Christians fleeing barrages in Beirut

By Mohammed Salam

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Syrian gunners fired rocket barrages at the coast north of Beirut on Friday, trying to stop boats from rescuing Christians fleeing their shell-shattered enclave.

One Cypriot-flagged ferry defied the bombardment, picked up hundreds of war-weary refugees and departed for the open sea.

Police said the Syrians withheld fire when the ferry Baroness M dropped anchor off Jounieh Port, 12 miles north of Beirut, and did not enter the harbor.

A police spokesman said four large speedboats shuttled about 1,200 Lebanese to the vessel and it began its nine-hour voyage back to Larnaca, Cyprus, around 4:30 p.m., an hour after arrival. He said at least 4,000 refugees remained in Jounieh waiting for the next boat.

The Baroness M is one of two ferries operated from Cyprus that have ferried more than 12,000 refugees from the beleaguered 310-square-mile Christian enclave in the past six weeks.

The other ferry, the Larnaca Rose, suspended the service two days ago after it escaped a Syrian barrage while anchored off Jounieh.

It was not known why the Syrians and their Druse militia allies allowed the evacuation to go smoothly despite the day-long bombardment along the coast between Jounieh and Christian east Beirut.

Outgoing rockets shook Western west Beirut as the Syrians fired from truck-mounted BM-21 launchers that spit out 40 122mm projectiles in 20 seconds. The rockets damaged roads, buildings and shops but no casualties were reported.

Christian army units under Gen. Michel Aoun did not return fire, said the police spokesman, who spoke anonymously according to regulations.

An unofficial cease-fire Wednesday had halted rocket and artillery duels that had raged for 42 days between Aoun's 20,000-member army and his Syrian and Druse foes. There was no explanation for the sudden halt in the bloodshed, which has killed 270 people and wounded 975 since March 8.

The Syrians' new bombardment along the coast Friday sent Beirutis dashing back to underground shelters.

Kuwait's Al-Qabas newspaper said several Arab states were seeking to convince Syria to accept the deployment of an Arab peacekeeping force before the Arab League foreign ministers meet in an emergency session on Lebanon next week.

It said the force could number "several hundred

$1.6 million budget for Eighth means tax rate may be lower

By Andrew Yurkovsky
 Manchester Herald

Residents of the Eighth Utilities District may be saved from a tax increase thanks to lower-than-expected interest costs on capital projects, district President Thomas E. Landers said Friday.

The budget now totals $1,602,257, or $11,000 to $70,000 less than two previous estimates, Landers said. He said that based on the assumption that the value of a mill would remain the same, the tax rate could be even lower than this year's 6.5 mills. He said that the actual tax rate would not be calculated until district Treasurer Helen Warrington works out revenue projections this weekend.

Landers has said that the 1989-90 budget would have to be trimmed to below $1.5 million to avoid a tax increase. In calculating the total for the budget, he eliminated $175,000 for the cost of a mini-pumper for the district fire department because that item will be paid for through the sale of the district's Keeney Street property. Minus the mini-pumper, the budget for 1989-90 is $44,219 less than this year's adopted budget of $1,524,786.

Previous estimates for the 1989-90 budget had been $1,731,853 or $1,872,993, depending on whether borrowing costs on capital projects were paid for over a year or for eight months.

Because of the lower borrowing costs, the administrative part of the budget will be $384,454, rather than the $454,050 and the $393,150 previously estimated. The $454,050 estimate was based on borrowing for 12 months, while the one for $393,150 was based on borrowing for eight months.

Landers said he learned Friday from a Connecticut Bank and Trust Co. official that the interest would be over an eight-month period, from July 3 to Feb. 16, 1990. He said the interest costs are $54,320 on the $800,000 borrowed for purchase of the Willis Garage, $22,755 on the $500,000 to be borrowed for renovations to the garage, $67,265 on the $1.5 million to be borrowed for sewers on North Main Street and $17,964 for interest on the $400,000 to be borrowed for sewers on Irving Street.

Judge slashes over $16 million from award to Hudson's lover

By Linda Deutsch
 The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — The judge in a landmark AIDS lawsuit drastically reduced a $1.75 million award to Rock Hudson's lover Friday, ruling that Marc Christian should receive only $5.5 million.

Superior Judge Bruce Geernaert, while calling Hudson's behavior "outrageous and reprehensible" for not telling his lover of his AIDS diagnosis, said the jury's "passion" had led it to make the excessive award.

In his written ruling, Geernaert said that both the compensatory and punitive damages were excessive and he felt that the amounts he set were sufficient to compensate Christian.

Christian's lawyer, Harold Rhoden, said his client "was as disappointed as I am." But Christian later said he was delighted even at the prospect of getting less than a third of what the jury decided he should receive.

"Reached by telephone, Christian said he still felt he won because the judge had removed any reason for appeal on grounds of excessive damages.

"It's still a big award," he said, noting he never expected realistically to collect the larger figure.

Robert Parker Mills, the attorney for the Hudson estate, said he believes his clients probably will appeal.

The judge said he had given the matter much thought since an earlier hearing when he suggested a figure of $3 million in punitive damages.

"Upon further reflection, in light of the entire record, a punitive damage award of $500,000 seems to fairly accommodate... the pertinent factors," Geernaert said. He set compensatory damages at $5 million.

Geernaert specified that these reductions would go into effect only if Christian accepts them. If he does not consent, Geernaert said he would order a new trial on damages.

The court finds that the jury's award of $14.5 million (in compensatory damages) is so high that it must be concluded that the award is based in part on passion resulting from the jury's evaluation of the outrageous and reprehensible nature of the conduct of Rock Hudson and defendant (Hudson secretary Mark) Miller," the judge said.

He added that substantial evidence supported Christian's claim of enhanced fear of contracting AIDS after he learned that Hudson had the disease.

"On the other hand, however serious plaintiff's distress might be when he first learned of Hudson's AIDS, such emotional distress would become somewhat less over time," the judge said.

officers and troops from six or seven Arab states," but did not name the countries.

Wafa Tabbara, a Moslem housewife, led her three children to the shelter in night clothes. She vowed to leave Beirut.

"I'm going to stay with friends in south Lebanon. There are no hotels in the south to accommodate us any more. I have no option but to accept the embarrassment of staying with friends," she said.

"I won't stay here and wait for a shell to come and kill me with my children," she added.

Cars loaded with bags, mattresses and blankets were seen heading out of the Moslem sector Friday.

Others resigned themselves to staying.

"We have no option but to fortify the entrance to our building with sandbags against shelling. They'll shell again and we'll use the entrance as a shelter," said Talal Qabbani, 60, a bank employee and Sunni Moslem.

"I am prepared to live in an underground shelter for the rest of my life, but I won't leave my shop or dealer, said. His family has fled to Syria.

The police spokesman said the department has received many complaints recently about robberies of bomb-damaged apartments, shops and warehouses.

About 1,500 Christians demonstrated outside the U.S. Embassy in support of Aoun's war against Syria, which maintains 40,000 troops in Lebanon 14-year-old civil war.

The demonstrators burned a Syrian flag, chanted slogans denouncing Syrian President Hafez Assad and urged President Bush to take action.

Bush OKs mix of missiles

By Donno Cassato
 The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Bush, making a key decision on modernizing America's nuclear arsenal, is expected to authorize the Pentagon to buy a mix of blockbuster MX missiles and single-warhead Midgetman missiles, a White House source said Friday night.

The decision represents a setback for Defense Secretary Dick Cheney, who reportedly favored deploying only one missile, the 16-warhead MX.

Congressional Democrats had warned Bush that abandonment of the Midgetman would undermine hopes for bipartisanship on national security issues and undermine hopes for a potential new treaty with the Soviets to curb strategic weapons.

Cheney had urged Bush to remove the nation's 50 MX missiles from their concrete silos and put them on railroad cars to be shuttled around the country — an option known as the rail garrison MX. He reportedly wanted to cut off funding for the truck-mobile Midgetman.

The White House source, who declined to be identified, said Bush's decision was "expected to be some kind of mix of rail garrison MX and Midgetman, but the final mix is to be determined."

Moving toward his decision, Bush held two rounds of meetings Friday with Cheney, Secretary of State James A. Baker III, national security adviser Brent Scowcroft, his deputy, Robert Gates, and White House chief of staff John Sununu.

White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater, asked about the matter, said Sununu and Scowcroft "advise me the final decision has not been made." However, the spokesman said it was expected to be announced soon.

Meanwhile, congressional and Pentagon sources said Cheney, trying to trim $10 billion from his budget, plans to scale back spending on the B-2 stealth bomber and Star Wars.

Cheney also intends to cut the Osprey, the Marines' new troop transport plane; order the Navy to retire one of its old aircraft carriers and move two dozen frigates to reserve status; and reduce the Army by cutting the number of headquarters' troops, the source said.

Cheney is expected to unveil his budget Tuesday and propose spending of $294 billion, reflecting a $10 billion that was part of a budget blueprint agreed to last week by Bush and congressional leaders.

The defense secretary reportedly favors removing the nation's 50 MX intercontinental ballistic missile from silos and placing them on rail cars while cutting off funding for the truck-mobile, single-warhead Midgetman missile preferred by many congressional Democrats.

But the choice was a hard one, and Bush is expected to weigh a decision on the missiles this weekend.

Virginia cities honor victims of Iowa blast

NORFOLK, Va. — The rifles fired 21 times, the Navy bugler played taps and a wreath of 47 yellow carnations was cast into the Elizabeth River on Friday to remember the 47 men of the USS Iowa who died at sea.

"There was a time 45 years or more ago, when this community recoiled from news of death at sea nearly every day," Ballies told the crowd of civilians and military. "The sailors of the United States Navy gave their lives to prevail in war."

"But these are peaceful times and we're not used to such tragedy. We do not expect it... and it leaves us even more deeply saddened. On the USS Iowa, 47 young men died too soon. That is the fact we face.... We accept it, but we will not forget it."

"We will remember, and honor and grieve as a nation," he said.

Mayors or delegates from each of the cities, the Navy and the Chamber of Commerce presented wreaths to honor the dead.

The crowd stood in silence as a Navy-Marine Corps color guard led Ballies and Norfolk Mayor Joseph Lease carrying the wreath of yellow carnations from the state onto the pier. As they cast the wreath onto the water, a police honor guard of seven riflemen fired three volleys from a knoll just north of the gathering.

When the last echo of the final volley died, a single Navy bugler in dress whites stepped from the crowd lining a portico above the gathering.

Over the strains of taps, sobe could be heard from those in the crowd.

"These are my shipmates in disaster and distress," said Jim Smith of Norfolk, who attended the service. A vice president of Branch 5 of the Fleet Reserve Association, the 63-year-old Smith was one of many veterans in the crowd.

"I served aboard the battleship North Carolina in 1946. I know about those big guns. At times like this, everyone seems to pull together, we become one family," he said.

Joan Taplett was there with her 3-year-old son, Paul, who sat in the sunshine eating ice cream. Mrs. Taplett said it was important for her and for her son to be there. Her husband is commanding officer of the frigate USS Glover.

"There really is a sense of family in the Navy. My son won't remember this, but I will always, and I can tell him about these men who gave their lives for the defense of country — so they won't be forgotten," she said.

"I'm from South Dakota. When I heard that one of the men killed was from there, I had to come. It's a small state. He came from a small town," she said.

David L. Hanson, a 23-year-old electrician's mate 3rd class from Bison, S.D., was among those killed. Bison has a population of 457.

"I guess I'm here for his parents. Something like this touches all of us... it reaches into little towns all over the country," she said.

Paul asked his mother why her hand — holding his cup of ice cream — was shaking. "It's just from the cold, honey," she said.

With the end of the ceremony, the Navy began its planning of a service for the Iowa's crew and families at the Norfolk Naval Station.

Committee to vote today on state budget

HARTFORD (AP) — The General Assembly's budget-writing Appropriations Committee planned a rare Saturday session today to vote on a budget for 1989-90 of some $6.9 billion.

The Democratic leadership wants to have the budget on its way to the House floor before the Finance Committee votes Monday on a package of taxes to pay for the budget.

The Appropriations Committee co-chairmen, Sen. Joseph H. Harper Jr., D-New Britain, and Rep. William R. Dyson, D-New Haven, want to trim the governor's proposed $6.9 billion budget by about $120 million.

But they've been having trouble because various legislative committees and the administration keep asking that money be added back to the budget.

For example, the administration asked this week that $20 million be added to pay for additional prison bed space. And the Education Committee wants to add $37 million for school grants while the Human Services Committee wants to put back $38 million for payments to nursing homes.

This week, Democratic legislative leaders said the $120 million in reductions would likely affect state aid to cities and towns, contributions to state workers pensions and health benefits for retirees.

On Friday, House Minority Leader Robert G. Jaekle, R-Stratford, delivered 2,500 postcards to Democratic Gov. William A. O'Neill's office that support Jaekle's call for a freeze in state spending at current levels.

A potential GOP gubernatorial candidate next year, Jaekle said the issue wasn't a partisan one because new taxes will affect all voters.

As of late Friday afternoon, however, the nest had not been moved from a tree near the mall and one of its red-tailed owners was flying above it. The tree was scheduled to be moved to make way for the Pavilions at Buckland Hills, the mall being developed by the Homart Development Co. of Chicago.

George E. Murphy, town tree warden said Friday he had been told the nest would be moved that day by the state Department of Environmental Protection. Murphy said he received that news in a phone conversation Thursday with Dennis DeCarli, deputy commissioner of the DEP.

"It was my understanding they felt it was feasible to do that," Murphy said.

George Brys, assistant director of the wildlife bureau at the DEP, said Friday he had heard that the nest was to be moved, but he had no further information about it.

DeCarli was at a conference Friday and could not

ANIMAL RIGHTS PROTEST — One of an estimated 300 demonstrators claps her hands during a protest Friday in front of the headquarters of United States Surgical Corp., Norwalk. The peaceful protest was the second one this year at the company. Demonstrators were protesting the use of dogs by the company to test products. The company denied again Friday that it mistreats animals.

Society seeking funds again

WATERBURY (AP) — The Connecticut Humane Society, two months after the state attorney general expressed shock at its fund-raising practices, is again seeking public donations, claiming it will go out of business without increased support.

In solicitation letters mailed this week, the society said it "depends entirely on contributions from concerned lovers of animals for its operations and continuance."

Similar wording in previous appeals led the attorney general's office to investigate whether the society is deceiving donors by not telling them it has millions of dollars in an endowment fund.

The latest mailing seemingly breaks an agreement between the society and acting Attorney General Clarine Nardi Riddle. Investigators are aware the letters have gone out.

Society President Robert Cathcart declined comment Thursday, saying the matter is between society lawyers and the attorney general's office.

In recent years, the society has been reporting small deficits annually and asking for money because its budget is strained to the limit.

But documents the society filed with the Internal Revenue Service show it rang up millions of dollars in surpluses and increased its net worth to $16.1 million by the end of 1987.

The newest fund-raising piece, which is signed by Executive Director August R. Helberg, began showing up in mailboxes across the state this week.

Ms. Riddle was in Washington this week and could not be reached for comment. But at a news conference Feb. 22, she said the society agreed to refrain from such fund-raising tactics until her office finishes its inquiry.

Her executive aide, Tom Garrity, said the latest letter has investigators concerned.

"At some point after that news conference, we became aware that this was going out," he said.

Parents, pupils planning to fight for St. Paul's

HARTFORD (AP) — Angry supporters of St. Paul Catholic High School in Bristol are organizing an effort to keep the school open, despite an announcement by the Archdiocese of Hartford that the school would have to close in June because of declining enrollment.

Mary Ellen Scott, who is organizing a group of parents and faculty behind the effort, said Friday they had found "strong financial backing" to help keep the school open.

Scott, who has two daughters enrolled at St. Paul, declined to discuss details, but said she was optimistic the school would not close. She said parents were hoping to meet with Archbishop John Whealon next week to present their plan.

"We have some viable solutions to present," said Scott of Wallingford. "He (Whealon) is the leader of our flock and we are flocking to his door."

Diocesan officials declined to comment on the effort to keep the school open.

In a press statement issued Wednesday, Whealon blamed the school's closing on a loss of revenue from declining enrollment. St. Paul's student population has dropped from a high of 1,000 to 588 this year.

The archdiocese has already rejected a plan from parents to rent the school building using a $1.5 million fund reserved for educational programs at the school.

That money is intended to cover the costs of transferring St. Paul students to other Catholic high schools in the archdiocese, said Sister Maureen Reardon, assistant superintendent of schools for the archdiocese.

Scott said the group's short-term goal was to get a lease on the building for next year, giving parents more time to secure the school's long-term future.

Meanwhile, Bristol's superintendent of schools has said he will contact the archbishop for information on what the archdiocese plans to do with St. Paul.

The archdiocese has not yet announced its plans. The Bristol public school system is short of space and city officials have said they may seek to buy the school.

Wednesday, in an emotional meeting with 175 parents, students and faculty at the school, principal Gregory J. O'Connor expressed his regret about Whealon's decision.

"The reaction to this decision has been like a reaction to a death in our family," he said.

The futures of the school's 42 teachers are also at stake, and some worry they might have a difficult time finding new jobs inside the Catholic school system if St. Paul closes.

Hawks' nest near mall may be relocated

By Maureen Leavitt
Manchester Herald

A hawk's nest in the path of a planned road to the mall in Buckland was scheduled to be moved Friday despite protests from those who didn't want to disturb the birds.

As of late Friday afternoon, however, the nest had not been moved from a tree near the mall and one of its red-tailed owners was flying above it. The tree was scheduled to be moved to make way for the Pavilions at Buckland Hills, the mall being developed by the Homart Development Co. of Chicago.

George E. Murphy, town tree warden said Friday he had been told the nest would be moved that day by the state Department of Environmental Protection. Murphy said he received that news in a phone conversation Thursday with Dennis DeCarli, deputy commissioner of the DEP.

"It was my understanding they felt it was feasible to do that," Murphy said.

George Brys, assistant director of the wildlife bureau at the DEP, said Friday he had heard that the nest was to be moved, but he had no further information about it.

DeCarli was at a conference Friday and could not be reached for comment, said a secretary in his office.

Rita M. Duclos, a biologist with the DEP, said last week that state law prohibits anyone from moving the nest and from any activity within 300 feet of the nest until the hawk's young are ready to fly.

When contacted Friday, Duclos said she was not handling the case any longer, and that either DeCarli or Paul Herig, director of the agency's wildlife bureau, would have to be contacted for information.

Herig also could not be reached for comment Friday.

At a public hearing on plans for the tree Wednesday, Thomas W. DeMille, a lawyer representing Homart Development Co., asked that the hearing be postponed so that he could review Duclos' ruling.

About a dozen people from Manchester and South Windsor attended the hearing in support of keeping the hawks in the tree until their young hatched and were able to fly.

Murphy tabled the hearing until Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in Lincoln Center.

Manchester residents Ed and Richard Dezzo discovered the hawk's nest after hearing that trees off Hale Road were slated to be cut down to make way for the road.

Ed Dezzo filed a formal letter of protest, prompting Murphy to hold a public hearing on the tree.

Biologists and bird experts have been debating whether eggs in the nest would still be fertile because the pair of red-tailed hawks has been scared off the nest by frequent visitors to the site.

Secrecy OK on rent accords

By Maureen Leavitt Manchester Herald

The Fair Rent Commission is not required to keep copies of all of agreements made privately between tenants, according to David C. Wichman, assistant town attorney.

Under Wichman's ruling, written agreements witnessed by a commission member also would not have to be filed.

In a letter dated March 21 to town Health Director Ronald Kraatz, Wichman also ruled that commission members can share information about the settlement in order to help one another settle future cases.

The commission decided to request the opinion of the town attorney after a meeting of the commission in February. At that meeting, Joseph V. Camposeo, commission chairman, said state statute does not make it clear if the settlements should be on file.

When the commission receives a formal complaint from a tenant, two commissioners are assigned to the case to try and help the two parties settle the disputes informally, a procedure known as conciliation.

Camposeo said the statute only says that the commission should try to help the parties settle the dispute.

states that an agreement between two parties needs to be in writing, signed by the parties and witnessed by the conciliators.

Wichman said in the letter that when there is a written agreement witnessed by the conciliator or a private agreement between a landlord and tenant, the case can be closed by a simple note in the file or on a docket sheet. A docket sheet is a listing of the activity of the case.

If there is an agreement, the conciliator should note in the file that a settlement was reached and that the file is closed, the letter said.

He said in the letter, "there is no need to keep a copy of the agreement in the file."

In addition, if the petitioning tenants notify the commission that the case is closed, the file should be so noted, the other party notified, and the file should be closed.

Any written withdrawal of the case should be placed in the file, and the file closed.

At the Feb. 16 meeting, Commissioner Frank Napolitano could share information from conciliation efforts with each other to help in settling future cases.

Wichman said in the letter that commissioners can circulate sample conciliation agreements, with names, addresses, and any other specific information blocked out.

And they can circulate copies of actual agreements among themselves.

Camposeo said earlier this week he was generally satisfied with the opinion, but that he hadn't talked with other commissioners for their opinion. A meeting of the commission scheduled for April has been canceled because no complaints were filed.

Packaging bill approved

HARTFORD (AP) — The environmental protection commissioner would have the authority to regulate packaging in Connecticut under a bill approved Friday by the General Assembly's Finance Committee.

The measure is a drastically watered-down version of a bill that would have imposed a 3.5-cent tax on packages that could not be recycled and another 2.5 cents on packages made without recycled materials.

The bill, aimed at reducing the amount of solid waste, was approved on a 23-15 vote and sent to the House.

Under it, the commissioner would be allowed to ban packaging deemed too wasteful. Another provision would require newspapers to phase in the use of more newsprint made from recycled material, beginning in 1993.

Also approved Friday was a bill giving the state authority to override local zoning boards and locate ash landfills in sites the state chooses. The ash will come from garbage incinerators around the state.

The bill, approved 23-17, allows the Connecticut Resource Recovery Authority to identify two sites east of the Connecticut River and two sites west of it. Although the bill does not list the sites, legislators have said they will likely be in North Haven, New Milford, Montville and Windham.

Fire destroys Mustang

A Manchester man escaped injury Friday night when a fire destroyed the car he was driving on Interstate 294 near the Spencer Street exit, a firefighter said.

Leon Squirewell, age not available, of 46 School St., was the driver of the car, a 1978 Ford Mustang, said East Hartford firefighter Santo Alleno.

"It could have been a gas leak," said Alleno when asked about the cause of the fire. "It was serious enough to blow the bumper off 25 feet."

Alleno said that neither Squirewell nor any firefighters were injured. The car was in the eastbound lane.

The East Hartford Fire Department received a report of the fire at 7:30 p.m. and arrived at the scene four minutes later, Alleno said. The fire was put out in about 10 minutes, he said.

The fire occurred in Manchester, but East Hartford firefighters responded because they thought it was in their territory, Alleno said.

May elections spark debate

'People just don't know,' says candidate

By Peter Viles The Associated Press

HARTFORD — Voters in a scattering of Connecticut towns and boroughs — including Andover and Bolton — will go to the polls to elect local officials May 1, a springtime tradition that is under fire from one candidate who says most voters won't even know the polls are open.

In Farmington, one of 22 cities, towns and boroughs that elect local officials in May, Democratic Town Chairman John Karwowski says the spring elections are an outdated custom ignored by growing numbers of new residents.

"Over the past several elections, as Farmington has grown, the voter awareness and voter turnout are steadily decreasing," Karwowski, a candidate for Town Council, said Friday.

"We do a lot of campaigning door to door, and we find that people just don't know about the May elections," Karwowski said. "Even people who have lived here a while don't remember."

"Voter turnout in Farmington town elections has dropped from 47 percent in 1979 to 23 percent in 1987," said Town Clerk Edgar A. King. By contrast, 69 percent of the town's voters turned out on the November election day in 1986.

Citing the dropoff, Karwowski supports legislation that would make all localities hold their elections in November, when residents are more accustomed to voting.

But King, a Republican, contends that the dropoff is a sign that Farmington voters are satisfied with their current leaders. He points out that top Republican town officials often run unopposed.

"If people are going to charge the people of Farmington with being uninformed on when we vote, those people better look to themselves, and examine their own organizations to see what the problems are," King said.

"Just because voter turnout dips once in a while, doesn't mean there's apathy here," he said. "Meanwhile, the issue of forced November elections took partisan turn Friday when state Republican Party Chairman Robert S. Poliner railed against the change as "another attempt by Democrats in state government to interfere with matters of local concern."

"There is absolutely no good reason to force their way of governing," Poliner said at a news conference. "May elections are held in the city of Groton and the towns of Andover, Avon, Barkhamsted, Bethany, Bolton, Burlington, Farmington, Naugatuck, Sherman, Union, and Woodbridge. Also, the boroughs of Bantam, Colchester, Danielson, Fenwick, Jewett City, Litchfield, Newtown, Stafford Springs, Stonington, and Woodmont.

The bill forcing November elections passed the Government Administrations and Elections Committee, and now awaits action in the Senate.

Poliner, told reporters that Karwowski's state senator, Kevin Sullivan, D-West Hartford, has been the bill's key supporter. Sullivan also represents Avon, another suburban town where May elections have caused rumblings among Democrats.

But Sullivan denied that he is pushing the bill. He said he prefers an amended version allowing towns with May elections to keep them only if voters chose to do so in a referendum.

Poliner dismissed referendums on the issue as an "idiotic" idea. State Democratic Chairman John F. Droncy Jr. said Democrats are split on the issue, and the party is not solidly behind the mandated November elections.

"From what I can sense talking to both Republicans and Democrats, it doesn't have much support," Droncy said. State Sen. John Atkin, D-Nerwalk, the election committee's Senate chairman, said he supported the bill because of convincing evidence that May elections have led to lower voter turnout, particularly in suburban towns such as Farmington where there is turnover in population.

"It's critically important for people to know when election day is," Atkin said. "It just made sense to me to make it uniform."

WON'T QUIT — Vermont Supreme Court Justice Louis Peck poses in a courtroom in Montpelier, Vt.

An old Justice demands justice

By Christopher Graft
The Associated Press

MONTPELIER, Vt. — The state constitution says Louis Peck is too old to be on Vermont's highest court. Peck disagrees, and continues to hear and decide cases.

"I don't think I should become senile as a matter of law," said Peck. "I might be as a matter of fact, but certainly not of law."

Peck turned 70 in December. According to Vermont's constitution, he should have retired at the end of 1988. He did not, believing the provision violates a federal act that prohibits age discrimination.

On his side is an opinion from the state attorney general's office saying the federal act supersedes the Vermont mandatory retirement clause. But a recent federal appeals court ruling in Massachusetts raises new questions about Peck's standing.

"We have an attorney general's opinion that concludes Justice Peck is qualified to sit," said Thomas Lehner, the court administrator. "Whether the attorney general's opinion is correct is an open question."

The 1974 provision of the state constitution is clear: "All justices of the Supreme Court and judges of all subordinate courts shall be retired at the end of the calendar year in which they attain 70 years of age."

But in 1986 Congress amended the Age Discrimination in Employment Act of 1967 to prohibit discrimination regardless of age. Previously, the law did not apply to anyone older than 70.

In 1987, Peck and Gov. Madeline Kunin asked the attorney general's office to review the apparent conflict between the state constitution and federal law. In an opinion signed by Attorney General Jeffrey Amestoy, the office decided the federal law must prevail.

"The supremacy clause of the U.S. Constitution makes it clear federal law controls if there is a conflict," said Amestoy.

But rulings by the attorney general's office do not have the force of a court decision; they are only advisory. And a federal court decision in neighboring Massachusetts late last year shows there is room for disagreement.

The U.S. Court of Appeals for the 1st Circuit, which covers Massachusetts, said it could not find any evidence in reviewing the congressional debate on the discrimination statute that Congress meant for the law to usurp the state power to govern the tenure of judges.

'Down with dictatorship' is rallying cry in Beijing

By Kathy Wilhelm
The Associated Press

BEIJING — Tens of thousands of students chanted for democracy and an end to dictatorship today as China's top officials, guarded by the military, entered the Great Hall of the People.

The officials were arriving for Communist Party memorial ceremonies for disgraced former party chief Hu Yaobang, whose death last week touched off massive student demonstrations.

Today's student demonstrators, their numbers bolstered by the arrival of thousands of non-students in the early morning hours, waved colored banners, sang the national anthem, gave the victory sign and raised clenched fists in a tumultuous show of resistance.

They shouted "Down with dictatorship!" again and again throughout the demonstration.

The crowds on Tiananmen Square, which dwindled in the pre-dawn hours, swelled again to as many as 150,000. They filled a street dividing the square from the Great Hall, which was guarded by a triple line of People's Liberation Army soldiers.

The students did not try to break through the line. Many sat in the street in front of the hall, the national seat of government.

The rallies have filled the square since Monday and are much larger than pro-democracy demonstrations in the winter of 1986-87 that led to the ouster of Hu, an outspoken reformist. Hu, 73, died on April 15.

"Long live democracy, long live freedom, down with bureaucracy, down with corruption!" the students chanted as the officials, dressed in somber Mao suits, streamed into the Great Hall.

The students also yelled, "Severely punish strong-armed tactics!" a reference to purported police beatings of some students during a clash in front of the nearby Communist Party headquarters Thursday morning.

He was ousted as Communist Party leader in 1987 following student demonstrations demanding democratic reforms.

At the peak of the latest demonstration groups spilled over onto Chang'an Boulevard, the capital's main thoroughfare. One student said up to 30 universities from Beijing and other cities were represented.

Chinese observers said it was one of the largest demonstrations since the 1949 victory by the Communists over the Nationalists.

The student procession joined tens of thousands of other people — including students, workers and peasants — who had filed into the square throughout the day.

After midnight most of the non-students left and some students, saying they were tired or feared police reprisals, drifted away.

Many students spoke angrily of beatings they said were administered by police during a confrontation Thursday morning outside nearby Communist Party headquarters. Reports conflicted on whether any students involved in that incident were in custody.

Students said that after Thursday they saw the need to organize, and that representatives from Normal University formed a union among student leaders from dozens of Beijing universities.

THEY SURVIVED — Debbie Routledge, left, and Lisa Riding, both 19, are shown as they are crushed up against fencing during the incident at Hillsborough Stadium, Sheffield, England, last Saturday when 95 people were killed trying to get in to see a soccer game. The women survived the ordeal.

Stadium probe to clear cops, declares chief

SHEFFIELD, England (AP) — The South Yorkshire police chief on Friday accepted responsibility for the crowd-control methods used by officers in the soccer stadium disaster that killed 95 people.

But Chief Constable Peter Wright also predicted a government inquiry into the April 15 tragedy will clear the police.

"I welcome the inquiry which is about to take place and will undoubtedly reveal the true nature and cause of this terrible tragedy. I believe that when it is completed, the actions of the South Yorkshire police will be seen in a very different light," Wright told a meeting of the local police authority in Sheffield.

Police have been criticized for opening a locked gate during the match at Hillsborough Stadium, which allowed as many as 3,000 late-arriving fans to surge into a crowded standing-room-only area of the stadium.

Many fans were crushed to death against barriers and perimeter fencing just minutes into the English Football Association semifinal match between Liverpool and Nottingham Forest.

"Those officers were appointed by me to make those decisions and it follows that I accept full responsibility for the police action connected with the event," Wright said.

Wright said 1,111 officers were on duty, 257 inside the grounds and 854 outside. He said the number of officers outside the opened gate was the same as for previous semifinals at the stadium.

The Home Office said Friday that 43 people were arrested at the stadium the day of the disaster, more than half for drunkenness, and 19 policemen were injured.

Sir Peter Taylor, an appeals court justice leading the inquiry into Britain's worst sports disaster, went to Liverpool to pay his respects at Anfield stadium, home ground of the team whose fans were killed. He said his inquiry will open April 23.

"This scene is a most poignant and moving one, which makes one realize how deeply this community has been afflicted and how deeply it feels its loss," Taylor said. "We are all conscious of that, and we are all conscious of the need to ensure that it must never happen again."

Arabs blocked from prayer

Armed Jewish settlers on the march

By Eileen Alf Powell
The Associated Press

JERUSALEM — The army and police blocked hundreds of Arabs from attending Friday prayer services in Jerusalem, and armed Jewish settlers marched in the occupied West Bank to demonstrate Israeli control over the occupied territories.

Nineteen Palestinians, including a 3-year-old boy, were reported wounded in stone-throwing clashes with soldiers in the occupied territories.

A 20-year-old boy and a 14-year-old girl, both shot in the chest in the Jabalya refugee camp was reported in critical condition, hospital officials said.

The army continued to wound. The army said a 17-year-old Palestinian was killed Thursday night when he was hit by plastic bullets during a clash with troops in the Gaza Strip.

His death raised to at least 440 the number of Palestinians killed in the 16-month uprising against Israeli occupation of the West Bank and Gaza Strip. Eighteen Israelis have died.

Soldiers and police manned checkpoints on main roads leading into Jerusalem from Ramallah, Bethlehem and Jericho.

Hailstorm toll is 87 in China

BEIJING (AP) — The death toll from a hailstorm that ripped through southwest China's Sichuan province has reached 87, the official Xinhua News Agency said Friday.

About 4,200 people in 10 cities were injured in Thursday's storm, which caused an estimated $40 million in damage in the hardest-hit city of Luzhou.

The report quoted Sichuan officials as saying 95,000 homes were damaged in Luzhou, and 40 percent of the windows and doors in high buildings were damaged.

More than 60,000 houses in Guilin County and 4,300 in Zigong City were destroyed, the officials said.

The storm struck shortly after midnight and continued until 4 p.m. Thursday, pelting the area with hailstones measuring 1 inch in diameter and winds up to 63 mph.

blocking hundreds of Arabs from entering the city for weekly Muslim prayers.

Some elderly Palestinians were allowed to proceed, Arab witnesses said.

Police checked identity cards at entrances leading to the main mosques in Jerusalem's Old City, and dozens of residents of the occupied territories were turned away.

Security has been tightened around the main mosque compound — known to Arabs as Haram Al Sharif, or "Noble Enclosure" — since a rock-throwing protest broke out there after Muslim prayers April 7 and spilled over to the adjacent Western Wall.

The Western Wall, or Wailing Wall, is Judaism's holiest site. Haram Al Sharif, which houses the Dome of the Rock and Al Aqsa mosque, is one of Islam's holiest sites.

No disturbances were reported Friday, and Jerusalem Police Commissioner Yosef Yehudai attributed this to increased police security and an effort by Muslim elders to control the crowd.

"It is in their interest to control the situation," Yehudai said.

About 900 extra policemen and paramilitary police were posted around the Muslim shrines, including sharpshooters on rooftop posts. Israeli media reports estimated 5,000 Muslims attended prayers, compared to 25,000 when the rioting broke out April 7.

Since capturing the Old City from Jordan in the 1967 Middle East war, Israel has taken pride in guaranteeing free access to all religious sites. But senior military officials said it has become necessary to limit access to the mosque compound to avert violence.

Iran official says pro-Western spy rings have been smashed

By Ed Blanche The Associated Press

NICOSIA, Cyprus — Iran's parliament speaker said Friday the government has uncovered pro-U.S. spy rings that included agents in "sensitive places" and senior naval officers who betrayed Iranian warship movements.

Thousands of Shiite Moslem worshippers chanted "American spies must be executed" after they listened to Hashemi Rafsanjani's allegations during a sermon at Tehran University.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency, reporting on the speaker's statements, said Rafsanjani alleged the rings were involved in plots to overthrow Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's fundamentalist government and had been operating as far back as the 1979 Islamic revolution.

White House press secretary Martin Fitzwater said he had no information on the allegations. "My information is we don't really know what they're talking about. They make similar claims every once in a while about American spies when they need a little attention."

But there is little doubt U.S. intelligence agencies have operatives in Iran, given the Islamic Republic's deep hostility for "the Great Satan."

Rafsanjani's statements appeared designed to stir up anti-Western sentiment to deflect attention from political problems at home.

The parliament speaker himself apparently has fallen from favor since persuading Khomeini to accept an August cease-fire in the Iran-Iraq war after a number of Iranian military defeats.

He said the agents included "big American spies" who were being interrogated, and he said the arrests had exposed the entire Central Intelligence Agency in the Middle East.

Some spies were navy personnel who transmitted intelligence on Iranian naval deployments to the U.S. Navy "when they were fighting us in the Persian Gulf," Rafsanjani said.

cluding radio transmitters, code books and even invisible ink used to send messages to the CIA," he claimed. Rafsanjani did not say how many people had been arrested because "the Americans should not know how many of them have been trapped. There are too many." He also did not identify any of the accused naval officers. There have been reports three senior naval commanders were executed in early April for plotting to overthrow the government. They were identified as Adm. Kiannoush Hakimi, commander of naval communications and joint operations with the air force; Adm. Ghabreman Malekzadeh, naval representative at the chief of staff's office; and Adm. Farhad Rishi, commander of the airborne units.

North's jury to meet today

By Harry F. Rosenthal The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Oliver North's jury debated his guilt or innocence in a tightly guarded room Friday, as an alternate juror who heard all the testimony said she would have voted to convict him on some of the 12 charges.

The jurors deliberated for about six hours before quitting for the day. They will resume Saturday morning. "Mr. North... wasn't made to do what he did," said Horasia McKie, one of five alternates dismissed when the case went to the jury.

Ms. McKie said she had not discussed the case with other jurors. Following the strict instructions given daily by U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell — and did not know how they feel. If that held true for the entire jury, the nine women and three men judging North discussed the former National Security Council aide for the first time starting at 9:40 a.m.

They could not help but notice on their arrival — and on their departure — that the courthouse, between the Capitol and the White House, had become a news media center. Huge television trucks were parked on the street, wires snaked around the building and cameras were aimed at every entrance.

The jurors quickly had requests, relayed to the judge on notes. They asked for copies of Gesell's instructions, which took more than two hours to read in court; for note pads, paper clips and pencils. Jury members will deliberate a half day on Saturday, but not on Sunday. Their lunches in the courthouse are being catered. After a night sequestered in a downtown hotel, the jurors were brought to the federal courthouse in a van and taken to an 18-by-12 room only a few feet away from the courtroom where they had listened to testimony for eight weeks. Their room was further crowded with hundreds of exhibits, some still classified as top secret. A U.S. marshal guarded the door.

everything, but I think he knew enough to know what was going on. I mean, you see (National Security Adviser Robert) McFarlane every week, he's only 100 yards from you or feet from you." "No one said, 'If you don't do this we're going to fire you,'" the alternate juror said. In his instructions, Gesell had told the jury to remember that no one, including the president, had the right to order an unlawful act. "I believe Mr. Reagan knew what was going on," Ms. McKie said. "I can't say he knew

Environmental crackpots

By William A. Rusher

Most reasonable people are, I think, glad that environmentalism has become a public issue in most of the world's major industrial nations. In retrospect, the problem of disposing of wastes of all sorts was bound to become serious sooner or later, and the growing impact of a fast-expanding human population on the globe's eco-system must also be recognized and provided for.

MACC News

In April as a MACC benefit. Generous donations have also been received from Joseph and Kathleen Price and St. Bartholomew Bridge Club.

Thank you to all the individuals and groups that have helped keep our Emergency Pantry shelves filled. Several unusual collections have been taken. St. James carried out (or carried in) a truly successful outpouring of non-perishable foods. Temple Beth Shalom has carried out collections six times already this year.

St. Maurice in Bolton has been collecting monthly donations also. Generous contributions have been received from: Bolton Congregational, Cub Scout Pack 1044, American Field Service, Doucette, Illing Junior High, Personal F. Churches, Greater Congregational, Elizabeth Dzidus, Surevest Ltd., Bolton Methodist, Trinity Covenant, Elaine and Bill Trench, St. Mary's Youth Group and Church, South United Methodist, C.A. Woodbury, Community Baptist Church, Gil and Carolyn Russo, Emanuel Lutheran (first grade Sunday School Class), Church of the Nazarene, Mr. and Mrs. Bills, Manchester Junior Womens Club. A $500 donation to the pantry has been received from the employees at Manchester Telephone Company through their Community Service Fund. Many thanks to them all.

Most generous support for Samaritan Shelter has been received from the Presbyterian Church of Manchester, the Christian Involvement Committee of St. James Church. Other donations have been received from Temple Beth Shalom and Betty Turner in memory of Robert Ahearn.

Shepherd's Place has received both a $1,000 and a $100 gift from anonymous donors. Wonderful surprise. Also generous support from St. James Christian Involvement Committee, South United Methodist and John and Jacqueline Groot in honor of Ed and Alice Noyes. In-kind donors to the Samaritan Shelter include Catherine and Mary Byron, Eileen Dob, Gail Dunlop, Peg Swickard and Edythe Levinson.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS Eugene Brewer

The economist John Kenneth Galbraith is credited with the following: "Faced with having to change our views or prove that there is no need to do so, most of us get busy on the proof." Somewhere between the extremes of an insecurity that resists one's watch by every time-piece he sees, and an unreasonable resistance to change lies the happy medium of a mind open to credible evidence in either direction. It is neither glib nor incredulous. When my position is questioned how do I react? I may nervously yield the point out of fear of being closed-minded or a timidly about confrontation. Or I may immediately marshal my arguments, becoming tense and defensive in the process. But a third alternative is to evenhandedly examine both sets of evidence. Then I am in a position to make a rational decision between the two. Read 10th An.

NEW YORK (AP) — Representatives of North Korean Christians, once thought to have been eliminated by the communist regime or driven deep underground, are making their first visit to the United States in more than 50 years.

The four-member delegation, invited by the National Council of Churches, takes part in a conference in Washington April 23 to 26 on unifying Korea, and will visit denominational headquarters in Louisville, Ky.; Elgin, Ill.; Chicago and Indianapolis.

The Rev. Dwain Epps, NCC international affairs officer, says, "Only in very recent times have foreign church representatives had opportunities to visit North Korea and to discover that worshipping communities continue to exist there."

This star now 'one of the boys'

S. Windsor man stars in TV show

By Nancy Paopao
Manchester Herald

Billy Morrisette

Billy Morrisette bought his first television set two weeks ago.

That way he could catch his performance in the new television series, "One of the Boys," when it premiered on the NBC television network last Saturday. It may be seen tonight at 8:30 p.m., right before "Golden Girls."

Morrisette, 26, a 1980 graduate of South Windsor High School, says he plays Steve, the wisecracking middle son of widower Robert Clohesy (formerly of "Hill Street Blues"). In the first few episodes, Clohesy falls in love with his office manager, played by Maria Conchita Alonso, who is a well-known Venezuelan rock star with four hit Spanish albums to her credit.

The show really revolves around her. It's really like "I Love Lucy," but turned around," said Morrisette last week from his home in Venice Beach, Calif. "Maria is like a Spanish Lucille Ball. She is very kooky and very funny."

This is the first long-term television contract for Morrisette, who has spent the past year doing commercials and single episodes of various hit shows (including "Family Ties").

Although he enjoys the work, Morrisette says he basically dislikes most TV programming. "I watch three shows," he said. "The Wonder Years, 'Roseanne' and 'L.A. Law.' For six years, I didn't even live in places that had televisions."

The problem with most shows, he said, is that the writing is very poor.

"It's all done by a committee. It's eight or maybe 10 writers who sit around talking to each other," he said. "Some of them have seen something that worked for another show, with a different cast, so they want to 'borrow' a piece and add it into the show they're working on. It's hard to get strong writing and a really clear plot line out of these guys."

When a working script is finished for an episode, it goes out to the cast members, Morrisette said. "There are usually five working days, about eight hours each, to rehearse and perfect a 30-minute show.

"The rewriting continues throughout all of that," Morrisette said. "Because of the changing of the scripts, you have actually less time to rehearse than we did in the theater."

Morrisette, who said his first love is doing live theatrical performances, arrived in Hollywood quite by accident. Early in 1988, he headed there to visit his girlfriend, who was spending a few months auditioning for a variety of television programs.

"I did a few auditions too, and I landed a role in 'TV 101.' Then I got a part in a pilot, 'A Father's Homecoming,' which was shown last Father's Day," Morrisette said.

"Pretty soon I thought, 'This really is good. I can make pretty good money out here,' and so I moved," he said. "I was working off-Broadway and I still was having to wait on tables just to make a living. When I was in New York, I went through 11 different restaurant jobs. Out here, when you work you get paid a decent living."

Since moving to the West Coast, Morrisette said he has entered restaurants only as a customer, not as an employee. Between television jobs, he filmed a low-budget film, "Catch Me If You Can," about kids who drag-race to raise money so they can keep their high school open.

"It's not a great film, but it's not going to upset anybody either — no violence, no exploitation," said Morrisette of the film, which should be released late in the spring.

After years of struggling, Morrisette said he's having trouble believing that he's actually making more than minimum wage.

"Let's just say that I could buy a small car with the money I make from each week's episode of 'Boys,'" said Morrisette. The cast is contracted to film six episodes, and will find out in mid-June whether the program is being picked up for a full season.

Morrisette said. "If we go into steady season production, we get a raise, too," said Morrisette. "I never really thought this would happen to me."

While a student at Timothy Edwards Middle School and South Windsor High School, Morrisette said he participated in every play anyone produced. He then spent two years as a theater student at Haver College in New York, before deciding to leave acting completely.

"I went back to Connecticut and tried to find a completely different direction for my life,"

While a student at Timothy Edwards Middle School and South Windsor High School, Morrisette said he participated in every play anyone produced. He then spent two years as a theater student at Haver College in New York, before deciding to leave acting completely.

"I went back to Connecticut and tried to find a completely different direction for my life,"

Morrisette said. But while living in South Windsor, he was drawn back onto the stage. He performed in a version of "Romeo and Juliet" put on by the Hartford Stage Youth Theatre and became the director for several shows at his old middle school.

In 1985, he realized that he was "booked," so he went to New York City to see if he could become a successful actor. After numerous other plays, he landed steady work in the controversial "Talk Radio," before heading for the West Coast.

The success he's now enjoying leaves Morrisette a bit breathless, said the young actor.

"I love it! But I can't quite believe it's all real!" he said. "It's just like a regular job, you clock in and put in your eight-hour day. It's a weird feeling. I mean, I'm not famous yet, but I'm making it."

Here's the Answer

QUESTION: Several of the clapboards on one side of my house are split and I intend to repair them. A friend says they do not need to be replaced, merely repaired. Is he correct and is there anything I should know?
ANSWER: It is assumed you know about the necessity of prying out the loose part of the clapboard and then resetting with glue and nails. The important thing is to re-nail the broken part of the clapboard into predrilled holes. If you do not, the old board may split again. The nails should be countersunk and the indentations filled with wood putty.

Keep those alarms working

By Andy Long
The Associated Press
From various sources come these bits of interest to the homeowner:

A recent study shows that about a third of the homes in America are equipped with smoke detectors that do not work. The official publication of the National Fire Protection Association, the Fire Journal, says the number is expected to reach one-half of all the homes by the mid-1990s. More than 60 percent of the failures are due to dead batteries, missing batteries and other power source problems.

The primary causes of other non-operations are incorrect installation and location of the detectors. The director of marketing at Jamson Products, Bob Van Zeyl, says smoke alarm manufacturers have developed new products designed to assist homeowners in testing their smoke alarms. One of these is an alarm that automatically tests its electronics weekly and notifies the user it is working properly. It does this by beeping six times when the unit is in good working order.

FOLLOW INSTRUCTIONS: Speaking of batteries and such, Maxwell Corp. of America says many people fail to follow the smoke alarm manufacturer's instructions on when and how to

New foods being developed

A Food Venture Center has been established to help New York State entrepreneurs develop and promote new food products.

The Center, at the Food Research Laboratory of the New York State Agricultural Experiment Station of Cornell University, Geneva, will offer guidance in the areas of regulatory requirements, storage, packaging, marketing, quality maintenance and other aspects of the food business. It could help make use of surplus crops, such as cherries, apples and other fruits.

The Center stems from a 1987 New York State "Strategic Plan for the Fruit and Vegetable Industry," crafted by more than 100 leading food industrialists. Dr. Donald L. Downing, of the Station's Food Sciences and Technology Department, will manage the facility. The idea, he said, is "to lend as many kinds of aid as available expertise allows. This includes guidance in ingredients, health standards and methods of preserving processed food."

Discussing the need for this kind of service, he said: "Actually, we've been providing related services for some

On The House

WATER LOSS: A pipe with a hole just 1/8th of an inch in diameter can use more than 25,000 gallons of water a week. That's the estimate of Dick Rennie, president of American Leak Detection Co. of Palm Springs, Calif. 92260. Rennie has some other figures showing how much water can be lost in different ways.

ATTIC SPACE: If you are thinking about finishing your attic space, the minimum ceiling height should be 7 feet, 6 inches over at least half the room, with the minimum wall height 5 feet. That's the estimate of the Small Homes Council-Building Research Council of the University of Illinois. It adds that for an attic conversion, a house should be at least 26 feet wide with a fairly steep roof if there are to be no modifications.

WEEDERS GUIDE: In warmer places, such as California, where grapes are dried in the sun with no energy cost. Solar drying is not a viable method in the Northeast.

PROTECT TREES: Flowers planted around trees will help protect them from lawn mower injury. When you water the flowers, water deeply to help keep the trees healthy during dry periods. Be sure to choose shade-loving annuals, such as impatiens, begonias and coleus, for planting around trees.

Americans and beggars

According to a recent survey by Money Magazine, 40 percent of Americans were approached by beggars during the preceding 12 months. Of those approached, two-thirds said they gave at least once during the year, with the average American giving once every four times approached. Elderly and lower income individuals gave most often, and the most popular "donation" was one dollar.

Parks, resorts, cities offer relaxation

Changing Times

The most popular travel destinations in America didn't achieve their lofty position through an opinion poll or a show of hands. Travelers voted with their feet, visiting these parks, resorts and night packages, with use of health-club facilities.

ACADIA NATIONAL PARK: Camping, sailing and nature walks are prime pursuits in this park, which captures the beautiful rocky coast of Maine. Best weather: June through October. Lightest crowds: November through June.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J.: Gambling and shows are virtually the only draws here, but that's your thing, you'll find plenty of action. Best weather: Late spring and fall, summers if you plan to lounge on the beach. Winters are wet and cold.

VERMONT SKI AREAS: There are six top ski resorts in Vermont: Killington, Mount Snow, Okemo, Stowe, Stratton Mountain and Sugarbush. They offer more than 710 miles of downhill runs and cross-country trails. In summer, the recreation turns to golf and tennis, horseback riding, hiking and camping.

WASHINGTON, D.C.: Familiar sights, from the White House and U.S. Capitol to the Washington Monument and Vietnam Memorial.

NEW YORK CITY: Best weather: Late spring and early fall. Lightest crowds: The lines are shortest at the major tour stops, such as the Statue of Liberty and World Trade Center Observation Deck, in spring and winter. And more show tickets and better seats are available then.

WALT DISNEY WORLD: Three theme parks, eight resort hotels, a resort campground, water parks, golf courses and tennis courts and Mickey Mouse and the gang to boot. Also be sure to see the Disney-MGM Studios opening May 1.

Credit cares

According to a recent survey, 54 percent of Americans said that the interest rate was the most important factor when choosing a credit card. Less than a third thought the annual fee was the most important consideration.

ANSWER: You must file a claim for refund within three years from the due date that your tax return was filed. You will have to file a separate Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, for each tax year still eligible for a tax refund. This would include years 1986, 1987 and 1988. Tax refunds for 1985 and prior years are lost forever.

Charge parents for overtime

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago you wrote about how "no-shows" hurt hairdressers. Would you please put in a similar pitch for home day-care providers?

Abby: I agree to work a 16-hour day from 6:45 a.m. until 4:45 p.m. I am paid $1.25 per hour per child, this covers meals, toys, discipline, trips to the park and hugs. Do you blame me for being upset when a parent drops off her child at 6:30 a.m. and doesn't pick him up until 6 or 4:30 p.m. I have tried penalties, but the parents just take their child to some other underpaid fool who will put up with it.

I love my job, but I hate the way some of my clients treat me. I have spoken to other day-care professionals, and they all say the same thing happens to them. Any suggestions?

Dear Abby
Abigail Van Buren

DEAR CONSERVATIVE: While a daily change of bed linen may seem extravagant, it's a well-established policy wfor which hotel guests pay handsomely. It also ensures the ultimate in cleanliness, which all travelers appreciate. If it ain't broke, don't fix it.

The answer should be very clear.

TIED IN TACOMA

DEAR TIED: My first thought was deliver the child to his home. But a parent who would be so irresponsible as to pick up her child an hour to an hour and a half late would probably not be home when you delivered the child.

How about posting a sign at your home that states that parents who leave their children more than 15 minutes past the agreed-upon pickup time will be charged for one full extra hour? Then telephone calls and suggest the solution to them, too. If you all stick together and refuse to put up with irresponsible behavior, you'll all be winners.

DEAR BETTER SAFE: Must I choose between two evils? I'll pass. I would not "supervise" underage drinking at home or anywhere else because I do not approve of underage drinking. And if kids are going to "find some way" to drink, they will have to do it without my help.

DEAR ABBY: You have made some good suggestions for conserving water — shut the faucet off when brushing your teeth and shaving, etc. I have another suggestion that could save thousands — maybe millions — of gallons of water a week. Every first-class hotel I've stayed in changes its sheets and pillow cases EVERY DAY! This is unnecessary, when people are home they don't change their bed linen every day. They put fresh sheets on their beds once a week — twice a week, if they're really lousy.

What do you think, Abby?

CONSERVATIVE IN PHILADELPHIA

Effects of drug explained

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm attending AA, getting private counseling and take Antabuse. Could you please tell me about this drug?

DEAR READER: Antabuse (disulfiram), when taken regularly produces an unpleasant sensitivity to alcohol; when alcohol is ingested, the patient usually experiences flushing, throbbing headache, difficulty breathing, vomiting, third chest pain, uneasiness, weakness and confusion. Patients who choose to take Antabuse quickly learn that drinking alcohol-containing beverages isn't worth the reaction.

Dr. Gott
Peter Gott, M.D.

There are several contraindications to the medicine, including heart disease, diabetes, epilepsy, kidney disease and cirrhosis. Because even tiny quantities of alcohol — such as contained in a usual dose of cough syrup, or in sauces — can provoke a reaction, patients must be cautioned to avoid alcohol in ANY form. The drug is available only by prescription and should be used under medical supervision. Side effects include rash, drowsiness, mental disturbances and impotence.

Nevertheless, Antabuse is a valuable adjunct to counseling or a 12-step program for alcoholics. The efficacy of the drug lasts up to two weeks once it is discontinued. The major value of Antabuse is in patients who want to remain in a state of enforced sobriety so that counseling or AA can be used to best advantage. It is not a cure for alcoholism.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Help II — Mental-Substance Abuse." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91389, Cleveland, Ohio 44101-3879. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What causes bowel impaction? How can I avoid it? I have a long history of constipation and laxative use.

DEAR READER: Impaction refers to a severe form of constipation in which a large amount of fecal material builds up in the lower colon. With time, this material becomes too firm and too large to pass through the anus and it must be digitally removed, meaning it has to be manually dug out so that pieces of it can be passed.

This is the only treatment for impaction, because the width of the anus cannot accommodate the mass of feces.

Prevention is the best approach. Constipation has to be controlled — through the use of bran, laxatives and stool softeners — before impaction develops.

Since the aging colon does not empty readily, older patients are at increased risk for impaction; also, certain drugs — such as heart medicines — will reduce peristalsis, leading to constipation.

If you are chronically constipated, talk with your doctor, rather than relying on over-the-counter preparations. In many instances, constipation is due to treatable conditions. You will want to do all you can to avoid an impaction.

Urinary tract infections are common in women

By Robert C. Park, M.D.,
President, The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

Woman's Health

Frequently urinary infections are a problem more commonly seen in women than men. Luckily, though, this is one problem you can prevent in many instances.

Your urinary tract includes the kidneys, which process and filter blood, and produce urine; the ureters, which transport urine to the bladder, which stores urine; and the urethra, the tube which carries urine out of your body. The kidneys and ureters are called the upper urinary tract; the bladder and urethra the lower tract.

Most infections in women occur in the lower tract and are caused by ordinary bacteria from outside the body that travels up the urethra and into the bladder. Much less frequently, the bacteria makes its way into the kidneys, causing "pyelonephritis" or a kidney infection.

A number of things can cause infections. Improper wiping after using the toilet can transmit bacteria normally found near the rectum or vagina into the urethra. Sometimes sexual intercourse can cause swelling in the urethra, permitting bacteria to multiply and cause infection. Other factors related to infection include pregnancy, being past menopause, previous urinary infections and diabetes.

A contributing factor to bladder infections is some women's tendency to wait too long to urinate. This permits the urine to accumulate, allowing bacteria to grow. If you have a urinary infection you may feel a strong, frequent urge to urinate which produces only a small amount of urine sometimes tinged with blood and produces burning and stinging, and there may be lower back or abdominal pain. If the infection has spread to the kidneys, there also may be vomiting, nausea, fever, and chills.

If you think you have a bladder infection, see your doctor promptly. Antibiotics usually clear up the problem quickly. Women with frequent or chronic infections, however, may need additional testing and treatment.

There are ways you can lessen your risk of urinary tract infection. Always wipe from front to back after using the toilet, and gently clean the genital area daily. Urinate frequently, particularly before and after intercourse, drink lots of water, and make sure that there is plenty of Vitamin C in your diet.

Urinary tract infections can be miserable. But a little extra care on your part may keep this annoyance out of your life.

Single, free copies of "Urinary Tract Infections" are available by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business size envelope along with the name of the booklet to: The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, Resource Center, 409 12th Street, S.W., Washington, D.C. 20024-2118.

Astrograph

Your Birthday

April 23, 1989

Keep the channels open in the year ahead so that people for whom you've done favors in the past will be able to find ways to reciprocate. Your biggest opportunities could come through people you've helped.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Don't let emotions overrule your financial judgment today. If your extravagant impulses are not held in check, there's a chance you may do something foolish with your budget. Taurus, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your opinions might not be as popular with companions as you lead yourself to believe today. This could become evident if you try to force your views on your audience. CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't put too high a value on the services or favors you render for others today. What looks like a big deal in your eyes might not appear that awesome to a recipient. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're likely to feel more comfortable socially today being involved with a small, cozy group rather than a large crowd. Keep the in mind if you have to make a choice.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Others can't be expected to help you out of tight spots today, especially financial ones. Try to take care of things yourself or wait until another day. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't let a close companion whose judgment is questionable make important decisions for you today. This person's intentions will be good, but the conclusions could be faulty. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Make this a day of rest and try not to worry about things you can't take care of until the business week begins. You could waste a pleasant day fretting about money.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Guard against tendencies today to treat others in an indifferent fashion. If your behavior is thoughtless, you might make a bad impression on someone who likes you. PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) In order to achieve desirable and results today, don't leave the final phase up to chance. You'll have to be as attentive at the close as you are at the opening.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) It's admirable to be optimistic, provided your assumptions are based upon a realistic premise. Today be sure your rose-colored outlook is anchored in practicality.

A sure-fire play is overlooked

By James Jacoby

When your hand is all aces and kings, it's hard to decline an invitation to slam. South bid six no-trump and now had to navigate the play. From West's point of view, there was no automatic lead. He tried a low spade rather than leading away from any of his queens. If declarer had reasoned that West would be reluctant to lead away from a queen, he would have played low from dummy. That would have given declarer one more trick right away, but he put up the jack from dummy. He took East's queen with his ace and played the king of diamonds and a small diamond. It was good news when the queen of diamonds appeared. He then played three more diamonds, throwing two hearts from his hand as West shed a spade, a club and a heart. He then played a club back to his jack. West won the queen and returned a club. At the finish declarer had to give up a trick to West's 10 of spades. Did anything go wrong? After the second diamond, when declarer has won West's queen with dummy's ace, there is a sure play for the contract, assuming that West is not false-carding. Declarer should not play more diamonds. Instead let him play ace of hearts and another heart. When East follows low, South also plays low. West can now win the queen of hearts, but his next play must present declarer with the extra trick he needs to make the slam contract.

Talking with Peter Falk

'I didn't think I was good enough'

By Frank Sanello

Four-time Emmy winner Peter Falk returned to prime time this season playing beloved Detective Columbo as part of ABC's "Monday Night Mystery Movie," which alternates episodes of "Columbo" with shows starring Burt Reynolds and Louise Gretter Jr.

PETER FALK Columbo is back

After two miserable years as an efficiency expert for the state of Connecticut, Falk turned in his collar and tie to become a full-time actor. Within two years, he was starring off-Broadway in "The Iceman Cometh."

His first two movies, "Murder, Inc." (1960) and "Pocketful of Miracles" (1961) earned him Academy Award nominations.

QUESTION: Are you wearing the same raincoat and driving the same Peugeot you had in the original series?

ANSWER: Yes to both. The raincoat is very fragile. We don't use it in every scene because it just can't take it. I take very good care of it. I put a saucer of milk out for it every night.

QUESTION: After 15 years, why did you decide to play Detective Columbo again?

ANSWER: In economic terms, the best thing for the one of the most successful movie directors of all time? ANSWER: No, but I do remember saying to the producer after the third day, "This guy is too good for us." When I directed my first "Columbo," I was having trouble with a complex camera shot. I'll never forget Steve coming out on a Saturday morning and helping me out as a favor. Even then, you could see how interested he was in solving problems.

QUESTION: I read that when you told your father you wanted to be an actor, he never materialized. When it finally did, I went back on the air.

QUESTION: Despite your fancy education, you've made a career playing lowerclass guys. How do you "slum" so convincingly?

ANSWER: I think it's from hanging around pool halls. And if you have a short neck I think it helps too.

QUESTION: In economic terms, the best thing for the daughter's recent death. An act of kindness gets them in deep trouble: They rescue a man (Billy Zane) on a raft who turns out to be the only survivor of a massacre that has taken place on a nearby ship. He's also a psycho. Son, the husband is stranded in the cabin of the other ship, which turns out to be slowly sinking, while the wife is struck on their boat, playing a deadly cat-and-mouse game with the enigmatic intruder.

A trip to the Orient, 1898

Pictured below is a leather-bound book with the passengers' names, the daily menus and the music programs for a 69-day cruise on the steamship Auguste Victoria of the Hamburg-American Line. The book should still sell for about $200 as the Hamburg-American Line shows up well in the steamship memorabilia lists, here is a 1928 poster (17 x 27 inches) with a view of the ship, for $90. Then an advertising print, no date, entitled "Development of Shipping" framed, at $60.

Updike recalls simple events

His life hasn't had too many 'big' events

By Hillel Helle
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Ask John Updike what he remembers most about his life and you might expect him to talk of his many honors, including the Pulitzer Prize and the American Book Award.

Or maybe you'd expect thoughts about his 13 novels, 10 volumes of short stories and five collections of poetry. Or perhaps proud tales of his four children.

But the writer prefers to dwell on simpler events, such as childhood memories of waiting to hear the footsteps of the mailman, then lying underneath the chute so the letters could tumble on his face. Or, the time in junior high school when he stabbed himself in the palm of his right hand with a pencil, leaving a permanent scar.

Updike, who insisted in a recent interview that his life "hasn't had too many things big in it," concentrated on seemingly minor incidents by default.

"I managed to avoid all my country's wars," the author of "Rabbit, Run" and "The Witches of Eastwick" said. "I avoided many of the problems that afflict people. I never had my house burn down, never had a major disease. I've been a lucky person. I've tried to make a story of normal and totally uneventful lives."

His most recent work is "Self-Consciousness" (Knopf, $18.95), a collection of six essays that come together like an unofficial memoir. Updike remembers his childhood in Shillington, Pa., his lukewarm support for the Vietnam War and his battle with psoriasis and stuttering.

He also offers a detailed account of his family tree and concludes the book with an essay called "On Being a Self Forever," which sums up his philosophy that even something as obscure as a signature is a form of expression.

"I think the writer who showed me what could be done, and in a way haunts this book, is (Marcel) Proust — the way he can so regularly twist one of these highly developed details around and go on to moralize in this quite persuasive and powerful way," he said.

Proust is a writer who tried to extract religious meanings out of random life; he had the notion that nothing is random. The Updike was born in 1932 and enjoyed drawing as a child, sending fan mail to prominent cartoonists begging them for original work.

He wrote for the Shillington High School newspaper and set his sights on working for the New Yorker magazine, which he joined in 1955. He contributed short stories and light verse, but soon tired of living in Manhattan. In 1957, he and his first wife, Mary, moved to Ipswich, a small town outside of Boston.

His first novel, "Poorhouse Fair," was released in 1959. The following year Updike came out with "Rabbit, Run," the story of Harry "Rabbit" Angstrom, a 29-year-old husband and father in the fictional town of Brewer, Pa. Longing for his days as a high school basketball star, "Rabbit" is unable to face the responsibilities of growing up and runs away.

"Rabbit" would become Updike's faithful alter ego, appearing again in the sequels "Rabbit Redux" and "Rabbit Is Rich," which earned the writer a Pulitzer, an American Book Award and the National Book Critics Circle Award in 1981.

"Rabbit" is always there for me," Updike said. "He always is willing to go through the paces I send up for him, and the whole Pennsylvania milieu is very convenient and very rich. The Rabbit books are full of the weight of the terrible things that happen."

Sound investment advice

ONE UP ON WALL STREET. By Peter Lynch, with John Rothchild. Simon & Schuster. 318 Pages. $18.95.

Books on investing come out at the rate of about one a day, but few of their authors have the credentials of Peter Lynch, who runs the $9 billion Fidelity Magellan mutual fund. A $10,000 investment made when he took over the fund in 1977 would be worth about $190,000 12 years later.

In "One Up on Wall Street," Lynch expounds the investment philosophy that has produced these results. The book is not only a source of proven money-making ideas for the would-be investor, it is also well-written. This is perhaps due to John Rothchild, the author of "A Fool and His Money."

With his outstanding track record on Wall Street, Lynch can afford to relate in frank detail his own blunders and missed opportunities, while claiming you can still beat the market.

With hundreds of thousands of shareholders in his fund, Lynch can also afford to turn away potential investors. "Expecting a $9 billion fund to compete successfully against an $800 million fund is the same as expecting Larry Bird to star in basketball games with a five-pound weight strapped to his waist," says Lynch.

In fact, Lynch adds, it might pay you to stay away from mutual funds altogether. "If you're a surfer, a trucker, a high school dropout or an eccentric retiree, then you've got an edge already. That's where the 10-baggers come from, beyond the boundaries of accepted Wall Street cognition." A 10-bagger is a stock that turns every $1 you put into it into $10.

The key to hitting the 10- and 50-baggers, according to Lynch, is to make use of your own specialized knowledge and direct observation. It was no secret to any teen-ager that McDonald's is a 10-bagger; he was doing a land-office business across the country for years.

What usually happens, Lynch says, is that doctors invest in hot oil stocks and get clobbered, while petroleum engineers invest in hot drug stocks and also get clobbered.

If you heed this book's advice, you are likely to avoid such errors, but it is still going to take a lot of time and attention to select your winning stocks. "To be able to say that picking your own stocks is worth the effort, you ought to be getting a 12 percent to 15 percent return, compounded over time," says Lynch.

Good luck to you. Not many professionals on Wall Street do that well over the years.

WIT OF THE WORLD

PEOPLE

Everyone loves Lucy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Do they ever love Lucy. Flowers, phone calls and faxes flooded Cedars-Sinai Medical Center on Friday, as they have since Lucille Ball received a transplanted piece of critical heart artery during emergency surgery Tuesday night.

The 73-year-old tony redhead, whose reign as queen of American comedy continues in reruns of the "Love Lucy Show," continued to bounce back quickly, hospital spokesman Ron Wise said.

"She's going to be uncomfortable for a few days, but she's making significant progress," Wise said, adding that a "tidal wave" of greeting cards had arrived.

Sakharov celebrates win

MOSCOW (AP) — Human rights activist Andrei D. Sakharov, sent into internal exile for criticizing the Soviet intervention in Afghanistan, completed his political rehabilitation by winning a seat in the new national legislature.

Sakharov's election to the Congress of People's Deputies "will be a great success for perestroika," said one of his backers, Alexander Sobhanin, using the word for President Mikhail S. Gorbachev's reform program.

Sakharov's victory was among the results of balloting Thursday by members of the prestigious Academy of Sciences for 12 seats in the new parliament.

Lane charges interference

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mark Lane, nationally known for his conspiracy theories about President Kennedy's assassination, complained Friday he has been kept from meeting John W. Hinckley Jr. by the mental hospital where Hinckley has been since shooting President Reagan.

A judge ruled Thursday that they could meet during regular visiting hours. Lane said he has not decided whether to accept Hinckley's request that he take on his case.

However, the lawyer said, "We had an appointment a couple of weeks ago and the hospital authorities at the highest level decreed that I could not meet with Mr. Hinckley. Instead they wanted to meet with me, pulling together a summit meeting all the powers in Washington to brief me."

"I said that was absurd and that if a man wanted to obtain me, the sanctity of the attorney-client relationship is that it remains between an attorney and a client."

BUSINESS

AT&T bids to have restrictions lifted

By Joy Arnold The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. on Friday asked a federal judge to lift provisions in a 1984 consent decree that prohibit AT&T from owning the computer data, videotex, financial and other information services it transmits on its wires.

AT&T in a brief filed with U.S. District Judge Harold Greene, noted that the court's Modification of Final Judgment under which the old Bell System was broken up allowed the restrictions on "electronic publishing" to be lifted after seven years unless it were shown it should be continued.

The prohibition on electronic publishing was worked out on Aug. 24, 1982, and AT&T said Greene, who overruled the Bell breakup, stated at that time he intended to lift the ban after the seven years.

Greene said the burden after seven years would be on any opponents of removal "to show that competitive conditions clearly require the maintenance of the ban." AT&T's filing said.

"AT&T submits that it is now very clear that the predictions that the court made seven years ago have been borne out by events, and that the dual contracts that led to the imposition of the electronic publishing restriction do not exist today."

It cited the leading firms in the electronic publishing industry "are large, financially strong corporations."

Wall Street still hopes interest rates will dip

By Chef Currier The Associated Press

NEW YORK — A dramatic move to raise interest rates in West Germany hasn't dashed hopes on Wall Street for a downturn in rates in the months ahead.

The news Thursday of half-point increases in the West German central bank's official interest rates sent a jolt through the American stock and bond markets, as well as driving the dollar downward in foreign exchange.

But stock prices stabilized soon afterward and began a speedy recovery as analysts increasingly came to the view that a new international round of credit-tightening wasn't likely.

Statistical measures of business activity and inflation in West Germany have been on the rise of late — a development that prompted new restraints in a very inflation-conscious nation.

In the United States, however, there have been some recent signs of slowing in the pace of the economy, apparently prompted by the credit-tightening steps the Federal Reserve has taken over the past year.

Most observers believe the Fed wants to wait at least another month or two to gauge the impact of what it has already done before deciding on any further measures.

"We believe that the bond market is setting up for a major buying opportunity by midyear," declares Arnold Moskowitz, economist at Dean Witter Reynolds Inc. He predicts that a rally in bond prices will send interest rates on Treasury bonds, now fluctuating around 9 percent, to 7.5 percent by year-end.

Support for this kind of view can be found in the consumer marketplace, says Richard Siechel, an analyst at First Pennsylvania Bank.

"Sears will now sell consumer products for low prices every day and not just on special occasions," Siechel points out. "Ford, GM and Chrysler will pay cash to purchase their cars and are hawking low- or no-interest-rate financing to help you decide.

"Whether all of this is necessary is conjecture. However, it does send a message that the economy is not booming. Inflation should subside and interest rates may be near a peak."

That sort of talk helped the stock market extend a month-long rally this past week to new highs since before the crash of 1987. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks climbed 72.40 points to 2,409.46.

The New York Stock Exchange composite index rose 4.01 to 772.56, the NASDAQ composite index for the over-the-counter market gained 6.68 to 423.76, and the American Stock Exchange market value index was up 6.77 at 342.59.

Volume on the Big Board averaged 178.40 million shares a day, up from 168.89 million the week before.

If interest rates do turn downward in the months ahead, analysts caution, they may not represent an unalloyed benefit for the stock market.

One risk is that lower rates would encourage international investors to seek out better returns on their money in other countries.

That, in turn, could mean downward pressure on the dollar, crimping the results foreign investors can achieve in U.S. stocks.

"In our view, the equity markets at some point this year will conclude that the economy must slow down significantly if inflation is to lessen," said Suresh Bhrud, chief investment strategist at Oppenheimer & Co.

"Although the stock market still could rise somewhat or remain near current levels, earnings disappointments could become a stumbling block in the second half of 1989."

Business in Brief

Bush, economists to meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush invited a divergent group of economists and business leaders for "a freewheeling and open discussion of the economy" this weekend at Camp David, a White House spokesman said Friday.

Martin Fitzwater said the guests would include former Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker, now a New York investment consultant and professor at Princeton University, IBM chief John Akers and Paul O'Neill, the chairman of Alcoa. "It's another one of these kinds of discussions the president likes to have with authorities and experts outside of the government to discuss all kinds of issues without worrying about policy decisions," Fitzwater said.

Also invited were: Kathryn Eickhoff, president of Eickhoff Economics and former chief economist at the Office of Management and Budget; Richard Rahn, vice president and chief economist of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, and Jude Wanniski, who heads a consulting firm in Morristown, N.J.

Three former chairmen of the president's Council of Economic Advisers were also on the guest list: Beryl Sprinkel, now a private consultant; Martin Feldstein, now a Harvard professor; and Herb Stein, now with the American Enterprise Institute.

Shuttle contract awarded

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — NASA on Friday selected Lockheed Missile Systems Division of Sunnyvale, Calif., to develop a new, more powerful solid-fuel rocket for the space shuttle.

The space agency is moving ahead on the advanced booster despite last month's recommendation by a congressional safety panel that it discontinue the project.

Lockheed estimated total cost of the seven-year development project and facility work at more than $1.1 billion. The company's principal subcontractor is Aerojet Space Booster Co. of Sacramento, Calif., and its facility contractor is Rust International of Birmingham, Ala.

The contract includes an option for 44 sets of two motors each. The new motor will replace, in the mid-1990s, the current shuttle booster rocket.

A faulty booster rocket caused the explosion of the shuttle Challenger and loss of its seven-member crew in January 1986. The shuttle fleet was grounded for 32 months while the rocket was redesigned.

Perkin-Elmer to sell unit

NORWALK (AP) — Perkin-Elmer Corp. announced Friday that it would sell its semiconductor equipment operations as part of a major restructuring plan designed to focus more attention on the company's scientific instrument and materials technology businesses.

The Norwalk-based Perkin-Elmer also said it would sell West German aerospace and government systems units and distribute the proceeds among shareholders through increased dividends or stock repurchase plans.

No buyers have yet been identified for the three units to be sold off. Goldman, Sachs & Co., the New York investment-banking house, is advising Perkin-Elmer on the restructuring.

Horace G. McDonnell, chairman and chief executive officer of Perkin-Elmer, said the restructuring will direct "management attention and financial resources to its core businesses."

McDonnell said the move will make Perkin-Elmer a "streamlined competitor" in the manufacture of sophisticated scientific instruments and related materials technology.

Semiconductor manufacturing equipment sales earned a profit of $26 million last year when the Norwalk manufacturer posted total sales of $1.2 billion.

The nation's semiconductor industry has lost market share to Japanese competitors. Companies like Perkin-Elmer that supply chip-making companies with equipment and materials have also lost ground to foreign suppliers.

No shocks in first quarter

By Marybeth Nibley
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Several corporate heavy hitters weighed in with their first-quarter financial results this past week and most figures tipped the scales close to where the companies intended.

A grim performance by RJR Nabisco Inc. may have been expected, due to its $25 billion buyout by Kohlberg Kravis Roberts & Co., but that didn't make the news any easier to bear.

The company said it shouldered $247 million in so-called "change of control" costs, including severance pay, pension plan benefits and other payments to executives leaving on account of the buyout.

RJR Nabisco shareholders are expected to approve the deal with Kohlberg Kravis at a special meeting on Thursday.

The flop of RJR Nabisco's Premier smokes cigarette, which was recently yanked from test market store shelves because consumers rejected it, also had something to do with the earnings slump.

The company said its after-tax income in the January through March period amounted to $103 million, down 62 percent from $273 million in the same quarter a year ago.

Sales in the quarter were up 5 percent, to $4 billion from $3.8 billion in 1988.

Without the buyout-related costs and a charge for abandoning the Premier tests, net income would have been up 17 percent to $292 million in the first quarter.

The leveraged buyout of RJR Nabisco is setting precedents for costs associated with these deals in which a target company's assets and cash flow typically are tapped to finance the transaction.

For RJR Nabisco, further costs could show up in subsequent earnings statements.

The buyout was expected to impair RJR Nabisco's profitability, but the magnitude of the effect in the first quarter was a surprise to some analysts.

Among other companies posting results, General Motors Corp. reported a 42.2 percent first-quarter profit gain, reflecting improvements in North American automobile operations and continued cost-saving measures.

The nation's largest company said it earned $1.55 billion, or $2.37 per share, in the three months ended March 31, up from $1.09 billion, or $1.56 per share, for the same 1988 period. Revenue rose 11.9 percent to $29.6 billion from $26.4 billion.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co. reported a 20.7 percent rise in first-quarter earnings to $594 million, or 58 cents a share, from $492 million, or 46 cents a share, as revenue rose 5.2 percent to $2.6 billion from $2.5 billion.

AT&T benefited from growth in international sales of products and services plus a surge in long-distance calling.

BankAmerica Corp. said its net income soared 152 percent in the first quarter.

Thanks, says Hawaii, but you can keep your atoll

By Bruce Dunford
The Associated Press

HONOLULU — Hawaii lawmakers have decided not to spend $33 million to buy a coral atoll nearly 1,000 miles to the south, and a member of the family that owns the property says plenty of other buyers have expressed interest.

The Fullard-Leo family of Honolulu had given state lawmakers until the end of their current legislative session, scheduled to adjourn Monday, to come up with the money or it would sell the uninhabited Palmyra atoll to someone else.

"If the state doesn't buy it now, I'm sure it's not going to be here next year," said Ainsley Fullard-Leo, 57, the youngest of three brothers who own the U-shaped string of islets 900 miles south of Hawaii and 200 miles north of the equator.

House Finance Committee Chairman Joseph Souki said the Palmyra was not included in the state budget when it was finalized by House and Senate conferees on Thursday.

"I think it's too expensive anyway," he said.

Told of the Legislature's decision, Fullard-Leo said, "I think the state's making a big mistake."

Now that the state has passed on it, the family will probably consider other offers, Fullard-Leo said. Offers in the $50 million range and higher have come from U.S. and Japanese companies as well as one unidentified Pacific nation, he said.

Palmyra has many attractive features, including its status as a U.S. possession, its deep harbor, an airstrip left over from World War II and 150 inches of rainfall a year, said Sen. Richard Matsura, a strong supporter of purchasing the property.

It's located in one of the best fisheries in the Pacific and could serve as a mid-Pacific maritime center, he said.

University of Hawaii scientists say it is ideal for oceanographic and marine life research and a possible site for equatorial space launches. Reports of successful room-temperature fusion energy experiments in which the precious metal palladium was involved prompted Matsura to note that Palmyra is near ocean floor manganese crusts containing palladium.

Most of the attention from private interests, however, has focused on building an exclusive resort on the 600 acres of land within the 8,000-acre reef-protected atoll.

 Our 15 person insurance agency in the heart of downtown Manchester, wishes to hire a personal lines customer service rep. We reluctantly have to replace an employee of many years, who is leaving us to be a full time mother. Minimum two years auto and homeowners rating experience necessary. Some typing ability is needed, and experience with P.C. set-ups would be a definite plus, as would be the ability to fit in among a staff that has been together for many years, and enjoys each others company. The employer is a nationally ranked, publicly held insurance agency with attractive benefits, and the CT office has been judged the most pleasant office to work in of the 25 office chain. Call Dorothy at Hill, Rogal & Hamilton Co. of Ct., Inc. 943-1165.

Merchants holding signups

The Manchester Merchants baseball team, of the American Legion program, is holding signups and tryouts for 14 and 15 year olds (cannot be in league April 1) on Friday, April 28, from 5:30 p.m. to dusk.

Vikes deal for Merrweather

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers traded three-line Pro Bowl linebacker Mike Merrweather, who sat out last season in a contract dispute, to Minnesota on Friday for the Vikings' first-round pick in Sunday's NFL draft.

Pirates get Quinones

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates, gambling on a quick fix for the present, traded pitcher Mike Dume and their top two minor-league prospects to the Seattle Mariners on Friday for shortstop Rey Quinones and pitcher Bill Wilkinson.

Cards not interested

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Phoenix Cardinals general manager Larry Wilson said Friday that his NFL club is no longer interested in acquiring former New York Jets' All-Pro defensive end Mark Gastineau.

HARD CHECKING — Los Angeles' Bernie Nicholls, left, and Calgary's Theoren Fleury battle it out during their game Thursday night in Calgary. The pair met tonight in Los Angeles with the Flames holding a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup playoff series.

Kings and Flames matchup turning into a shoving war

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Lanny McDonald, the 36-year-old co-captain of the Calgary Flames, looked like a bearcat out on the ice, wrestling and trading punches with Los Angeles defenseman Jim Wiemer, eight years his junior.

Earlier, there was another bearcat in the rink, Calgary trainer Jim "Bearsart" Murray running out to aid fallen goalie Mike Vernon and was on the ice when the Flames scored a controversial goal Thursday night in an 8-3 victory over the Kings.

Now, as the best-of-seven Smythe Division finals move to Los Angeles for Games 3 and 4 on Saturday and Monday nights, the Kings trail the Flames 2-0, have at best drawn a split decision in the fighting, and may even be losing the war of words.

The McDonald-Wiemer scrap was one of three that broke out with 7:15 left to play. "I know he (Wiemer) got the call from the bench," McDonald said. "That's fine, if that's the way they want to play, no problem. We didn't start it, but that's hockey. We had to do exactly what we had to do to get the win and the two points. We're going to go down there and do the same thing."

pair met tonight in Los Angeles with the Flames holding a 2-0 lead in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup playoff series.

Flames then added a controversial goal by Al MacInnis at 11:35.

With the Flames up a man, Kings forward Bernie Nicholls punched Flames goalie Mike Vernon in the face and Vernon fell to the ice. Murray immediately ran out to tend to Vernon.

While Gretzky was vehemently complaining to referee Bill McCree about Murray being on the ice, MacInnis beat Kings goalie Kelly Hrudey with a 15-foot slap shot in the slot.

Nicholls said Vernon hit him in the stomach, but the goalie denied it. "All of a sudden he whacked me one," Vernon said. "It was a costly mistake on his part. 'I was in the crease — that's my area.'"

"He's trying to clear guys out, but they got the puck, they're going the other way, and for him to turn around and give me a shot, it was uncalled for," Nicholls said. "I didn't think it was right, so I thought what I did was right."

By then, the game was over. Taylor Patterson recovered a rebound off the back boards and tapped it in just 58 seconds into the game. Doug Gilmour scored two goals from the slot in 77 minutes and 52 seconds overall.

Sports in Brief

Pony League tryouts set

The Manchester Rec Department will hold Pony League baseball tryouts at Cheney Tech on May 1-2 starting at 6 p.m. The league is for 13-15 year olds who haven't reached their 16th birthday by Aug. 1, 1989.

The tryout schedule is: Monday and Tuesday, May 1 and 2, 6-7 p.m. infielders only; 7-8 p.m. outfielders only; and May 3-6 p.m. both infielders and outfielders. In case of rain, the schedule will be postponed for a day.

Antley extends streak

NEW YORK (AP) — Chris Antley extended his winning streak to 57 days, riding Lady Tale to a 3 1/2-length victory Friday in the seventh race at Aqueduct.

Antley, who has had at least one winner during each day of his streak, had been winless aboard four earlier mounts.

Bold Wench, carrying 114 pounds and Richard Castillo, won by a half-length in the $47,000 Sparkling purse for fillies and mares 3-years-old and up.

Green shares golf lead

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Ken Green, bent on making amends for a playoff loss last year, shot a 6-under-par 66 Friday to join three others for the second-round lead in the $1 million Greater Greensboro Open.

Tied with Green at 139 were Jim Booros, the lone survivor from a five-way tie for first place after the opening round. Dave Eichelberger and Duffy Waldorf.

Donewald named coach

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Former Illinois State basketball coach Bob Donewald on Friday was named coach at Western Michigan.

After compiling a 206-21 record in 11 years, Donewald was fired from Illinois State because of his team's inability to improve in the Missouri Valley Conference.

Donewald, 46, replaces Vernon Payne, who resigned March 14 after compiling a seven-year record of 69-126 with the Broncos.

Gilliam suspended 2 games

NEW YORK (AP) — Armon Gilliam of the Phoenix Suns was suspended for two games and fined $7,500 by the NBA Friday as the result of his fight with Dwayne "Pearl" Washington of Miami that spilled over from the floor to the locker room.

Washington was fined $2,000 for his part in the incident that took place Wednesday night.

Jones, Postlewait in front

GULFPORT, Fla. (AP) — Defending champion Rosie Jones shot her second straight 68 to share the lead with Kathy Postlewait after Friday's second round of the USX Golf Classic.

Both players were at 8-under-par 136, one stroke ahead of four others. Many golfers struggled in the windy conditions, including first-round leader Lori Garbacz, who followed a record-tying 64 with a 73.

Betsy King, the LPGA's leading money winner, shot a 70 and was tied for third at 137 with Garbacz, Lynn Adams (68) and Meg Mallon (68).

U.S. increases its lead

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Chi Chi Rodriguez birdied the 18th hole Friday for a match-play victory over Doug Daltiel that helped the United States increase its lead over the International team after two rounds of the Seniors Chrysler Cup.

The U.S. team won five matches, lost two and halved one Friday to outscore the International team 11-5 and take a 2-1 lead. Another 28 points will be on the line Saturday in team better-ball stroke play.

Celtics beaten by the Pacers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) —

Rookie Rik Smits scored 23 points and Indiana outscored Boston 17-4 to open the final period as the Pacers defeated the Celtics 120-110 Friday.

The loss prevented the Celtics from clinching the final playoff spot in the Eastern Conference. They need a victory Sunday against Charlotte or a Washington loss to clinch the spot.

Washington, a game behind Boston, lost to Chicago 115-113 Friday.

The victory gave Indiana a 2-1 record against Boston this season, the first time in 12 years the Pacers have won the season series between the two teams.

The Pacers, leading 84-80 going into the final period, outscored the Celtics 17-4, including 12 consecutive points. A dunk by Smits gave Indiana 101-84 lead with 6:38 remaining.

The closest Boston came in the final quarter was five points on a jumper by Brian Shaw with 9:22 to go.

Kevin McHale had 28 points and 10 rebounds to lead Boston. Kevin Gamble had a career-high 27 points.

Indiana had seven players in double figures, including LaSalle Thompson and Vern Fleming with 20 points apiece.

The Pistons took its first lead of the game with 81 seconds left in the second quarter on a lay-in by Detlef Schrempf and had a 52-51 halftime advantage.

Boston scored six straight points, capped by Gamble's jumper, to take a 71-70 lead with 4:39 to go in the third.

The lead changed hands until a jumper by Chuck Person gave the Pacers the lead for good 62-60 with 47 seconds left in the third.

Donewald, 46, replaces Vernon Payne, who resigned March 14 after compiling a seven-year record of 69-126 with the Broncos.

Bulls 115, Bullets 113

At Chicago, Scottie Pippen's 3-point basket with 1:41 remaining broke a 108-108 deadlock Friday night and Michael Jordan recorded his 15th triple-double of the season as the Chicago Bulls defeated the Washington Bullets 115-113.

Jordan, with 20 career triple-doubles had given the Bulls a 108-107 edge with 2:50 left before Steve Coulter hit one of two free throws to tie the score.

Jordan who wound up with 34 points, 14 rebounds and 11 assists, added a pair of free throws with just 16 seconds left for a three-point Chicago lead after Bernard King scored for the Bullets.

After Jordan sank two more free throws, King hit a 3-point basket.

The Bulls, winning for only the second time in their last nine games, nailed down their sixth spot in the Eastern Conference playoffs. Washington remains in contention for the eighth and final playoff spot.

Mavericks 91, Jazz 89: At Dallas, Terry Tarpley scored 33 points, including two free throws with eight seconds left, as the Dallas Mavericks kept their dim NBA playoff hope alive with a 91-89 victory over the Utah Jazz Friday night.

The free throws, which gave

NBA Roundup

Dallas a 91-89 lead, were Tarpley's only points in the fourth period.

John Stockton, who led Utah with 20 points, was fouled by Derek Harper with four seconds to go. Stockton made the first free throw and deliberately missed the second. Utah's Darrell Griffith grabbed the rebound but missed a 15-footer at the buzzer.

Tarpley also had 17 rebounds for the Mavs. Sam Perkins, returning after missing three games with a sprained wrist, had 14 points and 10 rebounds.

Utah, the Midwest Division champion, has already clinched second place in the Western Conference playoffs.

Utah's Karl Malone, who had missed just one game in his four-year career, didn't play because of a sprained ankle. Thurl Bailey started in Malone's place and scored 17 points.

The victory broke a four-game home losing streak for Dallas.

Bucks 117, Hornets 110: At Charlotte, N.C., Ricky Pierce scored 21 points, including 10 straight in the fourth period, as the Milwaukee Bucks defeated Charlotte 117-110 Friday in the Hornets' home finale of their inaugural season.

Pierce hit five straight shots early in the fourth quarter to give Milwaukee its biggest lead of the game at 66-49.

Charlotte pulled within six points twice in the final three minutes but could get no closer as the Bucks sank 16 consecutive free throws in the last 3:35.

Larry Krystkowiak added 23 points and eight rebounds for the Bucks, while Jack Sikma had 16. Terry Cummings 14 and Jay Humphries 13.

The Bucks shot 62 percent of their field goals and Hornets hit 46 percent.

Milwaukee held Charlotte's leading scorer Kelly Tripucka to nine points, tying his season-low. Tripucka, who averages 22.7 points and had scored 23.7 in his first three games against the Bucks, was limited to a 4-for-15 shooting performance.

Bosox and Yankees both fall

BOSTON (AP) —

Bo Jackson hit a two-run homer and had three of Kansas City's team record-tying seven stolen bases Friday night as the Royals beat the Boston Red Sox 7-4.

The Royals made five double plays, one short of a club mark, and held off Boston's two-run rally in the ninth inning. Steve Farr retired Ellis Burks on a grounder with the bases loaded to end the game.

Floyd Bannister, 2-0, gave up six hits and three walks in five innings, but only one run. The Royals turned four double plays behind Bannister and made another in the seventh.

Jackson hit his fifth home run of the season in the eighth for a 7-2 lead. The Red Sox came back in the ninth as pinch hitter Sam Horn walked with the bases loaded and Marty Barrett had an RBI single.

Kansas City matched the team record of seven steals set on May 30, 1989, against the New York Yankees. The Royals were 7-for-7 against Boston catcher Rich Gedman as Wilson, Kurt Stillwell, Bob Boone and Gary Thorman also stole bases. Jackson has stolen seven bases this season.

Wilson led off the game with a walk from John Dopper, 2-1, and stole second. He later scored on George Brett's sacrifice fly.

The Red Sox loaded the bases in the first on consecutive singles by Wade Boggs, Barrett and Burks, but scored only one run as Mike Greenwell hit into a double play.

Ojeda hit hard in Mets' loss

NL Roundup

NEW YORK (AP) — Rick Sutcliffe improved to 4-0 as the Chicago Cubs pounded Bob Ojeda for six runs in 2 1/3 innings Friday night and beat the New York Mets 8-4.

Chicago, which had 13 hits, snapped a four-game losing streak and stopped the Mets' modest two-game winning streak. Prior to the losing streak, the Cubs had won seven straight.

Sutcliffe, who didn't win more than two consecutive games last year in going 13-14, allowed seven hits in 7 1/3 innings. The big right-hander was 16-1 for the Cubs in 1984 to win the Cy Young Award, but only 44-46 the past four seasons.

Steve Wilson finished with one-hit relief for his first major-league save.

Ojeda, 6-3, has allowed 30 hits and 14 runs in 18 1/3 innings. Last September, he nearly severed the tip of the middle finger on his pitching hand in a gashing accident.

Ojeda, who says the injury has nothing to do with his poor start, gave up three runs and four hits in the first and was chased when the Cubs scored three in the third.

Howard Johnson hit his second homer of the season in the second but the Cubs made it 6-1 in the third.

The Mets were without right fielder Darryl Strawberry and infielder Tim Teufel, both out with muscle strains.

Phillies 3, Pirates 2: At Pittsburgh, Floyd Youmans won his first game with Philadelphia and Tommy Herr drove in two runs, including an RBI single that broke a seventh-inning tie, as the Phillies beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-2 Friday night.

Youmans, 1-2, allowed four hits over 6 2/3 innings and Steve Bedrosian pitched a shutout for his second save, completing a combined four-hitter.

Juan Samuel had three hits and scored twice in his second full game since coming off the disabled list Wednesday with a strained left hamstring.

Barry Bonds homered for the Pirates, who lost for the fifth time in their last eight games.

With the score tied at 2, Steve Jeltz singled off Doug Drabek, 1-1, to start the seventh. Jeltz took second on Samuel's broken-bat single and Herr's single broke the tie.

Youmans, traded to the Phillies with Jeff Parrett last winter for pitcher Kevin Gross, brought a 5.87 earned-run average into the game.

Astros 7, Reds 0: At Cincinnati, Jim Deshaies pitched a four-hitter and struck out nine as the Houston Astros beat Cincinnati 7-0 Friday night. The Reds' third straight shutout.

Cincinnati, shut out 14 times last season, managed only infield singles by Barry Larkin and Eric Davis in the first, a double by Davis in the seventh and a single by Chris Sabo in the ninth. The Red have not scored in their last 27 innings.

Deshaies, 2-2, walked none and allowed five baserunners in his fourth career shutout, his first since last Aug. 26.

Billy Hatcher singled to open the game and Craig Reynolds followed with his first homer since last June 19 off Pete Smith in Atlanta. That was the only homer last season for Reynolds, who has never hit more than six in a season.

Padres 5, Braves 3: At Atlanta, Benito Santiago hit a two-run, go-ahead double as the San Diego Padres rallied for four runs in the eighth inning Friday night and beat the Atlanta Braves 5-3.

Roberto Alomar singled with one out in the eighth off Joe Boever, 1-1. Tony Gwynn singled and Jack Clark walked to lead the bases and Jody Davis passed ball pulled San Diego to 3-2.

Aloer, Carmelo Martinez struck out. Hernandez doubled down the left-field line. He scored on Tim Flannery's single.

Bruce Hurst, 2-1, allowed six hits in eight-plus innings and Mark Davis pitched a hitless ninth for his eighth save in eight opportunities.

Dale Murphy gave Atlanta a 2-0 lead in the fourth with a two-run homer that set an Atlanta franchise record at 336.

SCORE — Montreal's Stephane Richer celebrates his goal against the Bruins in Friday night's Stanley Cup play at Boston Garden. To the left is Boston's Allen Pedersen. The Canadiens won, 5-4, to take a 3-0 lead in the best-of-seven series.

Canadiens take 3-0 lead on B's

BOSTON (AP) — Russ Courtnall's goal with 6:08 left spoiled Boston's comeback from a three-goal deficit, gave Montreal a 3-4 victory Friday night and left the Canadiens one win away from a playoff sweep of the Bruins.

The Canadiens, 10-1-1 against the Bruins this season, can clinch the best-of-seven Adams Division final Sunday night in Boston. Montreal is 7-0 in this year's playoffs with a one-goal margin in the last six victories.

Courtnall's fourth playoff goal was set up by Ryan Walter's pass from the Montreal blue line off the left boards. Courtnall beat Boston defenseman Glen Wesley to the puck on the left side of the Bruins' zone.

Goalie Reggie Lemelin skated out to cut down the angle, but Courtnall went around him and shoved a five-foot backhand between the left post and Lemelin's right pad.

It left Montreal unbeaten in its last 13 games, 11-2 since losing March 17 at Washington. The Bruins played much more aggressively late in the second period and throughout the third to get back in the game.

Boston had fought back from deficits of 3-0 and 4-3 to tie the score on Cam Neely's power-play goal with 9:15 left in the game. His deflection of Michael Theven's shot from the blue line was Boston's first goal in 11 power plays during the series.

Goals by Stephane Richer, Mats Naslund and Petr Voboda had given Montreal a 3-0 lead before Boston's Bobby Joyce scored twice in four minutes late in the second period.

Craig Janner's fourth playoff goal tied the game at 3:13 of the third period before Mike McPhee put Montreal ahead at 5:27.

Janner took Joyce's pass from behind the net on the inside edge of the left faceoff circle and slapped a 20-footer between goalie Patrick Roy's pads. Roy, the league's leading goalie during the regular season, is 6-0 in the playoffs.

McPhee got his third playoff goal with a 30-foot forehead shot through a four-man screen consisting of Montreal's Claude Lemieux and Brian Skrudland and Boston's Ray Bourque and Bruce Shoebottom.

Joyce, who has three playoff goals, scored at 14:09 and 17:52 of the second period. Montreal led 1-0 on Richer's third goal 4:06 into the game. Naslund got his third goal at 1:39 of the second period and Svoboda connected at 25:32.

Sulick Hotel serves as host to BC women's rugby team

By Jim Tierney Manchester Herald

Rugby has fast become one of the more popular club sports around college campuses across the country.

Viewed by outsiders as a physical, contact sport, rugby is usually associated as being a male sport.

However, this theory hasn't slowed the efforts of the Boston College women's rugby team of which Manchester resident Nancy Sulick, a 1987 East Catholic graduate, is a member.

Sulick and her teammates are traveling from Manchester tonight and will participate in the New England Rugby Football Union Northeast Tournament this weekend at Wesleyan University in Middletown.

To avoid hotel costs, etc., Sulick thought it might be a good idea if the team stayed at her parent's house on Hillcrest Road.

"She (Nancy) called and she said it would be so much fun if they (the team) could stay at home," Nancy's mother, Mary Kay, related.

So, Mary Kay and her husband, Edward (who is doctor in town), are preparing to supply room and board to the team — all 25 members!

Mary Kay, who raised seven children of her own, is excited about the impending weekend. "I think it'll be fun," she said. "I'm just going to pretend I'm at summer camp. My husband cooked up 10 pounds of spaghetti last night (Wednesday). I don't know where everyone is going to sleep. (But), I'll work out."

A women's rugby team has existed at Boston College for the past 1 1/2 years. The team receives no funding from the school and travel to games in vans. Ken Daly, a native of Ireland, coaches the women's team as well as the men's. Sulick, who played tennis and basketball at East Catholic, was always active in sports. "She's just always liked sports," Mary Kay said. "She didn't make the tennis team (at BC) so she thought she'd go out for rugby. Everybody said it's too dangerous. I just tell her to use her head. They all love the sport. It's really like a club. It (the sport of rugby) has grown every year. They just have a lot of fun with it."

The tournament at Wesleyan began this morning at 9 and will involve the following schools: Boston College, Yale, Wesleyan, Southern Connecticut, Harvard (defending champ), Brown, Dartmouth, University of Vermont, Williams, MIT, University of Rhode Island and Tufts. The finals are on Sunday.

Nancy will play with a cast on her arm due to a broken right hand.

Mary Kay is hoping that this will be the only thing that will be broken after this weekend of rugby and "fun" at the Sulick House.

Canseco hit with weapons charge

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — American League MVP Jose Canseco was arrested Friday and charged with possession of a loaded nine-millimeter handgun as he returned to his car from a medical exam at a campus of the University of California.

Canseco, who in February was charged with driving his car at 120 mph in Florida, was "totally cooperative" when arrested by campus police at the University of California's Laurel Heights campus, Lt. Mark Kurtz said.

Oakland's 24-year-old rightfielder, who has been on the disabled list since the start of the season with an injured left wrist, was booked on a felony for investigation of possession of a firearm on university property, according to Kurtz.

Canseco was released several hours later after his wife, Esther, posted $5,000 bail.

Kurtz said police could find no permit on file with the state allowing Canseco to carry a weapon but they are continuing their investigation into the permit question.

Gabriele tosses a no-hitter

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — Dan Gabriele tossed a no-hitter as the New Britain Red Sox defeated the Williamsport Bills 1-0 in Eastern League baseball.

Gabriele, 1-0, struck out six and walked two in Friday night's game. The right-hander retired the first 16 batters he faced before allowing a walk to Jack Smith in the sixth inning.

Dave Brundage was the only Williamsport batter to reach second base against Gabriele as he walked to lead off the seventh and stole second with two outs. Gabriele then struck out Patrick Lennon looking to retire the side.

The Red Sox scored their run in the eighth when Lavern Jackson led off with a single to center, was sacrificed to second by Scott Sommers, and scored on a double to the left-center field gap by Randy Randle.

Rich DeLucia, 0-1, went 7 1/3 innings for the Bills, allowing six hits and no walks while striking out five.

The Eagles took a 1-0 lead in the second inning. Freshman Rob Penders walked, senior Jimmy Robinson singled and Greene walked to load the bases. Rob Penders came home after Cadet starter and loser Tim Menninger uncorked a wild pitch.

East went up 6-0 with a five-run fourth inning, four coming after two outs. Rob Penders walked, moved to second base on a wild pitch by Menninger and third on a passed ball. Senior Paul Dumais then ripped an RBI single down the leftfield line, just inside the third-base bag. Robinson then reached on a fielder's choice. After a Martin Fiori popout for the second out, Greene laced an RBI-double over centerfielder Tom Saxa's head.

Greene went to third on a wild pitch. Mike Hickey followed with a little flare to the right of the mound. Cadet first baseman Jeff Waskowski corralled the spinning ball, but his throw was too late to nab Hickey at first and Greene scored the Eagles' fourth run. Joe Burns walked and Menninger was then relieved by Jeff Pisacreta. Hickey and Burns moved up to second and third. Jimmy Penders then greeted Pisacreta with a two-run double to right for the 6-0 lead.

"We've gotten hits at crucial times," the Eagle coach said. "We're getting them all in one inning it seems."

St. Joseph's finally got to Greene in the sixth with three runs. But Greene bore down and caught Carey Wilson looking at a called third strike to end the frame, stranding three runners.

"That was a key strikeout," Penders said. "St. Joe's put runners on second and third with two outs in the final inning, but Greene was able to get Saxa, the Cadet cleanup hitter, to ground out to Fiori at second."

Cheney loses first of year

HEBRON — With an unearned run in the bottom of the seventh, its third of the game, RHAM High nipped Cheney Tech 3-2, Friday morning in Charter Oak Conference baseball action.

The setback was the first of the year for the Beavers after five victories and drops them to 3-1 in the COC. RHAM moves to 3-1, 4-1 with the victory.

Cheney's next game is Tuesday on the road at 3:30 p.m. at Cromwell High.

Four of the five runs were unearned. "Two (Cheney) errors led to the runs. I feel sorry for Jeff Allen. He pitched a great game."

Cheney Coach Bill Baccaro spoke of his hurler, "but their pitcher did too. It was unfortunate four of the five runs were unearned."

The Technes tied it in the top of the seventh on a Don Sauer double and Bob Bidwell RBI single. RHAM won it as John Murray reached on a two-base throwing error to start it off. Bill McDonald was intentionally walked and after a sacrifice, Dave Robinson was intentionally walked to load the bases.

Kevin McGill felled the strategy with an RBI single to left over a drawn-in outfield.

Allen, 2-1, walked five, the two intentionally, while striking out 11. He's fanned 36 in 26 innings, while seeing his earned run average drop to 1.88.

Winning pitcher Neil Syphers gave up three hits, struck out four and walked two. Two of Cheney's hits were by Sauer, who was 2-for-2 to up his batting average for the year to .533. Sauer drove in Cheney's first run with an RBI single in the fourth. Bidwell's RBI was his ninth in six games. "Other than that, we're struggling (at the plate)," Baccaro said.

COVENTRY — Bunching seven runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings, Coventry High rolled to a 10-2 win over Vinal Tech Friday morning in Charter Oak Conference baseball action.

The Patriots are now 5-3 overall, 2-3 in the COC, while Vinal is winless in two outings.

Coventry's next game is Tuesday at home against Portland High.

Coventry scored twice in the second inning before Vinal tied it with its markers in the top of the third. The Patriots took the lead for good with a run in the third before scoring once in the fourth, four times in the fifth and two final tallies in the sixth.

"It was still a ballgame into the fourth but then in the fourth, fifth and sixth we got some good hits."

Coventry Coach Bob Piaster said, "Coventry collected 11 hits off two Vinal hurlers. Jeff Rheault was 2-for-4 with a double, Gary Onnen was 2-for-3 with a double and an RBI. It was Onnen's second game back after suffering a separated shoulder. He's filling the designated hitter role for now. John Totten was 2-for-4 with three RBIs, winning pitcher Chris McCarthy 2-for-3 with a triple and an RBI, and Kevin Quintillano was 2-for-2 with three RBIs.

McCarthy scattered six Vinal hits in gaining his third win against one loss. McCarthy struck out seven while walking four.

East softball hit bad times OAKDALE — Things haven't been going well as of late for the East Catholic High girls' softball team.

After suffering a 19-4 thrashing at the hands of host St. Bernard's Friday afternoon, East has now dropped its last four games and sits at 2-5. The Saints are now 1-4. The Eagles will host East Hartford Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 at Robertson Park.

The game was called after five innings. "We're in a slump now but we're going to work hard to come out of it next week," East Coach Jay McConville said.

St. Bernard's broke the game open with a 16-run fourth inning. Doris Howe was the big hitter for the Saints, going a perfect 4-for-4 with two home runs. Lynn Krawczyk, Kendra Darby, Krista Wisniewski and Cheryl Constantine collected the four hits for the Eagles.

Ever since an opening-day loss, the Manchester High baseball team has done no wrong. The Indians continued their upward trend Friday afternoon with their fourth consecutive win, 3-1, over visiting South Windsor High in CCC East Division play at Kelley Field.

The Indians are perfect in the CCC East at 4-0 and are off to their best start since 1985 when they won five of their first six. The visiting Bobcats slide to 3-3 overall, 2-2 in the division.

Manchester's back in action Monday at 3:30 p.m. when it visits Hartford Public High.

The Indians employed the same formula it had in two previous wins this week. "Good pitching and good defense," explained Manchester Coach Don Race. The Indians did commit their first error in three games, which did cost them a run, but otherwise were solid behind lefthander Jim Kitsock.

Kitsock, 2-1, was touched for only three hits, one of the infield variety and one a bloop into shallow left that plated the Bobcats' only run. He struck out four while walking three and required only 83 pitches in closing out the 1-hour, 23-minute outing. "Kitsock has a fastball that tends to sink and a curve ball that's tantalizing. He has a fastball that he doesn't throw the same place twice," Race said.

Manchester collected nine hits off South Windsor hurler Jeff Goodin, who went the distance, but Race insists the Indians' offense is still not in gear. "Our bats are still rather quiet, except for Keith DiYeso who is on a tear," he said.

The red-hot righthanded swinging DiYeso was 3-for-3, making him 10-for-16 (.625) for the season. He's hit in every game with at least two hits in four of the five games.

Manchester scored in its first two at-bats. DiYeso low-bridged Goodin with a two-out single in the bottom of the first, moved to third on the first of two hits by Dom Laurinitta, a single, and came home on the first of two balks by the Bobcat hurler.

Goodin's second balk, when he lost control of the baseball when he was about to deliver a pitch in the second, also proved costly. "The balks helped, we got the breaks," Race said.

John Cunningham lined a two-out single in the home second, moved to second on the balk from where he scored on a Kitsock single.

The Bobcats got their only run, unearned, in the fourth with two out. Designated hitter Nick Georgiadis walked, Chris Spelman reached on an error and Eric Perry delivered Georgiadis with a his bloop single.

The Indians added an insurance tally in the fifth. Speedy Aris Leonard legged out an infield hit, stole second and scored on a DiYeso single just inside the third base bag.

Kevin Greene gives notice
he may be answer for EC

Finding a reliable No. 2 pitcher to go along with ace southpaw Marc Mangiafico is the main chore for East Catholic and Coach Jim Penders.

If Friday afternoon's encounter against All Connecticut Conference foe St. Joseph's of Trumbull is any indication, Penders may have found his answer in senior righthander Kevin Greene, who sported a dazzling 9-1 record two years ago as a sophomore.

Greene's performance on the mound could mean to the Eagles this season. "He (Greene) was ahead of most of the hitters," Penders said. "This is a big step for him and a big step for the team. If he can come around and if we can improve a little more defensively and with our bats, we're going to be a team to be reckoned with."

East remains unbeaten at 6-0 overall and 3-0 in the ACC. St. Joe's falls to 0-3 in the league and 2-3 overall. The Eagles will travel to West Hartford to take on Northwest Catholic today at 1 p.m.

Penders realizes how crucial
