Hospital buckling under insurance losses

By Michele M. Noble, Manchester Herald. Manchester Memorial Hospital reported a loss of $4.69 million last year in Medicare and Medicaid reimbursements, an amount which more than doubled from $2.6 million in 1986, hospital spokesman Andrew A. Beck said Thursday. The hospital also is providing much more uncompensated medical care, from $1.2 million worth of the care in 1986 to $2.1 million in 1987, or about 43 percent, said Beck, who speaks on behalf of Michael Gallacher, hospital president. Uncompensated care is the debt a hospital incurs when it continues medical treatment for uninsured or poor patients who are unable to pay their medical bills. About 50 percent of the hospital's patients are either insured by Medicare or Medicaid, Beck said. "We hope (the loss) won't turn into a crisis," Beck said. "But obviously we need to educate the legislators not to decrease Medicaid and other such fundings to such a degree that things get out of control." Beck said that under the federal Hill-Burton Act passed in late 1960's, the hospital is provided to provide a set amount of free hospital care each year - an amount which increases annually. For instance, in 1985 Manchester was required by the act to provide $135,000 in uncompensated medical care. But the actual amount of uncompensated medical care the hospital provided totaled $1.18 million that year, he said. Under the act, the hospital was supposed to provide $214,200 in free medical care in 1986 and $263,000 in 1987. This year, the hospital is supposed to provide $180,000 under the act, but expects to pay much more. The act was originally designed to help hospitals across the country update and modernize their facilities, Beck said. Under the act, hospitals were given a certain amount of federal funds with the understanding that they provide an increasing amount of free hospital care to patients each year. Beck said that, although the hospital spent the federal funds almost 18 years ago, the obligation to provide free care still exists. Beck said he did not know how much money the hospital originally received. And while the hospital's net profits - from outside contributions and hospital services - jumped from $2.4 million in 1986 to $2.9 million in 1987, if the hospital continues to be burdened by uncompensated medical care, the result will be increased rates and reduced services, Beck said. Ideally, uncompensated medical costs are expected to be built into the overall rate system which is set by the state and determines how much patients can be charged for services, Beck said. However, despite recent rate increases, he said uncompensated medical care costs have placed a financial stranglehold on the hospital. "We are not about to turn anyone away," Beck said. "It just means that all of our other patients are going to have to bear the burden of increased rates and reduced services." In September, Manchester Memorial Hospital received a 13.3 percent rate hike from the state Commission on Hospitals and Health Care. Under the agreement, the average inpatient rate increased from $3,960 to $4,488 in the fiscal year which began in October. The hospital had originally asked for a 29 percent increase, which would have raised the average inpatient rate to $5,100. The average is compiled from total inpatient fees paid for various services to the hospital during the year and does not mean that every patient will pay that amount. "We hope that the rate increases will be able to cover the (uncompensated medical) costs, but it keeps getting more difficult every year," Beck said. See HOSPITAL, page 12

Fatalities in tunnel 'avoidable'

By James A. Corlison, The Associated Press. MILWAUKEE - Three workers killed in an explosion while checking gas levels in a sewer tunnel were acting as guinea pigs, says a safety advocate who calls the project's fatality rate the nation's worst per dollar spent. "I'm absolutely convinced that this particular tragedy is inexcusable and absolutely avoidable," Joseph Kinney, executive director of the National Safe Workplace Institute in Chicago, said of Thursday's accident. "It did not need to happen." A city official defended safety procedures, and said investigators did not know what triggered the blast. In all, six workers have died since 1986 in the $2.1 billion deep-tunnel sewer project, the largest public works project in Wisconsin history. Last March, the federal Occupational Safety and Health Administration cited the contractor for inadequate ventilation. The explosion occurred around 9 a.m. after the three went into the tunnel to check a high level of methane, a gas formed by natural decomposition, officials said. The methane had caused workers to evacuate. Rescue workers, who had to clear explosive fumes and remove twisted wreckage while contending with poor lighting and knee-deep mud, took eight hours to remove the bodies. "It was a mess," said fire Capt. Bert Bemann. "It was like hell." The victims were identified as Ronald Kohne, 49, a tunnel superintendent from Big Sandy, Tenn.; Rick Sochacki, 34, a safety officer from South Holland, Ill.; and Tony Bell, 25, of Sturgeon Bay, a shift foreman. Autopsies were scheduled for today to determine what killed the men. District Attorney E. Michael McCann began an investigation, saying the number of deaths on the project had concerned him earlier. OSHA also sent an investigator to the site. "It seems to me that the three men were the modern-day equi-

'Glorious' Nazi talk ousts official

BONN, West Germany (AP) - The president of parliament resigned today under attack for saying - on the 50th anniversary of the Kristallnacht pogrom against the Jews - that many Germans initially found Hitler's rule "glorious." Parliament President Philipp Jenninger's speech also called the early years of the Nazi Third Reich a "triumphal procession." In his resignation statement, Jenninger, who also condemned the Nazi program in his address Thursday, said he was misunderstood. Nevertheless, his speech was criticized throughout the country and abroad. "This event shows us how the darkest chapter of German history is still a present-day thing," Hans-Jochen Vogel, leader of the opposition Social Democratic Party, said after Jenninger's resignation. "We must now work even harder with others to learn how to live and worthily deal with this challenge," Vogel told reporters. The leftist Greens Party said in a statement: "The background of what happened is the inability of many Germans to stand up to their own past. We hope ... a discussion about guilt and responsibility for this recent history will take place." The furor overshadowed West Germany's carefully organized ceremonies marking Kristallnacht, the night of terror against the Jews that signaled the start of the Holocaust. Communist East Germany's official news agency ADN called the Jenninger speech "a scandal." Israel's Foreign Ministry called the incident "unacceptable and unfortunate." "It's a scandal, it's a shame," said Frankfurt Jewish community spokesman Michel Friedman, a member of Jenninger's party, the Christian Democrats. Jenninger said he was misunderstood. "My speech was not understood by many listeners the way I had intended it to be," the 56-year-old politician said in a written statement announcing his resignation. "I am deeply sorry and am very hurt, if I have offended the feelings of others." His speech, at a special session of the Bundestag, or parliament, caused a walkout by about 30 lawmakers and calls for his resignation. He added: "During my whole political career - most recently

Glum news on deficit for Bush

By Martin Christinger, The Associated Press. WASHINGTON - President-elect George Bush has been given the glum news that the budget deficit in the next fiscal year will be $21 billion higher than the Reagan administration had previously estimated. "That information means that Bush will be facing an even bigger budget headache when he takes office on Jan. 20. The new deficit estimate was presented to Bush and President Reagan during a Cabinet briefing Thursday on the administration's final budget submission to Congress. Joseph Wright Jr., director of the Office of Management and Budget, said the OMB now estimates that the deficit for the 1990 fiscal year, which begins next Oct. 1, will be $132 billion, substantially higher than the $111 billion deficit estimate OMB made just three months ago. Officials said the main factors boosting the deficit estimate were the drought, which slowed economic growth this year, and higher-than-expected interest rates, which raised the cost of financing the $2.8 trillion national debt. The Gramm-Rudman balanced budget law's deficit target for 1990 is $100 billion, which means that $32 billion in budget cuts will be needed to close the gap between revenues and spending. See DEFICIT, page 12

Achieving such sizable cuts in the face of congressional opposition to further reductions in domestic programs will present Bush with major political problems. During the campaign, Bush sidestepped specifics on how he would pay for the budget deficit by touting a plan for a "flexible freeze." Bush said he would allow government spending to grow only enough to match inflation. Within the overall freeze, selected programs could grow while others would be cut. However, Bush avoided providing details on what programs he would cut in order to free funds for increases that he promised to make in education, child care and health care for the poor. The budget document Reagan sends to Congress on Jan. 9 will reflect his decisions, presidential spokesman Martin Fitzwater said. However, officials said it was likely that Bush would rewrite at least part of the document once he takes office, just as Reagan did in 1981 when he submitted his own budget to Congress in place of the budget left behind by President Carter. Officials refused to comment on reports that the final Reagan budget will call for substantial increases in defense spending and steep cuts in domestic programs as a way of providing between revenues and spending. See DEFICIT, page 12

Palestinian rioting expected by Israel

JERUSALEM (AP) - The army imposed curfews and travel restrictions in the occupied lands today and deployed soldiers in Jerusalem's Old City to prevent violence linked to the expected proclamation of a Palestinian state. Troops rounded up hundreds of Palestinians in anticipation of anti-Israeli demonstrations during the four-day session of the Palestine National Council, the parliament in exile of the PLO. The council is expected to declare an independent Palestinian state during its meeting, which begins Saturday in Algiers. Palestinians were not allowed to enter Jerusalem from the West Bank and could move only within their own districts. Hundreds of soldiers in combat gear and armed with assault rifles were deployed in the Old City, which has a large Arab population. Dozens of border police, many carrying automatic weapons fitted with grenade launchers, patrolled the streets. Troops put up three checkpoints on the Bethlehem-Jerusalem highway, turning away Jerusalem-bound cars with blue West Bank license plates, Arab witnesses said. In an unusual move, troops also questioned drivers of yellow-plated Israeli cars and in one instance ordered an Arab laborer riding in a car with his Israeli employer to stay behind. Border police patrolled the narrow alleys of Bethlehem, and two army jeeps escorted each Israeli bus passing through the biblical city. In the West Bank city of Ramallah, troops at checkpoints turned back many residents, and soldiers on foot checked ID cards. Graffiti sprayed on walls read: "The day of our liberation is today." ONLY ONE LEFT — Albert Furrer, 96, of San Pablo, Calif., is the last man in The Last Man Club.

The Last Man Club has 1 member left

SAN PABLO, Calif. (AP) — Fifty-six years later, Albert Furrer is finally the last man of The Last Man Club.

The 96-year-old civic leader today will get that bottle of Mumm's champagne the club bought after the 32 World War I veterans reunited in 1932 and decided they would get together every Veterans Day.

"What else can I say but that I'm here until the end," Furrer said Thursday from his bed at Brookside Hospital, where he had a malignant growth removed this week.

"I came through floods, fires, wars ... my God, you come through it all, and I don't know if it's an honor or a curse," added Furrer, who lives in a nearby nursing home.

"It's rough to see all your friends die off. Old people don't make many new friends."

The champagne bottle, encased in a decorative mahogany box, is in the hands of the family of the club's former secretary-treasurer, Victor Paratchini, who died in February at age 89. For the past four years, he and Furrer had been the club's only surviving members. The bottle is signed by the club's original 32. After all these years, the champagne is mostly a symbolic trophy, having gone sour. A new bottle will accompany it so Furrer can hold the club's final celebration today, Veterans Day, which was called Armistice Day before 1954.

Furrer, who ran a stationery store for most of his life and served on numerous community boards, remembered the annual club parties as class parties at the club's original 32. Besides those affairs, members attended funerals of deceased members.

The one thing club members never did was talk about the war, said Furrer, explaining that the group didn't want to relive their wartime experiences despite their desire to stay in touch.

North's dismissal bid is rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge says he rejected defense motions to dismiss the case against former presidential aide Oliver L. North because they reflected a cynical attempt by the Iran-Contra defendant to put himself above the law.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell wrote that North's arguments for dismissing charges he filed to then-Attorney General Edwin Meese III and destroyed National Security Council documents "reveals a skewed attitude toward our form of constitutional government."

North is accused of obstructing a November 1986 presidential inquiry into the Iran-Contra affair by lying to Meese about diverting U.S. Iran arms-sale profits to Nicaraguan rebels.

North contends he committed no crime because Meese lacked legal authority to question him. "Ours is a country governed by the rule of law," Gesell said in his opinion released Thursday.

"There is nothing in the Constitution, federal statutes or applicable decisions which warrants this cynical approach. To merely state it provides the response. This court must reject it totally."

In a separate development, the Justice Department touched off a confrontation with independent counsel Lawrence E. Walsh by objecting to a brief he filed in North's case. It said the brief "mischaracterizes basic constitutional principles," but Walsh issued a statement rejecting the accusation.

Gesell said North, in seeking to have the case against him dismissed, was arguing that "he had the absolute right to lie, to obstruct such inquiries, and to remove or destroy official NSC records because he had not been warned that if he did so he might be indicted."

North "fails to appreciate the gravity of his alleged conduct," the judge said.

"North did in fact have fair warning that mendacity and obstruction, coupled with destruction of official documents, was illegal," the judge wrote.

Defense lawyers argued that North couldn't be prosecuted for giving false answers because he wasn't subpoenaed or placed

Defeat didn't surprise Kitty But unexpected loss in 1978 was worse

By John Diamond
The Associated Press

BROOKLINE, Mass. — Despite "deep disappointment" over George Bush's victory, the wife of vanquished Democratic nominee Michael Dukakis said the presidential election was not as traumatic as her husband's loss in his bid to win a second gubernatorial term in 1978.

At the time, Kitty Dukakis pronounced the defeat to be less than the executive's view of the law which governs the relationship between the president and the Congress.

The department said it wanted to submit a friend-of-the-court brief because Walsh's pleading "contains numerous statements that are inconsistent with previously articulated statements of the law by the Department of Justice and other Executive Branch agencies and departments."

A department assertion that it was not consulted by Walsh before he filed his brief drew a tart response from the prosecutor.

accepting defeat for a while," she said Thursday.

Mrs. Dukakis reflected on the campaign and her husband's political future in an interview with The Associated Press in their modest Brookline home, a comfortable duplex building on a quiet street in this Boston suburb.

Mrs. Dukakis, 51, said she "just wouldn't begin to contemplate the future," for her husband. "Michael is a national figure and will continue to be and he will continue to speak out on national issues."

Mrs. Dukakis, known for her sometimes fiery temperament, had no harsh words for the Bush family. She said Barbara Bush, "I think she's a caring person and she'll be a fine first lady."

Mrs. Dukakis said she won't miss the Secret Service, the chauffeur-driven cars and other trappings of power that go with a presidential campaign. "I really am very accepting and frankly feel very positive about having our quiet, normal life back," she said.

Things aren't quite back to normal at the Dukakis family home. Flower bouquets were arriving in bunches from political well-wishers and from friends remembering upcoming birthdays. A pile of at least a dozen of the governor's telegenic, red campaign ties lay on the floor awaiting the dry cleaner's.

Saying she would refuse to play Monday morning quarterback, Mrs. Dukakis did say of her husband's campaign, "I was hoping he would fight harder" in response to what Dukakis people called spurious attacks on his record by the Bush camp.

"What was the most upsetting about that was that they were effective," she said.

DISAPPOINTED — Kitty Dukakis, wife of former Democratic presidential candidate Michael Dukakis, is interviewed in her Brookline, Mass., home Thursday. She said she was disappointed but not surprised about her husband's loss Tuesday to George Bush.

'Curse' brought to its knees as Manchester girls triumph

By Jim Tierney
Manchester Herald

HEBRON — The curse is gone. For Coach Joe Erardi and his highly skilled Manchester High girls' soccer team, they cleared a hurdle that has been repelling them since 1985 — the Class L quarterfinal "curse."

The top-seeded and unbeaten Indians met eighth-seeded East Hartford for the third time this season in a quarterfinal match Thursday afternoon at RHAM High School, hoping to bury the curse. Manchester had been eliminated in the quarterfinals the last three years.

Following a 0-0 deadlock at halftime, sophomore Shelly Dieterle unlocked matters midway through the second half with her 10th goal of the year as the Indians posted a 1-0 victory to advance to Tuesday's semifinal against the winner of today's Simsbury-Newington quarterfinal game.

Manchester is now 18-0 while East Hartford exits the tourney with a 12-4-2 record. Three of the Hornets' losses were care of the Indians.

"With three freshmen (Mary Moriarty, Patty Hornbostel, Jessica Marquez) and three sophomores (Dieterle, Jen Brindisi, Kathy Cumberbatch) in the starting lineup... a lot of people, including myself didn't expect to be 18-0 going into the semifinals," a happy Erardi said. "We felt we were the better skilled team."

Hornet Coach Jim Agnew has done a fine job with his four-year-old program. "I give my players a lot of credit," he said. "They left their hearts out here on the field. They couldn't have played any better than they did. Missy (Samuels) was superb in goal."

Samuels, an All-State keeper, played a major role in stifling the Indians' attack. She recorded 22 saves, several spectacular in fashion.

"Missy was just something else," Erardi said. "She did some things that you're not going to see in high school athletics too often."

While playing against the wind in the first half, Manchester had three golden opportunities to score.

□ Moriarty rang a shot off the crossbar at the 15-minute mark.

□ With 14 minutes left in the half, junior Karen Rattanakoun took a pass from senior Judy Langer and slipped the ball past Samuels, who had come way out from the goal. The ball rolled slowly toward the open net until East Hartford fullback Paula

IN CONTROL — Manchester's Meg Berte (14) has control of the ball as East Hartford's Bea Fargo closes in during Thursday's Class L quarterfinal match at RHAM High in Hebron. Shelly Dieterle (18), background, tallied the only goal as the Indians prevailed, 1-0.

McClure cleared it just before the ball was going to cross the line.

"We couldn't catch a break in the first half," Erardi said.

The Manchester breakthrough came at 16:17 of the second half. Marquez fed Rattanakoun, who slipped the ball ahead to Dieterle with Samuels charging out of the net. Dieterle deftly lifted the ball over Samuels into the upper left corner for the winning goal.

"Missy plays so far out of the net, it's difficult to play over her," Erardi explained. "We had to play against her like it was a 2-on-1 with her not being the goalie, but a defender. We finally did it and we stuck it in the net. I felt one goal was going to be enough. It was just a matter of when it was going to come."

East Hartford, outshot 37-7, had a chance to tie the game with 1:30 left. Bea Fargo received the ball eight yards in front of the net, but pushed it just wide left.

"I would've like to have seen what would have happened if we got that last one in," Agnew said.

"I'm pleased with the whole program. I never would've said at the beginning of the year that we would win 12 games. They've got to be proud of themselves. Manchester is a super team."

Revised Kings crown Whalers

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The new, improved, Wayne Gretzky-led Los Angeles Kings are impressing both themselves and others.

"We're playing as a team and we're getting better week-to-week," Luc Robitaille said Thursday night after his two goals and an assist helped the Kings to a 7-2 victory over the Hartford Whalers.

Reminded that the Kings, 10-6 and just a point behind Smythe Division-leading Calgary, didn't collect their 10th victory last year until after Christmas, 37 games into the season, Robitaille said that may be a good sign for this year.

"We had a good second half and I hope we can again this year," he said.

Bernie Nicholls, who had a goal and an assist as the Kings won their third straight, said the enthusiasm is contagious.

"I'm excited to play every day," he said. "I don't want to let the team down. We have a good team and great scoring power."

Gretzky contributed two assists in the win.

Hartford coach Larry Pleau said he was impressed by this Kings team.

"They definitely have a quick hockey team; they move the puck really well," Pleau said. "Gretzky really opens up the game for the players and they seem to be playing with a lot of confidence right now."

The Hartford coach wasn't impressed by the way his club performed.

"We didn't play the way we can play, that's for sure," he said. "But give LA credit, they have a good team and they outworked us."

Hartford (6-9-1) is 0-2-1 on its current four-game road trip that winds up Saturday night against the Minnesota North Stars.

Los Angeles defenseman Dean Kennedy suffered a concussion when he fell hard into the boards. He was taken to the hospital, and a team spokesman said he was being kept overnight for observation.

Both of Robitaille's goals came in the third period as he extended the Kings' comfortable lead.

Los Angeles took a 2-1 first-period lead on goals by defenseman Doug Crossman at 1:39 and John Tonelli at 9:38. Carey Wilson scored for Hartford at 1:38.

The Kings put the game away with three consecutive second-period goals.

Nicholls collected his 16th goal of the season at 1:41 of the period, then assisted on Bobby Carpenter's sixth goal, at 4:16. Defenseman Steve Duchesne scored to make it 5-1 with 2:20 left in the period.

Robitaille got his first goal with 9:08 left in the game and then netted his 12th of the season with 4:34 left in the game.

Defenseman Joel Quenneville of Hartford scored the final goal of the evening 24 seconds later.

Mellowing 'Kid' hits grand slam

By Dave O'Hara
The Associated Press

BOSTON — At age 70, "The Kid" is mellowing. He jokes with old-time sports writers, the ones he used to castigate. And he's even donned a tie, of sorts.

Ted Williams, a brash youngster in his first spring training with the Boston Red Sox in 1938 who went on to the Hall of Fame in an often tempestuous career, hit a grand slam on Thursday in a unique welcome home.

More than 28 years after hitting his 521st major league home run in his final at-bat in 1960, No. 9 took a well-deserved bow, permitting a testimonial in his honor.

"I'm honored as hell. I hope I'm deserving of all this," Williams said solemnly before greeting old friends and 4,000 fans who paid from $35 to $200 a ticket.

"It took a lot of persuasion to get me here," Williams said. "I ducked it for a long time, but I'm delighted."

Long noted for his preference for open-neck sport shirts, Williams made the ultimate concession. He wore a string tie given him long ago by a friend who made the ties as a hobby.

Old friends flew in from California, Florida and other points to join in the tribute to Williams, baseball's last .400 hitter with a .406 mark in 1941.

"He was a devastating hitter, he was feared," said New York Yankees Hall of Famer Joe DiMaggio.

"Ted Williams was the greatest hitter I've ever seen, without a doubt," said Tom Lasorda, manager of the World Series champion Los Angeles Dodgers.

"There aren't enough superlatives to describe him," said Dom DiMaggio, brother of Joe and a longtime Williams teammate with the Red Sox.

"He was outstanding, just great," said Johnny Pesky, who, with Dom DiMaggio, set the table for Williams as the first two batters in the Boston lineup for many years.

The affair, to benefit the Jimmy Fund, the fund-raising arm of the Dana Farber Cancer Institute, was billed as "An Evening With Ted Williams — No. 9 — and Friends." There was a small reception for those who bought top-dollar tickets, but no dinner.

Williams, who turned 70 on Aug. 30 and still is associated with the Red Sox as an instructor a half-century after being purchased as a teenager from San Diego of the Pacific Coast League, wanted as much money as possible to go to his favorite charity. And baseball fans young and old packed the Wang Center, a plush old movie house.

Joining the salute were Hall of Famers Bobby Doerr, an old teammate, and Bob Feller, the strikeout king of the Cleveland Indians; recently retired slugger Reggie Jackson; U.S. Sen. John Glenn, one of the original Mercury astronauts who was a Marine Corps pilot with Williams in the Korean War; former House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill; television personality David Hartman; sportscaster Curt Gowdy, and author Stephen King.

"Ted is tickled to death. He considers this one of his top thrills in 50 years, and he's had quite a few," said close friend Bud Leavitt, sports editor of the Bangor, Maine, Daily News.

"I've been associated with the Jimmy Fund for a long time, since it was founded after World War II, and I've got 10,000 times more credit than I deserve," Williams said.

"I don't like to go these affairs. I'm scared to death, but not as much as I used to be. As for not wanting to have something like this in the past, the biggest reason was I didn't think I'm deserving of something of this importance and magnitude."

Touching on baseball, Williams said "the Red Sox surprised me" in coming from nine games back to win the American League East this year.

Sinusitis persists after operation

DEAR DR. GOTT: I had an operation for chronic sinusitis during which my septum was corrected. I still have headache headaches, pressure in my eyes and nose and funny vision. The doctors are puzzled. Where do I go from here?

DEAR READER: I think you have to discover the reason for your symptoms. Your doctor can either provide this service or refer you to someone who can.

Headaches and eye pressure are two cardinal symptoms of sinus infection. A series of sinus X-rays should reveal whether or not you have continuing sinusitis, despite the septum operation.

On the other hand, your symptoms may not reflect sinusitis at all. Allergies, neuralgia and dental infections are three common conditions that mimic sinus infection.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My wife and I are now caring for my nephew, who has been diagnosed with olivopontocerebellar degeneration. We don't know quite what to expect.

DEAR READER: Olivopontocerebellar degeneration is one of a rare group of neurological diseases, usually hereditary, that are marked by progressive malfunction of portions of the brain and upper spinal tract.

Korean War vets should get the memorial they deserve

DEAR ABBY: Today, on Nov. 11, America will honor her veterans. I would like to ask your readers to consider a special group of men and women who fought a war that has become "the forgotten war."

thirty-eight years ago, on June 25, 1950, the North Koreans crossed the 38th parallel of Korea and invaded South Korea. It was called a "police action" and by United Nations responded by sending troops to Korea. Besides the South Koreans, the majority of fighting men were Americans.

When a truce was finally called that ended in a stalemate on July 27, 1953, 5.5 million men and women had fought directly or indirectly in this "conflict of the years. 5.5 million, 103,000 were wounded, 54,263 were killed and 8,177 were classified as missing in action or prisoners of war."

On the other hand, your symptoms may not reflect sinusitis at all. Allergies, neuralgia and dental infections are three common conditions that mimic sinus infection.

to secure the freedom of South Korea have only the TV series "MASH" to remind people that we were there.

I lost my beloved husband of eight months when he was shot down over North Korea on his first combat mission. His remains have never been returned to me. Who will remember those who gave their lives in the Korean War?

Who will remember: 1. That when they returned, there were no welcoming parades - only apathy?

Stern to chair panel

DANBURY (AP) - Violent Isaac Stern will be the honorary chairman of a committee to hand out awards named after opera great Marjan Anderson and aimed at furthering the careers of young American singers.

Other members of the committee include Harry Belafonte, Lloyd Richards, Kitty Carlisle Hart, and Vladimir and Wanda Tomanoff.

Cosby signs NBC contract

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Bill Cosby, star of the highest-rated show on television, will return to NBC for a sixth season of "The Cosby Show."

"I will work even harder to ensure that people get what I consider to be quality," Cosby said in a statement announcing the deal Thursday. "I love my job and take great pride in doing it."

New challenger sought

LOS ANGELES (AP) - The makers of "The Karate Kid Part III" are looking for a new challenger for star Ralph Macchio, but they say they've got to be young, tough and handsome.

Mellencamp loses rights

NEW YORK (AP) - Singer John Cougar Mellencamp has failed in an attempt to regain publishing rights to songs he sold 11 years ago when he was a struggling rock "roller."

He joined the Navy at 12

WASHINGTON (AP) - A World War II veteran injured at Guadalcanal will be given the disability benefits he was denied by the Navy because he lied about his age when he enlisted at age 12, under a bill signed by President Reagan.

Good as they seem, though, 401(k) plans until the employee is at least age 59 1/2, unless the employee leaves the job, becomes disabled, or proves financial hardship. Proving financial hardship can be difficult and under IRS rules the employer must verify such claims.

Is your 401(k) plan really working for you?

If you are the employee of a company through which you have become a member of a 401(k) plan, now is the time - can be a superb money saver both in taxes now and retirement income later.

For the uninitiated, a 401(k) is a savings and investment plan offered through companies that serves as a "beat" alternative to IRAs. Investments usually offer a variety of options ranging from fixed-rate U.S. government securities to growth-oriented mutual funds. At larger companies, the plans are run by in-house administrators or professional financial planning organizations. Some companies even match employee contributions with contributions of the company's own stock.

The beauty of the 401(k) plan is that money placed in it is pre-tax, or deducted from your gross income. For tax purposes, it hasn't yet been paid. This means that you can reduce your income through 401(k) contributions, sometimes to the point where IRA contributions also become deductible. In brief, it's one of the few tax shelters to survive the Tax Reform Act of 1986.

Here's how the 401(k) can work for you: Because your contributions are in the form of payroll deductions, you can build a substantial, broadly-based portfolio without pain. You never see the money, so you are free from temptation to spend it. In most cases, you are also allowed to move your contributions within the plan from one kind of investment to another.

A typical, 35-year-old worker makes the maximum contribution would have a fund worth more than $1 million at age 65, assuming an 8.5 percent yield.
