50 argue for, against plan for skiing on Coventry Lake

By Jacqueline Bennett
Manchester Herald

COVENTRY — About 50 residents flooded the board room of the Town Office Building Monday night, overflowing into the hall to argue for and against a proposed alatom water ski course for Coventry Lake.

The matter was not on the agenda for the Town Council meeting that followed the hearing. Council Chairman Joan Lewis said action will likely be taken at the next council meeting.

"It is a limited area we will be using in a professional manner. We hope someone will be around to watch, probably," said Jay Morgan, public relations representative for the Coventry Lake and Water Ski Club that proposed the course.

"We want to promote safety," said club secretary Tonya Maurer, a Vermont resident. Maurer said the slalom club skiers will set a good example of how to ski seriously and safely.

The slalom course would be located 450 feet off the shoreline between Avery Shores and Waterfront Park. A semi permanent cable system would be underwater, 850 feet long and 75 feet wide, with 22 buoys for the actual course and three more on either side of the course, according to Maurer.

Maurer said the 28-member club — two-thirds town residents and one-third non-residents — will be opened to a larger membership also, she said. Therefore, the buoys could be left for use by the public when not used by the club.

Coventry Lake is a public water course with a state boat launch. But many cited potential dangers, town liability, the exclusivity of the club, noise and water pollution and setting a precedent for restricted use of portions of the lake for special interest groups.

There was also a call from a resident for council member Harvey Barrette, a ski club member, to abstain from a vote on the proposal. "One million dollars in insurance is a dilley-quantity. It is ridiculous and irresponsible to take this kind of liability — opening up every taxpayer in Coventry," said Mary Gabbey, resident of the Bellevue Lake Association.

Others noted the area of the lake to be used is known as "the flats" due to sometimes very shallow water which could be dangerous to the boats if the underwater cable system is in without buoys. Others, however, said if the buoys remain in while the club is not using the course, it will be an "attractive nuisance" for inexperienced or reckless skiers.

Roberta Wilmut supported the plan with stipulations that the town Parks and Recreation Commission be more involved in supervision and the club be opened up to anyone. However, she said the course will likely mean more work for already strained and difficult-to-keep marine patrol officers.

Constance Lathrop, also a member of the Board of Education, blasted the club for being exclusionary.

"I have 20 members of my family that ski, none were asked to join this club," Lathrop said.

Resident Robert Terry added, "I am a firm believer that no part of the lake should be tied up for any special interest group."

Others complained that motor boats will be out at the first light minute — about 6:30 a.m. — revving up noisy motors.

John Twedy, a Parks and Recreation Commission member, said he supports the plan as a positive recreation use of the lake.

Phillip Carpenter, speaking on behalf of the Parks and Recreation Commission, said it voted to endorse the plan on a one-year trial basis.

Maurer said another site in the lake may be tried if this one doesn't work out.

Affordable housing project greeted with some skepticism

By Jacqueline Bennett
Manchester Herald

COVENTRY — A proposal from the Hebron Housing and Community Development Corporation to buy an approved subdivision off South Street and build affordable housing was greeted with some skepticism by the Town Council Monday night.

Peter Byram, head of the non-profit housing development and Community Development Corp., told the council during the meeting at the Town Office Building its approval is needed for the project for the corporation to secure funds from the state Department of Housing.

If approved, a grant, would come from the state Land Bank and Land Trust Program to buy the Willow Glen subdivision which has already been approved by the town Planning and Zoning Commission, 21 houses would be built.

The houses would sell in the mid $32,000-$50,000 range, Byram noted.

But concerns of some council members and residents stifled action on the matter, which was continued to the next meeting.

Councilman Peter Halverson who chairs the town ad hoc affordable housing committee, said he was in writing from the DORH, an agreement that at least 20 percent of the Willow Glen houses will be for low or moderate income buyers. Councilman Lawrence Golden, an attorney, said he is troubled by the lack of notification of abutters to the Willow Glen site because of previous approval.

Local developer Mark Lavin who lives near the site, challenged the project saying the state funds will only cover the cost of buying the land. Lavin said the Tolland County Soils Survey has determined soils there, which was endorsed with "severe limitations for septic systems", road construction and maintenance and adequate drainage.

Bolton welfare director plans trip to join Estonia's freedom battle

By Donna O'Leary
Manchester Herald

BOLTON — The town's welfare director has taken a temporary leave of absence to travel to Estonia, helping that country's bid for freedom from the Soviet Union, the selectmen were told Monday night.

Personnel matters involving the building inspector and a fire commissioner were also discussed.

Robert Morra, first selectman, told of the temporary welfare vacancy. Director Livi Cannon has left for Estonia.

Morra said the position will temporarily be filled by Pat Dooley.

Selectmen address dirt bikes, referendums, and underground fuel tanks. Story on page 4.

who previously was hired to fill in for Cannon and also to help out when needed.

Regarding the building-inspector position, it is now held by Bob Senkow.

However, it will be filled by O. Erlandson, who works for the town of Columbia part-time as a building official. Erlandson will be paid a fee of $25 per hour, which Morra said falls within budget guidelines.

As for the fire commissioner,

Boton selectmen target dirt bikes, referendums

By Donna O'Leary
Manchester Herald

Problems with dirt bikes and all-terrain vehicles on Hillcrest and Carpenter roads, and a request for a permanent machine-vote referendum were addressed by the Board of Selectmen Monday night.

The selectmen also discussed bids to complete work on underground storage tanks installed by Chem Tech of West Mead. It was notified in April it would not be allowed to continue repairing the tanks, and that its performance bond would be used to pay for hiring a new company.

On the dirt bikes, First Selectman Robert Morra read a letter from Theresa and Kevin Hennessey of Hillcrest Road. It requested help in controlling recreational vehicle usage.

The letter had been referred to the selectmen by the Zoning Commission. "We received the Hennesseys' letter two to three weeks ago and had discussed it at our meeting. We did not feel it was a zoning issue," Mark Johnson, chairman of the Zoning Commission, said Monday night. The commission felt the issue could be better addressed in an ordinance, he added.

The selectmen discussed zoning enforcement officer would investigate, and try to produce a solution.

Ordinances are enforced by the police, who have the power to end the problem.

John Calve, a resident of Carpenter Road for 17 years and father of three boys, said at the meeting he was unaware of any problems and wished the Hennesseys had spoken to him before going to the selectmen. "I oppose the request for regulations or ordinances on the vehicles," Calve said. "I am a taxpayer and resent being told what I can do on my own property. I work with my children, and see this as a hobby for them. My children do not trespass on anyone's property."

Calve said the children have permission to ride in a wooded area owned by Harold Harwell. The area is behind the Hennesseys' house.

The Hennesseys, present at the meeting, said they had spoken to people at the Calve residence but not to Mr. Calve. They also said they have had shrubs damaged, and the dirt bikes are so loud they are sometimes unable to hear at the dinner table.

"We felt we had to do something about the problem numerous times," said Mrs. Hennessey.

John Calve, a resident of Carpenter Road for 17 years and father of three boys, said at the meeting he was unaware of any problems and wished the Hennesseys had spoken to him before going to the selectmen. "I oppose the request for regulations or ordinances on the vehicles," Calve said. "I am a taxpayer and resent being told what I can do on my own property. I work with my children, and see this as a hobby for them. My children do not trespass on anyone's property."

"I don't own an ATV — but my neighbors do — I have no quarrel with them. I own a truck and a pickup. I should like to see Bolton become an uptight community — like Glastonbury, which we left. There you cannot even repair cars in your own driveway," said Armstrong.

Selectman James Veitch also spoke about the Calves, stating they were a family like his own, and he did not like the idea of imposing such an ordinance.

Morra told the Hennesseys the board felt it couldn't pass an ordinance or rule on recreational vehicles. The selectmen felt it was a neighborhood problem, not a town-wide problem. He suggested the parties discuss the problem and possible solutions, and offered to sit in as mediator if necessary.

"We've had to do something about the problem numerous times," said Mrs. Hennessey.

John Calve, a resident of Carpenter Road for 17 years and father of three boys, said at the meeting he was unaware of any problems and wished the Hennesseys had spoken to him before going to the selectmen. "I oppose the request for regulations or ordinances on the vehicles," Calve said. "I am a taxpayer and resent being told what I can do on my own property. I work with my children, and see this as a hobby for them. My children do not trespass on anyone's property."

He said the selectmen would further discuss Plochaczky's suggestion.

On the school building, Morra said the selectmen had been invited to attend a meeting Thursday with the Board of Education on the school building.

The selectmen felt if the school would like to abandon the building, it's open for discussion. "The Board of Education is far away from talking to us with plans, bonds and get approval from other town boards," said Morra.

In the status of completing work installed at the Center School and high school, Helen Kemp, executive assistant to the selectmen, said a bid of $24,415 was received by Environmental Construction Services (formerly called TRA Company), its cost could be covered by the $25,200 in funds the selectmen already have for the project.

Kemp also mentioned they sent three bids to 20 companies, and only three bids came back. Two replied "no" and the third was Environmental Construction Services.

The selectmen plan to be able to make a decision on the tanks at the next meeting.

Buses to mall are planned

By Alex Girolli
Manchester Herald

There will be bus service to the Pavilions at Buckland Hills beginning June 4 if problems involving an adequate turning radius for buses can be resolved before then.

Steve Warren, assistant general manager for Commonwealth Transit, said the company will serve the mall with its Z route buses when such changes have been made to the parking lot to permit the bus to make turns it will have to make to follow the route through the mall that has been set.

And Thomas Guerra, general manager of the mall, said he expects the work can be done in time. The work involves installing cutting back a curb to permit the 40-foot buses to make needed turns.

Town Planner Mark Pellegrini said the town planning staff is waiting for the mall developers to present plans for the changes. He said they may require approval only by the planning staff and not the Planning and Zoning Commission, depending on the details of the changes.

Guerra said he is looking forward to having bus service and has received quite a few calls about it. The Z route bus that will serve the mall comes from downtown Hartford along Tolland Street in East Hartford and Tolland Turnpike in Manchester. It will enter the mall area from Buckland Street. From the mall it will go to Main Street in Manchester and return to Hartford by the reverse route.

Bolton pupil's idea rewarded

BOLTON — Bolton High School student Benjamin Robinson is one of 15 students from around the nation to win an honorable mention for an essay he submitted in a contest sponsored by Prodigy Services Company.

The contest, in which students wrote about the future for a literary time capsule, was done in conjunction with the Christa McAuliffe Institute for Educational Pioneering of the Improvement of Education.

Robinson was of 58 regional finalists chosen from more than 16,000 essays entered.

His story portrays what the planet may be like in the year 2110. He did this having his sole character read through some of the top stories in a newspaper.

RHAM musicians garner the gold

The RHAM High School Wind Ensemble has earned a Gold Medal (top rating) at the first statewide American School Band Directors' Association Concert Band Contest. The ensemble was the only AAAA (top-level band) to receive a gold medal.

The 38 instrumentalists, under the direction of Ralph Ewell, performed "Pavane for Brass" by Vincent Persichetti, "Rhapsody" by Ralph Vaughan Williams, and "Do Not Go Gentle Into That Good Night" by Elliott Del Borgo.

Also, a flute trio of seniors — Christine LaBombard, Anne Fritschauer, and Laura Milewski — was awarded a Gold Medal. A flute quartet — Debbie Nowak, Amy Catalough, Jacqueline Lucas, and Darcy Ingves — earned a Bronze Medal.

WAITING FOR ... — Dana Lewis, 8, and Dan Stillman, 7, both of Bolton, wait by the roadside for Dan's mom and some friends to finish Sunday's Bolton Road Race.

Texas family donates $20 million to Yale

NEW HAVEN (AP) — A family of Yale graduates from Texas has donated $20 million to the university and is promising its largesse will not end there.

The gift from the Bass family of Fort Worth, Texas, will establish the Yale Institute of Biospheric Studies, which will take a broad interdisciplinary approach to studying the biosphere — that zone of the earth, from crust to atmosphere, that contains living organisms.

The funds will pay for laboratory and classroom renovations, research, conferences, exhibitions and endowments for a number of academic positions.

The donation is the biggest Yale has received since Paul Mellon, a 1929 graduate, contributed more than $12 million in 1966-67 to establish the Yale Center for British Art and an art collection worth an estimated $35 million, the university said.

"This institute is an idea whose time has come," said Edward Bass, a 1968 Yale graduate involved in a number of ecological issues worldwide. He acted as family spokesman at a news conference Monday.

Both bills now go to the Senate. The increased fees for land-use permit fees passed on a 131-16 vote. It would maintain staffing levels in the DEP at current levels, avoiding job cuts planned in Gov. William A. O'Neill's proposed budget. The Legislature had earlier passed back 15 of the 88 DEP jobs O'Neill had planned to eliminate.

The increased fees for land-use permits passed on a closer vote, 80-66, and now goes to the Senate, which had earlier passed a version of the bill.

Failing Teacher charged for not reporting child abuse

MERIDEN (AP) — Under a rarely used law, officials have charged a parochial school teacher with failing to report the suspected abuse of a pupil.

The arrest of Dionisio Pociadallo, 46, a teacher at St. Stanislaus School in Meriden, surprised local and state officials, who said that an arrest based on the law is virtually unheard of in local school systems.

The law requires doctors, nurses, school officials, clergy and mental health professionals, among others, to report suspected abuse.

"It is extremely rare. I can't think of another incident," said Thomas Moriarty, a spokesman for the state Department of Children and Youth Services, the agency responsible for investigating child-abuse reports.

House backs bill to reduce Capitol lobbyists' influence

HARTFORD — The House moved early today to reduce the influence of lobbyists at the state Capitol by passing a bill that bans lobbyists from contributing to legislative candidates while the General Assembly is in session.

The House passed the bill on a 126-15 vote at about 1:55 a.m. Monday.

The bill is similar to the bill the Senate passed last week, but the House amendment is slightly more sweeping version of the bill.

The bill now goes back to the Senate. There, three bills are uncertain because only two working days remain in the legislative session. The Senate has a month and a half, but the single, catchall bill limiting outside

HARTFORD — The House has sent to the Senate five bills on proposals, including a measure to increase environmental permit fees on individuals by $5.5 million to save 73 jobs in the state Department of Environmental Protection.

The House also voted Monday to increase fees for late vehicle registrations and emissions tests in a move that could raise as much as $5.9 million and prevent hundreds of thousands of motorists.

The House chose not to put that bill on the calendar for a specific purpose, creating a possible surplus in the General Fund that could be used to pay for an as yet unspecified project.

House votes against bill allowing locker searches

HARTFORD (AP) — The House of Representatives, after almost an hour of argument on civil liberties, rejected a bill Monday that would have allowed local schools to use in police and police dogs to randomly search school lockers for drugs.

The "first defender of the people is this chamber, not the courts," said Rep. Richard D. Tuttle, D-Rocky Hill, co-chairman of the Judiciary Committee and one of the General Assembly's most outspoken civil libertarians. "Intrusions on school grounds is a major intrusion on the privacy of young people."

Nudists brace for aftermath of high waters

DALLAS (AP) — The news from biologists that record flooding over the past two weeks is likely to produce a bumper crop of mosquitoes has been particularly unsettling to one group of Texans — nudists.

Claudia Adcock, manager of the Ponderosa Ranch nudist colony near Wilts Point, said her camp is putting up bird houses to lure purple martins, which eat mosquitoes "like nobody's business."

Smith was the favorite to win the best actress award for her performance as an eccentric British tour guide in "Letting Go."

Her competition will be newcomer Mary-Louise Parker of "Prelude to a Kiss," Geraldine James, who played Poria in a revival of "The Merchant of Venice," and Turner, who is Maggie in a new production of Tennessee Williams' "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof."

"I was hoping it would happen," Turner said in a telephone interview. "I was surprised to be nominated at Sarai's, the restaurant of the theater crowd."

Barry may face new courts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal prosecutors intend to seek additional drug charges against Mayor Marion Barry, according to sources familiar with the investigation.

The sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said Monday that U.S. Attorney Jay B. Stephens wants a federal grand jury to return up to five additional misdemeanor drug possession charges against Barry.

The legal action could come as early as today, the sources said.

The mayor already faces five misdemeanor cocaine-possession charges and three felony counts of lying to a federal grand jury about his alleged drug use. Barry, arrested in an FBI sting operation Jan. 18, has pleaded innocent to all eight counts returned by a grand jury on Feb. 15.

WRC-TV, also citing anonymous sources, reported Monday that the new charges would relate to alleged drug use by the mayor in the weeks before his January arrest.

Judy Smith, a spokeswoman for Stephens, would not comment on the possibility of new charges against the 54-year-old Barry.

When Barry was indicted on Feb. 15, Stephens said he was continuing to explore a "broad range of allegations" against the mayor. The grand jury that indicted Barry has met regularly since then and approved the apparent charges. Barry has testified before the panel.

Also, court papers filed on Monday reported that hair samples taken from Barry on the night of his arrest showed that he had used cocaine repeatedly in the preceding weeks.

In the filing, Stephens opposed a move by Barry's lawyer to suppress the hair test evidence.

R. Kenneth Mundy, Barry's attorney, argued in an earlier filing that because cocaine residue normally takes one to four days to reach a suspect's hair follicles, tests taken during the hours following Barry's Jan. 18 arrest would not be relevant to the case.

The tests were administered after the mayor was arrested in a downtown Washington hotel room by undercover FBI agents, who officials say videotaped him smoking crack cocaine with a female companion who was cooperating with authorities.

Stephens argued that the tests should be admitted at Barry's trial to help the government try to rebut any argument that the mayor was coerced into using drugs.

"It is hard evidence based upon the concrete results of a scientific test and it directly establishes that the defendant used cocaine in the weeks immediately preceding his arrest," Stephens wrote.

In recent years, courts have increasingly relied on hair sample tests for information on past drug use.

U.S. District Judge Thomas Penfield Jackson has scheduled a pre-trial hearing for May 23 on various motions and counter-motions filed by Mundy and Stephens. The trial is scheduled to begin Monday.

Larna Raskley, a Barry spokeswoman, said the mayor would have call in police and police dogs to randomly search school lockers for drugs.

"I certainly have an obligation to students who want to learn in a drug-free environment," he said.

The proposal, sponsored by a half-dozen House Republicans, was rejected on an 82-61 rollcall vote. It had been offered as an amendment to a bill on school funding.

Opponents called the bill unconstitutional because courts have held in the past that some level of suspicion is required before a search can be conducted.

Congressional Democrats split over budget summit with Bush

By Alan Fram
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Congress' top Democrats are debating whether to join President Bush in deficit-reduction talks that the White House says can only be achieved by considering higher taxes and cuts in benefit programs.

"You sure aren't going to get that without starting this process and having the right people there arguing all of it on the table," said Sen. Pete Domenici of New Mexico, ranking Republican on the Senate Budget Committee.

White House spokesman Martin Fitzwater said there would be "no preconditions" to holding the negotiations. Republicans denied that such a statement is inconsistent with Bush's campaign pledge of "no new taxes."

"There isn't any president who hasn't tried to make good on his promises. There's no president who hasn't lived through times that change, and maybe outdated some promises," said Rep. Bill French of Minnesota, top Republican on the House Budget Committee.

French said he favors a package pairing next year's deficit by $55 billion, including some form of new taxes would be "the only way (Bush) can do the job."

Domenici said he would want to reduce the deficit by between $42 billion and $50 billion. Higher taxes should be open to negotiations, he said.

Hoffman, Turner win nominations for their performances on Broadway

By Michael Kuchwara
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Movie stars Dustin Hoffman, Kathleen Turner, Maggie Smith and Tony Hulce won recognition for their work on stage Monday by the Tony nominations for the best of Broadway.

Two lavish musicals, "Grand Hotel" and "City of Angels," dominated the nominations.

"Grand Hotel," a Tommy Tune musical set in 1920s Berlin, led the field in the musical category with 12 nominations. "City of Angels," by 1940s Los Angeles detrité musical, garnered 11.

Both shows were nominated for best musical along with Andrew Lloyd Webber's "Aspects of Love" and "Meet Me in St. Louis," a stage version of the MGM musical.

The winners will be announced June 3 on CBS. They will be chosen by 661 theatrical professionals and journalists who vote by secret ballot.

"The Piano Lesson" by August Wilson, the winner of this year's Pulitzer Prize for drama, is the top contender for best play. It will face "Prelude to a Kiss," a comic fantasy by Craig Lucas, "Letting Go" and "Love, by Peter Shaffer, and "The Grapes of Wrath," an adaptation by Frank Galati of John Steinbeck's novel.

NATO sessions look at new role for Soviet Union

By Susanne M. Schaefer
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — NATO is at a critical phase as it struggles to adapt to change in Europe and tries to make a "partner in security" out of the Soviet Union, the alliance's secretary general says.

"We are looking at this alliance not as an instrument of confrontation, but as an element of cooperation in a new security structure," Manfred Woerner said Monday.

"Speaking on the eve of the opening of a new round of NATO meetings, Woerner also dismissed Soviet suggestions that a unified Germany become neutral or hold dual membership in both the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Warsaw Pact.

"Neutrality is no alternative. And to be a member of both pacts is just neutrality without a word," the former West German defense minister said.

Woerner was in Washington for talks with U.S. officials before flying today with Defense Secretary Dick Cheney to Calgary, Canada, to attend the spring sessions of NATO's Nuclear Planning Group.

Woerner said the alliance is at a "decisive" phase of its history as it attempts to adjust its military and political role to the changes in Europe and its traditional foe, the Warsaw Pact.

The alliance sees itself as fostering "an element of cooperation in a new security structure" for Europe, he said, and NATO will be "one of the essential pillars, if not the essential pillar, in such a structure."

This structure must involve the Soviet Union and Warsaw Pact member countries, he added.

"Clearly, we are looking towards the Soviet Union as a partner in security, and we want them to look at our alliance not as an antagonistic institution," the secretary general said.

The NATO Nuclear Planning Group, composed of the defense ministers from the alliance's 16 member nations with the exceptions of Iceland and France, holds its formal sessions Wednesday and Thursday.

President Bush's announcement on Thursday that he was scrapping plans to modernize short-range Lance nuclear missiles in Europe and to upgrade nuclear artillery shells was expected to be the prime topic at the session.

Under intense pressure from West Germany, NATO agreed last year to postpone a decision on modernizing the aging Lance missiles, which are expected to become obsolete in the mid-1990s.

"Neutrality is no alternative. And to be a member of both pacts is just neutrality without a word," the former West German defense minister said.

Bush praises Bolivia for anti-drug effort

WASHINGTON (AP) — As President Bush prepares to welcome Bolivian President Jaime Paz Zamora to the White House, U.S. officials are touting that country's efforts to reduce Bolivia's role as a major supplier of U.S.-bound cocaine.

"Clearly, we are looking towards the Soviet Union as a partner in security, and we want them to look at our alliance not as an antagonistic institution," the secretary general said.

Hate crimes bill seems unnecessary

The General Assembly has passed and sent to the governor a bill aimed at curbing crimes motivated by bias against people because of race, religion, ethnic background, or sexual orientation. Most of the debate on the bill centered on the inclusion in the bill of provisions to afford protection to people on the basis of sexual orientation and not on the overall merit of the measure.

Some of its few opponents did argue, however, that the law is unnecessary. They have strong points.

Sen. Lee Scarpetti of Trumbull put it well when he said, "Why can't we have the law state that a crime is a crime is a crime."

The bill does establish a new category of crime, intimidation based on bigotry or bias, and perhaps an argument can be made for that provision even though it may be difficult to determine what constitutes intimidation.

A chief feature of the bill is that it permits judges to impose stiffer penalties for other crimes when those crimes are motivated by hate and when the accused is a repeat offender.

Proponents of the bill argued that its sends a message.

Indeed its chief purpose seems to have been to send a message, but it is a message that will not be heard by those who need to hear it.

The bill may be a good piece of public relations for the legislators but it is unlikely it will do much for advancing the cause of tolerance or to achieve any justice that cannot be achieved by existing law.

Sununu, now 69, was appointed to the FDIC post by President Reagan for a term that runs until October 1991, and the franchise was expanded when Congress passed the savings and loan bailout bill last year. The FDIC now insures both bank and savings and loan depositories, and the Resolution Trust Corp. sets the assets of failing S&Ls used by the government.

The chairman is appointed by the president and confirmed by the Senate for a six-year term. Once he's in, he's independent; the president can't oust him.

But there are ways. Sununu had said he planned to leave before his term was up, and hoped he could do so after getting the S&L rescue effort off to a good beginning. He also had sounded alarms about rising costs, complained about bureaucratic delays in the bailout, and dismissed some administration suggestions, sometimes with a wisecrack.

And so there appeared in The Washington Post on May Day a report that Sununu had met with Bush in mid-April, had said he wasn't going to complete his full term, and had been encouraged to end it sooner rather than later.

From that point, the script was predict-

To the Editor:

Not long ago it was said to be "for the better of the schools" everyone agreed.

This is not to say that everyone should feed and act upon important issues the same way. This would not be a good example for our children either. They need to learn how to stand up and fight for their convictions.

London currently is engaged in a fight to the end on the new budget. Because the lion's share of our budget is for schools it commands everyone's attention. The opposing view wishes to cut the school budget more than it already has. The educational and facility deficits that will occur or continue to exist as a result of this cut are endless.

Superior attitude rankles

By Joe Spear

If smug could kill, the whole country would be stone dead by now. That's the feeling I get, anyway, reading the papers. Just look at the state of things.

In Washington, the Supreme Court has ruled that the First Amendment affords no protection to people charged with the possession of pornographic materials featuring children.

Also in Washington, the National Endowment for the Arts is under attack for subsidizing displays of lewd photographs.

In Cincinnati, the director of a private art museum has been charged with two obscenity misdemeanors for exhibiting photos of a sexual nature.

In Florida, Waldenbooks has been picketed and threatened with a boycott for selling "pornographic" magazines.

To the untrained eye, it probably seems a little confusing. But you are in the hands of a seasoned sort-of-outer of complicated things, so read on.

First, the Supreme Court did the appropriate thing when it ruled that states have a right to protect children from exploitation and abuse by eliminating the market for child pornography. This is the direction in which obscenity law has been evolving for years, and it breaks little new ground. It restricts only the rights of deviant consumers of kiddie porn. I say the hell with their rights.

Discs, disease cause problem

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have Guillain-Barre syndrome and was found to have three herniated discs in my lower back. The numbness has spread to my arms and hands, buttocks, feet and legs. Can you give any information on my condition?

DEAR READER: Guillain-Barre syndrome is an acute form of nerve malfunction that produces muscular weakness and loss of sensation, which usually progresses from the legs to the arms. The cause is unknown. The condition usually follows trivial infections (such as flu), surgery or immunizations.

Some patients also experience weakness of the facial muscles, the pharynx and respiratory muscles, requiring assisted ventilation for respiratory failure. A few show blood pressure fluctuations and heart irregularities.

Guillain-Barre syndrome ordinarily begins within three weeks after an antecedent incident and peaks about three weeks later. Although patients usually recover within three weeks care (respiratory assistance, help with feeding and so forth), 30 percent of adults are left with a degree of residual weakness. There is no specific treatment for this disease, thereby relieving pressure on the peripheral nerves.

From your description, I am not certain whether most of your symptoms are due to Guillain-Barre syndrome or the herniated discs in your back. This latter condition also causes leg weakness, pain, numbness and tingling because as the discs slip out of position, they can press on the nerves to the lower extremities.

Treatment for herniated discs includes bedrest, physical therapy in severe cases — surgery to remove or repair the discs, thereby relieving pressure on the nerves.

The disc problem in your lower back is certainly not causing arm and hand symptoms; nonetheless, it may be contributing to the numbness in your lower body.

I suggest you request a referral to a neurologist, rest of the world. "Danson says" "Nor can you talk about the oceans without talking about the rain forest or any other part of the globe." Christians practice in peril

By Jack Anderson and Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — Christian teachers in China have developed an elaborate system for protecting their students, converts and themselves since the murderous communist crackdown in Tiananmen Square. Their warnings are a poignant reminder of how something as simple as a letter from a friend can be a precious and dangerous gift.

Chao Jue, the Chinese army killed hundreds of students who were demonstrating for democracy and other reforms in the Beijing dictatorship.

American Christian teachers became especially at risk because both their religious and their national tradition espouse free thought and action, and oppose totalitarianism.

To minimize government religious repression, an organization of 150 Christian teachers in China, the English Language Institute, based in San Dimas, Calif., recently circulated guidelines to family and friends of ELIC teachers. The guidelines warn letter writers to steer clear of pitfalls.

With slight modifications, the warnings could apply to anyone with a pen pal in China. For one thing, the guidelines urge that writers do not mention any Chinese friends by name.

For another, "those who teach in China give up many 'rights,' among them the right to privacy in correspondence." Letter writers should not write about their activities in any way "lest they endanger the recipient."

Although the ELIC's teachers "are not missionaries in the conventional sense," the instructions warn, the people who write to them should not mention missions, evangelism or passing out Bibles, nor should they send "prayer letters, tracts, church bulletins..." etc.

Letters should be on church stationery, and if sermon tapes are mailed, they should be labeled only with the speaker's name and with a religious title such as reverend. All tapes should not be sealed, but labeled that way.

Affair leaves woman confused

DEAR ABBY: About six months ago, a guy I was with asked me to go out with him. Knowing he was married, I told him no, but he kept begging me, so against my better judgment, I finally agreed to go. (I planned on showing him a lousy time so he wouldn't ask me out again.) Well, we had a great time and became very close friends in the next couple of weeks. Within two months, we were more than friends. I never thought it would happen, but I really fell in love with him.

Somewhat his wife found out about us and threatened to kill herself. I finally agreed to go. (I planned on showing her a lousy time so she wouldn't ask me out again.) Well, we had a great time and became very close friends in the next couple of weeks. Within two months, we were more than friends. I never thought it would happen, but I really fell in love with him.

Three weeks ago, he started calling me and coming to see me. I tried to play it cool because I didn't want to get hurt again, but he went out one night and ended up in bed!

He told me he never meant to hurt me — he still cared for me and wanted to keep seeing me. He said he was happy at home, but if I would be patient, one day we would be together. He also said he couldn't file for divorce because he's afraid he'd lose his two children. Abby, I'm not sure if I should try to forget about him, or be patient and let him try to work things out for us.

Please help me, Abby. I'm confused.

IN LOVE IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR IN LOVE: I'm glad you asked, because it's time you realized you have no future with this man. He will keep seeing (and using) you as long as you let him.

Furthermore, you knew he was married when you started seeing him, so if you are "hurt," you asked for it.

Back off. You can't build happiness on the misery of others. And if he were finally divorced his wife and married you — what kind of puppet would you get? A man who cheats on his wife, then dumps her for somebody else.

DEAR ABBY: I recently saw a local TV show featuring a panel of women who had had breast cancer. The host of the show was a male who stated that the show was for women since the subject was breast cancer, nor should they send "prayer letters, tracts, church bulletins..." etc.

Ironically, I was watching the show in an out-of-town motel room as I was preparing to go to the hospital to visit my husband, who had had surgery the day before for breast cancer. He had a modified mastectomy in which the nipple, some nodes and some chest muscles were surgically removed.

Although it's rare, breast cancer can happen to men. Fortunately my husband saw his doctor immediately after he discovered the lump. As with female cancer, some lumps are malignant and others are benign. My husband's was malignant.

Superior attitude rankles

Second, it does not perturb me when the taxpayers hold the NEA accountable for the way it disperses public funds. If artists don't like it, they can jolly well get off the public dole. It is bothersome, though, that the people making the most noise are sanctimonious types like the Rev. DeLard Wildman (Tupelo, Miss., president of an upright group called the American Family Association). It would be nice to see a member of Congress tell Rev. Don to stifle his hidebound self, but that would require guts — the lack of which seems to be a prerequisite for careers in politics.

Third, the exhibit that offended the Moral Majority in Cincinnati is the same Robert Mapplethorpe collection that caused such a stir in Washington last year. Of 147 photos of flowers and figures, seven were deemed obscene. To delete the allegedly prurient pictures, said Contemporary Arts Center director Dennis Barrie, "would be like clipping pages out of a book." No federal funds were used. The exhibit was closed to all persons under 18. There have been no reports of deaths due to porno overload. The police raid was an outrage that ought to offend every fair-minded person in the free world.

Fourth, the threatened boycott of Waldenbooks — also choreographed by the Tupelo troupe of Rev. Don and the Wildmones — is an affront that should be booed off the stage. The "pornographic" magazines in question are Playboy and Penthouse, which are no pornography what a pond is to the Pacific. I am left wondering, has Rev. Don ever seen genuine pornography? Indeed, he has even seen the minimalist swimwear modeled every summer's day on the average beach?

Let me pose a more fundamental question: Will the world ever be free of prune-faced Church Ladies who regard themselves as morally superior to the rest of us? During the 19th century, the nation suffered the wrath of Anthony Comstock, who boasted about destroying 50 tons of "indecent" books and driving 15 million people to suicide. At various times in this century, the purists succeeded in banning such recognized works of art as James Joyce's "Ulysses," Theodore Dreiser's "An American Tragedy" and John Steinbeck's "The Grapes of Wrath."

To me, the obscenity is not tastelessly produced and discreetly distributed works or pictures that excite sexual curiosity. The obscenity is people who believe they have been annoyed by God to decide what the rest of us may read or view. The Rev. Don, for example, says he realized every fair-minded person in the free world.

Somewhat, I just knew he was a precocious little pig.

Support schools

To the Editor:

Not long ago it was said to be "for the better of the schools" everyone agreed.

This is not to say that everyone should feed and act upon important issues the same way. This would not be a good example for our children either. They need to learn how to stand up and fight for their convictions.

London currently is engaged in a fight to the end on the new budget. Because the lion's share of our budget is for schools it commands everyone's attention. The opposing view wishes to cut the school budget more than it already has. The educational and facility deficits that will occur or continue to exist as a result of this cut are endless.

My husband and I do not want our taxes to increase either. We currently are supporting

Discs, disease cause problem

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have Guillain-Barre syndrome and was found to have three herniated discs in my lower back. The numbness has spread to my arms and hands, buttocks, feet and legs. Can you give any information on my condition?

DEAR READER: Guillain-Barre syndrome is an acute form of nerve malfunction that produces muscular weakness and loss of sensation, which usually progresses from the legs to the arms. The cause is unknown. The condition usually follows trivial infections (such as flu), surgery or immunizations.

Some patients also experience weakness of the facial muscles, the pharynx and respiratory muscles, requiring assisted ventilation for respiratory failure. A few show blood pressure fluctuations and heart irregularities.

Guillain-Barre syndrome ordinarily begins within three weeks after an antecedent incident and peaks about three weeks later. Although patients usually recover within three weeks care (respiratory assistance, help with feeding and so forth), 30 percent of adults are left with a degree of residual weakness. There is no specific treatment for this disease, thereby relieving pressure on the peripheral nerves.

From your description, I am not certain whether most of your symptoms are due to Guillain-Barre syndrome or the herniated discs in your back. This latter condition also causes leg weakness, pain, numbness and tingling because as the discs slip out of position, they can press on the nerves to the lower extremities.

Treatment for herniated discs includes bedrest, physical therapy in severe cases — surgery to remove or repair the discs, thereby relieving pressure on the nerves.

The disc problem in your lower back is certainly not causing arm and hand symptoms; nonetheless, it may be contributing to the numbness in your lower body.

I suggest you request a referral to a neurologist, rest of the world. "Danson says" "Nor can you talk about the oceans without talking about the rain forest or any other part of the globe." "The ocean is a metaphor. Everything you put into the air or into the ground ends up in the ocean." "Danson says" "That's a pre-terrestrial ocean."

Danson, just recovered from a case of chicken pox picked up from his student in the summer of 1981, was at the time a complete care physician at St. Elizabeth's hospital. Affair leaves woman confused

DEAR ABBY: About six months ago, a guy I was with asked me to go out with him. Knowing he was married, I told him no, but he kept begging me, so against my better judgment, I finally agreed to go. (I planned on showing him a lousy time so he wouldn't ask me out again.) Well, we had a great time and became very close friends in the next couple of weeks. Within two months, we were more than friends. I never thought it would happen, but I really fell in love with him.

Somewhat his wife found out about us and threatened to kill herself. I finally agreed to go. (I planned on showing her a lousy time so she wouldn't ask me out again.) Well, we had a great time and became very close friends in the next couple of weeks. Within two months, we were more than friends. I never thought it would happen, but I really fell in love with him.

Three weeks ago, he started calling me and coming to see me. I tried to play it cool because I didn't want to get hurt again, but he went out one night and ended up in bed!

He told me he never meant to hurt me — he still cared for me and wanted to keep seeing me. He said he was happy at home, but if I would be patient, one day we would be together. He also said he couldn't file for divorce because he's afraid he'd lose his two children. Abby, I'm not sure if I should try to forget about him, or be patient and let him try to work things out for us.

Please help me, Abby. I'm confused.

IN LOVE IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR IN LOVE: I'm glad you asked, because it's time you realized you have no future with this man. He will keep seeing (and using) you as long as you let him.

Furthermore, you knew he was married when you started seeing him, so if you are "hurt," you asked for it.

Back off. You can't build happiness on the misery of others. And if he were finally divorced his wife and married you — what kind of puppet would you get? A man who cheats on his wife, then dumps her for somebody else.

DEAR ABBY: I recently saw a local TV show featuring a panel of women who had had breast cancer. The host of the show was a male who stated that the show was for women since the subject was breast cancer, nor should they send "prayer letters, tracts, church bulletins..." etc.

Ironically, I was watching the show in an out-of-town motel room as I was preparing to go to the hospital to visit my husband, who had had surgery the day before for breast cancer. He had a modified mastectomy in which the nipple, some nodes and some chest muscles were surgically removed.

Although it's rare, breast cancer can happen to men. Fortunately my husband saw his doctor immediately after he discovered the lump. As with female cancer, some lumps are malignant and others are benign. My husband's was malignant.

Abby, please encourage your male readers to examine their breasts and underarms. Breast cancer is not exclusively a female concern.

DEAR WIFE: Thanks for a worthwhile letter. Women tell the man (or men) in his life to check for lumps. Gentlemen, a word to the wise.

Truck

Having been in the circuit for about a year, "Kid's Stuff," which recently placed third among eight trucks that competed in Atlanta, has been gaining strength along with monster truck racing itself.

The circuit has been around since the mid-1980s. Formal racing started after Midwest farmers, who used the Gargantuan to spread lime on their soil, decided to race. The circuit has gained enough popularity that some-one with cable television can occasionally catch a glimpse of "Kid's Stuff" racing across the TV screen.

None of the track's success would be possible, Goguen said, without the assistance and sponsorship of area truck specialists: Mirage Ltd. and Custom Fabrication & Repair, both of Manchester, and Baumer Truck Sales in Hartford.

All this help is needed because the monster machine — built from all kinds of stuff including heavy military trucks and bulldozers — takes a beating during races.

When the typical race begins, the driver accelerates his truck for about 15 to 20 feet toward six cars lined up side-by-side. The truck smashes into the side of the first car and comes to a dead halt.

This, Goguen said, feels like hitting a brick wall — the impact, combined with the force of his hands gripping with his steering wheel, has actually bent steering wheels.

Then the five-foot tires force the monster up the side of the car and onto its roof. And the driver charges the vehicle across the tops of the cars and careens off the sixth.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Existing home sales declined 1.6 percent during the first quarter, a real estate group said today, as mortgage rates anchored themselves in double-digits and prices in many areas continued to rise.

The National Association of Realtors said sales totaled a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 3.81 million units during the January-March period, down from 3.87 million units during the fourth quarter and 3.90 million during the first quarter of 1989.

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — A car packed with dynamite exploded today outside a government office building in western Colombia, killing one person and wounding five others, police said.

The blast damaged the civil registrar's offices, along with several houses, stores and vehicles in Perera, a city of 300,000 residents about 110 miles west of Bogota. No one claimed responsibility, but police said they captured one suspect who they believed had driven the car to the scene.

"I represent 52,000 people in this town," Buckno said. "I have to remember who I represent."

She said she would return to politics only as a Republican, but is not sure whether she will seek any offices, such as a directorship or state representative post.

Before the controversy erupted, Buckno had been considering making another bid for state representative. In 1988, she lost to Democratic state Rep. John W. Thompson.

Harris fills bill for the Red Sox

SEATTLE (AP) — Greg Harris admits he's a journeyman pitcher. He may finally have found a home with Boston.

Harris, 34, who has played with seven different major league teams, pitched 6 2/3 strong innings Monday night to lead the Red Sox to a 5-4 victory over the Seattle Mariners.

"I've definitely been around," said Harris (3-1). "But this team has shown confidence in me and I'm just looking at this as an opportunity to help the club."

Harris started the season in the bullpen, but moved into the starting rotation by manager Joe Morgan. He won his first start April 29 against Oakland and his earned run average (3.54) is the lowest among the starters.

"Starting seems real different after being a reliever for so long," said Harris.

Harris saved 20 games for the Texas Rangers in 1986. He said he wasn't in any position to tell Morgan he wouldn't pitch to a starter.

Harris' latest performance couldn't have come at a better time for Boston. An already depleted Red Sox staff got thinner Monday when Morgan learned coach Jeff Reardon was temporarily unavailable due to a sore right foot.

Reardon will have X-rays today.

"Harris gave us a real big gift," said Morgan. "That was real big he was able to go that far."

Rob Murphy pitched 2 1/3 innings of relief for his first save.

Seattle scored two runs in the second inning. Ken Griffey Jr. drew a one-out walk and advanced to second on a single by Edgar Martinez. Griffey stole third base and scored on catcher Rich Gedman's throwing error. Dave Valle singled in Martinez.

Boston took the lead for good with a four-run third. Consecutive singles by Luis Rivera, Wade Boggs and Fred Lynn led off. A sacrifice fly by Scott Podsednik allowed a three-run shot in the first inning, to Jose Canseco on Monday night in the A's 5-1 victory. Moore allowed four hits and one run in seven innings to beat the Yankees for the second straight start and snap their three-game win streak.

"It makes you glad he (Canseco) is on your side," said Moore (3-1). "The former Seattle Mariner who was Martinez drove in two runs with a double. But Murphy got pinch-hitter Darrell Coles to pop out, then struck out pinch-hitter Dave Cochrane."

Nothing is stopping business-like Bruins

By David Ginsburg The Associated Press

LANDOVER, Md. — The size of the rink doesn't matter. The cheers of the fans are irrelevant. And who cares who gets the last line change?

With their workmanlike 4-1 victory at the Capital Centre Monday night, the Boston Bruins proved they can handle the Washington Capitals at home or away. The triumph gave the Bruins a 3-0 lead in the best-of-7 Stanley Cup semifinals and left Boston one game away from reaching the finals for the second time in three years.

Craig Janney, Randy Burridge and Cam Neely each had a goal and an assist and Andy Moog turned aside 25 shots to put Boston within reach of its first playoff sweep since 1979. The Bruins can wrap up the series at the Capital Centre Wednesday night.

Upon returning home during the weekend, the Capitals spoke with relief about leaving the smallish Boston Garden and returning to the expansive Capital Centre and the right shoulder of Capitals goalie Don Beaupre at 18:08. It was Neely's 12th assist of the playoffs and fifth against Washington.

Burridge provided the Bruins with an insurance goal midway through the final period on assists from Janney and Ray Bourque, and Neely added an empty-net score with 21 seconds left.

"This puts us in not such a favorable position, being down 3-0," Capitals coach Terry Murray said. "It's been done a couple of times, but it's a very difficult situation for us."

That made the difference. In a streak that began in the opening game of the series, the Bruins held Washington without a goal for 117 minutes before John Druce scored his 14th goal of the playoffs — best in the NHL — at 15:23 of the second period.

"They came out and threw the kitchen sink at us, but Andy Moog made some big saves and we weathered the storm," Boston defenseman Gary Galley said.

Moog, who improved to 11-3 in the playoffs, kept his postseason goals-against average under 2.00. Washington, which has been without leading scorer Dino Ciccarelli, who is injured, has been held scoreless in six of the last seven periods.

"Our defense is really working hard at being there, either at getting the puck or taking the man," Moog said. "We are just beating ourselves and we're not giving them an opening."

After Druce's goal tied the score, Janney quickly retaliated by taking a pass from Neely in the slot and blasting a slapshot over the right shoulder of Capitals goalie Don Beaupre at 18:08. It was Neely's 12th assist of the playoffs and fifth against Washington.

Bolton nine comes close but nipped by Vinal Tech

By Herakl Staff

MIDDLETOWN — It was close but no cigar for the Bolton High baseball team Monday night at Palmer Field. The Bulldogs had a 5-0 lead, saw it disappear, came back, and then saw host Vinal Tech push across the winning run in the bottom of the seventh for a 10-9 decision in Charter Oak Conference play.

Vinal goes 5-8 with the win while Bolton is winless at 0-13. Bolton's next outing is today at 3:30 p.m. at East Hampton High.

Bolton tied 1-1 in the top of the seventh on Dan Tocco's solo homer. But Vinal pushed across the game-winner with two outs in the bottom of the inning.

Russ Martorel drew a two-out walk, stole second and took third on a passed ball. Tocco at third base then cleanly field a grounder and fired to first. But first baseman Chris Anderson dropped the ball, with the winning run scoring.

"It was a shocker," Bolton coach Mark O'Neill said. "We battled back to tie it in the seventh. O'Neill, however, refused to blame the loss on what took place in the seventh."

"We made serious mental errors on the base paths throughout the game. We had two guys picked off. There was a lot of napping."

Luke Morford had an RBI single and Greg Dabe a two-run single in the fifth as Bolton took a 4-0 lead. It went to 5-0 before Vinal placed three runs in the fourth and five in the fifth for an 8-5 lead.

Morford and Dabe each collected two hits to dub the lead.

Coventry softball whips East Hampton

COVENTRY — Thirteen runs in the third inning were more than enough as Coventry High whipped East Hampton High, 19-4, Monday afternoon in Charter Oak Conference girls' softball make-up action.

The Patriots and Bellingers are each 8-4 overall. Coventry's next outing is tonight at 7 against Bacon Academy in Colchester.

Coventry, which struggled with the bats against RHAM and Windham, came alive with a 15-hit attack.

"It was good to see the kids hit the ball again," Coventry coach Rich Page said. "We had a couple of tough outings last week."

Johanna Wankruiningers and Stacie Guinan each collected three hits and Renee Eckert and Carrie Wickel two apiece for the Patriots. Kristin Filipipi's bases-loaded, three-run double and a Guinan two-run triple highlighted the Coventry attack.

Legion signups on Sunday

Signups for Manchester American Legion baseball will be held Sunday from 1 to 3 p.m. at the American Legion Hall in Legion Drive. Boys age 15-18 from Manchester High, East Catholic, Cheney Tech and Bolton are eligible to try out. Players will be selected for the Legion and Junior teams from the sign-up.

MCC needs soccer coach

Manchester Community College is in need of a soccer coach for the 1990 men's season. Bob Winch, who led the Cougars last fall, has accepted an assistant coaching position at Clemson University.

College coaching experience is not a requirement, but recommended. Applicants can send their resumes to Director of Athletics Pat Mistrzeta at the college.

Aussie Open status in question

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — The Australian Open, long considered the least prestigious of tennis' four major titles, could lose its Grand Slam status unless prize money is sharply increased, the tournament's general manager said Monday.

Jim Reid said the tournament has been having a hard time matching the prizes offered by the three other Grand Slam events — Wimbledon, the French Open and the U.S. Open.

"We have to find extra money or risk losing Grand Slam status," Reid said.

Last year, Wimbledon offered $5.2 million, followed by the U.S. Open with $5.1 million, the French Open with $4.5 million and the Australian Open with $3 million.

Rodman top defensive player

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. (AP) — Dennis Rodman was named the NBA's Defensive Player of the Year, edging Houston's Akem Olatujon in a vote by writers and broadcasters. His intense defense helped the Detroit Pistons allow the fewest points in the league this season.

Rodman received 49 of a possible 92 votes. Olatujon had 35 votes, followed by Detroit's Joe Dumars and Dallas' Derek Harper with two votes each. Chicago's Michael Jordan, New York's Patrick Ewing, Milwaukee's Alvin Robertson and Eaton each received one vote.

NCAA probes Missouri hoop

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Two of the 15 allegations against Missouri may put Norm Stewart's basketball program in particular peril.

As expected, the NCAA is charging the Tigers with having an agent help them recruit a specific area. The area would presumably be Detroit and could constitute a serious violation since so many of Stewart's finest players have come from there.

Secondly, NCAA watchers learned long ago that Enforcement Department dislikes being lied to. And Allegation No. 13 says a member of the athletic department " . . . provided false and misleading information . . . acted contrary to the principles of ethical conduct. . ."

And, " . . . demonstrated a knowing and willful effort on his part to operate university's intercollegiate men's basketball program contrary to the requirements and provisions of NCAA legislation by his involvement in this case."

Blackhaws after 3-1 lead

CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago Blackhaws Coach Mike Keenan has strange ways and stranger ideas. But he has his team on top in the Stanley Cup semifinal series with the Edmonton Oilers.

By virtue of a 5-1 victory Sunday night over the favored Oilers, the Blackhaws hold a 2-1 lead in the best-of-7 Campbell Conference series. They hope to enhance their lead by winning Game 4 tonight at the Chicago Stadium.

Keenan has made some surprising moves during the playoffs. He set down Denis Savard in the first game of the Oiler series. Savard since has scored a goal and picked up five assists.

Cheney golf bows to Portland High

The Cheney Tech golf team dropped a 5-0 decision to Portland High Monday in COC action at the Manchester Country Club.

Portland, 4-1, took the medal point. Portland's Jamie McMillan took medal honors with 78.

Manchester improves to 4-7 for the season with its first match Wednesday at Windham High.

Barnes is America's best hope for a return to land and order in the shot — and the strains of "Star-Spangled Banner" over the victory stand. Young (23), burly (6-4), 290 and dedicated (to tough) of the college football coaches and the lure of the pros to stay in the sport event, he thinks '92 may be time to reclaim our national identity.

He already holds the world indoor mark (74-0). Like O'Brien, he sleeps with his stopwatch at his bedside and gives himself pep talks.

We've lost the automobile business to Japan, the steel business to Korea, the textiles to South Korea and Hong Kong. Brits and Spaniards run our golf tournaments, but maybe Randy Barnes can get his act (and the NFL) together and knock back the good old days, a shot, put on the A wire.

Perry gave it a great run — the gold in 1952 and '56, the silver at Rome, and he came within inches of the bronze at Tokyo. But his successors, the record-holders who have followed, have not been able to have the Hollywood touch.

The 70-foot mark came and went with as little fanfare as the next stretch. O'Brien would have had him entering regular programming to bring you the special bulletin, but in track and field low footstep stuff.

E. Randolph Barnes, like W. Perry O'Brien, though, shows some flair for the dramatic. First of all, although he is five feet from his peak, he has had a long career in the U.S. Olympic team, with almost no international experience. Barnes stunned the track world when, after a lackluster series in Olympic record heat of 73 feet 5/8" inches. Kenny Moore, writing in Sports Illustrated, called it "arguably the best century run put in U.S. Olympic history." Unfortunately, East Germany's Ulf Timmermann came right back with a throw that was, unarguably, the greatest come-through put in Olympic history — 73.91, but not only won the gold but broke the Olympic record.

There was a chance of a replay May 20 in Los Angeles at the Jack in the Box Invitational Meet at UCLA. But Timmermann or not, Randy Barnes proposes to open his campaign for the Barcelona Olympics at that meet.

Barnes is America's best hope for a return to land and order in the shot — and the strains of "Star-Spangled Banner" over the victory stand. Young (23), burly (6-4), 290 and dedicated (to tough) of the college football coaches and the lure of the pros to stay in the sport event, he thinks '92 may be time to reclaim our national identity.

He already holds the world indoor mark (74-0). Like O'Brien, he sleeps with his stopwatch at his bedside and gives himself pep talks.

We've lost the automobile business to Japan, the steel business to Korea, the textiles to South Korea and Hong Kong. Brits and Spaniards run our golf tournaments, but maybe Randy Barnes can get his act (and the NFL) together and knock back the good old days, a shot, put on the A wire.

Perry gave it a great run — the gold in 1952 and '56, the silver at Rome, and he came within inches of the bronze at Tokyo. But his successors, the record-holders who have followed, have not been able to have the Hollywood touch.

The 70-foot mark came and went with as little fanfare as the next stretch. O'Brien would have had him entering regular programming to bring you the special bulletin, but in track and field low footstep stuff.

E. Randolph Barnes, like W. Perry O'Brien, though, shows some flair for the dramatic. ## Bulls pull away from the 76ers

By Joe Mooshil
The Associated Press

CHICAGO — Michael Jordan never had any doubts when he and the Chicago Bulls went through an agonizing series of last night that could have cost them the game.

"It was important that our defense stopped them and they couldn't make up much ground," said Jordan, who helped to turn things around by scoring 15 of his game-high 39 points in the closing minutes, leading the Bulls to a 96-85 victory over the Philadelphia 76ers Monday night in the opener of their best-of-7 NBA playoff series.

The Bulls led all the way and held several 10-point leads in the third quarter that ended with the score 73-65. Then came the fourth-quarter drought. The 76ers inched within 73-71 on a basket by Charles Barkley.

Scottie Pippen, who finished with 18 points and 12 assists, broke the spell with a pair of free throws before Jordan, score ankle and all, took command to clinch the victory. Pippen had six of the Bulls' eight-point runs in the final quarter.

"Michael and Scottie delivered when it came to crunch time," Chicago coach Phil Jackson said. "We were 0-7-7 at the beginning of the fourth quarter, and I think about three minutes there we ran out of gas. We had fresh bodies out there but nobody was clicking."

"We had some good shots but they weren't falling in," said Jordan, who took his left ankle after a game. Jordan twisted it in the final game of the Milwaukee series, but it is not considered serious.

Jordan, who held Hersey Hawkins to 12 points, credited the defense with the victory. He even gave Horace Grant credit for "hooking" Barkley to 30 points, high for Philadelphia.

"I think Horace did a heckuva job on Barkley," Jordan said. "He kept the pressure on. Otherwise Barkley could have dominated the game."

Barkley almost did. He had 20 rebounds, but he was "I'm disappointed we didn't do more, compete more."

"I'm happy. We didn't play very well. We should have played much more physical. We weren't clicking."

But the 76ers' problem was scoring. Everywhere they threatened, the Bulls simply pulled away.

"I felt confident all the way," Jordan said. "I had good shots. But on a few key shots, I couldn't push off the ankle like I wanted. But our defense did the job, really."

So much so that the 76ers shot only 38 percent from the field.

"Obviously didn't shoot the ball well," said 76ers coach Jim Lyness. "We shot 40 percent in the first half and about the same in the second half for a total of 85 percent. That's below what I expect from our offense."

"Our perimeter shooting was not at all what we expected. Our team usually shoots well from the perimeter."

Still, Lyness felt his team might have won after cutting the lead to 86-83 with less than four minutes to play. But Jordan scored nine of the Bulls' last 11 points while Barkley hit for Philadelphia's only basket during that spell.

"Everybody we'd cut the lead, Jordan or Pippen would score," Lyness said.

The two teams play the second game of the series in the Chicago Stadium Wednesday night before the series shifts to Philadelphia for games on Friday and Sunday.

Red, Cards heading north and south

By The Associated Press

The Cincinnati Reds and St. Louis Cardinals are heading in opposite directions.

Tom Browning pitched six strong innings for the Reds Monday night as they defeated the Cardinals 3-0 to complete their first four-game sweep at St. Louis since 1966.

It was the fifth straight win for the Reds and fifth straight loss for the Cardinals, who were outscored 20-6 in the Cincinnati series. After scoring three runs in the series opener, the Cardinals' run production dropped to two, one and zero in the final three games.

St. Louis manager Hersey Hertzog said: "That's what you call a real bunting game. There's nothing you can do. Just keep sending them out there."

Browning, 32, who threw the first perfect game in Reds history in 1988, led five Cardinals to home runs in 1988.

Los Angeles Dodgers (2-2) went six innings for their second straight win over San Diego.

Bonnie Hammer was the leadoff hitter in the first for the 20th time in his five-year career. Jay Bell reached when third baseman Mike Pagliarulo bobbled his grounder and scored one out later on Bobby Bonilla's double.

Braves 9, Cubs 8: At Chicago, Jeff Blauser hit two homers, including a game-winning two-run shot in the ninth.

Mark Lemke led off the Atlanta ninth with a walk. Blauser, who entered the game without a home run this season, then homered to left off Mitch Williams with a walk. Pirates 4, Padres 1: At Pittsburgh, Barry Bonds homered in a four-run first inning as the Pirates won for the ninth time in 11 games.

Bob Walk (2-3) allowed five hits over six innings for his second straight win over San Diego.

Bolton High team on winning streak
VICTORY — Bolton High School, after 86 games and almost seven years, has a title on the baseball diamond.
The Bulldogs, who dropped baseball as a varsity sport for two years in 1987 and hadn't won since a May 18, 1983 decision over Cheney Tech, ended their years of futility Tuesday afternoon with a 9-8 victory over East Hampton High School in East Hampton.
"This is the best feeling I've had in a long, long time," 23-year-old Bolton coach Mark O'Neill said. "We had 21 happy faces today. They've worked hard all year and never gave up on themselves."
Bolton lost 66 in a row before being forced to forfeit a game on May 11, 1987 when it didn't have enough players to face Bacon Academy. It forfeited the final seven games of that year. It lost its first 13 games of the 1990 season. Until Tuesday.

Realty ranks thinned out by market

Poor sales driving out realty agents
By Jill Arabas
The Associated Press

STAMFORD — Thousands of real estate agents have been getting out of the business, discouraged by a slumping housing market and a steady increase in license fees, officials say.
The Connecticut Real Estate Commission sent out 35,000 license renewals this year, but only 22,500 agents had renewed by Monday, said commission Director Larry Hanafin. Old licenses expired April 30.
"It's a sign of the marketplace. The market has slowed down considerably," said Hanafin, who also attributed the drop in renewals to a tripling of license fees last year.
Officials said there are still plenty of agents who help people buy and sell homes. But part-time agents who entered the business during the boom years may be thinking twice, now that the economy has slumped and license fees are more expensive.
"A lot of those people who entered the market when it was hot probably found they couldn't survive, or didn't choose to survive, when things got back to normal," said Jeanette Newton, executive officer of the 330-member North Central Connecticut Board of Realtors Inc. in Enfield. She said membership in her group has dropped about 5 percent from last year.
The number of licensed agents swelled to 39,000 in the boom years of the 1980s, when people put their paychecks into housing and developers tried to cash in on the region's booming economy. The number of new units authorized grew from 10,855 in 1981 to a high

Budget cuts force Bush shift on tax

By Tom Raun
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Bush appears to have concluded that economy-crippling budget cuts pose a greater political threat to Republicans than a broken "no new taxes" campaign promise.
Bush has changed positions over the years, or at least shown "flexibility" on a range of topics — from abortion rights to arms control to dealing with Soviet Premier Mikhail S. Gorbachev to global warming.
So, having first put Democrats in a box by continually accusing them of seeking to raise taxes, Bush had little choice but to take the initiative on tax increases himself.
He did this week with his "no preconditions" budget talks overture to Congress, followed by sessions with lawmakers that included the first serious exploration of tax options in his presidency.
At the same time, budget director

Bolton budgets go to referendum

By Donna O'Leary
Manchester Herald

BOLTON — The town and school budgets will go to referendum because Citizens Alliance for School Excellence filed the required number of petitions for such a vote, according to the town clerk.
The budget is $5.7 million, about a 10.2 percent increase from last year. The Board of Finance has recommended that $60,000 be cut from the budget.
"If you have any cuts will not be tax savings. They will be tax deferrals," Walsh said of those who signed the petition. Taxpayers will end up paying more next year if cuts are made, she said.

Gun, bonding bills get action

By Judd Eberhart
The Associated Press

HARTFORD — The House and Senate entered the final day of the 1990 legislative session early today, passing a strict gun-control bill and approving hundreds of millions of dollars for capital projects around the state.
With dozens of bills still awaiting action, both chambers face a mandatory adjournment hour of midnight tonight.
Democratic Gov. William A. O'Neill, who's not running for re-election, will deliver his tenth and final end-of-session address to a joint session of the House and Senate when Democratic leaders decide to call it quits.
They acknowledge that numerous bills will die in their calendars for lack of action.
Some inter-chamber hickering slowed the pace of the session Tuesday. Senate Democrats, frustrated at the molasses-like legislative pace in the House, halted

UConn ticket policy rebuffed

HARTFORD (AP) — The Senate has moved to strike down an unpopular University of Connecticut ticket policy that gives athletic boosters the inside track on prized tickets to Husky basketball games.
The Senate voted 21-14 late Tuesday for a measure that would prevent the university from distributing tickets to games at the new Gampel Pavilion based on contributions to the school's athletic fund. The measure was offered as an amendment to a bill that gives state colleges and universities more freedom in making some spending decisions. That bill passed on a 35-1 vote.
The measure now goes to the House, where its fate is uncertain as the Legislature rushes toward adjournment at midnight tonight.
The four Democrats in the Senate who sponsored the measure said they felt the state's taxpayers, who
