Ex-hunter has good message

DEAR ABBY: Some time ago you had a poem in your column about hunters who shoot wild geese. It described how the male lay dying and his wounded mate stayed with him and covered him with her broken wing This really impressed me, and I'd like to show it to someone who is very dear to me and thinks killing birds for sport is OK. EDITH P. REED, LADY LAKE, FLA.

DEAR EDITH: I remember it well. It was written by Lemuel T. Ward of Crisfield, Md., and here it is: A hunter shot at a flock of geese That flew within his reach. Two were stopped in their rapid flight And fell on the sandy beach. The male bird lay at the water's edge And just before he died He faintly called to his wounded mate And she dragged herself to his side. She bent her head and crooned to him In a way distressed and wild Caressing her one and only mate As a mother would a child. Then covering him with her broken wing And gasping with failing breath She laid her head against his breast

A feeble honk ... then death. This story is true though crudely told was the man in this case. I stood knee deep in snow and cold And the hot tears burned my face. I buried the birds in the sand where they lay Wrapped in my hunting coat And I threw my gun and belt in the bay When I crossed in the open boat.

Hunters will call me a right poor sport And scoff at the thing I did. But that day something broke in my heart And shoot again? God forbid!

Fever, cramps signs of colitis

DEAR READER: Ulcerative colitis is a chronic inflammatory disease of the bowel, marked by profuse diarrhea that is often bloody. The cause is unknown. The disease can affect people of any age but is most common between the ages of 15 and 30, with another peak incidence between 50 and 70. The condition usually progresses to ulceration: Parts of the intestinal lining become raw and abscessed. In addition to bloody diarrhea, the most common signs of ulcerative colitis are fever, abdominal cramps, weight

The four most common complications are: 1) cancer (ulcerative colitis patients have a higher incidence of bowel malignancies), 2) toxic megacolon (when the intestine swells and ceases to function normally), 3) hemorrhage, and 4) rectovaginal fistulas (in women, the infection can spread to the vagina, causing a foul dis-Ulcerative colitis is associated with other complications, such as arthritis, eye inflammation (uveitis), a red and raised rash, growth retardation in adolescence, liver infection and cancer of the bile passages.

The diagnosis is established by sigmoidoscopy, during which a doctor — usually a gastroenterologist — examines the lower colon with a flexible fiberoptic tube. Also, X-rays of the colon (the barium-enema test) may diagnose the condition; however, this examination is dangerous because, during the administration of the barium enema, the weakened intestinal wall can burst. When ulcerative colitis progresses rapidly, it is a dangerous disease with a 10 percent mortality from infection, hemorrhage or bowel perforation.

Treatment consists of gentle cortisone enemas or the antibiotic sulfasalazine in pills. Cortisone pills may be necessary. Complications must be treated, with blood transfusions and intravenous antibiotics, as they arise. In the most severe or resistant cases - or in the presence of toxic megacolon — surgery to remove badly

New pit rules at Daytona 500

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) - Beyond the invitable clash of the dominant Dale Earnhardt and polewinning Davey Allison and perhaps several other contenders, Sunday's Daytona 500 could be a story of tires. Among the forces at play in NASCAR's premier Winston Cup event is a new and basically untested pit road procedure that could become a determining factor in n the death of Bill Elliott crewman Mike Rich last November at Atlanta Motor Speedway, NASCAR took steps to make the often chaotic pit road safer for The new rules prohibit any tire changes during caution periods, with the stated hope that fewer teams will pit at once under yellow flags, thereby keeping pit road less The cars will be designated even and odd according to their starting positions. Following a caution period, no ar will be allowed to pit under the first green flag lap. Even cars will be allowed to make normal pit stops on the second green flag lap. Odd cars will have to wait until the third green flag lap to stop for tires. Thereafter, nyone can pit at any time for any reason. That rule is intended to limit the number of cars on pit The procedure was tested last Sunday in a 200-mile ARCA stock car race here. There were no problems, but he only clear result was that teams used fewer tires than "We've only mounted six sets of tires for each car," aid Junior Johnson, owner of the team with 1986 Daytona winner Geoff Bodine and Sterling Marlin in Sunday's race. "Usually, we have about 12 sets ready. People aren't going to stop for tires unless they have to. It's going to e too much of a chance. Running the tires that long is going to take a lot of competition out of the race." Neil Bonnett, a team owner who helped driver Jeff Purvis into his first Daytona race, said, "It's conceivable o go 500 miles on the same set of tires. That will depend on how the new pit procedures come into play and, of course, whether we have any tire problems," puter hacker?" Well, those catching Monday night's premiere of TBS' "Voice of the Planet" eco-series will learn that's what happens when you reply to a hacker's words on a computer screen that say "GAIA THYANGBOCHE NAMASTE."

After a series of frightening pit incidents culminating

You wind up in an ambitious and at times loopy, unintentionally funny mix of fantasy and science, playing an ecologist-author who talks by computer to Faye Dunaway, cast as Gaia, an Earth spirit. (Why do Earth spirits always have names like Gaia? Why not Donna or Judy?) Airing tonight through Friday in five two-hour episodes, "Voice" was commissioned by Friend of the Earth and cable tycoon Ted Turner. It was more than two years in the making, taped on locations around the world. Created, written and directed by Michael Tobias, and often featuring spectacularly beautiful nature shots and incredibly ugly panoramas of urban crud and poison, it is full of oble intent. And lots of silly dialogue.

Its basic message is Wake Up, Humanity, You're Killing the Planet. You may have heard this before from ecologically proper Hollywood stars who drive to the polluted beaches of nearby Malibu, exit their Mercedes and tell the TV camera: "If we don't save the Earth, who

ABC recalls

By JAY SHARBUTT The Associated Press

NEW YORK - In 1953, when Leonard Goldenson helped engineer the purchase of struggling ABC for the now-piddling sum of $25 million, it was considered a fourth network - like today's Fox. Were he young and starting out in 1991, he says he would still go the network route, even though many consider cable the wave of the present and future. "I think I'd go for the bundle, to get as wide an audience as I could get," he says. "I'd probably do what Fox is doing," says the former ABC chairman, who had three rivals when he went to work on ABC - CBS, NBC and the since-deceased DuMont Network. Fox Inc. chairman Barry Diller, an ABC graduate, "is going through the same kind of approach that we did" in building ABC into a fullfledged network, Goldenson says. "Matter of fact, I keep kidding him that he ought to pay us a royalty. He's doing the same thing we did to start ABC."

At 85, Goldenson is the lone survivor of network television's three top pioneers. The others are CBS' William S. Paley, who died last year, and NBC's David Samoff, who died in 1971.

Chairman of ABC until its $3.5 billion sale in 1986 to Capital Cities Communications, he now is chairman of the executive committee of the merged companies, Capital Cities-ABC Inc.

He lives far from the network ramble these days, at Longboat Key, near Sarasota, Fla., and comes here once a month on business. But this month he is making stops across the United States to tout a new book -

Entitled "Beating the Odds," cowritten by Marvin J. Wolf, it's an account of his life and times, particularly those at ABC, done through the device of interviews with about 100 friends and col-

Relatively unknown outside the industry, Goldenson is credited within it with helping raise ABC to Nielsen parity — and ratings leadership in prime time from 1976 to 1980 — after years of lean times. His success record, begun with "Cheyenne," includes "Maverick," "Happy Days," "NFL Monday Night Football," sports and, after a long struggle, news.
