Police Roundup

Four held on drug charges

Police raided a Manchester residence on Greenwood Drive late Thursday afternoon and arrested four people on narcotics charges, police said. Alain C. Lagoux, 27, of 194 Greenwood Drive was charged operating a drug factory and three separate counts of possession of cocaine, marijuana and drug paraphernalia, police said. Also arrested were Jeffrey D. Pitkin, 19, of 194 Greenwood Drive; Roger P. Morin, 25, of East Hartford; and Mark J. Beaulieu, of Hartford. They each were charged with three separate counts of possession of cocaine, marijuana and drug paraphernalia. Police raided the residence at 5:35 p.m. and confiscated several scales, baggies and other items used to package drugs, police said. Pitkin was held on a $10,000 bond, Morin was held on a $5,000 bond and Beaulieu was held on $1,000 bonds, police said. All were scheduled to appear today in Manchester Superior Court, police said.

Man arrested on drug charges

A Hartford man suspected of supplying cocaine to the Manchester area was arrested this morning, police said. James McGowan, 23, was charged with possession of cocaine and possession of cocaine with intent to sell, police said. He was held on a $10,000 bond and scheduled to appear today in Manchester Superior Court, police said.

Teen charged with burglary

A Manchester teen-ager was arrested Thursday and charged with burglary in connection with a Feb. 10 break in at the Patis Restaurant, 250 Hartford Road, police said. Michael D. Hartley, 19, of 391 Hartford Road, was charged with burglary and larceny and scheduled to appear Wednesday in Manchester Superior Court, police said.

Current Quotes

"It's not how many people you have but how those people behave. . . . Actually, the problem in the world is that there (are) much too many rich people. . . . Paul Ehrlich, Stanford University professor of population studies, who told a Pittsburgh conference on global environmental problems that one rich American causes 1,000 times more damage to the planet than one person in the Third World."

Thoughts

"He is not here. . . ." God breaks the silence, the tomb is empty! . . . Exaltation is upon the disciples as they realize the One in Whom all hope rested is gone. The Cross has realized their worst fears and killed the One who loved them most. Feelings of desperation increase as they try to think of how married life will be without the presence of the most important person in the world. . . . The news comes crashing through their depression and shocks their senses. Risen! The presence of Christ now permeates His followers as the Father has given Jesus to all who would place their hope and faith in Him.

8th directors to meet to solve sewer dispute

By Alex Girall
Manchester Herald

Leaders said he is optimistic that the district directors will approve the agreement. At a meeting of the town Board of Directors Tuesday, Leaders threatened to sue the town if it did not reverse the decision on the sewer project. He said the town had imposed stricter requirements for street repair after the district had awarded a contract for the work on based on then existing town specifications.

At a meeting of the district Board of Directors Monday, the directors voted unanimously to allow the contractor, Glenn Construction Co., to meet the town's requirement for road resurfacing and get a lower permit for the work despite the fact that it would add about $16,000 to the cost of the project which would have to be passed on to about 40 homeowners who will be served by the sewer.

The district sewer project has been delayed because of the disagreement. But the district directors authorized further negotiations over the added cost.

Housing grant is reinstated by board

By Jacqueline Bennett
Manchester Herald

COVENTRY — A sobbing Joseph Carilli said he was happy and relieved following a unanimous decision by the town Building Code Board of Appeals, acting as the Fair Housing Committee, to reverse the action of the Housing Rehabilitation Committee and reinstate Carilli's $31,000 grant Thursday.

The motion to reinstate the grant was made by committee member Michael Cleary during the hearing at the Town Office Building after an hour and a half of testimony.

Carilli burst into tears when the decision was announced, the end of a year-long ordeal. Carilli and his wife Lori attended the proceeding with their attorney Phillip Block of Hartford.

"We got back our American dream," Carilli said later in an interview.

The Carillis applied for the grant to rehabilitate the house they had purchased last March. The Housing Rehabilitation Committee approved the grant in Aug. 1989, but rescinded it in Sept. 1989 due to information the town community development director, Ann Zavitoski, said she had received. The committee contended Carilli's grant could jeopardize the town's HUD grant and the town might be liable to pay the Carillis grant.

At the hearing, Zavitoski said two state officials visiting her office in town verbally warned her the proximity of Carilli's holding tank.

At a meeting of the district Board of Directors Monday, the directors voted unanimously to allow the contractor, Glenn Construction Co., to meet the town's requirement for road resurfacing and get a lower permit for the work despite the fact that it would add about $16,000 to the cost of the project which would have to be passed on to about 40 homeowners who will be served by the sewer.

But the district directors authorized further negotiations over the added cost.

Also, the basis of the action to rescind the grant was based on "erroneous" information, Block said.

Block also accused the Housing Rehabilitation Committee of using another health issue as a "diversion" tactic after their rescinding.

At issue was a pipe from the Carilli property the town sanitarian ordered repaired. That pipe apparently leads to a dry well that disposes gray water into the ground which could cause contamination of the well, the committee had contended.

"Once it's given, it's given — no Indian givers allowed," said Block.

Housing Rehabilitation Committee had not rescinded the grant on the basis of the gray water, it was irrelevant to the case.

"I have to say in all candor, I concur with a lot of what Mr. Block says," said Schwebel.

Before the hearing, Carilli had said he was not sure he could get a fair appeal, and after said he was surprised. "I just hope this is the end of it and that they give me my grant. Ann has been so persistent," he said.

Carilli said he paid $55,000 for his Wangambaug Drive house — his life savings used for deposit, and knew it needed a lot of repair.

Weicker holds big lead in poll

HARTFORD (AP) — Former U.S. Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr. still has a commanding lead over his likely opponents in the gubernatorial race, according to a poll published today.

Thirty-nine percent of those surveyed in the new Hartford Courant/Connecticut poll said they preferred Weicker, 12 percent said they preferred Republican U.S. Rep. John G. Rowland, and 9 percent said they preferred Democratic U.S. Rep. Bruce A. Morrison. Forty percent were undecided.

In a Courant/Connecticut poll published last month, 29 percent said they favored Weicker, a former Republican senator running for governor as an independent, 18 percent said they favored Rowland and 12 percent said they favored Morrisson.

The latest poll, conducted between March 27 and April 3, is the first reading of the 1990 gubernatorial race without Gov. William A. O'Neill in the picture. O'Neill announced March 20 that he would not seek re-election.

The poll by the Institute for Social Inquiry at the University of Connecticut randomly surveyed 500 adults. It has a margin of error of plus or minus 3 percentage points.

The poll showed Weicker is more well-known than his likely opponents, but poll director G. Donald Ferree said as voters follow the race more closely and issues are discussed, Morrison was favored by 49 percent, compared to 5 percent for state Rep. William J. Cibes Jr. of New London, who is challeng-

Business, schools cooperate

By Nancy Foley
Manchester Herald

During her lunch hour, Katherine Mullen, manager and assistant vice-president of the Broad Street branch of People's bank, has been visiting Waddell School fourth-graders to explain savings accounts, bouncing a check, or paying a mortgage.

At Washington School, students have been following the stock market, placing "trones" in communities that children that age do have a stake in, such as Coke, Pepsi and Reebok.

Judy Harting/Manchester Herald

These activities are part of a business-school partnership program initiated by the Chamber of Commerce. Under the program, business people go into schools and share their expertise with students. In return, the businesses have a chance to do something for the community as well as to teach skills that are needed in the business world.

Wendy Luddy, manager of the Buckland office of People's Bank, noted another advantage to the program.

"It gets me out of the office once a week," Luddy has been going to Robertson School once a week to teach students about banking. "We talk about everything from where money came from up to mortgages," she said. One time, she brought in $100 bills to students would know what they look like.

Most of the students catch on to the concepts pretty quickly, Mullen said.

Luddy said it is important that students be taught the skills they will need once they get out in the real world. She has seen too many people in their twenties come into the bank as customers, without any idea how to manage a check book.

"Trying to get through to them later in life is kind of difficult," she said.

After each of the courses is over, the children are given tours of the bank and encouraged to open a savings account. "I think the bank basically gets good will in the community," Luddy said. "We're not going to make a lot of money out of $10 savings accounts."

Some back funding for police

Although most people who spoke at Wednesday's public hearing on the town budget were primarily concerned with education, a handful showed up to ask the Board of Directors to rescind cuts made in the budget request by the Police Department.

The police had requested about $5.94 million, and the Town Manager Richard Sartor's recommendation is for about $5.77 million.

Although the approximately $168,000 cut amounts to about 3 percent only, it is significant considering the manager's overall recommended cuts equal about 1 percent.

At Wednesday's hearing, William Daley, the police union president, said the union wants at least some of the cuts replaced, adding

Senior takes third in contest

"The Effects of Obnoxious Children on Parents," a production by Jason Hawkins, 18, of Trolley, won third place in the 1990 Penny Awards video and film competition.

Hawkins' four-minute production is described as a black comedy in which he "explores the subconscious mind with a touch of the surreal," according to his competition entry form. It won first place in the contest's miscellaneous category.

The Manchester High School senior won 10 free passes to Showcase Cinema, a college financial aid and scholarship search, and trophies for Manchester High

O'Neill to remain neutral

By Judd Everhart
The Associated Press

HARTFORD — Democratic Gov. William A. O'Neill, who's dropped his bid for re-election, says he's trying to be a statesman as Democrats pick a candidate to succeed him, but he seems to still have some less-than-warm feelings toward Bruce A. Morrison, the front-runner for the nomination.

Up until O'Neill dropped out March 20, Morrison had been in the role of challenger to the governor, who's held the office for more than nine years.

"That intra-party challenge to an incumbent had angered many O'Neill loyalists and the governor himself often had difficulty concealing his disdain for the 3rd District congressman.

When O'Neill was asked Thursday if he planned to meet with Morrison to discuss the race, the governor said: "I have no plans to meet with him whatsoever."

State Rep. William J. Cibes Jr., D-New London, decided to seek the nomination after O'Neill dropped out. And Attorney General Charles North Riddle of New Haven is considering getting in. She plans to announce a decision by Tuesday.

"As a statesman, I would say that it seems to be developing in an interesting manner," the governor laughed. "As a statesman, you have to act statesmanlike."

He said he had no plans to make an endorsement before the July nominating convention.

Town attorney collects taxes with help of additional staff

By Rick Santos
Manchester Herald

"I'm taking a really aggressive stance on this," Chmielicki said, adding that her successes do not reflect a lack of diligence in the past.

"To be fair to the town staff prior to my coming here the work was voluminous," she said. She added that the additional staff has made the difference.

Besides a fourth assistant, Chmielicki is being aided by a clerk and two interns.

"She's put together a good crew," says Republican Director Ronald Ostella. About the $10,000 appropriation, he said, "I'm glad we made that decision."

Of the almost $700,000 in collections, Chmielicki said about $200,000 is from delinquent tipping fees and about $485,000 from back

Juror helping raise bond for Lomax

HARTFORD (AP) — A man imprisoned for more than two years after two murder trials ended in hung juries is getting help raising his bond from an unlikely source — the jurors at his second trial.

The juror, Sara Hamrick of Hartford, who voted to acquit Joseph Lomax during his second trial in the slaying of 24-year-old reporter, plans to serve on a fund-raising committee called "Concerned Citizens for Joe Lomax," according to Lomax's mother, Mildred Brown.

Hamrick was one of six jurors who voted in February to acquit

Loser of suit vs. Newman complains of mismatch

BRIDGEPORT (AP) — A deli owner who lost a lawsuit against Paul Newman and his food companies says the court battle was a mismatch because of the actor's status as a movie screen idol and philanthropist.

Members of the jury said they spent their time gazing on the evidence, not the star, and Newman called Westport deli owner Julius Gold's remarks "sour grapes."

Juror Gail McCulley said all but one of the six jurors began deliberations convinced that Gold's claims were without merit. McCulley and juror Beverly Willis agreed that Newman's celebrity status didn't influence them.

"It made no difference who he was. We treated him just like we would you," Willis said. "He was just another guy there, just another person."

The Superior Court jury deliberated just five hours over two days before deciding Thursday afternoon that Newman never promised Gold 8 percent stock in his business, Newman's Own Inc. and Salad King Inc.

The Academy Award-winning actor was applauded and cheered as he walked out the front door of the courthouse and was quickly sur-

FBI agent infiltrated Mafia for indictments

BOSTON (AP) — Seven reputed mobsters have pleaded innocent to a range of charges, a week after they were indicted as part of a sweeping FBI crackdown on organized crime in New England.

An affidavit filed in U.S. District Court as part of the case says a Boston FBI agent went undercover for several years, infiltrating the Mafia, to collect key evidence for the indictments, according to The Providence Journal-Bulletin.

FBI Special Agent Vincent deLaMontagne cultivated and befriended some Boston-area mobsters because two brothers with ties to the Mafia became FBI informants in Los Angeles, according to the newspaper's report on the affidavit. The document said the men returned to Boston to introduce deLaMontagne to Patriarca family members.

The undercover operation lasted for 2 1/2 years, ending in 1987, the affidavit said. It began when Craig Anthony "Tony Rome" Fiato and Lawrence Aitilo "Larry Rome" Fiato, both originally from Boston, began cooperating with the FBI in Los Angeles, according to the document cited by the Journal-Bulletin.

S&L bailout to fall far short of need

By Dave Skidmore
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Congressional auditors warned today that last year's savings and loan bailout plan will fall a staggering $68 billion short and called on the Bush administration to come up with a plan to raise the money.

The General Accounting Office, in its highest- yet estimate, said it will cost the government $225 billion to close or sell failed thrift institutions. That's greater than the annual budget of the Defense Department.

The new projection is up a sharp 26 percent from a $257 billion estimate the GAO offered only five months ago. And it is based on admittedly optimistic assumptions about interest rates, rescue costs and the number of S&L failures, Comptroller General Charles A. Bowsher, who heads the GAO, told the Senate Banking Committee.

In his prepared testimony, Bowsher called on Treasury Secretary Nicholas F. Brady and Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. Chairman L. William Seidman, who is administering the bailout, to "develop proposals to provide the additional funds."

In past appearances before congressional committees, Seidman

Coed now must wait as jury decides fate

By James Martinez
The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla. — A college student was either out of her mind or lying, attorneys told jurors who began deciding whether she should be imprisoned for life in the drowning of her newborn in a dormitory toilet.

If convicted of first-degree murder, 18-year-old freshman Claire Morit would be ineligible for parole until she's 43 under mandatory sentencing guidelines.

"Be certain you can live with it the rest of your life, because Claire Morit will," defense attorney B. Anderson Micham warned the jury before it began considering its verdict.

The 12-member panel met for about three hours Thursday. They were sequestered for the night and were to resume deliberations this morning.

A full day of closing arguments Thursday focused on the defense argument that Ms. Morit was temporarily insane and had no memory of being pregnant or giving birth.

Police looking for motive in slayings at crack house

DETROIT (AP) — The assassins who massacred six men and boys in a reputed crack house may have been stoned on drugs or seeking revenge for a deal gone bad, officials said.

City Councilman Gilbert Hill, former head of the police department's homicide division, said he saw little difference.

"Most of the time it's not a turf battle, just thugs robbing each other," Hill said. "Some of these guys walking around with Uzis and .44 Magnums, they have the brain of an ant. I don't think it's part of any organized conspiracy."

The Wednesday night attack was the worst multiple murder in Detroit since June 1971, when seven members of a heroin ring were found shot to death in a west side apartment.

No arrests had been made by Thursday night, Officer Thomas Martinielli said.

The victims ranged in age from 15 to 32.

According to accounts from witnesses, a woman and two men burst into the house, forced the victims to lie on the floor and started shooting them.

Baby conceived to save a life is born

By Bruce V. Bigelow
The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — A healthy baby girl was born to a couple who conceived the child to serve as a bone marrow donor for their cancer-stricken daughter.

Abe and Mary Ayala revealed their secret last week when they conceived the baby, named Marissa Eve, as a last resort to save the life of their 18-year-old daughter, Anissa, who is dying of leukemia.

The baby weighed 6 pounds, 4 ounces at birth Tuesday night at Queen of the Valley Hospital in suburban West Covina, the couple's niece, Lydia Sanchez, said Thursday.

"She's beautiful, she looks just like Anissa," Sanchez said.

The Ayala couple chose a middle name "because Eve means life," she proved to be an incompatible bone marrow donor for their stricken daughter.

Almost 24 ounces of marrow would be taken from an adult donor, if one was available. Konrad said she would be lucky to get half that amount even after freezing the umbilical cord to use its cells to supplement the marrow transplant.

The case drew considerable attention as medical ethicists voiced qualms about creating one child to save another. They said the baby was not conceived as an end in itself, but for a utilitarian purpose.

The middle-aged couple said they were hurt by such talk, and that they would love the baby even if it

Fighting leaves 10 dead in South Africa

New violence starts after de Klerk, Mandela agree to conduct peace talks

By Barry Renfrew
The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Savage new fighting between black factions broke out today in Natal, leaving at least 10 people dead despite an accord by President F.W. de Klerk and Nelson Mandela to resume peace talks.

The new violence shattered a two-day lull and came after de Klerk and Mandela agreed in Cape Town Thursday to talks on ending white-minority rule and sharing power with South Africa's 28 million disenfranchised blacks.

Both leaders said a date for new talks would be announced shortly. They hailed the agreement as a breakthrough and called for an end to the black faction fighting that has left hundreds dead in recent weeks. The political violence is believed to be the worst since the mid-1980s.

De Klerk said late Thursday the two leaders discussed the fighting "frankly and clearly... I had the impression that there is a general agreement that violence had to come to an end and that there was a need for creating an atmosphere in which normal political processes could take place."

But rival Zulu war bands armed with guns, knives and sticks clashed around Pietermaritzburg in southeastern Natal today, police said.

War bands set fire to homes and fought in the hillsides around black townships. They also clashed with police.

At least one black man was killed when police opened fire on a large crowd near Ladysmith, according to the state South African Broadcasting Corp. Among other attacks, police patrols were shot at when they tried to separate the fighting groups, and one officer was killed and three injured in various incidents, authorities said.

The fighting broke out after two days of relative quiet in the region. At least 67 people have been killed

Examiners threatened to close bank branch over Marcos spending

NEW YORK (AP) — Examiners threatened to shut down the Philippines National Bank's New York branch in 1982 because of red ink resulting from Imelda Marcos' spending spree, a former bank official said.

Mrs. Marcos used the branch as her personal "piggy bank" to pay for artworks, jewelry, clothes and other luxuries during frequent trips here, prosecutors said Thursday.

Oscar "Oca" Carino, who managed the Manhattan branch for 11 years until 1984, said its debts rose to about $22 million at their peak.

The 60-year-old Carino, the first of her countrymen to testify in Mrs. Marcos' trial in U.S. District Court, was returning to the witness chair today.

Mrs. Marcos, who sat taking notes in her customary black dress during the testimony, is accused of using more than $160 million stolen from the national treasury, and millions more from defrauding several banks, to finance a lavish lifestyle and the purchase of four New York buildings.

Her husband, former Philippines President Ferdinand E. Marcos, was also charged in the 1988 indictment but died in exile in Hawaii last September.

A co-defendant, Saudi Arabian financier Adnan Khashoggi, is charged with mail fraud and obstruction for allegedly backdating documents to help the Marcoses conceal their ownership of the New York buildings.

Don't ignore opinions on school budget

The views of the many Manchester residents who attended a budget hearing Wednesday night to support spending for Manchester schools cannot and should not be ignored.

The vast majority of the almost 400 people who came to the meeting were in support of full funding of the more than $46 million school budget.

The controlling decisions about the town budget and thus the amount of tax Manchester taxpayers will face will be made by the five Republican directors meeting in caucus.

The Republican Party campaigned in the November election on a platform that included a pledge to avoid a tax increase. They also promised more responsible and a more responsive government than they said the Democrats have provided in recent years.

When the Republican directors consider the budget in caucus, they will not all start out with the same views. And if they did they would be guilty of the same blind partisanship they accused the Democrats of having followed.

The drive which resulted in a petition bearing signatures of 447 residents who favor full funding for school was, of course, organized by the Parent-Teacher Association and some of those who signed it may, indeed, have felt pressured to sign it. Neither the petition nor the remarks of those who spoke at the meeting should be taken automatically as the view of the entire community.

But the meeting was open to anyone and anyone can organize a petition drive when he is motivated to do so.

The petition and the remarks at the hearing should be one of the things the Republicans consider when they make their budget decisions. They should also consider balancing their obligation to economize with their obligation to provide good services, including good education.

DARE thanks Coke

The town of Manchester is currently participating in an anti-drug/anti-alcohol program in its elementary schools. The program is called DARE. Program DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) is taught by a uniformed police officer in the elementary school system. The program is not designed to instruct students in textbook reasons why drugs are bad for a person; the program instead emphasizes to students how to recognize and resist the many subtle pressures that influence them to experiment with alcohol, cigarettes and drugs. The program also focuses on feelings related to self-esteem, interpersonal and communication skills, decision making, and positive alternatives to drug abuse behavior.

The DARE program is successful nationwide because it utilizes student participation and involvement. Students work in heterogeneous groups on related academic tasks, such as designing and acting out role playing skits. While enjoying the many exercises, the students also learn the objectives of the lesson.

In March, the Manchester DARE students were offered the opportunity to participate in a poster contest with an anti-drug/anti-alcohol theme. One winner from each of the eight participating elementary schools was selected to attend a Hartford Whalers hockey game on April 1, 1990.

The Coca-Cola Co. of East Hartford graciously donated the use of their Civic Center Skybox for this occasion. Getting to go to a hockey game was exciting enough, but getting to watch the game from the skybox made it only that more special for the student winners.

We would like to express our heartfelt thanks to the Coca-Cola Company and especially their area food service manager James Margelli, for recognizing and supporting the DARE program and its students.

Mall an asset

A wonderful thing has happened in Manchester, namely the Pavilions at Buckland Hills. I, like many Manchester residents, have always had to go out of town to do the bulk of my shopping. Now we have a beautiful mall right here and believe me it's a good feeling knowing you're spending your money in town.

Thanks go to former Mayor Peter DiRosa and his Democratic colleagues for being persistent by sticking their necks out even after a lot of opposition from groups whose only arguments seemed to be that a "mall" was not good for our town.

Besides its convenience and its attractiveness, one does not have to be a mathematician to realize that in the near future the town of Manchester will benefit greatly from the large tax revenue generated from this mall.

Thanks again, Pete & Company, you all deserve a big "Well Done."

Do movies reflect values?

When "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" was given the movie censor's Seal of Approval in 1963 after an appeal by Warner Bros., the reports that followed of the imminent death of the Hays Office were not exaggerated.

The Edward Albee play brought to the screen a veritable avalanche of obscenities never before heard in a movie theater. The age of clean dialogue and happy endings was over.

A fine reticence gave way in the movies to tasteless realism. Happily, Will Hays had run a tight ship. Now it was taking on water and sinking rapidly. By 1968 the Hays Office, like Hays, would be dead.

As movie censor from 1922 to 1945, Hays had run a tight ship. Now it was taking on water and sinking rapidly. By 1968 the Hays Office, like Hays, would be dead.

Joe Breen, Hays' top lieutenant in Hollywood from 1934 to 1954, was still alive in 1963 (he was 73). But it seems safe to assume he never went to see "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

Hays and Breen never thought of themselves as bluenoses. They would have said they were simply enforcing the Production Code (as it was called), which had been drawn up by the movie industry itself.

True, the producers looked at the code from a point of view that was often at odds with Hays' and Breen's view. Hays complained that when a script called for a woman to cross her legs, the directors would see how high she could cross them and still stay within the letter of the code.

Hays felt the criterion should be "to see how low she could cross them and still be interesting."

While the producers and authors understandably tried to go as far as they could with the censors, their protests that the Hays Office was running their creative efforts does not appear to have had much validity.

Variety, the trade paper of the entertainment industry, wrote in 1935 that "the belief that Hollywood under the Hays Office would only be allowed to make nifty-pammy stories hasn't materialized. Quite the contrary. The 1930s, when the studios raised the cry that they were being forced to operate under impossibly restrictive moral standards, turned out to be Hollywood's 'golden years.'"

Nor should we take seriously the criticism of Gerald Gardner, who has written a book on the Hays Office years, that "a generation of American married couples slept in twin beds — and that George Plagenz is a syndicated columnist.

Fitch & Drake, country store

Years ago young men wishing to enter the retail merchandising business offered an apprenticeship with an established merchant. They usually spent three years working long hours in the store and might be paid twenty five dollars a year.

The 1870 census shows that Levi Drake, George Dowell and Clayton Spencer were clerks at the Union Manufacturing Company's store in Union Street where George Hubbard was first manager and later the owner.

About 1873/4 Levi Drake (1847-1922) and Jasper Fitch (1843-1924) opened a store in the Bissell Block, on North Main Street. The Bissell Block had on its first floor a double fronted store where Mr. Fitch sold dry goods on the other side. Mr. Drake sold dry goods on the other side. North Manchester's first public hall was on the second floor.

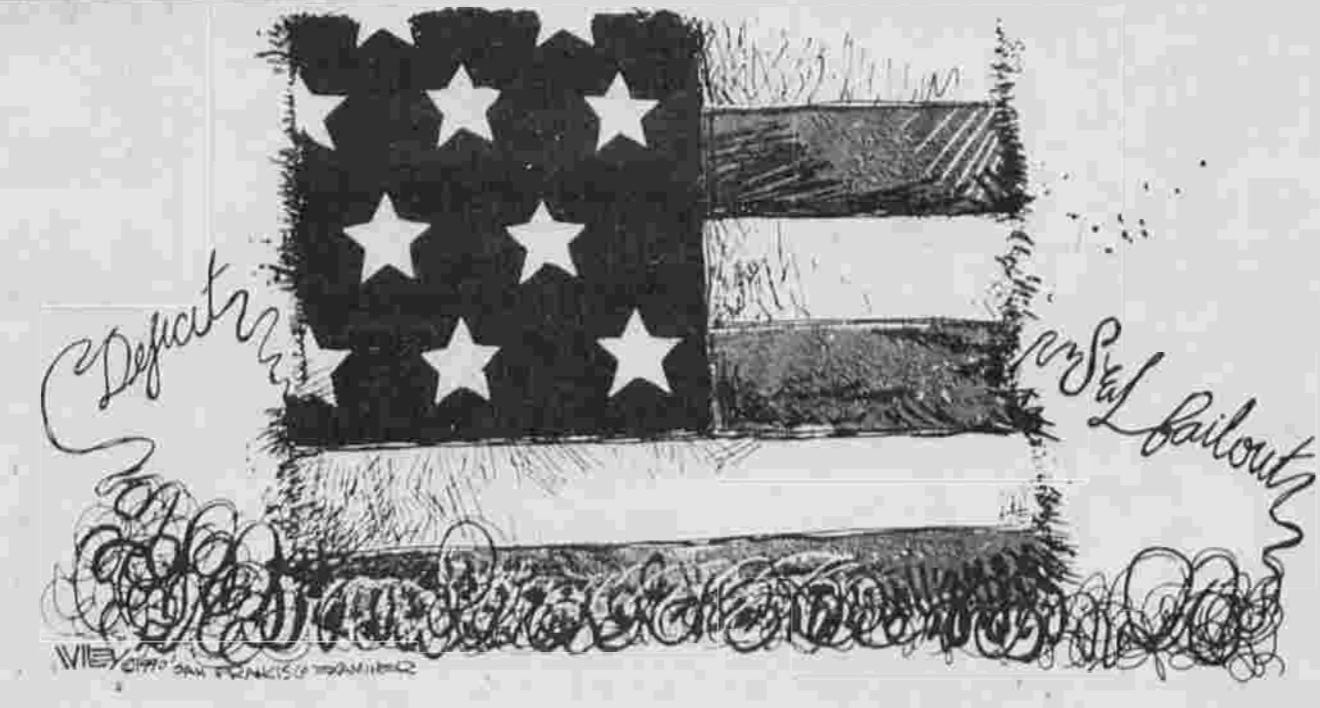

The depression that followed the stock market crash of 1929 left many people jobless. The federal government created the Works Projects Administration whereby any citizen would get up a municipal building on land owned by the town would receive matching funds from the WPA.

Manchester built the Mary Cheney Library on land that had already been owned by the town by Cheney Brothers. Levi Drake's bequests were used in funding the town's share of WPA Project #1201RS.

When the library was opened to the public on Nov. 2, 1937 it did not have the present Reference Room or the Junior Room sections. These two wings, one on either side of the original building, were added in 1961.

A plaque in the Mary Cheney Library reads: "This Reference Room has been named The Drake Room in honor of Levi Drake (1847-1922), a generous benefactor of this library."

Communists plan to kill American

U.S. officials step up guard over reports

MANILA, Philippines — U.S. officials are stepping up guard over reports that Communists are planning to kill another American, U.S. sources say.

The U.S. Embassy refuses to comment on details of increased security for the more than 40,000 American troops, diplomats, aid workers and dependents stationed in this former American colony.

Privately, however, American officials admit they are concerned that the New People's Army, the armed wing of the outlawed Communist Party of the Philippines — will strike again, perhaps before talks on the future of U.S. military bases begin next month.

The rebels oppose the bases and have frequently threatened to attack Americans allegedly involved in counterinsurgency, despite U.S. denials of any such role.

"We're looking over our shoulder," said one diplomat, who spoke on condition of anonymity. "There are intelligence reports that they may try something."

Killed the past year, rebels have killed five Americans, including Army Col. James N. Rowe, a Vietnam War hero slain last April 21 on his way to the Joint U.S. Military Assistance Group in suburban Quezon City.

Last September, two American civilians working at an air base in Tarlac province were gunned down on the day Vice President Dan Quayle arrived in Manila.

Two American civilians not employed by the government were killed earlier this year in separate incidents on the islands of Bohol and Masbate. Police believe one of the Americans was killed by mistake and the other refused to pay protection money to the rebels.

Last month, Brig. Gen. Gerardo Flores, intelligence chief of the Philippine Constabulary, predicted the rebels would try to kill an American in a dramatic operation to the rebels' way.

The lease on the bases expires next year, and U.S. and Filipino officials are expected to begin talks on a new agreement next month.

Opposition to the bases is growing within the urban classes, which see them as an infringement on sovereignty. U.S. and Filipino officials fear the rebels will seek to exploit that opposition by staging an attack on an "imperialist."

Dornan guns for 'Nam film

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Democrats thought they had a chance to claim a piece of Orange County, Calif., this year when Vietnam vet Ron Kovic said he would run for Congress. Kovic looked like the one person who could upset Republican Rep. Robert Dornan — one leg of iron of right-wing congressman from the stronghold of right-wing America.

But Kovic opted out and now the Democrats will be hard pressed to find a viable replacement. Kovic could have capitalized on the fact that his life story is now showing on the big screen in Oliver Stone's "Born on the Fourth of July." Confined to a wheelchair, Kovic is a symbol of the Vietnam tragedy.

The hawkish Dornan defends the war as a just cause. When it looked like Kovic would run, Dornan pulled out the big guns and hasn't stopped shouting. He calls "Born on the Fourth of July" a "disgrace" and says director Stone is "evil in his presentation of Vietnam and the Vietnam vets."

"Evil" is a word that comes easily to a no-holds-barred guy like Dornan. He thinks some younger House Democrats are morally corrupt and were "waged on" to support the Vietnam war.

But isn't it true that given today's nature audiences, moviegoers are not offended by what they now see and hear on the screen? Those who go to the movies must not be offended, but their number leaves out most Americans.

TV critic Michael Medved, co-host of "Snack Previews" on television, says that in the 1940s, when the Hays Office was going strong, over 30 million Americans — close to two-thirds of the country — went to the movies every single week.

Today, even though the country's population has doubled, the number of filmgoers is less than 20 million a week. Close to 40 percent don't attend a single movie in the course of a year!

Medved concludes that "our mighty engines of popular culture are out of touch with America. Tens of millions of Americans have given up on contemporary movies because they see their own deepest values so rarely reflected — or even respected — on the screen."

EAST BERLIN — An East German left party and a conservative alliance cleared away some ideological differences in efforts to build a broad coalition government, the ADN news agency said today.

De Maiziere is trying to resolve differences over reunification and

Study: abortions don't hurt women

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some women may feel regret, sadness or guilt, but most do not develop mental health problems from legal, voluntary abortion in the first trimester of pregnancy, according to a study published today.

The study in Science magazine said some women may experience emotional distress, but for the majority, "legal abortion of an unwanted pregnancy in the first trimester does not pose a psychological hazard."

Olivia Gans, director of American Victims of Rape, called the study "a manipulation" from earlier studies.

"When you look at these studies, you can twist them any way you need to get whatever conclusion you want," she said.

The new study was commissioned by the American Psychological Association, which asked six experts to examine all current research and determine if a valid conclusion could be drawn about post-abortion psychological effects.

Nancy E. Adler, a University of California-San Francisco professor of psychology and lead author of the report, said the panel surveyed more than 200 studies and found only 19 of 19 or 20" that met solid scientific standards.

Once those studies were examined, she said, the conclusion "was really quite clear."

South Korean buildup

Our Central Intelligence Agency sources say the Soviet Union has delivered two dozen MIG-29 Fulcrum airplanes to North Korea that will help North Korea beef up its force along the Demilitarized Zone. That buildup has renewed fears in South Korea that the north may launch an aggressive action. But the CIA analysts think Mikhail Gorbachev is intent on preventing that. Either the recent Fulcrum deliveries are part of an attempt by Gorbachev to strengthen his ties with North Korea, or they are the result of a deal agreed to long ago. The CIA doesn't predict that an invasion is in the making.

Social Security not reaching poor people

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the Social Security Administration says the agency has erected mind-boggling obstacles to poor, homeless and disabled people who need its help.

Far too many people aren't receiving Supplemental Security Income benefits because they don't know about them, don't understand them or can't figure out how to apply, Social Security Commissioner Gwendolyn S. King told the House Select Committee on Aging on Thursday.

"It's more than a little hard," she said of the 13-page application form. "It boggles the mind."

The Supplemental Security Income program provides monthly cash benefits to poor, aged, blind and disabled people. It provides up to $386 a month per individual or $579 a month per couple for those who meet strict and complex rules that take into account ordinary Social Security payments and other income.

CRASH LANDING — The pilot of the Super Constellation lost one of his four engines due to a fire and panicked the plane two miles off the north coast of San Juan on Thursday. The plane was bound from San Juan to the Dominican Republic when it caught fire and an engine fell off.

Coalition government attempted

WASHINGTON — U.S. and Japanese negotiators are sending their governments a remarkable document that seeks to radically reduce America's intractable trade deficit.

The Bush administration hailed the accord reached Thursday as a landmark agreement marking a new era in relations between the world's two largest economies, but congressional skeptics question whether the Japanese would live up to their part of the bargain.

In Tokyo today, Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu warned his nation that the coming economic changes could "in some cases be painful," but he promised they would lead to an improved quality of life for the Japanese people.

"I ask for the understanding and cooperation of the people of my country," Kaifu said in a televised appearance.

The unprecedented agreement followed four days of marathon bargaining in Washington. The talks, known as the Structural Impediments Initiative, were devised by the administration last July as a way to address the underlying cultural reasons for America's $49 billion trade deficit with Japan.

For the first time, representatives of sovereign states set about reviewing each other's economic failures and making suggestions for changes.

From the lengthy lists supplied, both governments drafted a set of commitments that they would be willing to make.

The Japanese proposals, if implemented, would be much more far-reaching in their impact than U.S. proposals, which essentially

Congress steering clear of Greyhound bus strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor's traditional allies in Congress are steering clear of the Greyhound bus strike because bus passengers don't care about taking sides in the violent dispute, legislators and others say.

Members of Congress fly in airplanes — they don't ride buses. These passengers tend to be poor folks who are not active politically, said Rep. Tom Downey, D-N.Y.

U.S. and Japan reach agreement on trade issues

WASHINGTON — U.S. and Japanese negotiators are sending their governments a remarkable document that seeks to radically reduce America's intractable trade deficit.

The Bush administration hailed the accord reached Thursday as a landmark agreement marking a new era in relations between the world's two largest economies, but congressional skeptics question whether the Japanese would live up to their part of the bargain.

In Tokyo today, Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu warned his nation that the coming economic changes could "in some cases be painful," but he promised they would lead to an improved quality of life for the Japanese people.

"I ask for the understanding and cooperation of the people of my country," Kaifu said in a televised appearance.

The unprecedented agreement followed four days of marathon bargaining in Washington. The talks, known as the Structural Impediments Initiative, were devised by the administration last July as a way to address the underlying cultural reasons for America's $49 billion trade deficit with Japan.

For the first time, representatives of sovereign states set about reviewing each other's economic failures and making suggestions for changes.

From the lengthy lists supplied, both governments drafted a set of commitments that they would be willing to make.

The Japanese proposals, if implemented, would be much more far-reaching in their impact than U.S. proposals, which essentially

Lakers, Pistons in race for league's best record

By The Associated Press

The last two seasons, the Los Angeles Lakers and Detroit Pistons batted for the NBA championship. Now they're battling for the league's best record.

The Lakers beat Sacramento 110-103 Thursday night to maintain a 17½-game lead over the defending champion Pistons, who kept pace with a 104-99 win over Atlanta.

The Lakers and Pistons both appear headed for division titles, but they can't afford to coast because the team with the best overall record will have the homecourt advantage if they meet again in the NBA finals.

Magic Johnson and Orlando Woolridge each scored 21 points as the Lakers extended their Forum winning streak over the Kings to 41.

Sacramento coach Dick Motta had high praise for Johnson, who also had 16 assists.

"It's amazing to see the improvement in this guy up close," Motta said. "Every year, he comes back with a new presence and the same enthusiasm. I've been coaching against the Lakers for 21 years and I can go back for the first time and see this guy is better than Walt Chamberlain and Kareem Abdul Jabbar."

Johnson was flattered by Motta's remarks.

"He is a true authority on the game," he said, "and it's nice to get a compliment from someone I respect as much as I respect him."

Mark Aguirre scored 25 points and Isiah Thomas hit four free throws in the final 31 seconds as the Pistons broke a four-game road losing streak.

The Hawks outscored the Pistons 12-10 to take an 81-81 lead with 8:29 left, but Detroit came back and went ahead for good, 90-95, on two free throws by Dennis Rodman.

"Detroit is a great team," Atlanta coach Mike Fratello said. "We came back to get the lead and they never lost their composure. They hit some big shots, especially when we were trailing off baskets for a while."

In other games, Seattle beat Orlando 111-104 and Chicago beat Utah 101-91.

Bulls 111, Magic 104: Michael Jordan scored 16 of his 38 points in the fourth quarter as the Bulls won their sixth straight.

The victory was Chicago's 12th in 14 games. Orlando has lost seven in a row and 23 of its last 25.

"It was difficult to get motivated for Orlando," Jordan said. "It was just one of those scrappy games. But we scrapped some things together and got a win."

SuperSonics 101, Jazz 91: Reserves Dana Barros and Sedale Threatant combined for 36 points and led a 10-0 run that broke the game open.

The Jazz cut a 13-point deficit to 82-81 on two free throws by John Stockton with 5:05 left, but the Sonics then put the game out of reach with their 10-0 surge. Threatant hit a jumper as the shot clock expired to give Seattle an 92-82 lead with 2:14 left.

Threatant finished with 19 points, while Barros added 17 for the Sonics.

Stockton became the first player in NBA history to get more than 1,000 assists in three straight seasons.

Utah's Karl Malone had 26 points and 17 rebounds.

Walz debut a success as MHS softball triumphs

It was a day for offense as Cyndi Walz made a successful debut as the Manchester High girls' softball coach in her first game, 6-0, on Thursday afternoon in the opener for both schools at Fitzgerald Field.

Manchester sent 20 batters to the plate in a 16-run bottom of the fifth inning that snapped a 0-0 tie. The Bobcats had tied in the top of the inning with a seven-run burst.

"It was a good thing we had our offense (going) because our defense..." Walz, 26, said. "We made some throws we shouldn't have. Our defense we have to sharpen up. It was a good thing we were there with our bats plus their pitcher struggled a little bit."

South Windsor's seven runs came aided by a couple of Indian mistakes.

Vickie Simmons had a bases-loaded three-run double in the deciding fifth stanza for Manchester. For Koltman and winning pitcher Michelle Brown also had big hits in the inning for the Indians.

Manchester placed five runs in the third with Robman, Tricia Skinner and Cheryl Irwin having key hits. It added five more in the fourth for a 10-3 lead.

Irwin was 3-for-5, Robman 3-for-6, Brown 2-for-5 and freshman Cindy Botticello had a long double.

Manchester had 13 hits in all.

Brown, who allowed eight hits, was the winning pitcher. Jodi Klemyk took the loss for South Windsor.

Manchester's next game is Monday at 3:30 p.m. against Rockville High at Fitzgerald Field.

Manchester's girls' softball team bowed to a 6-0 defeat by the Rockville, Conn. East rival Rockville High, 6-0, in its season opener Thursday afternoon.

Manchester will meet Fern High of Enfield Tuesday afternoon at 3:30 at East Hartford High School.

Senior Alexis Cruz won four events (100- and 300-meter hurdles, long jump, javelin) for the Indians while Michelle Simmons capped three events (100, 200, 400). Erica DeJoanico secured the shot put and discus while Kerri Lindland took the high jump.

Rockville, which won the meet in the last event (4 X 400 relay), gained key points by sweeping both the 1600 and 3200 events.

Manchester allowed six hits, walked one and struck out seven.

The Patriots scored all the runs they would need in the first inning. Rob Topf singled and came around on a two-run home run in the first. Topf also singled and scored on an error and singled, to second on a single by McCarthy for a 3-0 advantage.

RHAM scored its lone run in the seventh. John Toten added two hits for Coventry.

"It was pleased," Coventry coach Bob Plaster said. "Chris pitched well. He had pretty good control of the game. Our defense was pretty good. It was a good opening game."

Barnes staying at PC

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — An emotional Rick Barnes, rumored to be heading for the University of Virginia, announced Thursday that he would stay on as coach of Providence's basketball team.

Virginia's search for Terry Holland's successor reportedly narrowed to Barnes after Mike Montgomery of Stanford and Bruce Parkhill of Penn State withdrew from consideration Wednesday.

Barnes, 35, said he was tempted to go to Virginia because it is closer to North Carolina, where his family is from. "I also have a family of 60 guys coming back next fall," he told a cheering crowd of nearly 200 students.

Barnes had two years left on a 4-year contract with the Friars and said he "didn't think it was fair" for him to break it. He also said he never formally offered the job with Virginia.

Red Sox trim spring roster

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — The Boston Red Sox have trimmed their training roster to 29 players, sending rookie right-hander Dary Irvine and veteran infielder Jim Pankovics to Pawtucket of the International League.

"As things stand right now, we're down to four pitchers (trying) for two spots," Gorman said about Thursday's action.

Barring any trade or change of minds, that would mean that left-handed first baseman Bill Buckner and Billy Jo Robinson would have won jobs as free agents signed to minor league contracts.

Rittenhouse takes golf lead

POWAY, Calif. (AP) — Lenore Rittenhouse birdied four of her last eight holes Thursday for a 5-under-par 66 and a one-shot lead over Nancy Brown after one round of the Red Robin Kyocera Inland Classic.

Rittenhouse carded six birdies against a lone bogey on the 602nd-yard course at Storridge Country Club. Her score was one stroke shy of her career-best, which she shot in the opening round of this tournament two years ago.

Brown had five birdies — four on par-5s — and one bogey, which came on the other par-5, to finish at 67. Laurie Rinker and Michelle McGinn were next at 68.

Postema files a lawsuit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Pam Postema, whose bid to become the first woman umpire in the major leagues ended when she was let go as a minor league umpire last winter, filed a federal sex discrimination claim Thursday against the American and National Leagues.

Postema, 36, had been an umpire in the minor leagues since 1977. She claims that as a result of being passed over for the third consecutive year for a major league assignment, she was fired as a minor-league umpire after last season.

She alleges that the only reason she's been denied a chance in the majors is because she is a woman.

Buck replaces Musburger

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Buck replaced Dick Stockton as CBS' top baseball announcer and the network flipped Buck's spot on the second unit with Dick Stockton.

CBS Sports executive producer Ted Shaker said the network met earlier this month with Al Michaels, Dick Stockton and Arthur Kaminsky, Michaels' agent. Michaels is still under contract with ABC.

OU reinstates women's hoops

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — University of Oklahoma officials, reacting to a public outcry and facing imminent legal action, announced that they will reinstate the women's basketball program.

The announcement by President Richard Van Horn and Athletic Director Dennis Coakley came a day after attorneys for the players threatened a lawsuit if the program, dropped last week, was not reinstated.

A's playing like chumps in the spring

By The Associated Press

The world champion Oakland A's got an F for spring training. The team began their three-game Bay Bridge exhibition series against their World Series opponent, the San Francisco Giants, at Candlestick Park.

The A's are 4-9 this spring and have dropped seven of their last eight games, including Thursday's 14-8 thrashing by the Seattle Mariners, who clubbed four home runs.

Oakland's Bob Welch, scheduled to start the second game of the regular season, gave up eight runs and eight hits in four innings, including two-run homers to Ken Griffey Jr. in the first inning and Greg Briley and Alvin Davis in Seattle's five-run second.

Welch has been tagged for 21 earned runs in 102-3 innings, a whopping ERA of 17.72.

Edgar Martinez capped the Mariners' four-pitch barrage with a three-run homer off Capriati in the sixth.

Randy Johnson pitched five scoreless innings for the Mariners, yielding three runs in the Phillies' 6-3 victory.

Two errors by shortstop Enrique Duncan allowed Sid Campuzano and Charlie Hayes to reach base in the eighth inning and Steve Like's two-run double broke a 3-3 tie.

Red Sox 8, Twins 5: Five ninth-inning doubles fueled a five-run Boston rally.

Consecutive one-out doubles by Mike Greenwell, Ellis Burks and Billy Jo Robinson created a two-run Minnesota lead. After right fielder Jim Dwyer dropped Rich Gedman's drive at the wall for a two-base error, Jody Reed and Kevin Romine doubled home insurance runs.

Mankees 2, Mets 1: Rockies Delon Sanders and Alan Mills, both named to the 27-man season-opening roster by Manager Bucky Dent, played key roles in the Yankees' victory. Sanders snuffed a 1-1 tie with a double in the seventh inning off Frank Viola and Mills, who pitched in Class A last year, got the save with his sixth scoreless inning this spring. Don Mattingly homered for the Yankees and Darryl Strawberry had three hits for the Mets.

Orioles 6, Braves 4: Shortstop Andres Thomas' bases-loaded error in the third inning allowed three Baltimore runs to score. With the score 3-2, Thomas misplayed Craig Worthington's grounder, putting the Orioles in front 5-3. Bill Ripken followed with an RBI single.

Astros 3, Royals 2: Gerald Young stole third and scored on a wild pitch by Mark Davis with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning. Young singled and moved up on an infield hit by Carl Nichols. He stole third as David Riske struck out and raced home when Davis bunted a pitch in the dirt past catcher Bob Bove.

Cardinals 8, Tigers 4: Rookie Todd Zeile hit a two-run homer as St. Louis scored five times in the first inning. Dennis Walling drove in two runs with a double and Terry Pendton contributed an RBI single against Kevin Ritz.

Capriati plays like a champ

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Jennifer Capriati thinks her third pro tournament could be the first one she wins.

Capriati, 14, certainly looked like a champion Thursday, beating 1989 French Open champion and fifth-ranked Amanda Sanchez Vizcaro 6-1, 6-1 in 45 minutes.

"I just came in here trying to win one match at a time and try to win the tournament, of course," Capriati said. "I think I have a chance. I just have to play like I've been playing, and I think I have a chance. I'll try."

Capriati plays eighth-seeded Helen Kelesi of Canada today in the quarterfinals of the $50,000 event at Sea Pines Racquet Club. Kelesi advanced Thursday with a 6-1, 7-6 (7-4) victory over Gretchen Magers.

In another quarter-final match today on the green clay at Sea Pines Racquet Club, top-seeded Martina Navratilova takes on fifth-seeded Katerina Maleeva of Bulgaria. Last week, Maleeva beat Navratilova in the semifinals of a tournament in Houston.

Capriati, of Wesley Chapel, Fla., was both precise and powerful as she dominated a day after attorneys for the players threatened a lawsuit if the program, dropped last week, was not reinstated.

Musburger fires back at CBS

By Rick Warner The Associated Press

NEW YORK — A change in network programming brought out a change in Brent Musburger's personality.

Musburger, accused of being too bland on CBS, turned bold and brash on ABC Thursday night as he attacked his former boss during an interview on "PrimeTime Live."

"It was disappointing to watch," Pilson said.

"It's something that's been exhausted," she said. "The principals have spoken."

Musburger, however, apparently has more to say. He was scheduled for interviews today on ABC's "Good Morning America" and NBC's "Late Night with David Letterman."

CBS decided not to renew Musburger's 5-year, $10 million contract when it expires in July. His last broadcast for CBS was the NCAA basketball championship game on Monday night.

Musburger, CBS' primary sports voice for more than a decade, said the network never intended to renew his contract.

"The contract negotiation was a sham," he said. "It was a setup all the way, a charade. It was unethical. They let out on me the way."

Musburger told "PrimeTime Live" he decided to talk because "anybody else" and "you don't have to pay me $2 million a year."

"A network has the right to fire me anytime they want (or) not to renew my contract. . . . What they don't have the right to do is turn around and attempt to defame you. I have to go back to work again."

Musburger said he was willing to work for ABC or Turner or "anybody else" and "you don't have to pay me $2 million a year."

"A network has the right to fire me anytime they want (or) not to renew my contract. . . . What they don't have the right to do is turn around and attempt to defame you. I have to go back to work again."
