Commuter rail line set to go

By Larry Rosenthal The Associated Press

NEW HAVEN - A new commuter rail service heavily subsidized by the state will begin operating this spring between Old Saybrook and New Haven, with the goal of easing congestion on Interstate 95 and the Quinnipiac River Bridge. Amtrak will operate the rail service for the state at an initial cost of $1.95 million a year, state transportation officials said Wednesday. The Department of Transportation has purchased two locomotives, three 66-passenger cab cars and seven 102-passenger coaches from the Port Authority of Allegheny County, Pa., for $1.7 million.

Transportation officials said the equipment was last used in April and is in excellent condition. But they said modifications will have to be made to meet federal regulations governing Northeast Corridor rail

Shore Line East, as the new service will be called, had originally been scheduled to begin operating this year. But it was delayed by a number of technical and legal problems, including Amtrak's insistence that all liability rest with the state, officials said.

The state's initial investment in the service is more than $4 million. Transportation officials are projecting that fares will bring in about $300,000 the first year, covering only about 15 percent of the operat-

Reasons invasion

We can find plenty of reasons for wishing President George Bush had not invaded Panama Wednesday to oust dictator Manuel Noriega. Furthermore, Bush pulled the trigger on what, at first glance, looks like flimsy pretexts.

Noriega did virtually declare war with the United States Friday, and his actions in the next few days were troubling. But, while we do not mean to belittle anyone's life, only one U.S. citizen was killed before the invasion.

And while last week's well-orchestrated events began with the swearing-in of a democratic government, our invasion made it our government, in a sense our puppet. And yet, deep inside, we have a gut feeling that justice just might have been

We should be humble and perhaps even a little ashamed we had to resort to violence. But Noriega by all accounts did deserve to be ousted and should be brought to trial. In that light, perhaps a more apt comparison than the invasion of Czechoslovakia may be the killing in Romania. Would we protest if Soviet President Gorbachev invaded Romania to put a stop to the killing there? Warren (Ohio) Tribune-Chronicle

PORT CRANE, N.Y. (AP) - A long-time friend of Billy Martin was drunk when he drove Martin's truck off the road, killing the former New York Yankees manager, a prosecutor

Kevin Guyette, who prosecutes felony drunken-driving cases in the Broome County district attorney's office, said a blood-alcohol test on William Reedy supports the charge that Reedy was drunk at the time of the Christmas evening accident outside Martin's rural home.

Guyette refused Wednesday to say what Reedy's blood alcohol level was, but he said Reedy was charged under the state law that says a person is intoxicated when the blood-alcohol level is at least 0.1

The charge is a misdemeanor that carries a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine. Reedy, listed in fair condition Wednesday at University Hospital in Syracuse, faces arraignment on Jan. 4. Jon S. Blechman, Reedy's Binghamton lawyer, was not in his office and could not be located for

Martin's widow, the former Jilluan Guiver, received Yankees officials and former major league players, including Whitey Ford and Joe Torre. The wake will open to the public today and funeral services will be Friday in St. Patrick's

Cathedral. "She was quite broken," John Covelli, music director of the Binghamton Symphony and a friend of the Martin family, said of Martin's widow. "He was a very, very kind and gentle man - one you'd be happy to have as a friend."

Make criminals pay for jail time

DEAR ABBY: I just read something in the Joliet Herald-News that I think should be aired in your column. A 20-year-old liberal arts student at the University of Iowa was sentenced to seven years in prison for distributing LSD. Abby, this guy made a fortune selling drugs. Furthermore, the judge ordered him to pay $1,210 a month to pay for his prison stay! After he serves his prison term, he will be on supervised release for four years, for which he must pay $91 a month.

I think this is a wonderful idea. Why should honorable, law-abiding citizens have to pay to feed and house these criminals — especially the ones who got rich selling drugs? I wonder what your other readers think of

DEAR E.S.: I'm with you. I am amazed that judges didn't think of it before, or have they? Readers?

DEAR ABBY: An unusual situation has caused hard feelings in our office and we would like your opinion of the following

My friend and I purchased four choice tickets for a major upcoming sporting event as soon as the tickets went on sale. A lot of legwork and advance planning went into buying these tickets at $100 each. The sporting event will take place shortly, and the value of the tickets has quadrupled. We could easily get $400 apiece for those tickets. My friend and I plan to attend the event and sell the other two tickets, thus paying for our expenses and making a small profit. Office cronies want to buy the two tickets for their original price - $100 each. We insist on selling them for a price that we can easily get from others. We have not

There is no cause-and-effect here. The chances of conceiving a child are the same before and after adoption. Implying that all one has to do is "relax" belittles the infertile couple's experience, and is an insult to them and their adopted child.

Imagine how adoptees must feel when they read that they were just a means to an end - a reproductive aid to bring about their parents' second child! Adoptive parents do not think that way, but journalists thoughtlessly perpetuate the myth that adopted children are second-best. And another thing: Could we all lighten up on phrases such as "adopt a whale," or "adopt a zoo animal"? One last thing, Abby, and I'll have it off my chest. My

DEAR READER: Most humidifiers add moisture to the air either by blowing water vapor into the environment or by agitating water (using elecromagnetic waves) to vaporize it. Each method provides adequate humidification, but the latter (ultrasonic) type is quieter

People who breathe the humidified air.

For example, Legionnaire's disease, an epidemic form of bacterial pneumonia, was identified from contamination of air-conditioning machinery. Similar infections can result from home humidifiers. In particular, allergic pneumonia can develop in people especially sensitive to mold spores that grow in humidifier machinery.

I am not aware that ultrasonic humidifiers are safer than the standard models. Experts recommended periodic cleaning of the units to avoid bacterial or mold buildup. With proper maintenance, you can probably use either type of humidifier.
