Your Birthday
Oct. 26, 1989

Things look better than usual for you in the year ahead where your material interests are concerned. This could be a year when you'll be able to get a number of luxury items for which you've been longing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you have an idea you feel could be of benefit to you, it's better not to discuss it with others until you have everything in a "go" position. Someone might steal your brain child. Scorpio, treat yourself to a special gift.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Usually you're a rather independent thinker who is not easily influenced by compromise. Today, however, you might yield to peer pressure and follow counterproductive advice.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be patient with co-workers today, especially those who do not grasp the essence of ideas as readily as you. It won't hurt you to repeat information or instructions for their benefit.

GENIUS (May 21-June 20) It's best not to borrow money from friends today if you're uncertain about when you'll be able to repay it. Try to make due with what you have rather than jeopardizing a relationship.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you are indecisive about making a decision today that affects others as well as yourself, dismiss it from your mind for a while and come back to it later when you have a fresh perspective.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) It might be wise to temporarily shelve tasks or assignments that are exciting. Your concentration, stamina if you're up for today and you could mess up where details are concerned.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) An "easy come, easy go" frame of mind today could lead to the loss of an opportunity where your indifference may let something profitable slip through your fingers.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your salesmanship qualities might not be up to par today and there's a possibility you may let your prospects off the hook because you're a poor closer.

Planning the play
By James Jacoby

Forget that there's a play for six clubs. In tournament play, with only 27 combined high-card points and double stoppers in all suits, there's no trump is normal. Since overtricks are important, how should you play with a heart lead? You might play to cash A-K of spades, throwing a diamond, and intending to try for a heart in the end. If that works, run the clubs and see if you can play to a heart contract, but any position by exiting with a diamond and a heart that a defender will have to lead away from the king of diamonds. The other approach is to simply play ace and queen of clubs, giving up on the club finesse. Now you play out all your clubs, and the defenders are burdened with having to hold spades as well as the king of diamonds. Under these cir-

Astrograph
Your Birthday
Oct. 26, 1989

Things look better than usual for you in the year ahead where your material interests are concerned. This could be a year when you'll be able to get a number of luxury items for which you've been longing.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you have an idea you feel could be of benefit to you, it's better not to discuss it with others until you have everything in a "go" position. Someone might steal your brain child. Scorpio, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 81426, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Steer clear of sales today that are promoting unique or exotic merchandise. There's a possibility you might end up buying gadgets and items for which you'll never have a use.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Usually your tenaciousness enables you to stick to your purpose until you reach your objective. But today you might take your self out of the running when the goal is within sight.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Before springing into action on a flash of inspiration today, put your bright thought down on paper so that it can be studied further. Up close it might not look all that good.
PISCES (Feb. 20-Mar. 20) If you are presently working on a new project, be patient and take everything one step at a time. You could fall on your face if you try to accomplish your objective with one big leap.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Usually you're a rather independent thinker who is not easily influenced by compromise. Today, however, you might yield to peer pressure and follow counterproductive advice.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Do patient with co-workers today, especially those who do not grasp the essence of ideas as readily as you do. It won't hurt you to repeat information or instructions for their benefit.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's best not to borrow money from friends today if you're uncertain about when you'll be able to repay it. Try to make due with what you have rather than jeopardizing a relationship.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you are indecisive about making a decision today that affects others as well as yourself, dimes it from your mind for a while and come back to it later when you have a fresh perspective.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It might be wise to temporarily shelve tasks or assignments that are exacting. Your concentration might not be up to par today and you could mess up where details are concerned.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) An "easy come, easy go" frame of mind today could lead to the loss of an opportunity where your indifference may let something profitable slip through your fingers.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your salesmanship qualities might not be up to par today and there's a possibility you may let your prospects off the hook because you're a poor closer.

Bridge

Planning the play

By James Jacoby

Forget that there's a play for six clubs. In tournament play, with only high-card points and double-stoppers in all suits, three no-trump is normal. Since overtricks are important, how should you play with a heart lead? You might plan to cash A-K of spades, throwing a diamond and intending to try the club finesse if the heart leads. This time West would be leading a diamond, and the defense would get two tricks for sure.

Events planned to boo-lster everyone's Halloween 'spirits'

By Nancy Pappas
Special to the Herald

Attention all ghouls and goblins! Pay attention, you devils and dancers! This is the weekend to let the world see those spectacular costumes!

There are dozens of Halloween events to enjoy, from now through Tuesday. Many were started as alternatives to the old standby, of trick-or-treating. Now they're enjoyed by the youngsters along with the door-to-door begging for bits.

Speaking of trick or treating, Manchester Memorial Hospital will not be offering its complimentary X-ray examination of your children's goodies. Andrew Beck said the hospital halted the practice because the X-rays don't detect things such as chemical contaminants, wood, plastic and glass. He said the X-rays have given parents a false sense of security.

Here is a rundown of some of the events which are coming up. Be sure to read through the list so that you can call ahead where pre-registration is required.

FRIDAY: Preschool youngsters are invited to decorate pumpkins at 10 a.m. at Mary Cheney Library. Participants should bring along their own pumpkins, with stems. Pre-register by calling 645-0577.

The Martin School P.T.A. also is offering a Halloween Party from 7 to 9 p.m. Tickets are $1.50 in advance and $2 per child at the door.

Friday also marks the opening of Rails to the Dark Side, the Economy grows despite setbacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. economy grew at a moderate annual rate of 2.5 percent from July through September despite the poorest trade performance in six years and a $4 billion income loss from Hurricane Hugo, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department said the increase in the gross national product, the broadest measure of economic health, matched a 2.5 percent rise in the April-June quarter. Third-quarter growth was aided primarily by a boom in consumer spending that resulted from heavy car sales.

Inflation showed a marked improvement in the third quarter, with a price index tied to the GNP climbing at an annual rate of just 2.9 percent, down significantly from a 4.9 percent annual advance in the first half of the year.

Michael Darby, commerce undersecretary for economic affairs, said the moderate economic growth and lower inflation offer encouraging signs that the nation's record peacetime expansion will extend into the next decade.

The lower inflation rate is "creating appropriate conditions for stronger non-inflationary growth as the decade of the 1990s unfolds," Darby said.

Through the first nine months of 1989, the economy has grown at an annual rate of 2.9 percent, exactly on target with the Bush administration's forecast for the whole year.

But many analysts are predicting that growth will slump dramatically

In the third quarter, imports shot up at an annual rate of 15.1 percent while exports did not grow at all, the poorest showing for exports since early 1986.

The economy was also held back in the third quarter by a $4 billion loss in personal incomes attributed to the devastation from Hurricane Hugo, which hit the Southeast in September.

The estimate of income loss was attributed to uninsured losses and loss of rental income by property owners.

Some economists are predicting that growth in the final three months of the year could slip to an annual rate of 1.5 percent or less.

While such an anemic pace increases the risk of a recession, many analysts are counting on the Federal Reserve to ride to the rescue by lowering interest rates in order to spur activity in home building and other interest-sensitive sectors of the economy.

At the same time, many economists expect unemployment to rise during the next 12 months before growth rebounds by the end of 1990.

"We are not going to have a recession, but we will have a very significant slowdown in the economy," said David Wyss, an economist with DRI-McGraw Hill, an economic consulting firm.

Business capital spending, another of the economy's bright spots, slowed in the third quarter.

Fast scanner to aid diagnosing at UConn

By Dean Golombeski

FARMINGTON — A decade ago, doctors and medical students had to use surgery if they wanted to get a good look at a tumor or a troublesome organ.

But with a new machine at the University of Connecticut Health Center, doctors and students can easily examine the inner workings of the body in a matter of seconds.

The new $1.3 million computerized tomography scanner provides doctors with high-quality images of bones, tumors, the brain and other internal organs in seconds.

The machine is the fastest of its kind and also provides the highest-quality images possible, according to UConn officials.

The scanner can make slices of organs, or it can provide 3-D images that can be rotated continuously to provide doctors with a view that was previously available only through surgery.

"What we are doing is taking picture of what we had to make an abstract of in our mind before," said Dr. Richard Simon, head of neurosurgery at the UConn hospital in Farmington.

Simon said with the new scanner, doctors will be able to more accurately diagnose illness and prescribe a treatment. In the case of brain tumors, the machine not only provides a true picture of its size, but also assists doctors in inserting probes into the tumor.

"We have moved to a whole new world of thinking about things," Simon said as he compared images made by the new scanner to older, blurry images made by earlier scanners.

737 with 56 aboard rams into mountain

TAIPEI, Taiwan (AP) — A China Airlines Boeing 737 carrying 56 people crashed into a mountain and burned today just after taking off from the eastern city of Hualien, and all aboard were feared dead, officials said.

The jet was en route from Hualien to Taipei, 93 miles away. Witnesses on a nearby highway said they could see the flames from the wreckage.

Hualien police said about 130 rescuers rushed to the crash site, which was near a small village and accessible only by foot. It was expected to take them hours to reach the plane, and they were slowed by rain and darkness.

The jet left Hualien at 6:54 p.m. and crashed five minutes later, according to officials of the airline.

Taiwan's national flag carrier. It said there were 49 passengers and seven crew members. All the passengers were Taiwanese except for one man from Singapore, and airline spokesman Lodge Lo said all were believed killed.

It was raining when the plane took off, but the cause of the crash was not known. No other details were immediately available.

Mall becomes reality as work pushes on

By Rick Santos
Manchester Herald

The steel skeleton that once heralded the beginnings of a new mall in Buckland Hills has changed into a bricks-and-mortar building that will open its doors by March 7 to eager shoppers.

About 80 percent of the work on the Pavilions at Buckland Hills is complete, said Stephen Quakinbush, mall development director, during a tour with Mayor Peter P. DiRosa Jr. of the site Wednesday.

The two-story complex will contain 160 stores in its 1.1-million square feet of interior space. It sprawls over 115 acres of hilltop in the north end of town.

The Homart Development Co. of Chicago is the senior partner in the Mall at Buckland Hills Partnership, which is building the $70 million project.

Quakinbush said most of the remaining work on the building itself will be done to the interior. Most of the remaining outdoor work will involve landscaping. Large trees, ready for transplanting, lie in wait on the perimeter of the mall site.

Quakinbush said if the landscaping is not complete before winter, then it will be finished in the spring.

The 5,000-space parking lot has been paved, but construction of a bike path around the mall has not begun yet.

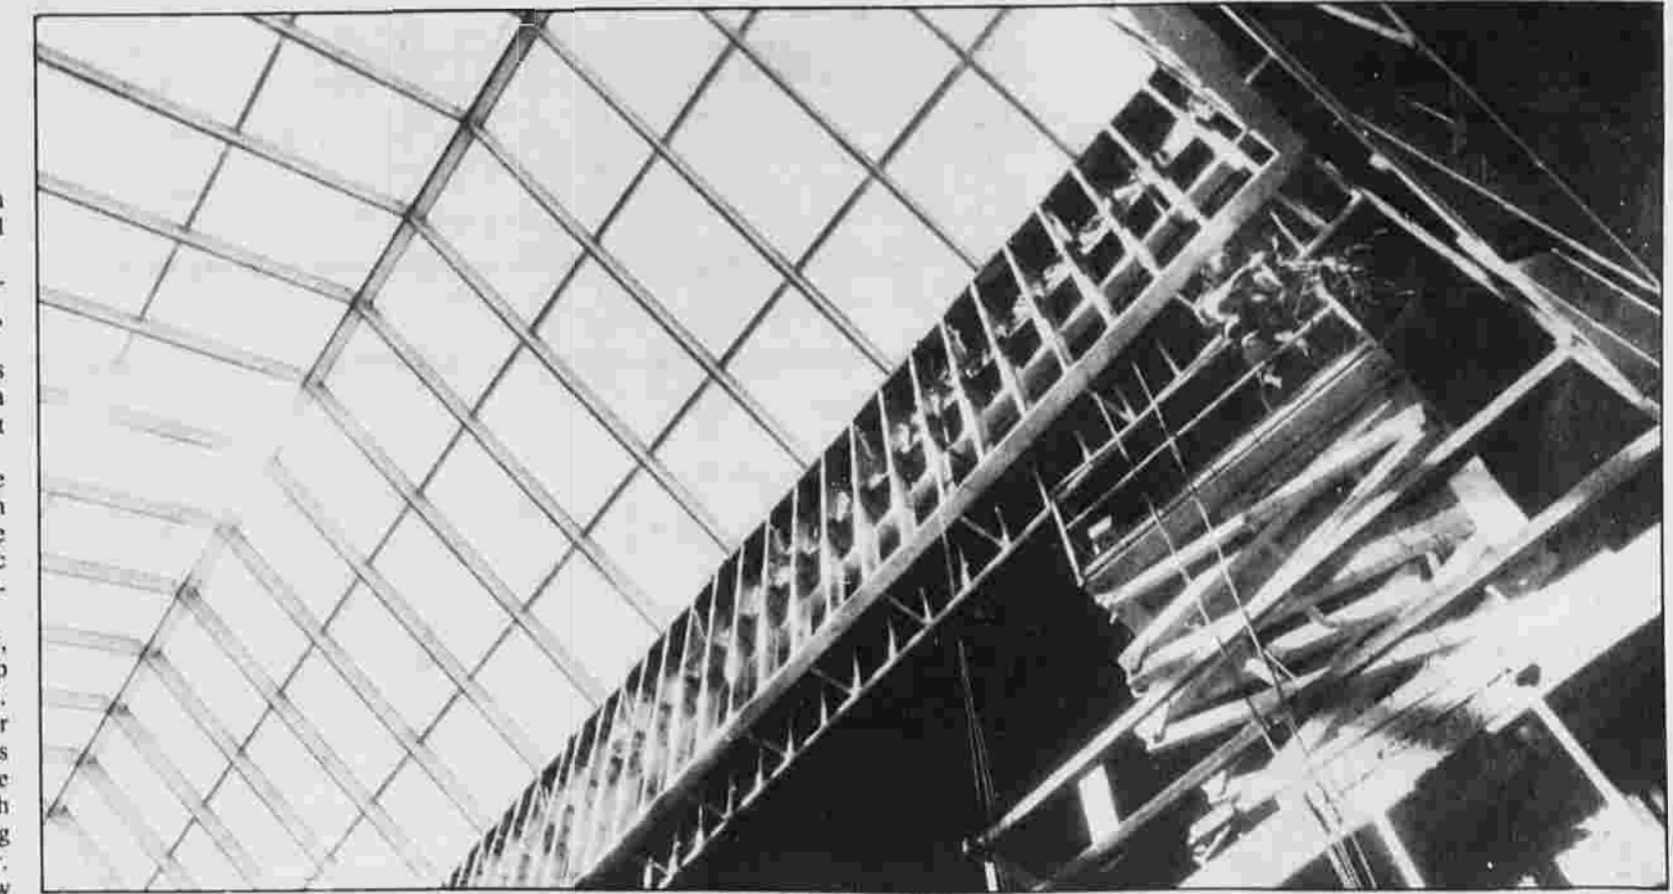

Quakinbush said the path will be along the perimeter of the hill on which the mall is built. Along the path will be points at which scenic views of Manchester and the surrounding towns will be offered.

A 750,000-gallon water tank, which will be used as a backup during a fire, stands next to the mall.

Inside the mall, contractors for some of the individual store tenants have begun working inside the stores and some finishing work such as floor tiles can be seen covering portions of the mall's concrete floor.

The mall will have a New England theme and contain semi-transparent cloth ceilings to make

Two face drug charges

A Manchester man and a Wethersfield man were arrested Wednesday on drug possession charges, police said.

Paul J. Corazzo, 23, of Wethersfield, and Sherry D. Briney, 26, of 166 Pearl St., were each charged with possession of cocaine and possession of drug paraphernalia at 11:23 p.m. by members of the Tri-Town Narcotics Task Force, police said.

According to the police report, an officer approached a car parked in the Purnell Parking Lot on Purnell Place after observing Briney and Corazzo enter it. Corazzo appeared to be looking down at something on his lap, and Briney was looking around the parking lot, police said.

The officer also saw the interior light turn on and off. Police said Corazzo tried to hide something under the front seat as the officer approached. Police found a white powder that turned out to be cocaine on the floor of the vehicle, according to the police report.

Police also said they found drug paraphernalia with traces of cocaine in the vehicle.

Both Briney and Corazzo claimed the cocaine belonged to the other, according to the report. Both were released on $1,000 non-surety bond with a promise to appear in Manchester Superior Court on Nov. 1.

Thoughts

D. James Kennedy has said "It is the spectators that are the scorpions, not the great sufferers."
Helen Keller and the other great sufferers across history have known the adequacy of God and understood the Apostle Paul who has written "I have learned to be content whatever the circumstances." (Phil. 4:11-13) The Apostle Paul said this didn't come naturally and it didn't come easily because he indicated this is something he had "learned."

Many of life's experiences, shipwrecks, beatings and imprisonments had caused the Apostle Paul to learn that with Christ in your heart you can be content in whatever circumstances that life may bring upon you. We live in an age of immense dissatisfaction. We need so much to know this contentment spoken of by the Apostle. Our problem is that we expect so much when the things we really need are so basic. What we really need is His presence day by day as we make our decisions and live our lives in keeping with His word and according to His will. The father who said "I wish your presence in your life today."

Police will probe possible mercy killing

By Larry Rosenthal
The Associated Press

NEW HAVEN — Police say they will begin an investigation today into a possible mercy killing at a New Haven hospital where two doctors were quietly suspended three weeks ago because of questions about a patient's death.

The Hospital of St. Raphael began its own internal investigation and took action against the two doctors on Oct. 4, the day of the patient's death, hospital officials said.

The hospital said it notified the state medical examiner's office and the state Department of Health Services Medical Quality Assurance Division, but not the police. Police decided to begin an investigation after learning of the possible mercy killing in a report Wednesday in the Register saying she never asked Nathan to end her husband's suffering and commit euthanasia.

She said she took her husband to the hospital after he suffered what she thought was a stroke. Doctors found a blood clot and decided to operate, but Reid never regained consciousness after the surgery, she said.

"I never would have asked the doctor to let my husband die. My husband was a beautiful man," she told the Register.

Reid's death certificate says his thoracic aorta, a major blood vessel, burst. Reid was terminally ill, and did not die in the operating room. But he would not provide any other information about his death because of confidentiality laws.

Warren would not comment on whether the hospital believed the doctors may have acted on their own or heeded a request from the family. Euthanasia is illegal in all 50 states, though the practice is considered common. In most cases, a doctor either withholds or withdraws a supportive treatment that might prolong life in a terminal illness.

St. Raphael's investigation is expected to take another week to two months, Warren said.

"An autopsy is a very powerful tool in finding out how someone died, but it is not everything," he said.

Warren said he was contacted by the Register as saying she never asked Nathan to end her husband's suffering and commit euthanasia.

Leader of Soviets in 'vicious circle,' journalist says

By James F. Henry
Manchester Herald

Nicholas Daniloff, a former correspondent for U.S. News & World Report, will speak at Manchester Community College as a part of the fourth annual Global Issues Conference on Saturday.

Daniloff will speak about the Soviet Union under Mikhail Gorbachev. Daniloff said in a telephone interview on Wednesday that though Gorbachev may be the darling of the western world, in the Soviet Union people are not as enthralled by what he has accomplished.

"People have been grumbling about what he has not been able to do," Daniloff said.

Gorbachev is in a vicious circle, he said, because now that he has started reforms, people want more than he can give them. Daniloff said that insatiable desire for even more perestroika could be Gorbachev's downfall.

"People really do look to Gorbachev to perform or step aside," Daniloff said.

Despite the problems such as increased crime and a still-weak Soviet economy, Daniloff said a part of his speech will be devoted to his belief that Gorbachev is still a strong leader.

"In defense to Gorbachev, Rome was not built in a day. People can't expect him to turn around the economy overnight," Daniloff said.

"Nothing has made me change my mind this afternoon," he said.

Carver was contacted by police Wednesday and again asked his advice about the value of an autopsy. "Nothing has made me change my mind this afternoon," he said.

Campaign '89 Barlow focuses on planning for enrollment boom ahead

By Rick Santos
Manchester Herald

Board of Education candidate Malcolm Barlow says his primary concern for Manchester schools is that enough space is made available for students during the enrollment boom predicted for the next decade.

The 46-year-old Democrat said, "It's not just building additions. It's making sure the quality is maintained during this period."

Manchester's strongest attraction, he says, is its educational system. "I don't know when it wasn't," said Barlow, a lifelong resident of Manchester and a local attorney.

As a past president of the Manchester Historical Society, he considers himself knowledgeable about the town's history.

Education has been a priority here since the Cheney family built their silk mills during the mid-19th century.

"They went to Europe to hire top-notch craftsmen," he said. "They told them if they came here, they'd get a good education. And that tradition has come down today."

Concerning the expected enrollment crunch, Barlow says, "We're going to have a greater need for school space than what the administration is predicting."

The administration is expecting the enrollment for the whole school system to grow to about 8,300 students by the late '90s. That figure is about 1,000 more than today.

Most of the growth, about 780 pupils, is expected at the elementary level, said School Superintendent James Kennedy. About half of that will be accommodated by proposed space increases for the elementary schools.

"We'll have a crunch without another house built," he said. "You don't have to be a guru," Barlow said, to understand the magnitude of the town growth. He said one only has to look at the newspaper reports of approvals of plans for subdivisions, sewer lines, and shopping centers.

But Kennedy said this type of immigration is typically offset by those families whose children exit the school system as new ones enter. He says projections have been within 2 percent of the actual figures, and do take growth into consideration.

"We're assuming Manchester is a fairly stable community and growth will continue for the next five years, much like the last five years," he said.

Barlow does not assume this. Barlow says if he is elected his legal experience would be an asset to the school board.

"Manchester's board has a long list of fine attorneys on it. I would like to consider myself the next fine attorney on the board," he said.

Lawyers, he said, are trained to think about problems by focusing on the important aspects, while sitting through the insignificant.

Before becoming a lawyer, Barlow worked as a journalist for the Manchester Herald, Hartford Courant, and Hartford Times. He was also a member of the National Teaching Corps and director of Casework, Big Brothers of Greater Hartford.

He graduated from Manchester High School in 1961 and earned a bachelor's of arts degree from the University of Connecticut in 1965. In 1977, he earned his law degree from UConn's School of Law.

He lives at 627 Spring St. with his wife Susan Cronin Barlow, also a graduate of Manchester High School. Their daughter Cynthia, 21, is following his footsteps at UConn's law school. And their other daughter, Emily, 18, attends the Hartford College for Women.

Epstein, Bogli urge liaison between town-school boards

By James F. Henry
Manchester Herald

Terry Bogli, a Democratic candidate for re-election to the Board of Education, and Joyce Epstein, a Democratic candidate for Board of Education, proposed today there be a liaison to the Board of Directors from the Board of Education.

Bogli said that there have been times in the past when the two boards have worked together, citing the re-opening of the Highland Park School this year.

"While we have worked closely in the past, we see the need to work more closely together for some other reasons," Bogli said.

Epstein emphasized the communication value of having representatives from the boards meeting with their counterparts. "I felt that it would be good to promote the continuing good will and communication between the two boards since the majority of the town's money is spent on education," Epstein said.

Bogli agreed, and added, "We're seeing more and more, demands on town dollars are becoming increasingly heavy all the time."

Bogli indicated that there has been animosity between different groups that have an interest in education in the past. Epstein said there is a four-way partnership, between the parents, students, Board of Directors and Board of Education.

One of their goals in having liaisons between the boards is to allow each board to know the priorities of the other. If that is done, Epstein said, the budget process will be much more smooth.

"There shouldn't be that kind of animosity, or else you've got the wrong people," Epstein said.

Epstein, a former teacher and the owner of real estate firm, said that as the community grows, so does the school department. She said that since most of the money that is spent in Manchester is for education, communications between the boards is vital.

School board members do not act as a check on contracts because they are not adequately informed of the specific details, he added.

"I defy any one of them that says he understands that contract," Tucci said. "They just rubber stamped it."

Tucci, who cast the only dissenting vote against the contract, had requested the board discuss the proposed settlement in executive session.

"In public, everyone's smiling, and they gave away the store," he said.

The three-year agreement with the custodians and maintenance staff will provide annual raises averaging 6.75 percent.

Tucci restated his opposition to the contract.

Epstein said the fund itself would have to be set up by the Board of Directors, and the Board of Education would decide what the money is used for.

Besides the proposed liaison from the Board of Education, Epstein said she would like a member of the Town-Wide Parent Teacher Association Council to attend board meetings. She said there is an increasing need for communications between the elected officials and parents.

Bogli agreed, and added, "We're seeing more and more, demands on town dollars are becoming increasingly heavy all the time."

GOP cites salaries, planning among issues for school board

By Rick Santos
Manchester Herald

"Teachers' salaries and benefits, advanced planning for enrollment changes, and opening up communication between parents and school boards were some of the issues Republican candidates for the Board of Education targeted Wednesday.

At a news conference at GOP campaign headquarters, the candidates also stressed the importance of establishing ties with the town Board of Directors and developing accountability for the school budget.

For example, the Buckland farm, located in the fastest growing part of town, was closed and the building should have at least one representative attend Board of Directors' meetings and vice-versa to improve communication between the two bodies.

A third concern of the candidates is parental involvement. Parents should be involved in the education system because they are their children's primary role models and first and most influential teachers, he said.

Sheridan said, if elected, he plans to visit regularly with the Townwide PTA Council and each school's PTA to stress the necessity of parents becoming more involved with the schools and their children's education.

Increased parental participation is also a major issue for Republican candidate Jan Horn. She said parents can be attracted to the system if the schools are made to appear receptive to them and programs are designed to meet at times convenient to them.

Horn said a system should be set up so parents could represent and meet at times convenient to them.

Republican candidate Thomas Sheridan said he would like to help design a system to ensure efficiency and accountability for the school department. He said that since most of the money that is spent in Manchester is for education, communications between the boards is vital.

School board members do not act as a check on contracts because they are not adequately informed of the specific details, he added.

Ruling finds 8th committee violated open-meeting laws

By Alex Girelli
Manchester Herald

The Freedom of Information Commission Wednesday ruled that an election committee of the Eighth District must provide minutes of its meetings to a district resident.

The FOI Commission upheld a decision by FOI hearing officer Gloria Schaffer that the committee was an agency of the district and must provide the records. Perry Dodson, a district resident, had filed a complaint with the FOI after the committee failed to supply full records of its meetings.

Dodson, in a news release, said that the decision will force the district Board of Directors and its sub-committees "to provide the District with a more open, honest, and above-board government."

And he said the same people who denied him his rights as an elector are now promoting Republican candidates for town director slots who protested about closed government.

Dodson named committee election committee members Mary Warrington, Thomas H. Ferguson and District Director Ellen Burns Landers. Warrington is assistant campaign coordinator for Wallace J. Irish Jr., a Republican district candidate. Ferguson is finance chairman for the campaign of Republican District Director Ronald Osella, who is seeking re-election, and Burns

Landers is a candidate herself. John D. Labelle Jr., legal counsel for the district, said today that no decision has been made on whether to appeal the FOI ruling to the court.

The FOI has ordered the committee, "to the extent possible," to supply Dodson with minutes of its meetings. No formal minutes were kept, Dodson said. He said he had copies of reports on the meeting compiled from notes kept by Burns Landers, but he argued successfully before the commission that the notes were inadequate.

Dodson said he will press for the use of voting machines in district elections, a possibility considered but rejected by the election study committee.

Access plan approved for hall

By Alex Girelli
Manchester Herald

A plan to provide access for people with disabilities to Cheney Hall and to the stage level in the hall was approved by members of the Cheney Hall Foundation Wednesday.

Foundation members voted to authorize the architect for renovation of the historic hall to seek approval from the state building inspector and from the state's Office of Advocacy for Handicapped and Developmentally Disabled Persons for the plan.

The plan involves building a small addition to the east side of the building to enclose two wheelchair lifts, one of which would provide access from the street level to the basement and to the main floor level. The other would provide access to the stage level.

The cost would be about $60,000. While the foundation authorized the architects, Malmfield Associates of Glastonbury, to seek approval for that plan, they did not rule out the possibility of a more expensive plan that would provide for an elevator instead of two lifts in the addition to the building. That would cost $160,000.

The elevator is costly because it would have to have doors on three sides and provide access to four levels: basement, street, main hall and stage.

When bids are sought, contractors may be asked to submit bids for both alternatives.

Other solutions worked out by Malmfield have been rejected for various reasons. Some appear unlikely to win state approval while others interfere with the view of the stage.

In an unrelated action, the foundation voted to permit the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce to use the Cheney Hall parking lot for parking cars during a product show to be held in the building just north of Cheney Hall. The show is scheduled for Nov. 17, 18, and 19.

Rowland votes to override Bush veto of abortion aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Rep. John Rowland, R-Conn., voted along with the rest of Connecticut's congressional delegation to override President Bush's veto of abortion aid legislation.

The House voted 231-191 in favor of an override but fell short of the two-thirds majority needed to reverse the president's action. Bush had vetoed a $156.7 billion without prescriptions last April.

The vote by Rowland was consistent with his most recent stand on the abortion issue. Amid some controversy, Rowland two weeks ago said his 1988 vote to deny federal funds for abortion in cases of rape and incest was an aberration. He said that in light of the changing political climate in Connecticut on the abortion issue and because of his candidacy for governor, he was moderating his view.

Druggist convicted in scheme

By Alex Girelli
Manchester Herald

A federal jury has convicted a Bridgeport pharmacist of conspiring with his nephew over a two-year period to distribute controlled substances without prescriptions.

However, the U.S. District Court jury Wednesday acquitted Anthony Teso, 71, on charges of distributing Tylenol IV with codeine and valium without prescriptions last April.

His drug store, which for many years was known as the Justice Pharmacy before being renamed the Arcade earlier this year, closed this month.

The pharmacy as raided on May 17 by U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration agents who cleared all the controlled substances from its shelves. As a result, the pharmacy could not fill most prescriptions.

A nephew, John Christiani, 30, of Eason, was the government's key witness during the week-long trial. Christiani, who pleaded guilty to the three charges and is awaiting sentencing, testified that he obtained the drugs from his uncle and then resold them to his friends and to junkies in Bridgeport.

The Fairfield resident faces a maximum five-year prison term and $250,000 fine when he is sentenced Jan. 9 by U.S. District Judge Jose A. Cabranes.

Testo was released on $100,000 bond.

PUCA attaches conditions to United renewal

HARTFORD (AP) — State utility regulators say they will reject a cable television company's application to renew its franchise unless the company increases its support of public access programming and accelerates plans to increase capacity.

If United Cable Television of Connecticut meets the requirements set out by the Department of Public Utility Control Wednesday, their franchise covering the Plainville and New Britain areas will be extended for a period of 12 1/2 years from last July 1, the department said.

United now has 30 days in which to amend its proposal for renewal to include the new requirements.

DPUC Chairman Peter G. Boucher, said in a statement that the decision requires that United make "a commitment to... a state-of-the-art system offering a full range of services."

Another state utility commissioner, David J. Harrigan, said, "We have tried to be sensitive to the corporate interest as well as the public interest and we hope that United Cable will, upon reflection, decide to stay with us as a cable operator."

The DPUC decision asked United to speed up its plan to upgrade its system to 60 channels so that it will be completed by Jan. 1, 1995. United has said the improvements will be completed by July 1, 1996.

SPREADING THE WORD — Washington School Principal Ray Gardiner holds the microphone for fifth-grader Monte Green Tuesday as reads an essay against drug abuse. Description aids search for murderer

BOSTON (AP) — The search for a gunman who killed a pregnant woman and shot her husband "arrogated down to a chosen few" after police got a description from the critically injured husband.

Meanwhile, the couple's baby — delivered by Caesarean section several hours after the shooting and eight weeks premature — struggled for life today.

The city's attention has been riveted on the story of Charles and Carol Stuart since the suburban couple was attacked Monday night by a man who commandeered their car as they left a childbirth class at an inner-city hospital.

He demanded money and got keys and jewelry, but then opened fire after demanding Stuart's wallet, police said.

He shot Mrs. Stuart, 33, of Reading, in the head. She died shortly after her son, Christopher, was delivered. The boy was alive at Brigham Women's Hospital, but hospital officials refused to further describe his condition.

Stuart, 29, general manager in a far store, spoke to police Wednesday night though he was in critical condition with a gunshot wound to the abdomen. In addition to filling in details of the attack, he gave an excellent description of his attacker, said police Superintendent Joseph V. Sasa Jr.

"The list of suspects has been narrowed down to a chosen few," Sasa said. "As soon as his condition improves, we will go in with our artists and come up with a composite drawing."

Also Wednesday, more than 400 people attended a memorial Mass for Mrs. Stuart.

The Rev. Joseph Krastel said he didn't believe any of the Stuarts' relatives attended the mass.

"We hope our prayers can console them," Krastel said, adding that members of his congregation are increasingly troubled by violence in the area. "Every week people in this neighborhood are stabbed or shot. There's been a tremendous escalation of violence here," he said.

After the attack, Stuart called for help on a car telephone that his wife, a lawyer, had installed after she got pregnant so she could stay in close touch with her husband.

Police originally thought the gunman shot the couple because he spotted the mobile phone and thought that indicated they were undercover police officers.

After a 90-minute hospital interview with Stuart, detectives changed the theory. The Boston Globe reported today, citing unidentified sources. The husband told police the gunman said "Five-O," street slang for police, after Stuart said he didn't have a wallet.

Investigators believe the gunman thought Stuart was refusing to hand over his wallet because it contained a police badge, the Globe said.

As media attention focused on Mission Hill, some residents suggested the interest was because the victims were white professionals.

"There have been other people who've been murdered in this neighborhood. People that I knew and that I cared about," said Mission Hill resident Paul Everly. "But not one of them has brought out the police and you reporters like this one. What makes this one demand so much attention?"

42 hurt during uprising at Pennsylvania prison

CAMP HILL, Pa. (AP) — Hundreds of inmates ended a fiery seven-hour uprising after the warden agreed to meet with a small group about their complaints. Forty-two people were hurt during the siege and the prison was heavily damaged.

Eight guards were held hostage Wednesday in the state's second prison rampage in two days.

Robert M. Freeman, superintendent of the medium-security State Correctional Institution at Camp Hill, said 1,200 of the prison's 2,600 inmates joined the riot at various stages.

He planned to talk with five inmates today.

A new rule barring inmates' families from bringing in homemade food may have sparked the outbreak, said Freeman, who explained that the rule was established to prevent contraband from slipping into the prison.

About 300 police officers and firefighters were sent to the 27-acre complex after the riot began Wednesday afternoon when an inmate beat a prison staffer.

Smoke permeated the air as police struggled to secure the prison so firefighters could extinguish four blazes.

Perio said a final decision on whether Pierce would testify Friday would be made today. However, Pierce already has decided to again ban cameras during his appearance.

Perio and others close to Pierce have said the former HUD secretary believes he can't receive a fair hearing by Congress. It appears likely he will issue a written rebuttal of allegations raised in congressional hearings and media accounts of fraud, mismanagement and influence peddling during his eight years as head of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

"My client certainly has a story to tell and wants to tell his story but needs to decide the how and when and where of doing so," said Perio.

At a meeting with subcommittee staff Wednesday, Perio said Pierce would again invoke his right as a subpoenaed witness to ban television cameras, still photographers and radio reporters from recording his testimony.

The major television networks challenged that action in court when Pierce invoked the right before his subcommittee appearance last month, but a federal judge Wednesday dismissed the suit filed by Cable News Network Inc., Capital Cities-ABC Inc., CBS Inc. and the National Broadcasting Co. Inc.

The judge ruled Congress was within its power in granting subpoenaed witnesses the right to limit media coverage of their testimony.

Subcommittee aides said Pierce's lawyers didn't disclose during the Wednesday meeting whether Pierce would decline to testify Friday.

However, Stuart Weissberg, chief counsel and staff director for the panel, said "certainly reasonable inferences can be drawn" from Pierce's decisions to limit media coverage.

Another participant in the meetings, speaking on the condition of anonymity, said Pierce's lawyers asked whether the committee would demand that Pierce appear even if he was going to refuse to testify. They were told the committee would demand that Pierce appear.

A Republican member of the panel, in an interview before the meeting, said it would be fruitless to force Pierce, the only scheduled witness Friday, to appear if he would not answer questions.

"I'm not sure it's worth us wasting our time to hear him tell us" he won't testify, said Rep. Christopher Shays, R-Conn.

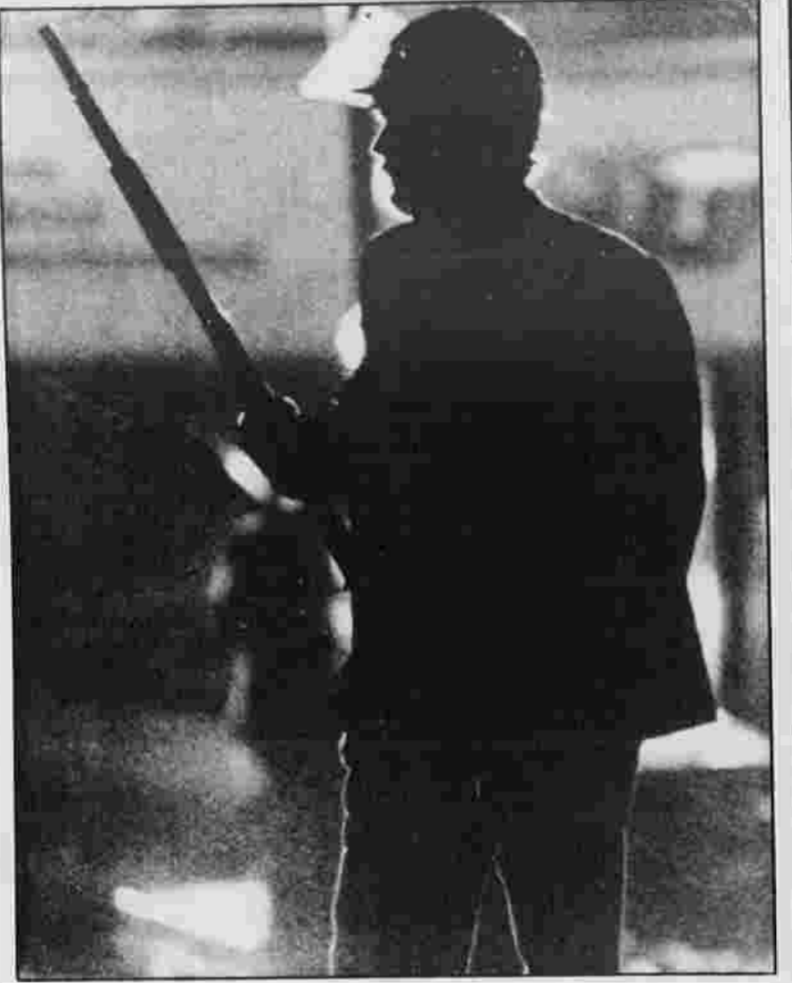

The judge also ordered Miss Gabor to pay a psychiatrist and refrain from driving until she gets her real age on her driver's license. Court documents said she was 66.

"Maybe I should have my head examined," she said on "A Current Affair." "He's right. If I tried to fight City Hall and the Beverly Hills police, a woman should have her head examined."

Miss Gabor seemed unaffected by Rubin chastising her for comments made to reporters during the trial.

About Rubin, she said: "After he looked through the sentencing, he looked like he needed a blood transfusion."

As for District Attorney Ira Reiner, she said: "He's not my my hit list. He's not my good enough for my hit list... This man is not equal to me."

Zsa Zsa wants an apology

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A day after being sentenced to 72 hours in jail, Zsa Zsa Gabor ridiculed the judge as needing "a blood transfusion" and derided the prosecutor as enjoying the trial's "circuslike atmosphere more than she did."

During an appearance Wednesday night on Fox TV's "A Current Affair," the actress was asked if she were at all repentant for slapping Beverly Hills Police Officer Paul Kramer on June 14.

"For what?" she replied. "That I was beaten half to death by a 6-foot-4, macho policeman because my driver's license had expired? I was defending myself. I think all of Beverly Hills owes me an apology. I tried to fight for the battered women."

A jury convicted Miss Gabor on Sept. 29 of misdemeanor charges of battery on a police officer, driving without a valid driver's license and having an open container of alcohol in her car.

The former Hungarian beauty, queen, believed to be at least in her mid-60s, was acquitted of failing to obey a law.

On Tuesday, Municipal Court Judge Charles Rubin ordered her to serve the jail time by Dec. 29, but gave her the option of reporting to any jail in Los Angeles County.

During her confinement, the star of such B-movies as "Picture Mommy Dead" and "Queen of Outer Space" will have to trade in her designer gowns for a jail-issued cotton shirt or pantsuit and will forsake her luxurious home for a 6-by-10-foot concrete cell with a bed, sink and toilet.

Although authorities promised no special privileges, Miss Gabor's Rep. Barbara Boxer, D-Calif., and other rights leaders vowed to offer similar language on other bills and repeatedly put Bush and anti-abortion House members on the spot.

"We will keep coming back," Boxer said.

House Democratic Whip Bill Gray, D-Pa., said he did not think Democrats would attempt to add similar abortion language to the same appropriations bill. Boxer and her allies, however, held out that possibility.

Bush, meanwhile, has threatened to veto an appropriations bill for the District of Columbia because it would allow Washington D.C. to spend local tax money on Medicaid abortions for victims of rape and incest.

Smith and other abortion opponents said Wednesday's vote demonstrated they can overcome future efforts to weaken the prohibition on most Medicaid abortions.

"They made the mistake of thinking this was a one-round fight," said Rep. Vin Weber, R-Minn. "Some members who were panicked by pro-abortion propaganda in the last few weeks are going to be surprised... We're now beginning to see some victories on our side of the issue."

Smith did not rule out the chance a compromise could be reached if it was "very, very tight."

Fifty-nine Democrats and 132 Republicans voted to sustain the veto; 42 Republicans joined 189 Democrats in voting to override.

Abortion-rights supporters picked up a net 15 votes on the override vote from their vote two weeks ago. But some of those who switched positions said they did so for other reasons.

Smith, the anti-abortion leader, attributed most of the switches to other issues but said there were "a few marginal members who have capitulated."

Eleven members did not vote, including Rep. James Courter, a Republican running for governor of New Jersey.

Man, muttering to himself, slugs Glenn

WASHINGTON (AP) — A "yuppie-type" man faces arraignment on a charge of slugging Sen. John Glenn one day after authorities say he broke through a police line and approached Vice President Dan Quayle's motorcade.

Glenn, a former Marine officer, rubbed his jaw and said "I haven't been hit like that in 30 years," said Gary Nurenberg, a television reporter who was talking to the senator Wednesday when a well-dressed stranger approached from the side and landed a solid right.

The man, identified by Capitol Police as Michael Breen, 31, of Washington, was muttering about earthquakes and the Pope, Nurenberg said.

Robert M. Freeman, superintendent of the prison, said Breen was expected to be arraigned this afternoon in U.S. District Court on a felony charge of assaulting a member of Congress. The charge carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Breen was arrested Wednesday outside the Smithsonian's National Air and Space Museum, where Glenn was attending a ceremony, said District of Columbia Police Officer Quintin Peterson.

U.S. Capitol Police and the Secret Service identified Breen as the man detained for about two hours Tuesday after he broke through a police line outside the Capitol and tried to approach Quayle's motorcade.

"He was just trying to pass a letter," U.S. Capitol Police Officer Dan Nichols said. Breen was stopped before he got to the cars and was not arrested, Nichols and Secret Service spokesman James Vetter said.

Glenn was knocked a bit off balance by the sideways, closed-fist slug but quickly immobilized his assailant by grabbing his arms, witnesses said.

"This guy starts muttering 'The earthquakes are starting, the earthquakes are starting,' comes up and socks Glenn on the jaw," said Rebecca Bell, Glenn's press secretary.

"The senator, with both hands on the man's arms, pushed him toward the security guard," said Nurenberg, a correspondent with Gillett News Bureau. "The senator at 68 had better reflexes than anybody else there."

Before District of Columbia police took Breen into custody, Nurenberg said, Breen stated he believed the California earthquake was a harbinger of imminent catastrophe in which two-thirds of the world's population would be wiped out.

"He talked about the children of Fatima. He said the Pope is withholding information," the correspondent said.

Nurenberg described the man as well-dressed, wearing a coat, tie and suspenders. "He looked to be a professional, yuppie type," he said.

Pierce may again refuse testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former HUD Secretary Samuel Pierce may again refuse to answer questions in a forced appearance before a congressional subcommittee investigating allegations of wrongdoing at the agency, his lawyer says.

"I am deeply troubled because this committee remains in a position in which it appears to have prejudged my client despite the fact there is no evidence to the effect that he has done anything improper," lawyer Paul L. Perio said Wednesday.

"In light of that, I would certainly say that we have not ruled out a continuation of the position we took at the previous hearing."

Pierce cited his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination last month in refusing to answer questions from the panel.

Abortion funding advocates say they're not giving up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Abortion rights advocates in Congress say they're not giving up their bid to allow Medicaid abortions for rape and incest victims, despite falling short of overriding President Bush's veto.

The House sustained Bush's veto Wednesday in a 231-191 vote, 51 fewer than the two-thirds majority needed to overturn a veto.

Rep. Chris Smith R-N.J., called the vote "a decisive victory for the pro-life movement" and evidence the political ground has not shifted on the abortion issue, as abortion rights advocates say.

But Democrats and Republicans who back the more liberal restrictions argued that public sentiment is on their side and that the vote will yield far-reaching political damage for Bush among younger voters.

"I am amazed," said Rep. Les AuCoin, D-Oré. "To see the Republican White House hand over to the Democratic Party a political generation that's out there and awakening to this issue."

"President Bush may well have stumbled on the one issue that could cost him re-election," said a Republican, Rep. Bill Green of New York.

The vote followed Bush's veto on Saturday of the provision, which is but a paragraph in a $156.7 billion appropriations bill for health, education and labor programs for the 1990 fiscal year that began Oct. 1.

The provision would loosen an eight-year ban on federal financing of abortions for poor women except in cases where the woman's life is endangered by her pregnancy. It would have permitted Medicaid abortions for poor women who are victims of rape or incest and who reported promptly to authorities.

Although it was designed to cover a relatively narrow group of women, the issue took on symbolic importance as the growing political struggle over abortion. Its approval by the House two weeks ago on a 216-206 vote marked the first time that body had voted the more liberal abortion language, although the Senate has repeatedly backed it.

Soviet miners defy new ban on strikes

MOSCOW (AP) — Defying a new law banning such walkouts, coal miners in the Soviet Far North went on strike today for the second time this year, demanding promised benefits and an end to Communist Party supremacy.

Miners at nine out of 13 mines in the Vorkuta area, 950 miles northeast of Moscow, walked off the job at midnight Wednesday, strike committee spokesman Anatoly Litvinenko said by telephone.

Litvinenko said the strikers were demanding delivery of benefits promised by the government over the summer when miners in the region struck. Miners in virtually every major Soviet coal field had walked off the job, demanding better consumer goods and working conditions and more financial independence.

This time, the Vorkuta miners are demanding political changes, including elimination of Article Six of the constitution, which makes the Communist Party the "leading and guiding force of Soviet society," Litvinenko said.

He said they also want to bar the party's general secretary from holding the job of president. Mikhail S. Gorbachev now holds both posts.

The miners are calling for their demands to be debated by the Supreme Soviet legislature and put on the agenda of the next Congress of People's Deputies, scheduled to be held before the end of the year.

The new walkout violates a law passed this month by the Soviet legislature banning strikes in such vital areas as energy, defense and transportation.

Authorities have not indicated what their response will be to this open defiance of the new law.

Litvinenko was unable to give a precise figure on the number of miners on strike in the region that employs some 20,000 miners. He said that strike committee members at the nine mines were meeting with management in an effort to resolve the issues.

He said the political demands were not aimed specifically at Gorbachev, but at constitutional changes for the future.

On Wednesday, Valentin Kopysov, the region's strike leader, said the miners were demanding the government fulfill to the letter promises made during the summer for better working conditions and more financial independence.

They also wanted official status for new committees formed to defend worker's interests.

The summer strikes — from Central Asia in the South to the Ukraine — paralyzed much of the country's coal industry. The miners went back to work after the government conceded to nearly all their demands.

First Deputy Premier Lev Voronin warned earlier this month that power stations and public utilities have 4.5 million fewer tons of coal on hand now than at this time last year due to the strikes.

Because the Vorkuta strike violates the Supreme Soviet ban, strike leaders expect a crackdown. Kopysov said.

Greatest reward for 3 is valor

The three young men who gave such valuable assistance to victims of a serious accident on Interstate 384 in Bolton Sunday all said afterwards that they deserve no special attention because they did only what anyone else would have done. They are wrong about that. It might be that almost any three people who came upon an accident by chance in the same way they did would have the same human instincts to help. It is not so certain that everyone would have the presence of mind not to panic.

Timothy Roberts, Lee Tracy and Dan Sandstrom will get letters of commendation from the Bolton Volunteer Fire Department for their part in the rescue of accident victims from a crushed car. Their greatest reward, however, will come from the personal satisfaction they must feel, however modest their public comments on the role they played.

All evidence indicates that not only were they willing to help, but able to keep their calm in the midst of crisis and thus to act effectively under the supervision of a volunteer firefighter.

Perhaps the men themselves are not the best judges of their contribution. That evaluation could be made by Mark Moran, the volunteer firefighter who came upon the crushed car with entrapped passengers.

When he shouted something like, "Can somebody help me," he was lucky to have Roberts, Tracy, and Sandstrom nearby.

"I've forgotten! What do we do around here besides MEETINGS?"

Priority issues

To the Editor:

To Russ Smyth: Since you have been running as a Republican candidate for the Board of Directors you have chosen to correspond through the newspaper regarding our opposite position as to the restoration of Center Springs Park. You have again emphasized your position that we should give the park back to the drug dealers and you support your argument by references to recent slayings in Hartford and New York City. Russ, I still think your position is wrong. Those slayings were unfortunate incidents and they will continue to happen in the real world. They happen in large and small parks, office buildings, parking lots, in poor and wealthy housing complexes, and in small and large, rich and poor cities and towns throughout the United States. But life goes on, Russ, and I refuse to give in to a small minority who tend to make life difficult for others because of their disregard for the human and social issues we live by. I believe we must fight back and make every effort to rid the parks and other impacted areas of those who create the problems. We must never give in to them.

Russ, you say you give the park back to the dealers and emphasize that as a result of that action "We Republicans will use the available tax dollars on higher priority items". Are you suggesting that the overall quality of life for the citizens of Manchester is not a high priority? Our Democratic slate strongly disagrees with you, Russ. Manchester has some serious problems at the library. Should we just buy a few books and give it to the street people? Do we abandon the Parkade because it is a problem area? What about education, Russ? Do we just give up our efforts to help students with learning disabilities or those that have emotional or physical handicaps?

No, Russ, not us. We will not and have not abandoned our responsibilities to serve the needs of Manchester's people. You have clearly pointed out the distinctive differences between the Democrats and Republicans running for the Board of Directors this year. For years you have appeared at board meetings critical of our major initiatives to benefit the citizens of Manchester. Your Republican colleagues have continued to support your positions on a regular basis, opposing elderly housing, most contract settlements, expansion of the paramedics service and other progressive and needed programs. They even attempted to cut $950,000 from

Let's give Henry his wings

By Joe Spear

Fellow taxpayers, friends, I know you have seen in a "tax reduction mode" for a few years, but abide me, please, as I beseech the Congress to let the funds to purchase a nice plane for Dr. Henry Kissinger.

It would have to be something big, else he couldn't get his ego through the door. Perhaps a Boeing 747, painted a solemn gray that would betfit his image as the world's most erudite statesman emeritus. Plush furnishings and a gilded fauce here and there would seem to be in order. Or, and a full-length mirror, before which he could practice his self-effacing schick and the deep guttural baritone before the disembark for press conferences.

I ask that you make this sacrifice because Dr. Kissinger is extremely bush running his consulting firm, Kissinger Associates. It is earning about $6 million a year now as it services large corporations seeking to exploit Kissinger's prodigious network of presidents, prime ministers and Paramount Leaders, and he simply cannot find time to attend to life's ordinary demands.

Need I remind you that, as for the former vice president for foreign affairs under Richard Nixon and the president in November 1973, Dr. Kissinger is perhaps the country's most renowned Non-official Personage? Must I state the obvious? This man is a great national resource. His important people would testify to this, as would Dr. Kissinger himself, if pressed. When he was elevated from national security chief to secretary of state in 1973, a reporter asked Kissinger if he preferred being addressed as "Mr. Secretary" or "Dr. Secretary." He responded, jokingly of course: "I don't stand on protocol. If you will just call me 'Excellency' it will be OK."

Let me cite just one example to show how desperately Dr. Kissinger needs this aircraft. Six years ago, investigative journalist Seymour Hersh wrote a book about his Excellency which pointed out a few follies by many accounts he is a vain, secretive, duplicitous, paranoid, short-tempered, manipulative — things like that and made the case that his achievements were pretty much in equilibrium with his screwups. The exposure bruised Dr. Kissinger's tender sensitivities and stirred up a storm of Hersh-bashing among his many prominent friends — including some notorious journalists.

Another who took great umbrage with Hersh was former Indian prime minister Morarji Desai, who was accused in the book of having been a CIA informant during his public career. He filed a $100 million libel suit. The case wound its way to trial in Chicago a few weeks ago, and among those served with a subpoena to testify was the industrious Dr. Kissinger. He didn't show up. His lawyer did. Four days later he told the judge that Dr. Kissinger was just too busy to fool with libel trials. He was going overseas quite a bit during the summer, or after speeches, attending corporate board meetings. It was just impossible for him to make it, sorry, but that's the way it was. "I understand he is a very busy man involved in serious issues, but he has been subpoenaed," replied unimpressed U.S. District Judge Charles Neugebauer. His Excellency canceled a lunch in New York with a foreign minister and flew to Chicago.

He gave more than three hours of diplomatic testimony and then, as the trial was recessed, swooped behind the judge's chair to shake the existing magistrate's hand as several jurors looked on. He later called a press conference in an upstairs room at the courthouse to denounce Hersh (who was later cleared by the jury), then departed, presumably to return to the Big Apple.

It is plain to me that Dr. Kissinger cannot conduct his business and participate in trials and other plebian duties at the same time unless we provide him with special transportation. Kings have airplanes. Presidents, politicians and shiks have jets. Why not our own Dr. Kissinger?

The anti-American and anti-Israeli terrorists were greeted at Tehran airport by Iranian Deputy foreign minister Forouzan Khatami, who was accused in the book of having been a CIA informant during his public career. He filed a $100 million libel suit. The case wound its way to trial in Chicago a few weeks ago, and among those served with a subpoena to himself to be a liar, the Herald should reject future ads of this type and deny DiRosa their endorsement in this election campaign.

Why has the Democrat majority's campaign advertising become mean, vicious and dirty? Because their campaign is unraveling at the seams and I've been targeted as a threat if their party machine politics in Manchester.

I haven't raised enough money in my campaign to afford expensive ads to rebut DiRosa's and Cummings' lies. I've taken my stand after street, meeting people at their homes.

The common theme repeated time and time again, especially by registered Democrats, is that they've had it with the lies, arrogance and secret deals of DiRosa, Cassano and Cummings.

A quote from a long-time Democrat in the Kennedy Road area, that "DiRosa, Cassano and Epstein are just Cummings' puppets. I'm voting straight Republican for a change," says it all in a nutshell! Do other registered Democrats have the courage to do the same?

Town Director Ron Oseila 410 Hackmatack St., Manchester

Rafsanjani is host to terrorists

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Iranian President Hashemi Rafsanjani, the man who would be "moderate," hosted a secret convention of terrorists in Tehran last month. The result may be a new wave of anti-American terrorism sanctioned by Iran.

Iranian intelligence sources and our contacts in Tehran report that the terrorists began to gather on Sept. 21 and were still in Tehran as of Oct. 17.

The first to arrive were top leaders of Hezbollah, the Beirut-based terrorist group that is directed by Iran. Hezbollah's ledger lists more than 260 Americans dead, including 241 U.S. marines killed in October 1983 in a bloody ambush near Beirut. Hezbollah also tortured two Americans to death, Central Intelligence Agency station chief William Buckley and U.S. observer Col. William Higgins. The group is currently holding American hostages.

In the second wave came Abu Moussa, a Palestinian terrorist who hates Palestine Liberation Organization Chairman Yasser Arafat and is bent on assassinating him. He was in Tehran for the same purpose. He was also in Tehran for the same purpose. He was also in Tehran for the same purpose.

Where are all the neighborhood children you ask? Come down my way during the summer, or after speeches, attending corporate board meetings. It was just impossible for him to make it, sorry, but that's the way it was. "I understand he is a very busy man involved in serious issues, but he has been subpoenaed," replied unimpressed U.S. District Judge Charles Neugebauer.

It is plain to me that Dr. Kissinger cannot conduct his business and participate in trials and other plebian duties at the same time unless we provide him with special transportation. Kings have airplanes. Presidents, politicians and shiks have jets. Why not our own Dr. Kissinger?

The anti-American and anti-Israeli terrorists were greeted at Tehran airport by Iranian Deputy foreign minister Forouzan Khatami, who was accused in the book of having been a CIA informant during his public career. He filed a $100 million libel suit. The case wound its way to trial in Chicago a few weeks ago, and among those served with a subpoena to

Why has the Democrat majority's campaign advertising become mean, vicious and dirty? Because their campaign is unraveling at the seams and I've been targeted as a threat if their party machine politics in Manchester.

I haven't raised enough money in my campaign to afford expensive ads to rebut DiRosa's and Cummings' lies. I've taken my stand after street, meeting people at their homes.

The common theme repeated time and time again, especially by registered Democrats, is that they've had it with the lies, arrogance and secret deals of DiRosa, Cassano and Cummings.

A quote from a long-time Democrat in the Kennedy Road area, that "DiRosa, Cassano and Epstein are just Cummings' puppets. I'm voting straight Republican for a change," says it all in a nutshell! Do other registered Democrats have the courage to do the same?

P.S. Any citizen who wants to help me respond to DiRosa's lies can send a donation of just $150 to the Committee to Re-Elect Ron Oseila, P.O. Box 1415, Manchester, CT 06040. All the proceeds will be used for a single ad to rebut the lies.

Wake up

To the Editor:

I would like to respond to the reply of J. Russell Smyth from the Oct. 17 edition.

Mr. Smyth, you should ask yourself the same questions you asked of Steve Cassano. In other words: Did't you read about the rape and murder of a young woman in Keeneey Park? Also, you must have read about the gang rape and beating of a woman in Central Park. Well, what does this tell you? That we should give Center Springs Park back to the drug dealer? Incredible!

Mr. Smyth! Wake up! Such a statement does not come from a sane and reasonable man. It certainly isn't something that should be endorsed by the town council in any such way.

My family and I have just moved to the Center Springs Park area after living in town for seven years. We never heard of the park until we moved nearby. I believe that the town was not supported, much less advertised Center Springs Park as it should.

Where are all the neighborhood children you ask? Come down my way during the summer, or after speeches, attending corporate board meetings. It was just impossible for him to make it, sorry, but that's the way it was. "I understand he is a very busy man involved in serious issues, but he has been subpoenaed," replied unimpressed U.S. District Judge Charles Neugebauer.

He gave more than three hours of diplomatic testimony and then, as the trial was recessed, swooped behind the judge's chair to shake the existing magistrate's hand as several jurors looked on. He later called a press conference in an upstairs room at the courthouse to denounce Hersh (who was later cleared by the jury), then departed, presumably to return to the Big Apple.

It is plain to me that Dr. Kissinger cannot conduct his business and participate in trials and other plebian duties at the same time unless we provide him with special transportation. Kings have airplanes. Presidents, politicians and shiks have jets. Why not our own Dr. Kissinger?

DiRosa and Cassano stood up to talk, they didn't confine their remarks to education but rather they talked on issues completely foreign to education. To me, it was very embarrassing since half of the audience were grade school children.

After consideration it was determined to totally renovate the Hall of Records for the sole use of the Probate Court. That was done and a fine result obtained. The extra cost proved to be a wise investment. To provide the facility the Probate Court occupied today, would cost four times more than it did 5 years ago and would have added at least $300,000 to the cost of the proposed town hall addition.

At the time of renovation it was recognized that eventually the Probate Court would need the entire Hall of Records building. To conserve space it was decided to permit unneeded space. The time has now come that the Probate Court will need that space. Good prior planning provided the space. It only remains to find a place elsewhere for the Credit Union and the Fuel Bank.

I recite this to illustrate the need to continually plan and provide for future needs. The town government needs more space now and will certainly need even more space in the future. The town hall addition will provide decent working conditions for town employees who presently are working in unacceptably conditions. It will solve the serious space problems in the town clerk's office for the storage and preservation of our all important land records and it will provide space for future needs in an economical manner as possible.

Construction is always expensive but postponing needed construction is even more expensive, sometimes making needed improvements impossible. Please vote yes on the referendum question and support the addition to the town hall.

I can't figure out the statements in your letter when it asked Steve to look around. "The hospital is to the north, Broad Street businesses to the west, the town hall to the south and downtown businesses to the east." Then you ask "Where are all the neighborhood children you expect will use Center Springs Park?"

Well Mr. Smyth, this shows that you are not a naive of Manchester because if you were you would have known that in the '30s and '40s when I skated at Center Springs Pond along with a few hundred or more, the area I live in now, which is next to the hospital, was all wooded, as was Broad Street from Center Street to West Middle Turnpike. Where did all the children come from? We came from all sections of Manchester. I live on Kerry Street on the shore of Union Pond and I walked to Center Springs Pond as did other neighborhood kids because it was monitored for safe skating, plus we met and made many new friends.

Mr. Cassano, just consider the source of the Oct. 17 letter and continue the good work you have always done to make Manchester a wonderful town to live in.

Has vision

To the Editor:

Joe Epstein deserves to be elected as a director on Nov. 7, 1989. If the upcoming town election is a referendum on leadership — and I believe that it is — Joyce will stand head and shoulders above her opponents.

Leaders need a vision of where they want to take the town of Manchester over the next several years. Joyce has demonstrated that vision by distributing a series of position papers on such topics as recycling and our town library. She has taken the time to gather the facts, analyze them and articulate a clear direction for the town to take over the next few years.

Leaders must also be strong enough to make the difficult judgments required of public officials and then stand behind those judgments to implement their vision. Joyce has that kind of tough-mindedness. When confronted with the challenges of tomorrow, Joyce will make the right choice.

At the Bowers PTA candidate night I was absolutely dumfounded when DiRosa and Cassano turned the meeting into a political debate on issues other than education.

I was under the impression that the Bowers' PTA had scheduled the meeting to learn the candidates' thoughts on education — not to hear DiRosa and Cassano try to cover up their atrocious political blunders. Of course, this was typically "gutter politics" and I hope the audience recognized it as such.

The three Democrats and first three Republicans all discussed their thoughts on education. When

For Buckno

To the Editor:

For 18 years, Ted Cummings has virtually run this town. The type of domination he has over the Board of Directors and the town administration is not in the best interest of Manchester. This town needs directors who follow their own course and are not required to answer to party bosses. One of the bright ideas natives to the Ted Cummings Director is Susan Buckno. Buckno is tough on the issues and well qualified for the job. Best of all, she works for all the citizens of Manchester not just the powerful ones.

Let's keep the respect that we have for the elderly and keep them safe. Let's defeat the Republicans who would abandon the elderly and keep the party who has respect, care and concern for the elderly as well as all of Manchester's citizens. Vote a Democratic ticket Nov. 7.

Dr. Thomas Spackman, chairman of the radiology department, said the impact the machine will have on UConn will be significant. He said, for instance, doctors will be able to not only treat illnesses, but learn more about such diseases as multiple sclerosis. It also reduces the need for exploratory surgery.

"New technology is not simply glitzy devices," he said. "They really are important pieces of clinical care."

The first scanners made their way into hospitals 15 years ago. A patient is placed on a table and then placed inside a small cylinder. The cylinder is positioned over the part of the body that the doctor wants examined.

Once in position, a bank of X-ray devices inside the scanner rotates around the patient to provide multiple images that are fed into computers. The computers then use the data to produce digital images that

The first scanners took up to five minutes to take a single image and then another five minutes to produce an image. The new machine at UConn can perform a scan in as little as 0.5 seconds and produce an image in one or two seconds.

In the case of a brain scan, the machine can provide a finished image in two minutes. Doctors can then add colors, enlarge or shrink, or do anything else they want in the image so that they can study the brain.

The UConn machine is able to produce sharp images quickly because it uses the latest in digital equipment and also relies on a bank of 20 computers that work in conjunction to process up to 133 million instructions per second. The system has 64 megabytes of memory, about 100 times greater than the typical home computer, UConn officials said.

use of natural light. There will be large courtyard-like areas connected by walkways designed to look like streets, Qualkinbush said.

As part of the New England theme, there will be a 10-store food court designed to look like a village green. Full-sized living trees and plants will decorate the interior of the complex.

The mall, designed as one strip, will feature an escalator at each end and one in the middle. There will also be two elevators.

A space has been reserved for the Manchester Police Department to serve as a substation for the north end of town.

Of the 160 store spaces, Qualkinbush said, about 80 percent of them already have committed tenants, all retailers. If a mall opens with about 60 percent or more of the spaces leased, it is doing well, he said.

About 30 percent of the committed tenants are fashion retailers, 10 percent are accessory retailers, and the rest is a jumble of various specialty stores, Qualkinbush said.

There is no bank tenant, he said and Homart is not actively seeking a bank.

Some of the larger, more recognizable stores will be owned by Sears Roebuck & Co., Sage-Allen, Steiger's, G. Fox, and D & L. These companies are building their own stores that together will occupy more than 475,000 square feet, almost half of the entire mall.

Qualkinbush said the structure of the mall has been designed to allow more anchor stores to be constructed.

However, economists say these discounts actually stifle sales from the 1990 model year. For that reason, they believe consumer spending, which accounts for two-thirds of all economic activity, will be exceptionally weak in the current October-December period.

The various changes left the economy, after adjusting for inflation, growing at an annual rate of $4.158 trillion in the third quarter, up $25.6 billion from the second-quarter pace.

The injured man, Norberto Miranda, came running out of the plant with his pants still on fire and yelling, "Help me" after Wednesday's explosion, said a co-worker, David VanWinkle, 29.

The employee rolled on the grass in a desperate attempt to put out the flames before VanWinkle was able to put out the fire with an extinguisher.

Fire Chief John Riordan said it appeared the victim had suffered burns over more than half his body.

Whalers play a full 60 minutes

Hartford is back in action tonight against the New Jersey Devils at the Meadowlands at 7:45. It then travels to Boston Saturday night to face the Bruins.

Loy, who berated his club to the media after its 3-2 loss to Montreal on Monday, had kind words to complain about Wednesday night in their Adams Division clash with the Quebec Nordiques at the Civic Center.

The Whalers put on a game face for 60 minutes, and the result was a 2-0 shutout win behind the 22-save performance of Mike Liut in goal before a crowd of 12,696.

Hartford, stopping a three-game winless streak (0-2-1), moves into fourth place in the division at 4-4-1 for 9 points with Quebec at 3-5-1 for 7 points. Quebec has played two less games.

"We can't afford not to play 60 minutes," he said. "The puck isn't going in for us right now so we have to play hard. I thought we played (hard) for 60 minutes except for part of the third period when I think we held back a little bit."

"Hartford played a good, disciplined game," said Quebec Coach Michel Bergeron. "If you don't score goals on the road, you can't win games."

"We played pretty well tonight. We should be pleased with it," Ray Ferraro said. "Now we have to try to build some momentum on it. One win is one win, we have to try to string something together."

The shutout was the 21st for Liut in his career, most among active goalies in the NHL and it brought his league-leading goals against average to 1.81.

LaForge tried to play tough guy for the Whalers, but for his troubles was soundly thrashed by the Nordiques' Dan Kimble with 1:20 left in the period.

It was a much quieter second period with Liut both sharp and fortunate. He made a glove save on a 15-foot wrister on Quebec's Ken McRae with Hartford enjoying a man advantage.

Liut was helped later by a goalie's best friend — the post — halfway through the period as crafty veteran Guy Lafere, still showing considerable skill, found net instead of net. The Nordiques' Mario Marois fanned on the rebound, one of several fortunate bounces for Hartford.

Liut had a strong third period, denying Lafere midway through the session with a right pad save and frustrating Whaler nemesis Michel Goulet with a chest save of his 40-foot slapper with 5:29 left.

WHALER NOTES — Quebec's Peter Stastny is the all-time leading scorer against the Whalers with 107 points (37 goals, 70 assists) in 62 games. . . Whaler scratches were Joel Quenneville, Chris Govedaris, Todd Krygier, Mike Tomiak, and Peter Sidorkiewicz. . . Ray Whitmore, dubbed the Whaler "goalie of the future," has played only two of the first 11 games this year. . .

Liut ranked fifth in the state poll, is the favorite to take home the MM crown and will receive its toughest competition from two All Connecticut Conference rivals — defending champ St. Bernard's of Uncasville and St. Joseph's of Trumbull.

East placed fourth in the MM race in 1987. Last year, the Eagles finished second in MM, a mere seven points behind St. Bernard's. Besides aiming for the team title, East has a couple of performers who will be in the running for the MM individual crown. Junior Chris Ray, who placed seventh last year, and senior Dan Feehan, who was 18th a year ago, are two of the favorites.

Ray won the ACC individual title while Feehan was five seconds behind in third place.

Race champs coming back to Manchester

Thursday, Oct. 26, 1989

Three names that have dominated the Manchester Thanksgiving Day Road Race are set to do battle once again in this year's 53rd edition on Nov. 23.

Defending champ John Gregorek, who committed to the Road Race last week, will be severely challenged by two other "Joins" and, incidentally, two friends — four-time winner and course-record-holder John Treacy and two-time champ Tracy Doherty.

Prindiville noted Judi St. Hilaire, who smashed her own course record last year with a time of 24:26, will return to clash with nine-time New York City Marathon winner Grete Waitz of Norway.

Gregorek, who lives just outside Providence, R.I., in Seekonk, Mass., often trains with Treacy and Doherty. This will be Treacy's seventh appearance in Manchester, Gregorek's fourth and Doherty's fourth.

Another Irishman, Richard O'Flynn, will also return.

O'Flynn, who is making his fifth appearance in the Silk City and also a training mate of the trio of Gregorek, Doherty and Treacy, looms as a dangerous entry in the race. In his four races here, O'Flynn has finished fourth, third and second twice. Most recently, he was runner-up to Doherty in 1987.

The five fastest times ever run in Manchester on Thanksgiving day are divided among Treacy, Gregorek, Doherty and O'Flynn. Treacy set his course record of 21:26 for the 4.75-mile course in 1979 while Gregorek registered the second fastest clocking (21:30) last year.

Prindiville also said American Keith Brantly, who finished third a year ago, will not return to Manchester this year due to a prior commitment.

Last year, the 29-year-old Gregorek became the first American to win the Road Race since Charlie Duggan in 1980. Doherty, 28, and Treacy, 32, were both members of the Irish team which defeated the United States in the Ekliden Relay in New York City in the spring.

Doherty placed second behind world-record holder Said Aouita in the 5,000 meters at the World Cup in Barcelona, Spain, this summer. Treacy finished third in the Boston Marathon in April.

ONE OF THE FAVORITES — East Catholic High junior Chris Ray will be one of the favorites in Saturday's Class MM boys cross country championship meet to be held at Wickham Park.

record, defeated St. Bernard's at the Wickham and Windham Invitational and in the ACC meet. East also finished a strong sixth at the Brown Invitational last weekend. St. Bernard's was 12th.

The boys MM race goes off at noon.

"They're looking really good," Haggerty said. "If we run like we did Saturday (at Brown), we should win the MM." Sophomore Dan Thery is the Eagles' No. 3 runner.

"I'd like to score 70 (points)," Haggerty said. East totaled 77 last year. "If Dan (Feehan) runs well, they (Ray and Feehan) could take 1-2."

The last Eagle state title was Steve Kittredge (Class 1) in 1982. Guy Joseph of St. Bernard's and Brian McNeese of St. Joseph's are the other individual favorites.

The East Catholic girls, who compiled a 3-1 dual meet record, will compete in the MM race at 11:30 a.m. East was fourth a year ago.

Junior Nancy Byrne, who missed last year's MM and Open races due to a stress fracture, placed third in the MM race her freshman year and will be one of the individual favorites.

Playtex payoff alleged by lawyer in tampon case

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — An attorney who has handled more than 100 toxic shock syndrome lawsuits says two lawyers for a tampon maker offered to pay him if he would stop taking such cases.

Playtex Family Products Inc. signed a $500,000 consulting agreement with another plaintiff's lawyer who has stopped pressing toxic shock cases, said the attorney, Mark B. Hutton.

Hutton and a partner in his Wichita law practice won an $11.2 million civil award for the family of a woman who died of toxic shock syndrome. It is one of hundreds of lawsuits around the country seeking damages from makers of high-absorbency tampons, which were linked to the rare and sometimes fatal infection by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control in 1980.

Hutton said he first was approached by Playtex attorney Charles McCaghey in 1985 or 1986, when McCaghey's New York law firm was coordinating the company's defense against the lawsuits.

Hutton alleged that McCaghey offered him money in addition to any settlement he might get for clients if he would refuse to take future toxic shock cases.

McCaghey, however, denied offering to pay Hutton to back off toxic shock litigation.

"It's false, to my knowledge," McCaghey said Wednesday. "I never offered him anything to buy him off."

Hutton said he dismissed that approach and others later from William H. Robinson of Richmond, Va., another lawyer for Playtex.

"I thought it was just cocktail talk," Hutton said. "Lawyers do a lot of jousting among themselves and teasing." Hutton said. "I never took it seriously."

But he thought otherwise after learning another plaintiff's attorney, J. Michael Liles of Fort Worth, Texas, accepted a $500,000 five-year consulting deal with Playtex.

Spokesmen for Stamford, Conn.-based Playtex didn't respond Wednesday to a telephone request for comment.

Robinson's secretary said he was out of the office and couldn't be reached for comment. He has previously refused to comment to reporters on the arrangement with Liles, saying he can't discuss matters under litigation.

Playtex and other manufacturers have stopped making the kind of high-absorbency tampons linked to toxic shock syndrome, but typically don't admit the tampons are to blame in settling damage lawsuits.

Liles said in a telephone interview Wednesday he hasn't done any toxic shock syndrome consulting work yet for Playtex, some 10 months after he signed the agreement with the company.

The consulting contract Wednesday to a telephone request for comment.

"This is a matter where people have brought my ethics into question and I haven't done anything unethical," Liles said Wednesday.

Playtex said in a court brief in an Orange County, Calif., toxic shock case that it is paying Liles "for being available to consult with it regarding toxic shock syndrome litigation."

One of Playtex's insurance companies, St. Paul Surplus Lines Inc., refused to pay Liles' $500,000 consulting for the company. In a Dec. 28 letter to Playtex, the company said its coverage didn't encompass such an agreement.

"In addition, we are concerned by the ethical considerations and the long-term ramifications of an agreement of this nature," said the letter, which is part of the court file in a Delaware Superior Court case involving a dispute among Playtex,

Columbia Casualty Co. and other insurance carriers.

Hutton said he and the attorneys for Playtex never discussed how much he might be paid.

"They didn't get specific with me because I didn't express an interest," he said.

Hutton said Liles had found a smoking gun Playtex didn't want revealed. Before he settled a Texas case against Playtex, withdrawal from others and accepted the consulting arrangement, Liles telephoned Hutton and said he had found a memo showing Playtex had been planning to remove its super-absorbent tampons from the market since 1983, Hutton said.

"That memo is part of the Delaware case record."

DIPLOMATIC HELLOS — Mikhail Gorbachev and Finnish leader Mauno Koivisto greet guests outside the presidential palace in Helsinki Wednesday.

Gorbachev hears proposals for new capitalistic projects

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — Mikhail S. Gorbachev met today with the leading businessmen of a prosperous country to hear ideas about new capitalist projects for the troubled Soviet economy.

The meetings came as Finnish newspapers lauded Gorbachev's unequivocal recognition of Finnish neutrality, which in previous Soviet statements had been couched in qualifications.

In a dinner speech Wednesday, the Soviet president said, "I want to get a neutral Finland."

The issue of neutrality strikes a sensitive chord in Finland, which often has been detested as being under Moscow's thumb and adopting subservient policies in exchange for being allowed to remain independent following military defeats at the hands of the Soviets.

"Gorbachev's dinner speech was marked by new thinking from beginning to end," said an editorial in

But now, four decades later, people are beginning to talk openly about the midnight burials 40 years ago when Sluzew then a tiny hamlet — seemed a safe place to lay a shameful dead.

And for the first time Saturday, the still unidentified victims will have a funeral Mass said for them at nearby St. Catherine's Church.

The unsigned verse and cross in Walbrzyska Street Cemetery mark where an estimated 500 to 3,000 political prisoners were buried after being executed or tortured to death at Mokotowski Prison during the 1940s and early 1950s.

The prison is about three miles away from the Sluzew burial ground.

A long-banned movie about the period, "The Interrogation," is now being released in state-owned cinemas. And state television news this week broadcast Maj's story of the Walbrzyska Street prison.

The cemetery stands as a "symbol of the martyrdom of Poles during the Communist terror," says Malgorzata Shejter, of the Church-Social Committee for Homeage to the Victims of the Terror of the Authorities in the Years 1945-56.

"It also symbolizes the indestructibility of memory," she said.

M. McCarthy is dead at 77

NEW YORK (AP) — Critic and novelist Mary McCarthy, whose "fierce clear" observations of politics and literature placed her among America's literary giants, has died, she was 77.

Miss McCarthy died of cancer Wednesday at New York Hospital, said Dixie Sheridan, spokeswoman for the author's alma mater, Yassar College in Poughkeepsie.

Called "our first lady of letters" by Norman Mailer, Miss McCarthy first made her mark among the sprawling New York intellectuals of the 1950s, writing scathing literary and theatrical reviews for "The Nation" and "Partisan Review."

She reached a wider audience in 1963 with her spicy best-selling novel "The Group," chronicling the lives of eight women who graduated from college in the 1930s.

Her numerous awards including membership in the American Academy of Arts and Letters and the National Institute of Arts and Letters, two Guggenheim Fellowships, the National Medal for Literature, and the Horizon Prize.

She was the owner of a "wholly destructive critical mind," possessed of an "unerring ability to spot the hidden weakness or inconsistency in any literary effort and even person," said writer Alfred Kazin.

"There was a dedication to the art of living as well as to the art of writing," said essayist Ellzabeth Hardwick, a close friend. "I loved her not only as a writer but as a person. She was into all the things that go into good living — making homes and cooking and being enormously hospitable and having friendships that lasted for decades." She also was capable of devastating acerbity.

SWITCH OF CLOCKS PROMOTED AS TIME TO CHECK DETECTORS

The International Association of Fire Chiefs is trying to make the American ritual of resetting the clocks into the annual switching event.

The occasion is the annual switch from daylight to standard time, which occurs officially at 2 a.m. Sunday. For the record, turn the clock back one hour.

For all but a few Americans this is an event they cannot ignore without the risk of being an hour early for everything until next spring.

The fire chiefs are promoting it as an occasion to make sure they are safe as well as on time by putting a new battery in smoke detectors.

While 80 percent of the homes in America have smoke detectors, as many as half don't work because the batteries are either old or missing.

Checking and replacing batteries is also a good idea in states where the clocks don't have to be changed. Those few, which didn't change at daylight time in the spring, include Arizona, Hawaii, parts of Indiana, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and American Samoa.

While people are concerned about fires and will buy and install smoke detectors, it's easy to forget about them, the chiefs warn. And the batteries will die eventually, leaving the home unprotected.

One of the reasons for the concern is that a fire in a kitchen building, wounding one inmate in the assault, said Ken Robinson, state Corrections Department spokesman. All four hostages were freed, he said.

Prisoners then began "coming out and surrendering" by lying face down on the ground, Robinson said. In another courtyard, police in riot gear and wielding shotguns pushed surrendering or captured prisoners to the ground, holding them face-down in the grass.

Rioters among about 1,900 inmates who remained loose in their cellblocks this morning were taken to a holding area at the rear of the prison grounds, Robinson said.

There was confusion about the numbers of rioters, injuries and hostages in the rampages that started Wednesday night. Robinson and other officials said through Thursday night there were eight hostages. At the end, Robinson said there were four and all were safe.

About 500 state troopers, with local police and firefighters, began moving in early today to retake the medium-security prison. The officers entered through gates in prison walls, occupying areas that weren't held by the prisoners and avoiding clashes with hostage-holding inmates. Inmates could still be seen moving about inside the fire-ravaged prison before dawn as state troopers moved with gear, spotlights trained on the institution from outside.

Police recapture prison after 2nd night of riots

CAMP HILL, Pa. — Police stormed an overcrowded state prison this morning to regain control from inmates who seized hostages and set off fires in a two-night riot that left 100 people injured, authorities said.

Officials had secured four cellblocks with 750 prisoners by 6 a.m., said John Palakovich, assistant to the superintendent. By 8 a.m. Robinson said half the institution was under police control.

Robinson called the situation somewhat stabilized. He said, without giving details, that inmates were negotiating with authorities on the institution from outside.

Superintendent axes plan to slaughter pig

COVENTRY — The last-minute withdrawal by the superintendent of schools of permission for an annual pig slaughter has some students very upset.

Pro-lifers say KofC harbors abortionists

NEW HAVEN (AP) — Leaders of four anti-abortion groups have called on the Knights of Columbus to expel nine prominent Democratic politicians — including New York Gov. Mario M. Cuomo and U.S. Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts — because of their abortion records.

The Rev. Paul Marx, a Catholic priest who heads one of the groups, Human Life International of Gaithersburg, Md., said Thursday the Knights of Columbus, the world's largest Catholic fraternal organization, is "harboring abortionists."

"There may well be other pro-abortion politicians masquerading as loyal knights," said a statement, signed by Marx, the Rev. Charles Fisher, chairman of the National Pro-Life Political Action Committee, Julie Brow, president of the American Life League and Joseph Schneider, director of the ProLife Action League.

Terry Lynam, spokesman for Cuomo, said the governor "perpetuates a cheap sham."

Both Kennedy and Cuomo are members of the New Haven-based Knights, and were put on the list of those the anti-abortion groups want expelled along with U.S. Rep. James J. Florio of New Jersey, who is now running for governor in that state, and U.S. Reps. Edward Markey of Massachusetts, Edward Roybal of California, Romano Dwyer of New Jersey, Tom McMillen of Maryland, James Traflet Jr. of Ohio and David R. Obey of Wisconsin.

CHAMBER SAID READY TO BACK TOWN HALL

Chamber said ready to back town hall

By Alex Giralli, Manchester Herald. The proposed bond issue of $13 million for the renovation and expansion of municipal government offices has won the endorsement of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce, according to Nathan Agostinelli, co-chairman of a political action committee promoting the project.

At a meeting held by the Manchester Property Owners Association Thursday night, Agostinelli said the chamber had unanimously endorsed the bond issue and that there was no dissent.

Ann Flint, president of the chamber, declined this morning to comment on the chamber's stand.

What: To renovate and expand Municipal Building and Lincoln Center. Cost: $13 million. Start: Increases office space from 28,000 to 50,000 square feet. Parking: New parking garage would provide parking for 378 cars. Access: The renovated buildings would provide handicapped access.

Proponents of the plan argue that the additional space has long been needed and that delaying the addition will increase the cost.

Some opponents say the project is too expensive and that details about it are lacking.

Berlin offers amnesty to thousands of emigres

BERLIN (AP) — East Germany's new leadership today declared an amnesty for all citizens accused of illegally trying to escape from the communist nation, a move expected to free several thousand people from prison.

The amnesty also would allow tens of thousands of East Germans who have fled to West Germany through Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Poland in recent months to return home without facing criminal prosecution.

The announcement came a day after more than 100,000 people rallied in Dresden and other East German cities for democratic reform, and a Politburo member began talks with a leading opposition group.

The amnesty, which also covers those who took part in illegal street protests, is the first step toward reform since Egon Krenz replaced long-time leader Erich Honecker as Communist Party chief on Oct. 18. It was announced by the official illegality trying to escape from the communist nation, a move expected to free several thousand people from prison.

The amnesty also would allow tens of thousands of East Germans who have fled to West Germany through Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Poland in recent months to return home without facing criminal prosecution.
