Bicycle Repairing.

I will open a repair shop in basement of the Brown & Patten building Tuesday, March 18. Will carry a first class line of Bicycle Sundries and be prepared to do repair work of all kinds at short notice.

Will have the agency for the following leading makes of wheels:

The Columbia, The Hartford, The Crescent, The Stearns.

We have leased the shop for one year. You will find us there at all times, and our word can be depended upon.

Will also carry a line of SPORTING GOODS.

27th ANNUAL CONCERT AND BALL OF THE HIBERNIANS.

St. Patrick's Night, March 17. Electric Illuminations—McGuire & Lennon's Orchestra. Prof. C. Foley, Prompter. Admission, Gentleman and Lady, 50c. Lady 25 Cents.

ABOUT TOWN.

A. Hartman is in the West on a business trip of three weeks. The local camp of Woodmen adopted eight candidates at their last meeting.

Charles L. Bissell, of Avery street, is in Amherst, Mass., visiting relatives. He left Wednesday.

Congress has this week raised the maximum compensation of carriers in the rural free delivery service from $500 to $600.

F. B. Clarke, bookkeeper for the Oakland Paper company, went to his home in Pittsfield, Mass., Wednesday for a visit of a few days.

Charles Clemson, who has lately returned from the West, has gone to work for D. H. Blish, who runs the John Sullivan shop in the rear of Brough's store.

The Woodmen's whist team have challenged the Odd Fellows' whist team to a series of games of whist, to commence Tuesday night, March 18, at Odd Fellows hall.

Nothing has been seen of the postal inspector who notified Postmaster Cheney that he would be here about a month ago to look into the petition for free rural delivery service in this vicinity.

The Woodman Dramatic club will present "The Miner's Daughter" in Comstock's hall, East Hartford, Thursday evening, April 17. Tickets will be on sale at Ogden's studio and by members.

The postponed anniversary celebration of the Odd Fellows will take place at Cheney hall next Wednesday evening. Nearly all the Grand lodge officers have expressed their intention to be present.

Business around town is unusually brisk. All the carpenters are busy and the contractors say that the outlook for a big season's work is very promising. The mills and factories are all running full time and labor is well employed.

A new element in our population will be given the annual Armory Thursday evening, March 13. Benjamin & Hatch's orchestra has been engaged for the occasion. The admission is only 25 cents each person.

One of the secret societies meeting in Odd Fellows hall used a goat in its initiation ceremony last night. The process of leading the goat up two flights of stairs was regarded with much interest by spectators. The goat was a full sized "Billy" with a well developed pair of horns.

The Hartman farm at Buckland is a busy place these days. Work on the erection of the seven new tobacco sheds which are to be built was begun this week. The sheds will be 144 feet long and 34 feet wide. John Gilnick has the contract to build them.

The monthly meeting of the directors of the Manchester Building & Loan Association was held in the Brown & Patten hall Wednesday evening. The April meeting will be held at the south end and will be the annual meeting of the association. Reports for the year will be given and officers elected.

Now that the river is open and the steamers are running to Hartford the south end firemen have a nervous shock every time the chime whistles on the big boats are blown. The tone of the boat whistles is so much like that of the South Manchester fire whistle that the firemen frequently mistake them for an alarm until the number of blasts have been counted.

The money the town puts into paved gutters is well invested. It is noticeable where these gutters are built the roads are in much better condition. The streets are not washed out as badly and the sidewalks are protected. The recent heavy storms have been hard on the roads and walks around town and it will be some time yet before they are in good condition.

Revival meetings will be held in the Pentecostal church, Main street, north of Center, beginning March 16, conducted by Evangelist A. L. Harriman, of Lowell, Mass. Sunday services will begin at 10:30 a. m. and three and 7:30 p. m. Week night services will be held every evening except Saturday at 7:45. A warm welcome is extended to all.

Dr. Sullivan, of Hartford, was in town Wednesday and he wanted to catch the 8:30 p. m. train for the city. The train had just started when he was seen running across Depot square and the engineer kindly stopped the train for him. He had just boarded the train and was thanking the conductor for being so obliging when a sudden gust of wind blew off his black Alpine. Of course the train could not be stopped again and he rode to the city bareheaded.

Spring overcoats are a good thing to have. Can make you one to your order for $10.75. A good fit is guaranteed. P. McFarlane, Depot square.

Mr. Letting Caverly has been spending a few days in Holyoke, Mass.

M. F. Tonhey, reporter for The Hartford Courant, was in Boston yesterday.

John Kuhnney is in town on a visit. He came from Boston this morning where he is employed in a piano factory.

Christopher Glenn, clerk at Horton's, has passed the state examination and this week received a pharmacist's license.

Violet Landry, the youngest child of Frank Landry, of Woodbridge street, was taken to the Hartford hospital yesterday for some eye trouble.

The red-breasted robins were flying all around yesterday and seemed to enjoy the warm sunshine fully as well as those who listened to their music.

Mrs. Bertha A. Haushultz and the Misses Mamie and Martha Haushultz will return today from a visit of a week with relatives in New York city.

George Smith of Smith's Pharmacy, has successfully passed the state examination for a druggist's license this week and received his license this morning.

Manchester Lodge of United Workmen will initiate three candidates at its regular meeting in the Brown & Patten hall next Wednesday evening. Following the degree work refreshments will be served.

John Ward and his son, who are employed at the Perkins Electric factory in Hartford, will go with the company to Bridgeport. Mr. Ward until recently was sexton at St. Bridget's church.

Rev. W. W. Ranney, of the Park church, Hartford, will preach at the Center church Sunday morning in exchange with the pastor. The postponed offering for the Ladies' Building society will be taken Sunday morning.

By a confusion of dates The Herald announced the lecture by Father Walsh of Plainville as to take place last Wednesday evening. The lecture is to be given in St. James chapel Wednesday evening of next week.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Finlay gave a whist party to about thirty persons last evening. First prizes were won by Dr. Gillam and Miss Blaylock and the consolation prizes by Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Ranney.

A new element in our population will be given the annual Armory Thursday evening, March 13. Benjamin & Hatch's orchestra has been engaged for the occasion. The admission is only 25 cents each person.

The warm, springlike weather of the last few days, has started the frost from the ground and the country roads in some places are almost impassable. This is the time of the year when macadam roads are fully appreciated.

The monthly meeting of the Business Men's association last evening was well attended by local merchants. Selectman Watkins presided and matters of personal interest to members were discussed and acted upon. Three new members were admitted.

Clarence A. Covil, electrician for The Norton Electrical Instrument company, has resigned, his resignation taking effect next week. Mr. Covil has been employed by the Norton company for over six years. He will go into business for himself in this town.

The iron workers who were in town working on the big steel tube have nearly all left town. Joe Connelley, the foreman of the job, received a present of a gold headed umbrella as a parting gift from the members of the Hogan club. The umbrella was given him at a social held in Apol's opera house last Tuesday evening.

If you wish to save fuel buy one of those Peninsular steel ranges, sold by Hibbard & Stannard, 61 North Main street.

C. E. HOUSE

Advertised letters remain in the Manchester post office for T. H. Beidler, Mrs. W. H. Dunham Jr., A. L. Gleason, William L. Gleason, Joseph Kojrojski.

Col. F. W. Cheney entertained a party of about a dozen army veterans at a dinner at the Heublein hotel last evening. Most of the guests were his associates in the constitutional convention and state officials from the capital.

A good sized audience enjoyed the production of "The Actors' Holiday" at the Armory Tuesday night. The piece is a light comedy with little plot. It affords opportunity for specialties which was well improved. The best ventriloquist ever seen at the Armory gave an amusing act and other clever specialists appeared.

The white weavers of the silk mill organized the Silk Weavers' Benefit society last Wednesday evening with Samuel Smith as president, Thomas Irwin secretary and William Rogers treasurer. The society will pay a sick benefit of $4 a week and will collect monthly dues of 25 cents. Membership is open to both sexes.

The mission services at the Swedish Congregational church on Spruce street this week have been well attended and will be continued this and tomorrow evenings and on Sunday. The pastor has been assisted this week by Rev. N. O. Nelson, of Crompton, R. I., who will be joined tomorrow by Rev. C. G. Peterson, of Cromwell. The services on Sunday will begin at 10:30 a. m. and at 8 and 7 o'clock p. m.

The annual children's entertainment under the auspices of St. Bridget's church will be held at Apol's opera house St. Patrick's night. A program of much interest has been prepared and from the rising of the curtain on the first part, which will open with a chorus of 100 voices, until the close of the last number there will not be a dull moment. The numbers include choruses, recitations, dialogues, character sketches, action songs in costume and a short farce.

Firemen's Annual Ball. The Manchester firemen are taking renewed interest in their coming annual ball to be given at Apol's opera house Friday evening, April 14. The ball was postponed from February 7, a goodly number of tickets have already been sold. McGuire & Lennon's orchestra will furnish the music and W. P. Smith will prompt. The money made on the ball will go toward further furnishing the department's new hose house. The price of admission is 75 cents a couple. Ladies' tickets are 25 cents. Dancing will continue until two a. m.

At a largely attended meeting last evening of the ball committee held at the new hose house, James O. Griswold was unanimously elected chairman. The committee appointed before the ball was postponed will be the same. The opera house will be appropriately decorated for the ball and a competent man will have charge of the refreshments. Cut flowers will be sold at the opera house the night of the ball.

Death of Mrs. John Weldon. Annie Avery, wife of Dr. John Weldon, of Willimantic, died at her home yesterday noon after a long and painful illness with brain tumor. Mrs. Weldon was the adopted daughter of Mrs. Mary E. Avery of this place and was married to Dr. Weldon about four years ago. She leaves a son about two years old. The body will be brought here for burial on the train arriving at 10:45 tomorrow and will be interred in St. Bridget's cemetery.

J. P. Ledgard will have his bicycle repair shop in the basement of the Brown & Patten building ready for business next Tuesday. He has the agency for the Columbia, Hartford, Crescent and Stearns wheels. His prices are right. He will also carry a line of sporting goods.

NOTICE. D. H. Blish, the blacksmith, wishes to announce to his customers that he has engaged the services of Charles Clemson, who would be pleased to see his former patrons and he solicits a share of their work.

Five cases of choice salmon, 10 cents can. O. F. Toop. Richard Wilson has opened a bicycle repair shop in the basement of the Buckland building on Depot square. He will carry a first class line of sundries and has the agency for some of the best makes of wheels. When in need of work in his line call and see him.

Condensed milk, 10c. can, three cans for 25 cts. O. F. Toop. Trousers to order for $3. The goods are all right and a perfect fit is guaranteed. P. McFarlane, Depot square. Special sale of choice shredded coconut 13c. pound, two pounds for 25 cents. O. F. Toop.

Mrs. C. E. Van Dusen, of Killbourn, Wis., was afflicted with stomach trouble and constipation for a long time. She says, "I have tried many preparations but none have done me the good that Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets have." These Tablets are for sale at C. H. Rose's and W. B. Cheney's drug stores. Price 25 cents. Samples free.

MANCHESTER HERALD.

HALF-WEEKLY.
Published Tuesday and Friday
Evenings.

Elwood S. Ela. Editor.

OFFICES: Herald Building, Main and Hilliard streets, Manchester, and Post Office Building, South Manchester.

Entered at the post office at Manchester as mail matter of the second class.

Prince Henry started for home on the steamship Deutschland Tuesday. His two weeks' stay in America has been a continual round of travel, receptions and banquets. Hospitality has been hurled at him in such big chunks that he had no time to digest them, but he has secured food for reflection for many months to come.

DEATH OF ALTGELD.

John P. Altgeld, ex-governor of Illinois, died suddenly at Joliet, Ill., Wednesday morning of apoplexy. He was the principal speaker at a pro-Bour mass meeting in the Joliet theater the preceding evening. He spoke with great fervor and at the close of his speech was stricken with an attack of dizziness from which he lapsed into unconsciousness, in which condition he remained until he died.

Ex-Governor Altgeld was a native of Germany and came to this country in his infancy. He fought in the Union army as a private during the Civil war and afterward studied law. In 1886 he was made judge of the superior court and served until 1891. In 1893 he was elected governor and gained wide notoriety by pardoning three Anarchists who were serving life imprisonment for the Haymarket murders. He was a free silver Democrat and one of Bryan's most loyal supporters. He was at one time very wealthy but lost most of his money by unfortunate investments.

Education by Correspondence.

Nothing marks the superiority of the twentieth century more than its progress in all matters of education, not alone in the quality of the instruction given, but in the means that are used to distribute its blessings everywhere. As progress is almost everywhere without it, it has become imperative that it shall be close to every man's door. And the modern education is essentially practical in its nature. Nearly all schemes of training have for their object the destruction of the conditions of life, the removal of poverty as well as ignorance, the bestowal of equality of conditions upon all classes of the people.

In recent conversation with some gentlemen who are interested in the well being of the workmen of South Manchester, the writer was speaking of the system that brings the technical school to the home of every mechanic, that makes it possible by correspondence for all who desire to improve their knowledge of practical mechanics to study in their leisure hours the same lessons that are given in the best mechanical college in America, and it was suggested that at some future time I should meet the mechanics of South Manchester and explain the methods that enable every young man by application to secure the knowledge that will ensure advancement in skill and wages. So complete is the range of instruction given by one school, that one of the gentlemen said after reading the list of subjects taught, "Why, a man who took that course and mastered it would be qualified for superintendent in the mill," and this opinion embodied the literal truth.

Ignorance nowadays is unpardonable because there is no excuse for it; the man who decides to continue ignorant is choosing the lot of the drudge. Inventive genius is changing the whole conditions of production; the man must keep pace with the machine, to be its master, and not its slave. And by some self denial for a year or two every young man can by home study make himself fit to "Keep up with the procession."

I am very truly yours,
Marge Pratt,
Hartford, Conn., March 13, 1902.

A Vaccination Story.

While vaccination is the fact of the following anecdote, true in every particular, may not come amiss. Some years ago, when one of our fellow townsmen was a tiny boy of three years of age he was vaccinated. The ordeal filled him with so much fear that it was only accomplished by holding his leg while the doctor vaccinated that member. A short vacation after the pastor of the Methodist church gave notice that upon the following Sunday he should baptize his infant daughter and the little boy was at once filled with a desire to witness the ceremony, giving as his reason that "it had been so long since he was baptized that he could not find the place on his leg." Suffice to say he was allowed to go.

PARKVILLE DAM BREAKS.

Pond Released Plays Havoc with Railroad Tracks.

The paper mill dam at Parkerville, belonging to The Lydall & Poulids Paper company, gave away about twenty minutes before seven Wednesday morning. The dam was built of stone and was about 80 feet long. Tuesday it leaked a trifle and men were put to work repairing it temporarily. It was supposed to be all right when they left it. The company had engaged men and teams to begin work on it Wednesday morning to make permanent improvements. The pond was full of water at the time of the break and the great force carried the dam away as clean as though it never had been there. Large stones, of which the dam was built, were carried 200 feet down the stream. When the water reached the railroad tracks it had risen upwards of twelve feet. The stream runs under the tracks about 200 yards west of the little needle mill and the bridge over the stream is about 15 feet long. The culvert underneath the tracks is ordinarily big enough, but the large volume of water suddenly released, soon choked it up and washed over the tracks. The mason work in the bridge was loosened and the tracks were washed badly 50 feet on either side of the bridge. The water ran down on both sides of the tracks, making deep gullies. White's dam stood the test all right and the deep, wide valley between it and Apel's pond saved the dam and the bridge which crosses the stream on Oakland street. Below this point the water had plenty of room and caused no damage.

When the break came John Murphy, engineer for Lydall & Poulids, blew the mill whistle. He thought it might possibly warn the people below of the danger. Everybody who heard the whistle thought it was a fire and headed for the paper mill. An engineer on a passing freight noticed the break and tooted his whistle several times. In less than half an hour after the dam gave way the water was down to its normal height all along the stream.

Word was at once sent to the Manchester station notifying the agent of the bad condition of the tracks. The 7:33 train from Willimantic was allowed to pass over the tracks slowly and by this time a gang of men were at work making repairs. Later a gravel train came from East Hartford and by one o'clock in the afternoon the damage was righted. At the rear of John Traynor's house on Apel place the chicken coops and other small buildings were moved about considerably. The willow trees along the stream were uprooted and carried away.

The dam which was washed away Wednesday morning was built about the year 1870. The big freshet of 1869 carried away every dam on the stream. The mill there at that time was a cotton mill owned by Lucius Parker. The dam was rebuilt by him and has stood the test of many storms since that time. The freshet of 1869 was noted for its destruction of mill dams. The big dam at the Union mill had to be rebuilt, the one at Oakland was damaged and the dam at Talcottville was completely destroyed.

The breaking of the dam will not interfere with the running of the paper mill as the mill was all run by steam. The water was used only in the manufacture of the paper and a canal from the pond above will supply enough for this purpose. The dam will probably be rebuilt during the summer.

Since the pond has been drawn off many people were surprised at its depth. It was not generally known that it was so deep. In some places it is over 15 feet deep.

More Macadam for Vernon.

The town of Vernon is going to extend the macadam road between Talcottville and Rockville this summer upwards of a mile. This will bring the improved road nearly to the railroad bridge of the Melrose branch. Vernon's allotment for the year, 1901-1902 is $5,500. This will build a little over a mile of macadam road. State Highway Commissioner MacDonald has approved the plans of the town and the road will be built as soon as possible. The present macadam road begins at the Talcottville school house and ends at Mr. Thrall's farm.

Three boys, Raymond Vosburg, Leonard Clark and Alexander Kernahan, caught a German carp weighing twenty-two pounds in the creek near the Wethersfield town farm on Monday afternoon. The fish had impaled itself on a broken limb protruding from the bank of the creek and the boys killed it with their knives.—Hartford Courant.

The Travelers Insurance company, of Hartford, Conn., want an active man to represent their life, accident and health departments in Manchester, Conn. Liberal arrangements will be made with the right one. Apply by mail or otherwise to Fred R. Loydon, Home Office, Hartford, Conn.

HOW TO CURE THE GRIP.

Remain quietly at home and take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy as directed and a quick recovery is sure to follow. That remedy counteracts any tendency of the grip to result in pneumonia, which is really the only serious danger. Among the tens of thousands who have used it for the grip, not one case has ever been reported that did not recover. For sale by C. H. Rose and W. B. Cheney.

GOOD BYE TO THE PRINCE.

He Leaves America With a Noisy Farewell in His Ears.

Without an unpleasant incident to mar a single one of the seventeen days of his visit here, Prince Henry sailed away Tuesday afternoon, leaving behind him in still more emphasized form the very favorable impression which his personality made upon the day of his arrival. Thousands greeted him from both sides of the river as well as from the pier as the big Deutschland swam out into the stream and turned her prow on the homeward voyage.

New York got its first glimpse of the distinguished visitor from the bridge of the Kronprinz Wilhelm, as she sailed up the bay that bright Sunday morning of two weeks ago, and got its last glimpse of him as he stood on the bridge of the Deutschland in equally bright weather Tuesday afternoon. Doubtless everybody concerned with this now historical tour drew a sigh of relief when the last words of the last salute and all the formalities of farewell were over and the Prince and his suite with nothing before them but the plain sailing of a transatlantic ferry were well beyond the three-mile limit. The welcoming of the coming guest was cordial and sincere and the speeding of the parting one was equally satisfactory.

The gun salutes in honor of Prince Henry began at Governors Island. Here the long, black liner had pulled away from the hysterical tugs and yachts which had come spluttering after her down the river. Her upper works were black with sailors and passengers. When she was off the Battery, the flag on Castle Williams ran down and there was a red flash from one of the guns under the castle's gray front.

A moment later every craft on the river jumped convulsively with the shock and the report of the first gun of the twenty-one went echoing away toward the Jersey and Staten Island shores. It has become the custom, in the navy apparently, to fire salutes from rapid fire guns as though they were ceremonies to be hurried through as quickly as possible. But the army did not follow that method with the Prince. There was a due and impressive interval between the guns.

The Deutschland's flag went down astern and stayed down until the salute was over. But long before the shock of the guns was over the demonstration prepared by John H. Starin on behalf of the vessels of the harbor was in full swing. Mr. Starin has a goodly number of lighters and steamboats and things, but he concluded, as he thought over this matter of saying good bye to the Prince, that he had not enough. So he went out himself on his steamer, the Glen Island, with old John Starin and about fifty of his friends. This great fleet lay all quiet under the south side of Governors Island until the first guns were fired.

With that gun as a signal every tug and steamer in the lot turned loose its whistle, and headed straight out for the liner hooting a farewell which was deafening. As the fleet steamed closer and closer to the Deutschland and her side loomed up higher and higher above the tiny decks below, there appeared the figure of the Prince on the upper bridge.

He stood back of the rail, with his hat held to one side of his head, he waved repeatedly. The liner almost stopped while the tugs came up in a long waving line within a hundred feet of her. Then she started on again and the tugs and smaller boats, led by the Glen Island, with old John Starin in the pilot house, leaning down with all his weight on the whistle rope, turned down toward the Narrows.

John F. Miner Gets into Trouble While Trying to Regain Possession of His Daughter.

John F. Miner, formerly of Burnside but for several years a resident of South Manchester and lately employed in the silk mills, made a scene at the School street school in East Hartford Tuesday morning. His thirteen-year-old daughter, May, was a pupil in the school. Since last January she has made her home with her uncle, Thomas Dannaher, of Burnside. Tuesday morning Mr. Miner drove in from South Manchester and called his daughter out of school. He then told her he wanted her to go with him and upon her refusal it is alleged that he seized her by the throat and threatened to kill her if she did not obey. The girl's uncle was summoned and when he appeared Miner drew a loaded revolver and threatened to shoot Mr. Dannaher if he interfered.

An officer was called and Miner was placed under arrest and locked up. At eight o'clock in the evening he was taken into the East Hartford town court charged with breach of the peace and assault. The prosecuting attorney asked for an adjournment to secure witnesses and the case was adjourned until Friday evening at eight o'clock. P. A. Brink, of South Manchester, gave a bond of $500 for his appearance.

MACCABEES DEFALCATION.

Ex-Supreme Finance Keeper Under Arrest.

Charles D. Thompson, ex-supreme finance keeper of the supreme tent Knights of the Maccabees, who some time ago confessed to a shortage of $57,000, was arrested Wednesday on a complaint sworn out by Sheriff Maines. The warrant contains nine counts, four of which charge Thompson with having embezzled $57,000 between February 12, 1901 and August 12, 1901. Four other counts charge him with having violated the state law regulating the responsibility of insurance agents to their companies and the ninth charges him with larceny of $57,000.

Thompson was arraigned in a police court, but refused to plead, and the court entered a plea of not guilty. Bail was fixed at $5,000 and was furnished. His examination was set for March 18.

The Maccabee officials are not known in the complaint, which was made by Sheriff Maines on information and belief secured in court from Supreme Record Keeper George J. Siegel and his books. The county officials say that they had become convinced that the Maccabees did not intend to prosecute Thompson and so that reason Sheriff Maines made the complaint.

HOME AND CHILD

Does your horse "feel his oats"? What a difference between the grain-fed and the grass-fed horse! The first strong and full of ginger, the second flabby, weak and tired out before he begins. The feeding makes the difference. Children are not alike either. One is rosy, bright-eyed, full of life and laughter, another is pale, weak and dull. The feeding again is responsible.

Sickly children need special feeding. They don't "feel their oats". Scott's Emulsion adds just the right richness to their diet. It is like grain to the horse. The child gets new appetite and strong digestion. <Scott's Emulsion is more than food. It is a strong medicine. It rouses up dull children, puts new flesh on thin ones and red blood into pale ones. It makes children grow. Scott's Emulsion makes ordinary food do its duty.

A QUEER BUSINESS.

Making Up Beggars So That They Will Excite Public Sympathy.

"How beggars are made" might be made the subject of a singularly interesting article. And it would refer not to the appliances whereby a certain debt and none too scrupulous manufacturer equips men and women who, for purposes of their own, wish to be considered lame, halt or blind. That it is easier to be crippled than to work is the maxim upon which this particular trade is established.

"I'm what is called a street 'sham fakir,'" said one of these dealers, "disguise myself as a beggar. Most of the sham disabled mill operatives, crippled sailors, etc., and charge 'em a small fee. If it's a woman with a tale that her husband beats her, I paint her a black eye and put her arm in a sling. Say it's a man on a 'blind' lay. Well, I paint some scars on his face to imitate the marks of a lead explosion and give him a green eye shade and a 'blind' card.

"If a man's really maimed, it makes it easier. Suppose he's been run over and had his leg off. I paint a picture of a burning house and him jumping out of a top window with a child in his arms and a yarn under it. 'Kind friends, I lost my leg through rescuing my employer's child.' That's a sure take of a 'five' a day.

"I make all these rigs myself," he said, "and hire 'em out. It pays, but I have to keep dark. For the police are very down on my sort. This hollow wooden cap with an iron hook fits over your head, and here's a clubfoot boot and yonder a pair for both feet.

"A queer business? You'd say so if you knew the jobs I'm asked to do sometimes. Only yesterday a woman wanted vitriol scars made on her face and actually wanted me to use real vitriol. Didn't know what she was asking? Oh, yes! Why, bless you, some beggars paint themselves horribly to excite sympathy. In fact, they'd do anything rather than work."—New York World.

SPRINKLING SINGAPORE.

The Solemn Procession That Accompanies the Watering Cart.

Poulitney Bigelow in his description of the marvelous progress made by the city of Singapore under English rule gave a quaint picture of the manner in which the streets are watered:

The watering cart was drawn by little white bullocks and driven by Malays with turbans. It seemed to take five Malays to do this driving. One rooster aloft on top of the barrel for the purpose of controlling the outgo of water. He seemed very proud of his appointment. Another native in a big turban rooster on the pole and controlled the little cattle.

Then there was a man in thin brown legs and much turban who walked solemnly behind and enjoying a football. He was obviously a government functionary, although his exact sphere of usefulness I could not discover. He appeared to be something in the nature of a rear guard.

Then there was a "foreloper," or advance guard for the purpose of clearing the way. There appeared to be an idea of the little bullocks. They suddenly turned and headed toward the rear. No congenial employment to one more native, and that was something.

There was yet another, who bent down now and then to pick up a piece of stone or brush away some irregularity unseen by ordinary eyes.

This outfit was a treat to me. It was solemn; it was full of self-consciousness; it was magnificently oriental.

I have seen men in similar moments; I have seen the red capped station master of Germany strut up and down his platform when an imperial train was about to arrive, but even that impressed me less than the watering cart of Singapore, with its municipal hierarchy of Malay ministers, each earning perhaps 2 cents a day.

Doves and Coronations.

At the ancient ceremonies of coronation of the French kings, after the anointing had been performed, some white doves were let loose in the church. This was supposed to symbolize the power of the Holy Ghost in directing the king's actions. A similar idea seems to have inspired all early kings, for among the English regalia is the rod of equity or the scepter with a dove. This is simply a golden rod with a mound at the top, which supports a cross. On this cross is a dove, fashioned of white enamel, with expanded wings. Some fine diamonds ornament the rod in various places.

No Excuse This Time.

"It was a new gun, your honor," protested the prisoner, "and I did not know it was loaded."

"But," argued the judge, "the dealer has just told us that you did not pay for the weapon."

"What has that to do with it?"

"Well, if you didn't pay for it the dealer must have charged it for you."

And the judge tried to look as much like the pictures of Solomon as he could.—Baltimore American.

Wrong Presumption.

Visitor—Am I right in presuming that it was your passion for strong drink that brought you here?

Prisoner—Say, boss, I guess yer don't know dis joint. It's de last place on earth I'd come ter if I wuz lookin' fer booze.—Judge.

Still Looking.

Aunt Hannah—When I was here two years ago, Hulda was looking for a husband. She is married now.

Uncle George—Yes, but she is still looking for him—that is to say, a good deal of the time.—Boston Transcript.
