MANCHESTER - Members of the Human Relations Commission on Tuesday formed a subcommittee to revise the town's affirmative action goals for the next five years.

Although the revisions are being made so the goals more accurately reflect the current population and labor market in the area, they will probably be developed using data from the 1980 U.S. Census.

The 1990 data will not be available for at least eight months, so

Commission Chairman Jonathan Mercier said the subcommittee, for which he volunteered, should use the best data available, and when the '90 census data becomes available, the goals can be revised again to reflect any changes.

The subcommittee will probably begin meeting in June.

Dimlow said updating the goals should not be as difficult or take as long as the last time they were up-dated because a solid framework has been established. The grand marshal will be Ed-ward Whitcomb, a former combat

The woman who created the now-classic chocolate mayonnaise cake must have been psychic.

Usually, shortening or butter — both high in fat and cholesterol are the typical ingredients used to create a moist cake with a tender crumb. But back in 1937, Mrs. Paul Price, wife of a Hellmann's sales distributor, used the brand's real mayonnaise rather than the standard ngredients to bake a cake. The result proved to be rich and moist, like a brownie, and was filled with walnuts and dates. Soon, the mayonnaise recipe was adopted by home cake-bakers throughout the country.

Mayonnaise is a creamy blend of regetable oil, eggs and special easonings which, even in '37, was lower in saturated fat and cholesterol than shortening or butter. There now are blends in supermarkets containing no cholesterol

By any measure Andover's NTV Week was a great success. The main goal of having residents evaluate their viewing habits to see if TV was getting in the way of homework, family, friends or just getting enough exercise was accomplished and it appears in some households it will have lasting effects well into the future. Andover residents realize we have what it takes within ourselves to make life rich, full and exciting. All we have to do is turn off the television and tune into life.

Medical Association waged an all-out war against Blue Cross health insurance as an unacceptable form of "creeping socialism." Less than 30 years ago, the AMA died in the ditch to prevent passage of Medicare and Medicaid in 1965, that halfway point on the journey toward comprehensive medical coverage for all Americans.

Now, in a role-reversal as striking as it s welcome, The Journal of the American Medical Association has called for a total overhaul of the nation's healthcare system because "it is no longer acceptable morally, ethically or economically for so many of our people to be medically uninsured or seriously underinsured."

The Journal's position, laid out in a two-volume issue devoted entirely to the subject, is a statement of unanswerable truth. According to the Employee Benefit Research Institute, approximately 34.5 million Americans under age 65 lack health insurance. Of these, a sizeable majority is poor or near-poor. Some 28 percent make less than $10,000 annually. Another 30 percent make Soviets Iraqi agents?

By JACK ANDERSON and DALE VAN ATTA

WASHINGTON - The Central Intelligence Agency believes that the Soviet Union acted as a double-agent during the Persian Gulf crisis — professing support for the U.S.-led position while secretly supplying the Iraqis.

President Bush and other top ad ministration officials had cited Soviet cooperation in the Gulf as a key test of the much-touted New World Order and of American aid for the battered The only consolation the Bush administration can hope to cling to is whether the double-dealing was done covertly by renegade Red Army cowboys, as opposed to official policy sanc-tioned by President Mikhail Gorbachev. Last September, Gorbachev publicly and diplomatically lined up with the United States, though he refused to send along soldiers with the coalition forces of 28 other countries. But some Soviet soldiers were fighting with the Iraqis, according to highly classified intelligence reports.

For instance, before the Jan. 16 war began, intercepts by the National Security Agency determined that several Soviet officers were commanding or serving with Iraqi units — including a Soviet lieutenant colonel who was actually commanding an Iraqi tank battalion. No Soviet soldier was ever cap-

The Soviet Defense Ministry an-nounced unequivocally on Jan. 9 that "there are no Soviet military experts left in Iraq." Yet the CIA believes that, at the least, several dozen suddenly material-ized in the Soviet Embassy in Baghdad. One CIA report speaks of approximately 100 pr so Soviets going AWOL to fight with Iraqi comrades, al though they were promised there would be no punishment when the battle was over and that they would be reinstated into the Soviet military.

On the high end, another CIA report says there may have been as many as 1,000 Soviet military personnel assisting the Iraqi military by the time the war report weighs in with the fact that several radio intercepts were obtained of Soviet voices using codewords from forward Iraqi battle positions. At the least, the Soviet military, loath to abandon its longtime client state, Iraq, continued to fuel the Iraqi war machine at a time when the Soviets had publicly pledged to adhere to the embargo. Between Aug. 8 and Jan. 15, one intelligence report charges, Soviet military e-quipment came into Baghdad on Soviet transport planes at the rate of 12 flights a day. Intelligence sources also allege that Soviet ships in the area were intercepted on Jan. 3 and Jan. 15 carrying Soviet military equipment. On Jan. 3, the ship's military cargo was stored below deck, and not listed on the ship's manifest. After the Baghdad airport was knock-

Carbohydrates can be addictive

DEAR DR. GOTT: I think I am addicted to carbohydrates. Literature received from Overeaters Anonymous indicates this could be a problem if a person craves baked goods, pizza, bread and the like. What can

DEAR READER: Carbohydrate "addiction" is an old concept that is presently being rediscovered. According to the theory, some people are fat because they crave car-ohydrates, much as an alcoholic craves alcohol. Proponents argue that carbohydrate "addiction" has a physical basis, perhaps due to an errant gene; however, his view has yet to be scientifically substantiated. All of us, at one time or another, crave carbohydrates Some people can't resist pizza, others crave sweets, still others can't control their candy habit. (My personal Waterloo is Snickers candy.) This is OK for slim people who otherwise consume a healthful, balanced diet.

Problems arise when people are overweight, want to cut down on calories, but cannot; the carbohydrate compulsion is just too great. Such people need to address their carb habit with behavioral modification and/or support groups. Often their "addiction" is merely a habit; after all, sweets do taste good, and it's no accident that Mom and apple pie are American. Being told they shouldn't eat carbohydrates is, to some folks, about as comforting as the news that they need root canal surgery. Nonetheless, simple carbohydrates (high-sugar foods) ARE unhealthful when eaten in quantity by obese people, who know better but are unable to control them-selves. The word is not in on complex carbohydrates, such as bread, pasta, potatoes and rice, which contain nutritious substances as well as calories.

Unquestionably, people needing to lose weight should avoid excess carbohydrates, substituting protein and fruits in their place. Here's where behavioral modification and support groups become so important: They help people give up bad dietary habits.

Since there is no medicine or drug to treat carbohydrate "addiction," the issue of whether it is a real addiction is a moot point. Therapy still consists of reducing or eliminating high-carbohydrate foods (and fats) and changing eating habits to reduce calories.

Tom Brunansky's three-run homer capped a six-run rally in the third inning. He also singled in a run in the fourth, Greenwell went 4-for-4 with three RBIs. Wade Boggs' second hit, a double in the eighth, made him the sixth Boston player to record 1,000 hits at Fenway Park. Jody Reed and Luis Rivera also had a single Boston's 10 runs and 14 hits both were season highs. "We don't just have two or three guys on this team that can get the big hits to win ballgames," Greenwell said. "We have seven or eight."

That hasn't been happening most of the season. Boston went into the game with a .259 batting average, 13 points lower than its average last season. something to shoot for." Manchester, in fact, has won eight girls' tennis championships in succession. The Indians won the league title in the final year of the CCIL in 1984. Don't expect the beat to stop for Manchester. Three of the four top singles players - Chadburn, Daversa and Cion — are juniors and will return for one more season in '92. Only Aucoin is a graduating senior. In all, there are just four graduating seniors. Bray and Mezritz are paired at No. 1 doubles and Julie Stansfield plays at No. 3 doubles.

"It looks like we'll have a lot of depth for next year," said Arnold, who notes she carries 16 on the varsity team along with another 20 on a junior varsity contingent. Penguins get a lift, tie the North Stars BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) rushed to a 3-0 lead in the first 2:58.

— Mario Lemieux is back on his No team has opened a Stanley Cup finals game with three goals in a shorter amount of time.

"It's great having him back. People don't know how tough he is," Kevin Stevens said after his celebrated teammate gave the Penguins an emotional lift and a goal in their 5-3 victory over the Minnesota North Stars Tuesday night.

Lemieux had been a question mark right up until gametime because of a back problem, but became a big exclamation point with some rugged physical play as the Penguins evened the Stanley Cup finals at two games apiece.

"I felt great today," Lemieux said when asked about his troubled back that had kept him out of Game 3 Sunday night. "I was a little scared that it would flare up again tonight, but it didn't and it feels great."

Lemieux sat on the sidelines Sunday with back spasms similar to the kind that disabled him in the several game. We know how tough (the North Stars) are at home when they have the lead."

As it turned out, the Penguins needed all those goals — and more.

Once they got over the shock of an early three-goal deficit, the North Stars made things interesting. They actually trailed by only one goal going into the third period and had the opportunity to tie with several good chances.

But Pittsburgh goals in the game, "said Stevens, who had his team-leading 16th playoff goal in the burst. "The first three goals helped us.

"Our game plan was to try to score early so we could take their crowd out of the game. We know how tough (the North Stars) are at home when they have the lead."

ing sure South had the heart king, from his "failure" to finesse at trick one, East switched to the spade four. West took declarer's 10 with the jack and returned the spade eight. East won with the king and led back his last spade so West could cash the space. camouflage

Monday's deal showed one method by which declarer can mislead the defenders. He discarded from a suit in which he was strong, rather than one in which he was weak.

On today's hand, taken from the Vanderbilt Knockout Teams at the Spring North American Bridge Championships, declarer was strong in the suit led but was wide open in another suit. He had to try to keep that fact from his opponents.

After the speedy auction at both tables, West led the heart 10. The first declarer made the bad play of the heart ace from the dummy. He led a diamond back to his queen, then a diamond back to his queen, then a diamond to the jack, king and ace. Feel won with the king and led back his last spade sp West could cash two more tricks in the suit. That gave the deferences, 643-4860 after 12-Noon.
