Small increase sought

HARTFORD — State Education Commissioner Gerald N. Tirozzi will propose a $1.3 billion budget for 1989-90, representing the smallest percentage increase since he took office.

The proposal calls for a 14.3 percent increase over the 1988-89 budget year compared to a 25 percent increase proposal last year.

"We're slowing down a bit. There is a lot on our plate and we need to do it well," Tirozzi said Thursday.

The proposed budget goes to the state Board of Education Wednesday and to Gov. William A. O'Neill in September. The governor presents his budget recommendations to the General Assembly in February.

Car crackdown urged

WETHERSFIELD — The Department of Motor Vehicles is asking municipal and university police departments and resident state troopers to crack down on state emissions law scofflaws.

"We are currently experiencing a time of reduced compliance and will appreciate all the help we can get," said DMV's Deputy Commissioner Edwin X. O'Dea.

Lobbyists gain entry

HARTFORD — At least until the next legislative session convenes, lobbyists will be allowed in the heretofore exclusive legislators' dining room in the new Legislative Office Building.

That was the decision Thursday by the Legislative Management Committee — a decision that angered House Speaker Irving J. Stelberg.

"I don't feel I am going to be eating in there anymore," Stelberg, D-New Haven, said after the voice vote in which he was the only apparent dissenter among members of the committee, which oversees Capitol operations.

ANNIVERSARY RIDE — Ellen and Ted Paullin, married 50 years ago Thursday, prepare for a balloon ride over the Farmington valley despite the rain and Ted's confinement to a wheelchair. He is the great-grandson of William Paullin, a famous balloonist of the 1800s.

Crossfire kills man

BRIDGEPORT — Mayor Thomas W. Bucelloni was fatally shot in a crossfire involving unidentified men armed with automatic weapons.

Bucelloni was shot while riding Thursday, including two police officers and an additional two-officer patrol car.

Anthony Bridgeport was shot once in the back while walking with a friend at 9:36 p.m., police said. He ran about 30 feet before collapsing on a sidewalk.

DOT pays for trees

WETHERSFIELD — The $100,000 state Department of Transportation has agreed to pay for cutting wetland trees without a permit will be used to finance any of several environmental projects.

The department agreed Thursday to pay the penalties and restitution for clearing trees near the Connecticut River last year without the necessary permits.

William Schaefer, staff attorney for the Connecticut Fund for the Environment, said the money will be used by the state Department of Environmental Protection.

The fund, a private, non-profit organization, had intervened as a party to the DEP's enforcement action against the transportation department, Schaefer said.

GOP ousts Scott

EAST HARTFORD — State Republican Chairman Robert S. Polner and other backers of U.S. Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. won a victory with the election of a Greenwich woman as chairman of the state GOP platform committee over conservative state Sen. Thomas Scott of Milford.

Cynthia P. Rubicam was elected during a wild, raucous meeting Thursday night of the platform committee in the party's East Hartford headquarters.

"This is a ramrod job... not very astute on Polner's part," Scott said afterward.

"He has effectively alienated a majority of the mainstream of Republicans in Connecticut."

War hero is jailed

HARTFORD — A Vietnam War hero has been sentenced to 18 years in prison for cocaine trafficking despite pleas for leniency because of the horrors he's lived through.

Joseph Luca, 42, of New Britain was convicted in a trial Tuesday of selling cocaine with intent to sell. He was arrested in November after selling cocaine to an undercover officer.

As a 20-year-old Marine in Vietnam in 1965, Luca was awarded the Navy Cross, one of the nation's highest military honors, after he dodged heavy fire to rescue four wounded comrades near Da Nang.

Vets won't accept apology by Fonda

NAUGATUCK (AP) — A group of Vietnam War veterans says it won't accept actress Jane Fonda's televised apology for her anti-war activities during the war.

The Veterans Coalition Against Hanoi Jane "unanimously rejects Jane Fonda's apology as televised last Friday. We question the sincerity of it," Joseph Griggs of Waterbury, an Army veteran of Vietnam, said Thursday.

The Waterbury Republican reported in today's edition that 35 to 40 people attended a stormy, closed-door session at a Naugatuck Veterans of Foreign Wars post and emerged with a 7-0 vote to reject Fonda's apology televised nationally by ABC on June 17.

The ballots reflect the opinions of coalition executive board members authorized to vote.

Griggs said the coalition also wants to make clear that a private meeting Fonda has with veterans on Saturday in a Naugatuck church was not authorized by the coalition.

"She has agreed to meet with the coalition this summer, probably late next month. I'm not saying we'll never accept an apology from her," he said.

JULIUS GOLD — "one of those things" ... PAUL NEWMAN — "mistrial 'unfortunate'"

Newman case jurors nowhere near verdict

By Linda Stowell
The Associated Press

Fairfield University, said a number of the jurors were "extremely disappointed."

"As of tomorrow (the trial) would have lasted exactly one month and this month has been wasted now," Grassi said.

The jury, which had deliberated for eight hours over two days, was sent home Wednesday after its foreman told the court that it had received depositions from Gold and some defendants, and wanted to see Newman's attorney.

W. Patrick Ryan, Newman's attorney, said Wednesday it appeared the clerk who took the exhibits into the jury room inadvertently also took the depositions.

"We were nowhere near close to a verdict," said juror Janice Mayeran of Fairfield.

Mayeran and another juror, Timothy Morris of Bridgeport, said there was a possibility of a hung jury if the trial hadn't ended.

Bridgeport Superior Court Judge Howard Zorski declared the mistrial after jurors sent a note saying they couldn't ignore depositions that weren't admitted as evidence, but were inadvertently turned over to them Wednesday, the second day of deliberations.

The judge's ruling reversed one he made minutes earlier instructing jurors to disregard copies of depositions from Gold and others involved in the case.

A note delivered to the judge just before noon said, "Some members do not feel an unbiased opinion can be rendered in light of their reading of an amount of the depositions."

After reading the note, Zorski said he had no choice but to order a mistrial.

After the mistrial was announced, Newman, standing in the lobby, thanked jurors for their efforts. He called the mistrial "a terrible, unfortunate circumstance," adding that "I always thought this case had no merit, and Mr. Gold did not have a case."

Newman, who said he was ready for another trial, also blasted Gold's attorney, Richard Albrecht, saying he was "arrogant and abusive."

Albrecht responded by saying that Newman is entitled to his opinion.

"The fact of the matter is I didn't have his attention... but then he started to bring his wife, and then his children. Clearly, I had his attention," Albrecht said.

Gold said a mistrial "is one of those things that happens," and he vowed to continue pursuing the lawsuit he filed five years ago.

"I was a private unknown person going against someone of world status," Gold said.

Attorneys for Newman indicated they would file a motion Monday, asking the judge to decide the case in their favor. There was no immediate indication from the judge as to how the case will eventually be resolved.

Arnold Bai, an attorney for food distributor David Kaiman, who is also being sued, said the mistrial was "unfortunate but it's something the judge had to do."

None of the would consider a settlement.

Jurors were ordered not to talk about the case after the mistrial was declared, but some indicated to reporters that the panel wasn't close to reaching a verdict and some were disappointed about the mistrial.

DMR gets money if it can explain

HARTFORD (AP) — Legislators emerged from an emergency meeting agreeing to provide additional funds to the Department of Mental Retardation if the department adequately explains a $6 million budget shortfall.

DMR Commissioner Brian Lenskink said this week that the budget error for 1988-89 would mean that about 200 mentally retarded people who were supposed to move into private group homes would not be able to do so.

A federal magistrate overseeing compliance with a court approved plan to place the residents said the situation was an emergency and ordered DMR officials to try and resolve the problem with the help of legislators.

"Before we indicate that any additional dollars are going to be made available we have an awful lot of questions that have to be answered," state Rep. Janet Polinsky, D-Waterford, co-chairwoman of the Appropriations Committee, said after legislators and DMR officials met Thursday.

Still to be answered are questions like how did the error occur, who is responsible and what other departmental programs can be cut to help make up the shortage in the placement program.

"That's what we're going to take a hard look at," Lenskink said.

Twenty-six group homes across the state are scheduled to begin opening in July to accept mentally retarded people from private homes, nursing homes and institutions like Mansfield Training School.

"We're going to make the placements and we'll find the dollars to do it as scheduled," Lenskink said.

The group homes that he had scheduled to make up 324 placements this year will all open and they'll open relatively on schedule."

U.S. Magistrate F. Owen Egan said Wednesday that the situation is the most serious problem to date in the 1985 court-approved plan to place mentally retarded people in group homes across the state.

"The court considers this an emergency," said Egan.

Egan's comments came during a regularly scheduled hearing on the state's compliance with the plan, which was drafted to settle a 1978 class action suit against the state.

Hospital neighbors organize for 'clout'

By Anita M. Coldwell
Manchester Herald

Neighbors who successfully opposed a plan by Manchester Memorial Hospital to set up a day-care center on South Alton Street have formed an association that will give them "clout."

"The purpose of the association," said Norm Patis of 124 W. Middle Turnpike, "is to give us some clout."

The association, formed after a meeting Thursday night, is called the Walthorne Neighborhood Association. The association is named after the streets in the area, including West Middle Turnpike, Alton, South Alton and Hawthorne Streets.

Patis met with about 22 residents who had expressed interest in forming a group to keep abreast of the future plans of Manchester Memorial Hospital, even though the hospital withdrew its plans Tuesday to put the center in a house it owned at 11 S. Alton St. The hospital had requested a variance and a special exception permit from the Zoning Board of Appeals.

"I think we're entitled to know what the plans are before reading them in the newspaper," Patis said, adding that the hospital indicated in its letter of withdrawal to the neighbors that it has only "postponed" the plans, not canceled them.

But at least one neighbor said he opposed the association and spoke in defense of hospital President Michael Gallacher.

"Look what he's had to confront," said William Hansen of 56 W. Middle Turnpike, referring to the nursing shortage.

The proposed day-care center was an effort by the hospital to help recruit new employees.

"No one has claimed that the hospital is an evil institution,"

Patis said.

Members of the association elected Patis as president and Bernard Collet of 114 W. Middle Turnpike as vice president. Jo Ann Ebdon, of 76 S. Hawthorne St., was elected treasurer, and Vicki Young of South Alton Street took minutes for the group's first meeting.

A smaller committee was also formed to develop language for the by-laws. Members of that committee are Ebdon, chairman, and Collet and Alice Patis.

Meanwhile, Patis and Hansen carried on an amiable debate.

"I'll be at your door every night," Patis said jokingly when Hansen said he might consider being a member but would probably continue to oppose the group's actions.

"I have three kids bigger than you," Hansen teased back.

Patis went so far as to welcome Hansen's "devil's advocate" manner in order to keep the group on its toes.

In other action, Liz Dolgner made a motion that Patis try to become an honorary board of trustee member of the hospital "to look out for our best interest."

After members voted in favor of the motion, one resident's comment sparked laughter.

"Maybe once you're up there, they'll give you a job. Then we'll lose our president," she said.

OPINION

Maybe Nate can do good with military

By Nate Agostinelli
Nate Agostinelli

The intervention of Nathan Agostinelli into Manchester's problem with the Army Corps of Engineers does not seem, at first glance, like a very important part of the titanic struggle over the wetlands permits for sewage-plant improvements. But Agostinelli's role as an aide to the secretary of the Army may prove helpful to the town. His chief function is to act as liaison between the military and the civilian population of Connecticut.

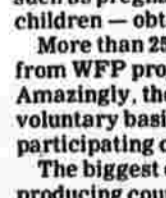

Make every minute count

Now an expert on the subject has told us what we have known all along. We spend too much of our lives waiting around to do something we really don't want to do instead of doing what we enjoy doing.

The upshot of the calculations was that we spend about five years of our lives in those unrewarding pursuits. Fortino thinks we should all be looking around for faster grocery stores and banks so we can get back some of that time to spend on things we value.

World food agency a big success story

Recently, I was invited to address the participants at an international conference in Rome convened to mark the 25th anniversary of the World Food Program. This is one of the most successful and yet little known of all international assistance efforts.

BRIDGE

Ingenuity and luck
Draw Cannell of Canada and Panama is not afraid to bid. In today's deal, he got into the bidding early. When his partner showed considerable playing strength with a club bid, Draw introduced his second suit. Although the opponents could not come close to making four spades, it was better to play five diamonds doubled if it could be made. That required a bit of luck, as well as declarer ingenuity. East won the heart ace and returned the queen of hearts. Declarer played the king, West ruffed and led a spade. Declarer ruffed, drew two rounds of trumps and led the queen of clubs. When that held, he continued with the jack, happily noting the fall of East's 10. But there was more work. Declarer ruffed a heart, ruffed a spade from dummy and led his last heart. If you were West, what would you discard?
