Arms pact seen for chemicals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Barring a last-minute hitch, the United States and the Soviet Union will announce next week a landmark agreement to disclose their stockpiles of chemical weapons and permit inspection of their production facilities.

The emerging accord extends the principle of verification established in a 1987 U.S.-Soviet treaty to scrap all nuclear missiles with a range of 300 to 3,400 miles.

But the United States must first gain the cooperation of West Germany, on whose territory some U.S. chemical weapons are stored, U.S. officials said Wednesday.

Secretary of State James A. Baker III and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze would sign the agreement at their Sept. 22-23 meeting in Jackson Hole, Wyo., while making preparations for a superpower summit.

President Bush will see Shevardnadze in Washington on Sept. 21, an administration official said.

U.S. officials, who disclosed the latest arms control moves, said final details first must be ironed out by U.S. and Soviet experts.

"We are close," one official said.

The other key provision calls for short-notice inspection of each other's stockpiles and plants. It is designed as a model for an international treaty now under negotiation by 40 nations in Geneva.

The major sticking point in completing that accord is that the United States believes the Soviet Union has more chemical weapons than it is willing to acknowledge.

"We don't believe the Soviets, but we don't know how to find out how many more they have," an official said. "It's very difficult."

But he said the U.S.-Soviet memorandum is designed to serve as a "confidence-building" measure that could improve prospects for a 40-nation treaty.

The two superpowers, the only countries to admit possessing chemical weapons, began their negotiations four years ago and have had 12 rounds of talks in Geneva.

Democrats' caucuses were illegal

By Alex Girilli
Manchester Herald

The state Freedom of Information Commission upheld a Republican town director's complaint Wednesday that Democratic directors illegally caucused in private.

Democratic Town Chairman Theodore R. Cummings said today his party may file a counter-complaint against the Republicans for holding what he called secret meetings.

In a 4-0 vote, the FOI commission upheld Republican Director Ronald Osella's complaint that two Democratic caucuses held with Cummings present and two town attorneys violated the state's open meeting law because the Democrats, a quorum on the board, met with others present and discussed town business. The FOI Commission also ordered the Democrats to cease caucusing with others present.

In making the order, the commissioners accepted a recommendation by Commissioner Deane C. Avery that gatherings of the Democratic directors with Cummings present

Republicans rap DiRosa's plan to appeal decision of FOIC

By Nancy Concalman
Manchester Herald

Mayor Peter P. DiRosa Jr.'s plan to appeal a ruling rendering two caucuses of Democratic directors illegal shows that the Democrats do not want to obey the law, Republican Town Committee Chairman John I. Garside Jr. said Wednesday.

But DiRosa said today that he disagrees with the ruling Wednesday by the state Freedom of Information Commission. The ruling also says future caucuses of Democratic directors consistent in its findings that when a majority of a board meets to discuss board business with another person, the gathering is a meeting.

Michelle Peatman, general counsel for the FOI Commission, said the law defined caucuses in terms of who is attending. If something is being discussed that is agency business, no one else can attend.

Commissioner Gloria Schaffer said it is very clear that when anyone outside the agency attended the gathering it becomes a meeting.

At one point DiRosa said, "What you are saying is that Commissioner Avery's recommendation is the law as the FOI (commission) sees it."

Osella told the commission the law is workable and that "the commission has broad discretion to interpret the law according to case-specific facts as presented and argued at hearing." Osella said the purpose of the caucus is to discuss political party matters and that when the discussion shifts to discussion of public business, the FOI definition of "meeting" comes into effect.

Please see GOP, page 10

Meanwhile Cummings said today the Democrats will explore the possibility of filing a counter-complaint against the Manchester Republican Party. He said the party may also have violated the law when Republican directors caucused with Republican Town Chairman John Garside and with other political advisors.

Commissioner Joan Fitch, who moved to support the recommendation, said the commission has been

Study says earnings cap costs money

By NANCY BENAC
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The government could save $140 million a year by letting older Americans earn unlimited outside income without forfeiting Social Security benefits, two private research groups report today.

The new taxes paid by older workers who rejoin the labor force would more than offset the higher Social Security benefits that would be paid, the study said.

"Because the penalties for working are so high, many elderly workers are simply dropping out of the system and becoming more dependent on government instead," Rep. Dick Armey, R-Texas, said in an introduction to the report.

The report was sponsored by two Dallas-based groups, the Institute for Policy Innovation and the National Center for Policy Analysis. They released the report in conjunction with the House Republican Research Committee.

Under current law, older workers between the ages of 65 and 69 lose $1 in Social Security benefits for every $2 they earn above $8,880. The limit is $6,480 for workers under age 65, and there is no limit for those 70 or older.

Starting in 1990, benefits for those age 65-69 will be reduced by $1 for every $3 earned above the limit, which rises with growth in average wages.

Almost 1 million Social Security beneficiaries lose some or all of their benefits each year, and another 100,000 people in the 65-69 age group do not file for Social Security benefits, according to the Social Security Administration.

The researchers said their best estimate was that if the earnings limit were scrapped, at least 700,000 additional elderly retirees would enter the labor market. The nation's output of goods and services would increase by at least $15.4 billion, and government revenue would rise by $4.9 billion, outstripping increased Social Security payments by $140 million, they said.

Members of Congress have repeatedly made proposals to relax or repeal the earnings limits, including a plan approved by the House Ways and Means Committee to raise the earnings limit for those age 65-69 to approximately $10,440 by 1991. The Senate also has gone on record in favor of a higher earnings limit.

Today's study estimated the Ways and Means proposal would increase federal revenue by $700 million.

"Short of abolishing the earnings test, virtually any increase in the earnings limit would lead to an increase in federal revenue that would more than offset the increase in Social Security benefit payments," the researchers reported.

Proposed legislation to exempt senior citizens who take jobs as child care workers from the earnings limits was the focus of a hearing Wednesday by a subcommittee of the House Select Committee on Aging.

Dogs attack 3 children in day-care play yard

HARTFORD (AP) — A dog believed to be a pit bull terrier attacked three young boys after leaping over a fence and into a yard filled with children at a day-care center, a victim's relative said.

About 30 to 40 children were in the yard at the Nurture Nest Day-Care Center and Pre-School in Hartford when the attack occurred shortly before 11:30 a.m. Wednesday, a teacher said.

Daniel Downer, 3, of Bloomfield needed more than 40 stitches to close a gash to his left ear, said his father, Edward J. Downer. He said the dog bit through to the bone of his son's left arm and cut the child's other ear.

Downer was listed in good condition at Saint Francis Hospital and Medical Center in Hartford early today, a nursing supervisor said.

The two other boys were treated and released, the nursing supervisor said. Derrick Conrie, 3, of Hartford, was treated for a bite on his arm. The third boy's name was not available.

Edward Downer said he was told that a pit bull and a German shepherd jumped over the fence at the day-care center and into the yard where the children were playing.

Teachers from the school rounded up the other children, as one dog first bit two boys, and then attacked Daniel Downer, who had tried to stop the dog from biting a friend, Edward Downer said.

"The dog attacked a whole bunch of kids. Then the cook beat him in the head with a broomstick," said the father. "He hit him in the head several times" before the dog would let go.

Hartford police said they received

Gunman kills 5 in rampage at print plant

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A printing-company employee with an assault rifle and a handgun opened fire in the plant today, killing at least five people and wounding 14 before taking his own life, police said.

"It looks like a battle zone ... with the blood and the people involved there," Mayor Jerry Abramson said after touring the building adjacent to The Courier-Journal newspaper offices.

Police began a floor-by-floor search for victims because of the Standard-Gravure Co. building's many "nooks and crannies," Chief Richard Dotson said.

"The gunman was randomly firing at people throughout the Standard-Gravure building," Dotson said. "We found people shot on the third floor and we found people shot

About Town

Church meeting canceled

The Girls Friendly Society of St. Mary's Episcopal Church will meet next Friday instead of this Friday in the parish house on Park Street, at 7:30 p.m. Members are asked to bring articles for the penny auction.

Guitarist to play

The Coventry Arts Commission is having a coffee house featuring Cindy Pitts on acoustic guitar at Daniel's Park Lodge Coffee House on Lake Street. Admission is $2 and refreshments will be served.

Square dance slated

The Manchester Square Dance Club is having a mainstream level square dance on Saturday at Hilling Junior High School, 229 E. Middle Turnpike, from 8 to 10:45 p.m. The club caller, Earl Johnson, will call the dance and Joan and Armand Debrau will cue the rounds.

A round dance workshop will be given from 7:30 to 8 p.m. and refreshments will be served. Donations are $8 per couple. Spectators are welcome.

Crafts expo set

The Manchester Lions Club is having its eighth annual crafts exposition Saturday at Robertson Park on North Main Street, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. 40 craft dealers will offer items such as Christmas decorations, silk flower arrangements, wooden decorative plaques, and jewelry. Admission is free.

The Lions club will have items made by the blind and all the profits of the sale will go to eye research, local eye care for needy Manchester residents, and charitable projects of the Lions Club.

For more information, call Fred Thomas at 646-5068 or 872-4507.

Armory donations needed

The Manchester State Armory is taking donations at 330 Main St. for Connecticut's "Celebrity Tag Show" to benefit the homeless on Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Everything is needed except large appliances.

The tag sale was coordinated by the Hartford-based United Technologies Corp., in association with the Salvation Army, the Homebound Book Foundation, and more than 80 other businesses and service organizations.

On the same day and time, each community will hold its own event and donate the proceeds to an organization to benefit the homeless people in the area.

For more information, call the Manchester State Armory at 627-4868.

O-Anon support offered

A support group for the family and friends of compulsive creatives meets every Friday at Manchester Memorial Hospital at 7 p.m.

Depression to be discussed

Depression Anonymous, a support group for those suffering from depression, meets every Tuesday at Manchester Community College, in building room 242 on the second floor, at 6:30 p.m.

The group follows the twelve-step of Alcoholics Anonymous.

For more information, call Marie B. at 644-9046.

Bolton festival slated

The Bolton Lions Club is sponsoring the seventh annual Bolton Festival at Herick Park on Heron Road, from Friday, from 5 to 11 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

A chicken barbecue will be served Saturday from 12:30 to 4:30 p.m., $5.50 for adults and $4 for children. There will also be clowns, pony rides, a bluegrass band, a hayride, games, amusement rides and baked goods. Admission is free.

WATES meeting set

The Manchester WATES will meet Tuesday at 72 Main St., Weigh-in at 6:30 p.m., followed by a speech by drugist Roy Katz. New members are welcome.

Adopt a pet: Pepper awaits

By Barbara Richmond
Manchester Herald

Pepper, a very good looking English setter cross, is this week's featured pet at the Manchester Dog Pound. Pepper is black and white and was found on Birch Street, near Spruce Street, on Aug. 25.

He's a gentle dog that would make a good pet for someone. Baby, the little black cocker spaniel featured last week, has been adopted by a Vernon family.

Sandy, the blond male cocker spaniel, featured two weeks ago, is still waiting to have someone adopt him, as is Ebony, the black chow cross, featured a couple of weeks ago. Dog Warden Richard Rand said Ebony will have to be euthanized, if not adopted within the next week. He was found roaming on Route 364 on Aug. 22.

The little Labrador retriever cross puppy, mentioned in last week's column, has been adopted by a Manchester family. There were two new dogs at the pound, as of Tuesday. One is a male Bernese dog. He's tan and was found on Camp Meeting Road on Sept. 7.

The other is a female chocolate Labrador retriever cross. She was picked up roaming on Florence Street.

The dog pound is located on town property off Ocean Street near the landfill area. Rand is at the pound weekdays from noon to 1 p.m. There is also someone at the pound from 6 to 9 p.m., Monday through Friday.

The phone number at the pound is 643-6642. If there is no answer, call the police department at 644-4555.

There is a $5 fee to adopt a dog and the new owner must have the dog licensed. Before being licensed the dog must have a rabies shot.

Add to Helpless Animals Inc., a volunteer organization, has many cats and kittens in need of good homes.

This week's featured feline is Barney, a handsome gray and white tiger cat. Judy Lazorki, one of the volunteers for the organization, said Barney is about 18 months old. His owner moved to Europe and left money to care for him until he is placed in a good home.

Barney has been neutered and has had current rabies and distemper shots. Lazorki said he's very playful and his favorite pastime is looking out the window at the birds and squirrels, but he is afraid to go outdoors. He would make a great house pet for someone who has a large house for him to roam.

All of the cats and kittens put up for adoption are neutered or spayed and given their shots, unless too young when taken.

Because the organization relies on dues and donations to feed the cats and pay veterinary bills, it also has to raise money in other ways. Lazorki will have a giant tag sale at her home, 77 Wilbur Drive in Newton on Sept. 23. The rain date will be Sept. 24 and the public is urged to attend.

At the police station, police asked Carter if they could administer a breathalyzer test because statements by the witness and the victim led them to believe he may be drunk.

He consented to the test which showed he had a blood alcohol content of .125 about one and one-half hours after police first saw him driving. Thirty minutes later, a second test measured his blood alcohol content at .111, police reported. The law states a person with a level of .10 or higher is intoxicated.

Carter was rebooked for 24 hours, and he is being held on a $5,000 bond. A court date has not been scheduled.

Robert O. "Heavy" O'Leary, 48, of Vernon, died Wednesday (Sept. 13, 1989) at a local hospital. He was the husband of Cheryl O'Leary and the stepfather of Tammy McFarlane of Manchester.

He is also survived by a daughter, Elizabeth O'Leary of Vernon; two sons, Brian P. O'Leary of West Haven, and Robert A. O'Leary of Cromwell; his stepson, Christopher McFarlane of Vernon; three sisters, Kathleen McGuire of Waterford, M. Elizabeth O'Leary of Winsted, and Shannon Winters of Rocky Hill; and several nieces and nephews.

The funeral will be Saturday at 8:45 a.m. at the Sheehan-Hillborn-Breen Funeral Home, 1084 New Britain Ave., West Hartford, with a Mass of Christian burial at 9:30 at St. Michael Church, Hartford, at a time to be announced. Burial will be private and at the convenience of the family. Calling hours are Friday from 5 to 9 p.m.

Leon Macaro, 71, of East Hartford, died Tuesday (Sept. 12, 1989) at a local convalescent home.

He was the husband of Eva (Bard) Macaro, the father of Lama M. Reidy of Manchester and Bruce A. Macaro of Coventry, and the brother of Theresa Leighton of Manchester.

He is also survived by a brother, John Macaro, Jr. of Beverly, Mass.; a sister, Julie Tarloff of Benton, Maine; three grandchildren; and several nieces and nephews.

The funeral will be Friday at 10:15 a.m. at the Newkirk & Wines Funeral Home, 318 Burnside Ave., East Hartford, followed by a Mass of Christian burial at 11 a.m. at St. Isaac Jogues Church, East Hartford. Burial with full military honors will be in the Veteran's Memorial Field-Hillside Cemetery, East Hartford. Calling hours are today from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Memorial donations may be made to the American Cancer Society, 670 Prospect Ave., Hartford 06105.

Police Roundup

Pursuit ends in arrest

A 26-year-old Vernon man was charged with assault and interfering with a police officer after he led police on a foot-chase across Main Street through rush hour traffic Wednesday afternoon while being pursued for his involvement in a domestic dispute on Eldridge Street.

William J. Carter Jr., of 56 Brookside Lane, Vernon, was also charged with driving while intoxicated, operating an unregistered motor vehicle, possession of a weapon in a motor vehicle, possession of fireworks, and criminal mischief, all in relation to the incident, police reported.

The chase started after Manchester police responded to a report of a fight at Eldridge Street. When they arrived there, a woman who lives at the residence told police that Carter, her boyfriend, had punched her head a few times after they had an argument, according to police reports.

As police positioned the cruiser to pull him over, the lights turned green and Carter darted across Main Street onto Brainard Place, police reported.

They followed Carter into the Zipser Club parking lot, where he parked his car, got out, and walked toward the entrance. An officer told Carter to stop because he wanted to talk him. After a brief conversation in which police asked him if he wanted to "do this the easy way or the hard way," Carter responded "the hard way" and fled on foot down Brainard Street, across Main Street, and into the parking area at Grampy's gas station, police reported.

Two officers caught him near the gas pumps and forced him onto the hood of a car because he was struggling, police reported. He was arrested and taken to the police station.

Meanwhile, a search of his truck revealed the registration expired in July 1988, police said. Police also found an axe handle under the driver's seat, and illegal fireworks, police reported.

The decision also provides that rate design changes should be made to encourage water conservation. Effective immediately, minimum bills, which include charges for a certain amount of water, will not be increased, the DPUC said. Other measures may be considered later, the DPUC said.

The decision allows Connecticut Water a profit level of 13.6 percent and an overall return of 10.83 percent. The company had requested an increase of 86.9 million and 14.5 percent and 11.16 percent respectively.

Almost all of the increases awarded Wednesday are due to the $16 million Naugatuck Water Treatment Plant, which is expected to be completed and begin providing better quality water to customers by the end of the month, the DPUC said.

In the South Windsor area, where customers complained about the water's appearance, taste and smell, the decision orders the company to perform frequent detailed tests comparing its water with that provided by the Metropolitan District Commission.

"As this case makes clear, future supplies of good quality water will be much more costly than in the past," said Peter Boucher, DPUC chairman.

At a July 18 hearing before Avery, Webster agreed to provide computer printouts showing the sick and vacation time accumulated by Vincent during his years of employment with the town.

The final paycheck to Vincent was for $32,125.62. Harrison, superintendent of cemeteries, has said the union wanted information on what portion of the final paycheck represented accumulated vacation and sick time because the union members have an interest in it as members of the town pension plan. The final check for $32,125.26 represented what remained after deduction of state and federal taxes from a negotiated settlement of $43,000.

Vincent resigned last April after two months of turmoil over the town's failed attempt to do a 1987 revaluation.

The town has already complied with the order. Assistant Town Manager Steven Webster appeared at a hearing before the FOI Commission Wednesday and told the commissioners he had no objection to their approving the order, issued by Commissioner Deane C. Avery. Robert Harrison, who filed the complaint on behalf of Chapter 105 of the Civil Service Employees Association, did not appear at the hearing. He has said the union, which represents about 26 mid-management employees, was satisfied with the information provided under Avery's order.

Water rate is hiked

By The Associated Press
and the Manchester Herald

The Department of Public Utility Control has approved a $5.2 million rate increase for the Connecticut Water Co. that will affect a total of about 320 customers in Bolton and Coventry. DPUC and company officials said.

The amount approved Wednesday represents an increase of 18.5 percent on the company's base rates, but the average customer's bill will increase by 7 percent, the DPUC said. The reason for the difference is that customers have already been paying a temporary surcharge on bills, it said.

A few customers, who now pay a flat rate because their service is not yet metered, will see larger increases, since the decision approved the company's proposal to charge those customers a rate equal to the quarterly metered charge for 18,000 gallons of water, the DPUC said.

Connecticut Water Co., which recently acquired the former Lyman-Water Co., serves about 300 customers in Coventry and 20 to 30 in Bolton. Christopher Bogucki, administrative analyst for the company, said.

The decision also provides that rate design changes should be made to encourage water conservation. Effective immediately, minimum bills, which include charges for a certain amount of water, will not be increased, the DPUC said. Other measures may be considered later, the DPUC said.

The decision allows Connecticut Water a profit level of 13.6 percent and an overall return of 10.83 percent. The company had requested an increase of 86.9 million and 14.5 percent and 11.16 percent respectively.

Japanese educator, students swap information on schooling

By Rick Santos
Manchester Herald

In Japan, the schools have no custodians, and cleaning them is the responsibility of teachers and students.

That observation was made by Bennet Junior High School students while they watched a slide presentation by a Japanese teacher who is visiting Manchester this week.

Bennet social studies teacher Richard Williams said his students noted this as one of the major differences between U.S. and Japanese schools.

Their interpretation, although sounding simplistic, is rather insightful, said Williams who is serving as host to Hauru Uo, a teacher of English at the Higashi-Kusano Junior High School in Kozuhara, Japan.

At a press conference Wednesday at Bennet, Uo and Williams detailed many of the similarities, including the curriculum, length of the school day, the amount of class periods, length of class periods, and class sizes.

However one major difference is Japanese schools hold classes on Saturday, they said.

Uo, 31, is participating in a program in which Japanese teachers come to the United States for a month-long intensive course in English at Ohio State University and then visit U.S. schools to view the education system first-hand while sharing their experiences as teachers in Japan.

He and 21 other Japanese teachers involved in the program are currently visiting schools in the Greater Hartford area. He said he has wanted to come to the United States through this program for years, but he could not because he was not granted the opportunity.

He said the selection process is very competitive and long. It was about one year from the time he applied to the time he was chosen, he said. "For some, it takes four years," he added.

Uo said he was very interested in the differences between U.S. and Japanese schools. He said he was very impressed with the quality of the education system in the United States.

Town hall plan picks up support from Republicans

Some members of the Republican Town Committee Wednesday urged support of a Nov. 7 referendum allowing the town to take out $13 million in long-term bonds for renovation and expansion of municipal facilities.

But J. Russell Smyth, a candidate for the Board of Directors, said a New Britain architectural firm hired to design expanded offices has proposed a "Taj Mahal."

Sex disease tests growing business

FAIRFIELD (AP) — The testing for sexually transmitted diseases is a rapidly growing business, with consumers expected to spend $170 million on the tests this year, including $65 million by those concerned about the AIDS virus, according to a market research report.

The amount of money spent on testing for AIDS has more than doubled since 1987, when $25 million was spent, according to the study by Delco Scientific Resources, a Fairfield-based market research firm.

The money spent on testing for acquired immune deficiency syndrome far outdistances revenues received for other tests for sexually transmitted diseases, DSR reported Wednesday.

Consumers this year are expected to spend $25 million to test for HTLV-1, $24 million to test for chlamydia and $20 million to test for gonorrhea, DSR said.

In addition, Americans will pay $14 million on syphilis tests, $5 million on HPV (human papilloma virus) tests and $4.8 million on herpes tests this year, DSR predicted.

"The overall market for STD tests is poised to grow relatively quickly, as newer costlier tests tend to reduce the amount of labor and time spent on testing," the DSR report said.

Blood banks will spend about $62 million on the various tests, while hospitals will spend more than $100 million on the tests this year, the report said. But DSR predicts that the demand by blood banks for such tests will begin to lessen due to advances in technology.

The firm estimates that the market for the testing of sexually transmitted diseases will increase to $313 million a year by 1993.

Steven Delco, president of the research group, said the market for AIDS tests could reach $128 million by 1993. He said that was a conservative estimate and the amount of money spent on the AIDS tests could be much higher than projected due to changes in attitudes about AIDS testing.

"A month ago it was brought out that some of the therapeutics being used in the AIDS market are useful for people who don't show symptoms yet. Organizations are now saying everyone in high-risk groups should be tested because they could go on AZT treatment and prevent the disease from expressing itself," Delco said. "We might see a lot of people who have not been tested run out and get tested."

While the demand for AIDS tests will continue, the report predicts the fastest growth will be in tests for chlamydia and HPV segments. By 1993, Delco said he expects the chlamydia test market to be worth $35 million and the HPV market to increase to $60 million a year.

As for the other segments, Delco predicted that by 1993, $35 million will be spent on HTLV-1 tests, $26 million on syphilis tests, $23.5 million on gonorrhea tests and $5 million on herpes tests.

"There are many factors that contribute to the growth of sexually transmitted diseases," the report said. "The rapid spread of crack is leading to a rise in the syphilis rate in the inner city. Crack smoking, an expensive habit, has led addicted prostitutes to have sex with more and more partners, which has resulted in the greater spread of syphilis."

DERBY (AP) — A Derby man charged in the slaying of his neighbor, her son and granddaughter will have a difficult time getting a fair trial in this judicial district because of leaks about the investigation, a public defender said.

"Because of the leaks already made to the press we are going to have a heck of a time finding a jury that has not heard more than it should have heard," said David Egan, who was appointed by the court to defend Derek Roseboro.

Roseboro, 36, was ordered held on $1 million bond Wednesday following his release from Yale-New Haven Hospital, where he had spent 2½ weeks recovering from self-inflicted knife wounds. He was taken to the Connecticut Correctional Center in New Haven.

Roseboro was brought to Derby for booking at police headquarters and arraignment in Superior Court when he realized he was going to live, the reports said.

Egan praised state police and prosecutors for maintaining the confidentiality of the investigation, appearing to pin responsibility for the leaks on Derby police, who are assisting in the investigation.

In Derby, Assistant State's Attorney Frank McQuade asked Superior Court Judge Karen Nash Sequino to set bond in the triple homicide at $3 million, saying the slayings were among "the most heinous and savage acts that have ever been committed in this jurisdiction."

But Sequino accepted a bail commissioner's recommendation that bond be set at $1 million. Egan said the amount of bail was "totally academic" since Roseboro would be unable to go free even on lesser amounts.

The next hearing in murder case was set for Oct. 5 in Milford Superior Court.

Roseboro appeared gaunt and weak, and had difficulty walking. At New Haven Superior Court, he was arraigned in a downstairs lockup rather than in a courtroom and quickly sent off to Derby for arraignment on the more serious charges.

More than two dozen people, including Mayor Richard Grande and some relatives of the Ferrara family, gathered around the Derby police station to watch as Roseboro was brought in to be booked. The crowd was quiet as he was led into the station by sheriff's deputies and local police.

Roseboro was dressed in hospital clothes and still wore a hospital identification band around his right wrist. His mother, Gloria Roseboro, brought him a bag containing a change of clothes shortly after his arrival at police headquarters.

New warden appointed for Somers prison

HARTFORD (AP) — The warden of the Morgan Street detention center in Hartford has been appointed warden at the state's maximum-security prison in Somers, Correction Commissioner Larry R. Meacham said today.

Larry Tligham, warden at Morgan Street since November, has been a member of the Connecticut Department of Correction for 12 years, starting as a correction officer at Bridgeport Correctional Center and working his way up to Morgan Street warden.

Tligham succeeds George Brown as warden of the state's only maximum-security prison.

Brown Wednesday began his first day as warden of the minimum-security prison in Enfield, where seven people have escaped in the past six weeks.

Court drops cruelty case

NEW LONDON (AP) — A woman who allegedly operated a kennel where emaciated dogs were found suffering from a variety of physical ailments will not face cruelty to animal charges because she has been deported to Scotland.

Elizabeth Degerdon, who was deported Aug. 22, was originally charged with 48 counts of cruelty to animals, one count of unlicensed dogs and four counts of operating a kennel without a license.

A.A. Washon, Degerdon's attorney, on Wednesday presented Judge Seymour L. Hendel with documents from the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service that said she had been deported Aug. 22.

The cases can be reopened if Degerdon returns to the United States within 13 months.

State officials shut down Degerdon's Pleasant Valley Kennels in November because of alleged abuse to mastiffs.

Officials alleged she did not provide enough food or water to the animals and that most of the dogs weighed only half of what they should have. Officials said many of the dogs had physical ailments including open sores on their backs and legs.

Housing grant aids Coventry

By Jacqueline Bennett Manchester Herald

COVENTRY — The number of affordable housing units in town might increase thanks to a $300,000 federal housing rehabilitation grant, the town's community development director says.

"The grant will be of value in improving our stock of affordable housing," said Ann Zavisotki Wednesday.

Zavisotki said the town applied for the grant, which will be administered by the state, in April. The governor's office announced the award of the grant this week, she said.

"It will be a few months before we have the money in our bank account. There is a mountain of paperwork that would provide safe housing can be done," Zavisotki said.

However, money can not be used to add space, she said.

"The money is to help make a healthy, safe environment," she said. Although the grant is for rehabilitation of housing towns, the Coventry Lake area is targeted for improvement, Zavisotki said.

"Drive through the lake area, the Coventry Lake area is targeted for improvement, Zavisotki said. Drive through the lake area, the Coventry Lake area is targeted for improvement, Zavisotki said.

Lake area housing is divided into groups called associations. Zavisotki attributes the large number of units there to the fact that many homes built years ago as seasonal dwellings have been turned into year-round homes through zoning variances or grandfather clauses.

"You do run into some you just can't fix," she said. Income criteria for eligibility for the funds varies according to location and family size.

For example, a family of four in the lake area can have a maximum income of $33,500 to qualify for the program. A family of four elsewhere in town can have a maximum income of $20,850. A family of one in the lake area can have a maximum income of $23,350 and elsewhere a family of one can have a maximum income of $14,600.

Zavisotki said although money from this grant won't be available for a while, there is housing rehabilitation money currently available from a 1987 grant of $250,000. There is also money for sewer hookups to the town's sewer plant from a separate $225,000 grant awarded in 1988.

The town also received grants of $1 million and a half million in 1983 for housing rehabilitation and storm sewers. The town received another housing grant in 1985 of $300,000.

To date, 84 homes in town have been rehabilitated with the monies, Zavisotki said.

She added, "There are hundreds that still need rehabilitation." For more information call, 742-6010.

Shopping carts in river irritate conservationist

NORWICH (AP) — Motorists must often steer around shopping carts left in the parking lots outside stores, but a local attorney thought it was just too much when he had to navigate around scores of carts in the Yantic River.

Local conservation officials ordered Simon Konover Associates, owner of the Norwichtown Mall, and nearby William Backus Hospital to remove an estimated 150 shopping carts from a half-mile section of the river near the New London Turnpike after getting a complaint of a hydroelectric plant at the Yantic Falls, and proposes a park there instead.

Carbery and a friend were in the midst of a five- or six-mile canoe trip from Bozrah to Norwich on a recent Saturday when they discovered the shopping carts.

"When we passed under the New London Turnpike, we began to see a few shopping carts in the river, which one might expect near a major commercial center," Carbery said.

"But as we headed downstream, we saw more and more — an estimated 150, all through the river, in the water, on the bank, buried in the mud. We had to navigate around them," said Carbery, the unsuccessful Republican candidate for the 2nd Congressional District in 1988.

Carbery is one of the organizers of a new citizens group called Save Our Falls, which opposes construction of a hydroelectric plant at the Yantic Falls, and proposes a park there instead.

"We're working on the waterfront," he said. "We have to keep intrusions on the river to a minimum."

$3 million in bonuses to Bakkers

By Paul Nowell
The Associated Press

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — PTL founder Jim Bakker and his wife were given more than $3 million in bonuses as the ministry narrowly avoided a financial collapse during the mid-1980s, a witness and prosecutor said.

At Bakker's fraud trial Wednesday in U.S. District Court, former PTL finance director Peter Bailey read from more than 10 memos he had sent the evangelist between 1983 and 1985 detailing the TV ministry's chronic cash crisis.

"We are continuing to operate far in excess of what is coming in," Bailey read from a memo dated April 16, 1986, two weeks after Bakker got a $200,000 bonus. "The contributions are flat. We can have all the financial controls in the world but if we don't live within our means it doesn't mean anything."

Prosecutors contended Bakker took for his own use nearly $4 million earmarked for lodging at PTL's Heritage USA theme park and religious retreat near Fort Mill, S.C. If found guilty of the 24 counts of fraud and conspiracy, he could be sentenced to 120 years in prison and fined more than $5 million.

Prosecutors on Wednesday presented evidence that while Bailey was warning Bakker of financial trouble, Bakker and his wife, Tammy Faye, continued to receive large bonuses of up to $500,000 from the PTL board.

"Our payroll is far too high and cannot be sustained," Bailey wrote on March 12, 1984, as PTL was collecting $3 million a month in contributions and spending $7 million.

The next day, PTL's board voted Bakker a $300,000 bonus, which he soon used to buy a home in Palm Desert, Calif.

The prosecution testimony followed stories earlier this year from PTL contributors known as "lifetime partners." They said they spent $3,000 for the promise of three days of lodging every year at Heritage USA, but were turned away as planned hotels weren't completed.

Bailey said he frequently had to take money from lifetime partner accounts to pay bonuses to Bakker and PTL Vice President Richard Dortch, as well as other expenses. Dortch was sentenced last month to eight years in prison.

Among the other bonuses, Bailey said, in 1983 Bakker approved his dipping into PTL's savings account to pay operating expenses 10 days after the board approved bonuses totaling $150,000 for the Bakkers.

On Sept. 6, 1985, Bailey warned Bakker the ministry was surviving on lifetime partner donations and said cuts of 40 percent were needed immediately in the ministry payroll. On Nov. 12, 1985, the prosecutor said, Bakker got a $250,000 bonus from the board.

Oral Roberts needs a miracle to save hospital and school

By Brett J. Blackledge
The Associated Press

TULSA, Okla. — Evangelist Oral Roberts, the faith healer who built a religious empire on the credo "expect a miracle," says he can't wait for divine intervention to save his hospital and school.

Roberts, himself, caused a furor in 1986 when he announced he needed $8 million for his medical school next year, Roberts said Wednesday. His home, four other ministry-owned houses and a university housing complex will be sold to pay off the debts, he said.

"I hope we can look back at this and say this wasn't a failure," the 71-year-old pioneer of television evangelism told reporters. "I don't think it's as bad a day as it seems. I think we'll look back on this and think it's the right thing."

Roberts said the action would help keep the 4,300-student Oral Roberts University financially secure.

Mayor Roger Randle agreed, adding that the City of Faith hospital, which opened in 1981, "was born in controversy and was a big gamble on the proposition that a national medical market could be created."

The hospital part of a futuristic complex with 60-story, 30-story and 20-story gold-tiled towers was to be assisted in obtaining transfers to other medical schools, he said.

Roberts said, "I would do it again."

The ministry's financial problems were compounded by a drop in monthly contributions that Roberts blamed on a "spirit of skepticism" in the wake of scandals involving fellow evangelists Jim Bakker and Jimmy Swaggart.

Probe opens into mine blast that killed 10

By Associated Press

WHEATCROFT, Ky. (AP) — A fiery methane gas explosion, smoke and dust figured in the deaths of 10 miners in the nation's worst coal mine disaster in five years, officials said as a federal investigation got under way.

"It was just a big boom. The cars popped and that was it. The dirt flew," said Tony Hawkins, who was installing support timbers in the mine about a half mile from the explosion Wednesday morning. "It was just scary. My knees started shaking."

Hawkins said he and others helped to evacuate some miners who scrambled out of the smoky blast into about 1,000 feet underground in the Puro Mining Co.'s William Station Mine.

By late Wednesday, rescue teams had removed 10 bodies, which were taken to the state medical examiner's office for autopsies, and all other miners were safely accounted for, authorities said.

"We always live under the danger that there is something there that could take us out of this world," said the Rev. Bobby Joe Williamson, pastor of the New Harmony Rock Springs Baptist Church in Wm. Station.

"All I could do was just listen to them and let them cry," said the Rev. Brad Whittle of St. Ann's Catholic Church in Morgantown. "Despair is despair. I just listened to them."

Some patients in New York City emergency rooms are waiting for hospital beds for more than a week, said Dr. Stephen G. Lynn, director of emergency medicine at St. Luke's-Roosevelt Hospital Center in New York City.

Miss Louisiana Stacey King, a green-eyed 5-foot-5 blonde who weighs 105 pounds, wore a white swimsuit with spaghetti straps at the shoulders.

To stay in shape, Miss King plays softball, dances, bicycles and trains with weights every day.

She said she also ran up and down steps at the high school stadium. "All those stadium steps really paid off," Miss King said.

She said one of her biggest sacrifices for the pageant was giving up chocolate chip cookies. "I gave them up right after I won the state pageant on June 18 — that's 20 1/2 months. If I lose in Atlantic City, I'll eat a lot of them."

She said she would allow herself the two chocolate chip cookies left for each contestant before bed as part of a sponsor promotion.

Miss King, a 23-year-old from Tulsa, has a degree in fashion merchandising from Louisiana Tech University and plans to obtain a degree in dental hygiene. Eventually, she said she hopes to combine both degrees to design work uniforms.

Miss Oklahoma Tamara Denise Toshiko Marler, a 26-year-old from Tulsa, said she did not rehearse her selection during the day.

"I don't practice because it's not fresh that way," she said. "It's just not real."

Miss Marler said "Since I Fell For You" is special because she listened to it during her childhood with her mother, who is at the pageant.

She said the song rarely fails to "move listeners because 'when you sing love songs... about hearts getting broken, the audience can feel it'."

For her performance, she wore a full-length navy silk gown beaded with Mediterranean blue bugle beads and featuring a sweetheart neckline.

Miss Marler is a marketing graduate of the University of Tulsa and hopes to become a lawyer.

The three nights of preliminary competitions and interviews with the judges will become the top 10 finalists. Those 10 will start with a clean slate Saturday night, competing to succeed Miss America 1989 Gretchen Elizabeth Carlson.

Emergency rooms care is assailed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Getting emergency room treatment in some hospitals can be as stressful these days as the emergency itself, say physicians who warn another health-care crisis is looming.

In some cities, ambulances roar the streets trying to find an emergency room that has space and patients can wait hours, even days, in the emergency department for a hospital bed to become available.

"This is the future health care crisis," said Dr. Charlotte S. Yeh, a board member of the American College of Emergency Physicians and chief of emergency medicine at the Newton-Wellesley Hospital in Newton, Mass.

"We are the safety net," she said. "When you're sick and don't have anywhere to go and you're scared and don't know what you've got, our doors are open 24 hours a day, seven days a week. But we're becoming overloaded."

"The net is being stretched so thin we're worried about the future of the health care system," she said.

Emergency physicians described the problems Wednesday as they released a draft report based on a survey of the college's state chapters.

The pressure on hospital emergency rooms is coming from the growing AIDS epidemic, increased use of legal drug use and an estimated 37 million Americans who have no health insurance and who get health care only through emergency rooms.

Adding to the burden are medical staff shortages, financial pressures that are leading a growing number of hospitals to close their doors, and an inadequate number of nursing home beds, they said.

Doctors invent 'Lazy Way' to Lose Weight

By Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — A new pill called "Lazy Way" is being tested in Los Angeles that reportedly "guarantees" you'll lose fat and calories reduction by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

The U.S. government has just approved the doctor's claims for a hard-to-get patent that confirms, "It has never been anything like other fat-burning pills in process before." It is a revolutionary scientific breakthrough and is revolutionizing the weight loss industry.

You Can "Eat Normally" — eat your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire without exercising.

Flashes Fat Out of Body — The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undigested fat particles. Then, all the trapped fat and calories are naturally "flushed" right out of your body because they cannot be absorbed.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

According to some of the inventors, Dr. William Shell, heart specialist and associate professor of medicine at UCLA medical school, "the new fat-burning process is a 'lazy way' to lose weight because the pills alone 'automatically' reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat. It is 100% safe and not a drug."

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now slimmer, trimmer and more attractive again.

Now Available to the Public — If you are trying to lose 20, 30, 40, 50, 60, 70, 80, 90, 100, 110, 120, 130, 140, 150, 160, 170, 180, 190, 200, 210, 220, 230, 240, 250, 260, 270, 280, 290, 300, 310, ## Hurricane wreaked havoc Hurricane Carol struck 35 years ago last week, and everyone who was there must have something to remember. Well, almost everyone. Not all who found themselves in the eye of the storm can say much about the experience. Indeed, one such veteran turned up yesterday when one of our colleagues, a member of the news staff since 1952, was asked to reminisce about the disaster that killed 19 Rhode Islanders, injured scores more, and caused $90 million in property damage.

This particular fellow, back home in Warwick in the wee hours after last night's reporting duties, promptly went to sleep. He woke to bright sunshine in the early afternoon, but had only to look out the window to see devastation all around. Carol's 115-mile-an-hour winds hadn't disturbed him at all.

He was so lucky. The state's shoreline was wiped clean of habitation in many areas extending up to Providence, and downtown Providence itself was flooded almost as badly as it had been in the catastrophic 1938 hurricane.

The second visitation in this century of nature's fury led to construction of the hurricane barrier, which is intended to protect Providence from such damage in the future. And of course, weather forecasting is a rather more scientific enterprise now, so Rhode Islanders are better able (we trust) to brace for future storms of comparable magnitude.

— Providence Journal, Providence, R.I.

When settlement spanned the continent, a similar pattern developed in the West, with most of the region's major cities — including Seattle, Portland, San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego — located along the Pacific coast.

Even the emergence of air and ground transportation in this century has not affected the pattern of the concentrated development at the ocean's edge, in part because of people's affinity for living near the shore. Indeed, some demographers predict that 80 percent of the nation's population will live within 50 miles of the shoreline by the end of the century.

But a contrary trend — fueled by the soaring costs of land, labor and housing in densely developed coastal cities — has emerged in recent years. With little fare, both people and the companies for which they work have started moving in-

'Miss Mary' lauded

Recently, the character of New York resident Leona Helmsley was held thrust upon the American public, due to her criminal conviction on tax evasion charges.

Mrs. Helmsley made the now famous statement that, "Only little people pay taxes."

It cannot be disputed that Leona Helmsley is certainly not a little person. She and her husband are reputed to be worth 1/2 billion dollars. Their $11 million dollar mansion in Connecticut has 28 rooms. A $1 million dollar pool house, a $100,000 stereo system and a $210,000 table are just a few of her luxuries (they also own the Empire State Building).

Leona Helmsley did not let wealth interfere with her character as she fired an employee with a family on Christmas Eve, made a domestic worker pay for her groceries once when they were over-ordered, fired another worker for eating an apple on company time, refused to pay a contractor who had six children and was labeled "a mean person" by the hotel doorman.

In contrast to Leona Helmsley, let us consider the exemplary life that Mary Cheney, daughter of Frank Cheney, pursued as a resident of Manchester. She was fondly called "Miss Mary" by all who knew her.

The beloved Miss Mary lived in the brick house that became a part of the South Methodist Church. She inherited a large estate from her parents (her father was one of the original brothers) and dedicated herself to helping the underprivileged. Miss Mary worked to provide scholarships to promising poor children. She served on the school committee and library organization, and at Christmas time Miss Mary worked tirelessly to deliver gifts to every child in the Ninth District.

Also at Christmas time, Miss Mary provided aid to the town's needy families. She would allow no publicity to be made of this fact and kept no names of who received aid. Those who were helped by Miss Mary's generosity later would relate her good deeds.

Thanks Terry

To the Editor:

As a resident of Greenwood Drive and the father of two students at Buckley Elementary School, I wanted to take this opportunity to thank Mr. Thomas Werkhoven for his efforts to have a stop sign installed on our street. It was that the sign installed on our street. It was that the sign installed on our street. It was that the sign installed on our street.

Greenwood Drive has long been a shortcut between East Middle Timpone and Vernon Street. Automobiles literally "fly" by during the school day and without sidewalks, it is dangerous for everyone. Mr. Werkhoven obviously listened to the people and our public safety in recommending this needed change.

Thanks Terry and keep up the good work!

Cops control town

To the Editor:

I saw a beautiful sign Saturday when driving through Manchester. Two huge hot air balloons, 1 and quite a few others followed the balloons to where they landed off of Lyall Street.

Among those following were the Manchester Police. Sure enough, no sooner than the balloons landed, he was arrested for creating a public disturbance. Well, I'm the public and I wasn't disturbed.

We shouldn't be worrying about the Russians invading us — their philosophy already has a pretty strong foothold at the Manchester Police Department. Anyone who does anything the least bit out of "their" established norm finds themselves arrested. One must always get the police chief's permission first.

The individual who set up his balloon ride business should have asked the public first.

Thanks to town

Editor's note: The following was addressed to the people of Manchester.

To the Editor:

On behalf of the entire University of Connecticut Health Center family and especially our pediatric oncology program, please accept our most heartfelt gratitude for the gift of $4,000 raised at the Brotherhood's 1989 Community Breakfast. Your gift has been designated for toys to Disney World for youngsters in our pediatric oncology program and has been deposited in the University of Connecticut Foundation, which administers gifts to the health center.

This gift is especially meaningful to us since it embodies the spirit of positive community involvement, which is one of the principles to which the health center is deeply committed. Groups like the Brotherhood in Action inspire us all and give us hope. Working together, we can make substantial progress toward the goal of curing all children who come to us for help.

Again, please convey to all members of the Brotherhood and especially to those involved with the breakfast, our deepest thanks and appreciation.

Karate aids kids

To the Editor:

As parents, we want our kids to be safe, well-disciplined, and respectful of authority. Thousands of kids have benefited from proper training in karate, gaining a self-respect that makes it easier for them to "say no" to the negative influences in their lives, like drugs and peer pressure.

I invite everyone, especially families with kids, to come to an Open House at 500 Talcottville Road in Vernon on Saturday, from 1 to 4 p.m. There will be demonstrations of self-defense techniques for women and children, and you can hear real stories from local residents who have benefited from karate training. Demonstration teams include local kids from Vernon, Manchester, Tolland and Ellington.

I hope to see you there. Bring the kids!

'New look' is nice

To the Editor:

Just a note to say that I like the Herald's "new look" very much. It certainly is more attractive and easier to read.

Death threat serious

WASHINGTON — The Secret Service is taking seriously a reported plot by Colombia's Medellin cocaine cartel to assassinate President Bush by November.

Ten cartel assassins are allegedly hiding out on a ranch in the Mexican border state of Chihuahua waiting for false identification to carry in the United States. They are also quietly shopping for a ride from the border to Wheeling, W. Va. That hilly city, a 5-hour drive from Washington, would allegedly serve as their base camp for the assault.

We have learned the details of the raw intelligence that the Secret Service has received from a reliable government informant with close ties to Colombia. The Secret Service has checked out five reports of cartel assassination plots in recent weeks. But a source close to the investigation told our associate Jim Lynch that this is the first tip considered reliable and serious enough to warrant telling the president.

At press time, one source told us the Secret Service agents flew to Texas last week to meet with the informant briefed them on the details of the plot.

There is allegedly a $3 billion bounty on Bush's head financed in part by cocaine kingpins who have already been jailed in the United States, such as Carlos Lehder, who is serving a life sentence.

At press time, one source told us the Secret Service was having trouble pursuing the leads. US intelligence in the badlands of Chihuahua is almost nonexistent. And the informant fears for his life, refused to be part of a government sting. The Secret Service is at a loss to pinpoint where the assassins will try to cross the border. They would most likely wade across the shallow Rio Grande.

The hit team reportedly was assembled last December, when Arafat applied for a visa to participate in the annual U.N. debate on the Palestinian issue. Secretary of State George Shultz refused the request on the grounds that the PLO is a terrorist organization, and the General Assembly voted to relocate to Geneva for three days, at a cost of about $1 million, to hear the wit and wisdom of Chairman Arafat. The resolution to relocate, which "deports" the denial of Arafat's visa, passed by a vote of 154-2. Only the United States and Israel voted against it.

This year the matter is even more complicated because Arafat came up with a formulation in December which satisfied the American demand that he renounce terrorism and accept Israel's right to exist. Now the United States and the PLO are ostensibly conducting a "dialogue."

So it goes, year in a year out, at the United Nations Theater on the East River. It has been thus since the early 1970s, when the new nations created from the old European colonies began to realize their constituencies. Suddenly, the air became thick with anti-Western rhetoric.

In 1974, for example, the General Assembly president was a revolutionary Algerian named Abdelaziz Bouteflika. Obviously favoring ideology over impartiality, he made several momentous decisions. He boycotted South Africa out of assembly, breaking the U.N. Charter which leaves such matters to the 15-member Security Council. (I do not mean to share the opinion that the issue here is legality and fairness.) He accorded a pistol-toting Yasser Arafat all the trappings of a head of state. And he limited the debate on the Palestinian issue to one major speech per delegate, making it exceedingly difficult for Israel to respond to the charges of the Arab states.

In subsequent years, the member nations have come down on the side of terrorist groups; politicized cultural, educational and health organizations; and sided with the Soviet Union on as many as 95 percent of key votes in a given year.

There is one vote every year, however, in which all members favor the United States. It's the one that adopts a formula calling on the United States to pay about one-third of the organization's budget — nearly $1 billion.

And this gets to my main point: I believe, in free dialogue among nations. But I also believe that if I am paying for the forum from which they speak, the least I can expect in return is fair play and some small measure of respect.

These are clearly not the rules that most of the U.N. members want to live by. So I say move the damn thing. Somewhere it all to Geneva. Or take it where the real money is — to Riyadh or to Medellin.

He had a similar experience when he looked up at a wall with a window that overlooked the parking lot north of the building.

Later the wall was removed, probably when the Building Inspection Division was moved into Lincoln Center.

Telltale signs of the partition remained for years across the floor.

A recent visitor to the building did a double take when he walked down that corridor. There was the old partition back in place and the room is now really a closet.

The visitor was disoriented for only a moment. He had a similar experience when he looked up at a wall with a window that overlooked the parking lot north of the building.

There is difference of opinion on what should be done inside the building when and if measures are taken to provide more space for municipal offices. Some people say the central stairway should be removed because it is a distinctive feature. Others say the stairway is ugly when viewed from the rear, which is the way most people enter the building, since the main parking lot is in the back.

Whatever happens, everyone will probably agree that the building will be better when the many interior appendages created over the years are removed once and for all.

According to club tradition, before each meeting Rotarians share "happy thoughts" with fellow members that include birthday and anniversary announcements, jokes and accomplishments.

Each thought costs members $1.

Members are also required to attend every meeting and must pay a $1 fine for missed meetings. Members are also fined $1 each time they forget to wear their club badges.

Fines are also levied against the club president for swearing at a meeting, Rotarian Leo J. Barrett said.

The money goes to the club treasury and ultimately to charity, he said.

Not too shabby, considering that the total male enrollment at the school is 137.

We can't forget worth of workers

Thomas L. Stringfellow

The annual Labor Day celebration on Sept. 4 reminded me that we must never forget to uphold the rights of American workers.

We should be aware of the plight of the migrant health care, custodial, vocational, professional and technical workers.

I saw a 1988 ABC news story about Mr. Cesar Chavez, president of the United Farm Workers Union in California. This courageous man almost died on a 36-day fast in protest over harmful pesticides that were sprayed on grapes. The after effects included birth defects, illness and a few medically related deaths.

Another person who labors hard on behalf of workers is Danny Perez, a full-time union organizer for the United Ladies and Garment Association in Hartford.

I also remember a new show of solidarity after I left a June 24 State Postal Union convention in South-that since our membership is cut in half at 17 percent it may become harder to recruit new members during the 1990s. Our leadership is not perfect but we have concerned people such as Ms. Betty Tianti, the state labor commissioner, whose efforts focus on making fair wages, working conditions and health benefits keep up with the cost of living standards.

All union leaders realize that retraining and reorganizing and changing some past attitudes are all vital for survival. Cultural and gender differences at various positions can also help. A new study about ethics and violent extremism against non-union employees must be addressed soon.

Landers drops case of racial complaint

By Nancy Connelman
Manchester Herald

Attorney Ellen Burns-Landers, a Republican candidate for the town Board of Directors, is no longer representing a town employee accused of broadcasting a racist remark over a car loudspeaker.

Mark Sevetz, an assistant town building officer, said Landers will not represent him in part because the two are friends. He refused to comment on the case and would not say whether he has found another attorney. He was scheduled to appear in Manchester Superior Court on a charge of breach of peace Monday, but his case was continued in court until Sept. 25, court officials said.

Court officials said today they do not have an attorney listed for Sevetz's case.

Burns-Landers' withdrawal of the case was by "mutual agreement,"

Sevetz, 37, who lives in Wethersfield, is accused of broadcasting a racist remark to Jeanette Cave, 41, director of the Manchester Senior Citizens Center, while both were driving on Tolland Turnpike Sept. 1.

Cave filed a complaint with police, who arrested Sevetz Sept. 6. Sevetz has denied Cave's charges.

He said he didn't think Burns-Landers' decision to withdraw from the case had anything to do with the fact that both are Eighth Utilities District volunteer firefighters. He refused to comment on whether the decision is related to Burns-Landers' candidacy.

Assistant Town Manager Steven R. Weberman said Tuesday Sevetz has been informed that any report of the alleged incident is grounds for his termination.

Sevetz was arrested Sept. 6. He was released on $5,000 bail. He is scheduled to appear in court on Sept. 25.

O'Neill makes it official

By Len Ausler
Manchester Herald

HARTFORD (AP) — Gov. William A. O'Neill has been insisting for months that he intends to seek re-election despite polls showing his popularity sagging. Now he's made it official.

James A. Wade, a Hartford attorney and one of O'Neill's political confidantes, said he filed papers forming the "Gov. Bill O'Neill Re-Election Committee" with the secretary of the state's office just before the office closed at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Although O'Neill isn't expected to formally announce his candidacy until March, Wednesday's filing allows him to start raising — and spending — the $4 million he is expected to need for his 1990 re-election campaign.

O'Neill, who took office in 1980, saw his popularity plummet this spring and summer as the General Assembly was forced to pass nearly $1 billion in new taxes, the largest tax increase in state history.

One poll taken just after the tax increases were enacted showed O'Neill's popularity at its lowest level in six years, with 67 percent of those surveyed rating his performance as "poor."

But O'Neill, 59, said earlier this month that he thinks he's on the sound side and expressed confidence he could turn back any challenges from within the Democratic Party.

O'Neill faces a potential challenge for the Democratic nomination from U.S. Rep. Bruce Morrison, D-3rd District, who has said he is considering a run.

Morrison, who said his decision wouldn't be based on what O'Neill decided to do, argued O'Neill aids and party leaders by saying the governor couldn't win another term "if the election were held today."

The only announced Republican gubernatorial candidate is millionaire businessman Joel Schiavone of New Haven. U.S. Rep. John Rowland of the 5th Congressional District is also expected to seek the GOP nomination.

The New Haven Register, quoting unidentified sources, reported today that Morrison will announce in the next week or so that he plans to run for the office.

The "power" always are a laughable 37½ feet, the foul poles are 31½ feet away. Umpires have to be a home run.

Finding yourself in the Kingdome with Jose Canseco is like finding yourself in an elevator with a lion. Nevertheless, Mark Langston won 19 games in this closest in 1987, a year when 218 home runs rattled out in the Kingdome.

Langston learned early on the importance of geography. Pitching in that glorified tent, Langston won 17 games, led the league in strikeouts, even had two shutouts, in 1984. His rookie season. Nobody even looked up. Meanwhile, over in New York, another rookie pitcher, Dwight Gooden won the same number of games, did not lead the league in strikeouts and only had one more shutout. But, he became a rookie of the year. Doogie K. and, the next year, Cy Young winner. Langston became "What'd-you-say-his-name-was-again?"

Old What's his name has more lifetime strikeouts than Dr. K. He has led the league three times in strikeouts. He struck out 16 in a throwing a game (against Toronto) last year. He just missed a no-hitter, throwing a one-hit game against Texas.

Yet, he had to hire a Hollywood publicity firm to get his name in the papers.

He played in the Kingdome on a pitch that finished last two of the five seasons he pitched there and next to last in two others. He knew he had to get out of there. So, he forced a trade. And he got to go — in, da! Montreal!

Now, Montreal is not exactly the show-biz capital of the world. It's a nice place to visit, but I wouldn't want to pitch there. At least in Seattle, they knew he was a hurler and not a lanceur. And Mark has no great desire to become Doctor Retraits Au Baton. He probably knew he was in trouble the minute he stepped off the plane and someone addressed him as mon vieux (old friend). The trouble with Montreal is their heroes come with hockey sticks attached. Everyone else is Coco Laboy.

So, when does Mark What's-His-Name get to play the Palace, trol the boards at the Old Vic, so to speak, get on prime time? He needs a compass, not a curve. Fame and fortune lies south and Langston seems to be looking for the Northwest Passage. One more move and he'll need a dog sled.

Montreal would like to keep him. He's the best lanceur they've got. But the Expos would have liked to have kept Andre Dawson, Gary Carter, Rusty Staub and Warren Cromartie. They all went over the wall. Tim Lincecum tried. Andre Dawson even signed a blank contract at Chicago rather than go back over the border.

Montreal took a calculated risk in trading for Langston. He becomes a free agent at the end of the year. Montreal is hoping he will find their city rich in Old World charm.

Montreal's general manager, Bob Rodgers, is acutely aware of the problem.

I know. Everybody wants to play in Southern California or New York," he admits. "What we have to do is convince them we have a first-class operation here, that it doesn't snow in Montreal in July, and that it just might be one of the best places in baseball to win a pennant."

Gerard Rodgers acknowledges lanceur Langston, who has won 10 games for the Montreal Expos since his escape from Seattle, will be avidly sought when he reaches free agency this fall. "He has great stuff, but he's a pitcher not a thrower. He could mean a pennant to a number of teams. I would hope one of them would be us."

It's almost like Langston isn't there

The proposition for Mark Langston, the baseball player, is really quite simple: does he want to be a left-handed pitcher or a lanceur gaucher? Do he want to be known as a strikeout king or le roi des retraits au baton?

Can he cope with an environment where an earned-run average is a mayone des points merie with an acrid over the "C"? Where his fastball is known as a rapide and his slider as a glissante? And his curve is spelled courbe? The changepu is a changement de vitesse. A walk is a but sur balles?

Does Kevin Mitchell look any easier to pitch to because he's a fappeur instead of a power hitter? Is a home run any easier to give up because it's a coup circuit? Is it any more comforting to give up a base hit when it's described as a coup sur?

Like to see your shutout referred to as a blanchissage. Would you?

French is a beautiful language. I mean, it's got words such as Beaujolais and mon petit chou. It's the language of love.

But is it the language of baseball? Does the game lose something in translation? Ballplayers who play the game in Montreal tend to feel they're on a demonstration tour of southern France. "You never feel as if you have a home game," Ron Fairly, who played there for five years and rolled up several hundred coups sur, once observed. "The weather was very changeable. It ranged from bad to terrible. The announcer used to come on in the morning to predict the day would be "cold and windy with intermittent daylight."

Mark Langston is the curious pitcher in the grand old game but found himself on the mound for the Seattle Mariners. That's like Canseco windingup in a barber-shop quartet, Laurence Olivier in "Smoky and the Bandit II."

The Mariners are less a team than a sitcom. Pitching in the Kingdome is not a job, it's a sentence. Four times in its brief history, it has been the home run capital of the world. Most of those were hit by the visitors.

The "power" always are a laughable 37½ feet, the foul poles are 31½ feet away. Umpires have to be a home run.

Montreal took a calculated risk in trading for Langston. He becomes a free agent at the end of the year. Montreal is hoping he will find their city rich in Old World charm.

Montreal's general manager, Bob Rodgers, is acutely aware of the problem.

I know. Everybody wants to play in Southern California or New York," he admits. "What we have to do is convince them we have a first-class operation here, that it doesn't snow in Montreal in July, and that it just might be one of the best places in baseball to win a pennant."

Gerard Rodgers acknowledges lanceur Langston, who has won 10 games for the Montreal Expos since his escape from Seattle, will be avidly sought when he reaches free agency this fall. "He has great stuff, but he's a pitcher not a thrower. He could mean a pennant to a number of teams. I would hope one of them would be us."

Indians steered by Craft

By Jim Tierney
Manchester Herald

VERNON — There was a small "Craft" warning in effect Wednesday afternoon as the visiting Manchester High boys' soccer team battled Rockville High in the 1989 opener for both teams.

This particular warning had nothing to do with boats, but, rather a small, yet determined Indian striker. After missing half of last season with an ankle injury, Manchester senior co-captain Corey Craft set a personal goal for the 1989 campaign.

"I set a goal to try to score in every game," the 5-5, 123-pound Craft said.

Craft certainly lived up to his own expectations as he scored both Indian goals in their 2-1 win in CCC East action.

Manchester will host Wethersfield in a non-conference game Saturday morning at 10 at Memorial Field.

"We lost almost our whole team from last year," Craft, the center striker said. "We lost all our scorers. We're not as big as last year, but we have a lot of talent. We can go just as far this year."

Craft was referring to last year's 16-3-1 CCC East champion squad which advanced all the way to the Class LL state championship before bowing to Cheshire. All but one starter — senior co-captain Dave Stephenson — graduated from that team.

Six minutes into the match, Craft received a through pass from sophomore Jeff Ross and beat Rockville goalie John Apinis to the left corner of the net. Midway through the first half, Indian junior Nigel Cooper stole the ball and fed junior Dwayne Goldston, who placed a perfect pass on the foot of Craft. Craft, from eight yards out, lifted his shot over a diving Apinis for a 2-0 Manchester lead.

"They were just give and goes," Craft said of his goals. "Dwayne on the second goal made a beautiful pass."

Rockville aligned the lead to 2-1 five minutes later when Matt Hewes sent a perfectly placed header off a 40-yard direct kick past Manchester junior netminder Mike Milazzo.

The second half was dominated by defense, especially by the play of Indian junior stopper Troy Guntulis.

"He (Guntulis) did an excellent job on David (Allely)," Indian coach Bill McCarthy said.

Craft nearly had a third goal of the game four minutes into the second half after a nifty move in the box. Apinis, however, made a fine save. With five minutes left, Milazzo broke up the potential equalizer when Allely rushed the goal.

"I think we have a good team," Rockville coach Chuck Siskind said. (But) Manchester taught us a lesson today. They spread out the field very well. I was impressed with their passing. We knew they had quality players coming up. They did a job on us. They beat us. You look at there and it's hard to tell that these kids are new."

McCarthy was relieved with the win.

"We were really worried about Rockville because they're a strong team," he said. "They drew us off our game. We had an experienced team last year and we came back with an inexperienced team this year. I'm really proud of these guys."

Manchester also took the junior varsity match, 3-2. Greg King had two goals and Bob Post scored the other. Dave Cain anchored the Indian defense.

Hornets' Conti hits mark as ECHS drops its opener

By Len Ausler

GOING UP — East Catholic's Dave Toomey, Wednesday's opener between the two left, and East Hartford High's Stuart Perry are off the ground as they go for the ball during the first half for a 3-0 victory.

and put a bouncer home past wondering Eagle goalie Jim Taurus.

"I didn't think he (Conti) would even make the team before the season," Governale, making his varsity debut as head coach, said. "I'm not sure of his skills but he has tremendous speed and aggressiveness."

For Main, the opener was something he doesn't want to see duplicated too often this campaign. After a post-game skull session, Main held a mini-instructional camp for his troops, going over some of the mistakes they made before the memory faded.

"A lot of the fullbacks were allowing them to make inside runs, instead of forcing them to the outside," Main explained the training session.

What didn't Main like? "I didn't like the early mental mistakes," he answered. "We were not marking people and the fullbacks were playing flat (straight across). We don't preach playing flat and we got caught on it."

The first Hornet goal occurred at the 22:35 mark, off a corner kick. It came into the area, the Eagle defense was guilty of not clearing it quick enough, and East Hartford's Brian Mahoney drilled it into the cage.

What I liked was the balance of speed and skill you saw," Governale said. "And the midfielders were delivering some nice balls into the box."

A long ball set up the second score. Mahoney collided with Taurus going after the loose ball, and when it came loose Conti, fully aware of his surroundings, blasted it into the cage.

He would duplicate that feat later on for the final reading.

"Give East Hartford credit. When the ball was in the scoring area, they went aggressively to the ball," Main said. "With a young team, you have to be patient. I thought we played a decent second half."

East's next game is Friday on the road at South Windsor High.

MHS girls open season in impressive fashion

Five-time defending Central Connecticut Conference East Division girls' soccer champion Manchester High was touted as having a fine team in the preseason, and the Indians gave an indication of that in their opener Wednesday as they dominated visiting Rockville High, 5-0, at Memorial Field.

Sophomore Mary Moriarty had the Indians' first goal of the year in the 13-minute mark of the first half with an unassisted 18-yard shot into the upper corner of the cage.

Freshman Sharon Fish, with the first of two goals, made it 2-0 six minutes later with an 8-yard grounder that eluded Ram keeper Nancy Zibby. Fish closed out the scoring at the 29-minute mark with a volley off a corner kick.

"Our four backs along with Amy (Shumaker) in goal dictated play most of the match," Manchester coach Joe Erardi said. "Sweeper Tracy Hart, stopper Meg Berens and outside backs Jen Brindisi and Jen Faber played very well."

Junior co-captain Shelly Dieterle had a strong game in the midfield and Fish and Kathy Cumberbatch up front also had good openers. Manchester's next game is Friday at 3:30 p.m. at home against Sheehan High of Wallingford. Sheehan was state Class M runner-up 4 years ago.

"Friday's match will give up a good barometer on what to work on this year. Sheehan is considered to be one of the top two or three teams in the state," Erardi said.

Bolton soccer opens season with a win
BOLTON — It took awhile to get going, but once Bolton High found the range it scored four goals in its 4-0 season opening win over Hale-Ray of Moodus in non-conference play.

"The girls were a little rusty at first, but once we got going we were able to control the game," Bolton coach Paul Haggerty said. "Overall we ran a right for our first race. However, we will have to bring our pack closer together if we want to reach our season goals."

Michelle R. Fry (EG) 16 to 0-0, Mike D. Smith (EG) 8 to 0-0, Dan Shroy (EG) 8 to 0-0, Scott Livingston (EG) 8 to 0-0, Steve (ND) 8 to 0-0, Greg Cappel (EG) 9 to 0-0, 10 Sean Ventura (EG).

"We were outplayed the first half," Bolton coach Mike Landolph said. "The second half the girls controlled the game. We controlled the ball the second half and distributed it very well."

Byor opened the scoring at 6:47 on a booming 25-yard indirect kick that was first tapped by teammate Jessica Branhay. Byor made it 2-0 as she took a pass from striker Helen Depold at her left wing slot and put a shot into the upper right corner.

Cheney Tech loses opener
BERLIN — It was a difficult beginning for the Cheney Tech boys' soccer team in its 1989 opener with non-conference foe Berlin High Wednesday afternoon.

"We were a little out of sync at first, but once we got going we were able to control the game," Cheney Tech coach Paul Haggerty said. "Overall we ran a right for our first race. However, we will have to bring our pack closer together if we want to reach our season goals."

Michelle R. Fry (EG) 16 to 0-0, Mike D. Smith (EG) 8 to 0-0, Dan Shroy (EG) 8 to 0-0, Scott Livingston (EG) 8 to 0-0, Steve (ND) 8 to 0-0, Greg Cappel (EG) 9 to 0-0, 10 Sean Ventura (EG).

"He (Manzo) was a big kid," Niederwerfer said. "The big difference was they were a lot bigger. It's something we're going to face a lot this year and it's really showed in this game."

Niederwerfer's front line has an average height of 5-5. "It was like jumping up against monsters," Niederwerfer said of his forwards matched with Berlin's defenders.

Freshmen Justin Koblish and Chris Daigle played well for Cheney while juniors Jason Gagnon and Andy Luginbuhl also performed well.

"We had a couple of breakaways and their goalie (Tai Nguyen) made saves on point-blank shots," Niederwerfer explained.

"The second 20 minutes we took advantage of our opportunities and scored," Boyer said.

Hall, with an unassisted marker 10 minutes into the second half, closed it out for Bolton.

"It was a good way to open the season. The younger kids played a good portion of the second half," Boyer said.

IN BRIEF

UConn soccer loses first
BOSTON — The University of Connecticut men's soccer team dropped its first outing of the 1989 season, bowing 3-0 Wednesday night to host Boston University in a battle between the top two ranked teams in New England.

UConn was ranked first and the Terriers second going into the game.

BU, 2-0-1, got goals from Chris Verhaegen, Gregg Butler and Peter Verplanke. UConn's 1-1-1 next sees action Sunday at 1 p.m. at the Connecticut Soccer Stadium against Big East Conference foe Syracuse.

Hems second in triathlon
Triathlete Ron Hems of Manchester placed second in his age group in the Budweiser Endurance Ironman Triathlon last Saturday in Lake Umbagog. Hems, 52, completed the 2.4-mile swim, 112-mile bike and 26.2-mile marathon run in 13 hours and 46 minutes.

Gaetti off disabled list
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Minnesota Twins activated third baseman Gary Gaetti from the 15-day disabled list before Wednesday night's game with Toronto.

Gaetti, who has been on the disabled list with a deep abdominal muscle pull and a back problem since Aug. 26, took batting practice and fielded some ground balls before Tuesday's game with Toronto at the Metrodome.

"I swung hard and moved around for some balls, but that was in a controlled setting," Gaetti said. "You don't really know until you get in a game situation."

In 120 games, Gaetti is hitting .253 with 19 home runs, and his 72 runs batted in are tied for 19th on the team.

Sullivan opposes bet plan
BOSTON (AP) — A plan to legalize football betting in Massachusetts faced opposition Wednesday from New England Patriots general manager Patrick Sullivan and a legislator who said the state should stay out of the gambling business.

The plan by state Rep. William Galvin, D-Boston, would make Massachusetts the third state, after Oregon and Kentucky, to allow betting by adults on NFL games. The state lottery system would handle the $1 million bets and participants would have to pick annually from four to 14 winners.

"I do not personally think this would constitute a massive expansion of gambling in Massachusetts," Galvin, the co-chairman, said at a legislative Government Regulations Committee hearing Wednesday. "We would be advancing nothing in the way of new gaming that isn't already going on."

Agassi forced to retire
AMELIA ISLAND, Fla. (AP) — Andre Agassi was forced to retire in the first round of the $210,000 All-American Tennis Championships after suffering an injury to his right leg.

The No. 5-ranked Agassi was leading Tim Wilkison 7-5, 3-1 when he said his leg troubled him too much to continue in the exhibition tournament. In other matches, Kathy Kinaldi defeated Terry Phelps 6-2, 6-1 and Brad Gilbert downed Dan Golde 6-0, 6-1.

Olympic champion arrested
LAS VEGAS (AP) — Olympic boxing gold medalist Kennedy McKinney, dropped by his manager and promoter over a training dispute after his last professional fight, was arrested after he and two others allegedly tried to kidnap a 15-year-old girl, police said.

McKinney was booked into the Clark County Detention Center for conspiracy of attempted second-degree kidnap and investigation to commit a crime following the incident Tuesday night, Las Vegas police Lt. Greg Jolley said.

McKinney, 23, the 119-pound gold medalist in the 1988 Seoul Olympics, remained in jail on $12,000 bail.

Sacramento after Raiders
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The county joined the city in backing plans to lure the Los Angeles Raiders with $50 million in public funds, triggering a promoter's prediction the deal would be cinched in four to six weeks.

After county supervisors voted 4-0 to approve the plan, Sacramento Sports Association head Gregg Lukenbill said he thought a deal would be worked out to bring the Raiders to Sacramento after some details are worked out.

privacy, not because I want to be private, but because I enjoy my own time, doing what I enjoy doing. I recognize that one gives that up.

"On the other hand, I happen to believe that this is one of the greatest jobs in this country and I think one gives it up because one thinks progress can be made and good can be done. Perhaps I can contribute to moving this game, in the short frame in which I will be involved, to better circumstances. If I didn't think I could do it, I wouldn't take the job and because I think I can do it, I'll make that adjustment."

Vincent, 51, said he hadn't thought about whether he would want to remain past April 1, 1994, the day his term is to expire. He said that except for partial paralysis in his left leg, his health is good and that he has regular physicals. Although he does not smoke cigarettes, he does smoke cigars.

In his "stay the course" message, he said "there's very likely to be a deputy commissioner" in his administration, but "I don't have any candidates in mind."

He was elected during a joint meeting of the two leagues, then spoke at a news conference, referring to Giannitti repeatedly and reverentially.

"I think about Bart a lot," he said, and his thoughts on the game are exactly the same as Giannitti's. "I don't like the designated hitter. I don't like aluminum bats," Vincent said. "I do like grass. I do like baseball as you and I knew it growing up."

In his first hour as commissioner, he took a congratulatory telephone call from President Bush.

"I didn't do my job. I feel mad at myself because I didn't," Vincent said. "But they let me swing the bat, and the one I hit was down and in. I can't hit a strike. Pitch around me, and I hit better. Give me a strike and I don't hit it."

Garry Templeton led off the inning with a walk against Henry, 0-2. Cora ran for Templeton and Santiago hit the 0-2 pitch into the left-field seats for his 12th home run.

"I didn't put the pitch in the spot where I wanted it," Henry said. "He just lunged over the plate and got it. I'm learning the hard way."

Elsewhere in the NL, it was San Francisco 8, Cincinnati 7 in 13 innings; Houston 3, Los Angeles 1; Chicago 3, Montreal 1, and New York 10, Philadelphia 4. Pittsburgh at St. Louis was rained out with no score in the sixth inning.

"I was telling Bruce Hurst in the dugout, 'How many times have you seen a guy mess up a bunt, and then hit one out?'" McKoon said. "The next pitch, there it went. I'm sure glad he didn't bunt it then."

Santiago has five hits in 12 home runs during the Padres' streak, including a grand slam, a three-run homer, and a pair of two-run shots.

After bickering with McKoon all season, Santiago has started 17 of the last 18 games.

"I get along with Jack right now," said Santiago, often the target of trade rumors. "I tried to forget about everything in the past. I think about today and tomorrow. He changed, and I changed, too. That's the difference. If he helps me, I'll help him."

Giants 8, Reds 7; Brett Butler's run-scoring single with one out in the 13th inning capped a three-run rally as San Francisco beat Cincinnati at Candlestick Park.

Trailing 7-5, the Giants started the rally when Chris Speier was hit by a pitch from reliever Bob Sebra. Rookie Rosario Rodriguez relieved and walked Ernest Riles on four pitches. After a wild pitch moved the runners up, pinch-hitter Greg Liton doubled down the right-field line to tie the score.

Santiago big swinger for SD

San Diego manager Jack McKoon said swing batter, and that's just what Benito Santiago did.

With pinch runner Joey Cora on first and none out in the eighth inning, Santiago missed two bunt attempts before hitting. Dwayne Henry's fastball into the seats to give San Diego a 3-2 victory over Atlanta.

The Padres, who have won 17 of their last 20 games, remained five games behind first-place San Francisco in the National League West.

"I didn't do my job. I feel mad at myself because I didn't," Vincent said. "But they let me swing the bat, and the one I hit was down and in. I can't hit a strike. Pitch around me, and I hit better. Give me a strike and I don't hit it."

Santiago has five hits in 12 home runs during the Padres' streak, including a grand slam, a three-run homer, and a pair of two-run shots.

After bickering with McKoon all season, Santiago has started 17 of the last 18 games.

"I get along with Jack right now," said Santiago, often the target of trade rumors. "I tried to forget about everything in the past. I think about today and tomorrow. He changed, and I changed, too. That's the difference. If he helps me, I'll help him."

Giants 8, Reds 7; Brett Butler's run-scoring single with one out in the 13th inning capped a three-run rally as San Francisco beat Cincinnati at Candlestick Park.

Trailing 7-5, the Giants started the rally when Chris Speier was hit by a pitch from reliever Bob Sebra. Rookie Rosario Rodriguez relieved and walked Ernest Riles on four pitches. After a wild pitch moved the runners up, pinch-hitter Greg Liton doubled down the right-field line to tie the score.

Duel for Cy Young Award wages on

While their teams fight for the American League West title, Bret Saberhagen and Dave Stewart duel for the Cy Young Award.

Saberhagen got his 19th victory Wednesday night as the Kansas City Royals beat Texas 3-2. He rallied even with Stewart, who had lost a chance at the 20th win when Dennis Eckersley blew a ninth-inning lead in a game the Oakland Athletics eventually won 7-6 over Milwaukee.

Oakland stayed two games ahead of the Royals. Saberhagen said he is ahead of Stewart in their matchup.

"So far, if I was a writer looking at things, I would think I would have to be the leader," Saberhagen said.

Saberhagen, 19-6, leads the league with a 2.41 earned-run average and his 11 complete games are most in the majors. He won the Cy Young in 1985.

Stewart, 19-9, has a 3.48 ERA and is tied with Saberhagen and Houston's Mike Scott for most victories in baseball. He is a 20-game winner each of the past two years, but lost in the Cy Young voting to Boston's Roger Clemens and Minnesota's Frank Viola.

In other games, Minnesota beat Toronto 3-2, Chicago stopped Baltimore 3-0, Seattle beat Boston 7-4, California topped New York 4-3 in 10 innings and Detroit dominated Cleveland 3-1.

Stewart, who got his 19th victory on Sept. 3, again failed to become the first pitcher to win 20 games in three straight years since Baltimore's Jim Palmer did it from 1975 through 1978.

Stewart left after seven innings with a 6-4 lead. Eckersley pitched a scoreless eighth, but Greg Vaughn's second two-run homer of the game tied it in the ninth.

Dave Henderson led off the bottom of the ninth with a home run and Eckersley got credit for the victory.

"I feel terrible," said Eckersley. "I'm going to win my 20th game, and I'm going to win some after that."

to cost him. He's still the best in the league to me — the best."

Henderson's 12th home run of the year came against Chuck Crim, 9-6. At Kansas City, Saberhagen pitched another complete game. He gave up two runs, one earned, on seven hits.

"Don't get me wrong, I'd like to have another Cy Young, but my objective is to get into the playoffs and the World Series," Saberhagen said.

"We knew Oakland had won, and I think the victory on the line had something to do with it," he said. "Each pitch and each batter means a lot right now. You can't just throw your glove out there."

Frank White's first home run at Royals Stadium since Aug. 9, 1988, broke a 2-2 tie in the seventh inning. He connected against Charlie Hough, 10-13.

"I'd just thrown one in the dirt, and I thought if I'd get it about helmet high, he might swing at a bad one," Hough said. "But I got it a little. He didn't nail it or anything, but it wasn't the pitch I wanted."

Twins 3, Blue Jays 2; Rookie Kevin Tapani won his second major-league start and Kent Hrbek drove in two runs as Minnesota beat Toronto.

The Twins are 5-0 against Toronto to in the Metrodome this season. The Blue Jays, who have lost three of five games, stayed two games ahead of Baltimore in the AL East.

Tapani, 2-0, gave up one run on six hits in 7 2-3 innings. Jeff Reardon held on in the ninth for his 29th save.

Hrbek had an RBI single and run-scoring groundout against John Cerutti, 11-9. Hrbek has eight hits and nine RBIs in his last six games.

White reached second base on shortstop Alvaro Espinoza's error. White went to third on a groundout by Chili Davis and Joyner followed with a single off Rignetti. On Tuesday night, Joyner's RBI single with two outs in the ninth gave the Angels a 7-6 victory.

Greg Minton, 25-3, pitched three scoreless innings.

Tigers 3, Indians 1; Jack Morris pitched a five-hitter and won his third straight start as Detroit beat the Cleveland for his ninth victory in 11 games.

Mets, 6-11, struck out six and walked two in his eighth complete game. He is 3-1 against the Indians this season and 25-5 in his career.

The Indians lost for the 13th time in 18 games and are 1-1 under interim manager John Hart. Tom Candiotti, 12-9, took the loss.

FOCUS/Advice

Mother can not run daughter's life

DEAR ABBY: I am worried sick about my daughter, Cynthia. She is a professional woman who has just attained a partnership in her firm, a position she has worked for 11 years to achieve. She is ending her second marriage mainly because, as she put it, "We cannot communicate with each other." These two non-communicators have two beautiful children—my grandchildren. Cynthia is now involved with a married man with children who is thinking seriously of leaving his wife of 12 years to marry her. This marriage entails Cynthia's giving up her partnership, selling her home, and taking her children thousands of miles away from me and familiar surroundings. Meanwhile, her "boyfriend" keeps promising to leave his wife—but he has not done so. I have told her not to give up what she has for an uncertain future. Naturally she resents what she calls my "meddling" in her affairs and giving

Dear Abby

her no support for what she wants to do. I cannot condone the breaking up of this man's marriage, her stupidity in giving up all she has worked for and her lack of consideration for her children. How do I get through to this foolish, headstrong daughter? CANT SLEEP-NIGHTS DEAR CAN'T: You have already given her the message, so back off. Mother, let your daughter make her own choices. With all your good intentions, you cannot lead your daughter's life, nor should you try. I know you want only the best for her, but some people have to learn life's lessons the hard way. And your daughter may be one of them. DEAR ABBY: I am getting married in the near future. I'm a very private person and do not have a lot of money to blow on a big wedding, so it is going to be a small wedding. I work in a large office, and many of my co-workers have indicated that they expect to be invited to my wedding. I am going to invite a few, but I can't possibly invite the entire office. How should I do this without making a lot of enemies? Should I ask those whom I've invited not to tell the others? IN A QUANDARY

To those who indicate they expect to be invited, but will not be, simply explain that yours will be a very small wedding. Do not ask those you have invited not to tell anybody. It would be easier to smuggle down past a rooster. DEAR ABBY: Back in the '30s and '40s, when a Hawaiian girl wore a flower over her left ear, it was supposed to signal something. And when a man wore a flower over her right ear, it was supposed to signal something else. Can you please tell us what the flower placement is supposed to signify? FROM WAHOO, NEB.

DEAR FROM WAHOO: If a girl wears a flower over her left ear, it means she's uninvolved, approachable, not attached. A flower worn over her right ear means she is spoken for, going with someone, romantically involved, so hands off. ### OUR FASCINATING EARTH

by Philip Selt, Ph.D.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What can you tell me about pacemakers? I've had atrial fibrillation for more than 10 years and have taken so many drugs I can't begin to name them all. Now, my doctor says he can't help me anymore and suggests a pacemaker. Do I seek a second opinion or take his advice? DEAR READER: Cardiac pacemakers are electronic devices used to trigger the heart to beat. The typical pacemaker consists of a battery pack, about the size of a cigarette package, that is surgically implanted under the skin of the chest. The battery pack is connected to wires leading through the veins of the neck into the right ventricle, one of the major heart chambers. A little computer next to the battery senses pauses in the heart rates and instructs the battery when to fire a charge down the wires to stimulate cardiac contraction. The computer is programmed to fire at a certain rate, if the natural heartbeat slows or stops. Many modern pacemakers are engineering miracles. They can sense and fire in a variety of ways to stimulate normal cardiac action. For example, some pacers will automatically speed up if a patient exercises. Pacemakers can be programmed to ignore certain heart rhythms or override others. In choosing a pacemaker, the surgeon takes into account the patient's particular cardiac abnormality. I do not believe cardiac pacemakers are useful in treating atrial fibrillation, an irregular, rapid and usually harmless, cardiac rhythm. The purpose in treating atrial fibrillation is to slow the heart rate; this can almost always be accomplished with medicine. Therefore, I think you should obtain a second opinion. Ask for a referral to a cardiologist, a heart specialist who can advise you about medication or, if yours is an unusual case, suggest the kind of pacemaker that would best suit you. To give you more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Fating Right for a Healthy Heart." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to: Health Report, 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title. DEAR DR. GOTT: I play basketball, have been punched in the arms and knocked around and was even in an accident, but I still have never had a bruise. Have you ever heard of this? DEAR READER: Yes, I assume you are a young adult, and therefore, do not brace to the extent older adults do. This is probably because capillary blood vessels within the skin become more fragile with age. Therefore, even minor injuries produce bruises in older people. In fact, many senior citizens experience spontaneous bruising when, without trauma, capillaries burst. This is known by the unfortunate sobriquet "senile" purpura. Also, young people bruise less easily because they have more subcutaneous tissue, which helps to cushion injuries. Finally, older people have thinner skin; consequently, bruising may be more extensive and more noticeable.

Japanese giving Germans real run for their money

By Peter Bohr

Call them "car wars." Or better yet, "luxury-car wars." There's no official date when the hostilities began. But an opening salvo came when Honda announced plans to create a completely new line of pricey, high-end cars we know as Acura. Now come salvos No. 2 and No. 3, from Toyota and Nissan. This year both Japanese automakers are following Honda's lead with luxury-car divisions of their own—Lexus and Infiniti, respectively. Toyota and Nissan are squarely aiming their newest and best guns at the world's pre-eminent luxury-car makers, West Germany's BMW and Mercedes-Benz. And in the United States, the world's most lucrative automobile market, the two Japanese automakers couldn't shake their assault for more devastating effect.

The German cars have been burdened with particularly exorbitant price tags since the dollar's plunge three years ago. Thanks in part to the company's relatively new 735 and 750 models, BMW so far is managing to hold its ground in the United States. But mighty Mercedes is already retreating; sales have plunged 18 percent this year, on top of a 4 percent fall last year. With Lexus and Infiniti on the battlefield, there promises to be a blood bath between Japanese and German automakers. But are the Japanese cars truly up to their challenge? To find out, Road & Track's editor-in-chief, John Dinkel, recently tested a new Infiniti Q45 and a V-8 is smooth, quiet, powerful and flexible. It's between 7,000 rpm from zero to 60 mph in 7 seconds, easily 2 seconds faster than the 735i. And Infiniti is electronically limited to a top speed just below 150 mph! Now what about those critical characteristics that can always set German cars apart from most others in the world—ride, steering, braking and handling? "The Infiniti had a more compliant ride than the 735i with no sacrifice in control," reports John. He found the steering, braking and handling of both cars to be superb. "But while the 735i is an extremely rigid car, the Q45 is even better. It has less wind noise than the Bimmer and boasts less over-road irregularities. John summed up the test: "In my book the Infiniti folks have done it. The Q45 isn't some home-market model that's been tacked up to look like an expensive, luxurious European sedan. It's a world-class contender."

But there is one important dissimilarity between the two cars. As an expected U.S. price of $38,000, the Japanese challenge in some $16,000 less than the 735i. To put that in perspective, for the $54,000 price of the BMW, you could buy a new Infiniti and a new Nissan 240SX. If American luxury-car buyers are ready to forego the considerable cost advantage of BMW or Mercedes name, then the Japanese may be on the threshold of yet another car wars victory.

Ice-cream bars taste good

Consumer Reports

Years ago, if you wanted an ice-cream bar, you waited for the jingle-jangle of a Good Humor truck. Now frozen novelties, the industry's term for single-serving goodies, are widely distributed in supermarkets. More than a billion dollars worth are sold each year. The market offers ice-cream bars for a wide range of budgets and waistlines. At the pricey, super-caloric end of the spectrum are such brands as Dove Bar and Haagen-Dazs. In the middle are the moderately priced and moderately fattening ice-cream perennials, such as Good Humor, Eskimo Pie, Dolly Madison and Polar Bar. And at the inexpensive end of the scale are supermarket brands and Weight Watchers brand that have fewer calories due to their smaller size.

Recently Consumer Reports' trained taste testers had the onerous job of judging a variety of chocolate and vanilla ice-cream bars covered with chocolate. The panelists nibbled coded samples, whose identities were further concealed and had to keep appearance out of the judgments. Their task was to assess the bars' flavor and texture. First, the taste testers considered the thickness of the bar's coating. If it was paper thin, the bar lost points. They noted how quickly the coating melts in the mouth, since the sooner the chocolate melts on the tongue, the faster the taste comes through. Like butter, a fast-melting chocolate delivers a sharp burst of flavor. Other coatings, like some margarines, melt slower and yield less taste. They taste testers judged the intensity of the sweetness and the chocolate and vanilla flavors in the ice cream. They knocked off points for odd flavors, such as a marked saline or "freezer taste," the sometimes stale flavor any food acquires when it has been stored too long in the freezer or that ice cream acquires when it has been thawed and refrozen. They checked for any bitterness, since the ideal ice-cream bar should have little or no bitterness. The tasters also looked for the right intensity of cream flavor—between whole milk and cream.

While sherbet should feel icy to the tongue, ice cream shouldn't. Some of the lower-rated ice-cream bars had a coarse, icy texture, which often happens when ice cream has been thawed and then refrozen. The tasters also noted whether the ice cream was gummy, a texture that can occur when stabilizers and corn sweeteners are added in an excessive rating. But they are expensive, costing a dollar or more each. They also pack more than 300 calories each. If ice cream is only an occasional indulgence, one of these bars can be a bit of heaven. If ice cream is part of your daily diet, however, you may be better off with a brand that has more moderate fat and price. In that case, consider Polar Bar and Klondike brands. They were rated very good, cost about 10 cents an ounce (compared with almost 30 cents for the top-rated bars) and contain about one-third less calories per ounce than the top bars. If you're buying for little kids, choose a bargain bar. Youngsters don't understand why they're eating so much there's little reason to spend a dollar when a quarter buys as much satisfaction.

Forbes to take charity ride PITTSBURGH (AP) — Billionaire motorcycle enthusiast Malcolm Forbes will be revving up the Harley-Davidson for a 50-mile charity ride. The 70-year-old publisher has agreed to ride in the N.Y. Motor Corps Fall Poker Run Sept. 24, said Don Carson, a spokesman for Forbes Inc. in New York. Bikers in the run, held to raise money for the Shrine Hospital in Erie, pick up playing cards at five spots along the route. The rider with the best hand gets a trophy. Club member Ralph Christopher said he was surprised and pleased Forbes accepted his invitation to join the ride.

Fan told to leave Tiffany alone LOS ANGELES (AP) — An allegedly obsessed fan of Tiffany was barred by a court order from telephoning, closely observing or blocking the movements of the 17-year-old singer. A Superior Court commissioner also ruled Wednesday that 35-year-old Jeff Deane Turner of Santa Cruz must remain at least 200 yards from Tiffany's home, recording studios and sites of her concert appearances. Turner was arrested in June 1988 in Los Angeles after trying to present Tiffany, whose full name is Tiffany Darwish, with a bouquet and a samurai sword. In her petition, Tiffany said Turner later appeared at a Northern California promotion and "kissed me and walked with his arm around me. The defendant sent me numerous letters, one of which states God wants us to be together."

Kissinger joins CBS board NEW YORK (AP) — Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, no stranger to television, has joined the board of CBS Inc. Kissinger, who once worked for NBC and still appears on network news programs as a guest expert, was named Wednesday to the board that includes former CBS anchorman Walter Cronkite. Kissinger, who won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1973 for his efforts to end the Vietnam War, was President Nixon's national security adviser before becoming secretary of state during the Nixon and Ford administrations.

Low speaks to inmates DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Actor Rob Lowe spoke to inmates at five detention and rehabilitation centers in his hometown to fulfill his court-ordered community service, and took a side trip to visit Pete Rose. Lowe was in Dayton this week to help his father, attorney Chuck Lowe, celebrate his 50th birthday Tuesday night. The actor had dinner in Cincinnati with Rose, who recently was banned for life from major league baseball after being accused of gambling on games involving his team, the Reds. "Pete's always been kind to me, great to me," Lowe said. "We both have had rough years, but friends are friends and I need friends."

Zsa Zsa 'afraid of lesbians' BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Actress Zsa Zsa Gabor, on trial for slapping a Beverly Hills cop, says she doesn't want to go to jail because she's "afraid of lesbians." The Municipal Court jury that could put the flamboyant actress behind bars was sworn in Wednesday. Opening arguments were to begin today. On the steps of the courthouse Wednesday, Gabor confided in reporters her fears of being convicted. A conviction carries a maximum two years in jail and $4,000 fine. "Mother is so worried," Gabor said. "In a deathly voice, she phoned me this morning and asked me, 'Dahling, are they going to book you in jail?'" "I told her I hoped not. I have claustrophobia and would be very unhappy in jail."

"And besides, they are all lesbians in jail. And I'm so scared of lesbians. Can you imagine being in jail with all those women?" Gabor is charged with misdemeanor battery on a police officer, disobeying a police officer's orders, driving with an expired license, having an open container of alcohol in her car and having an expired car registration.

Pre-School Classes
These classes are designed to establish in the three and four year old a sense of rhythm, build better coordination, establish right and left directionality and improve gross motor skills. Through ages four and five, a youngster's play is still a major channel for exploring, practicing and consolidating new knowledge. Dance class can provide part of the variety of stimuli necessarily needed, at this stage of development.

Moriartys will sell dealership to Morande Ford

By Nancy Concalman
Manchester Herald
The 56-year-old Moriarty Bros. Inc. of 315 W. Center St. plans to sell its Ford Lincoln-Mercury and Mazda dealerships to Morande Ford Inc. of Berlin at the beginning of December for an undisclosed amount, company Treasurer Maurice Moriarty said today.

The sale, Moriarty said, is the result of a settlement of the estate of his father, Matthew Moriarty Sr., who died in 1985. Moriarty's estate had maintained a controlling interest in the business and property, Maurice Moriarty said.

Employees were notified of the sale Monday, Moriarty said. Sales at Moriarty Bros. have been "excellent," Moriarty said. Moriarty Bros. is a medium-sized dealership that sells an average of 1,100 new cars and 500 used cars a year, Moriarty said. The company ranks among the top 20 dealerships in New England.

In addition to the Ford dealership the Morande brothers bought in 1979, the company owns a Hyundai dealership and the Webster Square Car Wash in Berlin, Moriarty said. The company recently sold a Ford dealership in Barre, Vt., he said.

Neither Robert Morande nor Moriarty would reveal the sale price. Morande said his company plans to operate the dealerships and repair center at the same location and will expand and rebuild the existing facilities. Morande's brother William will run the Manchester business, Robert Morande said.

Moriarty said he and his brother are undecided about their future plans. Morande plans to retain Moriarty's 65 employees and will probably hire more people in the future, he said.

Bolton hires team to upgrade courses

By Rick Santos
Manchester Herald
BOLTON — School administrators, facing an Oct. 1 deadline to submit a report on improvements needed at the high school, have recruited two consultants to devise a system-wide curriculum for the schools.

The curriculum at Bolton High School, as well as the school's facilities and methods of measuring student performance must be improved on the school could lose its accreditation from the New England Association of Schools and Colleges. A visiting committee of the association came to the school in the spring and released a report citing the deficiencies.

A REAL HEAD CASE — Jean Fry cleans the windows Thursday at the Utopia costume shop in Norwalk. The store is preparing for the upcoming Halloween season next month and all the faces, except Fry's, are for sale.

Osella plans to join appeal of FOI ruling on caucuses

By Alex Girilli
Manchester Herald
Republican Town Director Ronald Osella says he is prepared to assist the Freedom of Information Commission if Mayor Peter P. DiRosa appeals its decision declaring two caucuses of Democratic directors illegal.

Osella complained to the FOI board two gatherings of Democratic directors at which a quorum of the board of directors was present along with Democratic Town Chairman Theodore R. Cummings and other Democrats.

Manchester resident receives 40-year term for three rapes

By Diane Rosell
Manchester Herald
HARTFORD — A Manchester man who told a Superior Court judge he was a "blackout drinker" was sentenced to 40 years in prison Thursday for raping two Manchester women and an East Hartford woman.

Robert S. Fontaine, 26, of 52 Hollister St., will be eligible for parole after serving 28 years of the term. Fontaine pleaded guilty last month to raping a 74-year-old Manchester woman on Nov. 18, 1988, a 23-year-old Manchester woman in January and a 36-year-old Glastonbury woman at the Panum Plaza in East Hartford on Dec. 21, 1988.

GOP opens election headquarters

By Nancy Concalman
Manchester Herald
An air of confidence pervaded Republican Party headquarters Thursday as candidates plotted their strategies to wrest control of municipal boards from the Democrats.

The occasion was the opening of the party's headquarters at 320 Main St. While the affair was light-hearted, Republican Town Chairman John Garside said the mood would be ecstatic after the votes are counted Nov. 7.
