Red Sox blanked by Rangers, 4-0

NEW YORK (AP) — Five days after tossing a no-hitter and losing, Andy Hawkins pitched 11 shutout innings against Minnesota on Friday. He still came away a loser.

Brian Harper's run-scoring two-out single snapped a scoreless tie in the 12th inning to help Minnesota beat New York 2-0 in the first game of a doubleheader. The Yankees came back for a 5-3 victory in the second game, snapping a five-game losing streak.

Last Sunday at Chicago, Hawkins became only the second major leaguer ever to lose a complete-game no-hitter when the White Sox scored four runs in the eighth inning with the help of three errors and two walks for a 4-0 victory.

AL Roundup

Like Dave Stewart and Fernando Valenzuela on Wednesday, Hawkins was trying to match Johnny Vander Meer's record of two consecutive no-hitters for Cincinnati in 1938. Hawkins didn't do it, but he continued his remarkable rejuvenation.

"That's the way it goes," Hawkins said. "I've had games where I've gotten a lot of runs but gave up a lot, too. I'm just happy to be throwing good again."

Hawkins (1-0) was masterful against the Twins in the longest outing of his career and actually pitched better than in the no-hitter. Nevertheless, no runs meant no win again.

Fred Manrique walked leading off the 12th and was replaced by pinch-runner Greg Gagne. After Gagne moved to second on Kirby Puckett's groundout, Kent Hrbek was intentionally walked. One out later, Harper and Gene Larkin delivered RBI singles, and Alan Mills relieved.

Hawkins allowed two runs and six hits in 11 2/3 innings. He struck out eight and walked four. It was the longest outing by a Yankee since Aug. 27, 1976 when Caliph Hunter worked 13 innings against California.

Juan Berenguer (6-1) pitched two innings for the 21st save. New York left 13 runners on base in the opener.

Apparently there wasn't much of a sense of history among Yankee fans, as only a few thousand were in the stands when the first game started at 4:40 p.m. EDT.

Hawkins retired the side in order in the first inning and after walking Hrbek leading off the second, got two outs before Larkin blooped a single to right-center field. Center fielder Roberto Kelly got a glove on the ball but could not make a sliding catch.

The next seven Twins went down before Harper lined a single with one out in the fifth. Hrbek got the Twins' third hit with an opposite-field single to left with one out in the seventh.

"I can't pitch any better than I'm doing right now," Hawkins said. "A pitcher wants to go out there and be consistent and I've done that my last five or six starts. I

China flooding kills 27

BEIJING (AP) — Floods killed 27 people in three days in the northern Chinese province of Shaanxi, an official report said today.

Torrential rains that began Friday swept through 18 cities and counties in northern Shaanxi, causing at least $63 million in damage, the English-language China Daily said.

Up to 7 1/2 inches of rain fell in parts of Shaanxi, and thousands of villagers were stranded when dikes along the Hanjiang River broke, the report said. It quoted local officials as saying such severe flooding happens only once every 20 years.

Heavy rains also fell in northeastern, northwestern and southern China, with rainfall in some places recorded at 4 1/2 inches in a 24-hour period during the weekend, the paper said.

Hailstones measuring up to 3 inches in diameter hit parts of Inner Mongolia, Jilin, Heilongjiang and Hebei provinces in northern and northeastern China.

Death penalty sought in Fla.

BARTOW, Fla. (AP) — A man accused of dunking his 2-year-old nephew headfirst into a toilet goes on trial on murder charges this week in a case that raised questions about social workers' failure to protect the toddler.

Prosecutors will seek the death penalty for Thomas Coe, who told police he was punishing Bradley McGee for soiling his diaper. The boy's death brought unprecedented charges against four social workers, one of whom was convicted of child abuse.

"If nothing else, all this has made caseworkers be more careful to realize they're making life-or-death decisions here," said Pam Kirkland, the boy's foster mother before he was returned to Coe and the mother who abandoned him. "With every child, they have to stop and ask — 'Could this be the next Bradley McGee?'"

Coe, 23, goes on trial Tuesday in Fort Myers. Defense attorneys have acknowledged the dunking but say Coe did not intend to kill the boy, so it wasn't murder.

Bus, train collision kills 27

MOSCOW (AP) — Twenty-seven people were killed when a bus following several cars whose drivers were rushing home to watch the World Cup soccer final ran a red light at a rail crossing and was hit by a train, Tass reported today.

The official Soviet news agency said the accident occurred Sunday at Pirozovskoye, 200 miles northeast of Leningrad. It quoted the slightly injured driver as saying he mistook the traffic lights for moonlight.

Of the 50 bus passengers, 21 were killed instantly and six died later of their injuries, Tass said.

None of the train passengers or crew members were injured, it said. An unspecified number of bus passengers were hospitalized with injuries, it said.

Survey finds discrimination

NEW YORK (AP) — A fourth of all Americans say they have experienced discrimination at work, and nearly eight in 10 believe some employers practice discrimination in hiring or promotion, according to a poll.

The national poll of a random sample of 803 adults was conducted by telephone June 12-16 for The National Law Journal and Lexis, a legal research service. The Journal reported the results in its July 16 issue, released Sunday.

Of those who reported discrimination, about a third said it had to do with their sex. Another third said it had to do with their race, religion or ethnic background. Most of the rest cited age or a handicap.

Of those who reported experiencing discrimination, 49 percent said they took no action, 28 percent complained to their employer, 14 percent quit and the rest complained to the authorities or sued.

Albanians leave for Prague

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Czechoslovak diplomats said today that the first of the more than 5,000 Albanians who took refuge in a dozen foreign embassies in Tirana would be leaving their Communist homeland today for Prague.

The announcement by the Foreign Ministry in Prague followed accusations by Albanian officials that foreign diplomats in the Albanian capital were deliberately slowing the emigration process to cause instability.

In the Czechoslovak capital, Deputy Foreign Minister Vojtech Wagner said that 51 refugees would arrive in Prague this evening by special plane from Tirana, the state news agency CTK reported.

Choosing schools mixed here

By MARGY FOLEY
Manchester Herald

MANCHESTER — Nationally, the idea of competition among schools may be gaining support, but those involved in local education have some reservations about the idea.

In June, the Brookings Institution issued a report, "Public, Markets and America's Schools," contending that the way to improve a mediocre public school system is to eliminate government control over education. It recommended that parents be given tuition vouchers to be used at a school of their choice, either public or private.

The report also said that bureaucracy and top-down management in the public school system is stifling innovation and reform. The study, from a liberal thinktank, joins the voices that have been heard throughout the 1980s proposing some form of parental choice as a solution to an allegedly failing public school system. President Bush is among the concept's supporters.

Manchester's Superintendent of Schools James P. Kennedy is not. Kennedy said that the schools do not have major problems as found in the inner city, not in Manchester.

"If all the school systems in the country were achieving at the level of Manchester, you wouldn't have a proposal for vouchers," he said. Although Manchester is creating a special focus program at Nathan Hale School to attract students from other districts, Kennedy does not force creating other magnet schools.

He said he doubts "schools of choice" could solve the city's problems. Parents with the money and means would move their children out, leaving the urban schools with even more students who are achieving poorly or have special needs, he said. "So I see it as divisive."

The same concern was expressed by Pamela Broderick, president of the townwide PTA Council. Parents who are interested in their child's education would research the school they send their child to very carefully, she said. But, she asked, "What happens to

La. lawmakers fashion new anti-abortion law

By GUY COATES

BATON ROUGE, La. — After failing to override the governor's veto of a stronger anti-abortion bill, the Legislature passed a measure that would ban most abortions and punish doctors who perform them with up to 10 years at hard labor.

The law, which includes exceptions for rape or incest, would be signed by Gov. Buddy Roemer, still wounded by the strictest state abortion law in the nation.

"This is the children's hour. Let's vote for the 15,000 unborn children who are murdered in this state every year," said Sen. John Saunders.

mastermind of the revised legislation. The bill approved Sunday night bans all abortions except those to end pregnancies that endanger a woman's life and those caused by rape or incest.

The measure is intended to challenge Roe vs. Wade, the 1973 U.S. Supreme Court decision recognizing the right to an abortion.

Roemer had vetoed the Legislature's original bill Friday because it made no exceptions for victims of rape or incest. He said he would not comment on the new bill until he had a chance to read it.

The bill was created by amending a flag-burning measure the Senate had refused to consider, then eliminating the flag-burning provisions, which would have reduced the penalty for beating up a flag burner to a $25 fine. The offense currently is punishable by six months in jail and a $500 fine.

The maneuver, completed 30 hours before the legislative session ends at midnight tonight, enabled the Senate to circumvent the usual process of referring new legislation to a committee.

"I would have preferred a stronger bill, but we don't have the votes for an override," Saunders told his colleagues.

The Senate vote on the bill was 32-7. Less than an hour later, the

Soviet aid requested at Summit

By MARTIN CRUTSINGER
The Associated Press

HOUSTON — Leaders of the world's richest nations gathered today for the 16th annual economic summit and began discussions on how to bolster the fast-changing economies of Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union. "Welcome to the travelers," Bush enthused as meetings began in his adopted hometown.

From Moscow came a fresh plea for financial assistance. Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze said that the Communist Party Congress "I feel it would be advantageous, for us and the West." He said Moscow was looking to the west for "credit, technical cooperation, personnel training, joint ventures and joint projects."

Before calling the summit into session on the campus of Rice University, President Bush arranged to meet separately with two leaders who are pushing a $15-billion aid package for Moscow: Chancellor Helmut Kohl of West Germany and President Francois Mitterrand of France.

Bush has said he has "big problems" with pouring cash into an anemic Soviet economy that still supports heavy defense spending and funnels $5 billion a year into Marxist Cuba.

Meanwhile, the summit partners faced a tangle of their own differences over trade and the environment. Europeans are resisting Bush's demand for phasing out farm subsidies over the next 10 years and, together with Canada, are pushing for agreement on new steps to halt global warming.

Bush's chief of staff, John Sununu, sniped at European critics of Bush's go-slow policy on curbing carbon dioxide and other pollutants blamed for warming the global environment.

"I think West Germany got a lot of good grades for rhetoric," he said on ABC. "If you take a good look at what the United States has actually done in terms of cleaning up our environment ... I don't think the United States has to take a back seat to anyone."

Today's meeting marked the debut for Toshiaki Kaifu of Japan, but it was just another reunion for the six other leaders, who also conferred just last week at London's NATO gathering.

The world has changed dramatically since the last economic summit in Paris. At that time, the West was considering a limited aid package to encourage the beginnings of reform efforts in Poland and Hungary. Since that time the Berlin Wall has crumbled and most of the communist nations of Eastern Europe have been swept away. Leaving the West groping for a way

Pension board member lashes at critical audit

By ALEX GIRELLI
Manchester Herald

MANCHESTER — Attorney Richard Woodhouse, a veteran member of the town's Pension Board, this morning lashed out at report from the town auditors which criticized the board's management of investments, calling the report inaccurate and incomplete.

Woodhouse, who has been on the board for about 25 years, said that if there are any further criticisms from the auditors or town officials that reflect on his integrity, they had better be careful or there will be some action on more "inicial" than his criticisms.

He declined to elaborate on the statement.

He said Bennett, Katz, & Thibodeau, a local auditing firm, issued the report, without ever having consulted him or any other member of the pension board, except perhaps Roger Negro, the town treasurer, who is an ex-officio member.

Woodhouse said there are voluminous reports on file in the treasurer's office on the investments. He displayed several reports and said they were typical of the ones the pension board has used in its study of where to invest pension funds.

And, he said, final decisions on investments are made by the board, not the board's consultant, Matthew Saltzman.

In the report, auditors listed what they regard as weaknesses in the investment policies and procedures and concluded that many weaknesses might not have occurred if the Pension Board had challenged procedures town investors employed in the investment process.

"I will not stand for some CPA substituting his judgment of the board in making the investments," Woodhouse said.

Woodhouse said the board members read the reports on investments and make decisions on investments.

Democrats' convention won't be marked by unity

By JUDG EVERS HART
The Associated Press

HARTFORD — State Democratic Chairman John F. Dronney Jr. remembers 1978, when, as a young West Hartford lawyer, he was a delegate to the state convention backing the party hierarchy and backing Robert K. Killian for the gubernatorial nomination over incumbent Ella T. Grasso.

And it's because that memory is so vivid and the way things worked out for the Democrats that year that Dronney isn't worried about a lack of unity as the party heads into this weekend's state convention.

Three of the six offices on the Democratic ticket to be settled at the convention are being contested by gubernatorial primary ... I'm not losing any sleep over it. We've always had these things."

Democratic Gov. William A. O'Neill's decision in March not to seek a third full term appeared to clear the way for his challenger for the gubernatorial nomination, U.S. Rep. Bruce A. Morrison, to accept the nomination at this week's convention.

"I don't worry about state conventions ... (or) about Democrats expressing their preference for different candidates," Dronney said.

Gorbachev: support me or choose someone else

By ANDREW KATELL
The Associated Press

MOSCOW — In a meeting with workers and farmers attending the Communist Party congress as observers, Mikhail S. Gorbachev answered more tough questioning by asking that people back his policies or find a new leader.

The Soviet leader's remarks Sunday came during a daylong recess in the crucial party congress, which was to reconvene today to accept a new platform.

The increasingly unpopular Communists are battling to salvage credibility. The people blame the Communists for the economic crisis and the decades of institutional corruption, and the party's candidates have suffered defeat after defeat at the polls.

Nominations for party general secretary were scheduled for this evening and voting for the post on Tuesday.

Although Gorbachev has drawn criticism from hard-liners and reformers alike at the congress, he is not expected to face a major challenge in his bid to win re-election as head of the 19-million-member party.

There is a sense that the Communists need Gorbachev to survive as a united force as their long-dominant role in Soviet politics is increasingly threatened.

Outside the congress, another perhaps more serious challenge looms ahead for Gorbachev.

Coal miners announced plans Sunday to stage a one-day nationwide strike Wednesday to warn party leaders they can no longer take for granted the support of the working class they claim to represent.

At Sunday's four-hour meeting between Gorbachev and the non-voting observers, the atmosphere was "tense" and the Soviet president heard complaints about everything from his government's ethnic policy to the lack of consumer goods.

"They criticize me personally or the Politburo, (and debate whether) to remove us or not," Gorbachev, who has been party general secretary since 1985, reportedly said.

"I will listen to it all but you will decide everything. Am I needed by you? You will decide," Gorbachev told the gathering. Soviet media carried no details of the meeting, which was closed to foreign reporters.

Gorbachev told participants that the choice for party leader is in the hands of the congress: "I maintain only one thing: The policy that I have chosen I will pursue, and for me the biggest prize is that my homeland will live."

His remarks were conveyed by Nina Zhukova, a reporter from the Russian city of Ivanovo. Her account was confirmed by other participants.

Vladimir Fomin, an aviation plant worker from Smolensk said Gorbachev and Premier Nikolai I. Ryzhkov, also at the meeting, were criticized raising prices as they attempt to do away with the crippled centrally planned economy and convert to a market-based system.

Fomin said the ethnic issue also came up, with an Azerbaijani woman charging that Gorbachev had done nothing to prevent bloodshed in her republic's dispute with neighboring Armenia.

In a Soviet TV interview late Sunday, Gorbachev and Ryzhkov both appealed to coal miners not to stage their planned one-day walkout. Gorbachev pleaded with the miners not to take what he called "an illegal strike."

Dealer: Barry bought drugs

By PETE YOST
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Admitted drug dealer Lydia Pearson says Mayor Marian Barry — now being tried on drug and perjury charges — was a regular customer who set up crack cocaine purchases on the phone.

"I'm everything all right?" the mayor would ask her, she testified Friday at the end of the trial's third week.

"Yes" meant "I would provide him with the crack," she testified. She described crack deliveries to Barry at two hotels and a government office building, and provided approximate dates for the alleged deliveries.

Mundy had exploited the inability of former model Rasheda Moore, an earlier witness, to recall dates of her alleged drug use with Barry over several years.

Fires' spread slows

By MARK BAUMGARTNER
The Associated Press

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — Scattered rain and cooler temperatures helped slow the spread of 203 wildfires that have charred more than 400,000 acres of timber, but 2,100 firefighters remained on the job.

No lives or homes have been lost to the rampaging fires, most sparked by lightning strikes. There have been no reports of arson, authorities said.

Firefighters from all over the United States were attacking the 43 worst fires, aided by 34 helicopters and 11 air tankers dropping fire retardant.

The cooling trend allowed firefighters to get close enough to flames to begin taking offensive, said Bureau of Land Management spokesman Rob McWhorter.

By Sunday afternoon, 424,571 acres of forest land were consumed by wildfires, an increase of nearly 100,000 acres from Saturday, when 23 new fires were started after 2,600 recorded lightning strikes, he said.

The Tok fire remained a top priority, because it still was considered a potential threat to people and buildings if winds changed and hot summer temperatures returned.

The Tok airport reopened to civilian air traffic Sunday as the fire that swept near the town moved toward the village of Teal, 20 miles away, McWhorter said.

The village of 60 residents wasn't immediately threatened by the blaze, but firefighters were monitoring winds to see which way flames would blow, he said.

Crews using bulldozers nearly finished digging a fire line around Tok, a southeastern Alaska town of 1,200 residents located at the junction of the Alaska and Glenn highways that have been closed off and on since last week.

Death penalty foes support convicted ex-Black Panther

By TED DUNCOMBE
The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — Death penalty opponents in the United States, Canada and Europe are rallying behind a condemned former Black Panther, claiming his case is an example of racism in capital punishment.

Mumia Abu-Jamal of Philadelphia is on Pennsylvania's death row for the fatal 1981 shooting of a white police officer. He was convicted in 1982 and exhausted his state court appeals last year. His latest appeal petition, filed in May, is pending before the Supreme Court.

"The case has become the rallying cry for opponents of the racist death penalty," said Rachel Walkenstein, staff attorney for the New York-based Parson Defense Committee, organizer of protests staged in London, New York, Paris, Hamburg, East Berlin and Toronto.

Studies have shown that the death penalty is disproportionately applied to blacks, Hispanics, the poor and the indigent.

Among the inmates on death row, 43 percent are black, more than three times the percentage of blacks in the general population, according to the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund. More than twice as many blacks who killed whites were executed since 1973 as blacks who killed other blacks, according to the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

A rally is planned for July 12 in Sydney, Australia, followed by others July 14 in Philadelphia, Chicago and Oakland, Calif.

Petitions with 20,000 signatures seeking a reprieve for Jamal have been sent to Gov. Robert Casey, along with a letter from the Toronto Labour Council on behalf of 180,000 trade unionists in Canada.

"This campaign has brought together a powerful array of forces" who want an end to death sentences, said Gene Heron, rally chairman for the committee.

U.S. Rep. Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., and author Ed Ayler are among those supporting a lesser sentence for Jamal.

"In addition to my hatred of the death penalty ... I know that Mumia did not have a fair trial," liberal attorney William Kunstler said during a June 28 rally in New York.

Deputy District Attorney Gaule Bartholomew said prosecutors would have no comment because Jamal's case is in litigation.

Witnesses testified that Jamal, 36, shot Officer Daniel Faulkner once in the back and four times at close range after the policeman stopped Jamal's brother for a traffic violation. Jamal was critically injured when Faulkner returned fire, and later recovered.

Jamal, formerly known as Wesley Cook, was a member of the Black Panthers and later became a supporter of the radical group MOVE and a follower of the Rastafarian movement.

Police hunting for group linked with bomb blasts

By BARRY BENFREW
The Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Police hunted today for members of a right-wing white group that has claimed responsibility for a bombing that injured 27 blacks and is threatened more such attacks.

A police official said today that police were searching for members of the White Liberation Army, the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said it was one of several extreme right-wing groups linked to recent attacks.

The group, calling itself the White Liberation Army, made the claim late Sunday in a statement telefaxed to newspapers.

The bombing Friday was one of at least six in Johannesburg in the last 10 days.

The message said the bombing, at a central bus terminal used almost exclusively by blacks, was to protest government plans to end white-minority rules. It was sprinkled with racial slurs and called Law and Order Minister Adriaan Vlok a "traitor."

Earlier Sunday, Vlok had announced the arrest of nine white extremists in connection with the series of bombings, which were aimed at black and anti-apartheid targets.

Vlok called the nine men "supporters of a far-right political ideology" but said they could not be linked to any specific group.

A police official said today that police were searching for members of the White Liberation Army, the official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said it was one of several extreme right-wing groups linked to recent attacks.

The ANC and other anti-apartheid groups have criticized police for failing to solve any of the recent bombings. But Vlok said the arrests showed the government was moving against the white extremists.

Officials believe the extreme right consists of only a few hundred people, but security officials say even a handful of white terrorists could cause havoc.

BEIRUT, Lebanon — Plans to free a Western hostage are likely to proceed despite Israeli air raids in the area, a source close to the leadership of the Iranian-backed Shiite Muslim group Hezbollah said today.

Most of the 16 Western hostages in Lebanon are held by underground factions believed to be supported by the Hezbollah, or Party of God. Hezbollah bases the targets of air strikes in south Lebanon today and Sunday.

"Let us pray the Israeli attacks will not scuttle efforts to free one of the hostages," said the source, speaking on condition of anonymity.

"The hostage-holders are definitely restless, but I personally believe the impact of the attacks," he said.

Iran's official news agency had reported Saturday that one of the Western hostages in Lebanon, most likely a European, would soon be freed.

On Sunday, Israeli jets hit a Hezbollah base three miles north of Israel's self-declared security zone. Today, police said four Phantom F-4 fighter-bombers rocked Hezbollah bases two miles north of Sunday's targets.

A source close to the command of the Syrian troops in Beirut said if the release does occur, it is unlikely to be before the middle of the week.

U.S. escalates involvement toward Bolivian drug war

By PETER MCFARREN
The Associated Press

LA PAZ, Bolivia — The Pentagon has sent in advisers to help with an intensified anti-drug effort that includes a sophisticated new intelligence-gathering system, a U.S. drug enforcement official said.

Bolivia, an impoverished South American country of 7 million people, produces one-third of the cocaine consumed in the U.S. and other foreign markets.

Eugene Castillo, acting U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration attaché for Bolivia, said a computer system recently installed in La Paz and Santa Cruz will link major cocaine centers and provide data on trafficking.

It will also provide a safe way of transmitting information among anti-drug operations centers, he said.

Castillo, who spoke Friday on condition the story would not be used before Sunday, described the new system as "innovative."

"It gives us ... intelligence and the ability to transmit that intelligence to affected areas so that operations can be planned and mounted in a minimum amount of time," he said.

Until now, the DEA and Bolivian police have relied on Korean War-vintage radio equipment whose transmissions can easily be intercepted by drug traffickers, who use the latest in radio communications equipment.

Castillo said the U.S. Southern Military Command is also helping the DEA and Bolivian police "formulate and maintain a country-wide operational strategy" to prevent the

Defense pact inked by Greece, U.S.

By NIKOS KONSTADARAS
The Associated Press

ATHENS, Greece — Greek and U.S. officials have signed a defense treaty allowing two major U.S. military bases to remain in the country for at least eight more years.

The treaty signed Sunday also guarantees defense of Greece's territory against any hostile country — including neighbor and fellow NATO ally Turkey.

Greece and Turkey came to the brink of war in 1974 when Turkey invaded Cyprus following an Athens-backed coup on the island. A previous five-year defense agreement expired in December 1988. Seventeen rounds of negotiations involving the former socialist government of Andreas Papandreu produced no treaty.

The Papandreu government, with its frequent anti-Western rhetoric and links to such radical Arab leaders as Libya's Moammar Gadhafi, did not enjoy much favor in the United States.

Coalition governments after June and November elections last year put the bases issue on hold.

The conservative government, elected April 8, and the United States reached agreement in principle on May 30.

Defense pact inked by Greece, U.S.

ATHENS, Greece — Greek and U.S. officials have signed a defense treaty allowing two major U.S. military bases to remain in the country for at least eight more years.

The treaty signed Sunday also guarantees defense of Greece's territory against any hostile country — including neighbor and fellow NATO ally Turkey.

Poll: non-voters just don't have time

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Most people in California are too busy doing other things to bother voting in elections, according to a new survey.

Too much to do was the most frequent response given by 2,260 people polled by telephone for the survey, which was conducted by the Los Angeles Times. The poll's margin of error was 3 percent.

About 35 percent of those who were registered to vote but did not said they were too busy, but the newspaper reported Sunday. A lack of interest in politics, the next most common reason, was cited by 8 percent.

In last month's state primaries, about 14 million who were eligible to vote failed to do so. About 4.9 million people did vote.

Non-voters, whether registered or not, share many qualities with those who do vote, having the same range of views on abortion, capital punishment and taxes, the newspaper reported.

They also were split evenly between support of Dianne Feinstein, the Democratic candidate for governor, and Republican candidate Pete Wilson.

Where they seem to differ is how they perceive voting. For the non-voters, the practice is seen as more troublesome than it's worth, pollsters said.

Among unregistered non-voters, 22 percent said they were too busy and 21 percent said they did not care. Other reasons given by both groups were dislike of the candidates and the feeling that voting doesn't matter.

Most non-voters are young, with 56 percent under age 40, the poll showed.

Open Forum Bolton budget

To the Editor:
Was the Bolton battle of the budget worth it? You bet! Thank you Bolton taxpayers/voters for making it possible. As a direct result of all our efforts, Bolton taxpayers have saved over two mills. That is a substantial savings in tax dollars and it will not have a detrimental effect on the quality of education or town services. Could the Board of Education budget have been reduced further without reducing quality? Certainly, if cuts were made in the areas suggested.

There were other positive things that occurred as a result of the budget referendum. Bolton taxpayers who have been frustrated for years with huge increases in their taxes, now have a voice and they know they can win to help keep their taxes down. If there are others who have not joined our group, please call me or any member of The Neglected Taxpayers and you will be welcomed as an active or passive member.

If we do not succeed in keeping Bolton taxes reasonable our town will become an exclusive community, dominated by many newcomers well-to-do families, where moderate income and long-time residents are no longer welcome. We are committed to allowing everyone, regardless of financial status, to continue to live here. We will be better prepared to deal with Bolton's budget next year based on what we have learned now, and we expect to be even more successful then. We will also have municipal elections in May 1991 at which time we may wish to re-evaluate our town officials.

For now, we must prepare for the fall school building program. As taxpayers begin to find out just how much their taxes will increase with this year's budget, I'm sure they will feel that we can not afford such an ambitious building program. The Board of Education shows no sign that they are willing to consider any cuts in their proposals. The final cost of this building program may be in excess of the $11 million to $12 million cost estimate.

When you have adjusted your own personal budget to cover the increase in this year's taxes, we are sure most of you will find it difficult to factor in another large increase a few months from now. The referendum on the school building project is reportedly to take place in October 1990. One of the features that may distinguish this referendum from the recent budget referendums is if we soundly defeat the building program, we may not have to repeat the process several times. Bolton taxpayers continue to spend substantially more for taxes than taxpayers in most areas towns.

Bolton taxpayers have to send a clear message to their elected officials, that we will not approve any large expenditures, until we have ALL of the answers regarding state funding and binding commitments.

Finally with regard to the dirty tricks that have occurred such as stolen, defaced and destroyed signs, the inexcusable incident at the high school, the threatening and obscene phone calls, and the bombing of my mailbox, T.N.T. is offering a reward of $300 for information leading to the identity of the persons responsible. For those of you who may have forgotten, this is still a free country where all persons should be allowed to express their opinions without threats or violence used to silence them. Keep Bolton an affordable place to live. Let us hear from you, and we hope to see you at the next referendum.

Honor the flag

To the Editor:
I saw flags flying and plenty of fireworks on programs prior to the 4th of July, and it was beautiful to see. What am I getting at concerning people who burn the flag? Don't they like their freedom in this country? If they want to burn the flag, I wish they would go out to this country to some other country that has no flag — and no freedom. Everyone should be proud of our flag. I have a small one lying in front of my house all year round — even through snowy weather. And when it tears, I buy a new one. So as I said, help keep our flag flying.

Foolish spending

To the Editor:
I read with some wonder the small article in the June 26th issue of the Herald which stated that the General Assembly had approved $750,000 for extension of a bike and jogging trail in Manchester.

To me, this is a clear example of mis-use of limited assets, and hopefully the Bond Commission will see fit to reject the proposal.

In these times, we are constantly bombarded by the media with reminders of the critical state of fiscal problems, both on the state and local levels. Deficits and tax increases always face us.

The system of setting priorities by our elected and appointed officials must indeed be in a sorry state when a sizeable portion of our precious and limited resources are to be allocated for a "bike trail".

Skinhead supremacists

By ROBERT WALTERS

DALLAS — For those concerned about the maintenance of diversity and civility in an ethnically diverse society, the testimony presented during the recent U.S. District Court trial here of five young white supremacists was truly chilling.

The defendants, ranging in age from 19 to 25, were all members of a local gang known as the Confederate Hammenkins. In turn, it is part of the national "skinhead" movement — a neo-Nazi cult with an estimated 3,000 followers in 31 states.

A former member of the gang testified that in late 1988, he and four defendants plotted to "smash Jewish businesses" in Dallas to commemorate the 50th anniversary of Kristallnacht — the night-long Nazi orgy of murder, arson, looting, vandalism and destruction targeted against Jewish homes and businesses throughout Germany.

A Dallas policeman testified that when he questioned more than a dozen skinheads encountered in a local park, she was told "we're just out here chaining niggers." Members of the gang explained that because the park was named in memory of Confederate Gen. Robert E. Lee, it should be reserved exclusively for whites.

Will there be sex in heaven?

By GEORGE F. PLAGENZ

The same opportunity to achieve unfulfilled dreams will be open to all of us. Will we see our loved ones again? Will the family circle be unbroken? The Bible leaves the question unanswered. But Emmet Fox, one of the most widely read of the metaphysical writers, strongly suggested there will be reunions of loved ones.

"Wherever," said Fox, "there has been a strong emotional link on Earth, there will be a meeting when we pass over."

Jesus spoke of renewing human relationships in the kingdom of heaven. He also suggested that heaven would not be devoid of many of the pleasures we know on Earth — like eating and drinking with our friends. At the Last Supper with his disciples he said, "I will not drink henceforth of the fruit of the vine until I drink it new with you in my Father's kingdom."

(By contrast, an old German drinking song says, "In heaven, there is no beer. That's why we drink it here.")

As for whether there will be sex in heaven, there is a division of opinion. A poll of clergymen turned up an equal number of yes and nays. Those who believed there will be sex in heaven did not speculate on how couples would be paired off but most drew the line at free sex.

Many of those who doubted there will be sex in heaven said the "rewards of sex; intimacy, love and ecstasy" will be there but not the act itself.

Helms' support wanes

By JACK ANDERSON AND DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — North Carolina's conservative stalwart, Republican Sen. Jesse Helms, is being the center in two popularity contests as he seeks to re-elect Helms as his own money to buy 15 failing Texas savings and loans.

In the December 1988 deal, James M. Fall, a Phoenix insurance executive with past legal problems, purchased the insolvent savings and loans using borrowed money and the promised federal subsidies.

Fall put up only $1,000 of his own money and borrowed $60 million to purchase the institutions, said Fall consolidated the S&Ls into the Dallas-based Bluebonnet Savings.

"We have been investigating the 1988 (S&L rescue) deal that was made in the last month of 1988, and this is by far the worst of anything we've seen to date," Metzzenbaum said in a telephone interview Sunday.

"The fact is it's just an abomination," he said.

Today's hearing was scheduled by the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on antitrust, monopolies and business rights, which Metzzenbaum chairs.

Metzenbaum said that M. Danny Wall, who was chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board when the deal was approved, refused to appear before the panel. Others who declined to appear, Metzzenbaum said, included Robert J. Thompson, a lobbyist and former congressional liaison to President Bush when he was vice president.

Thompson, according to investigators, pushed for approval of the Fall deal, and in 1989 borrowed more than $500,000 from companies controlled by Fall.

Congressional sources confirmed an account in Sunday editions of the New York Times, which said federal payments helped Bluebonnet become the nation's most profitable large savings and loan last year.

Financial regulators have said high rates of return in such cases are indicators that the federal government failed to negotiate a good deal.

Congress probes S&L takeovers

WASHINGTON — A Senate panel is investigating a federally approved deal in which an Arizona man was promised $1.8 billion in subsidies while putting up only $1,000 of his own money to buy 15 failing Texas savings and loans.

In the December 1988 deal, James M. Fall, a Phoenix insurance executive with past legal problems, purchased the insolvent savings and loans using borrowed money and the promised federal subsidies.

Hitchcock battles its way back to life

By KIM S. MARTIN
The Associated Press

BARKHAMSTEAD — The smell of sawdust, varnish and wood glue once again pervade the air around the Hitchcock Chair factory on the banks of the Farmington River in this tiny northeastern Connecticut town.

But for two weeks this spring, the smells, along with the sounds of wood saws and sanders, were conspicuously absent after the factory was forced to close because of a leveraged buyout gone bad.

Hitchcock sent home 146 employees on May 22 when the Bank of Boston threatened to foreclose on a $6.4 million loan, and nine days later filed for protection from its creditors under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code.

"Everyone was just in shock," Hitchcock President Alan MacKenzie said recently. "These are people who really like to work and I felt like we let them down."

MacKenzie expressed bitterness at the bank's action, noting that it came even though Hitchcock had a potential buyer waiting in the wings.

Indeed, the factory was back in limited production by June 11, thanks largely to a $4 million offer from London & Virginia Investments Corp., a British-owned, Virginia-based furniture company that bought Hitchcock's eight retail stores in 1989.

But now, all transactions must be approved by the U.S. Bankruptcy Court at Hartford. Hitchcock must await a July 19 hearing to find out if London & Virginia Investment Corp.'s bid to acquire Hitchcock is approved.

The $4 million will be divided among Hitchcock's creditors and London & Virginia will provide additional capital to keep Hitchcock in production, MacKenzie said.

Hitchcock chairs are still hand-stenciled and the rush seats are also done by hand. The early American stencils are designed by the employees who MacKenzie calls artists and craftsmen. About 40 workers are back at the factory, a focal point of the tiny Riverton section of Barkhamstead.

The typical Hitchcock chair features a rush seat, stencils and a slat back. Specialty chairs, which can range from $200 to $1,000, are also produced. These include increasing workers' share of premiums and imposing higher deductibles.

But these changes "do not appear to have had a major impact on curbing the health insurance cost spiral," the researchers said.

For example, they said the more workers are asked to pay for health insurance premiums, "some may reason that they have to use it to get their money's worth," driving up overall costs. "Employees and their dependents may feel less need to use a benefit for which they do not pay directly."

But Levitt predicts that as health care costs continue to squeeze businesses and government, consumers will be asked to pay more.

Spending is down on personal health

By DEBORAH MESSE
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Despite spiraling health care costs, Americans are using a smaller chunk of their income for out-of-pocket medical expenses than they were 30 years ago, a team of government economists reports.

The bite is about the same as in 1972-73, said the Health Care Financing Administration researchers.

The reason, says Katharine R. Levitt, is that private insurance is providing more benefits — in large part because states are requiring more coverage — and employers have been unsuccessful in shifting the costs of better coverage to workers.

"That's bound to change, she predicts, as consumers are pressured to carry a larger share of the burden. In 1988, spending from all sources for health care in the United States was nearly $540 billion — more than 11 percent of the gross national product that year, Levitt said.

The figures tallied by Levitt, Mark Freeman and Dan Waldo are the latest comprehensive figures available. They include the cost of health care for the nation's 228 billion.

National health expenditures have risen by more than 11 percent annually over the past three decades, Interior Department should demand a bigger piece of the pie — raising fees and shortening contracts — and place the money back into parks instead of into entrepreneurs' pockets.

Americans used about 5 percent of their after-tax income in 1988 on health care expenses — including their share of insurance premiums and out-of-pocket costs. But in 1972-73 and lower than the 6.1 percent of after-tax income used for health care expenses in 1960-61, the researchers reported.

Over the nearly three decades, the bite taken out of the paycheck for health insurance premiums rose slightly, from 1.6 percent to 1.8 percent. But the proportion for medical services and supplies dropped from 4.5 percent to 3.1 percent, their report said.

Shearson agrees to pay record $500k fine

NEW YORK (AP) — Shearson Lehman Hutton Inc. has agreed to pay the New York Stock Exchange a record $500,000 fine to settle allegations that it violated exchange rules in buying E.F. Hutton & Co. stock in 1986, the NYSE said.

Shearson agreed to pay the fine without admitting or denying wrongdoing, the NYSE said Friday. According to the NYSE, Shearson violated exchange rules in 1986 by failing to announce on the exchange floor as it bought a 4.9 percent stake in Hutton that the shares were intended for Shearson's own account, as opposed to a customer's account.

Mushroom argument leads to arrest

MERIDEN (AP) — It wasn't the anchovies, it was the mushrooms that prompted a family argument and led to a local man barricading himself inside his parents home with an arsenal of weapons.
After a fight with his stepister over pizza, a 29-year-old Edward Biafore locked himself inside the house and refused to come out Thursday morning.
He didn't want mushrooms, said Gina Margery, Biafore's girlfriend.
For three hours, a dozen police officers and a SWAT team waited and watched after Biafore's stepister, Michelle Rapp, told police he had hit her on the head with a gun and threatened her during the argument.

Pleasure cruise has new meaning

By GRETTEL WIKLE The Associated Press
WINDSOR, Ontario — Lace and spandex pool away readily about the Wayward Princess, a Detroit River cruise ship where men delight in discarded G-strings and women watch musclemen shed double-breasted suits.
The 110-foot, three-decked vessel opened for a preview voyage Thursday with dozens of photographers and reporters getting the first peek at the sexy gyrations of one male and four female dancers.
"I'm doing it for the fun of it," said Jacques Beauchamp, who developed the nude-dancing cruises when his business of renting the boat for private parties waned.
"I think we are going to prove that it's just a good thing for the city of Windsor."
Ontario strippers, unlike their Michigan counterparts, are allowed to remove all clothing in establishments where alcohol is sold.
Windsor, a city of about 195,000 people, lies across the Detroit River from Detroit. It regularly attracts U.S. visitors to downtown clubs where women dance nude on stage or, for $5 a song, atop a box next to the table.
Beauchamp had staged chartered strip shows on the Wayward Princess until Windsor officials revoked his license two years ago. The city gradually approved a license two weeks ago.

"Personally, I'd rather not see it," city licensing Commissioner Ronald Reume said. "But we're not there to license the morality of the situation."
Beauchamp could face fines or imprisonment if the Wayward Princess crosses the river's international boundary, said Detroit police Officer Dan Smith. Neither Detroit police nor the U.S. Coast Guard could say what penalties are involved.
Kara, a tall brunette with braces and a deep tan, opened the show Thursday with a dance to the song "All Around the World." The 21-year-old Detroit-area woman, who didn't give her full name, straddled around the tiny stage in nothing but a G-string. The G-strings will drop on subsequent cruises.
"It's kind of exciting because it's the only boat in the world that's a strip bar... where you can get totally nude," Kara said.
Zsolt Szanazi, 22, immigrated to Windsor from Hungary three years ago. He worked several jobs before he discovered stripping. Nudity on the water will offer audiences an extra allure, he said.
"It is going to be more exciting for people on board," Szanazi said.

Motorcycle send off nets hospital stay

NORTH MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP) — A bride who got onto her husband's Harley Davidson while still wearing her wedding gown spent the night in a hospital after it got caught in the motorcycle's back wheel.
Denise Hudson and her husband, Lee, planned to ride to Raleigh, N.C., for a Grateful Dead concert after getting married July Fourth at a park.
But the train of Mrs. Hudson's full-length gown got caught and dragged her under the bike. Mrs. Hudson, 28, suffered a broken pelvis and a concussion.
"She's skinned and sore. It could have been worse," said Hudson, 30, who received minor cuts and bruises.
Paramedics had to cut the cream-colored gown to pieces to free her.
Mrs. Hudson will have to spend the next few days in Grand Strand General Hospital, and the next few weeks recovering from her injuries.
"We can always have another honeymoon," her husband said.

MUSIC IN THE AIR — French tightrope walker Philippe Pett carries an oversized G clef during his performance at the Paris American Center ground-breaking ceremony Wednesday. Pett also is known for a high-wire walk he made to the Eiffel Tower last year to celebrate the 200th anniversary of the declaration of human rights.

For gum, it's got to be yucky enough

By BRYAN WALPURT Waterbury Republican
WATERBURY — Gum marketers have long known that kids can bubble. But one company is finding kids can burst a marketer's bubble, too.
In a bid for Waterbury's youth bite, Bethel-based Gumster Inc. blew into the bubblegum market in January with Yuckies Bubblegum, a combination gum trading card and prize package being test marketed in Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New York.
It's not had gum, say distributors — local disc jockeys who used it as the basis for an on-air promotion.
And it's more than a good chew: included among the 25 gumballs are added prizes, such as gum-scented pens, mini-Frisbees and 24 collector cards featuring cartoon characters.
At 69 cents a pop, Gumsters says, it's everything a kid could want.
"Exciting, constantly changing premiums, coupled with the continuing Yuckie collector card series provide the incentive for kids to keep buying," said John Gould, one of the developers of the product.
That's the theory. The problem: Waterbury kids aren't saying yum to Yuckies.
In fact, they're saying very little about the product at all.
Few stores want to carry it, said Jackie Greenwood, owner of Bozzuto's Candy Division Inc., a Freight Street wholesaler that sells candy to about 200 stores. And she said she won't buy the chewy product, the gum is sticking to the shelves.
After approaching about 100 stores and selling it to one, Ms. Greenwood gave up. "We have other things to work on," she said.
Greenwood said, "Nobody's moving the gum."
Why not? One reason is the marketing plan — or lack thereof, she said. What Yuckies need is a little television exposure to get the gumballs rolling, she said.
As evidence, she points to the hot collector card packages in stores now. They include those featuring New Kids on the Block or Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles — names with high visibility, she said.
But Jim Amrein, president of Gumsters' parent company Amrein Marketing Associates in Westport, said a limited budget means television is out of the picture. Instead, the company bought mailing lists for a number of child publications, including Weekly Reader, Amrein said, direct mailing a few collector cards could pique the interest of the 6-to-12-year-old target group.
Gumsters is also looking for a little word of mouth. The company's New York-based public relations firm a few weeks back sent samples to 39 radio stations, including morning disc jockeys Ed Fairbanks and Dean Graham at Country 92.5 WWPZ in Hartford, Waterbury and New Haven.
Like a number of other radio stations, the station picked up on the item and, after a test chew, Fairbanks and Graham began an on-air giveaway promotion. Several weeks ago, the two DJ's asked listeners to call with yucky day stories and then sent Yuckies to the most interesting storytellers — along WWPZ mugs, key chains and bumper stickers.
The low-key strategy is working in some places. Leslie Corbett, a buyer at a Norwalk wholesaler, said that through her sales to retailers were slow initially, about 800 bought the gum and a few have reordered.
"It's starting to catch on," said Ms. Corbett, who works for S&S Tobacco and Candy Co. Inc. "It's a good looking package."
Ms. Corbett remains confident the product will take off. But Ms. Greenwood finds that hard to evaluate. Advertising, she said, is only half the battle. Though she agrees nothing's wrong with the gum, the package, as a total concept, has its faults.
"Kids will buy baseball cards and Snickers bars before they buy Yuckies," she said. "It's too high-priced and there's nothing in there." Amrein, of course, disagrees.
Another problem: Even with flavors like vomit and purpl peppermint, Yuckies isn't yucky enough. "What's gross for kids to eat? One item now watering young mouths is Pock and Chew, a nose-shaped container that dispenses pieces of green gum. Another current favorite: Slime Slurp.
Still, for all Ms. Greenwood's pessimism, her daughter and sales representative, Lisa, remains hopeful. Quality-wise, she said, Yuckies is top notch.
"There's nothing wrong with the product," Lisa Greenwood said.

Police sketch the "Dartman"

By RICHARD PYLE The Associated Press
NEW YORK — The so-called Dartman has struck again, his 46th female victim since June 26, police say.
In releasing a sketch of the man who fires darts at women, police said Thursday that women should not panic, saying that needles and pins recovered had not been doctored in any way and there was no indication of an AIDS infection resulting from an attack.
Chief of Detectives Joseph DeMartino said the latest victim found a homemade dart dangling from the "backside of her clothing" when she returned to her office from a lunchtime shopping trip shortly after 1 p.m. Thursday.
Like 17 darts recovered from other attacks, it was made from a pin or needle with a paper stabilizer and probably was blown through a straw, somewhat like a pea-shooter, DeMartino said.
The Thursday attack apparently occurred as the woman walked on Seventh Avenue between 34th and 36th streets.
All the victims were women, usually wearing business clothes or skirts, DeMartino said. Thursday's victim was the first black woman to report an attack; all the others were "light skinned females," he said.
The police sketch of the Dartman, as New York's tabloids have dubbed the city's latest unusual criminal, shows a black man with a mustache and receding hairline. Police say he is 5-foot-6 to 5-foot-8 inches tall, weighing 135 to 150 pounds, possibly wearing glasses and carrying a black bag.
DeMartino said the man approaches his victims from behind and shoots the home-made darts at them through a straw or something similar. He has not spoken to any of the victims, DeMartino said.
All the attacks have occurred on busy streets in a midtown area from 21st to 34th streets and Madison and Seventh avenues, encompassing the garment district, Times Square and Rockefeller Center.

Perkins named new UConn AD

Move confirmed this morning

STORRS (AP) — Lew Perkins, the athletic director at the University of Maryland, was named the University of Connecticut's new athletic director today. Perkins, a close friend of Connecticut basketball coach Jim Calhoun, replaces Todd Turner, who accepted the job of athletic director at North Carolina State April 20.

Perkins is the director of the University of Connecticut's basketball program since 1987. He is also the former athletic director at the University of Maryland, where he served from 1982 to 1987.

Perkins is 45 and has served as athletic director at the University of Maryland for 11 years. He was previously at the University of Maryland for 11 years. He was previously at the University of Maryland for 11 years.

Perkins, a close friend of Jim Calhoun, replaces Todd Turner, who is now athletic director at North Carolina State.

SAFE AT FIRST — Texas first baseman Rafael Palmeiro (25) tries to corral a bad throw from Rangers pitcher Bobby Witt after Boston's Wade Boggs hit one of Witt in the seventh inning of the game Sunday night in Arlington, Texas. Boggs was safe on the play. The Rangers won in 11 innings, 4-3.

Daugherty lends a hand as Rangers nip the Bosox

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Jack Daugherty started the season for the Texas Rangers as a utility man and pinch hitter. He'd gone 2-1 in consecutive games without a homer prior to Sunday night.

Daugherty had a hand in all of Texas' runs as the Rangers completed a three-game series sweep of the Boston Red Sox with a 4-3 victory in 11 innings Sunday.

Daugherty tied the game, 3-3 in the bottom of the ninth with his second consecutive home run, a leadoff solo shot to right off reliever Jeff Kessinger. His two-run shot in the seventh, his first since last Aug. 11, narrowed Boston's lead to 3-2.

"I'd like to think this is the product of a lot of hard work," Daugherty said. "Kind of like Avit. When you're number two, you try harder."

Edberg calm in victory

WIMBLEDON, England — Stefan Edberg seems almost an afterthought at Wimbledon. He lacks the macho appeal of Boris Becker or the pathos of an obsessed Ivan Lendl.

Edberg is 23. He is not controversial or confrontational. His desire resides within, not to be flummoxed before the Centre Court crowd.

Edberg kept Becker off balance throughout the opening two sets by mixing crisp volleys, delicate lobs and sharp passing shots. The West German powered his way back into the match in the third and fourth sets.

Edberg is a player who tries all the time. He never really lets himself down and that's what makes him so difficult to play," Becker said.

Edberg rolled calmly through the tournament, knocking off opponents while attention was focused on Becker and Lendl.

Fun time planned at Wrigley

CHICAGO — Two All-Star Games would be played Tuesday night at Wrigley Field if Ernie Banks had his way.

In a way, Banks will still get his wish as an old-timer All-Star game was scheduled for this afternoon at Wrigley Field. Banks, of course, will probably take extra batting practice. He will be joined on the National League squad by former Cub teammates Ron Santo, Billy Williams and Ferguson Jenkins.

But not even Ernie would want these past heroes to play two. Maybe innings?

"I'm just going to go out and have fun with some old friends," Santo said. "I'm a Cubs broadcaster. I don't think I'll be hitting any home runs or stealing any bases."

The day before the real thing is an All-Star carnival of sorts. Bunting practice, Home Run Derby, old-timers game and an All-Star gala with some leftover fireworks from the Fourth of July.

Yankees on a pace to lose 100 games

NEW YORK (AP) — Greg Gagne thinks his Minnesota Twins have a pretty good batting order from top to bottom.

He acted like anything but the bottom batter Sunday.

"I think we have a pretty good lineup from 1-9," said Gagne, the ninth-place hitter, who doubled and homered, helping the Twins to a 6-3 victory over the New York Yankees.

Less than 48 hours later, Andy Hawkins of the New York Yankees became only the second major league pitcher to lose a complete game no-hit.

Two of the most successful managers of the 1980s — Whitey Herzog and Davey Johnson — are

Coughlin on all-star team

Kevin Coughlin is a member of the Manchester National Little League All-Star team that will begin District Eight play Tuesday night on the road at the South Windsor Americans.

His name was omitted from a list published on Saturday.

Ray Gilha an all-star starter

HARTFORD — Ray Gilha of Newman Lincoln-Mercury will be in the starting outfield for the Greater Hartford Twilight Baseball League All-Stars when it plays the Massachusetts Tri-County League All-Stars on Saturday, July 14, at Scot Park in Chicopee, Mass.

Newman's Dave Bidwell will be one of the pitchers for the Twilight League club while Gregg Contraccio, Bill Chapuis and Brian Crowley are among the reserves named.

McGovern wins Hogan Open

NEW HAVEN (AP) — Jim McGovern of Aradell, N.J., fired his second consecutive 5-under-par 65 Sunday to win the Ben Hogan New Haven Open by three strokes over second round leader Troy Tynier.

McGovern, who started with a birdie on the second hole at the 6,622-yard, par 70 Yale Golf Club, recorded 10 consecutive pars before making four birdies on holes 13 to 16. He finished with a 201 total.

Tynier, of Houston, Texas, held a two stroke advantage after the second round before a series of chances of winning died with bogeys on three out of four holes in the middle of the round. He finished second with a score of 204, shooting 2-over-par 72 for the day.

The win came McGovern $20,000 of the total $100,000 prize money. His other victory came at the Ben Hogan Lake City Classic. McGovern moves into second place on the Ben Hogan Tour money list with earnings of more than $69,000.

Britsox shut out Reading

NEW BRITAIN (AP) — Paul Quattrill hurled seven and a third innings of five-hit shutout baseball, and John Valentin scored the only run with a sacrifice fly in the seventh to lead the New Britain Red Sox to a 1-0 Eastern League victory Sunday over the Reading Phillies.

Quattrill struck out five and walked only two to raise record to 4-5. Don Florence, who relieved Quattrill in the seventh inning, worked one-third of the inning before relinquishing to Jeff Plympton who finished up and earned his 11th save.

In the seventh inning, Vinnie Defiglio went to a double, went to third on an error, and scored on Valentin's fly ball to center field. Defiglio led New Britain with a double and a single.

THE FIRST — Jeff Commings, 16, from Black Jack, Mo., waddles to the crowd after winning the gold medal in the 100-meter breaststroke at the Olympic Festival in Minneapolis. Commings is the first black swimmer to win a gold medal at the festival and also recorded the second fastest time over at 1:04.34.

Jacoby to replace Burks

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland infielder Brook Jacoby was added to the American League All-Star team Sunday to replace injured Boston outfielder Ellis Burks, giving the Indians three All-Stars for the first time since 1968.

Burks has a pulled hamstring and informed AL manager Tony La Russa of Oakland that he would be unable to play in Tuesday's game at Wrigley Field.

La Russa told Jacoby before Sunday night's Oakland-Cleveland game that he wanted him to replace Burks. Jacoby was hitting .314 with 11 home runs and 36 RBIs. He joins teammates Sandy Alomar, voted the starting catcher, and relief pitcher Doug Jones, selected previously by La Russa.

Leach, Pugh win doubles

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Top-seeded Rick Leach and Jim Pugh won the men's doubles title on Saturday, outlasting South Africans Pieter Aldrich and Danie Visser 7-6 (7-5), 7-6 (7-4), 7-6 (7-5).

The top-seeded women's pair Jana Novotna and Helena Sukova of Czechoslovakia also prevailed, 6-3, 6-4 over Kathy Jordan and Liz Smylie.

Archer wins senior classic

JERICHO, N.Y. (AP) — George Archer took advantage of a double-bogey by Frank Beard on the 17th hole and won the Long Island Classic seniors golf tournament by one stroke Sunday.

Archer, the second-round leader who fell behind three times through the first 16 holes, won the $67,500 top prize with an 8-under-par 208 total after a even-par 72 on the final round. Beard and Charles Coody tied for second.

Local club wins state TAC crown

By HERALD STAFF

NEW HAVEN — Ronnie's Runners, a new Greater Manchester Track Club, won the 1990 Connecticut TAC Championships Sunday at Bowen Field. Ronnie's Runners defeated more than 16 other participating track clubs.

Manchester native and 1987 Manchester High graduate Brian Brophy led the way with three first place finishes in the shot put (51 feet, 4 inches), high jump (6 feet, 4 inches) and the discus (159 feet, 1 inch).

Brophy, who placed second in the NCAA Division I Decathlon Championships last month, also took third in the 100-meter dash with a time of 11.80.

Other first places were garnered by Pat O'Neil in the 800 (2:02) and Tom Cary in the 1500 (4:08). Also, the 4 x 400-meter relay of Brian Brophy, Sean Toland, Mike Ford and O'Neil along with the 4 x 800 relay of Dan Cheney, Shaun Brophy, Todd Liscomb and Cary took respective first-place finishes.

Performing well for Ronnie's were Ford (second in the 800), Liscomb (third in the 5,000), Toland (third in the 800), Cheney (third in the 400), Troy Gaultelli (third in the javelin) and Shaun Brophy (fourth in the 5,000).

John Latini, Zack Allaire, Dave Wade and George Brophy also ran well for Ronnie's.

Greater Manchester's Ronnie's Runners Track Club was formed this year to further the interest of road racing and track and field in the community. For more information on club training and future competitions, call Shaun Brophy, president, at 646-7228.

Gibson closer to exiting L.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers' Kirk Gibson, who reportedly has requested a trade, may be closer to getting his wish following a vociferous argument with the team's vice president.

What began as a closed-door meeting Sunday among Gibson, vice president Fred Claire and Dodgers manager Tom Lasorda in Lasorda's office turned into a shouting match that could be heard throughout the clubhouse.

None of the principals would comment on the incident 90 minutes before the Dodgers played the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"We had a meeting with Kirk, and that's all I have to say," Claire said.

"If I wanted to let everybody know what our conversation was about, I wouldn't have closed the door," Lasorda said.

Gibson, who did not play on Saturday night's 4-1 victory but was in line for Sunday's 7-2 Dodger loss, had been the subject of stories two weeks ago that reported his desire to be traded to the Detroit Tigers, where he began his career.

Team sources told the Los Angeles Times that the meeting, called to discuss Gibson's status with the team, escalated into a quarrel when Claire began scolding Gibson. Claire criticized Gibson's attitude, saying he should think more about the team, the newspaper said.

Lasorda reportedly acted as a referee when the two men began talking about the chances of winning championships with biceps on three out of four holes in the middle of the round. He finished second with a score of 204, shooting 2-over-par 72 for the day.

The win came McGovern $20,000 of the total $100,000 prize money. His other victory came at the Ben Hogan Lake City Classic. McGovern moves into second place on the Ben Hogan Tour money list with earnings of more than $69,000.

Records falling at the Festival

By OWEN GANFIELD

The Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS — Records went by the wayside on the second full day of the U.S. Olympic Festival. So did a basketball rim.

Shaquille O'Neal, Louisiana State's 280-pound sophomore, sent a rim to the scrap heap early in the second quarter Sunday night with a dunk that left the fans outside Williams Arena gasping. But it also prompted a 15-minute delay that allowed the North to catch its breath.

The North, which trailed by 19 points in the first quarter, rallied to beat O'Neal and his South teammates 128-121.

"It seemed like the momentum changed after that rim got screwed up," South coach Dale Brown said.

O'Neal had 39 points, grabbed 14 rebounds and blocked seven shots. But the rim breaker — which left the rim hanging straight down — was the highlight.

"I saw him coming," Indiana recruit Damon Bailey said. "He took about four steps before he got to me. I started thinking 'What am I doing?'"

Figure skater Tonya Harding tried to do something no American woman had ever done, complete a triple Axel in competition. But during Sunday's long program, Harding fell after she veered too close to the wall.

"Today, everything was on to go ahead and go for it," she said. "After I fell, I thought, 'Oh, well.' It's just a triple Axel."

Harding fell three times during her routine and finished second to Nancy Kerrigan of Stoneham, Mass.

Kerrigan, who had narrowly missed a trip to the 1990 World Championships by finishing fourth in the U.S. Championships, followed her victory in Saturday's short program by winning the long program Sunday.

The men's champion was Erik Larson of San Diego, who finished fourth in the 1990 national championships. He was followed by Aeri Nielsen of Grandview, Mo. The bronze went to Doug Mattis of Philadelphia.

Jeff Commings of Black Jack, Mo., became the first black gold medalist in festival swimming history when he won the 100-meter breaststroke in 1 minute, 4.34 seconds. It was the fastest time in festival history, 13-hundredths of a second off the record set by Robert Smith in 1982.

"It makes a lot of people see that swimming is an all-around sport if you really work hard at it," Commings said. "It's not segregated sport."

Scott Townsend of The Dalles, Ore., set a record in the 500 freestyle, finishing in 23.26 seconds. That broke the record of 23.38 by John Sauerland in 1983.

Minnesota made it 5-1 in the fifth and knocked out Leary on Gary Giacini's RBI single, Brian Harper's RBI double and Bob Green's passed ball that allowed another run to score.

"Leary wasn't at the top of his game," Yankees manager Stump Merrill said.

"Today, we just didn't score enough runs. We had our chances early, but again, we just didn't capitalize," Merrill added.

New York sustained its 50th defeat in 80 games, keeping the club, but then West walked Leyritz for the third time and Mike Blowers, who had struck out twice earlier,

HOMEWARD DIVE — Detroit's Cecil Fielder makes a safe dive into home plate on a Chet Lemon triple while Kansas City catcher Rey Palacios waits for the throw in the third inning of their game Sunday in Detroit. The Tigers won, 10-4.

Brewers turn a blowout into one of their very own

By The Associated Press

The Milwaukee Brewers and California Angels proved again that no lead in baseball is ever safe until the final out.

California led Sunday's game at County Stadium 7-0 in the third inning, called to discuss Gibson's status with the team, escalated into a quarrel when Claire began scolding Gibson. Claire criticized Gibson's attitude, saying he should think more about the team, the newspaper said.

Lasorda reportedly acted as a referee when the two men began talking about the chances of winning championships with biceps on three out of four holes in the middle of the round. He finished second with a score of 204, shooting 2-over-par 72 for the day.

Bauer still Tour leader

BESANCON, France (AP) — Olaf Ludwig became the first East German to win a stage of the Tour de France on Sunday when he led a breakaway group of 13 riders in a sprint across the finish line.

Canada's Steve Bauer maintained his overall lead of 17 seconds, joining virtually all the other cyclists who finished 21 seconds behind Ludwig, and Roman Pencsek of France remained second.

American Greg LeMond, the two-time champion, remained 10:09 back after finishing fifth.

Wadkins five-stroke winner

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — Larry Wadkins shot a 3-under-par 68 and coasted to a five-stroke victory over Larry Mize with a tournament-record 266 total in the Anheuser-Busch Golf Classic on Sunday.

Wadkins' 18-under total on the Kingsmill Golf Club layout was one stroke better than the mark set by Ronnie Black in 1984 and matched by Mark Cumber in 1987. Wadkins earned $180,000 for his 19th career triumph.

Purizer wins her first

SYLVANIA, Ohio (AP) — Tina Tombs Purizer, who had finished no better than 15th in her previous LPGA tournaments, birdied five of the first six holes and crested part JoAnne Carner and Chris Johnson by four strokes Sunday in the Jamie Farr Toledo Classic.

Purizer's 5-under-par 66 gave her a 54-hole total of 205, 8-under for the Highland Meadows Golf Club. The victory was worth $48,750.

Brendal loses WBA crown

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Aaron Davis dropped Mark Breland in the third round, then put him away with a crushing right in the ninth to win Breland's World Boxing Association welterweight title on Sunday.

Davis, whose vision was hampered for most of the fight by a badly swollen right eye, staggered Breland several times with his powerful left, but missed with his right until the final blow with four seconds left in the ninth round.

Paez gets to keep title

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Jorge Paez, who beat Troy Dorsey by split decision five months ago in a featherweight title fight, kept the title by an even slimmer margin Sunday when he and Dorsey battled to a 12-round draw.

Paez, making the eighth defense of his International Boxing Federation title in 23 months, bloodied Dorsey and closed the challenger's right eye, but the relentless Dorsey pulled out the final round on all three scorecards to salvage a draw.

Hill retains WBA crown

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — Virgil Hill retained his World Boxing Association light heavyweight crown for the ninth time, winning a unanimous 12-round decision Saturday over Tyrone Frazier.

All three judges scored the bout 120-108 in favor of Hill, who improved his record to 28-0. Frazier, who has fought as a super middleweight most of his career, is 17-2-3.

Fire mares race finish

CLEVELAND (AP) — A scary pit fire spoiled a strong showing by Al Unser Jr. on Sunday and allowed Danny Sullivan to race off to his first victory of the season and third of his career in the Cleveland Grand Prix.

Unser led all but six of the first 62 laps at Burke Lakefront Airport and appeared a good bet to take his third victory of the season before a head-bite was supposed to be a routine stop.

As his crew serviced his car, it appeared the nozzle on the fuel hose missed its receptacle and melted from the heat, blasting onto the vehicle and momentarily blowing out flame.

Unser, who had his helmet visor up on the hot afternoon, was sprayed with fuel, irritating his eyes. He was flown by helicopter to University Hospital for a chest X-ray and observation, but was expected to be released.

Sullivan, who had been running just over one second behind Unser, led the rest of the 105-lap, 201.4-mile race, beating Bobby Kahal, Unser's teammate, to the finish line by 5.02 seconds.

Earnhardt takes Pepsi 400

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Dale Earnhardt earned his first Winston Cup victory at Daytona International Speedway on Saturday with a dominant performance in the crash-marred Pepsi 400.

A pileup on the 36th lap damaged at least 23 cars in the 40-car field. No one was hurt. Officials stopped the race for 36 minutes so wreackage could be removed from the track. Twenty-three cars were running when the race resumed, 11 others later returned to the track.

Earnhardt, a three-time Winston Cup season champion, overcame his run of bad luck at Daytona, leading for 114 of the first 135 laps.

West Germany takes Cup title

By BARRY WILNER

ROME — Franz Beckenbauer took West Germany from the depths of depression to the soccer summit. He's leaving the game at the top, and with a warning.

"We are the champions now," Beckenbauer said Sunday night after leading West Germany to its third World Cup title with a 1-0 victory over defending champion Argentina. "You can presume that we will have a broader choice of players. I think a (united) German team will be unbeatable. I'm sorry, folks."

Beckenbauer and his team have nothing to be sorry for — they were the best in the field. After two straight runner-up finishes, the Germans emphatically put their mark on a tournament beset by overly conservative tactics and too much fouling.

"That's how Argentina played in the final, in which Pedro Monzon and Gustavo Dezoti became the first players to be ejected from a World Cup final. The Argentinians had one shot on net, they hardly ever ventured forward and their worst foul gave the Germans a penalty kick with six minutes to go.

Andreas Brehme took it after Rudi Voeller was brought down in the penalty area by Roberto Sensi. He put it in, sparking minor celebrations.

"The big festivities came a few moments later as West Germany became the third country with three world soccer championships. Brazil and Italy also have done it.

"We knew we were the best," said Beckenbauer, the first man to captain and coach the World Cup winner; he led the Germans to the 1974 championship as a player. "We played today like we played during the entire tournament, with full pressure. I have to compliment my team. I don't think there was another team that deserved more to win the World Cup."

Beckenbauer says he now is retired from coaching. "There is nothing more you could win," said the man who took charge of the German program in 1974 after the team was eliminated in the first round of the European championships.

As for runners he might be headed to the United States to assume command of the American program for the 1994 World Cup, to be played there, he said, "If the U.S. needs me, they will have to call. I wouldn't go there as a coach."

"One person doesn't help out U.S. soccer. You need a consortium to organize a team. The United States has a lot of time set things up, but they have to get things moving. I firmly believe in America, but the U.S. team is going to have to contribute."

Beckenbauer leaves behind a highly skilled collection of West German players who soon could be supplemented by Americans. This also is not an old team but by any means and most of the players still will be in their prime for the next World Cup.

This World Cup was a showcase for the Germans' speed, savvy and power. Only in the semifinal against England, which went to a penalty kick shootout, did they falter.

Against Argentina, they set the tone at the beginning and never stopped. The goal was well-earned, although the Argentinians screamed long and loud about it — on the field and off.

"Our players ran hard, but then came this (the referee) who ruled everything for us," captain Diego Maradona said of referee Edgardo Codas of Mexico. "This man was scared that we would get to penalties (in a shootout)."

"He wanted to make the Italian people happy," after Argentina eliminated Italy in the semifinals. "The black hand of this man expelled (Pedro) Monzon for a normal action and later he called a penalty against us from his imagination."

What the Argentinies did at the final whistle was almost beyond imagination. The Argentinians were in the field and angrily disputed the penalty against Sensi. Argentina coach Carlos Bilardo rushed onto the field

WORLD CUP CHAMPIONS — West Germany soccer player Andreas Brehman, who scored the winning goal, is lifted on the shoulder of a teammate amid a team celebration following West Germany's 1-0 win over Argentina in the World Cup final Sunday in Rome.

England, which went to a penalty kick shootout, did they falter.

Against Argentina, they set the tone at the beginning and never stopped. The goal was well-earned, although the Argentinians screamed long and loud about it — on the field and off.

What the Argentinies did at the final whistle was almost beyond imagination. The Argentinians were in the field and angrily disputed the penalty against Sensi. Argentina coach Carlos Bilardo rushed onto the field and had to pull his players away from the referee, one by one.

"I don't express opinions on refs. I don't choose them, FIFA chooses them," said Bilardo, who also is retiring. "Argentina in no way asks for any refs and I don't comment on them."

It was the Germans who made the most profound statement in the most fabled World Cup ever. A total of 170 yellow cards and 16 red cards were handed out.

"All these great things happened for us because we made them," said captain Lothar Mathaus, who has been sold by Beckenbauer to take any penalty kicks awarded this team during the game. Instead, he told Brehme to take it.

"Finally, we won a World Cup after all these tries." The Germans have been in a record six finals. Their other title came in 1954.

"We had to wait a long time to win," said Beckenbauer, who doesn't think the Germans will wait much longer to do it again.
