NO ONE HURT — A firefighter inspects a truck after it landed on its roof today during an accident at Tolland Turnpike and Oakland Street. The two occupants of the truck, Philip J. Bahler and David Barstow, of Bahler Brothers Landscaping of South Windsor, were not seriously injured, police said. The truck flipped over when its brakes failed as it turned onto Interstate 84, police said. Related photograph on page 12.

Rail tracks studied for mass transit

By Nancy Concelmon
Manchester Herald

The Greater Hartford Transit District is studying a railroad line that runs through Manchester and surrounding towns as a possible future link to Hartford for commuters, a district official said today.

The federally funded study will help the district determine if development patterns along rail lines throughout the greater Hartford area could produce enough riders to make a transit system cost effective, said Paul A. Ehrhardt of Simsbury, chairman of district.

The district will also ask towns to consider changes in land-use patterns that would enhance such a system, he added.

Phase one of the study, which involves mostly research, is being funded through a $40,000 grant from the federal Urban Mass Transit Administration. The Knox Foundation of Hartford provided $10,000 in matching funds, Ehrhardt said. The district expects to complete the first phase by April of next year.

Josh Howroyd, an alternate on Manchester's Planning and Zoning Commission, told commission members about the study at Monday meeting. Howroyd said he learned of the study through his interest in transportation issues. He served on the town's now defunct Transportation Commission.

Through the study, the district will be able to assess current and future transportation needs of towns along the rail and come up with a long-term plan for a transit system into Hartford, Howroyd said. The district could recommend the creation of a rail system or use the land, currently owned by Connrail, for a special bus route, Howroyd said.

"The study's not judging on any conclusions on what mode of transportation is best," he said. "They see this resource there that could be used."

The district is studying about 10 miles of rail that run from the north end of Manchester to Wickham Park, into East Hartford and to Union Station in Hartford, Howroyd said. Part of the rail is also in South Windsor. The Manchester section is about three miles long and runs along Parker and North Main streets and Tolland Turnpike, he said. Part of it is used for freight service, he said.

The district is also studying a portion of rail that runs from

Cosmonauts home safe after delay

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soyuz space capsule carrying a Frenchman and two Soviets who had spent a space endurance record landed safely today after a three-hour re-entry delay caused by an overloaded computer, Tass said.

The official Soviet news agency said the craft, which separated on schedule from the Mir space station earlier today, touched down at 12:57 p.m. Moscow time about 60 miles from the Baikonur space center in Soviet Central Asia.

"Immediate medical check-ups showed the cosmonauts are feeling well," Radio Moscow said.

The landing ended mankind's longest space mission. Vladimir Titov and Musa Manarov marked one year in orbit on Tuesday. Jean-Loup Chretien of France, who came down with them, spent nearly a month aboard the Mir.

Radio Moscow said Titov and Manarov were undergoing tests to determine how well they had endured their lengthy flight.

Soviet officials have said the ability of cosmonauts to endure long periods in space is a key to a manned flight to Mars they hope will take place shortly after the turn of the century.

Titov and Manarov replaced a crew including cosmonaut Yuri Romanenko last December and went on to break Romanenko's record of 326 days in space.

The official Tass news agency said the crew switched to a back-up computer program after a fault developed in the operation of the on-board computer. The main engine fired to slow the capsule at 12:08 p.m., and the living quarters and instrument module were jettisoned, Tass said.

As expected, radio contact with the craft was lost between a height of 90 miles to 50 miles because the craft was enveloped by a plasma cloud. The capsule's parachutes opened at a height of about six miles.

Soviet television reported before today's touchdown that "automated telemetry showed an overload in the computing complex," of a system aboard the Soyuz TM-6 capsule. It provided no details.

It was not clear whether re-entry was computer-guided or

$70,000 reward to find gun-toting 'Santa Claus'

By Mark Seavy
The Associated Press

WEST HARTFORD — Santa Claus came to West Hartford, but instead of bearing gifts he wielded a gun and snatched more than $700,000 from two Dunbar Armored Security Inc. guards outside a bank.

Dunbar has authorized a $70,000 reward for information leading to the arrests of the robbers.

Police and FBI officials said a man dressed in a Santa hat, white beard and trench coat and bearing a silver revolver took two sacks of cash from the guards outside a United Bank branch in the Corbin Corner shopping plaza shortly after 9 a.m. Tuesday.

"This is not a joke. Get up against the wall. Give me the bags of money," the robber told

Cookies sweeten inmates

By Nancy Poppas
Manchester Herald

There were 5,000 cookies in the Dubaldos' living room Monday night but no one was overindulging. The sweets there were meant to be bagged, not bitten.

For four years, Donna and Edward DuBaldo, of 37 Diane Drive, have collected thousands of homemade cookies for the inmates of the Hartford Correctional Facility and the facility's annex. Each inmate receives a plastic bag with a six-cookie assortment and a Christmas card, designed by Donna DuBaldo, written in both English and Spanish.

Friends and relatives have gathered each year to help the DuBaldos bag all of these cookies. But with the rise in the jail's population has come an increased demand for the cookies.

$13.6 million winner needs financial help

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Richard VanDeBoe quit his meat-packing job and planned to buy a house with his girlfriend when he won a $13.6 million lottery. But then, his debts, his ex-wife and his estranged wife caught up with him.

VanDeBoe and his girlfriend, Kelly Elsinga, received their first $510,750 lottery payment Tuesday, but most of VanDeBoe's $255,375 share was withheld under a court order.

And he'll need more than the $21,000 he was left with just to pay taxes next spring, his lawyer says.

VanDeBoe bought the winning $1 ticket for Loto America's Dec. 3 drawing. When he claimed the jackpot two days later, he told a news conference he gave the ticket to Ms. Elsinga as a Christmas present after he knew it was a winner.

"I'm scared, happy — everything all at once," said Ms. Elsinga at the news conference.

"We're just one big happy family, happier now."

At the time, VanDeBoe said they would buy a house and Christmas presents for her two children.

"I'm supposed to work tomorrow but I'm not going back," VanDeBoe said. He lives in suburban Norwalk with Ms. Elsinga and her children, said at the time.

But soon, the estranged wife came forward, claiming he gave the ticket to Ms. Elsinga to avoid having to pay her a cut of the winnings. They were married in 1981, separated three months later and never got divorced because "we could never afford one," said Kandy McCullough VanDeBoe.

Then, the former wife showed up, also questioning his motives, saying VanDeBoe was years behind in child support payments for their three children.

Walter cares for grandsons

Editor's note: This is the eighth in a series of vignettes on people in the Manchester area who need assistance during the holiday season. The vignettes are provided by the Manchester Area Conference of Churches.

"Walter" is head of a four-member, intergenerational family consisting of a grandfather, son and grandsons. When his disabled son was hospitalized again, Walter took in his young grandsons. The tag in transfer of aid to dependent children has made it very difficult for Walter to manage. The phone has been disconnected and Christmas looks bleak.

Badly needed: warm clothing, shoes, and boots for the whole family (shoes and boots sizes 5 and 12, small and medium shirts). "Walter" is a member of more than 300 families receiving help through the MACC Seasonal Sharing Appeal, Box 773, Manchester, 06040. Donations are still being accepted.

Police Roundup

Police search for driver involved in 3-car accident

Police are looking for a driver who left the scene of a three-car accident on West Middle Turnpike Tuesday which left two people injured.

William J. Tamiso, 30, of East Hampton and Robin P. Michelson, 22, of 1206 W. Middle Turnpike were taken to Manchester Memorial Hospital, treated and released, a hospital spokesman said today.

Police said a 1985 Ford pickup truck driven by Tamiso was traveling west on West Middle Turnpike near the exit 60 ramp off Interstate-84 when a white two-door vehicle cut in front of him.

Tamiso did not have time to stop and collided with the white vehicle, which according to witnesses was driven by a male, police said. A 1986 Plymouth driven by Michelson was also traveling west on West Middle Turnpike and was unable to stop and hit Tamiso from behind, police said.

The driver of the white vehicle stepped out from his car, but then drove away from the scene, police said. The white car left a grey hubcap belonging to a Hyundai at the scene, which police took as evidence, police said.

Father arrested at concert

A Bloomfield man was arrested Tuesday night after he was allegedly disturbing a concert at Robertson Street Elementary School, police said.

Andrew White, 29, of 16 Daniel Boulevard was first issued a ticket for creating a public disturbance at the school where he went to see his daughter perform in a choral concert, police said.

After White failed to obey police orders not to enter the school again, he was arrested and charged with first-degree criminal trespassing, police said. He was held on $100 bond and is scheduled to appear in Manchester Superior Court today.

Couple charged with assault

A Manchester man and a Hartford woman were arrested this morning after they were involved in an argument, police said.

Douglas Simmons, 27, of 360 Oakland St., and Katherine K. Dorners, 23, of 980 Albany Ave., Hartford, were arrested on charges of breach of peace and third-degree assault, police said.

Simmons had visited Dorners at her home in Hartford and Dorners was driving Simmons back to Manchester when they began arguing, police said. The argument lasted until they arrived at Simmons' home, according to police.

Police said Simmons struck Dorners several times about the head and Dorners had several bruises and a cut to her forehead, police said.

Dorners was struck Simmons but there were no apparent injuries, police said.

Both Dorners and Simmons were released on $100 bond and were scheduled to appear in Manchester Superior Court today, police said.

Thoughts

When my grandfather was in his late 30's or early 40's, he had to have all his teeth taken out. Of course, he got a set of false teeth, but he would wear them. As you might imagine, he looked dreadful. And this bothered Gramma terribly.

Later that same year, Gramma was painting on top of the cellar bulkhead and the bulkhead collapsed. She fell partially on the stairs and partially on the cellar floor and she broke her hip. Someone called the doctor, and someone else called Gramma, who was working in one of the nearby houses down at Sagamore Beach. He was a plumber and he did a lot of work in that area.

He got there first. She had not been moved, because everyone was afraid of causing more injury. Gramma ran over and looked down through the broken bulkhead: "Oh my dear, my darlin' Anna," he said, "is there anything I can do?" "Yes, William," she said, "you can put in your teeth." So they went in, and they stayed in.

How frustrating it is that so often the gifts which our loved ones would most like to receive are the very ones we would least like to give. It is so hard to do that kind of giving, because it means putting the other person first. But isn't that what Christmas is all about?

LOCAL & STATE

Housing panel gropes for solutions to cost crisis

By Maureen Lovitt
Manchester Herald

The chairman of a committee on affordable housing says she is "not hesitant at all" about joining the state's Housing Partnership Program, but the two other committee members are more cautious.

"I am not hesitant at all. It is a good plan," said Mary Ann Handley, a Democratic member of the Board of Directors and chairman of that board's subcommittee on affordable housing.

Handley said Monday she is in favor of the partnership plan because it has what she terms sensible guidelines. However, Republican Theunis Werkhoven and Democrat Kenneth Tedford, the other directors on the subcommittee, have been hesitant to agree to join the program, which uses the promise of additional state grants for road improvements to entice communities to adopt affordable housing plans.

The subcommittee last week released a report which said that the cost of housing in Manchester is out of reach for hundreds of families.

Werkhoven said he would like to see the subcommittee and a larger special citizens' committee being formed work together and "do our homework" before they look toward state programs for solutions to the housing problem.

"We have a lot of work to do on our own before we go outside," Werkhoven said. "The state would only offer advice at this point, so let us take a look first

Low cleaning contract bidder would charge $50,191 a year

By Andrew J. Davis
Manchester Herald

DeFrank & Sons Corp. of Hartford was the lowest of two bidders Tuesday on a cleaning contract for the town's three municipal buildings, according to officials in the General Services Department.

The contract to clean the municipal buildings, as well as one to clean the Globe Hollow water treatment facility on Spring Street, became available after the Manchester Association for Retarded Citizens asked the town to be released from its contract. There were three bidders on a separate contract to clean Globe Hollow, and DeFrank & Sons was again the low bidder, according to General Services.

The contract to clean the municipal buildings, as well as one to clean the Globe Hollow treatment plant, while Tri-Town's bid was $15,600, according to General Services records. Sargent & Lundy, director of General Services, said the contracts could be awarded by the end of the year. When the new company or companies begins work cannot be determined until a successor to MARC is chosen, he said.

Though MARC's contract does not expire until the end of June, MARC asked the town recently to be released from its contract.

MARC Executive Director Laurie Prythor has said the Manchester Workshop run by MARC, no longer has enough clients willing to work the late-night hours needed to clean the buildings.

MARC, which has done the custodial work at the municipal buildings since 1985, is paid $23,000 a year, though it requested a hike to $42,000 a year in August.

some residents voiced concerns that the state program would force the town to build low-income housing.

Tedford said it's too early to judge the success of the Housing Partnership program, because communities which have joined have just begun to form their own committees to implement the program.

"The state will share ideas with all communities and solutions to the housing problem, Tedford said.

"It (the program) has some good points but it may have drawbacks," Tedford said. "Right now, I would prefer to do it on our own. The only drawback of not joining the partnership are the economic benefits that right now we're knowingly foregoing."

He is confident the special committee will come up with new ideas and delve into solutions that have been tried in other parts of the country.

Handley said the subcommittee must heighten awareness in the community of the severity of the housing problem.

A report released last week by the subcommittee to the Board of Directors showed that 800 Manchester families paid rents that drained more than 50 percent of their incomes. Another 1,300 families paid more than 30 percent of their income for rent, according to the study, which was based in part on information obtained from the 1980 census.

Affordable housing costs, which include rent and utilities, should not exceed more than 30 percent of gross income, according to state and federal housing programs.

According to the report, people who cannot be regarded as poor cannot afford housing in Manchester.

Handley said one of the best indicators of the affordability problem is that "Ordinary young couples, college grads with decent salaries, cannot save $35,000 for a home... they cannot afford to live in Manchester because the price is too high."

Other people who are earning minimum wage and are living close to the poverty level cannot afford rent either, Handley said.

Then there are other groups of people who need to be addressed, like the handicapped and elderly, who need single room occupancies, Handley explained.

Presently, the subcommittee is reviewing more than 200 parcels of town-owned land as sites for affordable housing.

Handley said the parcels have been mapped and town planners will be making recommendations to the Board of Directors in the near future.

"We have to find a reasonable location to put these houses, we don't want to put them by the town dump," Werkhoven said.

Werkhoven said the subcommittee is also trying to determine what price tag could be put on affordable housing for town residents.

A brief survey of local market conditions showed the typical single-family "starter" home sells for $150,000 to $142,000.

He said $125,000 for a starter home is probably the limit for many people in town.

Safe Rides looking for home

BOLTON — Safe Rides is looking for a home.

The Board of Selectmen Tuesday agreed to look into housing the new Safe Rides program.

O'Leary of 15 Plymouth Lane, who established the program at Bolton High School, at the old firehouse on Notch Road. Safe Rides is a program which combats drinking and driving by having high school students provide a ride home to other teen-agers who may be intoxicated.

First Selectman Sandra W. Pierog made the suggestion after Safe Rides spokesman Donna O'Leary of 15 Plymouth Lane appeared before the selectmen and asked for help in finding a home. She said she was uncomfortable housing the program at the old firehouse since the town constables are also housed there.

"If the kids are afraid the resident trooper is going to get hold of the information, they won't call," O'Leary said. "But it's the only room we can get, we'll take it."

Pierog said that may be the only place to house the program, since the Community Hall is often filled on weekends.

Safe Rides could be operational by May, O'Leary said.

Sprague named new director of parks and rec

Scott Sprague, the director of the town's recreation department, has been named director of the town's newly-formed parks and recreation department, said Sprague.

The recreation department and the parks division, now part of the Public Works Department, will be combined to provide better service to townspeople, since the two departments naturally go together, Sprague said today.

"In general, parks and recreation is a service, needs to be combined," he said. "It's the best structure. Park is recreation and recreation is parks, and we're all doing the same thing."

Sprague, 38, will begin his new duties on Jan. 9, said Town Manager Robert B. Weiss. Sprague was chosen for another candidate who passed a qualifying examination because Sprague's scores were higher and because "his overall experience was stronger," said Weiss.

Jan Devendorf, town personnel officer, said 23 candidates applied for the position, but only nine met minimum requirements. Four candidates were asked to take a qualifying examination, but only two showed for the examination, she said.

The parks division is now combined with the town cemetery division under the Public Works Department. With the reorganization, cemeteries will become a separate division headed by Robert Harrison, currently parks and cemeteries superintendent, said Director Stephen T. Cassano.

Cassano said Harrison will be busy enough developing a new town cemetery on Hillstown Road.

Weiss said the town could begin building the cemetery next fiscal year. The town is currently looking into the cost of building the cemetery, he said.

Weiss said Sprague will be assisted by a new parks superintendent. Sprague said he may choose the new superintendent by next week or in early January.

Sprague has worked in Manchester since 1984. He has worked

Red Cross takes quake inquiries

Effective immediately, the Greater Hartford chapter of the American Red Cross is accepting disaster relief inquiries from relatives of victims of the Armenian earthquake.

Requests should be limited to immediate family members due to the large number of requests expected. The Red Cross expects that it may take a long time before replies are received because the Soviet Red Cross is directing efforts to emergency rescue and life-saving.

People should call the Greater Hartford Red Cross chapter's emergency services department at 678-2830.

Bolton selectmen to question legality of charter proposals

By Andrew J. Davis
Manchester Herald

BOLTON—Selectman Michael A. Zizka said Tuesday he will ask for a legal opinion on whether the defunct Charter Revision Commission legally changed its recommendations after a public hearing had been held in October on proposed charter changes.

Zizka said at a meeting of the Board of Selectmen he did not believe the commission had the authority to make late changes in the charter, including recommending the elimination of the power of Annual Town Meeting voters to specifically reduce the budget and making the selectmen positions volunteer.

Zizka said he was unsure if that was legal since the changes were made after public hearings and without consulting the selectmen, he said.

The first selectman is paid $6,000 a year, while each selectman receives $60 a month. "They had no authority to make changes after the public hearing," said Zizka. "Otherwise, why have a public hearing?"

"They made substantial changes at their last meeting," said Selectman Douglas T. Cheney. "It never came up for a hearing."

Robert C. Young, chairman of the now-defunct commission, said today he believed the commission acted properly when men to a seven-member board. In a 3-2 vote, selectmen rejected the changes but enough people signed a petition to force a referendum on the issue on Feb. 7.

Zizka said he wanted a legal opinion to determine whether the commission acted properly by the commission at its Nov. 21 meeting were legal. The commission made two major changes at the meeting—the elimination of the power of Annual Town Meeting voters to specifically reduce the budget and making the selectmen positions volunteer.

Zizka said he was unsure if that was legal since the changes were made after public hearings and without consulting the selectmen, he said.

The first selectman is paid $6,000 a year, while each selectman receives $60 a month. "They had no authority to make changes after the public hearing," said Zizka. "Otherwise, why have a public hearing?"

"They made substantial changes at their last meeting," said Selectman Douglas T. Cheney. "It never came up for a hearing."

Robert C. Young, chairman of the now-defunct commission, said today he believed the commission acted properly when making the changes. "I have confidence that the charter commission has done its job in accordance with the statutes," he said. "I see nothing in the statutes that says we have to have a public hearing on every change."

Zizka also wanted a legal opinion on whether the whole referendum had to be put up for a townwide vote. He said he would like to pose specific questions, such as the town manager and Board of Finance proposals, separately to voters.

Though commission members have said that many of the proposed changes are dependent on others, Zizka said he did not believe that to be true. "It doesn't have to be an all or nothing proposition," he said.

First Selectman Sandra W. Pierog said she thought the whole referendum had to be presented to voters. She said a townwide petition, which overrode the selectmen's veto of the proposed changes, stated that the total referendum be brought up for a townwide vote.

Pierog and fellow Democrat Zizka voted for the proposed changes at the selectmen's Dec. 6 meeting. Cheney and fellow Republicans Carl A. Preuss and Lawrence Converse III voted against the charter.

Moriarty Bros. settles dispute

By Maureen Leavitt
Manchester Herald

Moriarty Brothers Inc. has agreed to offer full refunds or payments to three used-car customers after admitting it used misleading advertising to sell them cars.

The car dealership at 315 Center St. signed an agreement Dec. 6 with the state Department of Consumer Protection after it was discovered Moriarty Brothers advertised three 1987 Ford Tempos as executive cars when they actually were rental cars, said Kathleen Curry, a spokeswoman for the DCP.

Executive cars are used by company executives on a limited basis and would probably have less wear and tear than a rental car because only one person or family would be driving it, Curry said Tuesday. A complaint stating the firm misrepresented the car was first filed with the DCP in July by Albert and Ruth Meyerhoffer of Ellington.

Stanley A. Schwartz of South Windsor and Carl Carlson of Manchester also purchased the former rental cars, Curry said. Curry said advertising for the Ford cars ran in the Rockville Reminder on or about March 8.

Under the agreement, Moriarty Brothers will offer to re-purchase the vehicles at the original selling price with no reduction for depreciation or normal wear and tear, Curry said.

payment. The buyers have 45 days from the date the agreement was signed to make their decision, according to Curry.

Maurice Moriarty, the dealership's treasurer, said the firm had bought executive cars through a Ford auction and also had rental cars in stock. A new salesman advertised the rental cars as executive cars, not realizing some of the cars were former rentals, he said.

"It was a very unfortunate incident but also an isolated incident," Moriarty said. "We acknowledge a mistake was made but it was not made on purpose. It was not done to deceive."

Moriarty said he believed Schwartz had decided to accept the $500 payment.

LOCAL & STATE

Tighter controls sought

HARTFORD (AP) — A report to state higher education officials prompted by a controversy at the University of Connecticut Health Center says that while colleges cannot directly control private foundations, they must be able to protect their institutions' reputations.

The report submitted to the Board of Governors for Higher Education on Tuesday calls for tighter state controls and clearer definitions of foundation activities.

The report was requested by Gov. William A. O'Neill after the state auditors found in October that state money had been channeled improperly into a private foundation by officials at the UConn Health Center in Farmington.

State investigators have said that two health center researchers profited from research money that should have gone into university accounts but wound up instead in private accounts they held with the University of Connecticut Foundation Inc.

Police search for escapee

NIAINTIC (AP) — Police searched today for a woman serving a five-year sentence for burglary who escaped from the state prison here by cutting a bar in her cell with a hacksaw.

Bill Flower, a spokesman for the state Department of Correction, said Theresa Lucibello, 31, of New Haven was last seen Tuesday at 10:30 p.m. head count. About 10 minutes later, authorities realized she was missing from her cell, Flower said.

He said Lucibello used a hacksaw to cut one bar at the bottom, pushed the bar up and then wriggled through the opening.

Lucibello was sentenced July 14, had a first-floor cell, Flower said.

He said authorities didn't know how she got the hacksaw and an internal investigation was launched today at the Niantic prison.

Christmas wishes answered

OLD SAYBROOK (AP) — Some 1,300 homeless kids in Connecticut will be getting some holiday cheer and gifts courtesy of a restaurant chain and people they've never met.

The gift-giving project grew out of a summer conversation that waitress Barbara Fox had with her boss at Saybrook Fish House in Old Saybrook about the shame of restaurants wasting food when people are going hungry.

Fox told her boss about a "Wish Tree" she saw at a bank while living in Dallas. Each card that decorated the tree had the name, age and three wishes of a poor child. Those wanting to help could take a card and return with a wrapped gift addressed to the child.

Fox found the idea an easy sell to the restaurant chain and in early December, the wish cards were hung by yarn on holiday trees in the restaurants in Old Saybrook, Rocky Hill, Canton and Bloomfield.

"I went to the (state) Department of Human Resources and said, 'Can you supply me with all the names and wishes of homeless children in Connecticut?'" Fox said.

Man faces prison term

WINDHAM (AP) — A Danielson man accused of murdering his roommate in July accepted a plea bargain agreement that calls for him to serve 25 years in prison.

Thomas A. Bisson, 31, pleaded guilty Tuesday in Windham Superior Court under the Arizona Doctrine, meaning that he conceded the state had enough evidence to secure a conviction at trial but he didn't acknowledge the specific facts of the case.

Under questioning by Judge William M. Shaughnessy Jr., Bisson said he believed he was responsible for the death of Myron T. Moir Jr., who had shared his apartment. But Bisson said he had difficulty remembering some of the details of the slaying.

Police on July 7 found Moir's body in the bathtub of the men's apartment. An autopsy determined that Moir, 38, died of multiple gunshot wounds. Windham County State's Attorney Terrence A. Sullivan said authorities believe the murder may have taken place July 2 in the apartment.

Elderly sisters' suicides stuns their neighborhood

By Larry Rosenthal
The Associated Press

WALLINGFORD — A suicide pact was carried out by two elderly sisters, one of whom was described by a neighbor as distraught over being left by her husband of more than 40 years.

Helen Sammito, 69, and Elizabeth Bacci, 74, were found dead Monday afternoon in Mrs. Sammito's car, stunning neighbors who said they knew them as "very nice, very friendly ladies."

The state medical examiner's office said Tuesday the two women died of carbon monoxide poisoning and ruled the deaths suicides. Police said Mrs. Sammito was found in the front seat of the car and her sister in the back seat.

A note indicating that "two people were going to be taking their lives" was found inside Mrs. Sammito's home, said Lt. William Butta, but he would not divulge its contents.

While police would not discuss possible reasons behind the suicides, two neighbors said Mrs. Sammito was upset because her husband, S. George Sammito, left her about a month ago. The neighbors asked not to be identified.

"She told me a few times, 'I am sick, I can't sleep,'" said one neighbor. "She was afraid. I tried to tell her a lot of people live by themselves, and that, 'You have a nice house.'"

The sisters' houses backed up to each other, and their brother, who was in Florida when the deaths occurred, lives next door, and by a neighbor. The two had become suspicious, entered the house through an unlocked back door and found the suicide note.

The note, according to someone who read it but spoke on condition of anonymity, was from Mrs. Sammito and instructed that she be buried in the family plot and that $2,000 of her money be donated to her church.

"They were very precious members of the church. They were very dear ladies," said the Rev. Dr. Laszlo Muehely, pastor of the Evangelical and Reformed United Church of Christ, spiritual center of the local Hungarian community.

A funeral service for the sisters was scheduled for 11 a.m. Friday.

earlier this month, DeMaio said. Dr. Brendan M. Fox, senior attending urologist who assisted in the operation, said the surgery took longer than expected because of bleeding that occurred when a tumor blocking the drainage of urine was removed from Whealon's right kidney.

DeMaio said he expects Whealon to be released from the hospital in seven to 10 days and return to work in six weeks.

DeMaio said the tumors recur in 30 to 40 percent of diagnosed cases. He said doctors believed they removed Whealon's cancer both in 1981 and 1984.

"We felt the tumors were totally excised and that it was not necessary to give any additional treatment," DeMaio said.

Since the cancer has recurred, DeMaio said he is recommending that Whealon receive follow-up treatment. The treatment, which will begin three weeks after Whealon is released from the hospital, will include both radiation treatment and chemotherapy.

He said there would be five weeks of radiation treatment and an undetermined amount of chemotherapy.

During surgery in 1984, doctors removed the rectum and surrounding tissue and created a permanent colostomy. A colostomy is surgery to form an artificial anal opening.

The Rev. Thomas J. Barry, secretary to the archbishop, said Whealon has not indicated his health would interfere with his continuing as archbishop.

"That (resigning his post) is really something the archbishop has not thought about to my knowledge," Barry said.

Whealon is the 10th archbishop since the Hartford diocese was formed in 1943. Previously, he was bishop of Erie, Pa. from 1967-69, and an auxiliary bishop of Cleveland from 1960-67.

Whealon received a compliment earlier this month, DeMaio said. Dr. Brendan M. Fox, senior attending urologist who assisted in the operation, said the surgery took longer than expected because of bleeding that occurred when a tumor blocking the drainage of urine was removed from Whealon's right kidney.

DeMaio said he expects Whealon to be released from the hospital in seven to 10 days and return to work in six weeks.

Whealon's doctor optimistic after latest cancer surgery

By Mark Seov
The Associated Press

HARTFORD — Roman Catholic Archbishop John F. Whealon, who has battled cancer for 10 years, may have beaten the odds when he successfully completed surgery to have two cancerous tumors removed from his pelvis, a doctor said.

The tumors, discovered earlier this month, were removed during a five-hour operation at St. Francis Hospital and Medical Center on Tuesday. Whealon, 67, was in good condition Tuesday night, a hospital spokesman said.

Dr. John T. DeMaio, senior attending surgeon who performed the operation, said 40 percent of people diagnosed with the same cancer Whealon suffers from, leiomyosarcoma, survive 5 or more years. Whealon was first diagnosed with cancer in 1978 and has since undergone five operations.

"I think he's beat the odds quite well," DeMaio said.

Leiomyosarcoma is a cancerous tumor that affects muscle tissue such as that in the large intestine, or colon, DeMaio said.

Whealon entered the hospital Monday and underwent surgery at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday, hospital officials said.

"He seemed quite upbeat as he went into surgery and believed we were going to help him," said DeMaio, senior attending surgeon, who also performed similar surgery on Whealon in 1984. "We certainly believe we did (help him)."

DeMaio said he was "optimistic" because the cancer had not spread to other parts of Whealon's body.

Whealon, the spiritual leader of the state's 790,000 Roman Catholics since 1969, has undergone annual examinations since 1984 and new tumors were detected

Bergin cheers 'vindication' Judge hits state's 'reckless omissions'

WATERBURY (AP) — Former Waterbury Mayor Edward D. Bergin considers himself vindicated by a judge's decision to dismiss a bribe-receiving charge against him because of the prosecution's deliberate attempts to conceal evidence.

Superior Court Judge William Lavery, in a 12-page decision released Tuesday, said the prosecution made "deliberate misrepresentations and reckless omissions" in order to obtain an arrest warrant for Bergin.

Bergin was charged in April with taking a $3,000 bribe from the Hill family, owners of Executive Auto Body, in exchange for the award of a city towing contract while he was mayor.

"Obviously, I'm thrilled, pleased with the decision," said Bergin, who lost a re-election bid in November 1985. "I believe it's a pretty pointed statement. It's a vindication of the accusations and the arrest." Chief State's Attorney John Kelly, whose office prepared the case against Bergin, didn't return two telephone calls Tuesday seeking comment on Lavery's decision.

Cathryn Krinitzky, an assistant Kelly assigned to the case, said Lavery's decision was based on fast conclusions and would be appealed. She wouldn't elaborate.

Bergin's arrest warrant affidavit, prepared by Inspector Frank D'Amico of the chief state's attorney's office, claimed that former Democratic Town Chairman Thomas Gahan had been the go-between, bringing the bribe money to the mayor.

But Bergin's attorney, Herbert Santos, produced evidence that his client was in Alaska on June 14, 1985 when the alleged bribe took place—a fact that was never mentioned in the affidavit. Citing the discrepancy, he asked Lavery to dismiss the charge.

"There is no question in the court's mind that (D'Amico) tailored the affidavit with information favorable to the state and deliberately left out the aforementioned material facts," Lavery said in his written ruling.

Bergin said he felt more "persecuted" than the state and deliberately left out the aforementioned material facts," Lavery said in his written ruling.

VICTORY — Prime Minister Ranasinghe Premadasa acknowledges a victory sign Tuesday in Colombo, Sri Lanka, to acknowledge victory as the newly-elected president of the island nation, located off the southern coast of India. ## Sullivan expected to get Cabinet nod

WASHINGTON (AP) — Black educator Louis Sullivan appears on track to be George Bush's secretary of health and human services despite a sudden uproar over his abortion views, while Chicago transit official Samuel Skinner remains on standby for appointment as transportation secretary.

Sullivan and Bush's top aides spent a lot of time Tuesday in talks with anti-abortion leaders, assuring them that Sullivan's views were in line with those of Bush. Sullivan triggered the flap by saying in an interview he supports the right of a woman to seek an abortion — a position at odds with Bush's — but opposes the use of federal funds to pay for it.

Apparently satisfied that storm had been calmed, Bush's chief of staff, Craig Fuller, invited the four television networks in late in the day for separate interviews about Sullivan.

"Our discussions with Dr. Sullivan have been ... very encouraging," Miller said. "We feel he is a very strong candidate. I think we'd like to go forward with him and I think we're pretty close to that."

Moreover, a transition source noted that Sullivan has strong backing from Bush's wife, Barbara, a friend of Sullivan who serves on the board of Morehouse College where he is medical school president.

Meanwhile, Skinner waited again in Washington to be summoned to an announcement ceremony about the transportation post.

Cigarette analysis is released

WASHINGTON (AP) — After nearly four years without a brand-by-brand analysis, American cigarette devotees are once again confronted by The List. The List — which itemizes tar, nicotine and carbon monoxide content in cigarette smoke — is back, released Tuesday by the Federal Trade Commission for the first time since January 1985.

The new compilation, based on tobacco-industry tests of 272 varieties of cigarettes, showed that varieties of Carlton and Now scored lowest in all three categories, exactly where they ranked in the 1985 list.

Lowest in all three categories were Carlton's and Now's filter kings marketed in hard packs. Each produced tar, nicotine and carbon monoxide readings below the measurement sensitivity of the test equipment.

The most measurable readings in the three categories were also produced by these two brands: Carlton filter king regular and menthol in soft packs, 100s in regular and menthol in hard packs and 100s in soft packs; and Now filter kings, regular and menthol, in soft packs, and 100s, regular and menthol, in soft packs.

Vehicle tax elimination no solution

The property tax on motor vehicles has long been the bane of local assessors. It is perhaps the easiest tax to avoid paying and thus one of the most difficult to collect.

The local assessor has to rely on the state government to know that a registered motor vehicle exists and is normally garaged in his town. For many years, assessors have wanted the state to take over the burden of motor vehicle taxation.

But the fact that a tax is a difficult one to administer does not constitute a valid argument for eliminating it.

A state task force on property taxation has recommended that the motor vehicle tax be eliminated and at the same time has rejected a proposal for a uniform tax rate for motor vehicles to be collected by the state and redistributed to municipalities.

One argument advanced for getting rid of the tax is that it is unfair because the tax on a motor vehicle in one town is not the same as the tax on the same vehicle in another. But the same thing is true of a house in one town when compared with an identical house in another town.

A more legitimate argument is that while the motor vehicles are assessed at something close to their market value at any given tax time, real property assessments get way out of whack between revaluations.

If the local motor vehicle property tax is abolished, more of the burden of supporting local services — which varies greatly among communities that jealously guard their right to provide more or less government as they choose — would be shifted to other kinds of property owners.

When the legislators consider the proposal of the task force, they should ask themselves whether abolishing the motor vehicle tax will create more inequities than it resolves.

'Deep Throat's' deficit projection proved to be right on the money

By Bob Conrad

Deep Throat told us six months ago the state would be a half billion short of paying its way in the 1989-90 fiscal year. More than likely, this insider source said, it would get worse. That was why, said DT, the Legislature would have to increase taxes either in 1989 or 1990, no doubt about it.

Democrats who run Connecticut knew all this by mid-1988. DT, who was actually more than one person, knew it because he was well placed in the O'Neill administration. And the numbers, which were shocking enough then, have nearly doubled by now.

I remember being so nervous about them when I wrote the column that the first week of July last year that I told editors to be sure and make it a letter 'D' on the word billion. I thought reporters would follow by asking the governor to "say it ain't so, Bill."

It was, however, an open secret then that the state was heading for big trouble in the next fiscal year because of slipping revenue and over-climbing spending. And while Democrats were sitting on it, Republicans who were picking up the same dire forecast were going public with it.

Senate Minority Leader Regional Smith of New Hartford and Senator Jamie McLaughlin of Woodbury, the ranking GOP member of the Finance Committee, told Capitol press conference they could see a shortfall of some $750 million coming in the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1989.

The official reaction from the other side: Bah, humbug. It was much too

Getting Santa 'back on target'?

By Nancy Conzelman

If you see Santa Claus totting a rifle or two in his sack this year, it isn't necessarily because he knows who's been bad.

In fact, it may mean that some one has been good. If the National Shooting Sports Foundation had its way, more good children would be rewarded with what has become an nontraditional gift, according to a news release from the Wilton-based organization.

"Sadly, however, fewer youngsters will experience the excitement of finding a new gun under the tree this Christmas morning," the release says. "To help get Santa 'back on target,'" the release says, hunters, shooters and sportsmen should talk to the parents of kids who have expressed an interest in shooting and offer help in selecting a gun for the children.

Sportsmen may also help train kids in the use of guns and recommend a firearm store. Toying Around Inc., located on Route 30.

People wouldn't have much luck with people like Wendy Smith of Tolland, who refuses to sell even toy guns in her Terman toy store. Toying Around Inc., located on Route 30.

For Smith and others, a youth's excitement at finding a gun under the tree wouldn't even come close to the anxiety a parent might feel at seeing their child wandering around with a rifle on his shoulder.

"I don't think a child needs to learn how to use guns, even play guns," Smith said. "You're pretending to hurt people. You're pretending to kill people."

But Fred Nassiff, owner of Nassiff Sports Co. at 991 Main St., says parents should not ignore a child if he or she has a strong desire to shoot.

"If you have a child that shows an interest, give him instruction," Nassiff said. "Sooner or later this kid is going to get his hands on a gun."

Nassiff, who sold guns for 45 years at Nassiff Arms Co., was a hunter safety instructor for 25 years. His experience with kids is that "they're more responsible than their own parents give them credit for."

Nevertheless, Nassiff said, both parents and children must be prepared to have a gun. Nassiff said he would give parents the third degree about the child they wanted to buy the gun for, why the child wanted the gun and especially how much training or experience the child had.

"We have to play God and judge sometimes," he said. "I'm in the tough position of having to make the decision."

Nassiff said he and most other gun shop operators would not sell a gun that was going to be used by an inexperienced shooter.

"If a kid has not had training, we just don't feel they should have (a gun)," he said.

In Iran, men rule the roost

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — The brains of men are smaller than the brains of women and that's why men are the rulers and women are the housekeepers. It's true. Just ask Hashemi Rafsanjani, the speaker of the Iranian parliament. He is the man whom the Reagan administration considers to be the moderate hope of disarming Iran.

Rafsanjani opined on the shortcomings of the female anatomy in a prayer sermon. "A man's brain is larger than a woman's brain," he said, "and the breathing power of men's lungs is greater and women's heartbeats are faster. Men heed reasoning and logic, whereas most women tend to be emotional. Courage and daring are stronger in men."

When Rafsanjani speaks, others follow. Hadi Khomeini, the brother of Iranian president Mohammad Khomeini and a parliamentary deputy, likes the small-brain theory too. "The average size of a man's brain is larger than a woman's," he was quoted as saying in a Persian-language newspaper.

"A man's nervous system is more resistant. He is less afraid and deals with danger more easily. A woman's feelings are less stable than a man's. A woman is more cautious, fearful, talkative and ceremonious than a man."

Women cannot compete with men in the rational sciences and problems of pure logic, says Jaekle, who has spent years in conversation at his office. He is talking about holding the line on spending and imposing a freeze on hiring as well as some cost limits.

The trouble, says Jaekle, is that spending has increased by 12 1/2 per cent while revenue growth has been 5 1/2 per cent.

I freeze, as Jaekle knows, cannot be applied to advances that are dictated by contracts or otherwise built in. But some cuts beg for attention, such as $82 million in the current budget to pay consultants. What a package of fat that is.

The point here is NOT that so much was known so early, or even that a politically-smart administration sat on information until after the election. It is simply that, speaking politically again, Democrats have bought the whole fiscal meat ball by following such a defensive strategy and it's theirs to deal with now.

I love the memo to the troops last week from Senator Joe Harper of New Britain and Rep. Paul Gionfriddo of Middletown, co-chairmen of the budget-writing Appropriations Committee. "Fair Warning," it said, don't even think of asking for more money.

How well the Democrats succeeded in determining the majority party's stance going into the all-important state election of 1990. They know it, and so do the Republicans nipping at their heels.

Bob Conrad, a Bristol resident, writes weekly about Connecticut politics.

Resisters for nearly five years. She's opposed to promoting violent behavior by giving a child toy guns, but admits that with proper instruction and supervision, a child might be safe with a handgun.

Having a small brain and a husband to wait on does not exempt women from service in Khomeini's army. He sent women to the front in his war against Iraq. Khomeini's rationale was that the presence of women would slow the advance of the Iraqis. If that didn't work, at least Khomeini could count on the presence of the women to stir the superior macho juices of his male soldiers.

"I just feel that there are many other toys that a child can play with," she said.

Gary Wood, spokesman for the Manchester Police Department, said state law says only children 12 and over may carry a hunting rifle. Kids between 12 and 18 must have four two-hour sessions of training and safety instruction from a certified instructor and must hunt in the company of a supervising, licensed adult.

"That should be enough," Nassiff said. "It's not a bad idea to go through instruction at any age."

The problem is that 99 percent of the shots fired in towns are fired at targets, according to Nassiff, and target shooting is not regulated at all. Wood said most accidents and problems result from children firing BB guns.

One of the things that turned Smith against giving children guns is when a friend was shot in the eye by a person with a BB gun.

"And they were given lessons on how to shoot it," Smith said.

Nassiff likened guns to cars.

"You can virtually avoid all problems by obeying the law," he said.

Jack Anderson and his associate, Dale Van Atta, are syndicated columnists.

Israeli coalition OK'd

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — After hours of acrimonious debate, the conservative Likud bloc's governing body today narrowly approved an agreement that would again wed it with the left-wing Labor party in a coalition government. Labor's central committee was expected to endorse the agreement later today, and a unity Cabinet could be presented to Parliament on Thursday.

Many Likud members had been worried their movement would lose its ideological stance and a chance to rule Israel according to its own vision by joining with its rival.

Party leader and Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir, however, stressed to delegates that the unity government had a common enemy: the PLO-proclaimed state in the Israeli-occupied territories.

Christmas lights out

BETHLEHEM, Occupied West Bank (AP) — Vendors in the souvenir stalls around the Church of the Nativity are keeping their Christmas lights and ornaments in packing boxes this year.

In honor of the Palestinian uprising, city officials are refusing to sponsor holiday celebrations in the birthplace of Christ.

Israeli soldiers stood guard Tuesday as Israeli civilians employed by the army built a platform for a choir concert to entertain the hundreds of pilgrims who officials hope will come to worship in Bethlehem on Christmas Eve.

But Arab officials in this West Bank city have decreed that there will be no municipal decorations this year and no traditional holiday reception for diplomats or Boy Scouts on parade.

Cocaine shipment seized

MIAMI (AP) — U.S. Customs Service agents using blowtorches spent 30 hours ripping apart the belly of a Panamanian freighter before finding their version of a white Christmas: 4,792 pounds of cocaine hidden in a secret compartment.

The shipment, which was destined for holiday consumers, brought a five-day total of cocaine seized on two arriving freighters to 6,733 pounds, according to authorities, who said the shipments were from the same organization.

The amount confiscated made it one of the largest cocaine busts in U.S. history, said authorities, who estimated the drugs' street value at $50 million.

Economic posts filled

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Bush has made his appointments for the final two spots on the National Economic Commission, but doubts persist over how successful the panel will be in breaking a seven-year deadlock over the budget deficit.

The high-level commission was created to help the new president deal with President Reagan's biggest economic failure, huge budget deficits that have more than doubled the national debt.

On Tuesday, Bush announced he was choosing former Sen. Paul Laxalt, R-Nev., and former Ohio Congressman Thomas "Lud" Ashley, a Democrat and one of Bush's closest friends.

Under law, Bush was required to pick one Democrat and one Republican to complete the 14-member commission, which is headed by Democrat Robert Strauss and Republican Drew Lewis.

Moderate quakes in Alaska

PALMER, Alaska (AP) — A moderate earthquake jolted Kodiak Island, but there were no reports of damage or injury, officials said.

The tremor, which registered about 4.3 on the Richter scale, struck at 10:49 p.m. Tuesday and was centered about 10 miles north of the town of Kodiak, said Alec Medbery of the Alaska Tsunami Warning Center.

"It was felt very strongly in Kodiak" but was not intense enough to knock objects off shelves, he said.

The Richter scale is a measure of ground motion in which every increase of one number means a tenfold increase in magnitude. Thus a reading of 7.5 reflects an earthquake 10 times stronger than one of 6.5.

Report cites discrimination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has made gains against racial bias but still discriminates against blacks and other minorities in recruitment and other areas, an internal Navy report says.

"Minorities are succeeding in the Navy. But in spite of this progress and the realization of significant growth in career opportunity, shortfalls continue for minorities in accessions, promotions, advancements and distribution," the report said.

The Navy must strongly reinforce its continuing commitment to equal opportunity programs and efforts, the report said. "Much remains to be done."

The inch-thick report, which summarizes a special internal analysis of Navy personnel policies ordered by the chief of naval operations, was released earlier this week. The study was conducted by a naval group of 34 men and women and offers some candid advice to Adm. Carlisle A.H. Trust, the chief of naval operations.

Released political prisoners vow to topple Korean leader

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — The government released 231 political prisoners today as part of a sweeping amnesty and the freed dissidents vowed to topple President Roh Tae-woo and drive U.S. forces out of South Korea.

Roh ordered the amnesty involving 2,015 "politically motivated offenders" as part of efforts to defuse nationwide furor over demands for the punishment of former president Chun Doo-hwan for human rights abuses and corruption under his authoritarian regime.

In addition to the releases, the Justice Ministry said the civil rights of 1,581 dissidents had been restored, the sentences of 92 people reduced and 41 aggressive radical students dropped from police wanted lists.

Gay rights leaders, politicians rap judge

DALLAS (AP) — Sen. Edward Kennedy, Texas Treasurer Ann Richards and other elected officials joined gay rights leaders in attacking a state judge who said he gave a killer lighter punishment because his victims were homosexuals.

The recent actions of the state judge in Dallas County violate the fundamental principle that everyone stands equal before the law. The suggestion that those who kill homosexuals deserve shorter sentences is bigotry at its worst," said a statement from Kennedy, D-Mass., read at a Tuesday night rally.

About 500 protesters, many chanting "No more Hampton," gathered outside the residence of Judge Jack Hampton, who presided over the trial of a man accused of murdering a young man. The protesters, who were led by Rep. John Bryant, D-Texas, said "This manifestation of hatred in the midst of the Christmas season cannot be met with silence. It must be met with outrage."

Hampton's remarks have mobilized the Dallas gay community more than anything in years. Wavybourn said before the rally.

"The constitution guarantees that when we come before our courts seeking justice, our lives will not be given less or more value than the lives of others," it said.

"The recent actions of the state judge in Dallas County violate the fundamental principle that everyone stands equal before the law. The suggestion that those who kill homosexuals deserve shorter sentences is bigotry at its worst," said a statement from Kennedy, D-Mass., read at a Tuesday night rally.

About 500 protesters, many chanting "No more Hampton," gathered outside the residence of Judge Jack Hampton, who presided over the trial of a man accused of murdering a young man. The protesters, who were led by Rep. John Bryant, D-Texas, said "This manifestation of hatred in the midst of the Christmas season cannot be met with silence. It must be met with outrage."

Hampton's remarks have mobilized the Dallas gay community more than anything in years. Wavybourn said before the rally.

Argentine military chiefs quit

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — In an apparent concession to the leaders of Argentina's latest military revolt, the armed forces chief and his two top lieutenants have submitted their resignations.

The Iranian constitution bars women from being judges or rulers. Mohammad Yandi, deputy speaker of Khomeini's parliament, says that "no matter at what stage of knowledge, virtue, perfection and prudence a woman is, she does not have the right to rule or to have the right to leave her home without her husband's permission. She does not have the right even to attend her funeral procession without her husband's permission. . . . That is why a woman is completely in the service of her husband."

"I love the memo to the troops last week from Senator Joe Harper of New Britain and Rep. Paul Gionfriddo of Middletown, co-chairmen of the budget-writing Appropriations Committee. "Fair Warning," it said, don't even think of asking for more money.

How well the Democrats succeeded in determining the majority party's stance going into the all-important state election of 1990. They know it, and so do the Republicans nipping at their heels.

Bob Conrad, a Bristol resident, writes weekly about Connecticut politics.

Resisters for nearly five years. She's opposed to promoting violent behavior by giving a child toy guns, but admits that with proper instruction and supervision, a child might be safe with a handgun.

Having a small brain and a husband to wait on does not exempt women from service in Khomeini's army. He sent women to the front in his war against Iraq. Khomeini's rationale was that the presence of women would slow the advance of the Iraqis. If that didn't work, at least Khomeini could count on the presence of the women to stir the superior macho juices of his male soldiers.

"I just feel that there are many other toys that a child can play with," she said.

Gary Wood, spokesman for the Manchester Police Department, said state law says only children 12 and over may carry a hunting rifle. Kids between 12 and 18 must have four two-hour sessions of training and safety instruction from a certified instructor and must hunt in the company of a supervising, licensed adult.

"That should be enough," Nassiff said. "It's not a bad idea to go through instruction at any age."

The problem is that 99 percent of the shots fired in towns are fired at targets, according to Nassiff, and target shooting is not regulated at all. Wood said most accidents and problems result from children firing BB guns.

One of the things that turned Smith against giving children guns is when a friend was shot in the eye by a person with a BB gun.

"And they were given lessons on how to shoot it," Smith said.

Nassiff likened guns to cars.

"You can virtually avoid all problems by obeying the law," he said.

Democrats show little regard for FOI laws

To the Editor:

Your editorial of Dec. 19 missed the main points that arise from the director meeting-caucus brouhaha.

The first real point is that, technically, secret meetings of the Board of Directors have been held on a regular basis. Ted Cummings, Democratic town chairman, and others in attendance. The technicality is of the utmost importance and it is not of consequence that the Republican directors have a similar procedure.

From the serious technicality, it may follow that subsequent public meetings may be tainted and some of the bigger town decisions in recent years can be challenged, for instance the mail tax rebate. I would not be surprised if the current revelations lead to further lawsuits against the town.

The second real point is that the local Democratic leaders have shown no understanding or appreciation of the Freedom of Information Act, which is apparently coming several years late to Manchester. To have a party chairman with his fingers secretly in every town pie and helping privately to make decisions of the elected Board of Directors before the public even knows the agenda is anathema.

The Democratic directors are weak-kneed Nellies to let Mr. Cummings chivy them around as he does. His current role as overseer of his directors is an anachronism with no place in modern, open government. My personal thought is that Mr. Cummings has been caught out badly and should gracefully drop. As it is, his role as an extra director and his continuing quotes in support of the role took Judy targets for the November elections.

The Freedom of Information Act was designed to open up and improve government, to make our Connecticut democracy an actuality and not a facade. There have been too many mistakes in our town's government in recent years that the most obvious target. Town Manager Mr. Robert Weiss, cannot be blamed for everything. Can it be that the subterranean decision making by the Democratic directors, helped by Mr. Cummings, is responsible for its share of the mistakes?

Decent politicians should welcome the rules and restrictions of the Freedom of Information Act.

the guards, according to police Detective Capt. Russell Hughes. No shots were fired and neither guard was injured, police said. One guard was apparently inside the bank while the other was carrying the sacks of money to a van, police said.

The robber hopped into a car with another male accomplice and they drove off on a nearby highway, Hughes said. Police described the suspect wearing the Santa hat and white beard as a white male between 35 and 40 years old.

Police said the car, a gray Volkswagen Jetta with New York license plates, was last seen several miles away headed west on Interstate 84.

Authorities suspect that the robbers tailed the armored car to the bank, said Terry Shumard, a spokesman for the FBI, which is also investigating. He said the two bags held more than $700,000 in cash.

"It's too bad people have to use Santa Claus like that because kids look up to him," said a teller at the bank who would only identify herself at "Miss Mrs." "This was really strange."

A Farmington resident who witnessed the robbery follows the suspects' car in his van for about a mile on the highway and provided police with descriptions of the robbers, police Lt. Anthony Duffy said.

The man, who requested anonymity, declined to comment on the case when contacted Tuesday night.

Cookies

On Monday evening, the bagging "teams" working at five long tables were aiming to fill more than 800 bags of cookies.

About fifteen members of the DuBaldo clan, were part of the operation at various times, taking breaks for hot cider and cold eggnog.

"Are we making any progress? Or are we going to be here all night?" asked Bill Kimball of Tolland, a musician who has worked with the DuBaldos for the last several years in a program called Freedom Ministries.

DuBaldo, a musician and data processing manager, founded this group 10 years ago. It presents musical programs, does counseling, distributes Christian literature and leads Catholic worship services in Spanish each Sunday evening at the prisons in Hartford and Enfield.

The distribution of cookies is an outgrowth of that ministry program, the DuBaldos explained. "We decided we wanted to give each man a gift, because that way they could see that someone does care for them," said Donna DuBaldo. "Most of the people in the prison population have no positive thoughts about themselves, at all. We're just trying to give them something that someone would take time to bake for them and then bring the cookies to the prison."

The cookies bagged in Manchester on Monday evening were to be distributed Tuesday evening and tonight at parties at the prison gymnasium. The staff provides the punch and cocoa, and Freedom Ministries provides the cookies and arranges for musical performances.

The DuBaldos originally assumed that the cookies would be made right away by inmates longing for a taste of home cooking. But this is not the case, said Donna DuBaldo.

"They (the inmates) just hang onto those bags. They look surprised at first, when you hand them over, and then they just hang onto them," she said, "they eat the cookies later, back in the cells."

It's clear to Phyllis Jackson that the cookie outreach makes a difference. That is why she has tried to help her friends, the DuBaldos, with the project each year.

"Listen, there's enough trouble in the world. If you can help a little, then you feel good about it," she said.

Donna DuBaldo, a gymnastics instructor, said that projects like the annual cookie bagging party have helped her children realize that there are others who are far less fortunate than they. Peter, 8, spent much of Monday evening curled up with a novel on a living room couch, sipping cocoa as often as possible from under the nose of his grandfather, another Peter DuBaldo.

But at 4, his sister, Carmella, had an interesting view of the whole proceedings. She spent part of the evening giggling and yelling, "Let's pig out!" But in a more serious moment, she said, "My mom doesn't want us to eat up all these cookies, you know. She wants us to give them to men because they can't be home with their little girls on Christmas."

The state also made a child support claim. The Internal Revenue Service joined in, declaring that if a gift had been made, VanDeBoe could owe millions of dollars in gift taxes.

A breakthrough came at a court hearing last week when VanDeBoe, through his lawyer, agreed to pay his child support debt and to clear up claims the state had against him.

VanDeBoe, 37, and Ms. Elsinga, 27, entered into a joint-winner agreement to settle the gift tax issue. It also permitted Ms. Elsinga to get her half of the money while the courts sort through the claims against VanDeBoe.

Two orders signed Tuesday by Judge Luther Gionton dissolved prior injunctions and ordered VanDeBoe's lawyer, William Wimer, to make arrangements with the two other women, with $100,000 held back for each.

Wimer also was ordered to pay VanDeBoe's debts, including $22,348 in child support and thousands of dollars in debts to retailers and hospitals.

Wimer picked up the check at Lotto America headquarters in Des Moines on Tuesday. The $13.6 million jackpot was the largest offered by Lotto America since the weekly multistate lottery began in February. Tickets are sold in Iowa, Kansas, Missouri, Rhode Island, Oregon, West Virginia and the District of Columbia.

The $516,750 check was the first of 20 annual payments for VanDeBoe and Ms. Elsinga. Already deducted from their winnings was $170,000 for state and federal taxes, and Wimer said they will each owe $25,000 more in taxes. Wimer said he'll recommend to VanDeBoe that he not spend the $21,000 he was left with. "I'm going to say, 'Get your bills paid. You've got 10 years to get ahead,'" said Wimer. "I think he'll agree with that."

Wimer said Ms. Elsinga can spend her half, $255,375, any way she wants.

"We're just going to spend it and be happy," Ms. Elsinga said last week after Lotto America approved the joint-owner agreement.

Neither of the winners showed up Tuesday when Wimer picked up the check.

"Richard is shy," said Wimer.

Hartford to Bloomfield, Howroyd said. The district has requested help from eight towns participating in the study in gathering data, Ehrhardt said.

Town planning departments have been asked to provide information on zoning regulations and land-use patterns along the line. Manchester's Principal Planner, Lynne Pike DiSanto, said today.

"They basically want an inventory," DiSanto said. The $70 million Pavilions at Buckland Hills and surrounding development in the north end of Manchester is a logical choice for the study, Howroyd said.

"With the development we have going on in north Manchester, there obviously is going to be need for new transportation systems," Howroyd said. "We have to do something."

Celebrating vigil of Christmas Eve

By Sue Stapleton Manchester Herald

Everyone has memories of Christmas celebrations. My favorite memories go back to Christmas Eve celebrations at my Bachu's (grandmother's) 11-room farmhouse in Amherst, Mass.

Christmas Eve was a special time for our family. We would drive the 25 miles from Agawam to Bachu's house to celebrate Wigilja (the vigil of Christmas Eve). Wigilja marks the end of the four weeks of Advent and a day-long fast. As the first star appeared in the sky, symbolizing the end of Advent, the family would gather in a circle for a prayer and breaking of the sacred oplatek, which resembles the communion wafer but is shaped in rectangles. After praying for the deceased members of the family, each person in the circle broke the oplatek while good wishes for the future and Christmas greetings were exchanged.

Traditionally the oplatek is broken by the head of the family or the oldest son. The eldest male breaks the bread with his wife, and then the two share the oplatek with the rest of the family from the oldest to the youngest.

The family would then sit down to a 12-course meal, one course for each of Christ's apostles. Our family is so big that the tables were set up in the kitchen, TV room and dining room to accommodate everyone. The children were always placed in the kitchen. The courses were served one at a time. Not everyone ate each course, especially the children, who generally got restless waiting for their favorite courses, like pierogi.

The tables were covered with white linens under which is spread some hay, symbolizing Christ's bed of hay. There was always a candle on either end of the table and a plate of the oplatek and bowl of honey for dipping. As one might imagine, we children fought for the oplatek.

The courses, which were all planned and prepared by Bachu, included: kapusta, which is cabbage with split peas and onion; bean soup or stew; kasha (buckwheat), baked and served with cooked prunes and juices; cabbage pierogi; baked haddock; creamed mushrooms; tudlins (thumb-sized dumplings) with raisins; rice cooked and mixed with raisins, nuts and sugar; sautéed herring sautéed in corn oil; plain puffs sprinkled with powdered sugar; thin crepes rolled up with applesauce; chresneik (lover's knots), which is a cookie; tea; coffee; and an array of sweet desserts.

Following the meal and the customary dish washing detail, the family retired to the living room where the tree and manger scene were arranged. The tree was usually laden with fruits and special cookies and candies for the children. The family would sing Christmas carols before passing out the gifts. You can imagine the mounds of Christmas wrapping that would accumulate with 13 grandchildren and 2 great-grandchildren opening gifts in that one room.

Our family would head back to Agawam, with full stomachs, new toys and anticipation of Christmas day with my mother's family.

Although my grandmother has passed away, the family still celebrates Wigilja at my father's home in Agawam. With the passing of time, the family has decided to bend the tradition and celebrate the elaborate Polish custom on the Sunday afternoon before Christmas.

Individual and corporate tastes of the family has also dictated the elimination of several dishes from the 12-course menu. I was one of the only ones who ate the rice and raisin dish, so it has been dropped from the menu. The family still enjoys the traditional bean soup, kapusta, wild mushroom in cream sauce, cabbage and potato pierogi, baked haddock and chresneik.

My father's home is not as large as Bachu's and naturally the family has grown considerably. We still gather in a close-knit circle for a prayer and breaking of the oplatek, which my father and his oldest sister break together and then in turn with each of us. We still retire to three different tables covered with white linens and candles with the dish of oplatek in the center. My niece and nephew are the ones who fight for the wafer now.

My father and mother serve the dishes one at a time. My cousins and I, who are now between the ages of 27 and 40, still do not eat the mushrooms or buckwheat and we fight over the pierogi and haddock.

My cousins and I often reminisce about the Wigilja celebrations at the farmhouse. We fondly remember the special cookies Aunti Bebe would make, decorate and hang on the tree for us. My niece and nephew do not have memories of Wigilja at the farmhouse, but they do enjoy the celebration and have special memories of Wigilja at grandpa's house.

Proceed as above.

Depending on size desired, cut out with small glass or cup. Spread filling on one piece, touch edge lightly all around with finger dipped in water; top with another piece of dough and press together gently but firmly.

In boiling water and salt, cook pierogi, 10 at a time, until done. They will rise to the surface when cooked. Use back of spoon to gently around edge of kettle, and separate pierogi. Remove with slotted spoon. Four melted butter over pierogi.

Tangy mustard-glazed ham for Christmas dinner

Microwave Kitchen Marge Churchill

Tangy-mustard glazed ham: 1/2 cup packed brown sugar, 2 tablespoons dry mustard, 2 tablespoons apple or orange juice.

1 large orange cut into slices, each slice quartered, whole cloves, 4 to 5 pounds fully cooked boneless whole ham. In a small mixing bowl, combine brown sugar, dry mustard, apple or orange juice, mix well. Set aside. Score and spice ham with cloves. Place ham, scored-side-up in a 10-inch square casserole dish. Cover cut surface with plastic wrap. Insert microwave meat thermometer. Microwave at medium power for 30 minutes. Prepare glaze (above). Brush ham with glaze. Microwave at medium power for 10 to 15 minutes more or until internal temperature registers 130 degrees F. Decorate ham with quartered orange slices during the last 5 minutes of cooking. Let stand, tented in aluminum foil for 10 minutes before carving. (Internal temperature will rise 5 to 10 degrees during the standing time.)

Festive mellow ball mold: 1 cup hot water, 1 package (3 ounces) lime gelatin, 1/2 cup cold water, 2 cups cantaloupe balls, 1 can (8 ounces) pineapple tidbits, drained, 1 cup seedless red grapes, 1 cup sliced celery, red-tipped leaf lettuce, 1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese.

Brush the inside of a 4 to 5 cup mold lightly with vegetable oil. Set aside. Place hot water in a 4 cup measure. Cover with plastic wrap and microwave on high for 2 to 4 minutes, or until boiling. Stir in gelatin until dissolved. Add cold water. Chill for 1 1/2 to 1 3/4 hours, or until gelatin is soft-set. Arrange lettuce leaves on serving platter. Dip mold into hot water for 15 to 20 seconds to loosen edges. Unmold onto prepared platter. Chill until serving time.

In a small bowl, microwave cream cheese at high for 15 to 20 seconds or until softened. Stir until smooth; pipe onto unmolded salad in the shape of a bell or star. Yields 8 servings. Advance preparation: up to 1 day in advance, prepare mold. Up to 4 hours ahead of serving time, unmold onto serving platter and decorate with cream cheese.

Candied sweet potatoes: 2 sweet potatoes (12 to 16 ounces each) peeled and sliced (about 4 cups), 2 tablespoons butter, 1/2 cup packed brown sugar, 2 tablespoons light corn syrup, 1 tablespoon unsweetened pineapple juice, 2 cups miniature marshmallows. Arrange sweet potato slices, slightly overlapping in a 10-inch glass pie plate. Set aside. In a 1-cup measure, microwave butter at high for 45 seconds, to 1 minute, or until melted. Stir in remaining ingredients except for marshmallows. Pour evenly over potatoes. Cover with plastic wrap. Microwave at high power for 8 to 11 minutes, or until tender, rotating the dish once. Remove plastic wrap. Sprinkle potatoes with marshmallows. Place under conventional broiler, about 8 inches from heat. Broil just until marshmallows are light golden brown, about 1 minute. Advance preparation: Up to 1 day ahead, prepare potatoes, cover with plastic wrap and refrigerate. Follow directions for glaze, store covered in refrigerator. About 15 minutes before serving time, remove potatoes from refrigerator. Microwave, covered on high power for 12 to 15 minutes as directed above. Pop under the broiler just before serving. Yields 6 servings.

Holiday potato scallop: 6 cups peeled, sliced potatoes (1/4 inch slices), 3 tablespoons flour, 1/2 teaspoon ground thyme leaves, 1/2 teaspoon white pepper, 2 cups half and half, 1/3 cup snipped parsley, sliced pimiento. In a 3-quart casserole, combine all ingredients, except half and half, parsley and pimiento. Pour half and half over potato mixture. Toss gently to coat. Cover and microwave at high for 6 minutes. Microwave at medium power for 25 to 40 minutes longer, or until potatoes are tender and sauce is thickened, stirring twice. Spoon potatoes onto serving dish. Sprinkle with parsley in a wreath shape over potatoes. Arrange pimiento to form a bow on the wreath. Yields 6 to 8 servings.

Pumpkin parfait: 1 cup granulated sugar, 1/4 cup cornstarch, 2 tablespoons flour, 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 can (16 ounces) pumpkin puree, 1/2 cup whipping cream, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup finely crushed ginger snap cookie crumbs (about 15 ginger snaps). In a 3-quart casserole, combine granulated sugar, cornstarch, flour, cinnamon, nutmeg and salt. Add pumpkin and milk. Mix well. Microwave at high for 11 to 18 minutes, or until mixture thickens and bubbles, stirring after the first 5 minutes and then every 2 minutes. Place plastic wrap directly on surface of pudding. Refrigerate about 4 hours, or until cool.

In a small mixing bowl, beat whipping cream, gradually adding powdered sugar, until soft peaks form. Fold in vanilla. In each of eight, 8-ounce parfait or wine glasses, layer scant 1 tablespoon cookie crumbs, 2 tablespoons of pudding, 2 tablespoons whipped cream, scant 1 tablespoon of cookie crumbs, 2 tablespoons of pudding. Top each with a dollop of sweetened whipped cream. Add a final sprinkle of cookie crumbs to garnish. One 6-ounce package (1 cup) semi-sweet chocolate pieces or butterscotch-flavored pieces or peanut butter-flavored pieces
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup chopped walnuts or peanuts or toasted coconut (optional)

Line an 8-by-8-by-2-inch baking pan with foil, extending foil over edges of pan. Butter foil; set pan aside.
Place margarine in a microwave-safe 3-quart casserole. Cook, uncovered, on 100 percent power (high) 1 to 2 minutes or until melted. Stir in sugar and evaporated milk. Cook, uncovered, on high 7 to 10 minutes or until mixture reaches soft-ball stage (234 to 240 degrees F), stirring every 3 minutes. After 7 minutes, check every 30 seconds.
Add marshmallows, flavored pieces and vanilla. Stir until marshmallows and pieces are melted and blended into mixture. Add nuts, if desired. Gently turn fudge into prepared pan. While fudge is warm, score into 1-inch pieces.
Cool to room temperature. Cover and chill in refrigerator several hours or until firm. When fudge is firm, grasp foil edges and lift foil and fudge from pan. Remove foil. Cut fudge into squares. Store tightly covered in refrigerator. Makes 2 pounds (64 pieces).

Cheese pizza rolls

3/4 to 2 3/4 cups all-purpose flour
1/2 cup grated Romano cheese
2 packages quick-rising active dry yeast
1 tablespoon dried minced onion
1 egg
1/2 teaspoon dried basil, crushed
1/2 teaspoon dried oregano, crushed
1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
One 8-ounce can tomato sauce
1/2 cup water
2 tablespoons olive or cooking oil
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
1 egg
2 tablespoons sesame seed, crushed
2 tablespoons grated Romano cheese

In a mixer bowl combine 1 1/4 cups of the flour, cheese, yeast, onion, basil, oregano and garlic powder. In a saucetpan heat tomato sauce, water, oil, sugar and salt until warm (100 to 105 degrees). Add to flour mixture. Add egg. Beat on low speed 1/2 minute, scraping bowl constantly. Beat on high speed 3 minutes. Stir in as much remaining flour as you can.
On lightly floured surface knead in enough remaining flour to make moderately stiff dough that is smooth and elastic (6 to 8 minutes). Shape into ball. Place in greased bowl. Cover; let rise until double (about 30 minutes).
Punch dough down. Cover; let rest 10 minutes. Divide into 18 pieces; shape into balls. Place in two greased 8-by-8-by-8-inch baking pans. Cover; let rise until nearly double (20 to 25 minutes). Brush with water; sprinkle with sesame seed and cheese. Bake in 375-degree F oven 18 to 20 minutes. Cool. Makes 18 rolls.

Nutrition information per roll: 128 cal., 4 g pro., 26 g carb., 2 g fat, 19 mg chol., 241 mg sodium. U.S. RDA: 12 percent thiamine, 10 percent riboflavin.

Coconut tart

1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1-1/2 cups milk
2 beaten egg yolks
1/2 cup toasted coconut
2 tablespoons coconut liqueur or white creme de cacao
1/2 of a 17 1/2-ounce package (1 sheet) frozen puff pastry
1/2 cup fudge ice cream topping

For filling, in a small saucetpan combine sugar and cornstarch. Stir in milk. Cook and stir until thickened and bubbly; cook 2 minutes more. Remove from heat. Stir about 1 cup hot mixture into egg yolks. Return to saucetpan. Bring just to boiling. Cook and stir 2 minutes more. Remove from heat. Stir in coconut and liqueur. Cover surface with clear plastic wrap. Chill without stirring.
Thaw pastry according to package directions. On a lightly floured surface lightly roll pastry into a 16-inch square. Cut four 1-inch strips off one side, making a 10-by-6-inch rectangle. Transfer rectangle to ungreased baking sheet. Prick pastry rectangle at 1-inch intervals, making definite holes so you can see the pan through the holes. Trim two of the strips to 6-inch lengths. Gently twist all strips. Place on the edges of the pastry rectangle to form a rim. Moisten ends. Press together lightly to adhere.
Bake in 375-degree oven about 25 minutes or until pastry is golden brown. Carefully loosen and remove pastry from pan. Cool on wire rack. To serve, place pastry on platter. Heat fudge topping until warm. Reserve 1 tablespoon topping. Spread remaining topping in bottom of pastry. Beat filling until smooth. Spoon dollops of filling over topping and spread evenly to rim. Drizzle reserved topping over top. Makes 6 servings.

Carrots add color to fish

Special foods with festive flavors are in order when guests are coming for dinner. But things don't have to be laden with calories and dripping with fats. Serve these roulettes of sole with carrot sticks which are steamed briefly, then tied together with "ribbons" of green onion. If necessary, run the green onion tops under very hot water for a moment, to soften them enough to tie easily.

Roulettes of sole Florentine

1 10-ounce package frozen chopped spinach, thawed and well drained
One-third cup sliced green onion
One-third cup diced water chestnuts
3 tablespoons finely chopped red bell pepper
1/4 teaspoon Dijon-style mustard
1/4 teaspoon coarsely ground black pepper
2 tablespoons sour cream and butter flavored seasoning
8 fillets of sole (1 pound)
Combine green onions, water chestnuts, bell pepper, mustard, pepper and seasoning. Mix well. Spread 1/4 cup on each fillet, leaving 1 inch plain at each end.
Roll up and secure with a wooden pick. Place, seam side down, in a 6-by-10-inch baking dish, which has been coated with non-stick cooking spray. Cover with foil. Bake at 350 degrees for 20 minutes. Remove foil and top roulettes evenly with sauce, below. Continue baking 5 to 10 minutes. Serves four.

Sauce cremele

One-third cup nonfat plain yogurt
3 tablespoons light cream

Cheese, softened
2 tablespoons sour cream and butter flavored seasoning.

Combine all ingredients in a small bowl. Mix at medium speed until smooth.

BONNIE: Packaging individual portions of vegetables is a good idea. Unfortunately, all but two of these selections are laden with fat, calories and chemical sauces. The two excellent choices are: broccoli florets, cauliflower and carrots; and broccoli, sweet peas and julienne carrots; and corn on the cob in butter sauce. 79 cents each 4 to 5-oz. container of frozen vegetables.

BONNIE: This cereal could have been great. It's made mainly from whole oat and whole wheat flours, not refined oats and wheat. That means the nutrient-rich bran layer of the grains were left intact.

Stores, charities jointly help needy

By Martin Sloane

DEAR MARTIN: Let me tell you one of the ways in which I use coupons. Our church places a grocery cart in the vestibule each Sunday and everyone is asked to bring in an item for the hungry. Each week when I do my supermarket shopping, I look for an advertised store special that I have a coupon for, usually an item I do not use. Occasionally, with double coupons, I can get several items for just a few cents each.

Using my coupons in this way is an enjoyable challenge, and every Sunday I take special pleasure in adding my contribution to the church's grocery cart.

DEAR L.V.: This holiday season, houses of worship and charitable groups in all parts of the country, many in cooperation with their local supermarkets, have been hard at work to provide food for the needy and homeless. For example, in Oregon, Food Share is working with Safeway stores to give customers the opportunity to round off their grocery bills to the nearest 5 cents. 10 cents or dollar, with the extra change going to buy food certificates for the needy.

Whether it is extra change or the contribution of a grocery item, I hope my readers will look for an opportunity to take part in the effort.

But this giving experience and the pleasure it gives need not be a once-a-year event. Like your church, it can be a continuing source of satisfaction and commitment. I would enjoy hearing from local groups that makes the collection of food a year-round program.

Moms, children reunite for holiday meal

DEAR MR. ROSS: I'm writing in regard to women in prison. Here at the Georgia Women's Correctional Institution, we have programs for mothers to spend time with their children. It's open once a month, during which we get the chance to spend a morning or afternoon with our kids.

Thanks A Million
Percy Ross

To get to the point, Mr. Ross, Christmas is almost here and there are so many mothers who haven't been able to sit down to a meal with their children for a very long time. Would you donate $200 to our center and sponsor a Christmas party with a meal? Make your check payable to Project Reach Children Center and may God bless you.

MOTHERS IN PRISON, HARDWICK, GA.

DEAR MOTHERS: I've heard from thousands of people who would love to sit down to a nice holiday meal. I decided to count you among the numbers I will provide with a holiday meal this season because of one key factor - your children.

DEAR MR. ROSS: I'm in need of lots of money so I can go to the Bahamas and do charity. Do you know what happens to the tourists who lose all their money at the gambling tables? They turn to a life of crime because they can't eat or pay their hotel bill.

I'm willing to establish a soup kitchen in the airport, so these people won't starve. This will be done in a respectable, quiet manner as not to embarrass the casinos or the government. I know you think this is a joke, but I'm serious. I figure $1 million should get it started.

Explaining causes of staph infection

DEAR DR. GOTT: What causes staph infection? Can it be fatal?

DEAR READER: Many microbes have the ability to cause disease. One such group, the staphylococci, is particularly common. Staph bacteria are normal inhabitants of the nose and skin of healthy individuals. Under certain circumstances, when a person's immunity is lowered, staph will cause infection.

Typically, this infection is associated with abscesses, boils, and sores. However, staph can cause food poisoning (nausea, vomiting and diarrhea), pneumonia, bone inflammation, blood stream infection and so forth. Post-operative wound infection is a particularly dreaded complication of surgery. Staph spread in the bloodstream can cause abscesses in any part of the body.

Most staph infections, especially on the skin, heal with simple treatment, such as scrubbing with soap or the use of hot packs (to cause the boils to "point" and drain).

More deep-seated infections need antibiotics. This can be a problem because many strains of staph are resistant to penicillin and other common anti-microbials; the bacteria deactivate antibiotics by excreting a substance called penicillinase. Therefore, penicillinase-resistant drugs have to be used; these include methicillin, nafcillin, cephalosporins, gentamicin and others. Internal staph abscesses may have to be surgically drained.

The major characteristic of staph infection is toxic shock syndrome, a type of bloodstream infection that is associated with high fever, vomiting, diarrhea, skin rashes, delirium and shock. It is often caused by the improper use of menstrual tampons, particularly in frequent changing of tampons.

Certain patients with deficient immunity - such as newborn babies, intravenous drug users and people with chronic diseases - have to be especially careful of staph infections and must receive prompt and appropriate treatment if infections appear. However, for most people, serious staphylococcal infections are rarely a noteworthy problem.

Old watches can be a timely, profitable sale

DEAR BRUCE: We have two old, expensive watches with very well-known brand names. One belonged to my great-uncle and the other to my dad. I recently heard a radio advertisement by a company willing to buy them. Why would someone want old watches and pay a premium price for them?

Smart Money
Bruce Williams

Neither of the watches have diamonds or 18-carat gold cases, yet when I called the toll-free number, they said they'd examine them and make me a substantial offer. Is there a market for old watches?

B.W., TOLEDO, OHIO

DEAR BRUCE: There most certainly is, but it baffles me why you would want to collect them. I guess if people collect matchboxes, beer cans and old milk bottles, why not watches?

There is an active market for expensive watches such as Rolex, etc. At least one company advertises nationally offering to buy watches. The company then resells them to collectors.

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to protest the kind of giver who always has her hand out for a thank-you note.

My mother used to be so rough on us kids to write thank-you notes immediately, we almost hated to get another present for fear of hearing "Have you written your letter to thank Grandma yet?"

I am 63 years old, and as a direct result of being nagged to write thank-you notes, my own friends suffer because I hate to write letters.

How simple it would have been for my mother to have added a few lines to her own letters, saying, "Susie loves her doll, and wants me to say 'thank you' for her."

I'm a grandmother now, and I've never expected thank-you notes from any of my grandchildren, and I never got any. They love me, and I love them, and I don't need any thank-yous. I give for the joy of giving.

DON'T NEED THANKS IN KNOXVILLE

DEAR DON'T NEED THANKS: Children can be taught to write thank-you notes without being browbeaten. The mother who adds a few lines to her letter saying "Susie wants me to say thank you for her" is doing this message to Susie: "Don't bother to say 'thank you' - Mother will do it for you."

At the risk of sounding like a broken record: Children cannot be expected to know what they have not been taught, and one of the best gifts a parent can give a child is to teach that child to write

The salesman assured me he could sell my first time share and it was perfectly OK to go ahead and buy the campsite, which I did. Now I have a time share apartment and a campsite. He did not sell the apartment.

When I called the company, I was told that the salesman no longer works there and the company has no responsibility in this matter. They said they should put an ad in the paper, I tried that and there were no takers. The combined payments are breaking me, but I don't want to screw up my credit.

Before you ask if I got it in writing, the answer is no. I just took the salesman's word. Is there any hope for a sucker like me? R.N. NASHVILLE, TENN.

I am never asked if I want to go. I am dating someone special and everyone knows me. I am aware of this.

Whatever happened to the social custom of extending invitations to "Mary Smith and Guest"? Would it be proper for me to ask if I may bring an escort when I receive an invitation?

HATES TO GO ALONE

DEAR HATES: It's proper. Considerate people still extend invitations to "Mary Smith and Guest." Unless it would be a financial hardship for the host or hostess, single (male or female) should be invited to bring a guest.

DEAR ABBY: I appreciate all you have done to prevent animal abuse. If you want to save millions of animals from pain and agony, you will print the following:

Three years ago, a bill was passed to protect laboratory animals from needless suffering. It was passed by a huge majority and signed into law by the president! However, because the opposition to this bill had such a powerful lobby, this law has never been enacted.

Those who want to help laboratory animals should get the names of their congressmen and senators (they are on file in the public library), then write a short letter telling them that we want the Dole Amendment to the Animal Welfare Act implemented.

Beatrice let out just one quick cry as the archbishop of York on Tuesday christened her with water from the Jordan River.

The blue-eyed princess, who has her mother's red hair, looked directly into the camera. She didn't let out a peep as she rested in the arms of the duchess, the former Sarah Ferguson.

Lakers come up 90 seconds short against the Bulls

By Bob Greene
The Associated Press

Pro basketball is a 48-minute game. The Los Angeles Lakers, however, found out what 90 seconds can mean.

"We had a real bad minute and a half with some sloppy play and failing to contain the Bulls' penetration," Los Angeles coach Pat Riley said after Chicago handed the Lakers their fourth straight defeat.

Los Angeles led 98-93 with 4:49 remaining in Tuesday night's game. But 90 seconds later the Bulls had taken a 101-100 lead.

"That one-minute breakdown where (John) Paxson hit his jumper to put them ahead for good, and the illegal defense called on us was the difference," Riley said.

The Lakers had a 100-98 lead when James Worthy apparently stole the ball. But Los Angeles was whittled for the second time in the game for employing an illegal defense, giving the Bulls a technical free throw and possession.

Chicago's Michael Jordan sank the free throw and Paxson put the Bulls ahead to stay when he took the inbounds pass and hit a 12-foot jumper.

"We had what we call a 'full stack' set up that I let free since I was open, I just fired away," Paxson said.

Then Jordan went to work, scoring six straight points during a 13-0 spurt that clinched the 118-103 victory.

"I was lost because we did not get our shots down and we fell behind early by as many as 17 points (54-37)," the Lakers' Magic Johnson said. "At the end, we just didn't score or get back on our transition defense, and it hap-

It's nostalgia week in boxing circles

By Hol Brock
The Associated Press

It's been a big week for nostalgia in boxing circles.

First, about five years too late, promoter Lou Falcigno and his partners at Warner Brothers Pay TV put together a fight between Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini and Hector "Macho" Camacho.

Then, the very next day, Bob Arum visited the Red Wings arena against Iran Barkley for the WBC middleweight championship.

All we have to do is put rocking chairs in the corners instead of stools and open the gates. If the fans buy this senior citizen night, they'll buy anything.

Mancini hasn't fought in four years. Camacho has only been tokenly active with five fights over the last three years. Duran retired three times since 1980, earned his shot at Barkley's title with five victories over the last two years against people named Victor Claudio, Juan Carlos Gomez, Ricky Stackhouse, Paul Thorn and Jeff Lanas.

The fight between Duran and Macho would have been an attraction in 1984. In 1989, it is little more than a curiosity. Duran once was a middleweight contender, but he faded in a race with Sugar Ray Leonard for most comebacks.

Mancini-Camacho is set for March 6 in Reno, Nev. And if you want to watch it at home, you'll have to pay $19.95, which is high but still a lot better than the $250 it will cost for a ringside seat.

Now why would you pay that much to see this fight now, five years after it would have been interesting?

"It's entertainment," Mancini explained. "People paid $30 for Leonard-Lalonde."

And they paid nothing for a host of better fights before pay-per-view and closed-circuit technology turned boxing into a studio sport. They're peddling this fight like a hot item.

Red Wings 8, Blues 3: At Detroit, Steve Yzerman had the go-ahead goal and three assists and ran his point-scoring string to 22 games, tying the team record he set last season.

After Paul MacLean's power-play goal tied the score 3-3 Tuesday night in the final period, Yzerman took a long pass from Joe Murphy, eluded two defenders and drove a wrist shot past goaltender Greg Millen.

Georgia is eyeing Sheridan

ATHENS, Ga. (AP) — Dick Sheridan of North Carolina State apparently is at the top of the list to succeed Vince Dooley as the head football coach at the University of Georgia.

The Associated Press learned that Sheridan met with Georgia's search committee in nearby Commerce, Ga., Tuesday and later visited the school.

The source, who asked not to be identified, said he thought the job was Sheridan's to accept or reject.

Jim Valvano, the athletic director and basketball coach at North Carolina State, said Tuesday night, "We expect to have a conversation tomorrow (Wednesday)."

Robert Bishop, chairman of Georgia's search committee, declined Tuesday night to say whether Sheridan had been interviewed.

Sheridan, 47, went to the top of Georgia's list when longtime Bulldog assistant Erk Russell, the current head coach at Georgia Southern College, withdrew his name from consideration.

Dooley, 58, announced his resignation one week ago after a 25-year career at Georgia. He became only the 10th coach in Division I-A history to reach the 200-victory plateau, reaching that milestone in his 13th regular-season-ending victory over in-state rival Georgia Tech.

Dooley will coach his last game at Georgia on New Year's night when the 19th-ranked Bulldogs meet Michigan State in the Gator Bowl.

Sheridan has a 10-13 record in three seasons at North Carolina State, and has a Peach Bowl battle with Iowa still pending. Before going to the Atlantic Coast Conference school, Sheridan spent eight years at Furman, where he had a 69-23 record.

Ironically, Sheridan's last game at Furman was a 44-42 loss to Russell's Georgia Southern team in the NCAA Division I-AA national championship game.

Russell took himself out of the picture at a morning news conference Tuesday in Montgomery, Ala., where he is one of the coaches for the Blue-Gray All-Star football game.

Russell, 62, said he thinks a four-year commitment should be a prerequisite of the successor to the retiring Dooley.

"I can't give you a reason or several reasons. At this time, I am simply not willing to make that kind of commitment to Georgia, Georgia Southern or anyone else," Russell said.

Charles Knapp, president of the University of Georgia, and Bishop denied offering Russell the job.

Russell served as the defensive coordinator at Georgia for 17 years, leaving after the 1980 season, when the Bulldogs won the national championship, to coach the football program at Georgia Southern.

Tonelli a hat-trick specialist in matchup of Kings-Flames

By The Associated Press

The last time John Tonelli scored three times in one game, it was in a Flames-Kings game. He did it so much, he made his next hat trick in another Calgary-Los Angeles matchup.

"We've got a lot of friends on the west side with the Flames the previous time and with the Kings on Tuesday night."

Tonelli's first career hat trick came as a King as his first sine scoring three goals against the Kings on Nov. 28, 1987.

"He's been playing real well the last five games," Kings coach Robbie Florek said. "He took it upon himself to watch some game films and he's really come on strong."

Luc Robitaille scored two goals for Los Angeles.

"They got the early lead, which we didn't want," Crisp said. "You have to open up and sometimes you're playing with dynamite." That dynamite was carried by Tonelli.

In other games, it was Pittsburgh's, the New York Islanders 3, and Detroit's, St. Louis 3.

Switzer refusing to step down despite criticism

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — The critics are starting to appear, but Oklahoma football coach Barry Switzer isn't about to panic.

Oklahoma was placed on three years' probation Monday by the NCAA, and on Tuesday the state's third-largest newspaper called for Switzer's resignation.

"Why should I resign?" Switzer asked. "I know I never asked anybody, coach or alumni, to cheat for me. My violations were things out of not knowing the little rules."

In an editorial, The Tulsa Tribune said Switzer's resignation would help the football program recover from the more than $1 million loss in revenues projected during the team's probation.

"How many violations would occur if head coaches understood that sanctions would be followed by a request for their resignations?" the editorial said. "The NCAA can't impose such conditions, but regents can if they have the courage to start a new tradition at OU."

"Switzer can help by resigning."

The NCAA's sanctions, based on 20 violations, but the Sooners won bowl games for two years, live television coverage next season and limit the number of football recruits for two years.

Switzer has said he had no knowledge of NCAA rule violations in his program, and said he was not aware that a violation of the NCAA had been committed was a breach of the association's rules.

"When university officials met with the media Monday afternoon to discuss the sanctions, Switzer said he had no plans to resign. The university's interim president, Dan Switzel, said Switzer should stay where he is.

The newspaper's editorial said "the major infraction... was the second in Games' history to mark that event twice. He just missed setting the world record.

account he controlled to pay for bonuses to assistant coaches, salary increases, and rental cars by student hosts to entertain recruits."

Yankees sign Quirk

NEW YORK (AP) — Jamie Quirk became the fourth free agent to sign with the New York Yankees this offseason, agreeing on Monday to a one-year contract for $250,000.

Quirk, who is 34, batted .240 last season in 196 at-bats for Kansas City with eight homers and 25 runs batted in. He made $335,000.

He is a 240 career batter in 10 major-league seasons. Quirk was with the Royals for three different stretches.

Minimum wage increased

NEW YORK (AP) — The minimum salary in the major leagues next season will be $66,000, based on an automatic cost-of-living increase of $5,500.

In the 1985 collective bargaining agreement, the minimum salary was set at $60,500, based on cost-of-living increases after the 1986 and 1988 seasons. The minimum, which is pegged to the Consumer Price Index, increased to $62,500 after 1986.

CPI figures released Tuesday showed an 8.9 percent increase from December 1986 to November 1988.

Ferrell contacts team

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Phoenix Cardinals fullback Earl Ferrell, who tested positive for cocaine use three times this season and could not be located after missing a mandatory team meeting and physical Monday, contacted the NFL team Tuesday and said he was all right.

"We have made contact with Earl. He has been located and he's OK," said team spokesman Terry Bledsoe. "We have talked to him, so we all can relax now. He's all right."

Bledsoe said team officials now know where Ferrell is, but will not disclose the location.

Strock takes things in stride

By Chuck Melvin
The Associated Press

BEEBE, Ohio — Don Strock's contribution to the Cleveland Browns' do-or-die second-half comeback against the Houston Oilers had as much to do with his attitude as his arm.

"I know a touchdown's not worth 20 points," the 15-year NFL veteran said of Sunday's dramatic victory that propelled the Browns into the AFC wild card game against some other Oilers.

"You have to take them one at a time. We got one and just started working on the next one."

That workmanlike approach to the Browns' precarious situation was exactly what the team's management had hoped for when Strock was signed following injuries to two quarterbacks in September. The former Miami Dolphin has spent his entire career as a backup quarterback, so he's used to being thrust into game without much warning.

"There's nothing he hasn't seen before," Coach Marty Scottenheimer said. "Regardless of whether he threw the ball or not, or he came back and said, 'Let's get it done.'"

Strock's filling in for injured Bernie Kosar, had an awful start in Sunday's 28-23 victory, throwing interceptions on the Browns' first three series.

But he was marvelous in the second half, passing for more than 200 yards and leading Cleveland to three straight touchdowns that overcame a 23-7 deficit. If the Browns had lost, they'd have missed the playoffs for the first time in four years.

"My feeling was that the game was going to be on emotion. But in Don Strock's case, it's the lack of emotion that helps him," Scottenheimer said. "He just goes about his business."

Strock also still has the accuracy and strength to play well. The

Kingdom looking for recognition

By Bert Rosenthal
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Roger Kingdom, who had perhaps the greatest season ever by a high hurdler in 1988, was virtually overlooked because of Florence Griffith Joyner's success.

Even if he set the world record and got a gold medal (in the Olympics), how could it compare to three golds and two world records in Kingston's 100-meter and 200-meter dashes and the 400-meter relay, a silver in the 1,600-meter relay. She broke the world record in the 100 and 200 meters.

Nevertheless, his performances paled in comparison to Griffith Joyner, winner of Olympic golds in the 100-meter and 200-meter dashes and the 400-meter relay, a silver in the 1,600-meter relay. She broke the world record in the 100 and 200 meters.

Griffith Joyner not only broke the sprint records, "she splattered them," Kingdom said, noting that she reduced the 100 mark from 10.76 seconds to 10.49 and the 200 from 21.71 to 21.34.

During the year, Kingdom was unbeaten on the track. Off the track, he was beaten by Griffith Joyner.

Early in the season, after Griffith Joyner ran a sparkling 10.89 for the 100 and Kingdom was timed in 13.17 for the 100 hurdles, he bet her that he would break a world record first.

"I lost," he said with a smile. "No matter how well I ran, Florence ran faster."

He has no regrets about Griffith Joyner overshadowing him on and off the track.

"If I wanted to grab all the attention, I came up in a bad time," Kingdom said. "I don't think what I did deserved to get more attention than what she did."

Glastonbury tops Bolton in girls' basketball play

BOLTON — It was David vs. Goliath, and in this case the big guy came out the winner.

Bolton High, a Class S school, took on Double L Glastonbury High in girls' basketball action Tuesday night. The Bulldogs stayed in the hunt for a half, but the visiting Tomawks broke it open in the second half for an 56-33 verdict in non-conference play.

It was the initial victory for Glastonbury after three losses while the setback drops Bolton to 2-3. The Bulldogs resume Charter Oak Conference play Thursday night at 7 when they host East Hampton.

Glastonbury turned a 26-19 half-time bulge into a 42-24 margin after three periods. "They came out pressing in the third quarter and got a lot of quick baskets," Bolton Coach Jim Kohut explained. "They pressed us in the first half (too) but we didn't handle it as well in the second half."

Suspension ends suspense as Hoyas destroy Hokies

Even Georgetown coach John Thompson was disappointed Bimbo Coles didn't play against the Hoyas.

A much-anticipated matchup of U.S. Olympic team guards — Coles and Charles Smith — never materialized Tuesday night as No. 6 Georgetown routed Virginia Tech 87-70.

Coles, who leads the Hokies with 32 points, was suspended by Coach Frankie Allen after missing curfew Monday night. Smith will resume practicing Dec. 26, but could only sit on the bench and watch Georgetown roll.

Smith and Jarren Jackson scored 19 points apiece for the Hoyas. 7-0.

"The adrenaline was flowing differently without Bimbo in the game," said Thompson, who coached the Olympians at Seoul. "It's not the same Virginia Tech team without Bimbo in there as it was a letdown for us, psychologically."

But after the game, Thompson whispered to Coles: "Thanks for the early Christmas present."

Allen admitted the Hokies were disappointed they were over-matched. "It's hard to say what might have happened if Bimbo were in there."

Jackson scored eight points, including a pair of 3-pointers, as the Hoyas scored 13 straight points for a 63-38 lead.

Freshman Alonzo Mourning scored 10 points and blocked six shots. Georgetown tied a team record with 15 blocks, three short of the NCAA record.
