Industrial park not feasible

To The Editor: As a citizen of the Town of Bolton, I read articles appearing in newspapers regarding local political groups vying for public approval with great interest. I am espe-cially amused by the positions as set forth by those on the Common Sense/TNT slate.

Their idea of creating an industrial park in the Town of Bolton, although hardly original, initially struck me as a good one. I have subsequently given this idea some consideration, and now believe that the benefits of an industrial park in Bolton are questionable.

The Town of Bolton does not have a municipal sanitary sewer system, nor does it have a sewage treatment plant. An industrial park of any size would require hooking up to such a system. Consequently, the Town would have to seek arrangements with neighboring communities that have existing systems. Those systems would then have to be brought in and hooked into the industrial site. Assuming that neighboring communities would even accept such an arrangement, such an en-deavor would be quite costly and definitely not main-

WASHINGTON — Saving money is he least of concerns when the State Department lodges its diplomats overseas. Costly housing decisions are being bungled by ambassadors and others who may be great across a negotiating table but know next to nothing about property management.
When congressional investigators toured some overseas posts recently, they found many once-beautiful homes going to pot. The list of maintenance work needed on diplomatic residences is now approaching half a billion dollars. Problems at the ambassador's residence in Tokyo have been ignored for so long that the General Accounting Of-fice now estimates it needs $10 million in repairs. The laundry list of needs includes such basics as replacing windows, rewiring electrical lines, replacing plumbing and painting. Mysteriously, the investigators found that one reason for

Thoughts

The human spirit resists change. It almost seems like it is of the human person's nature to want things to stay the same. Change often means the unknown. "What will I be like if I let go of one way of living or believing and take up another way?" "Can I survive without doing this or that in the way to I have grown accustomed?" "It's the way I have always done it!" Yes, the human spirit seems

Strangely it's not easy to change from ways of living that we may recognize as change from ways of living that we may recognize as counterproductive to my peace and happiness. DEAR ETHEL: I agree, Here's the letter, and thanks

DEAR ABBY: A year ago, I was a poor student, shy, lonely, friendless, unhappy, and I never smiled. I wrote to you, and you gave me the best advice I ever received.

"The key to being popular with both sexes is: Be kind Be honest. Be tactful. If you can't be beautiful (or handsome), be well-groomed, tastefully attired, conscious of your posture, and KEEP A SMILE ON YOUR FACE. "Be clean in body and mind. If you're not a 'brain,' try harder. If you're not a great athlete, be a good sport. Try to be a standout in something. If you can't dance or sing, learn to play an instrument. Think for yourself, but respect the rules. Be generous with kind words and affectionate gestures, but save the heavy artillery for later You'll be glad you did. If you need help, ask God. If you don't need anything, thank God. - LOVE, ABBY"

I followed your advice, step by step, and kept it handy when I felt low. I am now president of the sophomore class and I play the guitar. Smiling comes naturally to me, and I have a boyfriend who is kind and respectable. My grades are better, and I have more friends than I ever Abby, you're not the only one who helped me. Fox said marriage and the birth of his son, Sam, now 21 months old, have helped him mature. "To be a happy, healthy, family-oriented person is more important than trying to be the boy prince of Hollywood," Fox said. "You lose the arrogance of youth. You take a look at old people and say, 'Yeah, I can actually see that as a possibility now. It will be fun to say I'm 30." "GoodFellas" won best film, best director and best adapted screenplay at Sunday's awards ceremony. It has been nominated in the same categories for the March 25 Academy Awards. "Cinema Paradiso," which won the Oscar last year for best foreign-language film, won five of the British awards, including best actor (Philippe Noiret), best supporting actor (Salvatore Cascio), and best film not in the English language.

The best actress award went to Jessica Tandy for "Driving Miss Daisy." She won an Oscar last year for the performance.

Whoopi Goldberg was named best supporting actress for "Ghost." She was nominated for an Oscar this year for the role. ### Tension drugs' side effects

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 64-year-old male with hy-pertension, controlled by medication. My problem is bad dreams and loss of concentration because of the medica-tion. I've tried several different brands and find they all give me the same side effects. Is this my imagination, or

DEAR READER: The syndrome you describe can be the result of medicines for hypertension, all of which afect the nervous system. For example, Inderal (propranolol, a beta-blocker) can cause insomnia, nightmares, depression, memory loss and confusion. Calan (and other calcium-channel blockers) are associated with headache, insomnia, confusion, imbalance and psychiatric disturbances. Serpasil (reserpine) often leads to severe depression, anxiety, nightmares and nervousness. Vasotec (enalapril, an ACE inhibitor) may cause headache, dizziness, vertigo and blurred vision. Thiazide diuretics can initiate vertigo, dizziness and restlessness.

Catapres (clonidine) can lead to dizziness, headache and nervousness, Minipress (prazosin) may cause vertigo, depression and nervousness. Aldactone (spironolactone) is associated with lethargy, headache, confusion tional disturbances, nightmares, depression and dizzi-

Although all the drugs for hypertension have the potential for causing mental side effects, in practice the complications are, fortunately, relatively rare. Also, most patients who react badly to one class of medicines may

Therefore, I advise you to work with your doctor to discover a form of therapy that won't affect your concentration or sleep. You say you have tried different brands; this may not be enough. Simply switching brands (as opposed to changing the type of drug entirely) may not be effective; you need to try several classes of medication. Eventually, you will probably find one that

It started out with more of the they finally might be back in stride. After a three-game road trip that they used to develop an aggressive demeanor, the Sabres returned to Memorial Auditorium Sunday night and purged the negativity behind a 12-game home winless streak with a 6-1 trouncing of the Hartford Whalers. Coach Rick Dudley, on the hot seat for the team's ho-hum attitude and 0-7-5 home record over the past in started out with more of the same uninspired play, as the North Stars jumped out to an early lead on their way to a 5-2 win Tuesday. The next night in Winnipeg, the Sabres seemed reborn. They forechecked relentlessly, taking the play to the Jets at every turn. "Our work ethic is there and that's something I couldn't say at the start of the year." Or even as recently as the Sabres last home game, a dreadful effort in more of the same. Buffalo jumped out to a 3-0 lead thanks to a tenacious checking style that clearly stunned the Canadiens. The Sabres went up 4-1, but then Christian Ruuttu took a double-minor penalty and Montreal regrouped, scoring twice on the power play. The Canadiens eventually tied the game at 4, scored the game-winner in the game's final two mimutes and closed with an empty net goal.
