Boy frustrated while he waits for wheelchair

Plan is proposed for town portion of $15 million
 By Andrew Yurkowsky and Nancy Concelmon
 Manchester Herald

Norman Cyr's motorized wheelchair broke, neighbors were so upset they decided to raise funds to help the Cyr's either repair the boy's wheelchair or buy a new one.

"I was devastated," said Susan Ratches of Harry Road who had planned to help coordinate the fund-raising efforts. But the eager neighbors soon found out they might have acted too soon to help the 10-year-old Lydell Street boy who suffers from muscular dystrophy.

This turned out to be more a battle of bureaucratic red tape than it did a battle of the bucks.

Since Norman's wheelchair broke three weeks ago, both his parents and the Muscular Dystrophy Association, which helped pay for the motorized chair, have been trying to get a vendor to repair it. The only problem is the vending company is under new ownership, and trying to get through to them has been, well, difficult.

The Massachusetts-based company, Continuing Care Association, has not returned any phone calls to the CCA, said she feels she's been put off. The MDA, which also has tried on many occasions to reach the vendor, also said it has been unsuccessful.

Dan Marquis, district director for the MDA, said the division of the company that distributes the wheelchair has been sold. He believes personal changes due to the restructuring of the company is partly to blame for the pleas falling on deaf ears.

"We're repaying them to provide a service and they darn well better do that in a timely fashion," Marquis said.

Dr. Daniel Burnes, chief executive officer and president of CCA, said today, "The company has gone through a restructuring. During the transition, it's been difficult to maintain communication."

But he was quick to add, "I will personally see if I can get the customer service representative to call the MDA today."

Meanwhile, having to use the manual chair again has taken away much of Norman Cyr's feeling of independence, his mother said.

"It's very un-nerving," Cyr's mother, Irene, said. With the motorized chair, she said, "he's equal." Now she said, he's more restricted.

"I'd rather go by myself than have somebody push me," Norman Cyr said. "Now I can't go around the block and talk to anyone."

She Wants the Baby Back
 Christina Maria Locato, 24, of Staten Island, N.Y., talks with attorney John Williams in a Redwood City, Calif., courtroom Thursday during her arraignment on charges of child endangerment.

She allegedly gave birth to a baby girl on a United Airlines jet and abandoned the infant under the restroom sink Tuesday.

Now she says she is sorry and wants the baby back. Story on Page 10.

HOUSING HELP SOUGHT
 By Anita M. Caldwell
 Manchester Herald

In an effort to combat the affordable housing crisis, town officials are considering joining the state-sponsored Local Housing Partnership and develop a plan to build low-income housing.

The Housing Subcommittee, which includes subcommittee chair, Councilor Kenneth Tedford, and Treasurer, Councilor Kenneth Tedford, and Treasurer, Councilor Kenneth Tedford, would oversee the activities of the Local Housing Partnership, Handley said.

"I think it's a good idea because we want the project to go forward," DiRoza said today. He said other Democratic directors also believe that the idea is a good one.

INFORMATIONAL PICKETS — Irene Franklin, George LaPage and Daniel St. Onge, all of East Hartford, picket outside the Bradlee's Department store on West Middle Turnpike. The three, all members of the United Food and Commercial Workers Union Local 919, say that management is carrying out negotiations with the union in "bad faith" over a leveraged buyout by King, Kolberg, Kravis & Roberts.

Tenant complaints are secret in rent cases but not names

By Andrew Yurkovsky Manchester Herald

Tenant and landlord agreements that are reached by the Fair Rent Commission through informal meetings can remain confidential, an assistant town attorney told commission members Thursday.

The commission agreed to have the chairman, Joseph V. Campese Jr., assign two commission members to each of the three complaints received so far. The members will attempt to resolve each complaint through an informal meeting, or "conciliation," with the tenant and the landlord.

If an agreement is reached, the case will go to a formal hearing of the commission. The commission set July 28 as the hearing date for the three complaints.

The seven-member commission, which was established by the town Board of Directors last year, met in the gym room at Lincoln Center Thursday night to finish working out its procedures.

Teachers get ideas from summer jobs

By Andrew J. Davis Manchester Herald

Sherill Jamo and Chris Cadiz are spending the summer trying to become better teachers.

Jamo, a Manchester High School English teacher from Southbury, is not spending her summer vacation lying in the sun on a Florida beach or sleeping late while her neighbors go off to work. Instead, she is spending it as a technical writer-document analyst for the Torrington Co. of Torrington, which manufactures mainly automobile bearings.

She received her chance to spend her summer working in the business world by being one of 34 teachers awarded fellowships by the Connecticut Business and Industry Association of Hartford.

The C.B.I.A. is the state's largest business organization and sets up such programs through its education foundation. By working for a business during the summer, Jamo said she will be able to bring fresh ideas and everyday experiences to the classroom. Those are things that cannot be taught from a textbook, she said.

"I'll bring this back in the fall," Jamo said. "I'm not talking just the abstract, but situations I have seen. (Teachers) aim toward real-life needs. This is actively working for this kind of writing."

While Jamo is working this summer in Torrington, Cadiz is in Meriden working for Canberra Industries, a company which markets equipment to detect radiation levels. Cadiz, a Bolton High School math and science teacher who lives in Manchester, is a marketing-sales physics research analyst for Canberra.

He will spend the summer writing a paper on the reaction rate in chemical decay. Spending the summer in a business also will help Cadiz become a better teacher, he said.

"If we don't get teachers out into the community, they're teaching blind," Cadiz said. "It should be mandated."

The experience also will help him relate to students who often want to know why they have to learn a particular subject, he said. Next school year, he will be able to tell students how textbook knowledge relates to the business world, he said.

"I can say 'these are the skills you need, why you need it and why you should pay attention,'" Cadiz said.

The job also has some practical applications for Cadiz. While he may want to spend the summer on vacation, he said he just bought a house and needs to pay the mortgage.

"I've tuned into the philosophy: If I have to work, make a lot of money," he said.

The 34 teachers have been placed in positions at 26 companies throughout the state. The eight-to-10 week assignments pay from $450 to $600 a week, officials said.

Union drive at hospital

LPNs, technicians targeted in petition

By Andrew J. Davis Manchester Herald

The United Food and Commercial Workers Union has filed a petition to unionize non-union practical nurses and technicians at Manchester Memorial Hospital. The petition was withdrawn "without prejudice," meaning the union was free to refile at any time without penalty. The NLRB is responsible for validating the percentage of employees interested in joining a union.

Between May and July, the union has held admission drives in order to sign enough employees to be represented by the union, he said.

The petition was filed with the NLRB Thursday afternoon. Sauter said. The union can refile to unionize other non-union employees at a later date, he said.

The NLRB will investigate the petition, and if everything is in order, will set up a meeting between union and hospital officials, Sauter said.

Besides LPNs, the petition includes x-ray technicians, EKG technicians, lab technicians and nursing assistants, said Local 919 spokesman Lisa T. Meneuc. She would not say how many people were included in the petition, but said the union had the required 30 percent of affected employees.

Manchester Memorial Hospital spokesman Andrew A. Beck said today that the hospital has not been notified of the petition.

"We have not seen the petition," Beck said this morning. "As of 9 o'clock, we have not been notified."

While Beck said he was initially surprised to hear of the union's move, he said hospital officials have been waiting for such a development. "I think we made it clear we knew ... it was not a permanent move," he said of the decision to withdraw the petition.

Beck reserved further comment until hospital officials are able to look over the petition.

On April 28, the union filed a petition to unionize 264 of the 800 non-union employees of the hospital. However, the union withdrew its petition on May 13 after it was notified by the NLRB that it did not have a commitment from the required 30 percent of non-union employees.

Only about 28 percent of the non-union employees signed with the union initially. The initial petition called for the unionization of LPNs, technical employees, service and maintenance employees, and medical clerical employees.

Currently, only the 218 registered nurses at the hospital are unionized. They belong to the Federation of Nurses and Health Professionals union which has been really terrific," Garside said. "There really has been a groundswell for Carl. He's really out there working."

The 56-year-old Zinsner represented the district for three terms in the state Senate before being defeated by Meotti in 1986.

Garside is a member of the rules committee for the convention while Curt Smith, former Manchester Republican Town Committee chairman, is a member of the resolutions committee.

Garside said he was confined despite a squabble last month over whether he should be on the convention. Weicker will run against Attorney General Joseph I. Lieberman, a Democrat.

Weicker is seeking a fourth term. Local delegates also are optimistic about Republican candidate Carl Zinsner of Manchester, who's running against Sen. Michael P. Meotti, D-Glastonbury, for the 4th Senate district seat, which includes Manchester, Glastonbury, Hebron, Bolton and Columbia.

"The response (to Zinsner) has been really terrific," Garside said. "There really has been a groundswell for Carl. He's really out there working."

State shuts home for aged, citing rats and abuse

HARTFORD (AP) — State health officials were hustling today to complete the evacuation of a home for the aged they ordered closed after inspectors turned up filthy conditions and evidence of abuse of residents.

The state moved Thursday to close the Mansion House of Hartford, where inspectors said they found numerous violations of health codes including rat burrows, roaches, peeling plaster, leaking toilets, dirty and cracked windows, stained bed linens and mattresses, and missing slats in staircases.

The seven-page order suspending the home's license from the state Department of Health Services said inspectors also discovered that residents "were not kept free of mental and or physical abuse."

In addition, the state charged, two employees, a person in charge and an attendant were drunk while at work on a number of occasions.

Florence Savoy, who has owned and operated the Mansion House for 38 years, denied that conditions at the home were unhealthy. She denied seeing rats or roaches and said the bed linens were changed weekly.

Some other conditions cited by the state have been corrected, Savoy said. She said it was difficult to keep windows intact because some residents broke them.

"You always need repairs of some type," she said. "The man that built the Mark Twain (house nearby) built this house and it's always in need of something and the state don't pay enough money for that."

Savoy explained that virtually all her "boarders," who ranged in age from 77 to 93, some of whom are disabled, receive state or federal aid of some sort.

Mansion House's license is suspended effective at noon today.

'Reasonable doubt' deadlocks jurors

NEW LONDON (AP) — The judge in the Richard Crafts murder trial gave the jury a second explanation of "reasonable doubt" despite objections from the defense attorney. The judge's second explanation, such as an attorney's name is inappropriate.

Action J. Daniel Sagarin said Superior Court Judge Barry R. Schaller's second explanation of the definition to jury was slanted in the prosecution's favor.

Sagarin said the judge's instructions emphasized that a reasonable doubt is not and were therefore unbalanced and misleading.

The jury ended its 16th day of deliberations without reaching a verdict, adjourning at 5:10 p.m. Thursday. The panel was scheduled to resume deliberations at 9:30 a.m. Friday.

Struggling to reach a verdict in a case built on circumstantial evidence, the 12-member Superior Court jury sent out a note at 10:50 a.m. asking Schaller for more instructions "in any form deemed appropriate" regarding the defense attorney's charge.

Schaller responded at 12:15 p.m. with a rewritten version of his original instructions, or charge to the jury, on the point in question. He told jurors he had revised the explanation to "make it somewhat simpler."

To convict Crafts of murder, the state had the burden of proving beyond a reasonable doubt, that Crafts' wife is dead, that her husband killed her and that he intended to kill her.

The jury began deliberating Crafts' fate June 23. Crafts is accused of murdering his wife, Helle, in November 1986 and disposing of her body using a chainsaw and wood chipper.

Schaller spent nearly 10 minutes explaining the concept of reasonable doubt, prefacing his remarks by saying "a precise definition is not possible."

Reasonable doubt is "based on reason and not on the mere possibility of innocence," he said, something for which "a valid reason can be assigned" and is not "a conjecture or a fanciful doubt," Schaller said during his instructions.

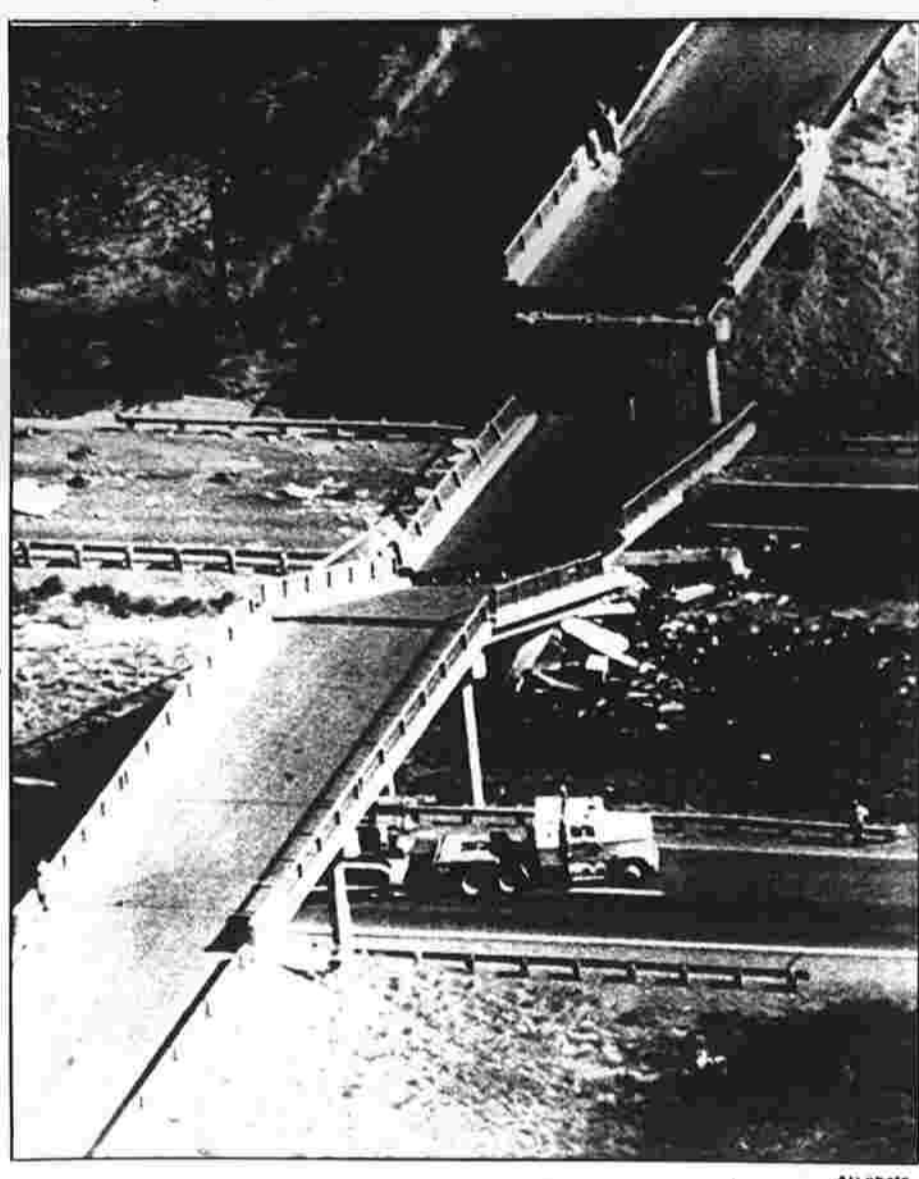

After the jurors were excused Sagarin rose quickly to his feet to object to the judge's new charge. But his request for a third explanation of reasonable doubt, with the points he said should be included, was denied.

Medical debris found at beaches in state

By The Associated Press

Medical debris has been turning up on Connecticut's shoreline, but state and local health officials are not certain whether there is any connection with similar findings in New York and New Jersey.

"Right now, we're collecting information," Paula Pendleton, senior sanitarian at the state Department of Health Services, said Thursday. "The next step is to determine if any of these things constitute a cause for concern."

OVERPASS COLLAPSES — A moving van struck the support pilings for a county road overpass on Interstate 84 just east of Burley, Idaho, Thursday, causing two sections of the overpass to collapse on the van, killing one and closing the freeway in both directions.

Clean air aid urged

HARTFORD (AP) — The Connecticut Public Interest Research Group is calling on Connecticut's two U.S. senators to increase efforts to renew the federal Clean Air Act, which expires Aug. 31.

Leaders of the University of Connecticut-based group said Thursday that Connecticut has the worst acid rain in the country and the third-highest level of ozone pollution.

"There is an answer," said Michael Tertes of ConnPIRG. "ConnPIRG believes a renewed, strengthened Clean Air Act will solve our ozone problem and also our acid rain problem. The solution to Connecticut's dirty air is congressional action."

Around the state last week, the air averaged 30 percent to 40 percent over the maximum standard for ozone pollution. In some cases, Tertes said, peak levels were double the maximum.

Earlier this week, air pollution was so bad in Fairfield County that state environmental officials issued an alert and asked motorists to restrict their travel to only necessary trips.

"People with respiratory problems are severely affected by these levels," Tertes said. "Even healthy people can have trouble breathing."

He said ConnPIRG had collected 15,000 postcard signatures in support of renewing the Clean Air Act and that they would be forwarded to Connecticut's two senators, Republican Lowell P. Weicker Jr. and Democrat Christopher J. Dodd.

Both senators have supported the act in the past, but its renewal is in doubt because of opposition from Senate leaders, Tertes said.

"The political problems in Washington may be severe, but the air in Connecticut is so unhealthy that our congressional delegation must take the risks," Tertes said. "They face no political risks here in the state."

He said that the high ozone level is a result of "imported, dirty air, transported from New York and New Jersey."

ConnPIRG blames Connecticut's acid rain problem on a "dirty, high-sulfur coal mined in West Virginia and burned in Ohio." Tertes said rain in Connecticut is 30 times more acidic than normal levels.

Shays gets nomination

NORWALK — U.S. Rep. Christopher Shays has received the Republican nomination to run for his first full, two-year term in Congress from the state's 4th District.

The 124 delegates meeting Thursday night at Norwalk High School unanimously endorsed Shays, who won a special election last November to finish the unexpired term of the late Stewart McKinney, also a Republican.

McKinney died in May 1987 of an AIDS-related illness after serving 17 years in Congress.

Since Shays was the only declared candidate, the convention was a necessary formality to put his name on the ballot.

Before his election to Congress, Shays, 42, served 13 years in the General Assembly.

Suits against haulers

STAMFORD — State Attorney General Joseph I. Lieberman has filed lawsuits against many Stamford, Norwalk and Darien garbage carting companies accusing them of conspiring to allocate customers and territories, according to a report published today.

The Advocate of Stamford reported that the suits are the result of a three-year investigation into violations of anti-trust laws by garbage haulers. The newspaper said between 25 and 30 suits have or will be filed in Superior Court.

Frank Giannatasio Jr., vice president of G&G Waste Systems, a Stamford garbage firm, said he had been served with court papers by a sheriff on Wednesday.

Pratt parts probe

HARTFORD — Investigators are looking into allegations that raw materials for some jet engine components didn't undergo important tests before they were accepted from subcontractors by Pratt & Whitney's Florida plant, according to a report published Thursday.

Sources familiar with the investigation said that in no case were the suspect parts installed in military or commercial jet engines now in service.

Investigators from Pratt & Whitney and the U.S. Air Force are looking into the roles of more than a dozen subcontractors and three Pratt & Whitney employees, sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said.

The sources also said that no evidence of kickbacks or fraudulent paper work has been found yet.

Advisor admits guilt

BRIDGEPORT — A Wilton investment advisor accused of bilking clients of between $3.5 million and $4 million, has pleaded guilty in federal court.

James L. Condon, entered the plea Thursday to one count of mail fraud and faces up to five years in prison and a $1,000 fine when he is sentenced in September.

U.S. Attorney Stanley A. Twardy Jr. said the federal government had considered additional charges against Condon, but filed only one count as part of a plea bargain agreement.

Among other things, Condon is accused of turning $840,000 entrusted to him by an elderly man considering retirement — into $200,000.

Library cost focus of Coventry debate

By Nancy Concelman
Manchester Herald

COVENTRY — More than 20 residents attended a Special Town Meeting Thursday to ask questions about the proposed expansion and renovation of the Booth & Dimock Memorial Library before a resolution to increase funding for the project goes to referendum.

The current proposal for Booth & Dimock calls for expansion from about 3,400 to more than 11,800 square feet, John Pacholski, a member of the Booth & Dimock Library Board of Trustees said.

The existing building would be renovated and a two-story, 9,800 square-foot addition would be built. The parking lot would be expanded to hold 50 cars, compared to the 20 to 30 it holds now.

Clockwise from bottom right are: Joe Gray, 16, of Duxbury, Mass., 321 pounds; Mike Partelano, 30, of Struthers, Ohio, 716 pounds; Ron Miller, 25, of Marion, Ind., 500 pounds; an unidentified Gregory aide; Gregory and Nancy Gray, 48, mother of Joe, 338 pounds.

Bathtub can be 'lethal place' for your unattended toddler

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Many parents incorrectly assume it's safe to leave babies alone in a bathtub for brief periods, says a study that found old people and children face a similar risk of drowning in tubs and swimming pools.

Doctors should remind parents that the bathtub is still a potentially lethal place and that the child should not be left alone, even for brief periods, said Dr. Patrick W. O'Carroll, an epidemiologist at the national Centers for Disease Control. "These represent potential drowning sites for the elderly."

O'Carroll conducted the study with Alkon, the county's medical director for public health programs, and Billie Weiss, a county epidemiologist. They analyzed coroner's records of 1,587 drowning deaths in Los Angeles County from 1976 through 1984.

The study found that 44.5 percent of the drownings occurred in private pools and 15.6 percent in bathtubs.

But among children who drowned before age 2, 55 percent died in private pools and 25 percent in bathtubs. Among people who drowned after their 70th birthday, 50 percent died in private pools and 36 percent in bathtubs.

"It does suggest that maybe the elderly should think about having somebody around when they're swimming" and perhaps when bathing.

A review of death certificates from the two years covered by the study found that, of bathtub drowning victims younger than 2, none were younger than 9 months.

"Parents begin to think it's safe at about 9 months, and it clearly isn't," Alkon said.

About 5,300 people drown annually in the United States, and there are up to three times as many near-drownings, O'Carroll said by phone from Atlanta.

One-third of near-drownings result in moderate to severe brain damage, Dr. James Orloski of Cleveland wrote in an accompanying editorial, which said pool deaths have made drowning "an accident of affluence."

Judge apologizes for 'Ms.' outburst

PITTSBURGH (AP) — An elderly federal judge says he was only expressing the values of his generation when he ordered a female attorney to use her married name in court and threatened her with jail if she refused.

Senior U.S. District Judge Hubert Teitelbaum apologized Thursday to attorney Barbara Wolvovitz for scolding her in court when she refused to go by her husband's last name and later calling her "sweetie" when she asked for a mistrial.

"I have always referred to married women by their married name. This is the way my generation was taught, to express respect for the institution of marriage and the family," Teitelbaum told Ms. Wolvovitz and three other attorneys involved in a race discrimination trial.

"I recognize your right to be addressed in any manner in which you see fit, and I apologize for my comments and the resulting situation," he said.

"Three cheers!" said Molly Yard, president of the National Organization for Women.

"I think that he did what he had to do, and thank God he did it. I think it's raised everybody's consciousness, and that's fine," she said.

'Believers, believers' gap widens in churches

WASHINGTON (AP) — The number of Americans who believe in the divinity of Jesus Christ has increased in the last decade, but a smaller percentage belong to organized churches, according to a new Gallup Poll.

"The churches of America have made no headway in narrowing the gap between religious belief and church involvement, between believers and believers," said the polling organization's co-chairman, Gallup, in previewing the survey results Thursday.

The nationwide survey, called "The Unchurched American," found that 84 percent of those surveyed believe Christ is either God or the son of God, compared with 78 percent in a similar 1978 Gallup Poll. The number of survey respondents declaring they were committed to Jesus Christ increased from 60 percent to 66 percent.

Forty-four percent of respondents were classified as "unchurched" because they have not attended regular services in six months, compared with 40 percent in the 1978 survey.

The survey projects that 61 million American adults did not belong to any church in 1978, with the number increasing to 78 million today.

While churchgoers tend to have stronger beliefs than those who do not attend, the survey found considerable "faith" among the unchurched, Gallup said at a news conference.

The poll showed that 72 percent of those who do not attend church believe in Christ, 77 percent believe in God, 63 percent believe the Bible is inspired, 58 percent believe in an afterlife and 25 percent say they have had a "religious experience."

The $183,000 study, based on in-person interviews with 2,556 adults, was conducted by the Gallup Organization of Princeton, N.J., for 22 major religious organizations and is to be distributed at a National Festival of Evangelism in Chicago Aug. 4-7.

Gallup said the poll has a margin of error of plus or minus 3 percentage points, making the 18-year change in results on church participation and religious belief statistically significant.

"One might maintain that churches have done well to keep slippage at a minimum in view of the continued high mobility of most Americans during the decade, the distractions of modern life, and the apparent growing appeal of cults and non-traditional religions," Gallup said.

WEEKEND 'Little Shop of Horrors' offends, entertains

It's tough to compliment a man eating plant that's constantly hungry, and the guy who owns it, feeds it, and eventually offers up his lady-love as a sacrifice on his way to fame and fortune? Certainly.

Center Stage Nancy Pappas

But these two are the focal point of "Little Shop of Horrors," the current, beautifully crafted offering by the Nutmeg Summer Theatre.

laughing gas mask, in a truly revolting scene that smacks of auto-erotic asphyxiation. Clearly, Ashman was not promising a rose garden when he brought his strange script to the New York stage in 1982. This is a show with many wildly humorous numbers, which means to offend as it entertains.

Those who saw the season's first Nutmeg production, "The Man of La Mancha," will remember Bob Ball as the in-keeper who dubs Don Quixote a knight. That role did little to show the breadth of Ball's talents, which are really showcased in his portrayal of Seymour.

Rik Walter comes from the throat of Audrey II. With a sound like "The Big Bopper" (remember "Chantilly Lace")? Walter makes the plant both humorous and menacing.

IT'S GROWING — Bob Ball, as Seymour, places his amazing turquoise plant in the window of Mushnik's Skid Row Florist, in "Little Shop of Horrors," at Nutmeg Summer Theatre.

Dems hope to ease 'tensions'

By Evons WITT
The Associated Press

Democratic nominee-to-be Michael Dukakis insists he has a good relationship with Jesse Jackson even as his remaining rival asked former President Carter to help resolve "the creative tensions" between them.

Four days before the Democratic National Convention opens, Jackson was on the road again, winding his way to Atlanta and threatening challenges until the final convention session.

"We will exercise all of our rights," Jackson said in Chicago before an open convention. "We are prepared to deliberate and debate, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday."

A Carter spokeswoman, Carrie Harmon, confirmed that Carter had spoken with Jackson by telephone, but before he would comment on the conversation or whether he would get involved in any Jackson-Dukakis dispute.

Jackson said he had received an apology Thursday from Dukakis campaign chairman Paul Broutas about the problems Tuesday. Bentsen called Jackson as well.

Jackson insisted he was not simply angered about learning of Bentsen's choice from a reporter's question, although he did not spell out what his complaints are in detail.

Drought hikes raw food costs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices one step short of retail rose a moderate 0.4 percent in June, the government said today. But the drought searing much of the nation sent prices for raw food soaring at their steepest pace in more than 2½ years.

The Labor Department said raw costs jumped 4.2 percent last month, a rate not seen since October 1985. Further along in the wholesale process, however, prices for foods ready to be related rose 1.1 percent, reflecting earlier, though less severe, increases in raw food costs.

Some examples of price increases at the unprocessed food level:

- Wheat, 25.3 percent.
- Corn, 24.4 percent.
- Pork, 22.8 percent.
- Soybeans, 22.9 percent.
- Chicken, 22.5 percent.

Reflecting the fact that many farmers are slaughtering animals they cannot afford or find feed for, cattle prices fell 5.2 percent in June while pig prices were down 4.0 percent.

The news was not quite so severe at the finished-goods level. Prices for eggs rose 16.0 percent while turkey prices gained 11 percent, chicken prices jumped

It's a girl! but she was kidnapped

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — A secretary accused of kidnapping a newborn from a hospital had told her boss she was pregnant, took a maternity leave and then brought a baby to work to show it off, her employer says.

Employees put up an "It's a Girl!" banner, congratulating Linda Lou German and held the baby during the office visit Wednesday.

German, 26, of Wheelersburg, Ohio, was sent to a federal penitentiary in Lexington, Ky., for psychiatric tests Thursday following the safe return of three-day-old Lindsey Manns. The woman was charged with kidnapping.

It was "just a case of FBI agent Roger Nicely."

The infant was swapped from a maternity ward crib at Cabell Huntington Hospital on Tuesday by a woman in a nurse's uniform.

The baby was reunited with her parents, Linda and Donald Manns of Harts Creek, early Thursday after German returned the child to the hospital in good health.

"It's just an answer to our prayers to the Lord that got her back for us," said Manns, 23, a coal truck driver.

"It was just the happiest time of my life to see my baby again," said Mrs. Manns.

German's relatives called a special hospital hotline Wednesday night and German followed with her own call, telling FBI agents her relatives did not believe the infant was her own, authorities said.

German wanted to come in with the baby to prove to her mother and her stepfather it was her baby," said Assistant U.S. Attorney Joseph Savage.

German arrived at the hospital with the baby Wednesday night and told FBI agents she had given birth in early July at a Lexington, Ky., hospital, Savage said.

A call to the hospital found no record of the birth, and a doctor's exam concluded the baby had not given birth recently, Savage said.

German was taken into the room from which the infant was abducted and "begged to cry and admitted she remembered taking a baby, but was unable to remember what she did after she took the baby or what hospital she took the baby from," FBI agent James Kessler said.

Mom wants airliner baby back

'Very remorseful' about leaving newborn in restroom

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — A woman who gave birth in an airliner restroom, then left her newborn daughter stuffed beneath a sink is "very remorseful" and wants the child back, the woman's lawyer said.

Christina Marie Locasto, 24, surrendered to authorities early Thursday and pleaded innocent to felony child endangerment charges. She left the San Mateo County jail arm-in-arm with her husband after posting bail of $50,000.

Locasto, a New York City resident and the mother of two toddlers, faces up to six years in prison if convicted.

The blue-eyed, brown-haired baby was in good condition at Mills Memorial Hospital in San Mateo, which has received hundreds of calls from people offering to adopt the 8-pound, 9-ounce infant, spokeswoman Tracy Ward said.

San Mateo County officials took temporary custody of the child, dubbed Elizabeth by a hospital nurse, after the infant was found swathed in bloody towels, crying beneath a sink on the United Airlines DC-10 on Wednesday.

The jetliner had just completed Flight 35 from Newark, N.J., to San Francisco. The child was believed to have been under the sink for six hours.

Louis Locasto, 26, was unaware her wife was pregnant or had given birth aboard the plane, investigators said.

Flight attendants told investigators that as the jetliner crew was preparing for takeoff from Newark, a female passenger asked to use the bathroom. The flight was delayed for a half-hour as flight attendants knocked on the restroom door, urging the woman to come out so the trip could begin.

The woman finally emerged and joined her husband and their two children, investigators said. Flight attendants found the bathroom splattered with blood, but sealed it off in the belief the woman had an extreme case of diarrhea. It remained locked until after the plane landed.

About 20 minutes after the plane landed Wednesday morning at San Francisco International Airport, a cleaning crew found the infant crying amid a pile of blood-soaked towels under the sink. The Locastos left the airplane with other passengers.

After the flight, blood was found on one of the Locastos' airplane seats.

Using a passenger list, sheriff's detectives contacted the Locastos' relatives on the East Coast, and they in turn called relatives the couple were visiting in Altos, 25 miles south of San Francisco.

Locasto surrendered Thursday after her husband called sheriff's detectives.

None of the relatives were aware the woman was pregnant, said sheriff's Lt. Mike Dow.

"I am confident she did not plan to have the child on the plane," her attorney, John L. Williams, said after she appeared in court in an orange jail jumpsuit.

Williams described his client as "very remorseful, very distraught," adding she told him she wants to keep the baby. He refused to discuss the case further or reveal details of Locasto's background.

Assistant District Attorney Stephen Wagstaff said he did not know why she left the child on the airplane, and would not say whether Locasto has a criminal record or a history of mental or other problems.

A court hearing Monday will determine whether county officials should be given permanent custody of the infant. Elizabeth was placed in the custody of the Children's Protective Services section of the county Department of Social Services after being found.

Little else was known about the Locastos, who were described by their New York neighbors as a reclusive family.

The San Francisco Examiner reported that the couple married in April 1986, and moved to a quiet Staten Island neighborhood two years ago. The woman's husband reportedly operates a limousine business.

"They're regarded as loners," an unidentified neighbor told the newspaper. "Particularly, her. She would say hello one day and walk right by you the next."

"I'm psyched," Veronica Pastorelli, the Downtown coordinator, said Thursday. "I think we feel that something is going to be done. We're hopeful and optimistic."

But Marlow said, "This is an expenditure of over $2 million, and an expenditure of $2 million cannot be made without going to the voters in this town."

Weiss said the town could receive even more than the $1.1 million for the parcel in the industrial park if it were successful in appealing the DOT's settlement. He said the town believes the parcel is worth more than an exact figure has not been determined.

The town could appeal the settlement in court and at the same time receive the $1.1 million, Weiss said.

The new proposed aquifer protection plan that is less restrictive than previous regulations has been drawn up for the Planning and Zoning Commission, said Town Planner Mark Pellegrini.

The new proposed regulations allow certain businesses to locate in the town's aquifer zones even if they are not connected to town water and sewer systems, providing they do not use hazardous materials and do not generate more than 300 gallons of waste a day, Pellegrini said. The plan also allows expansion of a business if the expansion does not involve the addition of hazardous materials, he said.

The previous plan required businesses to hook up to town water and sewer systems, and restricted possible expansion of many of the businesses in the zones, he said.

The new plan tries to address the concerns of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce and the Conservation Commission, Pellegrini said. The chamber thought the plan was too restrictive, while the commission did not think it was restrictive enough.

"We wanted to make these regulations a little more responsive to what was out there, but still get the best protection," Pellegrini said. "We have to recognize there is an existing effort out there."

In March, the chamber questioned the legality of the previous plan, saying that it may supersede the authority of the state and federal governments. The chamber questioned whether the state Department of Environmental Protection and Environmental Protection Agency were being "upsurped" by the plan.

Anne Flinn, chamber president, reserved comment today because she has not read the plan. The chamber's study committee will meet Monday to review the new regulation, she said.

Dr. Douglas Smith, a member of the commission, also refused comment today because he has not read the plan. Commission Chairman Arthur Glaeser could not be reached for comment.

Pellegrini said the new plan regulates underground tanks and requires new tanks be protected. That was a major concern of the commission, he said.

The Planning and Zoning Commission is allowed to change the regulation, but Pellegrini said he hoped the commission would leave the regulation alone until a public hearing is scheduled.

WHEELCHAIR PROBLEM — Norman Cyr, 10, sits in the sun Thursday on the deck outside his house on Lydall Street. Cyr has had to use his manual wheelchair after the motorized wheelchair broke three weeks ago. Meanwhile, Cyr's parents and the Muscular Dystrophy Association are caught up in a bureaucratic battle while they try to get a technician from the vendor to assess the damages. Attempts to reach the company, they say, have been unsuccessful. Officials at the MDA say a decision on either repairing the wheelchair or purchasing a new one depends on the damage. The chamber questioned whether the state Department of Environmental Protection and Environmental Protection Agency were being "upsurped" by the plan.

Anne Flinn, chamber president, reserved comment today because she has not read the plan. The chamber's study committee will meet Monday to review the new regulation, she said.

Dr. Douglas Smith, a member of the commission, also refused comment today because he has not read the plan. Commission Chairman Arthur Glaeser could not be reached for comment.

Pellegrini said the new plan regulates underground tanks and requires new tanks be protected. That was a major concern of the commission, he said.

The Planning and Zoning Commission is allowed to change the regulation, but Pellegrini said he hoped the commission would leave the regulation alone until a public hearing is scheduled.

Police Roundup

BB gun-toters are arrested in damage

BOLTON — State Police Troop K in Colchester arrested five people on charges of criminal mischief Wednesday in connection with repeated property damage from a BB gun, police said.

Between June 6 and June 15, 22 people, including homeowners and business owners in Andover, Bolton, Columbia and Hebron complained of incidents involving the weapon which resulted in more than $7,000 in damage, collectively, police said.

The Coventry Police Department supplied Troop K with information on those who owned BB guns and on Wednesday, five teen-agers were arrested on a warrant from Tolland Superior Court, police said.

Police said the five charged were Steven Gill, 17, of 50 Cubes Road, Vernon; Jason Ciampa, 18, of 7 Juniper Drive, Bolton; Collin Foster, 17, of 5 Juniper Drive, Bolton; Donald Smith, 17, of 105 Cedar Swamp Road, Coventry; and John Arnett Jr., 17, of 31 Dunn Hill Road, Tolland.

Gill, Ciampa, Foster and Smith were charged with first-degree criminal mischief, police said. Ciampa also was charged with making a false statement. They were released on $7,000 non-surety bond, police said.

Arnett was charged with second-degree criminal mischief and released on $1,100 non-surety bond, police said.

All were scheduled to appear in Tolland Superior Court Tuesday, police said. Police request that anyone with additional information contact Troop K at 566-4915 or 643-6960.

Teen faces drug charges

Five people were charged with minor offenses and one was arrested on drug-related charges Tuesday in connection with an incident at Globe Hollow Pool, police said.

Glenn Parente, 17, of 20 Lexington Drive, Glastonbury, was charged with possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia, police said. They found the substance in her purse while she and five people she was with were swimming after curfew, according to the report.

3 injured in accident near I-384 exit ramp

A driver and her two passengers were injured Tuesday night when she failed to stop her car at a stop sign at the end of a ramp off eastbound Interstate 384, police said.

Rose Russell, 36, of 40 Olcott St. was driving eastbound on I-384 with Jasper Kelly, 34, of 667 Garden St., Hartford, and five-year-old Matthew Russell in the car, police said. Russell failed to stop at the stop sign at the end of the ramp, police said, and the vehicle was hit by a car traveling north on South Main Street, police said.

Heath Johnston, of 807 Twin Circle, South Windsor, who was driving on South Main Street, approached the ramp and struck Russell's car when it failed to make the stop, police said.

Rose Russell, Matthew Russell and Jason Kelly were brought to Manchester Memorial Hospital where they were treated and released, hospital officials said today.

Police say the investigation of the accident is continuing.

Bogus prescription results in arrest

A 48-year-old man was arrested on forgery charges Wednesday in connection with an attempt to buy prescription drugs at a local pharmacy, police said.

The team from Vermont calls itself "Hoosiers."

Teammate Anthony Douglas, leading the tournament with an average of 32 points a game, is being courted by Kentucky, Louisville, Memphis State, Providence and Alabama-Birmingham.

"It's just like playing for the state championship in high school," Douglas, a 6-foot-7 center, said about performing before the recruiters.

Coaches and assistants from 90 schools were on hand Wednesday, with others expected.

For Vermont South, the goal is to maintain its dignity and play a little ball.

"We're just a bunch of white boys from Vermont," Todd Haynes of Bennington said after a 76-59 drubbing at the hands of Virginia Gold. "It's not like we're going to get drafted by North Carolina State."

Still, Vermont South is 2-2 through Thursday's play, including a forfeit victory, and will make the final 20.

"It's an amazing story... 'Hoosiers.' Chris Weber of Burlington said, referring to the movie about a team from a small town that won the Indiana state championship.

Morgan gets shot at leading Bosox

By Howard Ulman
The Associated Press

BOSTON — Joe Morgan waited a long time to become a major league manager. He may have the job only a short time.

Morgan, 57, was named interim manager of the struggling Boston Red Sox Thursday, replacing the fired John McNamara. Boston General Manager Lou Gorman said he would begin an immediate search for a more permanent successor.

The move also came as a surprise to McNamara. His job had been in jeopardy for much of the season, but he figured he had weathered the latest crisis by not being fired during the three-day All-Star break that ended Wednesday.

"I'm happy I survived another deadline," McNamara said Thursday, soon after arriving at Fenway Park. Not long after, he learned otherwise and quickly left the stadium.

Howard Sullivan, a part owner of the team, said he opposed the move.

But he admitted, "It's easier to change leadership than change the entire 24-man roster."

According to a team statement, Mrs. Vawkey felt "a change in leadership was necessary if the Red Sox were to make a serious attempt at winning the Eastern Division title."

McNamara is the sixth manager to be fired this season.

NEW SKIPPER — New Boston Red Sox Manager Joe Morgan fills out the lineup card for Thursday's game with the Royals in former manager John McNamara's office. McNamara was relieved of his duties Thursday. Morgan has been with the organization since 1974. Thursday's game was rained out and will be played tonight as part of a two-night doubleheader.

Asked how he would change things, Morgan said pitching normally would take care of itself.

"What we have to do is take advantage of the baserunners we've had, which I don't think we did during the first part of the season," he said.

Morgan, a light-hitting infielder who played sparingly in four major league seasons, joined Boston as first-base coach in 1985.

Tyson will face Bruno

By Ronald Blum
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Mike Tyson may not know who his manager is, but the heavyweight champion has named his next opponent.

Tyson, who "retired" after his June 27 pummeling of Michael Spinks, has decided to go ahead with his scheduled Sept. 3 title defense against Frank Bruno, Tyson's lawyer and his manager said Thursday.

Michael Winston, Tyson's attorney, said the fight will proceed even though Tyson, the undisputed heavyweight champion, is attempting to break his managerial contract with Bill Cayton, who arranged the fight.

Cayton said an agreement had been reached with Winston, hired by Tyson and his family to break the contract. Winston wouldn't comment on whether the arrangements had been worked out. But Cayton did.

"I will remain manager, of course, in all senses of the word," Cayton said. "The contracts will be worked out with me as the manager."

Cayton said that Jarvis Astaire would be promoter for the bout, scheduled for Wembley Stadium outside London. A source who asked not to be identified said Tyson would receive $5 million and Bruno approximately $1.67 million.

the Kansas City Royals was postponed by rain after a delay of two hours, 39 minutes. It was rescheduled as part of a twinnight doubleheader tonight.

"Joe Morgan is a great guy. He seems to be a motivator and hopefully he'll put some spark into this ballclub," said left fielder Mike Greenwell, the major league RBI leader. "Hopefully, a change of atmosphere will turn the team around."

Winds drop as Price soars into early British Open lead

LYTHAM, England — Nick Price shot a 4 under-par 67 and took the lead by one stroke today early in the second round of the British Open, where scores were dropping along with the wind.

Price, a former open runner-up from Zimbabwe, finished 36 holes in 138, 5 under par.

Faxon, an American qualifier looking for his first tournament victory, was 3 under through 28 holes, a one-shot improvement. He took a bogey-5 on the 10th hole of the round.

He said he had not been guaranteed the managerial job beyond this season but added, "The word 'Interim' never entered my vocabulary."

The idea of ever becoming a major league manager hadn't entered his thoughts much recently.

"I never wanted to take over another man's job in midstream, but the chance is here now, a chance I had figured had gone by when I was 25," he said. "I figure that at my age and after 12 years in Triple-A that I probably would never manage in the big leagues."

Now Red Sox owner Jean Vawkey, hoping to get the team back in the pennant race, has given him his chance.

Gorman said the club's owners began meeting at 2:30 p.m. Thursday and called him in an hour later to tell him Mrs. Vawkey had decided to change managers.

Morgan said he had no indication a change was imminent until Gorman told him he had the job.

HE'S OUT — John McNamara, in an undated file photo, is shown in thought when he was fired as Red Sox manager. He was fired Thursday.

following Cal Ripken of Baltimore and Billy Martin of the New York Yankees. Larry Bowa of San Diego, Chuck Tanner of Atlanta and Dick Williams of Seattle.

McNamara had managed Oakland, San Diego, Cincinnati and California before succeeding Ralph Houk in Boston on Oct. 18, 1984. With the Red Sox, McNamara compiled a 287-273 record.

This year's mark was the one that cost him his job.

With a wealth of young talent led by Greenwell and Ellis Burks and the off-season acquisition of reliever Lee Smith, the Red Sox were a popular preseason choice to win the division.

McReynolds saves Mets

By Ed Shearer
The Associated Press

ATLANTA — Manager Dave Johnson of the New York Mets says he discovered the key for getting production out of Kevin McReynolds. "Just give him three days off," Johnson said Thursday night after McReynolds returned from the three-day All-Star break with perhaps the finest performance of his six-year major league career. McReynolds drove in four runs with the second five-hit game of his career and also threw out two runners from his left field post as the Mets snapped a three-game losing streak with a 9-8 victory in 11 innings over the Atlanta Braves.

"It comes at a strange time right after the All-Star break," McReynolds said. "Maybe I ought to take three days off more often." "I'm glad it's over with," he said after the 3-hour, 47-minute contest that saw the Mets blow a 3-3 fourth-inning lead. "It was very hot and muggy out there."

McReynolds hit a three-run home run, two doubles and two singles, the last coming with one out in the 11th as Darryl Strawberry raced home from first on the play when the ball got by left fielder Ken Griffey for an error.

McReynolds' other five-hit game came when he was with San Diego against Cincinnati on Sept. 5, 1984. "All four of my RBI came with two outs," McReynolds said. "Those are critical RBI."

New York appeared to have the game on ice early when McReynolds' three-run homer, his 12th of the year, made it 3-3 in the fourth. "In this park a five-run lead is not really safe," McReynolds said. "After that it just seemed like we couldn't get anybody in."

Ron Darling, who had an 8-1 lifetime record against the Braves, couldn't hold the lead. The Braves got two home runs — Dale Murphy's 14th of the year with two on in the fourth and a two-run homer by Gerald Perry, his sixth in the fifth.

Darling also became the victim of Griffey's 2,000th major league hit, an infield single behind first on which Darling failed to cover the bag. Griffey became the 172nd player in history to reach the 2,000 plateau.

"That's about the worst I've seen him pitch this year," Johnson said of Darling, who kept getting behind the hitters.

Howard Johnson hit his 17th homer for the Mets, a two-run blow in the third just after consecutive doubles by Strawberry and McReynolds. Strawberry had three hits and scored four runs.

McReynolds' first three home runs in the second when he threw out Ozzie Virgil at the plate when Virgil attempted to score from second on Ron Gant's single.

McReynolds may have saved the game in the ninth when Gerald Perry tried to stretch a double into a triple, but was thrown out at third.

McReynolds' RBI came with two outs in the eighth when he drove in two runs with a double to right field. He also had a double in the seventh and a single in the sixth.

YANKEE SLUGGER — Don Mattingly, shown in a file photo, had a key home run for the Yankees Thursday night as New York beat Chicago, 7-5. Greeting Mattingly at home plate is Dave Winfield.

Yanks at peace — for now after Steinbrenner meeting

NEW YORK (AP) — George Steinbrenner, the harshly critical owner of the New York Yankees, started his club's second half with one of his famous "closed-door" team meetings. Only this time, he came in peace.

"He wanted to let us know he was on our side," said Jack Clark, the team's designated hitter. "He said, 'You guys are good, you have a world-class team. I know you're capable of doing better than you've shown. Now let's do it now, let's do it.'" It was his way of giving us a vote of confidence.

The Yankees responded with a 7-5 victory over the Chicago White Sox Thursday night, pulling them to within two games of the first-place Detroit Tigers in the American League East.

Clark, Don Mattingly, and Gary Ward each drove in two runs. Mattingly hit his seventh home run of the season and an RBI single while Clark and Ward both had two-run doubles.

John Candelaria, 10-5, allowed two earned runs in five innings and three relievers — Charles Hudson, Dave Righetti, and Cecil Guanter — followed with four scoreless innings. Guanter notched his 10th save.

Before the game, Steinbrenner attempted to clear the air with three players he criticized earlier in the week, meeting separately with Mattingly, Dave Winfield and Rickey Henderson. Afterwards, following batting practice, the owner addressed his whole club.

"He's an intense person," observed Clark, one of the newest Yankees. "I think he wants to win as much as more than the players. That's why he was here. And I don't blame him for wanting to win here. He wanted to show us he cares. I know if I were the owner I'd want to be here."

Yankees manager Lou Piniella didn't hold a team meeting, but with a recent set of rules, has let his players know he wants them "prepared" for the stretch run.

Track plans combination

Thompson Speedway continues on with special events in an effort to beef up its draw of fans for the Sunday night racing programs and goes with a combination of NASCAR Modified Tour and Busch Grand National races. Track owner, Don Hoening, who never really felt that the Late Model cars would draw on their own at his track, has brought in the Modie with them. Also, he's hyped the show by having Winston Cup drivers Geoff Bodine, formerly of Bellingham, Mass., Brett Bodine, a former Southington resident and his son-in-law, Ken Bouchard, a late Fitchburg, Mass., citizen. Also Jimmy Spencer of N.Y. will be there.

Its expected that all of these drivers compete in both divisions. All are familiar names to southern New England fans while the top Busch Grand National North drivers like Dale Shaw, Joe Kourafas, Jamie Aube and Chuck Bown are well known in the north country. Late Model was long. Hoening will also offer the winner of the Modified Tour race the outside pole spot for the early September Winston 300. Several Connecticut Valley drivers like Reggie Ruggiero of Forestville, New Britain's Mike McLaughlin, and Carl Pasteryak of Lisbon are expected to be on hand.

Also entered are Dave Resendes of Assonet, Mass., the Fuller Brothers, Rick and Jeff, plus New Yorkers George Kent and Doug Havenor. Post time at Hudson is at 6 p.m.

Jeff Kazmierki of Attleboro, Mass., is making a strong impression in the Pro Stock Division at the Seakonk Speedway. He was last year's Rookie of the Year in the Charger Division there. He could hit the winners circle at the Route 1 track before long. He's also got the Modified Tour on his mind and has purchased an old Jeff Fuller car plus he has a new Pro Stock car on order from the Rose Race Shop in Tiverton, R.I. Seakonk goes with their program on Saturday at 7 p.m.

New London Waterford Speedway plans a double weekend with a regular show on top Saturday (7 p.m.) while a rained out Enduro event goes Sunday at 7 p.m. with an added Demo Derby. Riverside Speedway in Agawam has a regular three division card on Saturday night headed up by the NASCAR Modifieds.

And if southern New Hampshire fans want to catch some NASCAR Winston Cup drivers, they should plan to take in the race of Champions event at the Lee USA Speedway Friday night as Geoff Bodine, Brett Bodine, Ricky Rudd, Sterling Marlin, Kyle Petty, and Mike Waltrip will team up with local drivers there in Twin 20 lap events. Post time at Hudson is at 7 p.m.

Lou Modestino, based in Stoughton, Mass., writes a weekly syndicated column about auto racing in New England.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The attorney for Boston Red Sox third baseman Wade Boggs says the names of other baseball players may be dragged into a scandal involving Boggs' former lover if a $6 million paternity suit comes to trial.

Jennifer King, an Anaheim, Calif., attorney, said some of baseball's better-known players have had dalliances with Margo Adams, who claimed earlier this week that Boggs gave her photographs of teammates in compromising positions.

Adams has said she doesn't plan to release the photos. "Wade wasn't the only man in her life," King was quoted Thursday in the Philadelphia Daily News. "It can be easily proved. I will subpoena other players who I know have had affairs with her, if I have to."

Muster upsets Meclir

STUTTGART, West Germany — Thomas Muster of Austria upset top-seeded Miloslav Meclir of Czechoslovakia 6-4, 7-6 at the $350,000 Nabisco Grand Prix tennis tournament Thursday, eliminating him in the third round.

Nyktrom is extended

BASTAD, Sweden — Top-seeded Joakim Nyktrom was extended to three sets again and two other seeds were eliminated in Thursday's third round of the $245,000 Swedish Open tennis championships.

Boxers disqualified

LAS VEGAS, Nev. — Three boxers who were scheduled to compete in the boxoffs this weekend to determine the makeup of the U.S. Olympic boxing team were disqualified Thursday for testing positive for drugs.

Schmidt wants to play

PHILADELPHIA — Philadelphia Phillies third baseman Mike Schmidt said Thursday he plans to play again next year, but Phillies President Bill Giles said the decision will be made at the end of the season.

Cubs, Expos in deal

CHICAGO — Dave Martinez was traded by the Chicago Cubs to the Montreal Expos Thursday for Mitch Webster in a swap of outfielders. "It was the fact Martinez never learned how to read pitchers and could not steal bases that led us to this decision," Cubs manager Tom Zimmer said. "We want to take advantage of Webster's switch-hitting ability and we think he can steal more bases than Martinez."

Sanchez in quarters

BRUSSELS, Belgium — Seeded players Arantxa Sanchez of Spain and Brazil's Nigela Pietrangeli joined underdog Olga Tsarboportoulou of Greece into the quarterfinals of the $75,000 Belgian women's tennis tournament Thursday. Sanchez, the fourth seed, beat Nicole Pietrangeli of the Netherlands 6-3, 6-3 and will meet Tsarboportoulou in Friday's quarterfinal. Tsarboportoulou, ranked 147th in the world, outlasted eight-seeded Mercedes Paz of Argentina in three sets 7-5, 2-6, 6-2.

Schayes offered pact

DENVER — The Denver Nuggets reportedly have offered center Danny Schayes a contract worth more than $1 million a year. Schayes' agent, Bob Woolf, called team president Pete Babcock on Wednesday to tell him that the 6-foot-11, 250-pound Schayes, a seven-year veteran who averaged 15.4 points and a team-leading 4.2 rebounds last season, has received two firm contract offers this week and heard from two other teams interested in him.

Walker assumes lead

DANVERS, Mass. — Colleen Walker shot a 6-under-par 66 in gusting winds Thursday to take the first-round lead in the $50,000 LPGA Boston Five Classic at the Tara Ferncroft Club. Becky Pearson was one stroke back, while Sally Quinlan, who had shared the lead before extreme heat, humidity and the wind caused by thunderstorms sent scores soaring in the afternoon, was three shots back, tied with Heather Dew.

Meacham on the DL

NEW YORK — New York Yankees infielder Bobby Meacham on Thursday was placed on the 21-day disabled list with a pinched nerve in his neck. Infielder Wayne Tolleson was activated from the 15-day disabled list to replace Meacham. Tolleson was disabled on June 20 with a strained hamstring in his left leg.

Schmidt wants to play

PHILADELPHIA — Philadelphia Phillies third baseman Mike Schmidt said Thursday he plans to play again next year, but Phillies President Bill Giles said the decision will be made at the end of the season.

Buoniconti loses his court battle

By Bruce Smith
The Associated Press

CHARLESTON, S.C. — Former Citadel linebacker Marc Buoniconti will receive $800,000 in a settlement with the military college while a jury has exonerated the school's football team physician in Buoniconti's $2.5-million negligence lawsuit.

Buoniconti broke his neck while making a tackle in an Oct. 26, 1985 game against East Tennessee State and the injury left him a quadriplegic. The jury in Charleston County Court of Common Pleas deliberated just under three hours Thursday — the 23rd day of the trial — before finding for Dr. E.K. Wallace in Buoniconti's lawsuit.

Buoniconti, the son of former Miami Dolphins star Nick Buoniconti, had no comment for reporters following the verdict. But his father said the result was "not something that is going to dishearten us as a family."

The elder Buoniconti said the $800,000 settlement reached July 1 will provide something for his son's future but "it will nowhere compensate for what his life would be out of that chair," referring to his 21-year-old son's breath-activated wheelchair.

Nick Buoniconti added "this is just another experience in our lives and nothing could ever add up to Marc's injury anyway." When the case went to court, it named as defendants The Citadel, school trainer Andy Clawson and Wallace.

Attorneys representing The Citadel and Clawson reached a settlement with Buoniconti midway through the trial and the case continued against Wallace alone until the jury found for Wallace. The result of the settlement was not revealed at the time because of a gag order imposed by Circuit Judge John Hamilton Smith.

The lawsuit alleged Wallace was negligent in treating a neck sprain Buoniconti suffered several weeks before the accident. It also charged Wallace failed to warn Buoniconti that an existing neck abnormality made it dangerous for him to continue playing football.

The defense said Wallace's care met medical standards and that Buoniconti contributed to the injury because he illegally speared an opposing running back — hitting him head first in violation of football rules — on the play that resulted in his injury.

The jury saw Wallace's way, although jury foreman Miles Pearson declined to comment late Thursday, saying he was tired from the long trial. The verdict capped a trial in which testimony from more than 50 witnesses was heard.

Wallace said the jury's decision was "certainly the right verdict" adding, "I have confidence in the jury system."

CART rule hotly disputed

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Indianapolis Auto Racing Team's adoption of a new, rear wing for Indy cars in 1988, a rule designed to slow the race cars, has created dissension among some competitors.

Andy Kenepensky, team manager for the Machinists' team of cars of Kevin Cogan and Scott Atchison, says the rule is intended for the "big dogs" and that CART is "picking the pockets of the little guys."

Fellow board member Mario Andretti counters that he foresees no involvement and that most drivers have been pushing for the wing reduction since last year.

Kenepensky has called for a meeting of the car owners this weekend during the running of the Toronto Grand Prix. Anticipating such a meeting, Andretti gathered signatures from drivers on a document favoring the change during the July 4 weekend of the Cleveland Grand Prix.

"All but two drivers, including (A.J.) Foyt, are in favor of it," Andretti, winner of the Cleveland Grand Prix, told Dick Mittman of the Indianapolis news service. "Kenepensky called for the special meeting to argue his point. That's why I armed myself with signatures of all the drivers."

The rear wing will be reduced in maximum height from 36 to 32 inches; vertical thickness from 10 to 9 inches; maximum length from 28 to 20 inches, and end plate length from 30 to 24 inches. Kenepensky contends the rules were supposed to remain the same through a five-year period, which ends after the 1988 season.

TOWN OF MANCHESTER, CONNECTICUT
NOTICE OF ADOPTION OF ORDINANCE
 In accordance with the provisions of Chapter 3, Sections 1 and 2 of the Town Charter, notice is hereby given that the Board of Directors of the Town of Manchester, Connecticut, on July 13, 1988, adopted and hereby amending the following Ordinance:

AMENDMENT TO ORDINANCE
 HEREBY ORDAINED by the Board of Directors of the Town of Manchester, Connecticut, that the Ordinance herein adopted be amended to read as follows:

Sec. 13-2. Designations effective date. - The effective date of the Ordinance shall be January 1, 1987 except for those matters otherwise provided for by the Ordinance.

Sec. 13-3. Pension Board. - Provides for a Pension Board consisting of four (4) electors of the Town and the Town Treasurer, or his or her successor, to be appointed by the Board of Directors.

Sec. 13-4. Definitions. - Defines terms contained within the Ordinance.

Sec. 13-5. Conditions of Eligibility. - Requires employees hired by the Town who are under the age of sixty (60) to join the Town Pension Plan. Members of the Plan who are not members shall contribute four and one-half percent (4 1/2%) of their gross salary to the Plan. Employees who have more than thirty-three and one-third (33 1/3%) years of service with the Town are not required to make any further contributions to the Plan.

Sec. 13-6. Eligibility for Retirement and Disability. - Allows for retirement on an employee's normal retirement date or at an earlier date if the employee has been in violation of the Ordinance for ten (10) years of service and is over the age of fifty (50) or at least fifty (50) and is specifically approved to continue to work beyond his or her normal retirement date. Provides for disability payments for those members who become disabled during their period of service and for those members whose disabilities are unduly aggravated by their service or in the case of a Police member, five (5) years' service.

Sec. 13-7. Form of Retirement Benefits and Disability Payments. - Members who retire on their normal retirement date are entitled to a monthly benefit equal to one-half (1/2) of two percent (2%) of their final average wages multiplied by the number of years of service with maximum payments of sixty-six and two-thirds percent (66 2/
