

Pirates facing wholesale losses in free agent market

By ALAN ROBINSON
The Associated Press

PITTSBURGH — The Pittsburgh Pirates are learning the hard way that nothing comes for free on the free agent market.

The free-agent signings of Darren Daulton ($6.75 million by Philadelphia) and Bud Black ($10 million by San Francisco) have put the fear in general manager Larry Doughty that the Pirates may lose all eight of their free agents.

"They're already lost one, outfielder R.J. Reynolds, and Doughty is worried the rest would deal with the Pirates out of the financial ballpark for pitcher Zane Smith and catcher Don Slaught."

"It would not surprise me if we lost every one of them," Doughty said.

The Pirates have started preliminary talks with most of their free agents — Smith, Slaught, Sid Beaman, Wally Backman, Rafael DiBella, Ted Power and Gary Redus.

"They aren't scrambling to re-sign Beaman and Power at current market prices, but the rest would deal with the Pirates out of the financial ballpark for pitcher Zane Smith and catcher Don Slaught."

"We've made legitimate offers," Doughty said. "There is some room for negotiation. In a couple of other cases, we just have to say adios if there are better offers."

"That didn't escape the attention of three-time All-Star Bobby Bonilla, who can become a free agent after the 1991 season. Bonilla, who said he wants to stay in Pittsburgh, has asked for a $15 million contract. Instead, he may sign a one-year contract and see if free agency wrecks the National League East championship."

"There's a lot of craziness going on out there," Burger said. "You hope they're just aberrations. Believe me, the Bud Black thing floored me. It certainly didn't help us with Zane Smith. These contracts are mind boggling to me."

If the 35-year-old Black, with a history of arm problems and an 83-82 career record, commands $10 million on the open market, how much is Smith worth?

The Pirates almost don't want to know.

Smith was 6-2 with a 1.30 ERA down the stretch for the Pirates, and pitching coach Ray Miller and manager Jim Leyland said it's essential to re-sign him and Beaman.

Lady wishes for X-mas at home

DEAR ABBY: The holiday season is approaching and I am faced with my annual problem about Christmas. My husband and I have been married for four years; we have no children as yet, but we both have busy careers. Every year since our marriage, my husband wants us to spend a peaceful Christmas at home, but each year so far, we have given in to my family's wishes that we spend Christmas Day with them.

This involves our driving 250 miles round trip, since my family's Christmases are always held at my brother's home because he has young children.

Last year, I suggested that the family get-together be held on either the weekend before, or after, Christmas. My parents and my brother promptly vetoed my suggestion.

Trying to solve this problem without making someone angry makes my holidays miserable. Can you offer me any advice?

DEAR DREADING: DREADING CHRISTMAS means to dread Christmas in a manner that pleases YOU. Give your family and brother notice immediately, and don't be meek or apologetic when you tell them you've decided to stay home for Christmas.

Once you make your declaration clear, perhaps your suggesting of visiting the weekend after Christmas will receive a merrier reception.

DEAR ABBY: For the third or fourth time this year, I have received a chain letter. I throw them in the trash basket, but I have known several people who get terribly upset about not answering them. Some of them have been people who could not really afford the stamps to do so but were afraid of the threats of terrible things that would happen to them.

I am tired of being told I will die immediately or lose my job if I don't send this on, none of which has happened because I believe only the Lord knows when my time is up. But other people go to pieces over it. I would turn them in to the post office if there was an address, but there isn't. What can we do about this stuff? I won't sign my name because I'd be sure to get a dozen more.

DEAR END: Please do not discuss a threatening chain letter. Chain letters are clearly in violation of the law. Send them to your postmaster with the envelope in which they were mailed. The postmark may provide a clue in locating the sender.

PEOPLE

Mayor Bill Stirling's two dogs might have a bone to pick with their master, who is raising the pets to be strict vegetarians like himself.

"People are curious and amused at first because it is contrary to the popular myth that dogs need to have meat to thrive," Stirling said.

Stirling's household is bound to set the public straight. He said he feeds his dogs carrots, celery, lettuce and new-age commercial dog food that contains no animal protein.

Sterling says Glenda, a large malamute, and Emily, a Hungarian sheep dog, "are absolutely thriving, in perfect physical health."

Despite being carnivores, dogs can eat like rabbits and "be healthy on a vegetarian diet if it is done properly," said Aspen veterinarian Scott Dolginow.

Stirling said he and his wife, Katharine Thalberg, also avoid leather in their wardrobes to maintain their vegetarian principles.

Stirling and Thalberg promoted Aspen's proposed ban on fur sales last February. Voters decisively defeated the ordinance.

Ron Reagan, son of the former president, is getting his own syndicated late-night talk show, a spokesman for the as-yet-untitled weightless series said Friday.

The show, to be based in Los Angeles and co-produced by MCA-TV and Fox Television Stations Inc., will be shown on the seven TV stations owned by Fox, and syndicated to other stations.

Each one-hour program will offer topical talk, comedy and contemporary music in what the show's producers called a "thematically-driven format."

Reagan, 32, left ABC's "Good Morning America" last summer after four years as a contributing reporter.

The emir of Bahrain is receiving medical care at the Cleveland Clinic, according to an official of the Persian Gulf country's embassy in Washington.

The unidentified official told The Plain Dealer newspaper that Sheik Isa bin Salman Al Khalifa, 57, flew to Cleveland from Bahrain on Wednesday for a routine checkup.

The Cleveland Clinic is widely known for its coronary expertise and past treatment of leaders from the Middle East. A State Department official said the Arab leader suffered a heart attack Oct. 14.

Hospital officials on Friday refused to confirm the sheik's visit.

Bahrain is supporting the U.S. effort to oust Iraqi forces from Kuwait.

The Khalifa family has ruled the country since 1782. Sheik Isa became emir in 1961.

Country singer Carlene Carter is planning a sentimental journey with her father, Nashville crooner Carl Smith, on a cable television program.

Carter will perform the song "You Are the One," which Smith originally recorded in 1956 — the year she was born. Carter brought back the tune this year by recording it for her hit album "I Fell in Love."

Smith, 63, who has not performed publicly for five years, also will sing on the "Nashville Now" variety program Monday on The Nashville Network. He will perform his 1971 song "Red Door."

Susan Sizemore, a spokeswoman for the show, said Friday there are no plans for them to sing together.

Carter's mother is country music veteran June Carter Cash, now married to country star Johnny Cash.

Willie Nelson raised millions with his Farm Aid concerts. Now the country music star's fans say it's time to return the favor with "Willie Aid" and help Nelson out of a $16 million tax jam.

Nelson, who with singer John Cougar Mellencamp founded the Farm Aid movement to save struggling farmers from foreclosure, had 22 of his properties in four states seized by the Internal Revenue Service last week. The IRS says Nelson owes $16.7 million in back taxes, interest and penalties for 1975-78 and 1980-82.

"If everybody'd just give a dollar, everybody, who loves him and his music, we'd get it in no time," said Anna White, co-owner of Austin's Broken Spoke dance hall, where Nelson was a frequent performer in the 1960s.

Mrs. White and others are spearheading fund-raising drives to help Nelson, who has won five Grammys and whose platinum-selling albums include "Starstruck," "Poncho and Lefty" and "Red-Headed Stranger."

Among properties seized were Nelson's Pedernales Country Club and recording studio near Austin and his Pedernales Fishing Camp. Also seized were land and houses in Colorado, Alabama and Washington state, said IRS spokeswoman Silvia Tovar.

Mrs. Tovar said agency rules prohibited her from saying whether Nelson has paid any of the bill. She said no date had been set for auctioning the properties.

Nelson, 57, reportedly was in Hawaii this week and not available for comment. Neither his lawyer nor his manager returned calls Thursday.

Nelson has said a former business manager did not file the singer's tax returns and left his finances in a shambles.

Mrs. White and her husband, James, are organizing a benefit dance Dec. 2 and contacting such performers as George Strait for items they might auction.

James Hataway, a barber in nearby West Lake Hills, said he is opening a bank account for people who want to donate. "I'm just a little guy, a fan who's got all of his records," he said. "But I think we ought to help Willie out."

Vitamins don't help PMS

DEAR DR. GOTT: A while back you printed an article regarding PMS and a combination of vitamins that helped substantially. Can you reprint this for me?

DEAR READER: Actually, I said that premenstrual syndrome (moodiness, fluid retention, malaise and depression) cannot be helped by vitamin supplements. Although some practitioners advocate vitamin B-6 (pyridoxine) for this condition, no reputable scientific study has shown such a supplement to be beneficial. Nor has magnesium, another dietary supplement, been found to be effective, despite claims to the contrary.

At present, the cause of (and treatment for) PMS remains undiscovered. Experts recommend that women with PMS undergo thorough gynecological examinations and work with their gynecologists to discover methods, such as the judicious use of hormones or diuretics, to control symptoms.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Would you please explain CMV (cytomegalovirus)? I understand it is a combination of hepatitis and mononucleosis.

DEAR READER: Cytomegalovirus infection can be serious in adults. The virus, which is related to herpes, initially causes flu-like symptoms (fever, sore throat and aches) that usually disappear within a few days. The virus may then lie dormant in the system for years, periodically reactivating to cause fatigue, fever, malaise and rash.

Although CMV is ubiquitous (up to 90 percent of adults have been infected in the past), it rarely causes serious consequences. Nonetheless, some patients develop a disease resembling mononucleosis, with ex-haustion, swollen glands and tonsillitis. In others, CMV infection can cause hepatitis, with jaundice, fever and nausea. CMV has, in some cases, been linked to the chronic fatigue syndrome, a poorly understood condition, marked by lethargy and loss of stamina.

Active congenital infection (spread from mother to infant before birth) may be serious and uncurable, leading to stillbirth and post-natal death from hemorrhage, brain damage and liver failure.

CMV is diagnosed by isolating the virus from various body fluids or by demonstrating anti-CMV antibodies in blood tests. The disease is uncurable, but most patients recover uneventfully.

CMV is distinct from the viruses that cause mononucleosis and hepatitis — but it often produces symptoms that mimic these diseases.

CMV is distinct from the viruses that cause mononucleosis and hepatitis — but it often produces symptoms that mimic these diseases.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Would you please explain CMV (cytomegalovirus)? I understand it is a combination of hepatitis and mononucleosis.

DEAR READER: Cytomegalovirus infection can be serious in adults. The virus, which is related to herpes, initially causes flu-like symptoms (fever, sore throat and aches) that usually disappear within a few days. The virus may then lie dormant in the system for years, periodically reactivating to cause fatigue, fever, malaise and rash.

Although CMV is ubiquitous (up to 90 percent of adults have been infected in the past), it rarely causes serious consequences. Nonetheless, some patients develop a disease resembling mononucleosis, with ex-haustion, swollen glands and tonsillitis. In others, CMV infection can cause hepatitis, with jaundice, fever and nausea. CMV has, in some cases, been linked to the chronic fatigue syndrome, a poorly understood condition, marked by lethargy and loss of stamina.

Active congenital infection (spread from mother to infant before birth) may be serious and uncurable, leading to stillbirth and post-natal death from hemorrhage, brain damage and liver failure.

CMV is diagnosed by isolating the virus from various body fluids or by demonstrating anti-CMV antibodies in blood tests. The disease is uncurable, but most patients recover uneventfully.

Vitamins don't help PMS

DEAR DR. GOTT: A while back you printed an article regarding PMS and a combination of vitamins that helped substantially. Can you reprint this for me?

DEAR READER: Actually, I said that premenstrual syndrome (moodiness, fluid retention, malaise and depression) cannot be helped by vitamin supplements. Although some practitioners advocate vitamin B-6 (pyridoxine) for this condition, no reputable scientific study has shown such a supplement to be beneficial. Nor has magnesium, another dietary supplement, been found to be effective, despite claims to the contrary.

At present, the cause of (and treatment for) PMS remains undiscovered. Experts recommend that women with PMS undergo thorough gynecological examinations and work with their gynecologists to discover methods, such as the judicious use of hormones or diuretics, to control symptoms.

Weicker names three aides including Twardy, D'Amore

By Judd Everhart, The Associated Press

HARTFORD (AP) — Gov-elect Lowell P. Weicker Jr. named three top aides Friday and said he would announce his choice for the critical position of budget director on Monday.

Weicker named longtime Republican lawyer Lawrence J. Halloran of West Hartford as his legal counsel. U.S. Attorney Stanley A. Twardy Jr. and Weicker campaign vice-chairman Thomas J. D'Amore Jr. will serve as special assistants to Weicker.

Speculation mounted on who the next secretary of the Office of Policy and Management would be, but two of the men who have been consistently mentioned as candidates for the post ruled themselves out Friday.

They are Fairfield banker Joseph McGee, who briefly sought the Republican gubernatorial nomination this year before deciding to back Weicker in his independent bid for the office; and retiring state House Minority Leader Robert G. Jackle of Stratford, who ran for lieutenant governor on the GOP ticket this year.

A third potential secretary of the Office of Policy and Management, retiring state Senate Minority Leader Reginald J. Smith of West Hartford, refused comment on the post. A fourth, retiring state Rep. William J. Cibes Jr. of New London, who lost a primary for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in September, said he had not been asked directly about the post.

At a state Capitol news conference Friday, Weicker said he had offered the job to someone and that that person accepted it.

He refused to say anything more. Transportation Commissioner J. William Burns, who has also been mentioned either for OPM or possibly to stay on in his current job under Weicker, said he had not been contacted by the Weicker camp.

Also mentioned has been former U.S. Rep. Lawrence J. DeBardis, R-Conn., who now heads the government research and watchdog group known as the Connecticut Public Expense Council. He has indicated he is not a contender for the post.

Twardy, who has served as Connecticut's top federal prosecutor since 1985, said he was giving up his powerful, high-profile job "as a because Weicker's offer was."

Halloran, a 39-year-old lawyer, served as Weicker's campaign legal adviser and was executive director of the Connecticut Republican Party from 1987 to 1989. He worked for years for U.S. Sen. Dan Claitor, McKinney, R-Conn., who died in 1987.

"I went for the best and I got the best," Weicker said of Twardy, D'Amore and Halloran.

Trump, investors reach truce

By Judd Everhart, The Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP) — Donald Trump and bondholders in his Taj Mahal casino agreed Friday to a restructuring of the gambling parlor's debt that will likely put it under bankruptcy-court protection and give bondholders full ownership.

Some details of the arrangement were still to be worked out, but bondholder representatives said it contained several incentives for Trump to improve the performance of the Taj Mahal, which was due to open to receive 50 percent of the stock in the casino.

Of the 12 percent interest, 10 percent will be paid in cash and 2 percent in payable in bonds. The interest payment that was due at midnight Thursday will be added to the principal amount of the bonds.

The maturity date of the bonds was pushed back to 2000 instead of 1998, but the terms are substantially better than the 9 percent interest rate and 20 percent stake originally proposed by Trump.

The deal makes Trump responsible for keeping the Taj Mahal in reasonable financial health. Wilbur Ross, the chief representative of the bondholders group, said the casino now operates within 15 percent of its budget or control of it will pass to bondholders.

But if Trump is able to pay the original 14 percent interest on the bonds, his stake in the Taj Mahal will increase to 80 percent.

"It's very much a carrot and stick approach here that we've adopted," said Robert Miller, an attorney for the bondholders.

Miller said the bankruptcy filing would be made within a few weeks. When the Taj Mahal opened, it advertised itself as the "Eighth Wonder of the World," but it hasn't been able to make the $1.3 million that that analysis said it would need to open.

The hearing adjourned until Monday, leaving only Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., to make his defense statement. After he speaks, witnesses will be called.

Under a compromise arrangement, Trump and his investors agreed to restructure the debt in Atlantic City.

The deal was reached about 12 hours after Trump missed a $47.3 million interest payment on $675 million worth of high-yield junk bonds used to finance the Taj Mahal. The bondholders had threatened to push Trump into bankruptcy proceedings and seize control of the casino.

Remembering Anna Ruddy

To the Editor:
Few persons today are aware of what the Anna C. Ruddy Memorial Award symbolizes. It might be a measure of fairness to pay respect to Miss Ruddy after many decades have elapsed.

The clan of Ruddy was born in the County of Ulster, Ireland in the early 1800s and like so many other emigrants to the United States during the great potato famine, The Ruddys went to Canada to seek better chances in life and produced a tall, Auburn-haired daughter named Anna.

Miss Ruddy had a call from God to become a missionary and she chose the Italian immigrants in New York's East Harlem, who at that time (1890), were packed into one square mile at the staggering number of 290,000. The result was a plethora of disease, crime and hopelessness which manifested itself into a high suicide rate.

When Anna Ruddy entered the squalid slums of the Italians, she found conditions beyond her belief. Apartments were poorly-ventilated, perhaps windowless with more than seven persons sleeping in one room.

Anna Ruddy centered her efforts on the Italian children who were dying at a high death rate due to Tuberculosis.

Penates, Miss Ruddy established the Home Garden Mission Center. There she taught the Italian children with all lessons centered on the Bible and Jesus Christ.

Miss Ruddy taught that to do wrong was against the Bible and teachings of Christ. She held Sunday schools and several nights a week Bible classes were conducted for the tough East Side Italians who were just as at home in a street fight as at school.

Miss Ruddy found employment for the Italian youth and often mediated between the Italians and the Irish policemen, who, in that era, were more tuned into the needs of the poor.

The Boys Club was formed by Anna Ruddy so that some form of culture could be imparted to the ghetto Italians in the form of plays, singing and lectures.

Our country could do with fewer rocket scientists, missile launcher engineers and $20-million-a-year ball players.

What our country needs is a few more people like Anna C. Ruddy.

Education spending

To the Editor:
The essential purpose of open political debate is to discover the best course of policy. Yet the Andover Board of Education resorts to any taxpayer's factual disagreement with its spendthrift methods as though any opposition is a gross distortion of reality.

The average cost per pupil in Connecticut is $7,934, including junior high and high school education. Yet Andover's citizens are taxed at $8,300 per pupil ($1.9 million divided by 229 students), for only elementary school! Why is our per pupil figure inflated so? Because we have a bloated educational bureaucracy.

Can anyone tell me why our school has a "media specialist" (full salary), or a "challenge-enrichment" person ($9,000 salary)? Aren't the students given enough classroom work in mastering the basics? Talk about wasting money!

Let's listen to J'Amie Adams, a well-respected lady who heads up her own private tutoring firm in Washington, D.C.

"Classroom enrichment" — a wonderfully impressive phrase — is another way in which orderly routine may be disrupted. Enrichment can mean almost anything — field trips, special speakers, role playing, cooking projects, films, etc. Parents should not be fooled by schools or teachers that boast of many enrichment projects.

Remember that on the elementary level, the purpose of school is to learn reading, writing, and arithmetic. Those subjects are learned by practicing and doing them a lot. When your child is baking cookies, he may be having fun, but he is not learning to read.

Young children get very excited by classroom interruptions and it takes time to calm them and get back to work after extraordinary activities. Field trips and other such changes in routine should be used very sparingly, and should have specific relevance to subjects being studied."

1990: a year of conflict

WASHINGTON — Worried about the prospect of war in the Persian Gulf? It's grim indeed, but you might think about it this way: If the rumors are correct and the United States does attack Iraq in the next few months, the battling will at least be in keeping with the general mathematics for these kinds of things.

The War Annual is published in England, edited by a prolific military author named John Laffin, who suggests he is prolific because, writing about war, he never runs out of material. Laffin says even with the new political accords between the major East-West powers, the force of arms remains a growth industry.

Laffin notes that a few of the present wars are well-known. For instance, the harsh activities in Lebanon and Northern Ireland. But most of the struggles are localized and obscure, from Bangladesh to Uganda, and at least one confrontation, the Islamic Holy War against Moslem enemies, has been in session for 13 centuries.

The War Annual says the dirtiest war today may be the guerrilla business in Guatemala, where more than 110,000 unarmed civilians have been killed since 1960. Otherwise, Laffin writes that the conflicts are terrible everywhere, and there are three in India at present, four in the Middle East, eight in Africa, and so forth.

Here are some of them: Bangladesh. The Chittagong Hill Tract people (Buddhists) have sought autonomy since Bangladesh (Moslem) separated from Pakistan in 1971. Some of the tribes are now said to be marked for genocide by government troops. A reported 6,500 villagers have been Myanmar. The vicious scrap in this Southeast Asian country, formerly known as Burma, has gone on for years. The inhabitants of the state of Mozambique. The war is a civil affair between the Marxist government and South African dominated guerrillas. The turmoil has resulted in systematic murder, rape and child enslavement and has been characterized by one U.S. African expert as "the most brutal holocaust against ordinary human beings since World War II."

Incidentally, the situation in Sri Lanka is typical of many of the wars listed in the War Annual. Most modern conflicts are caused by ethnic or social differences. Editor Laffin says today's military expert is fearful, but it is not so much the munitions as it is the rivalries that make wars so prevalent.

And ignorance helps, certainly. The War Annual chapter about Uganda cites an example. That nation has been torn for generations by internal bickering, sometimes owing to witchcraft. A rebel army has fought the government using a "magic" body oil for protection, charging headlong in the open, convinced of invincibility, and 7,000 of the cult members have died in the assaults.

The Cape Archway was among the crippled ships. It had to stop in Bermuda for about a week for repairs. Maritime Administration officials said that was normal for ships that have been sitting idle for years.

Double dipping
American farm policy has gone beyond the case of the right hand not knowing what the left hand is doing. In one case examined, the right hand didn't know that there was a left hand. Last year the Interior Department gave $66 million in water subsidies to farmers for irrigation. But those same farmers were being paid $379 million by the Agriculture Department to limit their production. The farmers weren't above taking money from both hands because they need money from whatever source will give it, just so they can stay in business. American farmers are being strangled by low commodity prices and the high cost of gasoline to run their equipment.

Mini-editorial
A front-page article in a recent issue of the People's Daily newspaper in China hit America very hard. "... the American people themselves don't care about their democratic rights or hold them in high regard," the story said. Low voter turnout in the American election prompted the article. The People's Daily said it didn't matter which party got elected because both of them only represent "the interests of different financial groups..." That's the kind of talk you hear from frustrated Americans.

Letters to the Editor
The Herald welcomes letters from its readers. Letters should be no more than two double-spaced typewritten pages. The Herald reserves the right to edit letters for any reason, including length, taste and style. The Herald tries to publish all letters, but the decision of the editor is final. Writers may be limited to one letter per month. All letters must be signed, and writers must include their address and a telephone number for verification. Mail letters to Open Forum, Box 591, Manchester 06040.

What is needed is a Coalition for Environmental Sanity, composed of men and women who are known to be genuinely concerned with environmental issues, but who understand that decisions on such issues are almost always a trade-off between rival desiderata: e.g. the habitat of the spotted owl vs. the jobs of many thousands of lumbermen.

Reasonable compromises can almost always be made on such matters, but as things stand the nut environmentalists are driving the issue right over the cliff. Thousands of people's livelihoods are being blindly — and above all unnecessarily — destroyed. The nation's dependence on foreign energy has been driven to dangerously high levels by a mindless refusal to permit new oil prospecting. The building of hydroelectric dams, or even the use of ordinary fossil fuels in power plants, is also resisted, raising the suspicion that what these people really want is a return to the good old days when a population continues to expand, that is a prescription for near-universal poverty.

Some of these are serious leftists, deprived of their usual issues by the worldwide collapse of socialism and communism and eager to turn environmentalism into a sharp-bladed ax with which to return their attacks on private enterprises.

Others are liberals of a fuzziy type, who used to get their kicks demonstrating against the Vietnam War and hope to duplicate those glorious days by tapping into public concern over damage to the environment.

Troops lack gear

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON — Some American sailors have been forced to sail into the Persian Gulf without protective gear to shield their skin from the chemical bombs of Saddam Hussein. They aren't the sailors of the U.S. Navy, but they think they are entitled to the same protection.

They are the civilian sailors of the U.S. Merchant Marine, pressed into service in the Persian Gulf crisis to carry supplies to the U.S. troops in Saudi Arabia. It's tough enough that many of the ships they have been assigned to are rust buckets that haven't seen serious action in years. If the sailors are going into a hot spot in less-than-prime vessels, they want all the protection they can get.

Our associate Scott Sleek has obtained a cable from one merchant vessel to the Navy in which the crew begged for proper gear. The cable was from the ship Cape Archway to U.S. officials in Naples, Italy, sent as the ship was in the Mediterranean Sea en route to the Persian Gulf. The cable detailed the shortage of chemical-protective gear including goggles, chemical detection kits, masks and decontamination kits. The commander who sent the cable said the equipment was "important to the morale of my crews." Then he ended with a biting reminder: "This is the third request for professional and responsible assistance."

A spokeswoman for the U.S. Maritime Administration, which oversees the civilian fleet, said that the safety gear was finally delivered to the Cape Archway at sea. She acknowledged that during the early stages of Operation Desert Shield, resources were stretched to the limit.

The merchant mariners are low on the priority list for those limited resources in part because they are at the least risk of being harmed should war break out. For security reasons, the Pentagon won't say where the ships dock to unload their supplies. But officials insist that the ports are out of harm's way.

The merchant mariners also have the option of staying out of range of Saddam's weaponry during most of their mission. They shuttle in and out with supplies, while the Navy ships must remain in a wartime posture in the Gulf. And Saddam is not likely to waste his chemical weapons on moving ships when he can aim for sitting targets in the desert.

But those caveats don't put the merchant mariners at the top of the list. Their role in Operation Desert Shield has been plagued with exceptions to the rules. We reported earlier that the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait caught the Maritime Administration off guard. The agency oversees a fleet of reserve ships for carrying cargo during national emergencies.

Mechanical problems and the overall poor condition of the fleet slowed the flow of supplies to the Gulf, including the American flag ship, the USS Wesley. The delays were compounded by the fact that the Pentagon's cargo-delivery schedule was designed to respond to a threat from the Soviet Union or a war in Eastern Europe, not a confrontation in the Middle East.

Editor Laffin says today's military expert is fearful, but it is not so much the munitions as it is the rivalries that make wars so prevalent.

And ignorance helps, certainly. The War Annual chapter about Uganda cites an example. That nation has been torn for generations by internal bickering, sometimes owing to witchcraft. A rebel army has fought the government using a "magic" body oil for protection, charging headlong in the open, convinced of invincibility, and 7,000 of the cult members have died in the assaults.

Incidentally, the situation in Sri Lanka is typical of many of the wars listed in the War Annual. Most modern conflicts are caused by ethnic or social differences. Editor Laffin says today's military expert is fearful, but it is not so much the munitions as it is the rivalries that make wars so prevalent.

Thoughts

Reflecting the Son
Yesterday's thought posed the question: "Who is your guiding light?"

Since Jesus Christ — The Son of God — became my guiding light several years ago, I've come to recognize His desire for me to reflect His light into my world.

Paul & Barnabas quoted God's Word to Isiah: "I have made you a light for the Gentiles that you may bring salvation to the ends of the earth."

Despite personal pressures and anxieties which arise from daily circumstances (at work, home, the office, the school, the church, the neighborhood, the city, the world), God empowers us to victoriously rise above our frustrations and shine His love, peace, joy and hope in a hurting world.

At times I've felt like a candle flickering in a rain storm, and yet God is faithful — there is nothing too difficult for Him.

"You are the light of the world. A city on a hill cannot be hidden. Neither do people light a lamp and put it under a bowl. Instead, they put it on its stand, and it gives light to everyone in the house. In the same way, let your light shine before men, that they may see your good deeds and praise your Father in heaven."

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
by Eugene Brewer

A truly thankful heart is the perfect antidote to depression. Little wonder Paul writes in everything we give thanks, 1 Thes. 5:18. He did not say to give thanks "for every-thing." Nothing contributes more to gratitude and its concomitant, self-joy. Therefore, Paul exhorted: "And be ye thankful, Col. 3:15. Hans Selys, noted authority on stress, says that gratitude is the healthiest of emotions. Yet it is notable more for its absence from people than for its presence in them. A case in point is Jesus' healing of ten lepers, only one of whom returned to say "Thank you!" (Luke 17:11)

Expressing gratitude admits my dependence and curbs my ego without abdicating my responsibility. And when verbalized to another person it boosts his spirit as well. Why, then, is it so often overlooked? Human pride and self-sufficiency.

As the moon is the reflection of the sun — so also I desire to reflect the light of the Son.

Expo

all had expressed positive opinions about the amount of people in attendance and the atmosphere.

Manchester resident Glenn Simon attended the expo with his fiancée Heather Thomas, who lives in Glastonbury. While Thomas had her portrait sketched by F. James Corwin, of Wilbraham, Mass., Simon told about some of the exhibits they enjoyed, including one which sold chocolate.

"This [show] is in a better place," Simon said, saying that there was not enough space for booths at the chamber's past product shows.

John Hughes, of Bolton, said he and his girlfriend Kathy White, of Manchester, were planning to come back later this weekend to show the antique cars to White's father, who likes to restore old autos himself.

The expo continues today from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Admission is $2.

Dining

Manchester, says he relies on seasonal items to add variety to his menu. When strawberries and peaches were in season, he used them where he could, mainly in desserts and pastries. During the apple season, he made his own applesauce and sold apple cider from Orchard Hill in South Windsor by the glass to customers.

Simmon says he knows he could save time, and probably money, by purchasing prepared foods or serving canned soup, but the natural gourmet in him won't allow this.

"Any shortcuts will result in decreased quality of the food. I couldn't do that," he said.

For instance, the Simmon shop only serves Tropicana orange juice because, in the owner's words, "it's the most consistently best tasting orange juice out there." Customers let Simmon know that they appreciate his choosiness, he said.

Simmon's business philosophy — one that helps attract between 150 and 200 customers per day to his eatery — is "if you give the customer what they like at inexpensive prices, they will come back."

"Many of our customers are senior citizens who make our food their main meal," he said. So, if the prices were higher, they couldn't afford to eat there.

Regular customers of The Simmon Shop say only the best things about the restaurant and its owner.

David Moore of Glastonbury enjoys coming to the restaurant for breakfast before work. He usually sits at the counter, where he can watch Simmon cook.

"He's such a perfectionist," Moore said as he observed Simmon cooking his pancakes. "If you watch him, you'll see that everything has its own little place on the grill. And the grill is always very clean."

Moore said he continues to be amazed by the pancakes he eats there; they are served gourmet style, both plate-sized and crepe-thin.

"The pancakes are different and I like the way they taste," he said.

Simmon admits he is a perfectionist when it comes to cooking, but he cannot be any other way.

"I'd use oocoo," he gently teases an employee who is sprinkling cinnamon on a dessert she made.

"I think the food is tasty and the prices are very reasonable," said another customer, a Manchester resident who was drinking a cup of

Inflation

"core" rate, often seen as a better barometer of inflation, probably stayed relatively low because the economy — which many analysts think has tumbled into recession — is holding down prices.

"The sliding economy is preventing the oil and energy shock from causing a runaway on inflation," said Allan Sinai, chief economist at the Boston Co.

"There's a hint here that we may get through this inflationary shock from oil in reasonably good shape, but only at the cost of a sharp downturn in the economy keeping inflation from getting out of hand," Sinai said.

Added analyst David Wysz of DRI-McCraw Hill:

"There's some good news on the inflation side, but bad news on the real side, which is that the real economy is a mess."

The slightly improved inflation rate might give room to maneuver to the Federal Reserve, which has been under pressure from the Bush administration to ease its inflation-fighting campaign and lower interest rates to spur the economy, analysts said.

"With inflation stable or coming down, the Fed has some room to fight" a recession, Wysz said.

Also Friday, the Commerce Department reported that the U.S. merchandise trade deficit narrowed 3.3 percent in September, the first improvement since June. But the value of petroleum imports was at its highest level in nine years because of escalating costs due to the Persian Gulf crisis.

Imports dropped 2.4 percent to $41.3 billion despite a huge 28.5 percent jump in petroleum imports. But exports also fell, down 2.2 percent to $31.8 billion. The deficit is the difference between the two.

Report

The improvement in the trade deficit, as with the better inflation rate, was probably due to the economic slowdown shaking out summer confidence and pushing down import buying, analysts said.

In a separate report, the Labor Department said Americans' average weekly earnings, after adjusting for inflation, plunged 2.1 percent in October. It was the largest decline since a 2.3 percent drop in April 1979. The average weekly wage, before adjusting for inflation, was $349.85.

The weakness in the economy was reflected in the comments 20 top business executives made Thursday and Friday during White House meetings with the president.

"There is a general feeling that we are either in a recession or very close," said Amoco Chairman Dick Morrow following Friday's session.

The improvement in the trade deficit, as with the better inflation rate, was probably due to the economic slowdown shaking out summer confidence and pushing down import buying, analysts said.

One of the residents, who is a member of the group that lodged the complaint against Schwolky, said he is not happy with the recommendation of the investigators.

"All he's getting is a little slap on the wrist," said Bob Brown of 21 Horace St.

The group had called for Schwolky's dismissal, Brown said, and their position has not changed.

"He's been rude and arrogant, and I think his 21 years [as a housing authority member] has made him that way," he said.

He and other residents have charged that Schwolky lorded over the proceedings of the authority with his dominant personality and the authority will not be effective as long as he is a member.

Before the group filed its complaint, the authority had already agreed to decrease the amount of duplex homes it planned to purchase for low-income tenants. Originally, it was going to buy three homes, but then reduced the number to two.

Asked if he and others who opposed the plan are bigots, Brown said, "Every place else in town they were buying one two-family unit. Why did they pick our area to buy more?"

He continued, "we have everyone — whites, blacks, Hispanics. A bigot is a person that likes to be with their group. That's not us."

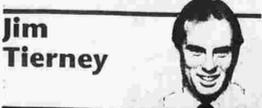

Brown anticipates the neighbors will meet to discuss their next course of action, if any. "I think I speak for all of us, and we're not happy with the conclusion."

The recommendations from the investigators will be reviewed by the town directors at a regular meeting Tuesday, Director Irish said.

MHS girls one step from ultimate glory

Jim Tierney

To watch the Manchester High girls' soccer team sit to watch precision without indecision, execution without reservation, poise under pressure all wrapped up in a fiercely committed side blessed with an abundance of talent, heart and soul.

Manchester also possesses a burning desire to win, and that's all the Indians have done in this remarkable season.

Norwich Free Academy coach Dave Zettervall, whose club was blitzed by the Indians 6-0 in the L semifinals, paid Manchester and 10th-year Coach Joe Erardi the supreme compliment.

"They play soccer the way it's supposed to be played," Zettervall said.

Now, the perfect Indians (19-0) stand on the threshold of their ultimate glory — a state championship.

This morning at 11, at Wolcott High School, top-seeded Manchester will meet Wilton High (14-2-3) for the state Class L championship.

Wilton is no stranger to state finals, having won three of the last five L titles. Manchester, which lost to Guilford in the 1984 L final, is bidding for its first-ever state crown.

"I don't think it's finally sunk in yet," Indian senior forward and tri-captain Kathy Cumberbatch said. "At the beginning of the season we knew we had the team to do it this year if we put our minds to it. We didn't pay much attention to people saying we didn't have a strong league (CCC East)."

Erardi restructured his preseason schedule to give his club some stiff competition. Over Labor Day weekend, Manchester hosted a four-team scrimmage with three of the top-ranked teams in the nation last year, including Wilton.

Following an encouraging performance in the scrimmage and subsequent trip to New York, the Indians were brimming with confidence as the regular season began.

"We had the tournament with the No. 1 team in the country and we went to New York and played a couple of tests," Cumberbatch recalls. "We got our experience that way regardless of what other people said about our league. All 18 of us had the determination that we could do it this year."

One of the intangibles of success Erardi points to is the closeness of the team off the field.

"This team is really special to me," midfielder and senior tri-captain Shelly Dieterle said. "We have so much fun together. If playing in a state final is something I've always dreamed of."

Both Cumberbatch and Dieterle have been on the varsity since they were freshmen.

"It's our senior year," Cumberbatch explained. "Before the season we got together and said, 'This is the

SET FOR SHOWDOWN

Manchester High junior midfielder Jessica Marquardt (9), who leads the unbeaten Indians with three state tournament goals, leads over Newtown's Lynn Lattanzio (17) during their first-round match in the Class L state tournament. This morning at 11, Manchester will meet Wilton High (14-2-3) for the Class L state championship.

Manchester's strengths exist everywhere on the field. Senior tri-captain and stopperback Jen Brindisi, All-State a year ago, anchors an ever-improving defense. Junior sweeper Katie Smith and senior fullback Tracy Hart have turned in superb seasons.

The midfield — Dieterle and juniors Jessica Marquardt, Patty Hornbostel and Mary Moriarty — is the team's main strength.

"Mary and Jessica in the midfield have just been dominant every match we've played in the state tournament," Erardi said. "They've been playing so well together."

Up front, Cumberbatch is teamed with sophomore senior striker Sharon Fish.

Calhoun signs four-year pact for $255,000 a year

Jim Tierney is a sports writer for the Manchester Herald.

The future is now for the Indians, who haven't missed a beat all season.

"I remember being called the team of the future in 1988," Dieterle said. "It's exciting being a senior now and seeing that potential realized."

Cumberbatch and the Indians are set to get down to the business at hand — beating Wilton High School.

"We're going to play the game we've been playing the last 19 games," Cumberbatch said. "We're not going to play any different. We're going to be the dictators."

After countless disappointments in the state tournament, the Manchester High girls' soccer team has finally reached the culmination of all its hard work and dedication.

And one more step will give the Indians their ultimate glory.

Celts dump the Jazz, 114-89

BOSTON — Robert Parish scored 8 points and Larry Bird 6 in a 24-4 third-period outburst Friday night as the Boston Celtics whipped Utah 114-89 for their 20th consecutive Boston Garden victory over the Jazz.

Reggie Lewis and Brian Shaw scored 4 points apiece and Kevin McHale a pair in the next 6½ minutes as the Celtics charged to a 79-62 lead.

Lewis led Boston scorers with 24 points, while Bird had 23 and Parish 20.

Utah, which cashed in at the free throw line for a halftime tie after trailing 29-24 at the end of one period, was led by Jeff Malone with 23 points, John Stockton with 18 and Karl Malone with 17.

Graf moves to movies

NEW YORK (AP) — Eager to prove she's still No. 1, Steffi Graf grabbed a spot in the semifinals of the Virginia Slims Championships Friday night by whipping sixth-seeded Katerina Maleeva 6-3, 6-0.

Graf's next opponent will be the winner of Friday night's second quarterfinal between U.S. Open champion Gabriela Sabatini and unseeded Conchita Martinez. Saturday's other semifinal in this season-ending, $3 million tournament will pit No. 2 Monica Seles against No. 4 Mary Joe Fernandez.

Maleeva, the middle of three sisters on the women's tour, drew first blood on the indoor carpet at Madison Square Garden. After Graf shot out to a 40-0 lead in the fifth game of the opening set, Maleeva used her laser-sharp backhand, especially down the line, to break the defending champion's serve.

HARTFORD — Jim Calhoun, who coached Connecticut within a last-second shot of the Final Four last spring, has agreed to a new four-year contract that will guarantee him $255,000 per year, the school said Friday.

Calhoun, in his fifth year at Connecticut and his 19th as a college head coach, will be guaranteed a base salary of $120,000, plus $85,000 for personal appearances and $50,000 in a deferred income annuity, the school said.

His current contract, with a base salary of just under $80,000 and no deferred income, made him one of the lowest-paid coaches in the Big East. Three years remain on that contract, but Calhoun asked last spring to renegotiate it.

"With this new agreement, Jim Calhoun will be compensated at a level consistent with the other national calibre major college coaches," Director of Athletics Lew Perkins said Friday.

Signs four-year pact — University of Connecticut basketball coach Jim Calhoun, shown hugging Chris Smith after the Huskies defeated California in the second round of the NCAA Eastern Regional Tournament last March, signed a four-year contract with UConn Friday. The pact will guarantee Calhoun $255,000 a year.

Great sire Northern Dancer humanely destroyed

By DAVID GINSBURG
The Associated Press

BALTIMORE — Northern Dancer, a champion thoroughbred who fathered champions, was humanely destroyed Friday morning, the second straight day in which a great sire died.

Northern Dancer was put down after an attack of colic at the advanced age of 29.

"If he were a younger horse we would have sent him to a veterinary hospital for an operation," said Rick Waldman, vice president of Winfield Farm, the largest shareholder in the horse.

"At his age, it would have been inhumane to subject him to an operation," Waldman said. "We tried to loosen the pain in hope that whatever was troubling him would pass."

On Thursday, Alydar, perhaps the greatest sire of the past 100 years, was destroyed after kicking out in his stall and breaking a cannon bone in his right rear leg the day before.

Northern Dancer, probably the greatest sire of all time, was destroyed around 6:15 a.m. at the Northview Station in Chesapeake City, Md., his home since the early 1970s.

"It was a difficult decision, but it was going through a lot of pain and it had become dangerous to himself and those working on him," Waldman said.

In 1964, Northern Dancer became the first Canadian-bred horse to capture the Kentucky Derby, winning the race in a record-setting performance that was ultimately beaten years later by Secretariat.

Northern Dancer, who followed his Derby triumph with a victory at the Preakness, won 14 of 18 starts, including 10 stakes. But he built his reputation after he retired from racing.

He sired 635 named foals, 467 of which won races. He produced 143 stakes winners (23 percent) and his offspring won an estimated $27 million, according to Waldman.

"The most remarkable thing is that between his sons and him, they sired more than 1,000 stakes winners," Waldman said. "He was truly a sire of sires."

Northern Dancer produced his last foal in 1987 at age 27, and his final two yearlings were auctioned off in 1989 at Keeneland in Lexington, Ky., for $2.8 million and $700,000. In a span of 22 years, 174 of his yearlings sold at Keeneland for a total of $160 million, or $919,621 per horse.

Northern Dancer was retired from breeding due to his increasing infertility, Waldman said. But his owners decided to keep him at Northview because they feared a move would be too traumatic for the aging horse.

"We thought it would be too dangerous and unfair — to move such a great horse to that age," Waldman said. "So we kept him there and gave him around-the-clock care at our expense."

Waldman said that when news of Northern Dancer's condition reached Winfield Farm on Thursday night, the stable immediately consulted with veterinarians at the New Bolton Center in Pennsylvania, the largest veterinary hospital in the Mid-Atlantic region.

Doctors there stayed in contact with officials at Northview throughout the night.

"This was an old horse who had lived a long, fruitful life," Waldman said. "There wasn't much the veterinarians could do, except ease the pain he was going through."

Northern Dancer's legacy is hundreds of horses that have won their owners millions of dollars. Six horses that he sired have won races in 1990, and his daughters have already produced 128 stakes winners.

His death, coming one day after that of Alydar, doubly saddened the horse racing world. Alydar finished second to Affirmed in each of the 1978 Triple Crown races, then went on to become almost as good a sire as Northern Dancer.

"I think the death of Alydar, there really wasn't a much of the veterinarians could do for Northern Dancer," Waldman said.

NORTHERN DANCER DESTROYED — Northern Dancer, right, noses out Hill Rise to win the 1964 Kentucky Derby. The great champion, who also won the Preakness Stakes, became the greatest sire ever. Northern Dancer was humanely destroyed in Chesapeake, Md. after an attack of colic.

Show lives despite ratings

By SCOTT WILLIAMS
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — How good you are if you're one of the lowest-rated shows on prime-time TV? Very good, if you're "Against the Law," the drama starring Michael O'Keefe as a maddening kick-but-the-crutches Boston lawyer who very nearly died this fall at the Fox Broadcasting Co.'s Sunday lineup.

"It seems that maybe 10 o'clock on Sunday night is not the best time for this show," Daniel Blatt, a former practicing attorney, said with magnificence and understatement just three weeks after taking over as executive producer.

In season-to-date viewership, "Against the Law" ranked 97th, beating only the Fox documentary series "American Chronicles" and a few other Fox shows now off the air.

The show's protagonist, Simon MacHeath, is a less-than-heroic figure. His courtroom tactics are nothing short of contempt. He opposed the pilot episode, for example, jalled for contempt, then addressed the jury using a zucchini to stimulate a tender portion of his male client's damaged anatomy.

"MacHeath is inherently someone who understands the nature of the way the system works," O'Keefe said.

"You're going to have to play their game, but better at it than punch wherever you can punch in order to make your points. Because if you don't, you just run the risk of being another statistic."

"If you're going to win in a system like that, you're going to have to just pull out all the stops. We might bend the verities of the courtroom in order to make a point or two about what happens, but most of the lawyers I know say 'Right on.'"

Critical reaction to the show has been mixed. Some TV writers liked it very much, others not so. And audiences didn't know what to make of it.

Older viewers already had migrated from Fox to Sunday night movies on ABC, CBS and NBC. Fox's hip, younger audience, coming into the show after two solid hours of kinky comedies, hadn't a clue.

"I think that's hurting us," O'Keefe said on Nov. 2. "I think that these comedies that are leading into us are not necessarily the audience that's going to be interested in our show."

There's another reason, O'Keefe said.

"Fox will be the first to tell you that they haven't promoted the show," he said. "They have four shows that they promote in order to ensure the success of their network: 'Married ... with Children,' 'In Living Color,' 'The Simpsons,' and 'America's Most Wanted.' That's their bread and butter."

"The initial thrust that the network has is over," O'Keefe said. "Fox can begin to promote some of their smaller shows and shift their schedules to adjust in whatever change they're going to be making."

On Monday, Nov. 5, the ex-almost fell.

Fox told The Associated Press the show would limit hiatus, with a "re-launch" sometime after the first of year, maybe even in the spring, when Fox has had good luck with replacement shows.

Overnight, Fox changed its mind and "Against the Law" won a revive.

"Against the Law" would replace the low-rated police drama "DEA," which the reality-based "America's Most Wanted" crime show, said Peter Chernin, president of Fox Entertainment Group. "We've always been big believers in the show," Chernin said. "I think it was just a feeling that Friday at 9 p.m., it had a better chance."

"DEA" will return later this season, a "Comic Strip Live" slides into the vacated Sunday night slot, Chernin said.

A handy bidding tool

By James Jacoby

Basic bridge is taught as a simple and logical game, relatively simple to learn. West led a club. If declarer ever made the mistake of leading a second club, he would come up short in his quest for 12 tricks. The winning play is to win the club, cash the A-K of diamonds, then cash the ace and king of spades. After that, declarer can crossruff for 12 tricks. Your Birthday

Nov. 18, 1990

Those lucky financial breaks for which you've waited so patiently could be coming your way in the year ahead. This might well be Scorpio's turn for fancy cars, home and shopping sprees. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You could be rather fortunate in your financial affairs today, but not where partners are involved. Lady wants you to try to build your resources on your own. Scorpio, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Today what is best for you might not necessarily be best for someone with whom you're closely involved. It will be better for all concerned to make your decisions logically, not emotionally.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Follow your instincts and hunches today, because they could provide you with constructive insights in your commercial affairs. If these dividends that supply you with the edge.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Make definite plans for a fun day, starting with intimate plans for whom you want to come to a game. Select friends whose wit, humor and interests are on the same wavelength as yours.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Important today that you establish meaningful objectives for yourself. You can be outstanding at anything you undertake. These days don't come along often, so make the most of it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Depart from your usual routines today and do something different. If it is out-of-doors and enables you to move around mentally and physically, with a touch of adventure attached, all the better.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) A joint venture in which you're involved that has financial overtones is proceeding in the right direction, but if your expectations are too high, you may be disappointed.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Verbal or written contracts in which you enter today have good chances of succeeding, provided your intent is in harmony with the intent of your counterpart. Don't be needy.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You may have to work very hard for what you hope to get today, but strong motivation will go a long way towards lessening discomfort. Focus your mind only on your objective.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A new contact made in a social situation today could prove to be beneficial for you, even though you're not likely to recognize the worth of this relationship immediately.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Once you make a commitment today, see it through to completion, even if your going gets a bit tough. You can successfully finish what you start if you're tenacious.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Plans of importance to you may be changed today due to situations over which you have no control. These revisions, however, could turn out much luckier for you than your own concept.
