, but for you, for all of us, for America," President Reagan said in a message videotaped for transmission by satellite around the country.

Trade numbers 🎚 incite a rally on Wall Street

"Typically the markets overreact, particularly in these times, when they are news-sensitive to the current point of focus, namely trade," Conlon said.

They were over-sensitive to the money supply two years ago and boxcar freight 20 years ago, which were indications of the economy at those times," he said. "I can assure you it will be something else in nine

The trade numbers incited frantic dollar buying in the foreign exchange markets, where many traders had bet the deficit would jump and the dollar would fall further in value. They had sold borrowed dollars on that hunch and scrambled to buy them back to hold their losses down.

By late afternoon in New York, the dollar was trading at just under 131 yen, nearly 5 yen over the exchange rate Thursday. The dollar also was worth nearly 1.69 West German marks, nearly 6 pfennigs above the 1.63-mark rate Thursday. It was the highest level for the dollar in about two months.

The trade report spurred a hectic rally when stock trading opened on Wall Street. The Dow Jones industrial average jumped about 50 points and held that level through most of the day, falling slightly just

The country's best-known stock barometer ended with a 39.96-point advance to close at 1,956.07, and broader market indices also had good gains. About five stocks rose for every one that fell on the New York Stock Exchange, where volume totaled 197.94 million shares, considered an active day.

The Wilshire Associates 5,000 Equity Index, which measures the value of all U.S. stocks, rose by $54.25 billion, or 2.25 percent, to nearly $2.47 trillion.

Price jumps were sharper in the bond market, nerve center of the economy's direction and interest rates. The dollar's rise calmed fears of inflation and foreign flight from U.S. investments, sending the Treasury's 30-year bond up 21/2 points, or $25 per $1,000 in face

The 30-year bond's yield, which moves inversely to price and is a guidepost for other interest-rate trends, tumbled to 8.76 percent from 9.02 percent late

Bulging wallets linked to demand for more power

BOSTON (AP) - The New England building boom and buying habits spurred by the area's robust economy have sparked the secord-setting increase in electricity demand, regional utility officials said

"What you're seeing here is the reflection of a tremendously booming economy," Boston Edison Co. spokesman Mike Monahan said. "Just look at the skyline of downtown Boston. Those buildings use a lot

Most areas of the country experience peak demand for electricity in summer months, when hot weather prompts increased use of fans and air conditioners.

But New England for the past few years has experienced what one utility official called "leapfrogging," setting a demand record in the summer only to have it fall the following winter and then be eclipsed again the following summer.

The New England Power Pool, a consortium of 95

electricity flow in the region, has set new usage records several times in the past two months.

While the shutdowns of several plants in the region for maintenance and other reasons in recent weeks including three of the four nuclear power generators in Connecticut - have contributed to the scramble for power, rapid construction and liberal spending by consumers on electrical appliances are larger, long-term factors responsible for the increased demand, the utility officials said.

New faces on committee

COVENTRY - There will be some new faces on the Democratic Town Committee soon, following the caucus for committee members held Tuesday night at the Town Office Building.

'Unless there is a primary before ... March these will be our new members," Committee Chairwoman Deborah Walsh said during a phone interview on Wednesday. Walsh was re-elected as committee chairwoman Tuesday.

The new members will be former New Haven councilman Arnold Crisano, Michael Folkoff, an alternate on the town Planning and Zoning Commis-sion, Coventry Town Councilman Richard Paton as well as Herman Frechette, Deborah Freund-Bouther, Carol Hazekamp, Linda Sumner and Michael Ader.

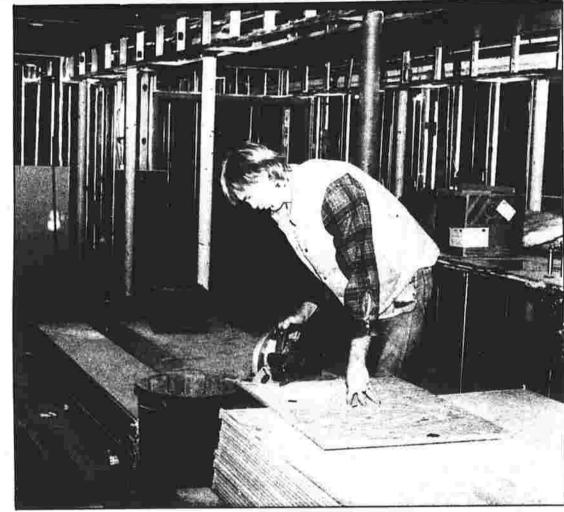

Council nixes job change

COVENTRY - The Town Council has voted not to change the job description of the town zoning agent, despite a recent request from the Planning and Zoning Commission for a change that would clarify the chain of command in the Planning and Zoning office.

"We decided to leave it (the chain of command) a management prerogative of the Town Manager," Council Chairwoman Joan Lewis said in a telephone interview this week.

Six council members voted not to change the job description, during a special meeting held last week at the Town Office Building. Member Elizabeth Paterson abstained, saying she felt the chain of command needed to be spelled out.

Earlier this month, members of the PZC asked the council to change the job description to clearly state that the zoning agent was a subordinate of the Town Planner. Their request came following problems between the Town Planner Robert Isner and former Zoning Agent Clair Oursler, which led the PZC to fire Oursier after he had been on the job less than two

Director to seek sewer bids

Eighth District director Samuel Longest says he will propose that the district seek bids on the controversial sewer to serve planned commercial development n Buckland and households along North Main Street

Longest said Friday he would propose that bids be sought for the sewer work at a directors' meeting scheduled for 7 p.m. Tuesday at Cronin Hall of Mayfair Gardens.

But Longest, the district's public works commissioner, opposed the agreement and was prepared to go forward with plans to install the sewer even before the election. He did not get support from enough of his fellow directors.

The issue between the town and district is whether the sewer will have a link to a town-owned sewer line in Adams Street and a valve that could be turned by the town to direct the sewage into the Adams Street sewer when the town administration wants it to flow that way Under that plan, the town would have clear authority to collect

The land trust has accepted the dam and about 90 acres of land, including the reservoir bottom, as a gift from Dorothy Miller and Gladys Hall, heirs of John Risley

The reservoir is located in Bolton and Vernon near the northeast corner of Manchester.

The state Department of Environmental Protection has control over a $200,000 grant approved by the General Assembly for repairing the dam but the grant cannot be given to the trust until it has a clear itle to the property.

The quiet title action instituted by the land trust is, in effect, a request that the court declare the title clear if no other party proves it has a claim on the property. The trust. represented by attorney Malcolm Barlow, vice-president of the trust, has named the Town of Manchester as a defendant along with any one else who claims a legal interest in

A hearing on the title will be scheduled in Rockville Superior Court after Feb. 23, the cut-off date to file with the court for any parties claiming an interest in the dam.

allow the water to flow past. Vernon is interested in preserving the reservoir so that it can use water for fire protection. Miller and Hall, as well as the Manchester Land Conservation Trust, want to preserve the reservoir as a site for passive recreation.

Manchester officials want the dam repaired because if the dam were to give way with a large amount of water behind it, the water would rush downstream and possibly burst the dams at the Lydall Reservoirs. Residences in the Ambassador Drive and Salter's Pond area would be endangered.

A KISS A DAY

Men who kiss their wives each morning before leaving home will live at least 5 years longer, according to a German life insurance study. There's more! hisaing men earn 20-25% more, have fewer accidents, and a 50% lower illness rate. What about the ladies? We must assume that it's beneficial for them too - it certainly can't hurt, can it?

Social Security

QUESTION: Does Medicare medical insurance cover doctor's services performed outside the U.S.?

ANSWER: Doctor's services outside the U.S. can be covered only if they are furnished in connection with covered care in a Canadian or Mexican hospital.

QUESTION: I've heard that people who get SSI may also be eligible for social services. The woman next door to me lives by herself. I think she could use some help with her meals and housework. Would this be considered social services?

ANSWER: Yes, but the kinds of social services available are different in all states. Social Services may include help with household chores, shopping, meal preparation, laundry, marketing, and person care. You or your neighbor should contact the social services office of your state and local government to find out about the services available in your state.

Mixed readings in tax revenues: Sales tax up, business tax down

HARTFORD (AP) - Revenues from the state sales tax were up by 15 percent in the latest reporting period, but that was balanced by an unexplained drop in receipts from the corporations tax, a top budget official said Friday.

"We're getting mixed readings," said Edward C. Balda, chief of economic and revenue forecasting for the governor's budget office, the Office of Policy and Management.

Balda said $152 million was collected in sales taxes in November, compared with $132 million in November 1986. That was a 15.2 percent increase; officials had been expecting a 10 percent in-crease, Balda said.

"That's great, but as we checked with retailers, many of them, after the Oct. 19 stock market crash, became very concerned about what the consumer was going to do," he said. "Since the Christmas season them started significant promotional sales earlier than usual. "So the question remains as to how much that borrowed from future sales, not only from December but for the first quarter of 1988," he added. So far in the budget year that began July 1, 1987, the state has collected $803 million from the 71/2 percent sales tax, up $81.8 million compared with the total at the same point in the 1986-87 budget year. Balda said the corporations tax collected $90.4 million in December, down almost $16 million from the total in December 1986 of $106.3 million.

He said he couldn't explain the decrease, which he said is "concerning us quite a bit."

"Many experts were saying that (federal) tax reform was going to mean a significant windfall on corporation taxes, but as far as we

In 1986-87, he said, changes in federal tax laws prompted a $150 million increase in revenues from the corporations tax. This year to date, the total receipts are about $217 million, $18.9 million below the total of $235.9 million collected in the same period in 1986-87. "Basically, we have tax reform making things very difficult for us.

the Oct. 19 crash and a lot of talk about a national recession," Balda said. "Even though we don't believe a national recession will have much immediate impact in Connecticut, consumers could begin to retrench and that could end up having some impact on our revenues.

Revenues from other taxes were about as expected, Balda said. although he noted a $4.1 million dip in receipts from the real-estate tax. which he said reflects the stagnant

Drug bust nets 17 in New Haven

NEW HAVEN - At least 17 people were arrested Friday as city police cracked down on street-level drug dealers in a neighborhood known as the Hill.

The operation, with the code name "Snow Ball," is part of authorities' on-going drug enforcement program, said Police Chief William Farrell. He said the operation was concentrating on dealers of cocaine mariluana and cocaine. Police had warrants for the arrests of 40 people, said police spokesman Sgt. James Sorrentino. Arrest warrants have set bonds of between $10,000 and $100.000, police said. Drug crackdowns in two other city neighborhoods took place in November and December of 1987,

"We get 100 to 150 calls a day, but in order for us to become active (in pursuing a complaint) they have to file a written complaint." West said

Of the total, West, said, 1,767 complaints dealt with home improvements, the highest number in He said that because the economy has been healthy over the past couple of years, "a great number of people were able to make home mprovements." Unfortunately, he added, "a lot of them got burned."

Most of the complaints involved failure to complete work contracted for and poor workmanship.

The second-highest number of complaints, 1,100, involved automobile services, chiefly false or deceptive advertising and breach of contract, according to West.

Third place also involved cars, namely complaints stemming from the state's "lemon law," which allows new-car buyers to get replacement cars or refunds if the same defects can't be repaired after four tries, or if the cars are in the shop for more than 30 days in the first two years or 18,000 miles.

There were 630 complaints filed under the lemon law in 1987.

General advertising complaints at 597, were fourth on the list of the top 10 complaints. Most dealt with sale items that weren't available, failure to honor rain checks, bait-and-switch tactics and nondisclosure of limited quantities.

Complaints about refunds and exchanges were in fifth place, with 483, many of which concerned law by refusing cash refunds or issuing credit slips only, but not posting such policies for consumers

There were 413 mail-order complaints, many of which involved businesses that couldn't handle the number of orders they got or that weren't legitimate businesses.

The department got 303 com-plaints about health clubs, many of which "just closed shop, leaving consumers with little more than a note on the door." West said.

Grain elevator blast kills three

HENDERSON, Ky. - A grain elevator exploded Friday, killing three people and leaving another trapped for 412 hours about halfway up the 200-foot structure, authorities said.

The explosion at the Ellis Grain Co., which is owned by Owensboro Grain Co., rocked downtown Henderson about 4: 30 p.m. and showered the immediate area with huge blocks of concrete

Officials from the state fire marshal's office on the scene reported that three people had been killed. Patrick Thompson, director of Henderson's 911 emergency services, said rescue workers used a crane to reach the trapped man and lowered him to the ground on a stretcher attached to a cable about 8:45

Korean military placed on alert

SEOUL, South Korea - The government put the armed forces on alert Friday after a woman confessed she had bombed a Korean Air jet on orders from a North Korean leader. But officials said the south planned no military retaliation.

North Korea denied involvement in the bombing and said South Korea's claims were lies.

Defense Minister Chung Ho-yong ordered South Korea's 600,000-member armed forces to go on special alert to counter possible North Korean provocations.

Chung, who met with his top military leaders, also raised the possibility of retaliatory measures against South Korea's communist neighbor.
"Our army is issuing a stern warning against North Korean military authorities and at the same time we. along with our people, denounce North Korea's barbarous act," he said.

PHOENIX, Ariz. - Gov. Evan Mecham deliberately concealed a $350,000 campaign loan and used public funds for personal gain, a special investigator told the Arizona House on Friday.

Special counsel William French said he had reached the very clear and disturbing conclusion that Governor Mecham set out to keep the existence of the loan from Mr. (Barry) Wolfson a secret."

French said there was evidence of perjury, filing false financial disclosure statements and "a course of conduct to intentionally cover up those acts" related to the loan from Wolfson, a Tempe developer.

"The loan was to be kept secret in violation of the law," French said in the packed, hushed House

French made no recommendation on whether the governor should be impeached.

Secord wants evidence in open

WASHINGTON - A target of the criminal investigation into the Iran-Contra affair is trying to force prosecutors to present grand jurors with evidence he contends will exonerate him.

An attorney for retired Air Force Maj. Gen. Richard V. Secord has asked a federal judge to order independent counsel Lawrence E. Walsh to present grand jurors with testimony from last year's congressional hearings by Lt. Col. Oliver L. North and other witnesses "which directly exculpates Gen.

Walsh is resisting the move, saying the presentation of testimony obtained under congressional grants of limited immunity from prosecution would hobble his investigation.

According to court papers unsealed Thursday, Secord is also trying to get court permission to present his case directly to the grand jury, which in the coming weeks is expected to return indictments against him and other key participants in the Iran-Contra affair.

Confusion is winner in Michigan

DETROIT - Vice President George Bush declared victory Friday in the Michigan GOP county conventions but a bitter rules fight with the Pat Robertson-Jack Kemp coalition left the outcome in

"We have the courts on our side. We have the people on our side," said Bush, campaigning in New Hampshire. "I'd say it's a clear victory."

Robertson also declared himself a victor in Michigan, which will choose the nation's first presidential delegates later this month based on the results of the Thursday night county conventions. Leaders of both campaigns said they expected about

1,000 of the 1,805 delegates to the state convention on Jan. 29-30 to face credential challenges. "By the time the (state) convention takes place, we will be the winners, and I am claiming victory today, even though he (Bush) may claim something else," the former television evangelist said at a New Hampshire campaign stop.

U.S. looks for new F-16 base

WASHINGTON - At the insistence of Spain, the United States agreed on Friday to withdraw a major force of F-16 warplanes from a base near Madrid within three years and began hunting for another allied country where the jets can be based.

The two governments announced after months of negotiation that their next military cooperation agreement would exclude from Torrejon Air Base the 72-aircraft, 401st Tactical Fighter Wing, the largest force of its kind in southern Europe. U.S. officials speaking on condition of anonymity said there were no assurances another NATO country would take the wing.

Sakharov meets Gorbachev

MOSCOW - Human rights activist Andrei D. Sakharov met Kremlin leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev for the first time Friday and gave him a list of 200 Soviets he sai are still imprisoned for their views.

U.S. industrialist Armand Hammer, a board member and the fund's biggest benefactor by way of a million-dollar gift, said Sakharov used the opportunity to draw Gorbachev's attention to the continued plight of political prisoners.

Office sale aids Deaver defense

ALEXANDRIA, Va. - Hundreds of people pawed through former White House aide Michael K. Deaver's empty trappings of power Friday at an office sale held to defray more than $1 million in legal costs left from a court battle that resulted in his perjury conviction.

"Not your typical garage sale, huh?" said a smiling saleswoman as $100,000 worth of Deaver's office furnishings were put on the block at the abandoned headquarters of his high-priced lobbying firm in this

A 2-year-old boy might have died from exposure to the cold on Monday morning, while his mother believed he was safely playing at the home of his day-care provider, and his sitter thought he was at home with his

The youngster was found outdoors, without hat, coat or mittens, by a neighbor on her way to work. The temperatures Monday morning were hovering around the 5-degree mark. In that kin I of weather, permanent damage to the child might well have occurred in less than 20 minutes, according to one pediatrician.

And certainly, harm of another kind could have resulted from the child's wandering onto East Middle Turnpike, just one block away.

There's no question that youngsters will wander away from home on occasion. It probably has happened, at least once, in almost every family.

The difference here was that, without the intervention of a neighbor, the child's absence might not have been noticed for several hours.

The state of Connecticut has no requirement for formal sign-ins at day-care homes and centers, although some states have implemented such controls.

Although day-care operators interviewed by the Herald suggested that parents might object to the inconvenience of sign-in sheets. most agreed that they would be helpful, and they would not be a problem for the day-care

Perhaps it's time for the Department of Human Resources, which regulates in-home day-care operations, to ask for a sign-in sheet

It should be clear, at all times, who is responsible for the safety of a child. There should be no "gray area," which is the way one day-care director referred to the early morning, when "no one is really sure who is in charge."

Paying overtime can save money

To the Editor:

I am writing this letter in regard to the inequities I see concerning my fellow workers in the Manchester Park Department. I personally worked approximately 15 hours overtime last year. The highway and water department personnel worked hundreds of hours. It's to the point in the water department that they don't want to work overtime and that seems to be one of the stumbling blocks in our ongoing contract negotiations.

Getting back to my main reason for writing: the hiring of contractors to plow snow from town parks and streets. I personally know of at least 10 men who signed an overtime list desiring to work. I don't think any one of them has yet to be called in. The town is paying the contractors approximately $35 to $45 per hour to plow snow. We in the Park Department make $10.50 per hour. Even paying us time-and-ahalf I could see a 50 percent reduction in cost for the town.

The Park Department has six trucks equipped with snowplows and four more that are capable of plowing. ewhere in all these facts and figures I see a definite savings for the town and some much appreciated overtime for the men in the Park Department. In writing this letter I'm sure there will be problems concerning our men having to report back by 7 a.m., but I'm sure if the records were checked most of the work needed to be done would be

We end up plowing lots and opening up the drains in all the contracted lots anyway. Then our men, who are outside 75 percent of the day, could get back to their. jobs of shoveling and plowing the over six miles of sidewalks, not counting cleaning and watering the ice skating facilities. In closing, I hope my thoughts on this subject will bring about some positive results, or at least some discussion of utilizing the equipment the town has

Holiday opening is disappointing

We recognize the fact that holiday time is an item of contract negotiations, but we cannot help but be disappointed that again this year Manchester's town offices will be opened on Jan. 18, 1988, the Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. national holiday.

Nurse shortages affect MMH, too

To the Editor:

As you may have heard, there is a crisis in health care, and yes, it does include Manchester Memorial Hospital. The nursing shortage extends to your own community health care institution. Unfortunately, many people are unaware of problems until it affects them directly, in this case meaning yourself or loved one becoming ill.

Nurses are frustrated from seeing patients who aren't getting the best care possible. With enrollment declining in nursing schools, people leaving the profession for other opportunities. the problem can only get worse. Iranians may finally cut back oil output

WASHINGTON -Saudi Arabia's King Fahd is working to keep oil prices from falling, and he may even be able to enlist the cooperation of the money-hungry Iranians, who have been dumping cheap oil on the market to get quick cash.

Our intelligence sources say Iran is coming around, but has already sold enough cheap crude this fall to cause a temporary flood of the market. The bad news is that the temporary surplus probably won't be reflected in the cost of heating your home this winter. Most of the cheap oil was sold after winter heating oil purchases had already been made for 1987-88.

King Fahd is the most influential member of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. Like any clever businessman. Fahd has been cautious about letting too much Persian Gulf oil onto the market at one time. Holding back keeps the Iran has been loath to play the game. OPEC sets production quotas of 15 million barrels a day, but Iran and Iraq have been violating the quotas so the production is closer to 19 million barrels a day. Both countries need to sell more oil to finance their bitter war against each other.

So desperate is Iran's Ayatollah oil at discount prices, below the $18 a sources say he won't escalate the barrel set by OPEC. But the ayatollah is having trouble finding buyers. The United States, with its embargo on Iranian oil, is pressuring its allies not to shop at the Iranian oil store.

At first, the lure of cheap crude oil was too much, and the allies ignored our request to boycott Iranian oil, but lately they have begun to knuckle under. Without any fanfare, Japan has reduced its oil purchases from Iran. The impact of that, and cooperation by other allies, has forced Iranian oil sales to drop by about 500,000 barrels a day.

The ayatollah's war debts have not completely overshadowed his good sense. Iran, according to our sources, is beginning to accept the inevitability of production quotas and to recognize that it doesn't help to flood the market.

When the ayatollah wises up, that will mean higher oil prices for Americans and everyone else.

tanker war in the Persian Gulf because that would bring down the wrath of the U.S. military. In fact, our sources say it is not the Iranian military command that has authorized attacks on oil tankers in the gulf. That is the work of the radical Revolutionary Guards.

Building overseas

The United States spends billions of dollars overseas building public works projects for our allies when they cannot afford to do it themselves. An investigation by the Agency for International Development reveals that we aren't getting our money's

The construction projects are often marred by shoddy workmanship and inferior building materials. In same cases, AID reported, the money went

In Egypt, we spent $190 million on schools and increased the enrollment of Egyptian students. But the workmanship was so poor that in 37 of the new schools, the Egyptians can't even keep up with the maintenance work.

In the Philippines, more than half of the construction projects were plagued with problems. The schools, markets and bridges built with American money were so poorly constructed that they threatened the safety of Filipinos.

Japan scores on satellite

Japan has launched a small observation satellite that may have military potential for the United States.

Japan's space program is strictly civilian, but the satellite could fill in for the U.S. Navy's remote ocean sensing surveillance system, which was canceled a year ago. The costs of the Navy program has escalated too much for the program to continue.

The Japanese satellite, called MOS-1, can detect thermal radiation in oceans or on land from 500 miles out in space. The satellite can pick up images as small as 50 meters across. They are translated into crystal-clear photo images. Some factions in the Navy want to revive their own system, but others are looking to the

Lebanese hashish

You know the Bekaa Valley in Lebanon as the spot where fanatical Iranian forces have established a stronghold, and where they have held American hostages in days past. Now comes word from the CIA and the Drug Enforcement Agency that the Bekaa Valley is also a huge farm for hashish, grown by Lebanese entrepreneurs and sold right out from under the noses of the Syrians who occupy the valley.

Two-thirds of the Bekaa Valley's population depends on the cultivation of hashish for a living. One crop a year is produced from 10,000 acres of land. The CIA and the DEA estimate that the war-torn country's annual hash production amounts to more than 250 tons. The high yield of 36 to 60 pounds per acre "reflects the ideal growing conditions found in the valley." the CIA and DEA report says.

Do we need school boards?

By Chuck Stone

Dinosaurs didn't survive, but cockroaches have. Pesky little busybodies of irrelevancy, scurrying to fulfill their agenda, they make everybody else miserable. They're not dangerous; just anachronistic. Like boards of Initially, boards of education were necessary to guarantee the fiscal independence and teaching integrity of our school systems. Today, the boards are political baronies. Their most important functions are to distribute patronage, facilitate labor union raids on the public treasury, advance personal careers at education's expense, serve as hostages to special interests, be an elective source of discontent for issues unrelated to education, and provide sinecures for political backs who don't represent the school system's demographics.

If you doubt the outlived uselfulness of boards of education, look no further than the nation's largest city. And if big, bawdy and bodacious New York City somehow seems an isolated basket case, then cross "over the river and through the woods" to tiny Paterson, N.J., where a similar educational farce is being played out. New York City's board of education just appointed a new school chancel-lor. In the process, it revealed two depressing facts of life: (1) The nation's largest school system is magnificently screwed up; (2) The board of education is too paralyzed to remedy the problem.

In Paterson, the board of education just ruled that a popular black principal's success in redeeming a dope-ravaged, violence-plagued high school is meaningless if the principal, Joe Clark, doesn't kow-tow to bureaucratic nugacities.

Granted, former drill sergeant Clark has tended to confuse his mission with Lou Gossett's Oscarwinning, butt-kicking role in "An Officer and a Gentleman." But imperious Clark (and the brother do be imperious!) has gotten results by bending a couple of rules. He has secured Eastside High School, given students a sense of pride and a desire to learn, and turned alienated parents strong advocates of public

Even Education Secretary William Bennett telephoned his encouragement. It's typical of Clark's mammoth ego that he responded by saying, "Now that I know America is behind me, I won't leave." Still, personality warts and all, he has done an outstanding job. Education needs more principals like him and fewer school boards. In New York City, the appointment of Richard Green as the school system's first black chancellor has not inspired confidence that the former Minneapolis school superintendent can drain the New York City cesspool of its educational failures. During the interviews of candidates, it became apparent that one board of education member was a complete captive of the city's teachers' union (one of the system's biggest problems). Only after the teachers' union Queen Bee (also known as its president) gave her permission and the board president reatened to resign did the union's flunky support Green.

Meanwhile, the board has been unable to prevent the custodians union from raping the high schools with patronage and sloppy work. Many custodians don't even clean the bathrooms or provide toilet paper. Nor has the board been able to reduce a pathological dropout rate (over 50 percent).

Today, education is one of America's biggest industries. It demands accountable leadership. But that can't come from school boards totally dependent on political machines.

In Paul's epistle to the Ephesians, he called for "One Lord, one faith, one baptism." In every city, pub education needs one mayor, one public school system, one superintendent.

Like dinosaurs, boards of education are anachronisms. But like cockroaches, they'll continue to survive.

By Nancy Carr Executive Director

As the thermometer plummeted past 20, 10, 0 and even lower, our good friends at the Savings Bank of Manchester once again offered a $1,500 Fuel Bank challenge grant. Very timely, indeed. You may have already heard the good news of the grant through your church newslet-

The record cold of these past days has resulted in record numbers of neighbors needing help to get their oil tanks filled. Last year we were able to provide small grants and loans to 127 Manchester and Bolton households that needed fuel assistance but weren't eligible for the state/federal fuel assistance

Your generosity helps us. "Keep Our Neighbors Warm" contributions should be made out to MACC/Fuel Bank Challenge and are, of course, tax deductible if you itemize. One more favor, please. We ask you to help "Keep Your Neighbor Warm" by passing on the word that assistance is available. Remind your elderly friends and neighbors (many of whom learned to be frugal early in life) that they should not turn their thermostats below 70 to save on the fuel bill because frail, elderly folk are subject to hypothermia. Help with the fuel bills is available: Call the MACC Department of Human Needs, 646-4114, for information about fuel-assistance programs. MACC is also the social administrator of Operation Fuel funds. Call and talk to Beth.

WINFEST VIII - The ecumenical annual Winter Festival of Congregations is scheduled for next Saturday, Jan. 23, from 8: 30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Based on this year's Week of Prayer for Christian Unity theme. "Love Casts Out Fear," the program begins at 9: 15 a.m. with Bible meditation led by Dr. Marjorie Suchocki, dean and professor of systematic theology at Wesley Theological Seminary, Washington, D.C.

Workshops expanding the theme into special areas of concern (AIDS, the homeless, alcoholism, peace making, apartheid, prayer, lessening fear, learning to love, the church as family), a model for interfaith relations led by area experts, will follow the Bible study.

At 11:45 we will gather for an ecumenical workshop service with the Rev. Arie Brouwer, general secretary of the National Council of Churches, as homilist. A very special opportunity to share together, learn together, grow together and worship together, and a unique opportunity to meet Marjorie and Arie Brouwer, too. The cost of the workshops is $5. Call CHRISCON (236-4281) as soon as possible if you want to register for a workshop. Registration will be at Trinity Episcopal Church from 8: 30 on, with workshops and parking at Asylum Hill Congregational Church and the Cathedral.

THANK-YOUS - By next week we should have an update on the men and women we introduced in our Seasonal Sharing vignettes in the Manchester Herald. In the meantime, we want to continue thanking all the wonderful folk who made this Christmas the very best ever. Tops on our list are the students and faculty at Martin Elementary School: to Widows and Widowers Associated Chapter 11 in Manchester which purchased 40 much-needed gifts for teen-agers and raised $120 for Seasonal Sharing; to Cathy Thrall who helped staff our Toys for Joy distribution: to Bill McGugan who not only helped with final basket delivery on the 24th but helped clean up the Department of Human Needs; to

Mrs. Vaglica for a 22-pound turkey. Also: to Steve Nelson who drove all the way back from Massachusetts to give us the $275 he earned from the sale of his Christmas trees at Agway; to Daisy Brownie Troop No. 627 and Headquarters Company 1-169 of Manchester which collected food through the Governor's Care and Share Program; to those wonderful folk who delivered 47 hot holiday meals Christmas Day: John McCartan, Ginny and

BIBLE SPEAKS Eugene Brew

I am alarmed by the cavalle manner with which churches dismiss teachings spelled out i the Bible. It is not surprising the as of divine origin blow off such teachings. But when "Bible believing" groups so treat Chris-tian doctrines, it is disillusioning indeed.

Jesus said: "Whoever believes and is baptized will be saved," Mark 16:18. He further elaborated: "no one can enter the kingdom of God unless he is born of water and the Spirit," John 3:5. The Apostle Peter answered guilty soul's inquiry of convic-tion, "what shall we do," by saying: "Repent and be baptized, ev ery one of you, in the name of Je sus Christ for the forgiveness of your sins," Acts 2:37-38. And such Biblical statements shall be multipled. Yet, I dare say every Protestant church in Mai would affirm that people are saved before, or even without

The result is the loosening of glued joints, the cracking of walls and ceilings. excessive static electricity and, n the case of human beings, the feeling of being chilly even when the room temperature is 72 degrees or higher. As the dry air evaporates the water from the skin of humans too quickly, it produces the chilling effect.

We hear the term "relative humidity" very often. It is the mount of moisture actually in the air compared to the maximum amount it can hold at that temperature. When the temperature is changed even a tiny bit, it changes the relative humidity. since warm air holds more moisture than cold air.

Too-low humidity affects many ture and you. The plants in your house, for example, cannot take up water from the soil as rapidly as it evaporates, causing the leaves to become too dry and the entire plant to wilt and die.

the system. Even then, some other form of humidifeation may be necessary. That's what grandma was doing when she placed pans of water on the radiators - adding moisture to Today, we use various forms of humidifiers that add the moisture. Humidifiers accomplish the task of adding moisture whenever it is needed rather than in single unregulated applications. These additions occur when precision instruments tell the humidifiers it's time for more moisture. When there is sufficient moisture in the air to bring the relative humidity to a certain level the machine shuts itself off.

The subject of humidity, either too much or too little, is rather complex and sometimes causes experts, especially as to the amount of moisture required in a house. Many factors affect the situation, iculuding the number of persons in the house, how much isture they and their appliances generate, and how "tight" the house is, which determines the degree to which moist air leaves the premises. But it is agreed that too little humidity can make your house as dry as the Sahara

Or have you ever craved a burger, fries and a soft drink, but had to nix the idea because you didn't have any cash your credit cards were worthless in a fast-food restaurant?

You may soon be able to use a debit card for purchases that typically require cash or a check. But just how soon depends on where in the country you live. What is debit card?

Ask a typical American and you're likely to get a blank stare. But the fact is that if you use an automatic teller machine (ATM) or banking transactions, you are already using a debit card.

Debit cards electronically siphon funds from your checking or savings account. The most comuse: to get money from an ATM at the bank. But a growing number of retailers are arranging deals with local banks or banking networks so that customers can use debit cards to make purchases at their stores.

In California, for instance, several fast-food chains, grocery and convenient stores have installed point-of-sale (POS) terminals that allow customers to pay card into the POS terminal, which is typically at the checkout counter, punch in your persona identification number and the proper amount is transferred from your bank account in

Despite the fact that Visa and MasterCard introduced Entree, a tober 1987 and the American Bankers Association has drawn up industry guidelines for POS systems, it will still be months or years before most of us can actually use our ATM cards in

"It is a concept that has been around for years, but only recently have we seen a national effort," notes Alan Pohlman, president of New York Cash Exchange (NYCE), the largest regional ATM network in the country. Pohlman predicts that within the next year or two, some of the major banks that are part of the NYCE network will start working with retailers in this

each menstrual period? After How old should a girl be before beginning this practice?

DEAR READER: Most gynecologists say that women do not ever need to douche (forcing liquid up into the vagina to wash the vagina). A healthy vagina cleans itself. Only the easily reached outside genital surfaces require gentle daily washing with a mild soap and thorough rinsing to maintain body cleanliness.

Moreover, douching may irritate vaginal tissues, and some douching products contain chemicals that can cause inflammation or allergic reactions. It is pressure while forcing the douche liquid into the vagina.

Individual women, and some physicians, differ in their opinions about douching, but it is clear that many women who have never douched are both clean and healthy Perhaps you could tell your daughter about douching and how you feel about it, and suggest she ask her physician if she is curious about it. Don't be concerned that you will be raising a new or overly sensitive subject because the vague notion of ness' is widely mentioned in advertising for these products and douching itself is often a part of sexual jokes or epithets used among young people

DEAR DR. REINISCH: My wife had a tubal ligation 10 years ago, before we were married. Because we wanted a family, she had it reversed and became pregnant. Unfortunaterly, four weeks into the pregnancy it was discovered that she had a tubal

This did not cause the tube to rupture, and she is recovering nicely, but we are wondering what can be done so that she can safely become pregnant again.

DEAR READER: Talk with a specialist in fertility. It is not unusual for even the most skillful repair of the Fallopian tubes to leave small places inside the that can catch a fertilized egg and result in an ectopic pregnancy (a condition when the fertilized egg implants and begins to grow on a surface other than the wall of the uterus. usually a Fallopian tube)

threatening to the mother as the increased size of the embryo meant to expand like the uterus, leading to internal bleeding. When an ectopic pregnancy is and quickly and carefully removed, preservation of the involved organ (in your wife's case, one of her reconnected Fallopian tubes) is possible.

A woman who has had one ectopic pregnancy in a Fallopian tube, had her tubes reconnected after a tubal ligation, or has tubal scarring from pelvic infections has an increased risk of another ectopic pregnancy.

It will require a careful examination of the condition of your wife's Fallopian tubes to determine how best to proceed safely with future pregnancies.

It is important to realize that the inside passageway of each of the two Fallopian tubes leading from the top of the uterus to each of the two ovaries is extremely narrow. Even though her tubal reconnection surgery may have been sufficient to permit the microscopic sperm to swim up the tubes to meet an egg, the tubes could still have areas not large enough to allow the larger egg to move down the tube to the

Should this be true in your wife's case, the fertility specialist can tell you about pregnancy options that safely bypass the Fallopian tubes altogether. In vitro fertilization is one of these options. An egg removed from your wife can be mixed with your sperm in a glass dish and the fertilized egg can be placed directly in her uterus.

'Momma' just marvelous for Billy Crystal

REFRESHING — Billy Crystal, left, appears with Danny DeVito in a scene from "Throw Momma from the Train." "I've always tried in my career not to do the usual thing," Crystal says. "I think people love (the film) for that reason. It's strange, it's very funny, it's refreshing."

The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES - A comedy about matricide seems an un-likely choice for holiday movie fare, but Orion's "Throw Momma From the Train" has managed to break through as the year-end leeper, amassing $25 million in licket sales in its first 25 days.

It's no surprise to Billy Crystal. who stars in the film with Danny DeVito and was involved in the production from the beginning.

"This movie is a little on the edge, which I find refreshing," he said. "The only possibility of its being dangerous is that this time of year (is) when people want to see bright kind of things. What's wonderful about 'Momma' is that it's different, not the usual kind of

"I've always tried in my career not to do the usual thing. I think people love (the film) for that reason. It's strange, it's very funny, it's refreshing."

'Momma" is indeed strange amid today's bubblegum come dies. Crystal is a luckless teacher at a two-bit college, stricken with writer's block because his ex-wife stole his manuscript and made millions as a bogus novelist. DeVito is a wild man with a harridan mother, played with marvelous ferocity by Anne Ramsey.

Inspired by Alfred Hitchcock's "Strangers on a Train," DeVito neets Crystal and suggests a double murder. Crystal doesn't take the idea seriously, but DeVito does.

'You get the audience to accept the premise of throwing Momma from the train because of how interesting the two characters are," Crystal said during a lunch

NEW YORK - American-born author Leslie Field probably Family's jewels than anyone else. That includes Queen Elizabeth II, inheritor of the right to wear the matchless collections that include pearls worn by Queen Elizabeth I four centuries

After working for seven years on her book, "The Queen's Jewels: The Personal Collection Abrams Inc., $29.95), Field hopes she's become the world's greatest living authority on the subject.

For an author it's an enviable field that dances with dazzling subheadings such as Queen Mary's True Lover's Knot Brooch, the King George III Fringe Tiara and Queen Victoria's Golden Jubilee Necklace, to say nothing of the Imperial State

Crown, the Sceptre and the Orb. When she began the project, Field expected to find a basic system, a catalog or inventory on which she would draw. To her astonishment she found no such thing. She had to compile as complete a record as she believes has ever been made by combining research from many sources personal memories and records of the Royal Family - with the full cooperation of Buckingham Palace, where she did much of her work. She also used newspaper libraries, photo files, bills, receipts, and published matter.

"I think 65 percent of the information I dug out to put in the book was new to the queen," she said in an interview. "I was actually able to tell her majesty where the tiara she'd worn on her says, and that was the writer's wedding day came from. ... It preference, too, "I always ancient and interesting in the Earth, Wind & Fire back for world tour

By Mary Campbell The Associated Press

NEW YORK - Earth, Wind & Fire aren't making a timid comeback. They're touring the world like a whirlwind on fire.

The group, which disbanded in 1983, has always been known for its stage spectacles and this time is no exception. Magician Doug Henning staged the tour in 1979 with levitation and vanishing acts. In 1982, their last tour founder-leader Maurice White exchanged thunderbolts with

This year, the set cost $ million. But White wouldn't say too much about their special effects just before the Jan. opening show in St. Petersburg Fla., except that it's llusionary.

The sound, the audience already knows. A single, "System of Survival." was released in October and a Columbia Records LP, "Touch the World," followed November. As the new year began the single was No. 1 on the dance chart and the album was headed for the pop Top 20. Earth. Wind & Fire is back because of its high-voice singer Philip Bailey.

Bailey has given concerts of Christian music since 1975. In 1984. Phil Collins produced Bailey's album, "Easy Lover." They did a duet on the title song, which was one of the biggest hit singles of 1985 and brought Bailey more fame and name recognition than he'd had in Earth, Wind & Fire. But it was Bailey who, for a year, would call White and press for a group reunion "In the beginning I had no feelings about trying to get it back together," White said. "He finally convinced me. It just started to feel right, after awhile That's the reason I took the break in the first place; I had lost the feeling for doing it. When the

"I still have the last word," he said. "I'm still leader, but on a different level. Now I give everybody a lot more responsibility I told them I wanted the duties to be split up. We have a more democratic type of situation. It works better this way.

"Philip has assumed a lot more responsibility. It's sort of divided between him and Verdine. It takes a lot of the load off me."

The first single, "System of Survival," arrived in an unusual way. White and Bailey were in San Francisco recording the

The second single will be "Thinking of You." which White wrote with Wanda Vaughn, lead singer of the Emotions, a group he has produced on record

When Bailey was in Norway on tour, his pianist, the Rev. Oliver Wells, played him a song he'd written, "Touch the World." That became the album's title song.

The album. White said. "is primarily making a statement toward the homeless, the government and the world around us Our tradition is songs with a positive self-image, the type of melody everybody can sing and a ositive message about the issues of today.

Program trading is back in the spotlight

As it turned out, the big drop wasn't the immediate prelude to a replay of Black Monday Oct. 19. Nevertheless, many analysts felt less than a sense of total relief.

"This volatility is getting to us all," said Greg Smith at Prudential-Bache Securities in his current commentary on the market.

In Smith's view, the wide swings stem in part from the fact that "financial technology has gotten ahead of the market's ability to digest the massive changes computers can

"My conclusion is that they are what electrical engineers call 'noise.' I don't believe these moves up and down tell us anything about the economy.

Philip Erlanger, chief technical analyst at the firm of Advest Inc., argues that trading strategies using stock index futures and other derivative products have "seriously incapacited" the primary functions of the stock market.

The market exists, he observes, to provide capital for businesses and to allow individual investors to participate in the growth of those

Apparel retailers regroup after sales slump

The Associated Press

NEW YORK - Like the first green shoots emerging after a long, cold winter, spring clothing is making its way into apparel stores across the country, while retailers, resembling anxious farmers after a bad crop, are waiting to see how successful their latest fashion lines will be.

They have reason to worry. Apparel stores have suffered through disap-pointing sales in the second half, and either the retailers nor Wall Street analysts expect a dramatic turnaround in business any time soon.

"I don't think we're going to see the spring merchandise flying out of the stores," said Joseph Ronning, an analyst with the investment firm Brown Brothers Harriman Inc. in New York. "I think it's going to be better received (than fall merchandise was), but it's not

Another problem facing the apparel stores is that while spring clothing is arriving, there are still inventories of cleared.

Yet the analysts and the retailers do expect a turnaround some time this

For one thing, said Wintzer, women haven't been buying clothes and they're going to want something new to wear.

And Ronning predicted the rapid prices increases would end, which should also help business improve.

In the meantime, retailers are changing their merchandise mix and will be watching early sales for trends.

"They will throw hundreds of items into a test market and wait for items to blow out of the store," said Wintzer. When one of them gets something that works, the others will know about it

"You'll see more firms working on a shorter cycle ... your commitments will not have to be as far as in advance as in previous years," Rounick said, "If trends change, you can change the

GE lays off 350 in Ohio

EVENDALE, Ohio (AP) - General Electric Co. announced Friday it will lay off 350 hourly production employees, effective Jan. 22, at its jet engine manufacturing plant in this Cincinnati suburb.

The reduction represents about two percent of the total work force of 19,500 people at GE's Evendale plant, headquarters of the company's Aircraft Engine

The layoffs are largely due to completion or near-completion of several major military jet engine contracts, GE officials said in announcing the layoffs to

General Electric, which has headquarters in Fairfield, Conn., recently completed production of F101 engines for the B-1B bomber and said it will end cF6-50 engines used respectively on large military and commercial aircraft.

• Japanese Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita pledged to work for an era of "dialogue and cooperation" with the United States to improve the world economy. But after meeting with Takeshita, U.S. Trade Representative Clayton Yeutter said a Japanese trade proposal fell short of American expectations.

• The Labor Department issued its last wholesale price report for 1987, saying producer prices rose a modest 2.2 percent for the year, aided by a 0.3 percent decline in December.

• The Commerce Department said a spurt of automobile buying in December produced a strong finish for retail sales in 1987, belying a year of weak growth. Sales were up 0.7 percent last month and 3.5 percent for the year.

· Domestic automakers said the daily sales rate for domestically built cars and trucks jumped 21.8 percent in early January from the highly depressed period a year ago.

• The Federal Reserve said output at the nation's factories, mines and utilities was up 5.2 percent in December over the production level a year ago, the best annual showing since a 6.2 percent increase in 1984.

• The Commerce Department said business inventories shot up 0.8 percent in November while total sales declined 0.2 percenting. Sharply rising inventories and weak sales are likely to raise alarms among economists still uncertain about whether the United States will be able to escape a recession this year.

. The New York Stock Exchange began a test under which program traders were asked not to use its main computerized order system if the Dow Jones industrial average is up or down by 75 points or more from the previous day's close. Program trading has been blamed for contributing to the October stock market crash.

The Chicago Board of Trade set permanent daily price limits on its stock index futures, the first futures market to do so in an attempt to curb trading volatility.

• The bankruptcy committee representing major Texaco Inc. shareholders agreed to support the company's reorganization plan over a rival plan by takeover specialist Carl C. Icahn. In another development, Texaco said it was told by the Internal Revenue Service it may owe about $6.5 billion in back taxes.

 A federal judge ordered Amoco Corp. to pay $85.2 million to France and about 90 other plaintiffs for damages suffered when the supertanker Amoco Cadiz ran aground off the Brittany coast a decade ago and spilled 68 million gallons of oil.

• Federated Department Stores Inc. said developer Donald Trump asked for federal permission to buy at least $15 million worth of the company's stock, and Dart Group Corp., which abandoned a takeover attempt for Dayton Hudson Corp. after the stock market crash, said it wanted to buy at least $15 million of Stop & Shop Cos. Inc.

• Singer Co. agreed to a once-hostile $1.06 billion takeover bid by a group headed by Florida financier Paul Bilzerian. Bilzerian has said he may sell off the core aerospace divisions of the former sewing machine maker and keep its gas meter manufacturing and electric tool

Sterling Drug Inc. sued to block a hostile $4.2 billion takeover bid by F. Hoffmann-La Roche & Co. Ltd., alleging the Swiss pharmaceutical company's tender offer violated federal securities law. American Home Products Corp. extended the bidding war for A.H. Robins Co., offering to pay shareholders $700 million in stock as well as pay claims resulting from the Dalkon Shield birth control device.

Hostile takeover of bank is shaping up

DERBY (AP) - A shareholders' challenge to the board of directors of Derby Savings Bank is being backed by developer Joseph Monaco in an initial step toward possible hostile takeover, according to published report Friday.

The Evening Sentinel of Ansonia in a copyright story, said Monaco recently increased his holdings in DS Bancor Inc., the holding company for Derby Savings, to 6.2 percent of the shares outstanding. He said he will support a shareholders' fight to replace four of the 12 members of the bank's board of directors.

Monaco explained he was taking that action because of what he termed "the continuing lack of responsiveness of the board and

Although a win by a challenge slate in a proxy fight would not give Monaco and his supporters control-ling interest on the board, banking insiders told The Sentinel that a victory would give them significan leverage over the bank's

Bidwell says Cardinals bound for Phoenix

By Rick Warner The Associated Press

NEW YORK - St. Louis Cardinals owner William Bidwill told the NFL Friday that he wants to move the team to Phoenix, Ariz., before the start of next season because "we can be more competitive there "

Bidwill said the warm weather and stadium arrangement in Arizona were the main reasons he requested the

"One of the things I like about it is that I was sitting next to a man from Phoenix on the plane coming in and he told me it was 72 degrees there," Bidwill said at NFL headquarters following a one-hour meeting with Commissioner Pete

To gain league approval, the move must be supported by at least 21 of the 28 club owners. The owners will vote on Bidwill's request at the league's annual meeting in March or possibly before then. Ironically, the meeting will be held in Phoenix this year

Cleveland Browns owner Art Modell said he would support the move if a vote were held today. "No one wants to see a franchise move." he said. "But Billy Bidwill has kept the league informed for four years bout the problems he's been having in St. Louis. This is no overnight move. It appears it got to the point where he couldn't operate in St. Louis anymore." Asked if he would take legal action against the NFL if his request is rejected, Bidwill said: "I certainly don't want to sue anyone. If the Cardinals move, it would be the third NFL franchise shift in the 1980s: The Raiders moved from Oakland to Los Angeles in 1982. Two years later, the

St. Louis left with 'hole'

By Lori Dodge The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS (AP) - Many football fans in St. Louis were less inclined to bid fond farewell to their NFL team than they were to say good riddance to owner William Bidwill, who announced after months of speculation that he intended to move his franchise to Phoenix.

"It's horrible," said Beatrice Carbaugh. 57, a seamstress and avid Cardinals fan. "We've backed them up all these years - including years when the team was really terrible. We sat out in the snow and everything, and then he Secretary Mayme Clark, 51, said she hated to see the Cardinals move. "But I'm glad Bidwill is leaving. He could have let us know his decision sooner instead of drawing it out for so long."

For some of the players, Bidwill's announcement left a hollow feeling but

"The nature of the game doesn't allow you to have any guarantees," guard Joe Bostic said. "I feel like this is more like trading 55 guys to a different city."

"It's a shame," he said. "There's a legacy here, a heritage. It's going to be a

GENEVA, N.Y. - Dave O'Brien of Manchester won the 1000-meter freestyle with a time of 11:52 for Hobart College in a recent meet.

Red Sox, Boyd agree on terms

BOSTON - Boston pitcher Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd, who missed most of last season with an injured shoulder, has agreed to a one-year contract with the Red Sox, the team said Friday.

The club reportedly wanted the right-hander to take a salary cut, but no terms of the deal were announced. Boyd began last season on the disabled list with a sore right shoulder, was activated June 22 and put back on the list for the rest of the season on July 31. He had surgery on the shoulder Aug. 21.

Boyd made just seven starts, compiling a 1-3 record and a 5.89 earned run average in 36 2-3 innings. The previous season, when the Red Sox lost the World Series, he was 16-10 with a 3.78 ERA.

NHL hands out suspensions

MONTREAL - The National Hockey League on Friday suspended New York Islanders defenseman Steve Konroyd for four games and Pittsburgh Penguins forward Randy Cunneyworth for three games for a stick-swinging incident in a game on Jan.

In a separate incident. Cunneyworth was given a five-game suspension as the result of a major penalty for high-sticking in a game against Boston on Dec. 29

Viola signs new pact with Twins

MINNEAPOLIS - Frank Viola, the Most Valuable Player in last year's World Series, has agreed in principle to a two-year contract worth $2.9 million with the Minnesota Twins. The Associated Press learned

The agreement, the first multi-year pact in Viola's career, calls for base salaries of $1.35 million in 1988 and $1.55 million in 1989. In addition, the left-hander would be eligible for $450,000 in performances bonuses in each of the two years and $100,000 in award bonuses.

Viola made $850,000 in 1987, compiling a 17-10 record and a 2.90 ERA. His ERA was second-best in the American League. He was seventh in the league in strikeouts, 10th in innings pitched and sixth in games

The Twins announced Thursday that right-handed relief pitcher Juan Berenguer signed a one-year, $500,000 pact with an option for a 1989 extension worth

Johnson was hurt on a late hit by Houston linebacker John Grimsley, who drove his helmet into the fallen Johnson. After practice Wednesday, Johnson seemed to be recovering. But he didn't work Thursday and then numbness in the right leg forced his hospitalization that night. He was diagnosed as having internal bleeding.

"If he hemorrhages again, he'll probably need surgery," Reeves said. Johnson, who had 42 receptions for a 16.3-yard average and seven touch-downs, has been one of three big-play receivers for Denver. Group fighting 'racist' nicknames

By Tony Kennedy

MINNEAPOLIS - Team names like the Washington Redskins and Cleveland Indians have no more place in sports than would the San Diego Caucasians or Kansas City Jews, says a group fighting Indian references it considers racist. Concerned American Indian Parents is distributing 1,000 posters featuring pennants for the fictitious teams. The poster, which also pictures an authentic Cleveland Indians pennant, is designed to raise awareness of the Issue by offending people, said Phil St. John, leader of the Minneapolis-based

"To most people Indian nicknames are disconnected from being racist," St. John said. "They can't talk about the pain because they don't feel it."

The posters were created by Minneapolis-based Martin-Williams Advertising Inc. and funded in part by the National Conference of Christians and Jews. Copies have been circulated around the country and mailed to team owners, including the Redskins' Jack Kent Cooke

St. John mailed a letter to Cooke on Thursday pleading for a change in the Redskins' name. A change in the name of the National Football League

"I have no comment," Cooke said in a telephone interview from Los Angeles.

Other names the group would like to see changed include the Kansas City Chiefs, Atlanta Braves. Chicago Blackhawks, St. John's Redmen and North Dakota Fighting Sioux.

'Greek' criticized for remark

By Rick Warner The Associated Press

Halffime: 25-11 Enfield.

NEW YORK (AP) - CBS Sports commentator Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder said Friday that if blacks "take over coaching jobs like everybody wants them to, there's not going to be anything left for the white people.

In an interview with WRC-TV in Washington, nyder also said a black athlete is better than a white because "he's been bred to be that way because of his thigh size and big size."

Snyder was interviewed at Duke Zeibert's, a popular Washington restaurant. WRC reporter Ed Hotaling went there on Martin Luther King's birthday to ask people about the progress blacks have made in society.

Parts of the Snyder interview were telecast

Friday night on the "CBS Evening News." CBS anchor Dan Rather said WRC, an NBC owned and operated station, was flooded with complaints after t broadcast Snyder's remarks.

Rather then read an apology from Snyder: 'I'm truly sorry for my remarks earlier today and I offer a full, heartfelt apology to all I may have offended." Snyder said. Snyder, known for his predictions on sporting events, has worked on CBS' "NFL Today" show for 12 years. He was in Washington for the NFC Championship game between Minnesota and the Redskins.

CBS spokeswoman Susan Kerr said no decision had been made as to whether Snyder will work Sunday's broadcast.

In the WRC interview. Snyder said blacks have been bred to be better athletes since the Civil War.

CELTICS CROWN KINGS

NBA Roundup

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics used the scoring of Kevin McHale and Larry Bird and a 14-0 spurt to take a 34-11 lead after one quarter, and rolled to a 122-86 victory over the Sacramento Kings Friday night.

The Kings never were in the game after the midpoint of the opening period. The closest they came in the last three quarters was 63-44 with 10:03 left in the third quarter.

The Celtics, led 5-4 before scoring the next 14 points, eight by Bird, to take a 19-4 lead with 5:55 left in the quarter.

McHale had 14 of his 24 points and Bird had 13 of his 27 in the period. Sacramento hit three of 19 shots, while Boston made 15 of 22 in the

The loss marred former Celtics center Bill Russell's first game at Boston Garden as Sacramento's coach.

The Kings, who are 1-14 on the road, were led by Kenny Smith with 16 points.

The Celtics scored the first six points of the second period and led 61-38 at halftime. They stretched their lead to 98-55 with 39 seconds left in the third quarter as Danny Ainge capped an 18-0 run in which he had 10 points with his fifth 3-point field goal. Ainge, who had 29 points, extended his NBA record to 18 straight games with at least one

It was the second consecutive rout by the Celtics, who beat Detroit 143-105 Wednesday night. Boston has won 40 of its last 42 regularseason home games.

76ers 119, Knicks 104

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Charles Barkley scored 35 points and Cliff Robinson had 19 of his 20 points as the Philadelphia 76ers outscored the New York Knicks 69-46 in the second half for a 119-104 NBA victory Friday night.

The win was the Sixers' sixth in their last seven games, while the Knicks have lost 15 of 16 road games this season, including 10 in a row.

New York grabbed an 18-6 advantage midway through the first period and led 58-50 at halftime.

Philadelphia took its first lead of the game, 64-63, on a 3-point shot by Barkley with 8: 42 left in the third quarter.
