The medal is awarded for outstanding non-combat meritorious achievement or service to the United States.
Robinson is chief of the Training Analysis Division at the U.S. Army Sergeants Major Academy. He is a 1971 graduate of Enfield High School and a 1975 graduate of Florida Institute of Technology.

Correction

An Associated Press story published Wednesday in the News America pageant erred in quoting a question contained in a sex survey form.
The question was "Can you be in love with two men at the same time?" according to Mrs. Alabama Diane Gamble, Mrs. Wisconsin Gale Coleman and Mrs. North Carolina Connie Hedrick. The erroneous report said the question was "Can you make love with two men at the same time?"

Thoughts

Two retired camp counselors told me a remarkable story. Once they were counselors in a camp in Maine. What was unusual in this program was that the counselors were "required" to look for acts of kindness and thoughtfulness among the campers. Then just before lunch, they were required to write a short thank you note to the camper, thanking them for doing such and such to and so. All the thank you notes were placed in a box. Then at lunch time, while the campers quietly ate their lunch, one counselor opened up the box and read all the thank you notes out loud.
As each child's name was read and thanked, their faces lit up and beamed, one after another.
After a few days, the counselors asked the campers to start looking for acts of kindness and thoughtfulness, and then to write their own thank you notes. Soon the campers' thank you notes were being read at lunch time.
People began seeing more and more acts of kindness and thoughtfulness, because they were now looking for them, and because when they did them, they were thanked.
How many more acts of kindness might you see, if you were "required" to look for them?

Education increases a certainty

The reopening of Highland Park School will require an increase in Manchester's education budget for 1989-90, but staff salary raises will have an impact, too, School Superintendent James P. Kennedy said Thursday.
There are many questions remaining about the school reopening, but some of the other increases are certain: School nurses and paraprofessionals recently settled contracts, and the Manchester Education Association is entering contract negotiations.
In August, the school nurses' association negotiated pay increases of 8 and 7 percent over a two-year contract. Last week, the Manchester Federation of Paraprofessionals, representing teachers' aides, settled a two-year contract that will increase salaries 12 percent in the first year and another 8 percent in the second year.
The amount of the budget increase has not been decided, Kennedy said at meeting of the Board of Education long-range planning committee. One of the undetermined factors is how much of the $900,000 projected for the school reopening will be needed in 1989-90. About $200,000 of the $900,000 is allocated in this year's $36.9 million budget, he said.
Staff needs will determine how much money is spent on Highland Park, Kennedy said. That can't be set until it's known how many students will attend the school, he said.
"The bulk of the expense is in the staff," he said. "I can't tell you (the budget impact) I don't know."
The number of students who will attend cannot be determined until a decision is made whether to have a sixth grade, Kennedy said. If 18 or more students are enrolled by their parents in sixth grade at Highland Park, then the school will be reopened fully in 1989, he said.
The school has a capacity of about 300 students. The school board will determine preliminary questions for the school later this month, Kennedy said.
Kennedy also announced that the school's new principal would be hired from within the school system. He said the district had enough qualified candidates without having to look elsewhere.

Meotti leads in finances

State Sen. Michael P. Meotti, D-Glastonbury, has raised $49,138 in his campaign for re-election, while his Republican opponent, Carl A. Zinsser of Manchester, has raised $22,455, according to finance statements filed with the office of the secretary of the state.
The reports show that Meotti has incurred expenses of $41,643, leaving a balance of $7,496, while Zinsser has expenses of $21,544, leaving a balance of $910.
The reports cover the period from Oct. 7 to Oct. 25.
The two reports indicate that Meotti has received $22,949 from individual contributors and $21,800 from various political committees. Zinsser received $13,505 from individuals and $8,950 from political committees.
The highest individual contributions to Meotti were $500 each from Marvin J. Kenny of Wethersfield and Frank Moroso of Windsor Locks.
The highest individual contribution to Zinsser listed in the report was $400 from Deborah L. Tomko of 30 Bobby Lane.
Meotti's highest committee contributions was $5,000 from the Committee for a Democratic Majority. Also listed are contributions of $500 each from the political action committees of the Connecticut Education Association, the Connecticut Food Industry, the Greater Hartford Labor Council, and the Insurance Association of Connecticut.
For Zinsser, the highest committee contributions were $2,500 from the State Republicans Victory '88 Committee and $1,200 from Senate Republican Leadership '88.
In the latest report, Meotti listed as expenses $10,600 to the Democratic State Central Committee for mailings and postage and $7,576 for radio commercials. Zinsser listed $3,523 to the Connecticut Republicans for mailing charges, $1,928 to Allied Printing of Manchester for pamphlets, and $2,235 for newspaper advertising.

Bush tops Duke, 240 to 226, in Manchester High voting

By Andrew Yurkovsky
Manchester Herald

Vice President George Bush beat Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis by a narrow margin in a mock presidential election at Manchester High School Thursday that was an endorsement of the status quo.
Incumbents in all of the state races were re-elected by the student voters from all three grades during the election, which was sponsored by the high school's Student Council, said council adviser Ronald Cournoyer.
Four hundred eighty-two of the 950 eligible students cast ballots. The vote from Manchester High School was included in tallies for a nationwide student mock election, Cournoyer said.
Bush, the Republican nominee, beat Dukakis, the Democrat, by a vote of 246-226. Third-party candidates Ron Paul and Lenora Fulani received 7 and 6 votes, respectively.
The race for U.S. Senate, Republican incumbent Lowell P. Weicker beat Democrat Joseph Lieberman, 221-183. Dr. Howard Avory Grayson, a Libertarian, received 14 votes, and New Alliance candidate Melissa M. Fisher received 13.
Democratic U.S. Rep. Barbara B. Kennelly, who represents the 1st Congressional District, defeated her Republican challenger, Mario Robles, 306-95.

State Sen. Michael P. Meotti, D-Glastonbury, who represents the 4th Senatorial District, beat Republican Carl A. Zinsser of Manchester, 233-165.
State Rep. James R. McCavanaugh, a Democrat unopposed in his race for 12th Assembly District seat, received 152 votes.
Other state races were not included on the voting machines, Cournoyer said.
Cournoyer noted that Bush's plurality win was a small one, compared with election results from other high schools in the nation.

"I guess Manchester is more Democratic than Republican at this time," he said.
Cournoyer said he didn't know why the students voted for incumbents in the state races. "Most of the students are not that aware of the state and local races," he said.
Democratic Registrar of Voters Herbert Stevenson received 202 votes and Republican Registrar of Voters Patricia Cottle received 158 votes. Each party elects a registrar, and there is no contest between the two candidates.
A plan that will save all but the top 40 inches of the 205-foot chimney at the converted Clock Mill in the Cheney Historic District was approved by the Cheney Historic District Commission Thursday.
In September, the commission declined to permit the Knoener Development Corp., which has converted the former textile mill to apartments, to remove as much as 30 feet from the top of the historic chimney, which is one of the main characteristics of the mill building.
The new proposal, however, did satisfy the commission that it is the best course because the chimney top had deteriorated. In addition to taking off the top 15 courses of bricks and putting a new ventilated cap on the unused chimney, the work will include putting reinforcing bands around the chimney, spaced five feet apart, to prevent further deterioration.
The solution was one of two suggested by International Chimney Corp. of Buffalo, a firm of engineers and contractors hired by Knoener to study the problem.
The cost of the work is $28,151.

On November 8, 1988 You Have a Choice!

Carl Zinsser

As your State Senator, Carl Zinsser voted to strengthen the death penalty, only to have Governor O'Neill veto the bill.

Carl Zinsser opposes forced busing of school children across town lines. He favors strong neighborhood schools under local control.

When he was your State Senator, Carl Zinsser voted for major tax cuts for families in 1985 and 1986. He worked to keep spending down, producing big state surpluses both years.

Carl Zinsser strongly defends our town's right to make its own housing decisions.

His Opponent Mike Meotti

Mike Meotti opposes the death penalty.

Mike Meotti voted against two amendments that would have prohibited forced busing in Connecticut.

Mike Meotti voted for only one tax cut—a $100 million break for big business. He supported a 28% increase in state spending over two years, which exhausted the $365 million surplus created by the Republicans, leaving Connecticut $115 million in the hole.

This term, Meotti introduced a bill that would have given the final word on housing decisions to a regional board not under local control.

Next search talks closed

The committee coordinating the search for a new town manager will meet Monday to agree on a job description and salary range for the post, Mayor Peter P. DiRosa Jr. said today.

DiRosa said that members of the five-person committee would also discuss how to keep the search process confidential. He said that for that reason, Monday's session would be closed to the public.

DiRosa said that he hoped the town Board of Directors could agree at its Nov. 15 meeting to start advertising for the position.

Town Manager Robert B. Weiss announced in September that he would retire in June 1989.

The search committee will probably meet again in December to go over material presented by administration department heads on their ideas about the qualifications for the new manager. He said that that meeting would be open to the public.

Club target of complaints

The Court House One health and fitness club in Vernon has been the target of "numerous" complaints over the past eight months, a state Department of Health Services official said Thursday.

Health department officials have investigated the club, located at 47 Hartford Turnpike near the Manchester town line, and found several violations, said Alan Bezzetti, director of recreational health.

Violations include unsanitary conditions, dirty vents and problems with pH levels in the pool, he said. Violations were found in the locker room, pool and sauna area.

Complaints about the facility have increased in the past four months, during which about 12 complaints were received, Bezzetti said.

Bezzetti said he has met with club manager Jamie Fairley three times about the violations. Fairley could not be reached for comment this morning.

The club will be closed or fined if violations aren't corrected by the beginning of next year, Bezzetti said.

Support sought for agency

HARTFORD (AP) — The director of the state Commission on Human Rights and Opportunities has written to more than 125 people, asking them to give favorable testimony to the governor's task force investigating complaints against the agency.

The lobbying effort by Arthur L. Green has drawn the criticism of the task force's chairman, Rudolph P. Arnold, a Hartford lawyer.

"We're supposed to be taking a neutral look at this agency. We cannot do that if, in fact, the agency is out conducting a public relations campaign, saying, 'Come out and support us,'" Arnold said.

"To that degree, it distorts the process. I don't know of anyone going around and sending out letters asking the agency, and certainly, we haven't done that."

Concert tickets costly

BRISTOL (AP) — The lineup isn't set for 40 concerts at the Lake Compounce Festival park, but the price has been set for a season pass, a holder a seat under the roof of a proposed amphitheater, will cost $1,320, including tax, according to a brochure printed by the park.

By comparison, last year's season pass, which excluded the biggest name acts such as the rock musician Sting, cost $49.95. The pass entitled the buyer to a seat on the lawn for most shows, which were performed on two temporary stages.

The 1989 season pass is only for the first 40 performances announced by the park for the coming season.

Faculty, students to aid charity

Bennet Junior High School faculty and students will try to lend a helping hand to Paul Newman's children's camp through the Manchester Road Race on Thanksgiving.

William Woodruff, school science teacher and co-adviser to the Student Council, said he expected 60 to 75 faculty members and students to walk or run in the race for charity. Donations will benefit the Hole-In-The-Wall Gang Camp in Ashford, which was started by actor Paul Newman for children with cancer, Woodruff said.

Amy Mizora, social chairman for the Bennet Student Council, said she would participate so she could help people not as fortunate.

"It's just another way of helping others," she said. "It's not hard. We have to think of the less fortunate."

Newman's camp provides a summer camping experience for children 7 to 17 years old who are afflicted with cancer, leukemia or other life-threatening diseases, said Karen Allen, camp development assistant. There is no cost to parents and the camps are funded by donations and endowments.

'Reign of terror' to end

HARTFORD (AP) — A prosecutor said a 30-year prison term will end the "reign of terror" of a man who was convicted of sexually assaulting girls aged 18 months and three years.

Judge Joseph J. Purill sentenced Keith DePastino Thursday after an emotional hearing in Hartford Superior Court. DePastino was convicted on Sept. 2 in the 1985 assaults.

"It is now time for society to hold the man accountable," said prosecutor John M. Masamano. "His reign of terror should come to an end."

"He has nothing of value to offer society," said Connie Tiffany, a youth counselor who treated one of the victims.

Sen. Herbst accuses Giulietti of launching 'sleaze' campaign

State Sen. Marie Herbst, D-Vernon, is accusing her opponent, Republican James Giulietti, of launching a "sleaze" campaign against her in the final days of the campaign in the 35th Senatorial District.

Herbst said Thursday night fliers mailed this week on Giulietti's behalf contained inaccuracies, distortions and lies about her position on some issues.

"It's a sleaze piece with distortions, inaccuracies and an outright lie," Herbst said Thursday night.

Giulietti, a former senator from Vernon, defended himself. "There is nothing inaccurate in that flier. It is an examination of Mrs. Herbst's record. If people are upset about it, maybe they should be," he said.

Herbst denied a charge that she supports forced busing of school children. "The Senate voted unanimously to support voluntary integration, voluntary busing," she said.

"The Republicans put forth an amendment to that bill opposing forced busing, Giulietti said. "Mrs. Herbst had a chance to support that amendment. She did not," he said.

That amendment, Herbst said, would have eliminated state funding for inter-district busing, which towns rely on to send their children to regional technical schools and for special education.

Herbst said another claim in the flier is misleading, implying

Weicker defending records; Lieberman pounding at fees

By Christopher Collohan
The Associated Press

HARTFORD — Lowell P. Weicker Jr. is defending his environmental record against attacks from challenger Joseph I. Lieberman while the Democrat continues to pound at the Republican senator's acceptance of speaking fees.

Weicker, who has been attacked by Lieberman and environmentalists for supporting exploratory drilling in the Alaskan wilderness, on Thursday focused instead on the importance of the already built Trans-Alaskan oil pipeline.

The three-term senator, locked in a fierce battle with Lieberman, called the pipeline project "one of the key energy decisions made during the 1980s" and "a model of environmental protection."

Weicker said the pipeline is essential to fill America's energy needs, especially energy-dependent states like Connecticut.

"Under Lieberman's distorted vision of environmentalism, the nation and especially energy-dependent states like Connecticut would once again be scrambling for high-priced oil from the Arab nations of the Middle East without the pipeline, the Weicker campaign said in a prepared statement issued late Thursday.

But Marla Romash, communications and issues director for Lieberman, said the Democrat has "never expressed an opinion" on the pipeline. She said she did not know if he favored or opposed it.

The Weicker camp said Lieberman was quoted in a local newspaper as saying he opposed the pipeline. Romash said Lieberman had discussed the oil exploration proposal, but not the pipeline.

Environmentalists who support Lieberman, including the Sierra Club, do oppose the pipeline, saying it is having a harmful impact on the Alaskan wildlife.

Romash accused the Weicker campaign of playing a "shell game," bringing up a discussion of the pipeline to deflect criticism of his key committee vote earlier this year backing oil exploration in the 1.5 million-acre Arctic National Wildlife Refuge.

Romash said the "unique and beautiful wilderness" should be protected, a position shared by major environmental groups who disagree with Interior Department estimates that the refuge may hold large oil reserves.

Weicker has said it is important to learn what oil is there and that exploration would not threaten the environment.

The candidates also renewed their argument of environmental issues in general.

Lieberman, who has the backing of major environmental groups, charges that Weicker has failed to make the environment a priority and that he ranks low on environmental scorecards compared to other New England senators.

Weicker counters that he has "one of the best" environmental records in Congress and has fought for clean air and water legislation during his 18-year Senate career. Weicker campaign manager Jay Maleynsky charged that Lieberman was "confused" and that "somebody must have handed him the wrong script."

"That's nasty," responded Romash.

Earlier in the day, Lieberman sought to keep up his pressure on the incumbent with less than a week to go before Election Day, renewing his criticism of Weicker's acceptance of speaking fees.

The Weicker camp countered that Lieberman has made the senator's speaking fees a cornerstone of the campaign because the challenger could not find a substantive and politically safe issue on which the candidates disagree.

Sen. Herbst accuses Giulietti of launching 'sleaze' campaign

By Jacqueline Bennett
Manchester Herald

State Sen. Marie Herbst, D-Vernon, is accusing her opponent, Republican James Giulietti, of launching a "sleaze" campaign against her in the final days of the campaign in the 35th Senatorial District.

Herbst said Thursday night fliers mailed this week on Giulietti's behalf contained inaccuracies, distortions and lies about her position on some issues.

That amendment, Herbst said, would have eliminated state funding for inter-district busing, which towns rely on to send their children to regional technical schools and for special education.

Herbst said another claim in the flier is misleading, implying that she did nothing, both as mayor of Vernon and as senator, about alleged contamination of water wells at High Manor Park, a trailer park in Vernon.

"That situation was out of my hands; by law it is for the state to handle," she said.

Giulietti stood by his claim. "One of the most important things a legislator should do is see down the road that I have a good point," Giulietti said.

Herbst criticized what she called "negative campaigning" by Giulietti. "There is no longer honor among some politicians," she said. She said that if she is re-elected she plans to work for legislation to require truth in political campaigning.

Giulietti says there's nothing negative about his campaign. "The only negative thing about this is her record," he said.

Arrested were John C. Lukman Jr. 34, of Newington; Mary Ann McAllister 33, of West Hartford; and Russell D. Beveridge Jr. 32, of Newington, Twardy said.

Also named in the complaint were Marius Meiring, a major in the South African Defense Force, his wife, Pat Meiring, and Waldemar Schutte, a South African sergeant major, Twardy said. All are South African citizens and U.S. officials were seeking to have the three extradited to the United States, Twardy said.

The importation of rhino horns is illegal in most countries, including the United States, because the animal is nearly extinct. Still, an illicit trade reportedly worth $3 million a year flourishes in the Middle East and eastern Asia, where dealers pay $450 a pound wholesale for the stuff.

In the United States, rhino horn powder can sell for up to $450 an ounce, Twardy said.

Rhino horn is not actually a horn, but densely compacted fibers of keratin, a protein found in hair and fingernails. It is a myth that the horn is used as an aphrodisiac. In the Far East, it is ground into traditional medicines that supposedly reduce fever and stop nosebleeds. It is also treasured in North Yemen, where it is carved into dagger handles that sell for up to $15,000 each.

Rhinoceros are one of the more endangered animals in the world. There were at one time 120 species of rhinoceros, but only five species now remain, including black and white rhinos. Less than 4,000 black rhinos remain alive today; about 85 percent of them live in South Africa, Namibia, Zimbabwe and Kenya.

A Eugene Hester, the Northeast Regional director of the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, said the seizure and purchase of the rhino horns by undercover agents was the largest haul of its type in this country.

Each of the defendants was charged with conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States, a crime that can be punished by up to five years in prison and a $250,000 fine. But Twardy said that other charges would be filed.

Shepherd's Place, the soup kitchen run by the Manchester Area Conference of Churches, will be dedicated at a special service during an open house Sunday at MACC's Samaritan Shelter.

"Literally hundreds of men, women and young people have worked to make Shepherd's Place a reality," said the Rev. Newell Curtis, senior pastor at Center Congregational Church and president of MACC.

"The sharing of their precious time, their skills and the generosity of their dollars have opened new doors to the hungry of Manchester," said Curtis, who will preside at the dedication service.

For the past six years, Shepherd's Place has been housed in the ground floor of Center Congregational Church, which provided equipment and maintenance assistance as well as space.

Nancy Carr, executive director of MACC, said Shepherd's Place was "a marvelous example of community teamwork."

"Manchester has said that no one will go hungry in this town," she said.

The open house at Shepherd's Place, 466 Main St., will be from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday. The dedication service, open to the public, will be at 3 p.m. on the ground floor of the Samaritan Shelter.

Others participating in the service are the Revs. Anne Writter and James Meek, vice presidents of MACC; Walter Johnson, chairman of the shelter renovation committee; Emille Miller, Center Church liaison and Shepherd's Place volunteer; and Marjory Harford, the first volunteer coordinator.

Shepherd's Place provides a hot meal Monday through Friday to 40 to 60 men and women, Carr said. A sandwich, fruit and dessert are available as a light supper. Seven days a week, a hot supper is offered to those staying at the Samaritan Shelter. In the morning, a light breakfast is available from 6 to 7.

Carr said Shepherd's Place is supported by local, state and federal funds and contributions.

Grants from the Connecticut Department of Human Resources and the town of Manchester help pay for a 35-hour-a-week coordinator. The rest of the daily work is carried out by volunteers and cooperative programs with students from Manchester High School and the Work Place program at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Six indicted for smuggling of rhino horns, animal skins

By Dean Golembeski
The Associated Press

HARTFORD — Six people, including two South African army officers, have been indicted on charges they smuggled precious rhinoceros horns, AK-47 machine guns and skins of other endangered animals from Africa into the United States.

The six were caught as the result of an undercover investigation by U.S. authorities that began in February and more arrests were possible, U.S. Attorney Stanley A. Twardy Jr. said Thursday.

Twardy said he had no idea how long the smugglers had been in business, nor was he able to say how many others did business with the group. But those charged in the scheme indicated they had enough rhino horns to earn hundreds of thousands of dollars.

"This is something that is unique, at least in my experience, and from what I have been unable to uncover from the (Justice) Department," Twardy said.

Arrested were John C. Lukman Jr. 34, of Newington; Mary Ann McAllister 33, of West Hartford; and Russell D. Beveridge Jr. 32, of Newington, Twardy said.

Rhinoceros are one of the more endangered animals in the world. There were at one time 120 species of rhinoceros, but only five species now remain, including black and white rhinos. Less than 4,000 black rhinos remain alive today; about 85 percent of them live in South Africa, Namibia, Zimbabwe and Kenya.

A Eugene Hester, the Northeast Regional director of the U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service, said the seizure and purchase of the rhino horns by undercover agents was the largest haul of its type in this country.

Each of the defendants was charged with conspiracy to commit an offense against the United States, a crime that can be punished by up to five years in prison and a $250,000 fine. But Twardy said that other charges would be filed.

Shepherd's Place, the soup kitchen run by the Manchester Area Conference of Churches, will be dedicated at a special service during an open house Sunday at MACC's Samaritan Shelter.

"Literally hundreds of men, women and young people have worked to make Shepherd's Place a reality," said the Rev. Newell Curtis, senior pastor at Center Congregational Church and president of MACC.

"The sharing of their precious time, their skills and the generosity of their dollars have opened new doors to the hungry of Manchester," said Curtis, who will preside at the dedication service.

For the past six years, Shepherd's Place has been housed in the ground floor of Center Congregational Church, which provided equipment and maintenance assistance as well as space.

Nancy Carr, executive director of MACC, said Shepherd's Place was "a marvelous example of community teamwork."

"Manchester has said that no one will go hungry in this town," she said.

The open house at Shepherd's Place, 466 Main St., will be from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday. The dedication service, open to the public, will be at 3 p.m. on the ground floor of the Samaritan Shelter.

Others participating in the service are the Revs. Anne Writter and James Meek, vice presidents of MACC; Walter Johnson, chairman of the shelter renovation committee; Emille Miller, Center Church liaison and Shepherd's Place volunteer; and Marjory Harford, the first volunteer coordinator.

Shepherd's Place provides a hot meal Monday through Friday to 40 to 60 men and women, Carr said. A sandwich, fruit and dessert are available as a light supper. Seven days a week, a hot supper is offered to those staying at the Samaritan Shelter. In the morning, a light breakfast is available from 6 to 7.

Carr said Shepherd's Place is supported by local, state and federal funds and contributions.

Grants from the Connecticut Department of Human Resources and the town of Manchester help pay for a 35-hour-a-week coordinator. The rest of the daily work is carried out by volunteers and cooperative programs with students from Manchester High School and the Work Place program at Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Come see what's stirring in Vernon.

The Grand Opening of the Savings Bank of Manchester's new Vernon Office.

Open for business now at Vernon's "Shops at 30" Shopping Center. November 5 is the big day.

Yes, now we're in Vernon — and so glad to be doing business here! We think you'll be glad we're here, too. Bringing to the area the friendly, no-nonsense banking we're known for east of the river. Where November 5 is the day we open with a little more hoopla, we hope you come see us much sooner. (We want you to bring in a recipe for a new cookbook, too — but more about that later.)

Whatever you're missing in your present bank, we'll bet you'll find right here, close to home.

For instance, our Checking Club — the free checking account that gives you so much more (special extras, special freebies), yet probably costs you less. It even earns interest on any balance over $100! You'll want to look into our competitive low rates on mortgages, fixed or variable. Maybe you're interested in a Home Equity Line of Credit? Fine, let's talk. This and much more for personal needs and for businesses, too.

Talk about convenient hours, even breakfast-time banking. That's all here too. Our Conni™ automatic teller machine will be in the foyer of the new bank — you can get to it any time at all to bank by pushing buttons. (Conni is part of the Yankee 24 network, so you also can use the card at banks all over New England. Means you'll want to apply for a Conni card right away.) Also, the drive-in will open as early as 7:30 a.m. weekdays, 9 a.m. on Saturdays. Main lobby will open at 9 a.m. daily.

Help us cook up Vernon's own cookbook. We need your recipes. Come in soon — or, at the very latest, Grand Opening Day (Saturday, November 5, 9 a.m. to noon). Bring along a favorite recipe. Fill out a form. Drop it in the container in the lobby. And you just might win a prize. We will be publishing those recipes in a cookbook of favorite Vernon dishes.

Just for opening an account, by the way, we'll see that you get a cookbook free. You can also order one for only $5. Either way, we'll make a donation, for every cookbook, to the local Community Renewal Team.

That's the organization that delivers needed meals to people in this area. Now about those prizes. Somebody has to win them, why not you? The recipe entry form you fill out qualifies you for the Grand Opening drawing. (You need not be present to win.) Fabulous cookware, a food processor, restaurant gift certificates — all will be given away. So will free mixing spoons, coffee and muffins and a cooking demonstration in the lobby.

Don't have a recipe? That's okay, you can still enter the drawing, still win a prize. But do come in and fill out a form, the sooner the better. The Savings Bank of Manchester looks forward to meeting you, to serving you, to being your kind of bank. Come in and say hello.

HONORED — Writer Linda Bayer, a former Manchester resident, talks with Archie Buffkins, director of the Center for Cultural Diversity in the Arts, at a Kennedy Center reception for Bayer in Washington.

Manchester novelist feted in Washington

A former Manchester resident was honored earlier this month by the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts for her first novel, some of which is set in Manchester. Linda Bayer, 40, of Washington, D.C., was honored Oct. 17 for "The Blessing and the Curse," a story about single motherhood and the search for identity. The book was published this summer by the century-old Jewish Publication Society, which has never before published a first novel. Archie Buffkins, director of the Center for Cultural Diversity in the Arts, said the book combines the qualities of a scholar and artist. "It raises powerful questions and probes issues of intimacy and social policy," Buffkins said. Readers follow the main character, a professor of humanities, through Manchester, Boston, Washington and Jerusalem, all places Bayer has lived. She was born in Hartford and lived in Manchester for 18 years. Bayer is the daughter of Lillian Bayer Marlow, who is assistant to the state Senate majority leader, and the late Philip Bayer, a Manchester attorney. She is the stepdaughter of George Marlow, who owns Marlow's Department Store on Main Street. Marlow sells the novel in his store.

City managers honor Weiss at convention

By Nancy Pappas
The Manchester Herald

Three generations of town managers were brought together last week at a reception given by the Connecticut Town and City Management Association for Town Manager Robert B. Weiss, in honor of his 40 years of service as a town manager.

Along with Weiss, the guests of honor were Woodbury Brackett, the former city manager of Dover, N.H., under whom Weiss did his internship, and Norman Hickey, now manager of San Diego County, Calif., one of the first of several dozen interns who worked with Weiss over the years.

The reception and dinner party, which was part of last week's convention of the International City Management Association in Charlotte, N.C., attracted more than 100 well-wishers. Weiss said Thursday. They toasted his service and his retirement, which is planned for June 1989.

"It was really exciting. I guess that's the word for it, thrilling, exciting," Weiss said. Friends from all over the country attended the party, he said, along with other alumni from his alma mater, the Wharton School of Finance at the University of Pennsylvania.

The party might have been a surprise, said Gloria Weiss, the town manager's wife, but the couple received an early-morning telephone call at their hotel room from former West Hartford manager Richard Custer.

"He called to say he couldn't come to our surprise party, but that he wanted to offer us a rain check, and take us out to dinner," Mrs. Weiss said Thursday. The secret would have been out within the hour, even without the call. A printed copy of the day's proceedings, given each morning to those attending the convention, listed the reception for Weiss.

At the reception, the International City Management Association's vice president, Richard Foote of Groton, said that Weiss is an understanding, innovative administrator and a much-admired human being, according to a press release from Weiss, Brackett, who is a former president of the organization, called Weiss one of the most able young men who had ever walked through his door.

Here's next week's leaf pickup schedule

Manchester's annual roadside leaf collection program has begun and will continue until December.

Homeowners are requested to rake their leaves to the edge of their roads, and make certain the piles contain no foreign objects, such as stumps, branches, cans or any other material, other than leaves or grass.

Please avoid parking any vehicles on the street until the vacuums have passed by to avoid missing leaf pickup.

The refuse contractor will remove up to six bags of leaves weekly during the program. It is suggested that you do not rake your leaves out to the road until the scheduled week of removals as they can create traffic hazards and fires.

The streets listed below are scheduled for the week beginning Monday.

Academy Street, Adelaide Road, Agnes Drive, Alice Drive, Arcella Drive, Ardmore Road, Arnot Road, Ashworth Street Extension, Asylum Street, Autumn Street.

Bliss Street, Bolton Center Road, Boulder Road, Bridle Path Lane, Buckingham Street, Butternut Road, Byron Road.

BEHIND THE DRY WALLS: WHAT BUILDERS DON'T TELL YOU! BY DAVID STONER, PRESIDENT STONER GROUP INC.

"WINDOWS CAN PROVIDE A CLEAR VIEW INTO THE QUALITY OF MATERIALS."

A builder isn't going to put all the same grade materials in two homes $100,000 apart. But once you've determined your price range, you can get a good idea of the comparative quality of construction between two homes when you look in the windows.

Our severe winters make double pane glass a must. The best insulated windows, but more expensive, are the wood ones. They also allow you to paint them one color on the inside and another on the outside to match your decor.

Vinyl clad windows provide good insulation also, but the color choices are limited. Of course, you never have to paint them.

Metal windows provide the minimum insulation required but only come in brown and white. They may, however, be the trade off required for you to keep within your budget.

So when you're comparison shopping, remember windows can give a clear indication of the overall quality of materials in your new home.

For more home buying tips, send me a self-addressed, legal-size stamped envelope, and I'll put my Buyer's Check List in the mail to you. And don't forget to look for our ads in the paper and to visit our new Stoner homes.

Jobless rate dips

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate fell to 5.3 percent in October as the economy created more than 300,000 jobs, the government said today in its last major economic report before Tuesday's election.

Employers added 325,000 jobs last month, compared with average monthly increases of 240,000 in August and September. October's job gains matched the rate set during the spring.

Nearly 100,000 of the new jobs were on assembly lines, more than double the drop of 45,000 manufacturing jobs over the two previous months.

The 0.1 percentage point drop in the rate from September's 5.4 percent returned the rate to June's 5.3 percent, the lowest since May 1974.

The October figures showed 193,000 more Americans at work than in September, with the number of jobless people totaling only 6.5 million.

The number of women holding jobs grew by 320,000 while the number of working men fell by 99,000, according to the Labor Department's monthly survey.

Food processing paced the unusually large manufacturing job gains with 25,000 new jobs logged in October. The department said, however, that the seasonally adjusted increase in those jobs reflected fewer fall cutbacks than would normally be the case because of light summer hiring caused by the drought.

After "several months of drought-related slowdowns, the one month pickup in manufacturing jobs may thus be somewhat overated," said the commissioner of labor statistics, Janet L. Norwood.

Nonetheless, she told the congressional Joint Economic Committee that there are 422,000 more factory jobs now than had been the case a year ago.

Despite October's strong growth, the department said, employment is just nine of the 30 manufacturing industries was above July's levels.

Toll-free number brings $40,000

GREENWICH (AP) — For 12 years, Hank Oscar's toll-free business telephone number was 1-800-243-2546, which meant little to him. But to the Hyatt hotel chain, the number spelled out 1-800-CHECK-IN.

That meant easy advertising for Hyatt and big bucks for Oscar.

The Chicago-based Hyatt Corp. recently paid him $40,000 for rights to the number.

"It felt like I won the lottery," said Oscar, owner of Oscarvision Systems Inc.

Oscar began using the toll-free number 12 years ago when he and his wife, Marie, went into business supplying movie and slide projectors to companies.

"We had a number assigned to us. We didn't choose it," said Marie Oscar.

Some other hotel chains also have easy-to-remember, toll-free numbers.

A spokesman for American Telephone & Telegraph Co. said AT&T has no records on how often a company pays to get the rights to a particular 800 number. Numbers are transferred through arrangements between the parties, in which one releases the number at the same time that the other requests it.

"AT&T doesn't sell 800 numbers. We loan them or assign them to somebody," said company spokesman Pete Webster.

Hyatt agreed to cover the cost of printing Oscar's former toll-free number this week. But because Hyatt has yet to begin promoting the number, employees still answer that number by saying, "Oscarvision."

Warm welcome greets Thatcher

By Moureen Johnson
The Associated Press

GDANSK, Poland (AP) — British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher got a tumultuous welcome today from thousands of people in this Baltic port on her symbolic pilgrimage to meet Lech Walesa at the Lenin shipyard birthplace of the banned Solidarity union.

Cheering crowds lined the route and pressed flowers into Mrs. Thatcher's hands as she toured the Old Town and Gdansk's reconstructed Long Market, whose ornate architecture reflects the city's wealthy past at the major Baltic seaport of the 16th century.

Mrs. Thatcher was greeted by city authorities as she arrived by plane from Warsaw. She then departed for a ceremony where she joined the country's leader, Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, to honor Polish defenders of the city's eastern Praga district to British flyers who died trying to ferry food and weapons to the Polish-resistance movement in the failed Warsaw uprising of 1944. The rebellion against the Nazi occupiers cost 200,000 Polish lives.

The ceremonies emphasizing the wartime British-Polish alliance and the tour of the Old Town preceded Mrs. Thatcher's scheduled meeting with Walesa on the final day of her three-day trip to Poland.

On Thursday evening, Mrs. Thatcher told communist leaders they must negotiate with Solidarity as the price for long-term Western aid, including the re-scheduling of a daunting $9 billion foreign debt.

The trip to the shipyard, which the government plans to close down as the first big money-losing victim of an economic austerity program, marks the high point of a tough visit.

Mrs. Thatcher has endorsed the banned union, including paying homage to a murdered Solidarity priest, while urging her communist hosts not to flinch from the risky path of reform.

In Gdansk, Mrs. Thatcher similarly mixed an official and so-called "private" program.

At Westerplatte, as the uniformed Jaruzelski watched, Mrs. Thatcher laid a wreath at the monument to the "defenders of the coast." On Sept. 1, 1939, an armored German ship fired a salvo at the small Polish garrison on the peninsula guarding the bay of Gdansk, the first hostilities of the war.

Mrs. Thatcher then traveled by boat to the city center, changing on the way from a somber black coat to a green one, which aides said represented a "feeling of hope."

'Truant,' 10, shoots school bus driver

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) — A 10-year-old boy who may have feared being reported for truancy shot a school bus driver in the head, critically wounding her, police said.

Russell Jean Hampton, 40, was shot in the base of the skull Thursday with a small-caliber handgun, police said. She remained in critical condition early today at St. Mary's Hospital here.

The boy was taken into custody at his grandparents' house, near the site of the shooting, after his grandmother called police. He could go before a state district judge today and face charges, authorities said.

Police speculated that Ms. Hampton had seen the boy and told him to get on the bus, with the intention of returning him to school and possibly reporting him for truancy.

Island survives mercenary attack

COLOMBO, Sri Lanka (AP) — Loyalist soldiers backed by Indian paratroopers searched today for mercenaries who tried to overthrow the Maldives government in a surprise attack that left at least 12 people dead, officials said today.

President Maumoon Abdul Gayoom said his government had the situation under control, and Indian Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi said he hoped to start withdrawing his paratroopers later in the day.

The people of Male, a small coral atoll that is the capital of the archipelago 475 miles southwest of India, emerged from their homes as hundreds of Indian troops patrolled the streets where the coup attempt took place Thursday.

"The situation is back to normal. The attackers have fled," said Ahmed Abdullah Aziz, Maldivian high commissioner in Colombo. "A number of Indian troops patrolled the streets where the coup attempt took place today."

He said no Indian troops were injured.

"Our troops have carried out their assigned task," Gandhi said. "The president and the government of the Maldives are secured, and we hope our troops will begin withdrawing today."

search of the raiders in case some are hiding."

Radio Male announced five mercenaries were captured before they could leave the atoll in their boats. No additional details were immediately available.

The mercenaries were thought to be Tamils, fighting a separatist war against the Sinhalese-dominated government in Sri Lanka, and were recruited by followers of an ex-president of the Maldives, said diplomatic sources in Colombo, 500 miles northeast of Male.

In New Delhi, India's capital, Gandhi told Parliament the mercenaries were hired by "disgruntled Maldivians living outside the country."

He said no Indian troops were injured.

"Our troops have carried out their assigned task," Gandhi said. "The president and the government of the Maldives are secured, and we hope our troops will begin withdrawing today."

Shamir bargaining to form coalition

JERUSALEM (AP) — Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir said he would step up Jewish settlement in Israeli-occupied lands but rejected potential coalition partners' demands to annex the areas and expel its Palestinian residents.

Shamir, head of the right-wing Likud bloc, held preliminary bargaining meetings Thursday with two extremist parties, Moledet (Homeland) and Tzomet (Crossroads), whose support he needs to form the next government.

The meetings took place as the nearly 11-month-old uprising that has cost the lives of 906 Palestinians and 10 Israelis persisted in the occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip. Eleven Palestinians were shot and wounded in clashes with soldiers, Arab hospital officials said.

Likud won 40 parliamentary seats in Tuesday's elections, more than any other party in the 120-member Knesset. The left-leaning Labor party won 39 seats, meaning neither it nor Likud have the majority needed to form a government.

Since the elections, both have been wooing the 18-member religious bloc in an effort to win its support.

Both Tzomet and Moledet, which won two seats each, favor annexing the disputed territories. Moledet's founder, retired Gen. Rehavam Zeevi, says the only solution to the Palestinian-Israeli conflict is to expel all Arabs from Israel, a policy he euphemistically calls "transfer."

Zeevi has asked Likud to hold a referendum on the issue as a pre-condition for his joining a Shamir-led coalition, Israel radio said.

"Shamir has made it clear that the idea of transfer will not be included in the guidelines of the next government," said Yossi Ahimeir, the prime minister's spokesman. "Likud rejects the concept."

Shamir said he opposes annexing the territories because such a step would violate the 1978 Camp David accords, Ahimeir said.

FBI denies retaliation

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The FBI agent who began a successful class-action discrimination lawsuit against the bureau says he and other Hispanic agents have since been harassed, and they are asking a judge to bar such retaliation.

A 35-page document filed Thursday in U.S. District Judge Lucius Buntion's court contains affidavits from three Hispanic agents who contend they have been singled out and treated unfairly since Buntion ruled Sept. 30 that the FBI discriminates against Hispanics in promotions and job conditions.

FBI spokesman Gregory Jones in Washington denied the allegations, saying "any intimidation or retaliation would be illegal and intolerable, and would result in an FBI inquiry."

Bernardo "Matt" Perez, who initiated the class-action lawsuit in January 1987, contended in his affidavit that many of his duties as No. 2 man in the El Paso office have been taken away, and that his boss has intimidated another agent for talking to reporters about the case.

Marcos feels 'betrayed'

HONOLULU (AP) — Former Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos says he feels "betrayed" by the American system but will comply with a judge's order in his federal racketeering case and "take my destiny, whatever that may be."

"I am not afraid to go to jail," Marcos told The Associated Press in an exclusive interview at his home here Thursday. "I would probably be dead by the time the trial is over. I'm feeling in pain every day."

Marcos and his wife, Imelda, were indicted Oct. 21 by a federal grand jury in New York on federal racketeering charges accusing them of plundering more than $100 million from their homeland and funneling it into Swiss and Hong Kong bank accounts, Manhattan real estate and fine art.

Mrs. Marcos pleaded innocent to the charges in New York on Monday, but her husband's arraignment was delayed pending the report of a government physician who examined him Monday.

Defense indictment due

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal prosecutors have indicated that defense consultant William Parkin will be among the first people charged in the massive Pentagon bribery case, a source says.

The source, speaking Thursday on condition of anonymity, said Parkin has been told he "will be indicted unless he comes in and cuts a deal, which he is not going to do."

Parkin has told reporters that he believes he broke no law in running his Alexandria, Va., consulting business. Although the source would not reveal details of the plea bargain offer, he said the terms were stiff.

Last week, Henry E. Hudson, the U.S. attorney in Alexandria, Va., said the first indictments in the investigation into the $150-billion-a-year defense procurement business could come later this month.

Cities sue over census

NEW YORK (AP) — New York, Los Angeles and other major cities have sued the federal government claiming that undercounting in the 1990 census could cost them billions of dollars and deprive minorities of their political clout.

"This is one of the most important civil rights issues in the country today," said Peter Zimbrath, New York City's chief attorney. "To the extent minorities, black and Hispanics in the inner cities are undercounted, their vote is diluted."

The cities contend in the suit, filed Thursday, that the Census Bureau was prepared to make adjustments to compensate for undercounting, particularly of minority groups, but that it was overruled last year by the Commerce Department, its parent body.

Doctors 'ignore' drinking problems

CHICAGO (AP) — Doctors are letting alcoholics use hospitals as "revolving doors" by ignoring their drinking problems, even though experience shows that alcoholism can be effectively treated, researchers reported today.

At a Connecticut hospital's emergency room, not a single patient was referred for alcohol evaluation or assistance out of 47 who were found to have at least double the legal blood-alcohol limit, the researchers said.

The subjects were among 346 motor-vehicle accident victims whose cases were reviewed at the unidentified hospital's trauma center, said the researchers, led by Dr. Grace Chang of Yale University School of Medicine in New Haven.

Only about one-fourth of the 346 patients were even tested for alcohol, with 53 of them testing positive, the researchers reported in today's Journal of the American Medical Association.

Forty-seven had levels of at least 200 milligrams of alcohol per deciliter of blood—double the legal limit for drivers in Connecticut, the researchers said. Levels went as high as 550 milligrams per deciliter, they said.

Blood-alcohol levels of 200 milligrams per deciliter "are unusual in the course of ordinary social drinking" and are considered an indication that a drinker has "an alcohol problem, however infrequent his inebriation," the researchers said.

While unable to generalize about all physicians, the researchers said this study and other indicate that recognition of alcohol problems in hospital emergency departments "is limited, as is referral for treatment."

"Despite evidence that alcoholism treatment success rates can be as good as or better than those for many medical problems, alcoholics are permitted to use medical centers as revolving doors, with the writing and unwitting complicity of the institutions," the researchers said.

Studies show that when doctors advise patients that their alcohol consumption is dangerous, "there is a high probability that the patient will cut back on use of the drug," said an accompanying editorial in the Journal.

"Studies of patients treated for alcoholism show that brief re-education, peaking about six months after treatment, is common, but long-term improvement usually is the ultimate outcome," added the editorial by Dr. Julian R. Walter of the University of Vermont College of Medicine in Burlington.

A separate study in today's Journal found that people who usually consumed five to eight drinks per occasion were almost twice as likely to die of an injury as non-drinkers or those who consumed one or two.

That study also found that people who consumed nine or more drinks per occasion had more than triple the risk of the low-consumption groups.

"The important finding in this study is that what people tell us about alcohol use related strongly to their future risk of dying from an injury," said Dr. Robert F. Anda, co-author of the study and a researcher at the national Center for Disease Control in Atlanta.

Hotel shootout kills 2

MEXICO CITY (AP) — A shootout between rival labor factions inside a luxury hotel sent guests fleeing to their rooms and left two people dead and 21 wounded, authorities said.

Identities of those killed Thursday night at the Hotel Presidente Chapultepec were not immediately available.

But Maria Ramirez, hotel shift supervisor, said today that all guests and employees were safe and accounted for.

Hotel spokesman Federico Gonzalez said factions of the Mexican Workers Federation and the Revolutionary Confederation of Workers and Campesinos clashed inside the lobby. The brawl erupted into the bar, attacking a group of 10 Revolution Party Confederation-affiliated musicians.

The pro-government Workers Federation lost a bid to win the musicians' contract to the Revolutionary Confederation in an arbitration ruling earlier Thursday, the Excelsior news service reported.

The shootout was the second involving the Federation this week. On Monday, a fight between Federation activists and the Acapulco hotel workers union left two people dead, 15 injured and Acapulco's union headquarters in flames.

Gonzalez said he did not know who began shooting first. Employees of the popular hotel near Chapultepec Park quickly ushered guests to their rooms after the shooting broke out.

Humberto Pena, a Red Cross spokesman, confirmed two died from gunshot wounds. The Red Cross said 21 people suffered wounds from the gunfire or beatings with clubs. Among the wounded was a policeman shot in the leg. Red Cross spokesman Rafael Aguilu said.

Receptionist Edgar Bringas said the hotel had received anonymous telephone calls warning of trouble at the hotel.

Gap gets wider

WASHINGTON (AP) — A children's advocacy group says the gap between the mortality rates for black and white infants born in the United States is continuing to widen.

The Children's Defense Fund, basing its study on data released by the National Center for Health Statistics, a federal agency, said Thursday it found a black-white infant mortality rate of 2.02 in 1986, the most recent year for which figures were available.

The findings mean a black baby was more than twice as likely to die in infancy as a white baby.

OPINION

Take a look at Main St., but go easy

The suggestion by Director Ronald Osella that the town take a close look at the plans for reconstruction of downtown Main Street is a good one as long as it does not result in further delays or an attempt to scale down the work to an inadequate, cosmetic project.

Main Street reconstruction has been in the planning for a long time and a number of changes have been made since the first conception.

In the interim, the character of downtown Main Street has changed and its needs may have been altered.

There is not unanimity among merchants and others who have a vital interest in the economic viability of the downtown area.

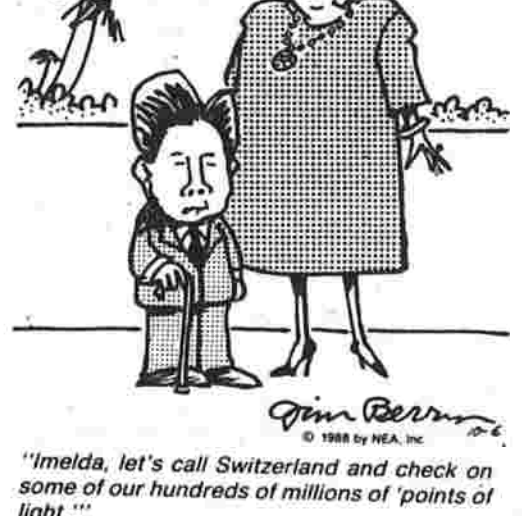

As a result of Osella's suggestion, the Board of Directors will hold a workshop on the downtown plans. It should provide the directors, particularly those who are relatively new members, with an opportunity to determine that the priorities are still appropriate.

But there is no need for another broad public reharsing of the old arguments. It seems highly unlikely that there could be any basic flaw in the plans after all the discussions that have been held and all the changes that have been made to accommodate conflicting interests.

But there may well be questions about particulars, like whether the access road just east of Main Street would do the job it was designed to do or whether the extension of pedestrian-walk areas, the so-called bubbles, would be the most effective way to provide safety for pedestrians and drivers.

In order to put to rest any doubts that may linger in their minds, the directors should take a close look at those details.

But this is not the time to make major alterations. The work is long overdue and it's time to get on with it.

Consider this before you vote Tuesday

Every election has its defining moment. In 1980 it came when Ronald Reagan, in his one TV debate with Jimmy Carter, tagged one of Carter's misstatements with, "There's no going back." In 1984 it may well have come at the Republican convention in Dallas, when Ray Charles sat down at the piano and, with Reagan, Bush, and their wives behind him, led the thousands of people present in a moving rendition of "America the Beautiful."

Don't give Wright secret information

To the Editor: In view of Speaker Wright's casual public statements that members of the Congress are under no constraints other than their own judgment in regard to the disclosure of information classified as "secret" by other branches of government, would it not be prudent to deny Speaker Wright access to secret information until or unless he is cleared of illegal leakage of secret information?

Housing program can't be stopped

To the Editor: The trick-or-treat housing proposal recently revealed by our Board of Directors is nothing more than an attempt by the federal and state bureaucracy to provide affordable low-cost housing to those disadvantaged low-income residents in the core cities who are being forced out of their homes as building after building is boarded up, and rehabilitated, not for their benefit (the low-income) but because those all-powerful people who control the insurance, banking, hotel and hospital, and retail business conglomerates located in and around these high-crime, vermin- and drug-infested localities want low-income people out, and high-income people in.

To them it is simply a matter of economics. This movement of populations is called the "Harvard Plan," a plan conceived 10 or 15 years ago for the purpose of the above. To blame the politicians for this movement is short-sighted and incorrect. If we conclude that the bulk of these populations is black and Hispanic and are now, to a large degree, represented by people of their own nationality, then these same politicians would lose voters.

Some members of the Manchester Board of Directors have said they feel little support for the housing partnership plan. However, like it or not, and for or against, the reality is that this plan will come to fruition, and they (the board) will be unable to prevent it even if a popular referendum by the voters turns it down.

We have witnessed the wholesale disregard for the election process in Yonkers, N.Y. Judge Sand (one person), in a steam-roller decision, forced the elected representatives of this community (Yonkers) to reverse their vote and the votes of the people to build low-income housing. The citizens of Yonkers were threatened with massive fines and imprisonment for the elected representatives. I do not believe our Board of Directors, or any community could withstand such a sentence.

What we are witnessing is the destruction of the basic framework of the U.S. Constitution, which provides for three separate and equal divisions of government: legislative, executive and judicial. My friends, a very dangerous precedent has been set in motion by Judge Sand, for no one person should be able to set himself above the duly elected representatives of the people. Our government is predicated upon the proposition "of the people, by the people and for the people," not "of the judge, by the judge, for the judge." Judge Sand, it was revealed, owns a large tract in New York in a high-income section. He declined to donate our sell any part for low-income housing.

The town's master plan (in my opinion) is now preparing for low-income migration from Hartford. The Cheney mills are being rehabilitated for this purpose, the Bigelow Sanford Mills in Enfield are also being readied for low-income occupancy. To those government bureaucrats who tell us that a mix of old and medium-income people will inhabit these structures, I say, "Hogwash!" It just will not happen.

Is this a racist issue? I believe to some extent that it is. I also know that we as a society can not allow below-standard, inhuman living conditions to exist for a segment of our population. When the mills are completed and ready for occupancy, monthly rent will be no object for low-income people, for they will pay what the market can afford and the government will pay the balance.

Officers fly for pleasure

By Jack Anderson and Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — Army engineers and their spouses have jetted around the globe, using government-owned planes for trips that look more like pleasure than business. In the process, Army Corps of Engineers officers have broken their own rules against frivolous travel and have misused three Army jets that are supposed to be reserved for "emergencies."

Congressional investigators have uncovered a pattern of waste and abuse in foreign travel by the Army engineers. Those investigators are now calling for the corps to get rid of its three jets promptly, because they are a waste of money.

Staff investigators for the Government Operations subcommittee, chaired by Rep. Mike Synar, D-Okl., reveal that the corps, which supervises military construction projects worldwide, has made a joke out of government travel rules. Too many corps employees have been allowed to go to foreign countries. The corps' jets have been used when commercial airline tickets would have been cheaper. Rules against taking trips of marginal value have been violated. And spouses have ridden on the corps' jets, exposing the Army to liability and criticism.

Spouses are allowed to travel on government planes only when there is an "unquestionable" official role for them to play in the business trip, according to Army regulations. The congressional investigators found that Army Corps spouses have engaged in such official functions as shopping, sightseeing and fashion shows.

Incumbent offers fine credentials

To the Editor:

A "political hack" is what Jack Thompson's opponent called him. Nothing could be further from the truth. I have lived and voted in Manchester for 40 years and I have never seen anyone go to the Legislature with the excellent credentials that Jack Thompson has. He is a kind and gentle man with integrity, intelligence, ambition and forcefulness. He is dedicated to serving every citizen, elderly, young and in between.

The town's master plan (in my opinion) is now preparing for low-income migration from Hartford. The Cheney mills are being rehabilitated for this purpose, the Bigelow Sanford Mills in Enfield are also being readied for low-income occupancy. To those government bureaucrats who tell us that a mix of old and medium-income people will inhabit these structures, I say, "Hogwash!" It just will not happen.

Is this a racist issue? I believe to some extent that it is. I also know that we as a society can not allow below-standard, inhuman living conditions to exist for a segment of our population. When the mills are completed and ready for occupancy, monthly rent will be no object for low-income people, for they will pay what the market can afford and the government will pay the balance.

The present population of Manchester is approximately 50,000 people. It is from that some 20,000 people are projected to reach 80,000 people in the 1990s. The state Department of Housing has estimated that more than 400 low-income families are in need of housing. The state Department of Housing has estimated that more than 400 low-income families are in need of housing. The state Department of Housing has estimated that more than 400 low-income families are in need of housing.

The choice is clear: Jack Thompson is the man who has the most influence in the state Capitol. All of these terms are respected by the other legislators. The alternative is an inexperienced clerk who has never held any public office and seems to be completely unaware of the needs of Manchester. For the good of Manchester, please return Jack Thompson to office.

FOCUS/Advice

Elderly parent is dependency deduction

Your dependency deductions for 1988 could turn into tax disasters for 1989, unless you act properly and in time before the year ends. The dependency deduction is $1,950 in 1988 and climbs to $2,000 in 1989, that's good news if you're supporting an elderly parent, right?

Not necessarily, according to Eli J. Warach, senior vice president and chief tax expert of PricewaterhouseCoopers.

Because of another tax law change, the tax benefits you get from your personal exemption and dependency deductions are phased out if your taxable income exceeds $149,250 on a joint return. The phase-out is accomplished by imposing a 5 percent tax on you, in addition to your regular tax.

Net result: The worst of all worlds. Your Mother has $150 of taxable income because you claim a dependency deduction for her, but you get no tax benefit from this deduction.

Tax-savings strategy: Set things up here. You can't claim a dependency deduction for Mother. She'll have more gross income.

married, $750 if single, for being age 65. This replaces the old 65-or-over personal exemption, but these breaks don't fully help your mother. When a taxpayer can be claimed as a dependent by someone else, the regular standard deduction can offset only $500 of investment income. The 65-year-or-over standard deduction, however, is available. So Mother is left with $150 of unsheltered income.

But this year something new has been added. Mother will still have $150 of taxable income. The "new" is that even though she pays tax, you will still be able to claim a dependency deduction for her.

Another surprise: Starting in 1988, the tax benefits you get from your personal exemption and dependency deductions are phased out if your taxable income exceeds $149,250 on a joint return. The phase-out is accomplished by imposing a 5 percent tax on you, in addition to your regular tax.

Tax-savings strategy: Set things up here. You can't claim a dependency deduction for Mother. She'll have more gross income.

DEAR ABBY: Recently you told a 14-year-old girl whose mother wouldn't let her wear a strapless, wrap-around dress because it was too revealing that the rules for how a 14-year-old girl should dress haven't changed.

Well, I am a 14-year-old girl, and I say the rules have changed. Today, girls are compelled to show off their bodies because of the same social rules that forced their grandmothers to cover up theirs.

I'm a figure skater — not on ice, on roller skates, so you won't be seeing me in the Olympics unless they accept dancing on wheels instead of blades as an athletic competition.

But when I'm done on wheels or blades, one thing is the same: the boys are always fully dressed, but the girls are semi-nude. The same thing is true in many other sports. Just take a look at how the gymnasts are dressed when they perform. And it isn't only in sports; my sister has an after-school job that requires her to wear a uniform with short-skorts during the summer, so the customers can look at her legs while ordering pizza.

It's everywhere, Abby. Just take a look around you.

DEAR SCANTILY CLAD: Call me old-fashioned, but my perception of acceptable (modest) attire hasn't changed, although fashions have. Witness today's baseball and football uniforms. Gone are the baggy trousers — replaced with skin-tight stretch pants.

DEAR ABBY: I just sat through a Sunday morning sermon in which our minister used the phrase "man's seed" no less than a dozen times. It was all I could do to keep from walking out.

It's taken what seems like an eon to enlighten people about the miracle of reproduction, and what happens? An ignorant, callous patriarch stands in front of a church full of people and implies that the creation of life is

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband's grandmother is in her 70s. A year ago she was mowing the lawn and a stick flew up and cut her lower leg. Despite whirlpools and antibiotics it's still not healing. Her sight is getting more broken every day. What should she do?

DEAR READER: Elderly people do not heal as quickly as younger patients. If your husband's grandmother has not responded to whirlpools and antibiotics, I think that she should be seen by a surgeon. Perhaps a fragment of the stick is still in the wound; this must be removed before healing will take place.

Also, because of poor circulation, the lady may need debridement (surgical cleaning of the injured area) with or without skin grafting. A surgeon can best advise you about the next steps to take.

Mother for her support. You should be able to claim the new higher dependency deduction for Mother on your 1988 return. Reason: you provide more than half of her support.

But what about Mother? Unfortunately, the tax news is not so good for her.

Mother will have to pay tax on $150 of her dividend income. Reason: a taxpayer who is 65 or over can claim (1) a regular standard deduction, newly increased to $3,000, and (2) a special standard deduction of $600 if

DEAR DR. GOTT: Last year one-third of my husband's stomach was removed because of a bleeding ulcer. Just before being released, he developed anxiety and depression and was hospitalized for a week in a psychiatric ward. He has a prescription for 200 mg Elavil at bedtime. He's so doped up he falls asleep at work, can't get out of bed and has the energy of a 90-year-old. I think this is too much medicine but I can't seem to get through to his doctor.

DEAR READER: The amount of Elavil (an anti-depressant) that your husband is receiving seems to be high. The usual dose is 25-50 mg a day. The symptoms he is experiencing could certainly be due to over-medication.

If his doctor ignores your concerns, find another one who will be more sympathetic and who will consider reducing your husband's Elavil dose or changing over to another anti-depressant.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Our son, 22, has been experiencing shrinking of his penis. There is also a loss of feeling and an uncomfortable constant firmness. He cannot ejaculate. He's not been sick or injured and tests are negative. The urologist expanded a stricture in the urethra and cauterized a spot in the bladder. But the condition persists. What's causing it?

DEAR READER: Your son may be suffering from an unusual form of Peyronie's disease. This condition, of unknown cause, produces thickening and contractures of the deep covering of the penis. Treatment is varied and consists of surgical removal of the scarlike tissue, local injections of cortisone and ultrasonic therapy. Some cases resolve spontaneously.

If your son's urologist is unable to help the situation, I suggest referral to the urology clinic at a teaching hospital.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My husband's grandmother is in her 70s. A year ago she was mowing the lawn and a stick flew up and cut her lower leg. Despite whirlpools and antibiotics it's still not healing. Her sight is getting more broken every day. What should she do?

Strangely enough, you will save more tax dollars by not qualifying for the deduction than you will by qualifying for it.

For example, let's say you give your Mother stocks or bonds that throw off $3,000 of dividends or interest each year. You also reduce your support payments by $3,000. (Of course, you are not parting with these investments permanently. As her heir, they will eventually come back to you.)

Your Mother wins: She still gets the same support as before — but she owes no tax. Basic reason: her income subject to tax exceeds the amount of the exemption deduction. You are no longer entitled to a dependency deduction for her. Therefore, she can claim a $1,950 personal exemption for herself ($2,000 in 1989). And she gets the $3,000 standard deduction, plus the special standard deduction of $750 for being age 65 or over.

You win too: You remove $3,000 of taxable income from your return. So you get a new $3,000 deduction that's much bigger than any dependency deduction you can claim. And the 5 percent surtax does not apply here. Under a dependency deduction, this $3,000 "deduction" can't be offset by the new 5 percent tax.

Television entertains him every night during our evening meal when our family should be sharing the day's events together. Don't suggest rescheduling dinner, because the news is on for an hour and a half, and my husband watches all of it.

He's a minister and prides himself on "saving people." He keeps the TV turned to a religious channel when he's not watching the news. I hear preaching morning, noon and night. Many evenings I go to bed while he's embracing his other mistress, Radio. When I get into his car, the radio is always tuned to gospel music. We can't carry on a conversation in the car because he listens with one ear. He never inquires about my day, my feelings, or anything concerning me or the children. I realize that he is serving the Lord and saving souls, but what about his family?

When I complain, he says, "Wives submit yourselves unto your husbands." (Colossians 3:18.) What can I do?

Rivera's nose broken

NEW YORK (AP) — A television show on "hatemongers" being taped by Geraldo Rivera erupted into a brawl that left the host with a broken nose and what he said was a hard-earned lesson: "Throw the first punch next time."

The melee broke out Thursday when a young white supremacist uttered racist remarks, prompting black civil rights leader Roy Innis to grab him by the neck. Pushing and shoving followed, "skinheads" stormed the stage and chairs and punches were thrown.

"I've been in plenty of scrapes before, but never in a studio," Rivera said afterward. "I never expected this. I anticipated heated words. But I didn't know it would boil into violence."

Rivera concluded the taping and taped two more shows before having his nose X-rayed.

Iacocca takes a spin

NORMAL, Ill. (AP) — Chrysler Corp. Chairman Lee Iacocca assembled his company's board of directors here to visit the new Diamond-Star Motors Corp. auto assembly plant, but the trip wasn't all business.

Iacocca was taken from the monthly board meeting Wednesday to take a spin in a couple of new Plymouth Lasers around Diamond-Star's test track.

"It was very exciting," said G. Glenn Gardner, chairman of Diamond-Star, a joint venture between Chrysler and Mitsubishi Motors Corp. of Japan. "He took out a couple different cars and really enjoyed it."

Guinness returns to stage

LONDON (AP) — Veteran actor Sir Alec Guinness has returned to the London stage for the first time in a decade.

Guinness, 74, appeared in Thursday night's production of "A Walk in the Woods," by American writer Lee Blessing, playing a Soviet arms negotiator coming to terms with nuclear weapons. The play closed on Broadway in New York earlier this year.

Most of Guinness' recent work has been in films and television.

Singer sues magazine

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Singer-songwriter Van Stephenson claims in a lawsuit that Penthouse Forum magazine made him look like a sexual deviant by using one of his album covers to illustrate an article about transvestites.

Stephenson, who lives nearby in Williamson County, contends in the U.S. District Court suit filed this week that the magazine invaded his privacy and defamed his character.

The suit seeks $500,000 in damages. Among those named as defendants are Forum International Ltd., the magazine's publisher; Bob Guccione, the magazine's chief executive officer; and MCA Records, which released Stephenson's album.

Producer seeks funding

LONDON (AP) — Jeremy Thomas, the British producer of the Oscar-winning movie "The Last Emperor," says he was forced to seek investment abroad for his new films after investors from his own country refused to fund him again.

"It's a great shame that British banks would not back us this time," said the 33-year-old producer. "A lot of money for 'The Last Emperor' came from British institutions and they all got their money back."

He told reporters Thursday he raised $120 million in Japan and Europe for his next six movies, a sum he claimed was a record for an independent British producer.

Abrattis said today he couldn't get a consensus among state officials to establish parameters for the legislation. He said he turned the draft bill over to the Connecticut Historical Commission, which gave it to Quarrier to work on.

Quarrier and Ostrom finally reached an agreement with the Homart Development Co. of Chicago, the mall builder, to allow Ostrom to explore the site while the cut was being made and sift through the debris from the cut.

After the long wait to observe the site and the nearly 80 hours that Ostrom and his staff have spent at the site over the past eight months, Ostrom said he's disappointed, but not surprised. "I knew it was a long shot right from the beginning," Ostrom said. "I just wanted the chance to see. Long shots sometimes pay off."

DiRosa

In criticizing Buckno's campaign, DiRosa referred to a campaign letter she put out two weeks ago in which she charged that Thompson was against an amendment that would have kept convicted drunken drivers from driving school buses and for one that would have provided for early release of those convicted of certain Class B felonies. DiRosa said that she "in no way represents the true voting record" of Thompson. He said that he is a close personal friend of the representative and has sought his advice on town politics. Thompson was not at the news conference.

DiRosa said after the news conference that the substance of the rumor was that he was heading a campaign of Democrats for Buckno, that he had made donations to her campaign, and that he had been meeting with her to advise her. DiRosa's name is not included among contributors to Buckno's campaign in the latest records filed with the office of the secretary of the state. According to those records, Thompson has collected and spent slightly more than Buckno.

Two charged in gun-waving outside cafe

Two Vernon men were arrested early this morning in connection with an incident in which one of the men reportedly waved a shotgun at a crowd of people in the parking lot of a Manchester cafe, police said.

Dean G. Golub, 23, of 105B High St., Rockville, was charged with breach of peace after a witness told police he waved a shotgun at about 20 people gathered in the parking lot at 432 Oakland St. and Gary W. Minor, 25, of 118 W. Main St., Rockville, was charged with having weapons in a motor vehicle, operating under suspension and operating a motor vehicle without insurance, police said.

A witness told police that at about midnight there was an argument of the parking lot of Harpo's and about 20 people stood around watching when Golub took a shotgun out of the car. Minor was driving and waved it at the crowd, police said.

Police also found shotgun shells and rifle cartridges in Golub's pocket, police said. Golub told police he knew nothing about either gun, police said.

A check on Golub revealed that he has been convicted of felonies in the past, police said. There is a federal violation for convicted felons carrying firearms, and the case will be forwarded to the proper federal agency for possible action, police said.

Company recalls ice cream after bacteria is discovered

Royal Ice Cream Co. of Manchester is conducting a voluntary recall of its ice cream, which may contain a bacterium that could cause flu-like symptoms and more serious health problems, the state Department of Consumer Protection said today.

The company, located at 27 Warren St., has recalled 6,000 gallons of ice cream so far and expects to receive about 4,000 gallons more, said Kevin Gallagher, an inspector with the department's Food Division.

The department has received no reports of any health problems caused by the ice cream, but tests by the federal Food and Drug Administration show the bacterium, Gallagher said.

Those who have the ice cream should dispose of it. The bacterium, called Listeria monocytogenes, can cause an illness similar to the flu and more serious problems in pregnant women and elderly people or infants, Gallagher said.

Royal has agreed to cease production of all of its retail-market ice cream and will manufacture products for the commercial industry, which accounts for most of its business.

Products manufactured in Milford will bear the number 549 on the container, Gallagher said. James Orfittelli, president of Royal Ice Cream, said the company has hired a consultant from a local laboratory to review the operation as early as Saturday.

The recall is the second this year for Royal. This summer, the company recalled its mint chocolate chip and pistachio ice cream because of the same bacterium.

"I would wish this on my worst enemy," Orfittelli said. But he said he's optimistic that the problems will be corrected.

"We've been here for 80 years and we'll be here for 80 more," he said.

Orfittelli, founded in Manchester in 1908 by James Orfittelli's grandfather, produces about 135,000 gallons of ice cream a year.

infected only unclassified computers, said spokeswoman Barbara Mulkin. Computer experts at the lab were analyzing the situation to determine what damage might have occurred and to find a cure. Ms. Mulkin said that might take a day.

A Stanford University in Palo Alto, Calif., the virus was "mainly just slowing down systems and slowing data," said Bob Beyers, a school spokesman.

"The developer was clearly a very high order hacker," or computer buff, said John McAfee, chairman of the Computer Virus Industry Association in Santa Clara, Calif.

"He used a flaw in the operating systems of these computers" to enter the electronic mail system of ARPANET, a computer network established by the Defense Advanced Research Projects Agency, the research arm of the U.S. Defense Department, McAfee said.

ARPANET links nearly every university in the United States, allowing researchers to "communicate data and text very easily," said Bob Finn, a spokesman for the California Institute of Technology.

The virus also infected a network called Science Internet that serves many scientists and research labs, including NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif., said JPL spokesman Jim Wilson.

Also attacked were computers at Boston University, Purdue University, the University of Wisconsin in Madison, Georgia Tech, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and other major research centers.

Here's how 'virus' works

By The Associated Press

Just as a biological virus disrupts living cells to cause disease, a computer virus invades data processors and disrupts normal operation of the machines.

Biological viruses are pieces of the hereditary code that take over a cell's machinery to trick it into making thousands of duplicates of the original virus that spread from cell to cell. Viruses cause diseases such as AIDS.

In a similar fashion, a computer virus is a computer program that carries in its code instructions for replicating itself perfectly.

Once it enters a computer, the virus temporarily takes control of the operating system, which is the master program that allows the computer to run other programs, such as word-processing software.

The virus spreads into other programs in the computer and spreads from one computer to the next as users give each other floppy disks or link up over telephone lines.

The virus also infected a network called Science Internet that serves many scientists and research labs, including NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory in Pasadena, Calif., said JPL spokesman Jim Wilson.

Also attacked were computers at Boston University, Purdue University, the University of Wisconsin in Madison, Georgia Tech, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and other major research centers.

Whalers not any different from '87-88

By The Associated Press

Things certainly haven't changed too much within the space of a year for the Hartford Whalers. On the heels of a mediocre, at best, 1987-88 campaign in which they finished 35-38-7 in fourth place in the Adams Division, the Whalers are hoping to turn things around this year.

Whaler Coach Larry Pleau, who took over for Jack Evans on Feb. 7, will not receive his chance until all year with the Whalers. Since Pleau took over, including the first 12 games this season, the Whalers are 19-18.

The Whalers are currently 6-4 and tied with Quebec for fourth place in the division. Whaler-Prudhomme and General Manager Emile Francis didn't make any significant personnel changes during the offseason. The Whalers totaled 40 goals last season, the second-worst offensive output in the National Hockey League behind Minnesota which scored 242.

How can Francis, Pleau and the Whaler faithful (how many are left?) begin to hope for an entirely different outcome this year with virtually the same team? Scott Young, a member of the 1988 United States Olympic hockey team and Jody Hull, the No. 1 draft pick in 1986 and 1987, respectively, are on the roster and should aid the cause.

Grant Jennings, Ed Kasielic, ... need I say more. The other Whaler acquisitions are franchise names and won't change a thing for the club.

"These are the kinds of mistakes we're going to make all year," Pleau echoed after Tuesday night's 5-3 loss to Montreal at the Civic Center.

For your sake, Larry, these better not be the mistakes you'll make all year or it'll be a mighty long one.

The three premier players on the team — captain Ron Francis, Kevin Dineen and Sylvain Turgeon — collectively had woeful individual seasons a year ago. The Whaler brass is banking on this trio along with everyone else, along for the ride, to recapture their earlier "glory" years.

Dineen tallied a career-high 40 goals in 1986-87 while Francis had a career year with 93 points (30 goals, 63 assists). And Turgeon, everyone's favorite Whaler goal, scored 45 goals in 1985-86. For the Whalers "to change their fortunes, it is imperative for the 'Big Three' to approach those earlier numbers.

But then, what if everyone else falls flat on their face again. "Too many 'ifs' exist for the Whalers to have a banner season as in 1986-87. Sufficient changes haven't been made, if any."

"The Whalers are living on a prayer. If you listen hard, you can hear the Whalers' theme song. "Don't change for you. Don't change a thing for me."

UConn pursues conference lead

By Steve Wilstein The Associated Press

STANFORD, Calif. — A showdown is coming on the power of track and field programs to maintain their boycott of South Africa, and already the words are getting nastier.

The dispute is about freedom of expression, for Americans and South Africans, and has as much to do with money as morality.

The Athletics Congress, track's governing body in the United States, has scheduled a hearing in Chicago on Nov. 18 to thrash out the issues and, probably, suspend a dozen U.S. athletes who recently violated a ban on competition in South Africa.

The athletes, coaches and organizer of the trip haven't decided whether even to go to the hearing before a three-member panel, but they're pretty sure that won't be the end of the case.

Count on this one going to federal court eventually, and don't bet against the athletes beating TAC just as Stanford athletes won a decision against the National Collegiate Athletic Association's drug-testing policy.

The subjects are vastly different, but the underlying issues are the same: the protection of rights guaranteed in the Constitution.

"We were looking for this confrontation and we're welcoming it," says Dick Tomlinson, the team's organizer who is connected with wealthy sports sponsors in South Africa. "I think long term we're headed for the courts, just like the Stanford case."

Tomlinson says his goal is to get South Africa, which has been banned from the Olympics since 1964, back into international competition because "sport is apolitical" and athletes should be free to compete and earn a living anywhere.

There are more Kenyan, Ugandan and Nigerian track stars than South Africans, and the IAAF didn't want to alienate a continent for one country, risk disruptions at all meets and loss of sponsors. Some critics of the American athletes' South African trip say the tour was shameful and the athletes should be banned.

Sydney Maree, a South African-born black who competed for the United States in the 5,000 meters in Seoul, says the tour gave "the appearance of legitimacy to South Africa's position."

Brooks Johnson, coach at Stanford, a black man, and not one of those who went on the tour, thinks that sort of "knee-jerk" reaction is ludicrous.

"The issue is whether citizens of the United States have the right to go there, and they clearly do," he says.

"The whole idea of protecting a person's rights comes from my point of view as a black man," he says. "I don't think a person's civil rights should be impinged upon because of a trend, a quasi-boycott that is only conveniently applied or not applied."

Tennis players, golfers and business people are free to go to South Africa. Not so track and field athletes.

Johnson defends the rights of anybody, shot putter John Powell, former world record holder Tom Petranoff, hurdler Milan Stewart, middle distance runners James Robinson and Ruth Wyszocki and others who competed in South Africa, but he says he's not interested in their "plattitudes" about the country.

"It's no different from the late Olympic czar Avery Brundage going to Nazi Germany in the 1930s and coming back and saying, 'Hey, the rains run on time and the streets are clean,'" Johnson says.

CHECKED — Hartford's Ron Francis, right, checks Michael Telven of the Bruins into the boards in the first period of their game Thursday night at Boston Garden. The Whalers won, 5-3.

Whalers produce early to turn back the Bruins

BOSTON (AP) — Mike Liut says that to beat the Boston Bruins in cozy Boston Garden, visiting teams have to play 60 minutes of strong hockey.

Thursday night's game against the Bruins with three goals in seven minutes and Liut made every else, along for the ride, to recapture their earlier "glory" years.

Dineen tallied a career-high 40 goals in 1986-87 while Francis had a career year with 93 points (30 goals, 63 assists). And Turgeon, everyone's favorite Whaler goal, scored 45 goals in 1985-86. For the Whalers "to change their fortunes, it is imperative for the 'Big Three' to approach those earlier numbers.

But then, what if everyone else falls flat on their face again. "Too many 'ifs' exist for the Whalers to have a banner season as in 1986-87. Sufficient changes haven't been made, if any."

"The Whalers are living on a prayer. If you listen hard, you can hear the Whalers' theme song. "Don't change for you. Don't change a thing for me."

Track showdown is brewing

By Steve Wilstein The Associated Press

STANFORD, Calif. — A showdown is coming on the power of track and field programs to maintain their boycott of South Africa, and already the words are getting nastier.

The dispute is about freedom of expression, for Americans and South Africans, and has as much to do with money as morality.

The Athletics Congress, track's governing body in the United States, has scheduled a hearing in Chicago on Nov. 18 to thrash out the issues and, probably, suspend a dozen U.S. athletes who recently violated a ban on competition in South Africa.

The athletes, coaches and organizer of the trip haven't decided whether even to go to the hearing before a three-member panel, but they're pretty sure that won't be the end of the case.

Count on this one going to federal court eventually, and don't bet against the athletes beating TAC just as Stanford athletes won a decision against the National Collegiate Athletic Association's drug-testing policy.

The subjects are vastly different, but the underlying issues are the same: the protection of rights guaranteed in the Constitution.

"We were looking for this confrontation and we're welcoming it," says Dick Tomlinson, the team's organizer who is connected with wealthy sports sponsors in South Africa. "I think long term we're headed for the courts, just like the Stanford case."

Tomlinson says his goal is to get South Africa, which has been banned from the Olympics since 1964, back into international competition because "sport is apolitical" and athletes should be free to compete and earn a living anywhere.

There are more Kenyan, Ugandan and Nigerian track stars than South Africans, and the IAAF didn't want to alienate a continent for one country, risk disruptions at all meets and loss of sponsors. Some critics of the American athletes' South African trip say the tour was shameful and the athletes should be banned.

Sydney Maree, a South African-born black who competed for the United States in the 5,000 meters in Seoul, says the tour gave "the appearance of legitimacy to South Africa's position."

Brooks Johnson, coach at Stanford, a black man, and not one of those who went on the tour, thinks that sort of "knee-jerk" reaction is ludicrous.

"The issue is whether citizens of the United States have the right to go there, and they clearly do," he says.

"The whole idea of protecting a person's rights comes from my point of view as a black man," he says. "I don't think a person's civil rights should be impinged upon because of a trend, a quasi-boycott that is only conveniently applied or not applied."

Tennis players, golfers and business people are free to go to South Africa. Not so track and field athletes.

Johnson defends the rights of anybody, shot putter John Powell, former world record holder Tom Petranoff, hurdler Milan Stewart, middle distance runners James Robinson and Ruth Wyszocki and others who competed in South Africa, but he says he's not interested in their "plattitudes" about the country.

"It's no different from the late Olympic czar Avery Brundage going to Nazi Germany in the 1930s and coming back and saying, 'Hey, the rains run on time and the streets are clean,'" Johnson says.

Race field is led by Doherty

By Jim Tierney Manchester Herald

With the 52nd Manchester Thanksgiving Day Road Race less than three weeks away, it is time for an update on the favorites in the 4.75-mile tour of the "Silk City."

Two-time defending champion John Doherty will have his work cut out for him indeed. Doherty registered the second-fastest time ever in 1987, clocking a 21:31, five seconds off the course record of 21:26 set by John Treacy in 1979.

Road Race Coordinator Dave Prindiville confirmed the elite runners who will be coming to Manchester.

Irishman Richard O'Flynn, runner-up to Doherty last year with the third fastest time ever run (21:35), will return for the fifth time. Americans Jim Cooper, Keith Brantly and John Gregorek are committed. Cooper and Brantly, in their maiden efforts last year, finished fourth and sixth, respectively. Gregorek, who finished fourth in 1985 and third in 1986, is back for his third try.

Two newcomers who should make an impact on Thanksgiving morn will be Englishman Dave Murphy and Norwegian Are Nakkim. Murphy, a friend of Doherty's, is a two-time winner of the prestigious Falmouth (Mass.) Road Race. Nakkim, a 1988 graduate of Boston University, is a rising star on the road race circuit. Nakkim defeated Treacy over five miles in Providence this summer.

MHS after .500 season

By Jim Tierney Manchester Herald

With three weeks left in the high school football season, the message is clear for the Manchester Indians.

They must win their final three games to achieve a .500 season under first-year Indian mentor Jim McLaughlin. Manchester is 2-5 overall and 1-4 in the CCC East. The Indians will host Hartford Public Saturday at 2 p.m. at Memorial Field.

The Owls are 3-3 overall and 2-3 in the league. Public defeated Fermi, 26-8, last Saturday. Meanwhile, Manchester lost its fifth heartbreaker of the year in Enfield, 26-28. The Indians have lost their five games by a total of 13 points.

"I think we let a real golden opportunity slip through our hands," McLaughlin said of the Enfield game.

Also, senior fullback Chip Driggs is definitely out for this week's game and may not return until the Thanksgiving Day clash with East Catholic. Driggs tore ligaments in his knee against Enfield. "It's a week to week thing," McLaughlin said. "I'll be happy to have a him back for Thanksgiving."

Senior Bryan Slater will replace Driggs, who had rushed for 726 yards, at fullback. Also, junior center/defensive tackle Todd Cox is out for the rest of the year with a neck injury.

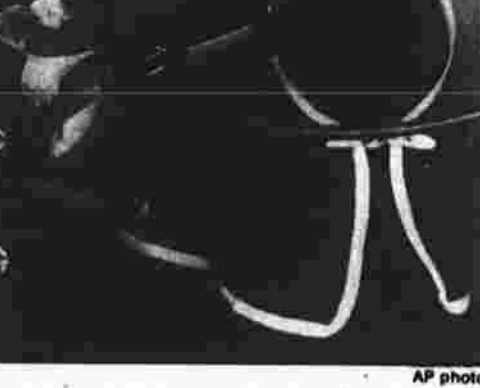

"We're paper thin," McLaughlin said. McLaughlin notes less than 25 players were to practice this week due to injuries, sickness, etc.

"Public is a real opponent now. They're having a good season for themselves," he said. "They like to throw the ball which has been a weakness for us. They're a formidable opponent."

East Catholic finally got its first victory of the season after six straight defeats, a 34-10 win over Northwest Catholic in a non-conference affair.

"We finally shed the shroud over us last seven weeks," first-year Eagle Coach Leo Facchini said. "Mistake-wise, we were at a minimum. The win did a lot for our mental frame of mind."

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Starling signs for bout

HARTFORD — Marlon Starling put his past behind him and signed to fight World Boxing Council welterweight champion Lloyd Honeyghan in a title bout on Feb. 4, 1989, at Caesars Palace in Las Vegas.

Starling will receive a reported $300,000 to fight Honeyghan. The latter has a reported $500,000 guarantee.

Starling lost his WBA welterweight championship in a controversial decision to Tomas Molinares last July 29 on a knockout punch after the bell ended the sixth round. The defeat was voided by the New Jersey State Athletic Association but was allowed to stand by the WBA. Honeyghan has a 35-1 record while Starling is 43-5-1 with 26 knockouts.

Detroit GP off calendar

PARIS (AP) — The Detroit Grand Prix was taken off the 1989 Formula One calendar because the organizers could not meet safety standards, the international auto sports association FISA announced Thursday.

"We are sorry to arrive at this decision, but in fact matters there can be no compromise," said FISA Secretary-General Jean-Marie Balestracci. He did not elaborate what standards the Detroit race failed to meet.

In 1989 there will not be a Grand Prix race in the United States for the first time since 1963. The Detroit race had filled the American part of the calendar for six years and was scheduled for June 18, 1989.

Hurst looking for wins

NEW YORK (AP) — Bruce Hurst, who won 18 games and helped the Boston Red Sox win the American League East, was among 10 players to file for free agency Thursday, raising the total to 70.

Eligible players have until midnight EST Friday to file.

Also filing Thursday were pitcher Jesse Orosco and outfielder Mike Marshall of the World Series champion Los Angeles Dodgers, Los Angeles has six players who have filed for free agency. Another, outfielder Micky Hatcher, is eligible to file Friday.

Also filing Friday were pitcher Neil Allen and infielder Wayne Tolleson of the New York Yankees, pitcher Andy Hawkins of the San Diego Padres, catcher Jim Sundberg of the Texas Rangers, infielders Phil Garner of the Los Angeles Angels and Graig Nettles of the Montreal Expos and outfielder Rick Leach of the Toronto Blue Jays.

Pallone's name is cleared

BALLSTON SPA, N.Y. (AP) — National League umpire David Pallone is not expected to face charges in a case involving sexual activity with teen-age boys, according to the Saratoga County district attorney.

Prosecutors never confirmed that Pallone was under investigation in connection with the case in which six men have been convicted or pleaded guilty to sexual activities with youths under age 17.

Tucson lead to Cochran

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Russ Cochran took advantage of ideal conditions and shot a 65 that gave him a one-stroke lead after the first round of the 80th Tucson Open Golf Tournament.

Payne Stewart, South Africa's David Frost, Corey Pavin and Mark Calcavecchia shot 66 to tie for second place.

U.S. leads Wightman Cup

LONDON (AP) — Zina Garrison and Patty Fendick overwhelmed their British opponents to give the United States a 2-0 lead in the 90th Wightman Cup tennis tournament.

Garrison opened defense of the trophy with a 6-2, 6-4 victory over Jo Durie. Then, Fendick hammered Monica Javer 6-2, 6-1.

Martina easily triumphs

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Top-seeded Martina Navratilova routed 17-year-old Susan Sloane in straight sets while two other seeds fell in the $300,000 New England Virginia Slims tournament.

But Navratilova's doubles partner, Pam Shriver, became the tournament's first major upset victim. The defending champion lost 1-6, 7-6 (9-7), 7-5 to 18-year-old Stephanie Rehe.

NHL reduces suspension

NEW YORK (AP) — The NHL reduced the final eight games of a 10-game suspension against Chicago defenseman David Manson, saying it could not determine whether he started a fight following a game against Vancouver.

Manson received a two-minute penalty for instigating a five-minute penalty for fighting, a whole-team penalty and a game misconduct for his part in a skirmish with the Canucks' forward David Bruc.

White Sox name Torborg

CHICAGO (AP) — Jeff Torborg, a former major league catcher who once managed the Cleveland Indians, was named as manager of the Chicago White Sox.

The 46-year-old Torborg replaced Jim Fregosi, who was fired last month after the team finished fifth in the West with a 71-90 record.

Torborg, who had a 157-201 record with the Indians from 1977-79, has agreed to

Goldie upsets Wilander

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — American Dan Goldie eliminated top-seeded Mats Wilander, the world's No. 1 player, 6-1, 6-4 Thursday night to reach the quarterfinals of the $445,000 Stockholm Open-Scandinavian tennis championships.

It was Wilander's first loss since the Sept. 11 U.S. Open triumph over Ivan Lendl, when he passed Lendl to take over the No. 1 ranking. But Wilander had only played one tournament, at Palermo, Italy, since the final Grand Slam event of the year nearly two months ago.

Mansdorf ousts Lendl

ANTWERP, Belgium (AP) — Top-seeded Ivan Lendl, playing his first match following minor shoulder surgery, was routed 6-2, 6-2 by Israel's Amos Mansdorf in their second-round match at the $1 million European Community Championship.

In another upset, West German Rick Osterlund, ranked 97th in the world, beat third-seeded Henri Lecotte of France 7-6 (7-1), 4-6, 6-3.

In other second-round matches, John McEnroe outplayed Michiel Schapers of the Netherlands 6-4, 6-2 and Andres Gomez of Ecuador struggled past Czech Tomas Smid 3-6, 6-1, 6-3 to reach Friday's quarterfinals.

Cincinnati on probation

CINCINNATI (AP) — The University of Cincinnati football and basketball teams were banned from postseason play for one year and placed on probation for three years for NCAA recruiting and scholarship violations.

The NCAA said Cincinnati gave financial aid to ineligible players who were ineligible because of Proposition 48, allowed non-scholarship players to attend school without paying tuition, exceeded limitations on football and basketball scholarships and used gym classes as out-of-season football practices.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

Notice is hereby given that a Public Hearing will be held at the Office of the Insurance Commissioner, 145 Capitol Avenue, Hartford, Connecticut on November 15, 1988 at 9:30 a.m.

This hearing will be held to consider approval of a rate filing made by the National Council on Compensation Insurance which seeks an average increase to Workmen's Compensation Insurance for manufacturing business of 31.1% and other types of business 19% with an overall average increase of 25.5%.

All this public hearing interested persons may present comments either orally or in writing.

PETER F. KELLY
Insurance Commissioner
066-11

NOTICE TO CREDITORS

MAUDE S. BARRETT, the Hon. William E. Fitz Gerald, Judge of the Court of Probate, District of Manchester at a hearing held on October 31, 1988 ordered that all claims must be presented to the Registry of the Probate Court below. Failure to promptly present any such claim may result in the loss of rights to recover such claim.

Johanna Bruder Roy,
Assistant Clerk

The Registry of Probate
Judith Clamson
Enclosure
c/o Diane S. Prior Attorney
1991 Main Street
Manchester, CT 06040
025-11

INVITATION TO BID

The Eighth Utilities District seeks bids for heating oil and services for the year 1988-1989.

Items listed in the bid are price per gallon, yearly service contracts and hourly rate for services not covered by service contracts. Sealed bids will be received until 4:00 p.m., November 21, 1988. Bids will be publicly opened, read and recorded at the November 21, 1988 meeting.

The right is reserved to reject any or all bids.
Bid quotes are to be sent to the Eighth Utilities District, 32 Main Street, Manchester, CT 06040.

MARY BETH LITRICO
Eighth Utilities District
025-11

INVITATION FOR BIDS

Sealed bids will be received for the renovations of Mary Cheney Library, Manchester, Connecticut, of the Manchester Municipal Building, General Services Office, 41 Center Street, Manchester, CT 06040, up to 11:30 a.m. on Dec. 5, 1988, of which time they will be publicly opened and read aloud.

Sets of contract documents may be obtained at the General Services Office, Manchester Municipal Building, per set of documents, $25.00, payable to the Town of Manchester. Each General Contractor will be limited to two sets of documents. The deposit will be refunded upon return of the plans and specifications to the General Services Office, in good condition within two weeks after the date of opening for those contractors submitting a bid, and within one week of the date of issuance above for those General Contractors not intending to submit a bid.

Record copies of the Contract documents will be on file at the Office, Manchester Municipal Building, General Services Office, Manchester, Connecticut, and at the office of architect, Bernini & Spiccia, 40 Water Street, Manchester, Connecticut.

Each bidder shall submit with his bid a bond in an amount equal to 5% of the bid price.

Each bidder shall also present evidence of ability to procure and pay for performance and labor and materials bonds in the amount of 100% of the Contract price.

No bid shall be withdrawn for a period of 60 days subsequent to the opening of the bids without the consent of the Owner. The Owner reserves the right to reject any and all bids which it deems not in its best interest.

The Town of Manchester is an equal opportunity employer, and requires an affirmative action policy for all of its Contractors and Vendors as a condition of doing business with the Town, as per Federal Order 13496. By signing the Proposal Sheet for this bid, all vendors and contractors agree to comply with the affirmative action policy of the Town and should the Town choose to audit their compliance, the vendor agrees to cooperate fully.
