

THE WINNER — Race car driver Emerson Fittipaldi of Brazil sprays champagne after winning the Bosch Spark Plug Grand Prix Sunday at the Pennsylvania International Raceway in Nazareth, Pa. Fittipaldi's team-mate Rick Meeks placed second.

In Brief . . .

Inspired Bruins beat Quebec
QUEBEC (AP) — Maybe the possibility of a tie with the lowly Quebec Nordiques was the inspiration the Boston Bruins needed.

Nuggets sign Chris Jackson
DENVER (AP) — Former LPGA champion Chris Jackson, the third player selected in the NBA draft, signed a contract Sunday with the Denver Nuggets for a reported $10 million over four years.

Kimble, Clippers reach accord
INDUSTRY, Calif. (AP) — Bo Kimble, the eighth player selected in the NBA draft, signed a contract Saturday with the Los Angeles Clippers. Terms of the contract were not disclosed.

Becker tops Edberg for title
SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Second-seeded Boris Becker defeated top-seeded Stefan Edberg 7-6 (7-4), 6-4, 6-4 in the final of the Australian Open championship Sunday.

Navratilova net champion
ESSEN, Germany (AP) — Martina Navratilova beat Jana Novotna 6-2, 6-1 in the final of the Nokia Masters on Sunday.

Daniel takes Cent Classic
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Beth Daniel captured the LPGA's Cent Classic on Sunday with a final round of 69 when Nancy Lopez missed a 4-foot putt on the 18th hole that would have forced a playoff.

Tallahassee Fla. (AP) — Beth Daniel captured the LPGA's Cent Classic on Sunday with a final round of 69 when Nancy Lopez missed a 4-foot putt on the 18th hole that would have forced a playoff.

Sheehan shot a 72 and finished third at BTE.

Should the pollsters look past Virginia.

SCOREBOARD

Table with columns for Golf, Tallwood, Country Club, and Texas Open scores. Includes names of players and their scores.

Jets, Giants midget football winners

MANCHESTER — Action in the Manchester Midget Football League last Friday night at Mount Nebo's Carlin Memorial Field saw the Jets edge the Patriots, 14-12, in the first game and the Giants wallop the Raiders, 33-0, in the nightcap.

Patriots see possible win go sliding away

By HOWARD ULMAN
The Associated Press
FOXBORO, Mass. — Time was running out on Seattle. It trailed 20-19 and had a third-and-19 with less than three minutes to go. But the Seahawks were full of hope.

Race for No. 1 in college ranks remains wide open

By JIMMY GOLEN
The Associated Press
In the race for No. 1, the number one college program.

TUESDAY LOCAL NEWS INSIDE

- Irish, Fogarty named to review.
- Town workers put efforts into news.
- Bolton seeks municipal conservation.
- Ed board to revisit drug policy.

Manchester Herald

Your Hometown Newspaper Voted 1990 New England Newspaper of the Year

Senate debate focuses on finance

By RICK SANTOS
Manchester Herald
MANCHESTER — Primarily focusing on the issue of Connecticut's fiscal problems, Fourth Senatorial District candidates, incumbent Democrat Michael P. Mouti and Republican challenger Sonya Goggins, squared off in a debate Monday.

No confidence vote is sought against counsel

By ALEX GIRELLI
Manchester Herald
MANCHESTER — Attorney Richard Woodhouse, a member of the town's Pension Board, said today he will request a no confidence vote to be conducted for members of the board and for two Republican Town Directors who attended an executive session of the board.

Forbes richest get poorer

By RICK GLADSTONE
The Associated Press
NEW YORK — The super-rich are getting a dose of what many Americans already know: rough economic times.

Bush signs budget

By STEVEN KOMAROW
The Associated Press
WASHINGTON — President Bush signed an emergency spending bill today restoring business as usual for the federal government, and said he would do "everything in my power" to see that Congress follows up with a five-year plan to cut the deficit by $500 billion.

Souter takes seat

By JAMES H. RUBIN
The Associated Press
WASHINGTON — David H. Souter, a mild-mannered, well-read and previously little-known judge from New Hampshire, became history's 105th Supreme Court justice today after pledging to "do equal right to the poor and to the rich."

Parents will sell son

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — An estranged couple has offered to sell one of their three sons, Benjamin, 21 months; Andrew, 4; and David, 7.

More Scoreboard — see page 16

What's News

Oct. 9, 1990
Desert Shield now a game
BALTIMORE (AP) — You've seen it on television and in the papers, now here's the board game — Desert Shield.

YMCA death called suspicious
TORRINGTON (AP) — Torrington police are searching for clues in the apparent slaying of a man whose body was discovered at the YMCA.

Large vertical advertisement for 'CREST INFORMATION TECHNOLOGIES, CEAR RAPIDS, IOWA'. Includes text: 'FILMED BY THE PROFESSIONALS AT CREST INFORMATION TECHNOLOGIES, CEAR RAPIDS, IOWA'. Features a large '0' graphic.

NATION/WORLD

Government arrests nine past officials

By ANDRZEJ STYLINSKI
The Associated Press

WARSAW, Poland — Authorities have arrested two retired Interior Ministry generals and charged them with masterminding the 1984 murder of popular pro-Solidarity priest Jerzy Popieluszko.

Prosecutors on Monday also announced the arrests of a former interior minister and six others on corruption charges.

The arrests represent the first efforts by the Solidarity-led government to prosecute former Communist officials for abuses committed during four decades of authoritarian rule.

When Prime Minister Tadeusz Mazowiecki became the East bloc's first non-Communist government leader last year, he said there would be no "which hums" or setting of scores with former Communist officials.

Unlike other budding democracies in Eastern Europe, there were no arrests of ousted former high-ranking officials.

But Mazowiecki is now running the security services for many years, called the arrests that began Thursday that he would be challenging the Solidarity chief.

Poland's general prosecutor, Aleksander Herzig, named the two men arrested in Popieluszko's death as former Deputy Interior Minister Wladyslaw Cielonow and Zenon Platka, former head of the ministry department that had monitored the Roman Catholic church.

The two generals were presented with charges that in September and October 1984, they instigated their subordinates to kill the Rev. Jerzy Popieluszko, and on Oct. 19 they directed the realization of the murder, Herzig said in a television interview.

Herzig said that in September and October 1984, they instigated their subordinates to kill the Rev. Jerzy Popieluszko, and on Oct. 19 they directed the realization of the murder, Herzig said in a television interview.

Oil-spill auction lures 7,000 bidders

By JULIA RUBIN
The Associated Press

ANCHORAGE, Alaska — Thousands of prospective buyers have signed up to bid for Exxon Corp.'s massive store of surplus oil spill clean-up gear at a three-day auction beginning today.

On the block the first day are a seaplane, 38 mobile homes near Valdez, brand-new fishing nets, and assorted tools, boats, and motors.

The amount of interest has been enormous. It's the largest number of people we've ever had at an auction sale," said Mackay. The Vancouver, British Columbia, auctioneer conducts more than 70 large auctions annually.

Richie Bros, earlier had predicted that about 5,000 people would register as potential bidders and that the auction would bring in more than $10 million.

Seven thousand people had signed up by today and Mackay said he couldn't estimate how much more money the auction might yield with the higher number of bidders.

The merchandise is part of 33,000 tons of material moved to Anchorage last fall for storage after the summer oil-spill cleanup effort, said Exxon spokesman Karsten Rodvik.

The Exxon Valdez tanker spilled nearly 11 million gallons of crude oil into Alaska's Prince William Sound in March 1989 in the nation's biggest oil spill. Exxon crews worked to mop up shorelines that summer and this one, and plan to return for a shoreline survey next spring.

Rodvik said the company is keeping enough equipment to conduct whatever additional cleanup is necessary. Specialized oil-spill equipment like skimmers and booms aren't being sold.

The auction has drawn potential bidders from as far away as Florida and Hawaii, said Mackay. More bidders can sign up over the next three days.

In a sign of the party's troubles concerning property, the Ternopol city council in the western Ukraine voted Monday to seize all property belonging to the regional party branch. It transferred buildings and other assets to control of municipal government authorities, Tass reported.

Gorbachev said work on an economic reform plan has entered its "final stage" and will incorporate aspects of programs by Prime Minister Nikolai Ryzhkov and economist Stanislav Shatalin, a member of the advisory Presidential Council.

"This will not be some kind of compromise document with rounded corners and fuzzy positions, but a program able to rally all sections of society," he promised.

The Supreme Soviet legislature has set up a committee to combine several programs on rescuing the Soviet economy and report back by Oct. 15.

The most radical reform proposal, written by Shatalin, calls for scrapping the central planning system and moving to a market economy within 500 days by selling factories — private owners and breaking up collective farms.

The Ryshkov plan would leave the government in control of most of the economy while gradually allowing some free enterprise.

Gorbachev has backed a compromise that contains many elements of the 500-day plan, but at a slower pace. He also wants to try a referendum to decide whether to return land to private farmers.

Four secret policemen from Platka's department were convicted in the crime, which helped rally pro-democracy forces in predominantly Catholic Poland at a time the Solidarity free trade union movement had been forced underground.

Two of those convicted have been paroled, but two others remain in jail.

The politically charged investigation that led to their conviction did not find involvement by their superiors.

The prosecutor's office opened a new investigation into the Popieluszko case on July 24, three weeks after the resignation of Interior Minister Gen. Czeslaw Kiszczak. He was in charge of the secret and uniformed police forces at the time of Popieluszko's killing.

The officials who replaced Kiszczak as head of the Interior Ministry is systematically purging the department of officials.

In a front-page commentary in Gazeta Wyborcza today, journalist Jerzy Jachowicz, who has covered the security services for many years, called the arrests that began Thursday "unprecedented."

He wrote: "A great number of former functionaries of the Interior Ministry were arrested, among them a man who even in the 1980s held the highest party and state positions. At that time, an especially repressive and ruthless fight against any manifestation of social independence was being carried out."

Among those arrested on corruption charges was former Interior Minister Gen. Miroslaw Milewski, a one-time Communist Party Politburo member and a Central Committee secretary.

Milewski, 62, worked for the security service from 1944 at least until 1981. He was interior minister in 1980-81.

Kiszczak replaced Milewski as interior minister in July 1981.

Among those arrested on corruption charges was former Interior Minister Gen. Miroslaw Milewski, a one-time Communist Party Politburo member and a Central Committee secretary.

Milewski, 62, worked for the security service from 1944 at least until 1981. He was interior minister in 1980-81.

Kiszczak replaced Milewski as interior minister in July 1981.

Among those arrested on corruption charges was former Interior Minister Gen. Miroslaw Milewski, a one-time Communist Party Politburo member and a Central Committee secretary.

Milewski, 62, worked for the security service from 1944 at least until 1981. He was interior minister in 1980-81.

Kiszczak replaced Milewski as interior minister in July 1981.

Among those arrested on corruption charges was former Interior Minister Gen. Miroslaw Milewski, a one-time Communist Party Politburo member and a Central Committee secretary.

Milewski, 62, worked for the security service from 1944 at least until 1981. He was interior minister in 1980-81.

Kiszczak replaced Milewski as interior minister in July 1981.

Among those arrested on corruption charges was former Interior Minister Gen. Miroslaw Milewski, a one-time Communist Party Politburo member and a Central Committee secretary.

Milewski, 62, worked for the security service from 1944 at least until 1981. He was interior minister in 1980-81.

Kiszczak replaced Milewski as interior minister in July 1981.

Among those arrested on corruption charges was former Interior Minister Gen. Miroslaw Milewski, a one-time Communist Party Politburo member and a Central Committee secretary.

Milewski, 62, worked for the security service from 1944 at least until 1981. He was interior minister in 1980-81.

Kiszczak replaced Milewski as interior minister in July 1981.

Among those arrested on corruption charges was former Interior Minister Gen. Miroslaw Milewski, a one-time Communist Party Politburo member and a Central Committee secretary.

Milewski, 62, worked for the security service from 1944 at least until 1981. He was interior minister in 1980-81.

Kiszczak replaced Milewski as interior minister in July 1981.

Among those arrested on corruption charges was former Interior Minister Gen. Miroslaw Milewski, a one-time Communist Party Politburo member and a Central Committee secretary.

Milewski, 62, worked for the security service from 1944 at least until 1981. He was interior minister in 1980-81.

Kiszczak replaced Milewski as interior minister in July 1981.

WHEELCHAIR CHARIOT — Flick Ballou is pictured in the cockpit of his wheelchair chariot, a vehicle that gives the handicapped greater mobility. Ballou, a disabled Vietnam War veteran, says he hopes to build and market the vehicles.

Dozens arrested as protest over land turns violent

By ANDRZEJ STYLINSKI
The Associated Press

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — A protest over Aboriginal land rights turned violent today as a group of about 400 demonstrators ripped down the state Parliament's front gate and clashed with police.

A police spokesman said 11 protesters were arrested and charged with offenses ranging from assaulting police to malicious damage.

The violence broke out after several protesters scaled the iron gates of the New South Wales Parliament House and members of the increasingly irate crowd managed to rip out two sections of the gate.

Protesters poured toward Parliament's front door and were met by police reinforcements. Scuffles broke out as police battled to remove the protesters.

Police kept the protesters from entering the building. They managed to force the crowd back onto the street and formed a human chain to force the six-meter-wide hole in the fence.

The demonstrators took away a section of the cast-iron front gate and dumped it in the street. Chanting and waving signs, they also began throwing beer cans and rocks at police.

The march was organized to protest an alleged lack of consultation over changes that the state government plans in the Aboriginal Land Rights Act. The amended act is expected to be passed by the state Parliament's Upper House this week.

The party "should help society shed prejudice and fear of the market," he said.

The meeting of the 400-member Central Committee was its first since last year's party congress, which Gorbachev used to bolster his power.

But the congress failed to inspire new confidence in the party.

About 375,000 of its approximately 18 million members have quit this year, including Russian Federation President Boris Yeltsin and the mayors of Moscow and Leningrad. Another 275,000 people were either expelled from the party or stopped paying dues and assuming party functions.

Gorbachev, meanwhile, has hit a low in public opinion polls as some of the 15 republics exercise more independence.

Under growing popular pressure, the party earlier this year surrendered its constitutional monopoly on power.

Later Monday, deputy party leader Vladimir Ivashko said "the party does not renounce socialism" by encouraging market-oriented reforms.

In his speech, Gorbachev blamed the country's problems on the state monopoly on property and said workers would be given "reliable" guarantees they would benefit from the denationalization of state-run businesses.

In a sign of the party's troubles concerning property, the Ternopol city council in the western Ukraine voted Monday to seize all property belonging to the regional party branch. It transferred buildings and other assets to control of municipal government authorities, Tass reported.

Gorbachev said work on an economic reform plan has entered its "final stage" and will incorporate aspects of programs by Prime Minister Nikolai Ryzhkov and economist Stanislav Shatalin, a member of the advisory Presidential Council.

"This will not be some kind of compromise document with rounded corners and fuzzy positions, but a program able to rally all sections of society," he promised.

The Supreme Soviet legislature has set up a committee to combine several programs on rescuing the Soviet economy and report back by Oct. 15.

The most radical reform proposal, written by Shatalin, calls for scrapping the central planning system and moving to a market economy within 500 days by selling factories — private owners and breaking up collective farms.

The Ryshkov plan would leave the government in control of most of the economy while gradually allowing some free enterprise.

Soviets warned about inaction

By THOMAS GINSBERG
The Associated Press

MOSCOW — President Mikhail Gorbachev told high-ranking Communists on Monday they must embrace a market economy or risk losing power and causing greater party discord.

Speaking at the opening of a two-day Central Committee meeting, Gorbachev delivered one of his sternest warnings on reform.

"All our previous ideology presented socialism as an antipode to the market and viewed the recognition of a market as an encroachment upon socialism," Gorbachev said, according to the state news agency Tass.

"Yes, we are encroaching upon socialism, but only socialism that was built bureaucratically, which the country veered off the path it embarked upon in 1917," the year of the Bolshevik Revolution, he said.

Gorbachev, who also serves as the party's general secretary, said "the inertia of old thinking" is a "real danger to the party" if it hopes to regain the confidence of the people.

The party "should help society shed prejudice and fear of the market," he said.

The meeting of the 400-member Central Committee was its first since last year's party congress, which Gorbachev used to bolster his power.

But the congress failed to inspire new confidence in the party.

About 375,000 of its approximately 18 million members have quit this year, including Russian Federation President Boris Yeltsin and the mayors of Moscow and Leningrad. Another 275,000 people were either expelled from the party or stopped paying dues and assuming party functions.

Gorbachev, meanwhile, has hit a low in public opinion polls as some of the 15 republics exercise more independence.

Under growing popular pressure, the party earlier this year surrendered its constitutional monopoly on power.

Later Monday, deputy party leader Vladimir Ivashko said "the party does not renounce socialism" by encouraging market-oriented reforms.

In his speech, Gorbachev blamed the country's problems on the state monopoly on property and said workers would be given "reliable" guarantees they would benefit from the denationalization of state-run businesses.

In a sign of the party's troubles concerning property, the Ternopol city council in the western Ukraine voted Monday to seize all property belonging to the regional party branch. It transferred buildings and other assets to control of municipal government authorities, Tass reported.

Gorbachev said work on an economic reform plan has entered its "final stage" and will incorporate aspects of programs by Prime Minister Nikolai Ryzhkov and economist Stanislav Shatalin, a member of the advisory Presidential Council.

"This will not be some kind of compromise document with rounded corners and fuzzy positions, but a program able to rally all sections of society," he promised.

The Supreme Soviet legislature has set up a committee to combine several programs on rescuing the Soviet economy and report back by Oct. 15.

The most radical reform proposal, written by Shatalin, calls for scrapping the central planning system and moving to a market economy within 500 days by selling factories — private owners and breaking up collective farms.

The Ryshkov plan would leave the government in control of most of the economy while gradually allowing some free enterprise.

Gorbachev has backed a compromise that contains many elements of the 500-day plan, but at a slower pace. He also wants to try a referendum to decide whether to return land to private farmers.

Gorbachev has backed a compromise that contains many elements of the 500-day plan, but at a slower pace. He also wants to try a referendum to decide whether to return land to private farmers.

George Strait is top country music entertainer again

By JOE EDWARDS
The Associated Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — George Strait, who nearly quit singing 11 years ago, is the Country Music Association's top entertainer for the second straight year.

Strait, frustrated over a lack of success, considered giving up his career in 1979 to work for a company that designs cattle pens. He decided to keep going and soon became one of country music's top stars.

His second win of the association's most prestigious honor came Monday during the CMA's 24th annual awards show.

"They were both surprises," the 38-year-old singer said after the nationally televised show. "Everyone nominated certainly deserved to be there. But I'm glad they picked me."

Over the summer, he had the biggest hit record of his career, "Love Without End, Amen." His album "Livin' It Up" also has been a swift seller.

"It's hard not to be affected by this stuff," Strait said of his awards success.

The judge, a mother-daughter duo, were chosen best vocal duet for the third straight year.

"I have just one more space on my mantle. I was really hoping for this," daughter Wynonna Judd said.

Lorrie Morgan and her late husband, Keith Whitley, were vocal duet winners. Morgan added her award for being chosen for the Country Music Hall of Fame.

"Bless your little pea-pickin' hearts. Tonight I'm a happy man," said Ford, a TV pioneer known for his 1955 hit record "Sixteen Tons."

The Kentucky Headhunters, a five-piece band whose shaggy hair and rock 'n' roll stylings make them unlikely country music stars, won vocal group of the year and best album for "Pickin' on Nashville."

"Does this mean we get to keep our hair?" Jested Headhunters guitarist Greg Martin.

Another double winner was newcomer Garth Brooks, who won top music video for "The Dance" and the Horizon Award for career development. His music video included clips of former President John Kennedy, the Challenger crew and John Wayne.

Vince Gill, a singer who has done backup vocals for more than 100 of his peers, was rewarded by his friends when he won single of the year for "When I Call Your Name."

"I've been around for a long time and I've waited for this for a long time so I'm going to stand up here for a long time," Gill, 33, said in accepting the award.

The judge, a mother-daughter duo, were chosen best vocal duet for the third straight year.

"I have just one more space on my mantle. I was really hoping for this," daughter Wynonna Judd said.

Lorrie Morgan and her late husband, Keith Whitley, were vocal duet winners. Morgan added her award for being chosen for the Country Music Hall of Fame.

"Bless your little pea-pickin' hearts. Tonight I'm a happy man," said Ford, a TV pioneer known for his 1955 hit record "Sixteen Tons."

The Kentucky Headhunters, a five-piece band whose shaggy hair and rock 'n' roll stylings make them unlikely country music stars, won vocal group of the year and best album for "Pickin' on Nashville."

"Does this mean we get to keep our hair?" Jested Headhunters guitarist Greg Martin.

Another double winner was newcomer Garth Brooks, who won top music video for "The Dance" and the Horizon Award for career development. His music video included clips of former President John Kennedy, the Challenger crew and John Wayne.

Vince Gill, a singer who has done backup vocals for more than 100 of his peers, was rewarded by his friends when he won single of the year for "When I Call Your Name."

"I've been around for a long time and I've waited for this for a long time so I'm going to stand up here for a long time," Gill, 33, said in accepting the award.

The judge, a mother-daughter duo, were chosen best vocal duet for the third straight year.

"I have just one more space on my mantle. I was really hoping for this," daughter Wynonna Judd said.

Lorrie Morgan and her late husband, Keith Whitley, were vocal duet winners. Morgan added her award for being chosen for the Country Music Hall of Fame.

"Bless your little pea-pickin' hearts. Tonight I'm a happy man," said Ford, a TV pioneer known for his 1955 hit record "Sixteen Tons."

The Kentucky Headhunters, a five-piece band whose shaggy hair and rock 'n' roll stylings make them unlikely country music stars, won vocal group of the year and best album for "Pickin' on Nashville."

"Does this mean we get to keep our hair?" Jested Headhunters guitarist Greg Martin.

Government arrests former Polish officials

By ANDRZEJ STYLINSKI
The Associated Press

WARSAW, Poland — Authorities have arrested two retired Interior Ministry generals and charged them with masterminding the 1984 murder of popular pro-Solidarity priest Jerzy Popieluszko.

Prosecutors on Monday also announced the arrests of a former interior minister and six others on corruption charges.

The arrests represent the first efforts by the Solidarity-led government to prosecute former Communist officials for abuses committed during four decades of authoritarian rule.

When Prime Minister Tadeusz Mazowiecki became the East bloc's first non-Communist government leader last year, he said there would be no "which hums" or setting of scores with former Communist officials.

Unlike other budding democracies in Eastern Europe, there were no arrests of ousted former high-ranking officials.

But Mazowiecki is now running the security services for many years, called the arrests that began Thursday that he would be challenging the Solidarity chief.

Poland's general prosecutor, Aleksander Herzig, named the two men arrested in Popieluszko's death as former Deputy Interior Minister Wladyslaw Cielonow and Zenon Platka, former head of the ministry department that had monitored the Roman Catholic church.

The two generals were presented with charges that in September and October 1984, they instigated their subordinates to kill the Rev. Jerzy Popieluszko, and on Oct. 19 they directed the realization of the murder, Herzig said in a television interview.

Herzig said that in September and October 1984, they instigated their subordinates to kill the Rev. Jerzy Popieluszko, and on Oct. 19 they directed the realization of the murder, Herzig said in a television interview.

Among those arrested on corruption charges was former Interior Minister Gen. Miroslaw Milewski, a one-time Communist Party Politburo member and a Central Committee secretary.

Milewski, 62, worked for the security service from 1944 at least until 1981. He was interior minister in 1980-81.

Kiszczak replaced Milewski as interior minister in July 1981.

Among those arrested on corruption charges was former Interior Minister Gen. Miroslaw Milewski, a one-time Communist Party Politburo member and a Central Committee secretary.

Milewski, 62, worked for the security service from 1944 at least until 1981. He was interior minister in 1980-81.

Kiszczak replaced Milewski as interior minister in July 1981.

Among those arrested on corruption charges was former Interior Minister Gen. Miroslaw Milewski, a one-time Communist Party Politburo member and a Central Committee secretary.

Milewski, 62, worked for the security service from 1944 at least until 1981. He was interior minister in 1980-81.

Kiszczak replaced Milewski as interior minister in July 1981.

Among those arrested on corruption charges was former Interior Minister Gen. Miroslaw Milewski, a one-time Communist Party Politburo member and a Central Committee secretary.

Milewski, 62, worked for the security service from 1944 at least until 1981. He was interior minister in 1980-81.

Kiszczak replaced Milewski as interior minister in July 1981.

Among those arrested on corruption charges was former Interior Minister Gen. Miroslaw Milewski, a one-time Communist Party Politburo member and a Central Committee secretary.

Milewski, 62, worked for the security service from 1944 at least until 1981. He was interior minister in 1980-81.

Kiszczak replaced Milewski as interior minister in July 1981.

Among those arrested on corruption charges was former Interior Minister Gen. Miroslaw Milewski, a one-time Communist Party Politburo member and a Central Committee secretary.

Milewski, 62, worked for the security service from 1944 at least until 1981. He was interior minister in 1980-81.

Kiszczak replaced Milewski as interior minister in July 1981.

Among those arrested on corruption charges was former Interior Minister Gen. Miroslaw Milewski, a one-time Communist Party Politburo member and a Central Committee secretary.

Milewski, 62, worked for the security service from 1944 at least until 1981. He was interior minister in 1980-81.

Kiszczak replaced Milewski as interior minister in July 1981.

Among those arrested on corruption charges was former Interior Minister Gen. Miroslaw Milewski, a one-time Communist Party Politburo member and a Central Committee secretary.

Milewski, 62, worked for the security service from 1944 at least until 1981. He was interior minister in 1980-81.

Kiszczak replaced Milewski as interior minister in July 1981.

Discovery astronauts spend final full day in orbit

By LAURA TOLLEY
The Associated Press

SPACE CENTER, Houston — Discovery's astronauts awoke early today to begin their final full day of a nearly flawless mission in which they dispatched the Ulysses probe on a five-year journey to explore the sun.

The flight, NASA's first shuttle mission in nearly six months, is scheduled to end Wednesday morning at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif. Good weather is expected for the landing.

Commander Richard N. Richards and pilot Robert Cabana planned to run through a series of tests today to make sure Discovery's computers and control jets were ready for the fiery dive through the atmosphere and touchdown at the desert base.

Also, the crew of five was scheduled to stow cabin gear and retract the shuttle's robot arm back into the cargo bay. The arm was extended into space for an experiment.

Astronauts Bruce Melnick and Bill Shepherd were to run one more test of an experimental system that uses voice commands to control the shuttle camera. Shepherd has had trouble getting it to recognize his voice.

Mission Control awakened the crew shortly before 2 a.m. EDT today with the song, "Fairfare for the Common Man," a favorite of Cabana's, and the fight song for the University of Missouri, Richards' alma mater.

After the brief serenade, the crew quietly went about their morning tasks aboard the shuttle.

Their primary goal was a successful deployment of the Ulysses sun probe. The $250 million European probe continued to speed through space on its roundabout trip to the sun.

It is headed towards Jupiter so it can use that

OPINION

Tonkin Gulf echoes from Persian Gulf

By WALTER R. MEARS
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — With incantations against the ghosts of an earlier crisis that became a war, Congress finally found a way to applaud President Bush for his current stand against Iraq — while avoiding commitments for the future.

Now there are suggestions that there ought to be another resolution, telling Bush that Congress wants him to consult regularly with its leaders after it adjourns in about 10 days, to keep them informed on Middle East operations.

But one refrain was repeated two dozen times, with minor variations, as the House and the Senate briefly debated and overwhelmingly approved the measure last week, two months after the fact.

"This resolution is not an authorization for the use of force now, or in the future," said Sen. George J. Mitchell, D-Maine, the majority leader. "This resolution is not a Gulf of Tonkin resolution."

The 1964 Gulf of Tonkin resolution still haunts the Congress that adopted it in swift response to a reported attack at sea, then saw it cited by the White House as the equivalent of a declaration of war in Vietnam.

"As one who voted for the Gulf of Tonkin resolution, as everyone else in the House did, I many times have regretted that vote," said Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., one of 25 House members serving then and now.

He argued that no matter what is said about the limits of the Persian Gulf resolution, overwhelming approval could be read as unfettered congressional support for Bush in "whatever policy he chooses to pursue."

The House vote for the resolution was 380 to 29. The Senate approved it 96 to 3.

The Democrats who ran Congress had been trying for weeks to decide on a way to vote support for Bush's United Nations diplomacy and military deployment, without signing on for the duration. The congressional role in such situations always has been hard to define, especially in the era of undeclared wars.

There is authority under the war powers resolution of 1973, but that never has worked. It requires that a president get approval from Congress within 90 days if he sends troops into situations in which hostilities are imminent. Bush got around it simply by reporting that hostilities are not imminent in the Middle East.

"We are operating today on the false premise that our troops in the Persian Gulf ... are not in imminent danger," said Sen. William S. Cohen, R-Maine. "I simply do not accept that."

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., said Friday that Congress should invoke the war powers system by adopting a measure authorizing the Middle East troop deployment for another 90 days. That's not likely, and it would be subject to veto anyhow.

"The alternative is to go home, and come back, and find a battle, and then everybody's going to be up here talking about the Bush war," Hatfield said.

Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., suggested the call for regular White House consultation with congressional leaders instead. He said Congress already had "implicitly authorized what the president is doing" with its resolutions earlier in the week.

Those measures declare support for "continued action by the president ... to deter Iraqi aggression and protect American lives and vital interests," stipulating that it must be in accordance with United Nations decisions and with U.S. processes including congressional action to appropriate the funds.

Mitchell said the Senate resolution was not an authorization "for the use of force now, or in the future."

Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., said the House vote "does not support future actions except those actions that constitute current policy."

For all those caveats, there is no guarantee that current policy won't mean war.

EDITOR'S NOTE — Walter R. Mears, vice president and columnist for The Associated Press, has reported on Washington and national politics for more than 25 years.

Berry's World

"Hey, I'm not complaining! I could be back in the Big Apple DOGGING BULLETS."

Manchesters Herald

Founded Dec. 15, 1881 as a weekly. Daily publication since Oct. 1, 1914.

Executive Editor: Vincent Michael Valpo News Editor: Andrew C. Spitzer

Biting the bullet in Iraq

CHUCK STONE

The moral incredulity of 1990 is not that Saddam Hussein invaded Kuwait but that he has been able to hold the world's nations hostage and reduce them to an orgy of impotent television appearances and sterile declarations.

This could be the first war in history to begin after both sides ran out of television sound bites.

Deep in Saddam's heart, he knows he is no modern-day Nebuchadnezzar. But he also knows he can wreak havoc in Kuwait's oil fields.

Now is the time to take his threats seriously. Now is the time for the United States and allied armies to launch an all-out combined air and ground-force strike that will drive Iraq out of Kuwait and bring the Iraqi army to its knees.

But first, one final three-step strategy: (1) Negotiate a guarantee that Kuwait will not be allowed to depress oil prices through overproduction.

(2) Work out a modified forgiveness debt formula for Iraq.

(3) Return the oil fields in Rumaila to Iraq.

But reason is not one of Saddam's strengths. After he refuses that last-ditch offer to negotiate, the air forces and the army should strike.

In redistribution, Saddam will blow up and seriously damage Kuwait oil fields. But such damage is transitional. By the end of the war, it is more important that the U.S. military move to resolve the present impasse if final negotiations fail.

George Bush made a terrible mistake when he sent troops to Saudi Arabia in the first place. Psychologically, politics is on firm ground as a sovereign nation. But when his obduracy is subsidized by U.S. largesse, Israel is on shakier ground.

While it is difficult to criticize a people who have been forced to live in fear and with the constant threat of war for four decades, Israel still abides within the community of nations.

During the past four decades, America has demonstrated an irrevocable fidelity to Israel's security. Like Ruth's promise to Naomi, Israel's peace of mind has been our peace of mind. Nothing can ever disrupt our reciprocity of devotion.

But biting the bullet means nobody can be permitted to hold the peace process hostage in the Middle East. Even the presence of Job has limitations.

Some local residents joined in the frenzy by pledging to buy millions of dollars worth of those tickets — but others were so outraged by the offer that they gathered more than 35,000 signatures on a petition demanding that it either be rescinded or placed on the ballot for voters to accept or reject.

"There's got to be some limit on how far any community is willing to go in pursuit of a sports franchise," said mayoral candidate Elihu Harris. "The priorities of the community are more important than football."

Mayor candidate Wilson Riles Jr. was also skeptical. "This deal is a gamble not worth getting into," he said. "The risks are just too high."

Municipal officials responded to voter anger by withdrawing their original offer only two weeks after it was announced, then fashioning a scaled-down substitute.

But the Oakland City Council and Alameda County Board of Supervisors were so anxious to bring the Raiders back that they offered a $660 million package of inducements — including $602 million to guarantee the sale of every seat at every Raiders' home game for the next 15 years.

Some local residents joined in the frenzy by pledging to buy millions of dollars worth of those tickets — but others were so outraged by the offer that they gathered more than 35,000 signatures on a petition demanding that it either be rescinded or placed on the ballot for voters to accept or reject.

"There's got to be some limit on how far any community is willing to go in pursuit of a sports franchise," said mayoral candidate Elihu Harris. "The priorities of the community are more important than football."

Mayor candidate Wilson Riles Jr. was also skeptical. "This deal is a gamble not worth getting into," he said. "The risks are just too high."

Municipal officials responded to voter anger by withdrawing their original offer only two weeks after it was announced, then fashioning a scaled-down substitute.

But the Oakland City Council and Alameda County Board of Supervisors were so anxious to bring the Raiders back that they offered a $660 million package of inducements — including $602 million to guarantee the

Poland wants U.S. biz

By JACK ANDERSON
and DALE VAN ATTA

GDANSK, Poland — Lech Walesa thinks Americans are missing a prime opportunity to invest in Poland, simply because they can't function without fax machines and car phones.

Between the lines in his recent interview with us was a message that is spoken more bluntly by other Poles — that they will do whatever is necessary to attract American business, industries of German business.

The reunification of Germany concerns many of the Eastern bloc countries that were occupied by the Nazis, but none more than Poland. The Nazis used Poland as their primary slaughterhouse.

If there is to be a new prosperity in Poland, the Poles would rather shut it out than accept it.

Walesa was expressive as he told us that the Polish desire to cultivate economic ties with the United States.

They have a lot to offer, he said, if only U.S. entrepreneurs could put up with some inconvenience.

"You Americans don't know how to make good business," Walesa chided. "You do business in a definite, technological way. You need telephones, you need faxes, you need planes to get to business. And that's what we don't have. So you say it's difficult. But you can do good business here."

The Poles are famous throughout the Eastern Bloc for their low-tech successes. They have set up shop on the backs of trucks from Berlin to Bucharest.

Their circumstances have taught them that they have no choice but to do things the hard way, given the military presence of the East Bloc.

However, many a Chinese, who can't afford fancy meals at restaurants.

In Shenzhen, a Chinese special economic zone where foreign investors have built factories, salaries are higher and workers earn an average of $53 a month.

At the restaurant, a Big Mac costs $1.14, a bag of fries 48 cents and a shake 74 cents.

Another U.S. fast food outlet, Kentucky Fried Chicken, opened a restaurant in Beijing in 1987, and it now has four outlets there. McDonald's has opened a restaurant in Beijing later.

Although Kentucky Fried Chicken has become popular, the average Chinese still regards a meal there as a treat, rather than a convenience, and McDonald's could face the same problems.

The 500-seat McDonald's restaurant in a three-story building is operated by McDonald's Restaurant Shenzhen Ltd., a wholly owned subsidiary of McDonald's Hong Kong.

McDonald's Hong Kong is a 50-50 joint venture with McDonald's in the United States.

It is managed by a Chinese national, Chen Tiansheng, and his son, Chen Yin, who is the restaurant manager. The younger Chen returned recently from the U.S. to study at the restaurant.

Most of the ingredients used at the restaurant are now imported from Hong Kong. But McDonald's executives hope eventually to get their supplies of beef and potatoes from China.

Daniel Ng, chairman of McDonald's Restaurant Shenzhen Ltd., said it took two years to prepare for the restaurant's opening and it received applications from more than 9,000 persons, including college graduates, officials said.

"I feel I have a better job prospect working here, and it pays better," said Henry He, 25, who has a master's degree in garment and textile. He is an assistant manager at the restaurant.

A waiter at the restaurant can earn 53 cents an hour.

BUSINESS

McDonald's opens its first China eatery

By WONG SAI-YING
The Associated Press

SHENZHEN, China — McDonald's hamburgers, fries and golden arches came to China on Monday when the fast-food chain opened its first restaurant in a nation famed for its distinctive cuisine.

Hundreds of Chinese waited for hours outside the restaurant in Shenzhen, an economic boom town near Hong Kong, for their first taste of a McDonald's hamburger, fries or shake.

"I traveled for four hours from a village to get here," said Huang Rongji, 70, who has lost most of his teeth because of age. "You think hamburgers are too challenging for my age?"

Later, after purchasing his first Big Mac, she inspected it carefully before taking a bite.

"It tastes good, I like it," she announced before slowly eating the rest.

"You Americans don't know how to make good business," Walesa chided. "You do business in a definite, technological way. You need telephones, you need faxes, you need planes to get to business. And that's what we don't have. So you say it's difficult. But you can do good business here."

The opening of a U.S. fast-food restaurant in China, where cooking has long been considered a culinary art, may seem odd to gourmets. It is estimated there are more than 5,000 different Chinese dishes.

In Canton, 125 miles northwest of Shenzhen, chefs specialize in some of the more exotic Chinese dishes, such as cat stew, beef paws, chicken feet and a famed snake dish — "Dragon and Tiger Locked in Battle" made from three kinds of poisonous snakes stewed with leopards meat, and garnished with 20 spices, lemon leaves and chrysanthemum petals.

However, many a Chinese, who can't afford fancy meals at restaurants.

In Shenzhen, a Chinese special economic zone where foreign investors have built factories, salaries are higher and workers earn an average of $53 a month.

At the restaurant, a Big Mac costs $1.14, a bag of fries 48 cents and a shake 74 cents.

Another U.S. fast food outlet, Kentucky Fried Chicken, opened a restaurant in Beijing in 1987, and it now has four outlets there. McDonald's has opened a restaurant in Beijing later.

Although Kentucky Fried Chicken has become popular, the average Chinese still regards a meal there as a treat, rather than a convenience, and McDonald's could face the same problems.

The 500-seat McDonald's restaurant in a three-story building is operated by McDonald's Restaurant Shenzhen Ltd., a wholly owned subsidiary of McDonald's Hong Kong.

McDonald's Hong Kong is a 50-50 joint venture with McDonald's in the United States.

It is managed by a Chinese national, Chen Tiansheng, and his son, Chen Yin, who is the restaurant manager. The younger Chen returned recently from the U.S. to study at the restaurant.

Most of the ingredients used at the restaurant are now imported from Hong Kong. But McDonald's executives hope eventually to get their supplies of beef and potatoes from China.

Daniel Ng, chairman of McDonald's Restaurant Shenzhen Ltd., said it took two years to prepare for the restaurant's opening and it received applications from more than 9,000 persons, including college graduates, officials said.

"I feel I have a better job prospect working here, and it pays better," said Henry He, 25, who has a master's degree in garment and textile. He is an assistant manager at the restaurant.

A waiter at the restaurant can earn 53 cents an hour.

Another U.S. fast food outlet, Kentucky Fried Chicken, opened a restaurant in Beijing in 1987, and it now has four outlets there. McDonald's has opened a restaurant in Beijing later.

Although Kentucky Fried Chicken has become popular, the average Chinese still regards a meal there as a treat, rather than a convenience, and McDonald's could face the same problems.

The 500-seat McDonald's restaurant in a three-story building is operated by McDonald's Restaurant Shenzhen Ltd., a wholly owned subsidiary of McDonald's Hong Kong.

McDonald's Hong Kong is a 50-50 joint venture with McDonald's in the United States.

It is managed by a Chinese national, Chen Tiansheng, and his son, Chen Yin, who is the restaurant manager. The younger Chen returned recently from the U.S. to study at the restaurant.

Most of the ingredients used at the restaurant are now imported from Hong Kong. But McDonald's executives hope eventually to get their supplies of beef and potatoes from China.

Daniel Ng, chairman of McDonald's Restaurant Shenzhen Ltd., said it took two years to prepare for the restaurant's opening and it received applications from more than 9,000 persons, including college graduates, officials said.

"I feel I have a better job prospect working here, and it pays better," said Henry He, 25, who has a master's degree in garment and textile. He is an assistant manager at the restaurant.

A waiter at the restaurant can earn 53 cents an hour.

Another U.S. fast food outlet, Kentucky Fried Chicken, opened a restaurant in Beijing in 1987, and it now has four outlets there. McDonald's has opened a restaurant in Beijing later.

Although Kentucky Fried Chicken has become popular, the average Chinese still regards a meal there as a treat, rather than a convenience, and McDonald's could face the same problems.

By JOHN GUNNIFF
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — There is an aspirin for the pain and suffering the White House and Congressional budget negotiators have inflicted on themselves, and that is to eliminate wasteful spending.

It is an option frequently ignored, except by taxpayers, who are widely accused of wanting lower taxes while simultaneously refusing to accept cuts in Medicare, Social Security and similar benefits.

But it is probably more accurate to ascribe to voters a logical goal, that of cutting wasteful spending, rather than the contradictory policy of cutting while increasing expenditures for local, domestic projects that have lower taxes and more spending.

There is hardly a family that doesn't understand the need for cutting, especially today. With recession coming, if not here, and with unemployment rising, they have been forced to retrench and live within their incomes.

Industry has been forced to do the same, to the extent that "downsizing" has become a fad word in the business lexicon. Even philanthropic groups have felt the pinch and have reluctantly limited their goals.

The same has been asked of government but seldom is there an answer.

In 1984, the President's Private Sector Survey on Cost Control, popularly called the Grace Commission after its chairman, J. Peter Grace, recommended $424 billion in position of saying what's motivating Corral in all of this is certainly a major competitor in their back yard has got to be of concern to them," Canadian Pacific spokesman John Cox said last week.

The season's most popular novelty is a pocket-size electronic voice box that, at the push of a button, spews profane insults suitable for use in locker rooms, saloons and stockbrokers' offices.

This adult toy is called the Final Word, and it delivers pre-recorded obscenities in a shrill voice that sounds like an angry chipmunk from Brooklyn.

The stock market settled for a moderate advance in a quiet session Monday amid revived hopes for action to narrow the federal budget deficit.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 13.12 to 2,523.76.

TASTING McDONALD'S — An elderly Chinese man has his first taste of a McDonald's hamburger Monday when the U.S. fast food chain opened its first restaurant in China, near Hong Kong.

In Brief . . .

A coalition of children's advocates and educators wanted President Bush to sign legislation that would require TV stations to pay more attention to the educational needs of young viewers.

Children's TV advocates said a typical child may watch 10,000 hours to 15,000 hours of television — including 200,000 commercials — before age 18.

Broadcasters say they can live with the measure, which would also restrict the number of commercials on kids' shows, but a White House spokesman said Bush has strong reservations.

Oil prices moved up almost $1 per barrel on the futures market as traders decided a lack of news from the Middle East made war seem more likely than peace.

Light sweet crude traded as high as $39.40 per barrel Monday on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Trading on a Soviet stock exchange could start next year, but foreigners probably will remain on the sidelines until the ruble is convertible, the chairman of the New York Stock Exchange said.

U.S. prices moved up almost $1 per barrel on the futures market as traders decided a lack of news from the Middle East made war seem more likely than peace.

Light sweet crude traded as high as $39.40 per barrel Monday on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Trading on a Soviet stock exchange could start next year, but foreigners probably will remain on the sidelines until the ruble is convertible, the chairman of the New York Stock Exchange said.

U.S. prices moved up almost $1 per barrel on the futures market as traders decided a lack of news from the Middle East made war seem more likely than peace.

Light sweet crude traded as high as $39.40 per barrel Monday on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Trading on a Soviet stock exchange could start next year, but foreigners probably will remain on the sidelines until the ruble is convertible, the chairman of the New York Stock Exchange said.

U.S. prices moved up almost $1 per barrel on the futures market as traders decided a lack of news from the Middle East made war seem more likely than peace.

Light sweet crude traded as high as $39.40 per barrel Monday on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Trading on a Soviet stock exchange could start next year, but foreigners probably will remain on the sidelines until the ruble is convertible, the chairman of the New York Stock Exchange said.

U.S. prices moved up almost $1 per barrel on the futures market as traders decided a lack of news from the Middle East made war seem more likely than peace.

Light sweet crude traded as high as $39.40 per barrel Monday on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Trading on a Soviet stock exchange could start next year, but foreigners probably will remain on the sidelines until the ruble is convertible, the chairman of the New York Stock Exchange said.

U.S. prices moved up almost $1 per barrel on the futures market as traders decided a lack of news from the Middle East made war seem more likely than peace.

Light sweet crude traded as high as $39.40 per barrel Monday on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Trading on a Soviet stock exchange could start next year, but foreigners probably will remain on the sidelines until the ruble is convertible, the chairman of the New York Stock Exchange said.

U.S. prices moved up almost $1 per barrel on the futures market as traders decided a lack of news from the Middle East made war seem more likely than peace.

Light sweet crude traded as high as $39.40 per barrel Monday on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

U.S. prices moved up almost $1 per barrel on the futures market as traders decided a lack of news from the Middle East made war seem more likely than peace.

Light sweet crude traded as high as $39.40 per barrel Monday on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Trading on a Soviet stock exchange could start next year, but foreigners probably will remain on the sidelines until the ruble is convertible, the chairman of the New York Stock Exchange said.

U.S. prices moved up almost $1 per barrel on the futures market as traders decided a lack of news from the Middle East made war seem more likely than peace.

Light sweet crude traded as high as $39.40 per barrel Monday on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Trading on a Soviet stock exchange could start next year, but foreigners probably will remain on the sidelines until the ruble is convertible, the chairman of the New York Stock Exchange said.

U.S. prices moved up almost $1 per barrel on the futures market as traders decided a lack of news from the Middle East made war seem more likely than peace.

Light sweet crude traded as high as $39.40 per barrel Monday on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Trading on a Soviet stock exchange could start next year, but foreigners probably will remain on the sidelines until the ruble is convertible, the chairman of the New York Stock Exchange said.

U.S. prices moved up almost $1 per barrel on the futures market as traders decided a lack of news from the Middle East made war seem more likely than peace.

Light sweet crude traded as high as $39.40 per barrel Monday on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Trading on a Soviet stock exchange could start next year, but foreigners probably will remain on the sidelines until the ruble is convertible, the chairman of the New York Stock Exchange said.

U.S. prices moved up almost $1 per barrel on the futures market as traders decided a lack of news from the Middle East made war seem more likely than peace.

Light sweet crude traded as high as $39.40 per barrel Monday on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Trading on a Soviet stock exchange could start next year, but foreigners probably will remain on the sidelines until the ruble is convertible, the chairman of the New York Stock Exchange said.

U.S. prices moved up almost $1 per barrel on the futures market as traders decided a lack of news from the Middle East made war seem more likely than peace.

Light sweet crude traded as high as $39.40 per barrel Monday on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Trading on a Soviet stock exchange could start next year, but foreigners probably will remain on the sidelines until the ruble is convertible, the chairman of the New York Stock Exchange said.

U.S. prices moved up almost $1 per barrel on the futures market as traders decided a lack of news from the Middle East made war seem more likely than peace.

Light sweet crude traded as high as $39.40 per barrel Monday on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Trading on a Soviet stock exchange could start next year, but foreigners probably will remain on the sidelines until the ruble is convertible, the chairman of the New York Stock Exchange said.

U.S. prices moved up almost $1 per barrel on the futures market as traders decided a lack of news from the Middle East made war seem more likely than peace.

Light sweet crude traded as high as $39.40 per barrel Monday on the New York Mercantile Exchange.

The other option: cut the spending

By JOHN GUNNIFF
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — There is an aspirin for the pain and suffering the White House and Congressional budget negotiators have inflicted on themselves, and that is to eliminate wasteful spending.

It is an option frequently ignored, except by taxpayers, who are widely accused of wanting lower taxes while simultaneously refusing to accept cuts in Medicare, Social Security and similar benefits.

But it is probably more accurate to ascribe to voters a logical goal, that of cutting wasteful spending, rather than the contradictory policy of cutting while increasing expenditures for local, domestic projects that have lower taxes and more spending.

There is hardly a family that doesn't understand the need for cutting, especially today. With recession coming, if not here, and with unemployment rising, they have been forced to retrench and live within their incomes.

Industry has been forced to do the same, to the extent that "downsizing" has become a fad word in the business lexicon. Even philanthropic groups have felt the pinch and have reluctantly limited their goals.

The same has been asked of government but seldom is there an answer.

In 1984, the President's Private Sector Survey on Cost Control, popularly called the Grace Commission after its chairman, J. Peter Grace, recommended $424 billion in position of saying what's motivating Corral in all of this is certainly a major competitor in their back yard has got to be of concern to them," Canadian Pacific spokesman John Cox said last week.

The season's most popular novelty is a pocket-size electronic voice box that, at the push of a button, spews profane insults suitable for use in locker rooms, saloons and stockbrokers' offices.

This adult toy is called the Final Word, and it delivers pre-recorded obscenities in a shrill voice that sounds like an angry chipmunk from Brooklyn.

The stock market settled for a moderate advance in a quiet session Monday amid revived hopes for action

Debate

It will be aired on Cox Cable channel 33 at 8:30 p.m. on Oct. 12 and 19, and at 7:30 p.m. on Oct. 23 and 30.

While much of the candidates' remarks were subdued, Meotter criticized Googins for attacking the legislature for expenditures related to state employees.

"When we talk about government spending, we have to recognize that I have an opponent who has a record on this issue," Meotti said.

Budget

as lawmakers, exhausted after a string of late-night sessions, were returning to the work of deciding precisely which spending programs to cut and whose taxes to raise.

Under Monday's late-night agreement between the White House and Congress, that work must be completed by Oct. 19.

Bush and members of Congress went about their work as if they were not aware of the relief that a collective sigh of relief that would be no forced furloughs.

The budget crisis worsened late last week when the House rejected a bipartisan plan that called for $134 billion in tax increases and a wide array of military and program spending cuts.

Democrats have complained the budget plans have been unfairly weighted against the middle income taxpayers to the benefit of wealthier Americans.

"The action is in Congress and we'll work with them on filling in the gaps in the deficit-cutting agreement," Bush said.

"I will do everything in my power to encourage Congress as it struggles to bring forth the most comprehensive and significant deficit-cutting plan ever."

The president sounded a conciliatory tone toward Congress, a contrast to his frustration over the weekend when he vetoed an earlier bill that would have permitted uninterrupted government services.

remark that an influential battle in the legislature because some offenders do "wriggle out because there are too many loopholes."

The almost 44,000 state workers, said Googins, "have salaries and fringe benefits and medical benefits — that they do not contribute to — that are far out of whack in comparison to the private sector."

In her closing statement, Googins responded to Meotti's attack on her record by saying her town council's budgets reflected voters desires.

In response to whether they would favor the establishment of a state income tax, both candidates would not commit to answering yes or no, but said that such a tax would require the adjusting of other levies on residents.

Asked about amending the capital punishment law to increase the frequency of the penalty, Googins said she would propose a review of the legislation because some offenders do "wriggle out because there are too many loopholes."

The sensitive nature of the issue considering the possibility that a convicted killer may actually be innocent.

In his rebuttal, Meotti said, "As a matter of personal principle, I oppose the death penalty." Then he diverted his comments to the issue of other serious crimes for which the offenders are not punished and the issue of a lack of adequate prison space.

About increasing welfare programs in light of rising numbers of poor citizens, Googins said the solution is not to continue allocating money without programs that provide long-term assistance.

The programs "to get these people back into the better part of the system" should include job-training, affordable housing, she said.

Meotti agreed that assistance should not come solely in the form of money, adding that there needs to be sufficient programs for those impoverished citizens who are elderly, terminally ill, or pregnant.

Souter

Afterward, Souter and Rehquist posed for photographers outside the building on Capitol Hill before heading back inside for a reception attended by members of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Souter, facing a group of photographers and television cameras outside, said, "I got to work on time this morning. I'm starting off on the right foot."

As cameras clicked and whirred, Souter said, "Hurry and load up. I've got to go to work."

He also disclosed that he has received a place to live in the Washington, D.C., area, but declined to give any details.

A short time later, Souter took his seat at the end of bench assigned to the newest justice for the start of the court's regularly scheduled proceedings.

As Souter pledged to uphold the Constitution in a separate oath-taking ceremony Monday at the White House, President Bush praised him as "a very thoughtful and caring man."

Souter said Monday he hopes to pass on the Constitution "in as vigorous condition as I have received it this afternoon, as it were, from Justice Brennan."

Souter was picked as Bush's first high court nominee by Senate William J. Brennan, who retired in July because of failing health.

Meotti said that the future of liberalized on the court for 34 years.

Souter joins the court at a pivotal time in its history.

A reliably conservative majority led by appointees of former President Reagan only recently has begun to emerge.

The future of legalized abortion and other highly controversial issues such as affirmative action and church-state relations hang in the balance, with relatively little known about how Souter may vote.

Souter, who recently described himself as "a moderate conservative," revealed little about his views on major constitutional issues in three days of testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Woodhouse

Woodhouse said the Pension Board allowed Mayor Terry Werhoven and Republican Directors Wally Irish to attend the executive session on advice of Chmielecki, the board's attorney, whether the two Republican directors should be allowed to attend the session, called to discuss a report from Chmielecki on the pension litigation involving a pension fund investment that has proved to be unwise, Chmielecki at the time said the directors could attend.

But he said, "Frankly, I'm very unhappy with her representation."

He said he will ask that the board be advised by Assistant Town Manager Steven Werber, an attorney who Woodhouse said, is familiar with labor matters and with the town pension system.

hard to predict what type of justice Souter will be.

"Once they are in there and they are no longer accountable to their spouse or their God, anything can happen," said Biden, apparently disregarding the fact that Souter is a bachelor.

Forbes

up $3.5 billion over last year's total, but the magazine said the reason was its discovery of previously hidden sources of wealth among some members of the list.

The list this year, meaning 43 old names came off. Six died, including the magazine's namesake, Malcolm Forbes. The fortunes of 35 fell too far to be included.

In addition, Alfred Dreifus Goldman of Oklahoma City, with a 1989 real estate fortune estimated at $400 million, was removed from the list because of an inheritance dispute with his brother, William Barron Hilton was dropped because part of his 1989 total of $1.25 billion actually belongs to a foundation.

As in 1989, the richest person on the list was John Werner Kluge, 76, three-married entrepreneur who made his $5.6 billion fortune by building up Metromedia Co., a wide-ranging telecommunications company.

No. 2 is Omaha investor Warren Buffett, 60, who bought his first stock at age 11 and parlayed a savvy for picking stocks into a $3.3 billion fortune.

This is takeover specialist Ronald O. Perelman, 47, a Wharton business school alum who borrowed money to build an empire that ranges from the Revlon cosmetics company to Coleman camping products to savings and loans.

Forbes pegged his worth at $2.87 billion.

Among those who net worth tumbled was Sumner Murray Redstone, owner of the entertainment giant Viacom International Inc. His fortune dropped from $2.88 billion to $2 billion.

Others in the big-loss category included publishing-entertainment baron Rupert Murdoch, whose fortune fell by $600 million to $1.1 billion.

Forbes has sought to make the 400 ranking its trademark, much like arch-rival Fortune magazine has done with its annual ranking of the 500 biggest U.S. industrial companies.

LOCAL/REGIONAL

Manchester Herald

Serving Manchester ■ Coventry ■ Andover ■ Bolton ■ Hebron

Section 2, Page 7
Tuesday, October 9, 1990

Irish, Fogarty named to review

By ALEX GIRELLI
Manchester Herald

MANCHESTER — Town Administrator Wally Irish, a Republican, and James Fogarty, a Democrat, have been named as a committee to study charges of misconduct against Richard Schwolsky, a commissioner of the Housing Authority of Manchester.

Mayor Terry Werhoven said today he has named the two directors to the study of the hearing and meetings held by the authority did not conform to the spirit of the law on public hearings.

At an authority meeting May 21, Schwolsky said comments made by critics of the purchases at a hearing a week earlier amounted to "noisy but baggy."

Schwolsky has not said whether he will resign or apologize "because I did nothing wrong."

Town workers put efforts into news

By RICK SANTOS
Manchester Herald

MANCHESTER — One of the editors of News & Views, a newly formed newsletter for town employees, is hoping the staff will lay the foundations for an informative publication that will never die.

"I have any say in it," said Barbara Armentano, one of seven members of the paper's editorial board.

Armentano, who works in the Budget Office, said she wants the thrust of the newsletter to be more issue-oriented than past municipal publications, which included glossy information about the families of town employees.

"I think town employees are more sophisticated today and they really want serious news reporting to create a communications link between them," she said.

Another editor, Sally Gifford of the Data Center, said, "We're just too big to hear what the rest of the departments are doing. This is a better way of communicating."

A similar thought was expressed by Town Manager Richard Sartor in a welcoming message that appeared on the front page of the maiden issue, which was circulated to the more than 500 town employees at the end of last month.

"I have repeatedly heard your concerns for improved communications and I believe good, clear communications are important to create a better working environment," Sartor penned.

The message continued, touching on some of the serious issues Armentano mentioned: "With constant changes and additions in personnel, office locations, town government rules and policy, equipment, and all other aspects of our work, it has been difficult to keep everyone informed."

From that spawned News & Views.

Fedora, who said his intent was to help with layout and design, became a contributing editor as staffing plunged from the 30-or-so who initially expressed interest in the seven editors credited in the first edition.

A bit outspoken about the paper, Fedora said he is hoping the number of pages will increase and the quality of photographic prints will improve.

Also, one piece which he wanted to run in the paper was cut because of limited space.

"If I had been there [when the paper was laid out], that profile would have gotten in," Fedora said.

He noted, however, that working on the newsletter is fun, and he, like Armentano, hopes it will never die.

The newsletter is produced using town funds, but no estimates of the cost were available. Some town employees are also allocated to it.

"It's a good idea because the town is such a loose organization and so spread out that a lot of people aren't aware of what goes on in other departments," Fedora said.

In an effort to make the publication interesting to employees, Sartor is questioning survey of their reading desires was included in the first edition. The editors are hoping for more response and are a bit distressed because they have only two issues left — three or four, Armentano said.

She and Fedora said the plan is for the newsletter, currently a quarterly, to be published monthly or at least every other month.

Working on a during lunch breaks and some company time, they are encountering troubles getting it together as quickly as they would like.

Columbia weighs schools choice

By BRIAN M. TROTTA
Manchester Herald

Members of an advisory committee to the Columbia Board of Education will meet tonight to discuss which high school the town will allow students to use as an alternate to Windham High School.

The town currently maintains a school for students in Kindergarten through eighth grade. However, most high school students are sent to Windham High School on a tuition basis.

Columbia School Superintendent John Vitale said the town is looking to give its students the option to go to a small school. The town is considering schools in Bolton and Lebanon as well as R.H.A.M. High School in Hebron.

During the past month, the 13-member committee has toured the three schools and listened to presentations on the academic programs.

Committee Chairperson Pamela Parker said her panel will discuss the tours and presentations at the meeting and may vote on its recommendation. However, Parker said she has told committee members that she would not rush the decision.

"We will discuss the format of our recommendation but it may take another week of discussion to reach a final conclusion," Parker said.

Their choice is scheduled to be given to the Board of Education by Oct. 15. The board will then use the committee's guidance in making a final decision.

School officials estimate that 30 to 35 students will choose the new school. The vast majority will be from next year's freshmen and sophomore classes, although upperclassmen will also be offered the opportunity to attend the new school.

HEAVY CONSTRUCTION — Rick Osgood of East Hartford works on a water and sewer construction project on Highland and Oak Grove Streets in Manchester. He works for Central Paving Inc. of South Windsor.

About Town

Local Red Cross courses set
A standard first aid course will be sponsored Oct. 15 and 17 by the Manchester branch of the American Red Cross, 20 Hartford Road.

This course, which will be presented from 6 to 10 p.m., both dates, combines all of the basics of first aid and Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation (CPR).
Also at the Manchester office there will be a child care course presented Oct. 13 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Oct. 16 and 18 from 6 to 10 p.m. This course is appropriate for parents and grandparents. It teaches first aid, accident prevention and more.

To register for any of these classes, or for more information, call the Red Cross office, 643-5111.

Rec centers open for season
The Manchester Parks and Recreation Department's indoor winter recreation program has started and will continue through March 21 with all recreation centers open.

The East Side Rec. 22 School St., and Community Y, 78 N. Main St., will operate Monday through Friday from 6 to 10 p.m. and on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.
The Mahoney Recreation Center, 110 Cedar St., will operate Monday through Friday from 3 to 5 p.m. and 6 to 10 p.m., Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sundays from 1 to 5 p.m.

Nathan Hale School, 160 Spruce St., is open Tuesdays and Wednesdays for youth activities from 6 to 8 p.m. and for adult co-ed volleyball, Tuesdays from 8 to 9:30 p.m. Open basketball-volleyball is on Wednesdays from 8 to 9:30 p.m.

News & Views

Manchester Town Employees Newsletter

Welcome, readers... For the first issue of our new town employees newsletter, we have requested that you contribute for improved communications and to create a better working environment. With constant changes and additions in personnel, office locations, town government rules and policy, equipment, and all other aspects of our work, it has been difficult to keep everyone informed. We are launching this employee newsletter to establish a strong communications link. The editorial staff is a group of employees who volunteered to write about articles and bring it all together to distribute to you. The first assignment was to decide on a name for the newsletter. We have chosen News & Views. We hope you will find the newsletter helpful and enjoyable and informative and if you have any suggestions for improvement, please let us know. Meetings will be held on the following dates and are also scheduled. If you are unable to attend, please let us know. The newsletter will be sent on Thursdays, Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday afternoon at 1:00 p.m.

Board Members Aired Live

All Manchester and South Windsor residents who have cable television now also can view the Board of Directors meetings on Channel 22. Meetings are held on the first Thursday of each month at 7:30 p.m. and are also scheduled. If you are unable to attend, please let us know. The newsletter will be sent on Thursdays, Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday afternoon at 1:00 p.m.

Bolton wants town conservation

By BRIAN M. TROTTA
Manchester Herald

BOLTON — With energy prices going through the roof, town officials are taking preliminary steps to make sure heat in the town's buildings doesn't do the same.

Town officials say one of the biggest energy hogs is right under their noses. Town Hall is described by its occupants as an old, drafty building in need of a major overhaul.

However, there is no money in the town budget to perform the work. "There's some really real things we could do, but there's no money in the maintenance budget," said Selectman Jim Veitch.

The town had budgeted about $4,000 for the building but the Commission for consulting fees for an energy audit, but it was cut by the board of finance later in the budget process.

"We could spend a lot of money here," said Helen Kemp, executive assistant to the Board of Selectmen. "Because the building is so old, the costs double."

Officials fear that they may face a budget crisis unless the Board of Education, so the Board of

Drug policy now before Ed board

By SCOTT BREDE
Manchester Herald

MANCHESTER — The Board of Education will be looking at the revised drug and alcohol policy that was dropped from its Sept. 10 agenda when it meets tonight at 7:30 p.m.

The original draft of the plan was withdrawn from the agenda after Assistant Town Attorney Steven Werber found problems with the policy's wording.

The policy, which will set harsher penalties for students caught with or under the influence of drugs or alcohol, will be examined by board members tonight, and voted on at the following board meeting on Oct. 25.

Thompson endorsed

State Rep. John W. Thompson has been endorsed by the state police union in his bid for re-election from Manchester's 13th Assembly District.

Thompson is seeking his third term and is opposed by Republican challenger Reginald Probst.

"We base our decision on your legislative record and your positions on issues important to State Troopers," the letter stated.

The union represents about 1,000 state police officers.

La Leche League to meet

"Nutrition and Weaning" will be the topic of discussion for the La Leche League of South Windsor when it meets Oct. 5 at 7:30 p.m. at 119 Quarry Brook Drive, South Windsor.

For more information about the meetings, call 644-4109 or 644-4191. All mothers, babies and expectant mothers are welcome.

A DEFINITE DIFFERENCE IN DENTURE'S SIX STYLES $199 TO $799 PER UL

Dedicated to MAKE YOU SMILE.

EXTRACTION: SIMPLE OR SURGICAL (YOUR NEW DENTURES INSERTED AT SAME APPT.) - NO NEED TO BE WITHOUT TEETH!

Exp. 10-31-90

HAVE DENTAL INSURANCE? We will accept payment from your insurance. NO DENTAL INSURANCE? We have payment plans.

UPSTATE DENTAL HEALTH SERVICES, P.C.
BUILDERS SQUARE PLAZA
1/4 MILE SOUTH OF WEST FARMS MALL

EXIT 40 OFF I-84
M-F 9-6 PM
OPEN 10-12 PM
BY APPOINTMENT

PHONE: 676-0050
(on New Britain Ave.)

MEDICAID WELCOME. NO APPOINTMENT NEEDED. DENTAL LAB ON PREMISES.

"I CAN HELP YOU GET THE CASH YOU NEED NOW—AND A TAX DEDUCTION IN APRIL."

Carolyn Forst
Assistant Vice President and Branch Manager

If you own a home, an Equity Access Account from Mechanics could be the perfect way to borrow money—and get a tax write-off besides.

Just check with your tax advisor.

Then come talk to me at our Manchester office, 341 Broad Street. We're open Monday through Wednesday 9-3, Thursday 9-5, Friday 9-6 and Saturday 9-12. Or call me at 241-2959.

MECHANICS Savings Bank
Member FDIC Equal Housing Lender

FILMED BY THE PROFESSIONALS AT
CREST INFORMATION TECHNOLOGIES, CEDAR RAPIDS, IOWA
10990

STATE

Family's final resting place holds stranger

WILLIMANTIC (AP) — When a Willimantic couple purchased adjoining graves sites 24 years ago, they wanted to be buried next to each other under one tombstone.

But when 65-year-old Laura Kimble died of a heart attack in May 1969, her husband James noticed at her funeral that a stranger was buried in the family plot.

Just a few feet from Mrs. Kimble's tombstone were two dwarf pine trees and the footstone of Dale Sullivan, a 23-year-old motorcycle addict who killed three years earlier in a head-on collision.

Kimble, 67, called Windham Town Hall where records showed the plot sold to him in 1966 was resold 20 years later to Mildred and Robert Sullivan, the parents of Dale Sullivan.

The town has acknowledged its responsibility, blaming clerical errors for the mistake. But both Kimble and the Sullivans have sued the town, seeking at least $15,000 in damages for emotional distress.

Kimble also wants Dale Sullivan's body disinterred.

The Sullivans insist their son's body should not be moved, and last year they obtained a temporary court injunction to prevent it.

"My son stays right where he is," Mrs. Sullivan said.

Neither side has been willing to accept alternate plots and beginning Thursday, the case is scheduled to be heard in Willimantic Superior Court.

"It's a lousy, lousy situation," Windham First Selectman Daniel M. Lein said. "I knew I had two parties who were suffering and this thing needed to be answered, hopefully not in a court of law. Who wants to see this in the courts?"

For Kimble, it's a matter of protecting what he said belonged to him first, and of preserving his wife's resting place, where she is buried next to her family.

A deed dated May 16, 1966, shows the Kimbles paid $100 for four graves, a few feet from a one-lane cemetery road and 100 yards from busy Route 32. A deed dated April 8, 1986, shows the Sullivans paid $40 for four graves — in the north half of the same lot.

"It's disturbing," said Kimble, 67, who is retired from his job as service manager of a local garage. "You don't like to have it on your mind all of the time."

Kimble said he was open to suggestions, but that moving his wife was not one of them. Throughout the dispute, he has not spoken to the Sullivans, but he says he holds no animosity toward them.

"It's not their fault — it's the town's fault," he said.

The Sullivans say they don't want to suffer the anguish of burying their son again.

A temporary court injunction barring disinterment of Dale Sullivan's body was not one of them. Throughout the dispute, he has not spoken to the Sullivans, but he says he holds no animosity toward them.

"It's not their fault — it's the town's fault," he said.

Kemler, Borges battle in race

HARTFORD — Joan R. Kemler, the former Democratic state treasurer running for the same office this year as a Republican, says she's considering filing a new complaint with the Elections Enforcement Commission over the fund-raising practices of incumbent Democrat Francisco L. Borges.

Borges, seeking a second term, insists there was nothing improper about his personal secretary's handling of some contributions, that they were "mismailed" to his state office rather than his campaign.

But Kemler, a former Democrat who served as treasurer for 11 months in 1986, said things aren't as innocent as Borges would have the public believe, and reiterated her belief that "the treasurer's office is for sale."

Kemler has made a major issue of Borges' fund raising, taking particular note of the contributions from individuals in the financial community who have contributed to Borges' re-election effort.

"I think that should be very significant to the rank-and-file voter," Kemler said. When she speaks around the state, voters tell her they are outraged at Borges' practices "and rightfully so," she said.

A month ago, Kemler filed a complaint with the Elections Enforcement Commission over Borges' campaign finance reports because many entries were not complete, particularly with respect to whether or not the donor was doing business with the state.

Borges said some of the information had not been available, although he later filed amended reports that showed that many of the contributors were doing business with the state.

Borges returned more than $5,000 in contributions that came from out-of-state political action committees, a practice barred by state law.

Over the weekend, Kemler released documents purporting to show that Borges' personal secretary, Helene Glantz, was also consulted in the planning of a fund-raising event this week in Providence, R.I., during her shift in Borges' office.

State employees are prohibited from working on political campaigns while they are at their state jobs.

"His personal secretary, obviously during state time, is reviewing matters pertaining to his political campaign," Kemler said.

Borges said Sunday Glantz plays no role in his campaign. He said the documents and donations were probably "mismailed" to her and he is sure she quickly turned them over to his re-election campaign.

"I can assure you that it's an aberration," Borges had said.

PLANE CRASH — Authorities Monday were investigating the crash of a small plane in which the pilot and a passenger were killed. The bodies of David Spence, 54, of Jewett City, and Earl Van Watson, 60, of Ocean City, N.J., were found Monday in the wreckage of the single engine Cessna-152 by Civil Air Patrol searchers. The plane had left an airport in Griswold Sunday night to go on a local flight and was reported missing by Spence's family when it failed to return. Searchers found the wreckage about 11 a.m. Monday between a corn field and some woods, authorities said.

The Associated Press

HAMDEN (AP) — An uncontrollable string of fiery exchanges forced a radio talk show host to pull the plug on Democrat Rosal DeLauro and Republican Thomas Scott during a live clash between the two 3rd District candidates.

DeLauro and Scott appeared Monday night on "Telephone Talk," a highly rated 90-minute show hosted by Steve Kalb on WELI-AM.

Sitting elbow to elbow in the small radio studio, DeLauro and Scott clashed repeatedly over abortion, taxes and what each described as the other's hypocrisy and mudslinging.

Kalb told them to pipe down so he could regain control of the show. They didn't until he told them he had pulled the plug.

"I don't know how to tell you this," Kalb said, as the candidates continued jawing at each other over dead air for more than 10 minutes.

"The race for the seat left open by Democratic gubernatorial candidate Bruce A. Morrison, is fast becoming the nastiest of the six congressional campaigns in Connecticut," Scott said. "That's up to the Supreme Court, Rosa."

DeLauro broke in and denied the accusation.

Scott called DeLauro, who grew up in the Italian enclave of New Haven's Wooster Square, an extremist who supports abortion on demand.

"How does she face these Italian Catholics in Wooster Square with this position of abortion on demand?" Scott asked.

DeLauro broke in and denied the accusation.

Scott called DeLauro, who grew up in the Italian enclave of New Haven's Wooster Square, an extremist who supports abortion on demand.

"How does she face these Italian Catholics in Wooster Square with this position of abortion on demand?" Scott asked.

DeLauro broke in and denied the accusation.

Candidates' barbs stop live debate

PLAINVILLE (AP) — Cars pulled into the Plainville Drive-in theater for a fund-raiser, but there seems to be some question on whether that was legal or not, said Jerome Auclair, principal of Southington High School.

The U.S. Department of Labor began investigating after it was contacted by postal officials. The post office learned about the arrangement from an employee whose child, a student at Southington High School, mentioned the project, a postal spokesman said.

Ken Jackson, a U.S. Department of Labor official in Hartford confirmed the investigation last week. He refused to discuss specifics, including which rules might have been violated.

On Oct. 14 the Viking Chorus will present a program at 2:30 p.m. The all male chorus features Norwegian music. On Oct. 16 Christopher Boynton, director of public policy of the Greater Hartford Board of Realtors will speak on "Housing Trends in the '90's: The Changing Market and Future Predictions."

The results for the Senior Pinocle game played on Oct. 4 at the Army and Navy club are: Via Laquere, 620; Dom Anastasio, 598; Harry Pospisil, 597; Jess Daley, 578; Hans Fredericksen, 574; Gladys Seebert, 572; Rene Mair, 569; Peter Casella, 561; Secna Andrew, 560; Edie O'Brien, 559; Peter Casella, 558. Play starts at 9:30 a.m. and is open to all senior members. The next game will be played on Oct. 11.

On Thursday, Oct. 11, "Understanding the Living Will" lecture will be given at the Arbors at Hop Brook at 10:30 a.m. All lectures and programs will be open to the public free of charge. Seating is limited and reservations are required. Please call 647-9343 for reservations and more information.

Red Cross course
A child care course will be offered by the American Red Cross Association on Oct. 13 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Manchester. The course is appropriate for grandparents. Teaches first aid, accident prevention, and more. For more information, call the Manchester office of the Red Cross at 643-5111.

Body Design classes set
Registrations are now being taken for the new class of Body Design, which will meet Tuesday and Thursday from 6:30 to 7:15 p.m. at the local YWCA, 78 N. Main St. Classes will start Oct. 23 and continue for six weeks. This non-aerobic workout is taught by a music therapist. Instructor will be Mary Covelver. For more information call 647-1437.

Drive-in theater demolition begins

PLAINVILLE (AP) — Cars pulled into the Plainville Drive-in theater for a fund-raiser, but there seems to be some question on whether that was legal or not, said Jerome Auclair, principal of Southington High School.

The U.S. Department of Labor began investigating after it was contacted by postal officials. The post office learned about the arrangement from an employee whose child, a student at Southington High School, mentioned the project, a postal spokesman said.

Ken Jackson, a U.S. Department of Labor official in Hartford confirmed the investigation last week. He refused to discuss specifics, including which rules might have been violated.

On Thursday, Oct. 11, "Understanding the Living Will" lecture will be given at the Arbors at Hop Brook at 10:30 a.m. All lectures and programs will be open to the public free of charge. Seating is limited and reservations are required. Please call 647-9343 for reservations and more information.

Red Cross course
A child care course will be offered by the American Red Cross Association on Oct. 13 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Manchester. The course is appropriate for grandparents. Teaches first aid, accident prevention, and more. For more information, call the Manchester office of the Red Cross at 643-5111.

Body Design classes set
Registrations are now being taken for the new class of Body Design, which will meet Tuesday and Thursday from 6:30 to 7:15 p.m. at the local YWCA, 78 N. Main St. Classes will start Oct. 23 and continue for six weeks. This non-aerobic workout is taught by a music therapist. Instructor will be Mary Covelver. For more information call 647-1437.

NEED SOME EXTRA SPENDING MONEY!!

Newspaper routes available in your area... Earn money and prizes by delivering the Manchester Herald in your neighborhood. Call today to get more details. 647-9946

Alpine	.....	all
Armory	.....	all
Bassett St.	.....	97-104
Dale Rd.	.....	all
Deepwood	.....	all
Devon	.....	all
East Center St.	.....	25-207 odd
East Center St.	.....	156-202
East Middle Tpk.	.....	216-298 even
Engelwood	.....	all
Garth Rd.	.....	69-138
Golway St.	.....	all
Greenwood	.....	1-226
Hardin St.	.....	all
Hillcrest	.....	all
Honora St.	.....	all
Jean Rd.	.....	0-29
Joseph St.	.....	all
Keeney St.	.....	1-84
Lodge	.....	all
Ludlow Rd.	.....	all
Main	.....	285-978
New State Road	.....	all
Packard St.	.....	all
Russell	.....	all
441 South Main Condo's	.....	all
Spence St.	.....	14
Squire Village	.....	all
Stoughwood	.....	all
Strong St.	.....	all
Wetherill	.....	all
Woodward	.....	all

MANCHESTER HEALTH DEPARTMENT

1990 VACCINE CLINICS

FOR FLU, PNEUMONIA, TETANUS AND DIPHTHERIA

Tuesday, October 16, 1990	9:00-12:00 noon	Senior Center 549 East Middle Turnpike	High risk adults including elderly
Wednesday, October 17, 1990	9:00-9:30 a.m.	Mayfair Gardens 211-215 North Main Street	High risk adults including elderly
Thursday, October 18, 1990	9:45-10:15 a.m.	Westhill Gardens 24 Bluffside Drive	High risk adults including elderly
Friday, October 19, 1990	1:30-2:30 p.m.	Spencer Village Pascual Lane	High risk adults including elderly
Wednesday, November 14, 1990	9:00-11:30 a.m.	Lincoln Center, Blue Room 494 Main Street	Town Employees Town Residents
Senior Center 549 East Middle Turnpike	High risk adults including elderly

Donation of $3.00 for flu and/or $8.00 for pneumococcal accepted but not mandatory. For further information call the Health Department 647-3173

CALL NOW 647-9946/643-2711

Manchester Herald

RECORD

About Town

Class of '34 reunion
Manchester High School's Class of 1934 will have its 56th class reunion Friday, Oct. 12 at the Manchester Country Club, from 11:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Dinner is at 1 p.m. There will be musical entertainment by "2 plus 2." Reservations should be in by Oct. 1, Call Ursula S. Matson for more information at 649-1666.

West Hartford folk concert
On Oct. 13, at 8 p.m., the Sounding Board will sponsor a folk concert at the First Church of Christ Congregational, 12 S. Main St., West Hartford, featuring "Cliff Haslam." Admission is $6; $5 for members. For more information, call 278-1445.

Parents anonymous
Parents Anonymous is looking for a volunteer to co-sponsor the Manchester group. Training, technical assistance and ongoing support are provided by Parents Anonymous. For more information, call Jill Spinetti at 523-5255.

Women's Club sets meeting
The Manchester Junior Women's Club will hold its monthly meeting on Oct. 18 at 7 p.m. at the Church of Christ, 394 Lydall St.

Arbors plans special programs
Arbors at Hop Brook has planned some special programs at the community, 403 W. Center St. All lectures and programs are open to the public free of charge. Refreshments are served one-half hour before the scheduled event.

Arbors plans special programs
On Thursday, Oct. 11, at 10:30 a.m., Attorney Diane Prior of Garry, Diana, Conti and Houck of Manchester, will lecture on "Understanding the Living Will." At 7 p.m. on Thursday, Dr. Wells C. Jacobson, orthopedic surgeon of Manchester Memorial Hospital, will lecture on "Hip and Knee Replacements."

Hubert M. Foster Jr.
Hubert M. Foster Jr., 70, of 41 Delmont St., Manchester, died Monday (Oct. 8) at Manchester Memorial Hospital. He was the husband of Helen (Conklin) Foster. He was born Sept. 25, 1920, in Livingston Manor, N.Y., and had been a Manchester resident since 1952. Prior to retiring in 1985, he had been employed by the Pratt & Whitney Division of United Technologies for more than 25 years, and was also the owner and operator of the former Schertle Art Gallery of Manchester during the 1970s.

Pinocle results
The results for the Senior Pinocle game played on Oct. 4 at the Army and Navy club are: Via Laquere, 620; Dom Anastasio, 598; Harry Pospisil, 597; Jess Daley, 578; Hans Fredericksen, 574; Gladys Seebert, 572; Rene Mair, 569; Peter Casella, 561; Secna Andrew, 560; Edie O'Brien, 559; Peter Casella, 558. Play starts at 9:30 a.m. and is open to all senior members. The next game will be played on Oct. 11.

Understanding the Living Will
On Thursday, Oct. 11, "Understanding the Living Will" lecture will be given at the Arbors at Hop Brook at 10:30 a.m. All lectures and programs will be open to the public free of charge. Seating is limited and reservations are required. Please call 647-9343 for reservations and more information.

Red Cross course
A child care course will be offered by the American Red Cross Association on Oct. 13 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Manchester. The course is appropriate for grandparents. Teaches first aid, accident prevention, and more. For more information, call the Manchester office of the Red Cross at 643-5111.

Body Design classes set
Registrations are now being taken for the new class of Body Design, which will meet Tuesday and Thursday from 6:30 to 7:15 p.m. at the local YWCA, 78 N. Main St. Classes will start Oct. 23 and continue for six weeks. This non-aerobic workout is taught by a music therapist. Instructor will be Mary Covelver. For more information call 647-1437.

Births
GORRA, William Brunette, son of William and Christine Brunette Gorra of West Hartford, was born Sept. 24 at Hartford Hospital. His maternal grandparents are Michael and Anne Brunette of Berlin. His paternal grandparents are George and Jennie Corra of Brian Drive, Berlin. He has three brothers, Zachary, Nicholas and David.

Webber, Alexa Marie, daughter of Stephen H. and Carone Webber of 462 Woodbridge St., was born Sept. 29 at Hartford Hospital. Her maternal grandparents are George and Agnes Carone of East Windsor. Her paternal grandparents are Dr. Hartson Webber of Broad Brook and Carol Webber of Newington. She has three sisters, Marissa Lynne, Kristin Michelle, and Britany Anne, 18 months. Her paternal great-grandmother is Nettie Buch of Kensington.

BROCK, Kelly Elaine, daughter of Dr. D. Lawrence and Sharon Meldrum Brock of Long Valley, N.J., was born Sept. 3 at Morristown Memorial Hospital, Morris-town, N.J. Her maternal grandparents are William J. and Hildegard H. Meldrum of Manchester. Her paternal grandmother is Mary Brock of New Port Richee, Fla. She has two sisters, Allison Leigh Bliokig, 14 and Leslie Jean Bliokig, 13.

Lottery
Here are Monday's lottery results from around New England:

Connecticut	Daily: 9-9-3. Play Four: 7-0-0-7
Massachusetts	Daily: 8-7-4-4
Northern New England	Pick Three: 5-6-9. Pick Four: 3-9-8-5
Rhode Island	Daily: 7-5-6-8

Weather

Partly sunny
The weather tonight in the greater Manchester area: cloudy with areas of fog. A 40 percent chance of showers, low near 60. Light south wind. Wednesday, a chance of early morning showers then partly sunny. High in the mid 70s. Chance of rain 30 percent. Outlook Thursday, partly sunny. A chance of afternoon showers. High 70 to 75.

A stationary front over southern New England this morning will move north as a warm front this afternoon and tonight. The front will stall over central New England Wednesday.

LUNCH BREAK — Concrete workers Remoaldo Cardoso, left, and Antonio de Pina, both of Norwalk, take a well-earned lunch break on Charter Oak St. in Manchester. The two men work for P.D.F. Construction Inc. of Waterford.

Obituaries

Hubert M. Foster Jr.
Hubert M. Foster Jr., 70, of 41 Delmont St., Manchester, died Monday (Oct. 8) at Manchester Memorial Hospital. He was the husband of Helen (Conklin) Foster. He was born Sept. 25, 1920, in Livingston Manor, N.Y., and had been a Manchester resident since 1952. Prior to retiring in 1985, he had been employed by the Pratt & Whitney Division of United Technologies for more than 25 years, and was also the owner and operator of the former Schertle Art Gallery of Manchester during the 1970s.

William W. Hammond
William W. Hammond, of Jupiter Inlet Colony, Fla., and Sutton, Vt., formerly of Hebron, died Thursday (Oct. 5) at the Southwestern Vermont Medical Center on the eve of his 78th birthday. He was born in Rosindale, Mass., and grew up in West Hartford. He taught school in Coventry for many years until his retirement years, and he and his wife resided at Jupiter Inlet Colony.

Funeral services
Funeral services will be Thursday, 11 a.m., at the Holmes Funeral Home, 400 Main St., Manchester. Burial will be in the Buckland Cemetery, Manchester. Calling hours are Wednesday, 7 to 9 p.m. and Thursday, 10 a.m. until the time of the service. Memorial contributions may be made to the Manchester Memorial Hospital Development Fund, 71 Haynes St., Manchester 06040.

In Memoriam
The members of Manchester Junior Women's Club wish to remember Clarence "Pete" Jellon on this anniversary of his birth. Pete was our friend and we will always keep him in our hearts for his kindness, his generosity and just for being "Pete."

Today In History
Today is Tuesday, Oct. 9, the 282nd day of 1990. There are 83 days left in the year.

Today's Birthdays
Senator Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., is 50. Singer Jackson Browne is 41. Football player Mike Singletary is 32.

Today's Highlight in History
On Oct. 9, 1888, the public was first admitted to the Washington Monument.

In 1635, religious dissident Roger Williams was banished from the Massachusetts Bay Colony.

In 1701, the Collegiate School of Connecticut — later Yale University — was chartered in New Haven.

In 1776, a group of Spanish missionaries settled in present-day San Francisco.

In 1855, Joshua C. Stoddard of Worcester, Mass., received a patent for the first callotype.

In 1919, the Cincinnati Reds won the World Series, five games to three in a best-of-nine contest, defeating the Chicago White Sox at Comiskey Park. (The victory turned hollow amid charges that eight members of the White Sox had thrown the Series in what became known as the "Black Sox" scandal.)

In 1930, Laura Ingalls became the first woman to fly across the United States as she completed a nine-stop journey from Roosevelt Field, N.Y., to Glendale, Calif.

Thoughts

Moses was yet another that had a physical liability that could have kept him from being successful in his life. Ex. 4:10 says that he had a speech impediment — he probably stuttered and stammered. Even though he was raised in Pharaoh's palace, he still had a burden for his Hebrew people. Poor Moses tried in his own strength to free a fellow Hebrew who was being mistreated by an Egyptian and ended committing murder. The Lord had a better way, and he spent the next several years preparing Moses and developing a relationship with him. The Lord became the Hebrew people's strength and their song and even their salvation as long as they followed after Him and His way. What a wonderful message for us today: that God is our strength, and our song, and even our salvation if we are obedient to His Word.

Manchester Herald Fellowship

Manchester Herald

Founded Dec. 15, 1881 as a weekly. Daily publication since Oct. 1, 1914.

USPS 327-500 VOL. CX, No. 8

Acting Publisher
Jeanne G. Fromerth

Executive Editor
Vincent Michael Velvo

News Editor
Andrew C. Spletzer

Associate Editor
Elaine Hirose Mae

Feature Editor
Dianna M. Talbot

Sports Editor
Lester J. Auer

Photo Editor
Roginial Piatos

Advertising Manager
Lesley Piatos

Business Manager
Jeanne G. Fromerth

Production Manager
Suzanne Collette

Production Director
Sheldon Cohen

Pressroom Manager
Robert H. Hubbard

Main Telephone Number: 643-2711
Circulation Telephone Number: 647-9946

Published daily except Sunday and certain holidays by the Manchester Publishing Co., 18 Brainard Place, Manchester, Conn. Postmaster: Send address changes to the Manchester Herald, P.O. Box 891, Manchester, Conn. 06040.

The Manchester Herald is a member of The Associated Press, the Audit Bureau of Circulation, the New England Press Association and the New England Newspaper Association.

Guaranteed delivery. If you don't receive your Herald by 5 p.m. weekdays or 7:30 a.m. Saturdays, please telephone your carrier. If you are unable to reach your carrier, call subscriber service at 647-9946 by 8 p.m. weekdays for delivery in Manchester. Outside of Manchester, suggested carrier rates are $1.80 weekly, $7.70 for one month, $22.10 for three months, $42.30 for six months and $92.40 for one year. Newsstand price: 35 cents a copy.

College Notes

Elected to Cum Laude Society
Alisa Y. Dascheky of 145 Kent Drive, a senior at Kingswood-Oxford School in West Hartford, has been elected to Cum Laude, the national honor society for independent school students.

Is freshman at Bryant
Christopher Conklin of 23 Lookout Mountain Drive, has entered his freshman year at Bryant College, Smithfield, R.I.

On Umass dean's list
Meredith K. Duggan, daughter of Carol and Cornelius Duggan of Hollister Street, has been named to the dean's list at the University of Massachusetts, Amherst, Mass. for the spring semester.

Two enter Rochester University
Karen K. Lee of 121 Shepard Drive and Rachel Anne Foran, of 143 Hebron Road, Andover, are freshmen this year at the University of Rochester, Rochester, N.Y.

Public Meetings

The following meetings are scheduled for today:

MANCHESTER
Board of Directors, Lincoln Center hearing room, 7:30 p.m.
8th District committee meeting (job descriptions), Willis Hall, 7 p.m.

ANDOVER
Inlands/Wetlands Commission, Town Office Building, 7:30 p.m.
Conservation Commission, Town Office Building, 7:30 p.m.
Board of Education, Andover Elementary School, 7:30 p.m.

BOLTON
Republican Town Committee, Community Hall, 7:30 p.m.
Board of Finance, Center School, 7:30 p.m.
Board of Education, K-4 Building, Bolton Elementary School, 7:30 p.m.

COVENTRY
Planning and Zoning Commission, Town Office Building, 7:30 p.m.
Finance Committee, Town Office Building, 7:30 p.m.
Democratic Town Committee, Town Office Building, 7:30 p.m.

HEBRON
Recycling Task Force, Town Hall, 7:30 p.m.
Planning and Zoning Workshop, Town Hall, 7 p.m.
Board of Finance, Town Hall, 7:30 p.m.
Housing Partnership, Town Hall, 7:30 p.m.

Thoughts

Moses was yet another that had a physical liability that could have kept him from being successful in his life. Ex. 4:10 says that he had a speech impediment — he probably stuttered and stammered. Even though he was raised in Pharaoh's palace, he still had a burden for his Hebrew people. Poor Moses tried in his own strength to free a fellow Hebrew who was being mistreated by an Egyptian and ended committing murder. The Lord had a better way, and he spent the next several years preparing Moses and developing a relationship with him. The Lord became the Hebrew people's strength and their song and even their salvation as long as they followed after Him and His way. What a wonderful message for us today: that God is our strength, and our song, and even our salvation if we are obedient to His Word.

Manchester Herald

Founded Dec. 15, 1881 as a weekly. Daily publication since Oct. 1, 1914.

USPS 327-500 VOL. CX, No. 8

Acting Publisher
Jeanne G. Fromerth

Executive Editor
Vincent Michael Velvo

News Editor
Andrew C. Spletzer

Associate Editor
Elaine Hirose Mae

Feature Editor
Dianna M. Talbot

Sports Editor
Lester J. Auer

Photo Editor
Roginial Piatos

Advertising Manager
Lesley Piatos

Business Manager
Jeanne G. Fromerth

Production Manager
Suzanne Collette

Production Director
Sheldon Cohen

Pressroom Manager
Robert H. Hubbard

Main Telephone Number: 643-2711
Circulation Telephone Number: 647-9946

Published daily except Sunday and certain holidays by the Manchester Publishing Co., 18 Brainard Place, Manchester, Conn. Postmaster: Send address changes to the Manchester Herald, P.O. Box 891, Manchester, Conn. 06040.

The Manchester Herald is a member of The Associated Press, the Audit Bureau of Circulation, the New England Press Association and the New England Newspaper Association.

Guaranteed delivery. If you don't receive your Herald by 5 p.m. weekdays or 7:30 a.m. Saturdays, please telephone your carrier. If you are unable to reach your carrier, call subscriber service at 647-9946 by 8 p.m. weekdays for delivery in Manchester. Outside of Manchester, suggested carrier rates are $1.80 weekly, $7.70 for one month, $22.10 for three months, $42.30 for six months and $92.40 for one year. Newsstand price: 35 cents a copy.

OCCT

FILED BY THE PROFESSIONALS AT
CREST INFORMATION TECHNOLOGIES, CEAR RAPIDS, IOWA

10990

FOCUS

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

Bosses are stuck with low budgets

DEAR ABBY: "Jo in Denver," the efficient, mature secretary who takes the present-day office manager wants to know why she is over the "mature woman with years of experience." Why? Because I will not have to hear, "That's not the way we did it at Mahoney, Valenti, Schwartz and Schindler."

DEAR ABBY: I could believe your saying that my good looks and youth never hurt anybody's chances in the job market, they will never be valued over competence! Where have you been?

DEAR ABBY: I'm taking a young, inexperienced secretary on my day over the "mature woman with years of experience." Why? Because I will not have to hear, "That's not the way we did it at Mahoney, Valenti, Schwartz and Schindler."

DEAR ABBY: I could believe your saying that my good looks and youth never hurt anybody's chances in the job market, they will never be valued over competence! Where have you been?

DEAR ABBY: I'm taking a young, inexperienced secretary on my day over the "mature woman with years of experience." Why? Because I will not have to hear, "That's not the way we did it at Mahoney, Valenti, Schwartz and Schindler."

DEAR ABBY: I could believe your saying that my good looks and youth never hurt anybody's chances in the job market, they will never be valued over competence! Where have you been?

DEAR ABBY: I'm taking a young, inexperienced secretary on my day over the "mature woman with years of experience." Why? Because I will not have to hear, "That's not the way we did it at Mahoney, Valenti, Schwartz and Schindler."

DEAR ABBY: I could believe your saying that my good looks and youth never hurt anybody's chances in the job market, they will never be valued over competence! Where have you been?

DEAR ABBY: I'm taking a young, inexperienced secretary on my day over the "mature woman with years of experience." Why? Because I will not have to hear, "That's not the way we did it at Mahoney, Valenti, Schwartz and Schindler."

DEAR ABBY: I could believe your saying that my good looks and youth never hurt anybody's chances in the job market, they will never be valued over competence! Where have you been?

DEAR ABBY: I'm taking a young, inexperienced secretary on my day over the "mature woman with years of experience." Why? Because I will not have to hear, "That's not the way we did it at Mahoney, Valenti, Schwartz and Schindler."

DEAR ABBY: I could believe your saying that my good looks and youth never hurt anybody's chances in the job market, they will never be valued over competence! Where have you been?

DEAR ABBY: I'm taking a young, inexperienced secretary on my day over the "mature woman with years of experience." Why? Because I will not have to hear, "That's not the way we did it at Mahoney, Valenti, Schwartz and Schindler."

DEAR ABBY: I could believe your saying that my good looks and youth never hurt anybody's chances in the job market, they will never be valued over competence! Where have you been?

DEAR ABBY: I'm taking a young, inexperienced secretary on my day over the "mature woman with years of experience." Why? Because I will not have to hear, "That's not the way we did it at Mahoney, Valenti, Schwartz and Schindler."

DEAR ABBY: I could believe your saying that my good looks and youth never hurt anybody's chances in the job market, they will never be valued over competence! Where have you been?

DEAR ABBY: I'm taking a young, inexperienced secretary on my day over the "mature woman with years of experience." Why? Because I will not have to hear, "That's not the way we did it at Mahoney, Valenti, Schwartz and Schindler."

DEAR ABBY: I could believe your saying that my good looks and youth never hurt anybody's chances in the job market, they will never be valued over competence! Where have you been?

DEAR ABBY: I'm taking a young, inexperienced secretary on my day over the "mature woman with years of experience." Why? Because I will not have to hear, "That's not the way we did it at Mahoney, Valenti, Schwartz and Schindler."

DEAR ABBY: I could believe your saying that my good looks and youth never hurt anybody's chances in the job market, they will never be valued over competence! Where have you been?

DEAR ABBY: I'm taking a young, inexperienced secretary on my day over the "mature woman with years of experience." Why? Because I will not have to hear, "That's not the way we did it at Mahoney, Valenti, Schwartz and Schindler."

DEAR ABBY: I could believe your saying that my good looks and youth never hurt anybody's chances in the job market, they will never be valued over competence! Where have you been?

DEAR ABBY: I'm taking a young, inexperienced secretary on my day over the "mature woman with years of experience." Why? Because I will not have to hear, "That's not the way we did it at Mahoney, Valenti, Schwartz and Schindler."

DEAR ABBY: I could believe your saying that my good looks and youth never hurt anybody's chances in the job market, they will never be valued over competence! Where have you been?

DEAR ABBY: I'm taking a young, inexperienced secretary on my day over the "mature woman with years of experience." Why? Because I will not have to hear, "That's not the way we did it at Mahoney, Valenti, Schwartz and Schindler."

DEAR ABBY: I could believe your saying that my good looks and youth never hurt anybody's chances in the job market, they will never be valued over competence! Where have you been?

DEAR ABBY: I'm taking a young, inexperienced secretary on my day over the "mature woman with years of experience." Why? Because I will not have to hear, "That's not the way we did it at Mahoney, Valenti, Schwartz and Schindler."

DEAR ABBY: I could believe your saying that my good looks and youth never hurt anybody's chances in the job market, they will never be valued over competence! Where have you been?

DEAR ABBY: I'm taking a young, inexperienced secretary on my day over the "mature woman with years of experience." Why? Because I will not have to hear, "That's not the way we did it at Mahoney, Valenti, Schwartz and Schindler."

DEAR ABBY: I could believe your saying that my good looks and youth never hurt anybody's chances in the job market, they will never be valued over competence! Where have you been?

DEAR ABBY: I'm taking a young, inexperienced secretary on my day over the "mature woman with years of experience." Why? Because I will not have to hear, "That's not the way we did it at Mahoney, Valenti, Schwartz and Schindler."

DEAR ABBY: I could believe your saying that my good looks and youth never hurt anybody's chances in the job market, they will never be valued over competence! Where have you been?

DEAR ABBY: I'm taking a young, inexperienced secretary on my day over the "mature woman with years of experience." Why? Because I will not have to hear, "That's not the way we did it at Mahoney, Valenti, Schwartz and Schindler."

PEOPLE

Radio sports announcer Johnny Most, whose gravelly voice and partisan game-calling were beloved by generations of Boston Celtics fans, has retired because of ill health.

Most, who delivered basketball play-by-play for 37 seasons at Boston Garden, underwent a triple bypass heart operation last year that forced him to miss most of the 1989-90 season.

"It is only because of my health that I am forced to do this," Most said Monday. "Unfortunately, I am no longer strong enough to do play-by-play or color."

Most, 67, will not completely relinquish the microphone. He will host a short Celtics pregame show on radio station WEEI this season.

Cigarettes and coffee contributed to his coarse voice, he said.

Former President Reagan is returning to visit his boyhood home, but he wants to do it with as little fanfare as possible.

Reagan hasn't often visited Dixon because "everywhere he goes he attracts attention," said Martin Misner, executive director of the Reagan Home Preservation Foundation.

Reagan's last visit to Dixon, about 90 miles west of Chicago, came in 1984. Before he was elected president in 1980, he attended his 50th high school reunion at North Side High in 1978.

"It is interesting to watch that he has come back as a private citizen," Misner said Sunday. "There is no itinerary."

Reagan, who is coming to town Oct. 30, may attend a few private functions but plans no public appearances, Misner said.

Reagan was born in Tampico, about 25 miles southwest of Dixon, where he will live. Nancy, in the Los Angeles suburb of Bel-Air.

Willy Brandt, who won the 1971 Nobel Peace Prize for helping ease Cold War tensions, welcomed socialist who once worked underground behind the Iron Curtain to their first Socialist International convention.

Delegates from Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and what until last week was East Germany joined colleagues from the West in Bonn Monday at the two-day gathering of about 300 socialist leaders from 91 parties.

"We are delighted that the various parts of Europe are coming together and that we can welcome back our friends who for many years had been prevented from joining us," said Brandt, president of the Socialist International and former West German chancellor.

"And with very personal joy I add — the artificial division of my country finally ended just five days ago."

Brandt said the fallen communist regimes gave socialism a bad name.

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Big But Bankable

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Most teen-agers do not know the facts about drugs, AIDS, and how to prevent unwanted pregnancy. It's all in Abby's new, updated, expanded booklet, "What Every Teen Should Know." To order, send a business-size, self-addressed envelope, plus check or money order for $3.95 ($4.50 in Canada) to Dear Abby Teen Booklet, P.O. Box 447, Mount Morris, Ill. 61054. (Postage is included.)

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

Iron toxicity extremely rare

DEAR DR. GOTT: I recently lost a close friend who suffered from fatigue, nausea, vomiting, abdominal pain, headaches, loss of appetite and weakness. He was on a well-known tonic that contained 50 milligrams of iron. Could he have suffered from iron toxicity?

DEAR READER: Iron poisoning is almost always acute and, for practical purposes, is limited to small children who accidentally ingest iron-containing pills, some of which, unfortunately, look like M&Ms.

Acute iron toxicity causes diarrhea, abdominal pain, lethargy, seizures and gastric bleeding; if untreated, the condition can lead to coma and death.

Iron overload (hemochromatosis) is the most prevalent form of toxicity in adults. It is a genetic disease that causes diabetes, heart failure and inflammation/scarring of the liver (cirrhosis). Hemochromatosis would not cause the symptoms you describe. In addition, 50 milligrams of iron is not particularly excessive; the Recommended Daily Allowance is 10 to 18 milligrams.

In healthy adults, excess iron is eliminated in the stool. Therefore, iron toxicity is extremely rare — except when patients take massive doses (in a suicide attempt). Hemochromatosis is an hereditary disease that interferes with the normal controls preventing excess absorption of the mineral.

I believe your friend died from causes other than iron toxicity.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 72-year-old wife has a problem with not being able to take a few steps forward without stepping to the left or right. She's undergone an MRI, carotid ultrasound, audiologic evaluation, auditory brain stem response, EKG, Holter monitor and routine blood work — all with negative results. What would you suggest?

DEAR READER: I suggest a consultation with a neurologist, if you haven't already obtained one. It sounds to me as though your wife has a neurological disease that is extremely difficult to diagnose.

For instance, two possibilities — Parkinson's disease and multiple sclerosis — spring to mind; neither can be diagnosed in the early stages of the tests you listed. A neurologist, by meticulously examining your wife, should be able to narrow the possibilities and, I hope, arrive at a "clinical judgment," based on how your wife appears.

If she has been examined by a neurologist, I recommend a referral to a diagnostic clinic at a teaching hospital, where specialists would assume unusual and challenging medical problems.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was honored to receive the 1990 Walter Cronkite Award for Excellence in Journalism and Telecommunications. The award, announced Monday, is presented each year by the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Telecommunications at Arizona State University.

Turner's operations include Cable News Network and Turner Network Television.

The award will be presented by Cronkite on Nov. 7.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was honored to receive the 1990 Walter Cronkite Award for Excellence in Journalism and Telecommunications. The award, announced Monday, is presented each year by the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Telecommunications at Arizona State University.

Turner's operations include Cable News Network and Turner Network Television.

The award will be presented by Cronkite on Nov. 7.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was honored to receive the 1990 Walter Cronkite Award for Excellence in Journalism and Telecommunications. The award, announced Monday, is presented each year by the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Telecommunications at Arizona State University.

Turner's operations include Cable News Network and Turner Network Television.

The award will be presented by Cronkite on Nov. 7.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was honored to receive the 1990 Walter Cronkite Award for Excellence in Journalism and Telecommunications. The award, announced Monday, is presented each year by the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Telecommunications at Arizona State University.

Turner's operations include Cable News Network and Turner Network Television.

The award will be presented by Cronkite on Nov. 7.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was honored to receive the 1990 Walter Cronkite Award for Excellence in Journalism and Telecommunications. The award, announced Monday, is presented each year by the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Telecommunications at Arizona State University.

Turner's operations include Cable News Network and Turner Network Television.

The award will be presented by Cronkite on Nov. 7.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was honored to receive the 1990 Walter Cronkite Award for Excellence in Journalism and Telecommunications. The award, announced Monday, is presented each year by the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Telecommunications at Arizona State University.

Turner's operations include Cable News Network and Turner Network Television.

The award will be presented by Cronkite on Nov. 7.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was honored to receive the 1990 Walter Cronkite Award for Excellence in Journalism and Telecommunications. The award, announced Monday, is presented each year by the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Telecommunications at Arizona State University.

Turner's operations include Cable News Network and Turner Network Television.

The award will be presented by Cronkite on Nov. 7.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was honored to receive the 1990 Walter Cronkite Award for Excellence in Journalism and Telecommunications. The award, announced Monday, is presented each year by the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Telecommunications at Arizona State University.

Turner's operations include Cable News Network and Turner Network Television.

The award will be presented by Cronkite on Nov. 7.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was honored to receive the 1990 Walter Cronkite Award for Excellence in Journalism and Telecommunications. The award, announced Monday, is presented each year by the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Telecommunications at Arizona State University.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

Iron toxicity extremely rare

DEAR DR. GOTT: I recently lost a close friend who suffered from fatigue, nausea, vomiting, abdominal pain, headaches, loss of appetite and weakness. He was on a well-known tonic that contained 50 milligrams of iron. Could he have suffered from iron toxicity?

DEAR READER: Iron poisoning is almost always acute and, for practical purposes, is limited to small children who accidentally ingest iron-containing pills, some of which, unfortunately, look like M&Ms.

Acute iron toxicity causes diarrhea, abdominal pain, lethargy, seizures and gastric bleeding; if untreated, the condition can lead to coma and death.

Iron overload (hemochromatosis) is the most prevalent form of toxicity in adults. It is a genetic disease that causes diabetes, heart failure and inflammation/scarring of the liver (cirrhosis). Hemochromatosis would not cause the symptoms you describe. In addition, 50 milligrams of iron is not particularly excessive; the Recommended Daily Allowance is 10 to 18 milligrams.

In healthy adults, excess iron is eliminated in the stool. Therefore, iron toxicity is extremely rare — except when patients take massive doses (in a suicide attempt). Hemochromatosis is an hereditary disease that interferes with the normal controls preventing excess absorption of the mineral.

I believe your friend died from causes other than iron toxicity.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 72-year-old wife has a problem with not being able to take a few steps forward without stepping to the left or right. She's undergone an MRI, carotid ultrasound, audiologic evaluation, auditory brain stem response, EKG, Holter monitor and routine blood work — all with negative results. What would you suggest?

DEAR READER: I suggest a consultation with a neurologist, if you haven't already obtained one. It sounds to me as though your wife has a neurological disease that is extremely difficult to diagnose.

For instance, two possibilities — Parkinson's disease and multiple sclerosis — spring to mind; neither can be diagnosed in the early stages of the tests you listed. A neurologist, by meticulously examining your wife, should be able to narrow the possibilities and, I hope, arrive at a "clinical judgment," based on how your wife appears.

If she has been examined by a neurologist, I recommend a referral to a diagnostic clinic at a teaching hospital, where specialists would assume unusual and challenging medical problems.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was honored to receive the 1990 Walter Cronkite Award for Excellence in Journalism and Telecommunications. The award, announced Monday, is presented each year by the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Telecommunications at Arizona State University.

Turner's operations include Cable News Network and Turner Network Television.

The award will be presented by Cronkite on Nov. 7.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was honored to receive the 1990 Walter Cronkite Award for Excellence in Journalism and Telecommunications. The award, announced Monday, is presented each year by the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Telecommunications at Arizona State University.

Turner's operations include Cable News Network and Turner Network Television.

The award will be presented by Cronkite on Nov. 7.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was honored to receive the 1990 Walter Cronkite Award for Excellence in Journalism and Telecommunications. The award, announced Monday, is presented each year by the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Telecommunications at Arizona State University.

Turner's operations include Cable News Network and Turner Network Television.

The award will be presented by Cronkite on Nov. 7.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was honored to receive the 1990 Walter Cronkite Award for Excellence in Journalism and Telecommunications. The award, announced Monday, is presented each year by the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Telecommunications at Arizona State University.

Turner's operations include Cable News Network and Turner Network Television.

The award will be presented by Cronkite on Nov. 7.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was honored to receive the 1990 Walter Cronkite Award for Excellence in Journalism and Telecommunications. The award, announced Monday, is presented each year by the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Telecommunications at Arizona State University.

Turner's operations include Cable News Network and Turner Network Television.

The award will be presented by Cronkite on Nov. 7.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was honored to receive the 1990 Walter Cronkite Award for Excellence in Journalism and Telecommunications. The award, announced Monday, is presented each year by the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Telecommunications at Arizona State University.

Turner's operations include Cable News Network and Turner Network Television.

The award will be presented by Cronkite on Nov. 7.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was honored to receive the 1990 Walter Cronkite Award for Excellence in Journalism and Telecommunications. The award, announced Monday, is presented each year by the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Telecommunications at Arizona State University.

Turner's operations include Cable News Network and Turner Network Television.

The award will be presented by Cronkite on Nov. 7.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was honored to receive the 1990 Walter Cronkite Award for Excellence in Journalism and Telecommunications. The award, announced Monday, is presented each year by the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Telecommunications at Arizona State University.

Turner's operations include Cable News Network and Turner Network Television.

The award will be presented by Cronkite on Nov. 7.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I was honored to receive the 1990 Walter Cronkite Award for Excellence in Journalism and Telecommunications. The award, announced Monday, is presented each year by the Walter Cronkite School of Journalism and Telecommunications at Arizona State University.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

Iron toxicity extremely rare

DEAR DR. GOTT: I recently lost a close friend who suffered from fatigue, nausea, vomiting, abdominal pain, headaches, loss of appetite and weakness. He was on a well-known tonic that contained 50 milligrams of iron. Could he have suffered from iron toxicity?

DEAR READER: Iron poisoning is almost always acute and, for practical purposes, is limited to small children who accidentally ingest iron-containing pills, some of which, unfortunately, look like M&Ms.

Acute iron toxicity causes diarrhea, abdominal pain, lethargy, seizures and gastric bleeding; if untreated, the condition can lead to coma and death.

Iron overload (hemochromatosis) is the most prevalent form of toxicity in adults. It is a genetic disease that causes diabetes, heart failure and inflammation/scarring of the liver (cirrhosis). Hemochromatosis would not cause the symptoms you describe. In addition, 50 milligrams of iron is not particularly excessive; the Recommended Daily Allowance is 10 to 18 mill

