

Hidden Gems Walking Tour

STARTING AT FRONT STEPS OF TOWN HALL, 41 CENTER STREET

Join Susan Barlow of the Manchester Historical Society for this walking tour, visiting some beautiful and historic spots along the way. We will walk through Center Memorial Park and talk about its history. We will walk in the Cheney Brothers National Historic Landmark District, and view houses that won a preservation award, and several that were sold at the September 1937 Cheney house auction. We'll see the home and offices of Dr. Noah Burr (1875-1943), hidden behind the Johnson blocks. Each walk varies, and sometimes we have special guests. On some of the Hidden Gems walks, we have visited the Masonic Temple, St. James School, Otis Street's former Cheney mansion, and the Tiffany stained-glass windows at St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

Here is information about the first stop on our walk, Manchester's Town Hall: Before incorporation, the town meetings were at the official church: Center Congregational Church.

- At incorporation, 1823, Town meetings were held at the Congregational or Methodist church, both at the center of town.
- 1879: Town bought the Congregational church for $700, moved it a little to the west. The Congregationalists built a new, Victorian-style, church.
- 1896: Hall of Records on land donated by the Cheneys.
- 1926: New town hall, designed by Frank Farley, grandson of Frank & Susan Cheney.

Resources with information about local history:

- A New England Pattern, the History of Manchester, Connecticut, by William E. Buckley, published 1973 by the Pequot Press AND The History of Manchester, Connecticut by Mathias Spiess and Percy Bidwell, published 1923 (both out of print but available at library and online at used book sites). The Spiess and Bidwell book is now scanned and on our website, in the vintage reprints section, www.manchesterhistory.org.
- Old Manchester II...The Storytellers, compiled, written, and edited by M. K. Adams, published in 1995 by the Manchester Historical Society, available at Historical Society, public library, and on our website.
- Historical and Architectural Resource Surveys of Manchester, various publication dates, available at Town Hall planning department, Manchester Historical Society, public library, and our website.
- Search for Vision Appraisal and select Manchester to view the assessor's database of Manchester's houses, with date of construction. Although the dates are when the houses came onto the grand list as a separate property, and sometimes aren't the year the house was built.

Home and office of Dr. Burr—look for the two gabled windows in the mansard roof.
