Senate Closes Carswell Query

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Judiciary Committee closed its hearings today on the nomination of Judge G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court over the protest of civil rights spokesmen who said he should be recalled as a witness to explain his "segregationist" record.

Rush appealed to the committee not to approve "someone worse" in wake of the Senate's rejection of the prior nominee for the seat, Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr.

Rush said that a bill introduced by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., presiding at that juncture, focused on the threat of a nationwide rail shutdown.

Ervin said the committee had agreed to accept the testimony by Carswell and by Carswell's attorney, J. Edgar Hoover.

Pope Tells Clergy To Remain Celibate

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI ordered the Roman Catholic hierarchy of the Netherlands today to revise its stand against the celibacy rule for priests.

He said it was indispensable for the Dutch bishops, priests and laymen to disagree on the matter.

Historians say some of those earlier edicts were honored more in breach than observance.

At the outset of Christianity, some and perhaps most of the men whom Jesus chose as his apostles were married.

Each has his own special gift which the Lord and God, one of one of another," Paul wrote in 1st Corinthians 7: 7, saying that he felt it was better to stay single, so as to concentrate on the Lord's work, but that others needed to be married.

Of Church officers, he wrote in 1st Timothy 3: 2: "The bishop must be above reproach, the husband of one wife, temperate, sensible, dignified, hospitable, he must manage his own household well, keeping his children submissive and respectful in every way."

Britain Mourning Bertrand Russell

PENNYHYDE, WALES (AP)—Britain today mourns the death of Bertrand Russell, one of the great minds of the 20th century and one of its most controversial figures.

Russell died Monday night at his home in North Wales. He was 97.

A spokesman said Russell's fourth wife, Edith, was with him when he collapsed. He reportedly had been suffering from influenza.

There was no immediate word on arrangements for the funeral. The family was expected to issue a statement later today.

"This has come as a terrible shock to everyone," said Kenneth Coates, a director of the Bertrand Russell Peace Foundation.

The Times of London said "Bertrand Russell's claim to be remembered by history rests primarily on his work in mathematical and symbolic logic and philosophy on which his influence was pervasive and profound."

In recent years Russell, a peace philosopher, was in the vanguard of the military opposition to nuclear armament and U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war.

The peace foundation he set up seven years ago held a tribunal in Denmark that in December 1967 found the United States guilty of genocide against the Vietnamese people.

Russell won the Nobel prize for literature in 1950 and was a member of the British Order of Merit, restricted to 24 members at any time. He was the third Earl Russell and the grandson of a British prime minister, the first earl.

Yet in 1940 his appointment to lecture at the College of the City of New York was revoked by a state Supreme Court justice who said the appointment was "an attempt to establish a chair of indecency." A woman taxpayer brought the suit because of Russell's open endorsement of trial in philosophy on which his influence was pervasive and profound.

Few men prompted such ex-ecution as Bertrand Russell. In recent years Russell, a peace philosopher, was in the vanguard of the military opposition to nuclear armament and U.S. involvement in the Vietnam war.

Doctor Helps the Tasteless Say 'Ah!' and Drool Again

WASHINGTON (AP)—Last July 28 Adolph (Rudy) Conglio, who calls himself the best pizza maker in northern New Jersey, suddenly lost the ability to taste his food.

He thought he had been sold rotten tomatoes, but when other people said the tomatoes tasted good, "I realized it was myself."

Conglio, 54, went to his doctor, who said it was nerves and prescribed tranquilizers. They did no good. Another doctor just threw up his hands while a third suggested a nose operation.

In all, Conglio, who lives in Closter, N.J., went to 20 doctors and spent close to $5,000 trying to regain his sense of taste. He had closed his restaurant and was about to go to Europe in the hope that doctors there could help him.

Most foods tasted bad. All he could eat were pears, cheese and milk. Meat and fried foods were particularly repugnant and he could not stomach the spicy food he used to love. He couldn't swallow hot food; it all had to be cold.

Then Conglio was referred to Dr. Robert L. Henkin, a neuro-otologist at the National Heart and Lung Institute in Bethesda, Md., who has spent the last 12 years developing a new theory to explain how man tastes.

Henkin was well aware of the pizza maker's problem. Over the past five years he has treated 50 patients who suddenly have lost the ability to taste, plus another 150 patients whose loss of taste was a serious side effect from drugs they were getting for other diseases.

Report Reveals Potential Health Value of Marijuana

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secret research at an Army chemical warfare laboratory shows that a synthetic form of marijuana may be useful in treating such diseases as high blood pressure and extreme sunstroke.

The never-published studies, done 10 years ago at the Army Chemical Corp. Medical Research Laboratory at the Edgewood (Md.) Arsenal, were disclosed in proceedings of a National Institute of Mental Health conference of January, 1969, reported Monday.

At that scientific meeting, Dr. Van Sim of the Edgewood Arsenal described his work publicly for the first time. He said that both the synthetic chemical and natural marijuana "are interesting from a medical standpoint... there are three areas where they are of therapeutic use in medicine."

Besides the two medical uses that he studied, Sim cited work done by the late Dr. Walter Siegfried Lewis of the University of Utah, who found another marijuana-like, a 7% and larynx, all in the oral cavity, also play important roles in the regulation of the blood pressure, not the tongue, is the seat of the most sensitive area for the taste sensation.

Black Jews Settle Into Israeli Life

By MARCELO IANSON
Associated Press Writer
ARAD, Israel (AP) — Thirty-nine black Jews, who call themselves Jews except for their last names, are settling into life in the Neguv desert.

The nine families are the last of 42 American Negroes who emigrated to Liberia in 1820 and tried for 2 1/2 years to support themselves on a 36-acre plot hacked out of the African nation's wilderness.

Their future is uncertain. Israeli authorities have granted them three-month visas, but have not yet decided whether to recognize them as Jews and grant them Zionist citizenship.

The immigrants have settled in Arad, a town of 10,000 people in the Negev desert. They arrived in Israel about 1965 and have been provided temporary housing in the two villages. The men have found work at the busy industrial complex in the area.

"I love Arad," says Haskiyahu Blackwell, 24, a bearded former rock musician, who is married and has four children. "Just listen to that quiet. In Chicago all you hear is bang crash, smack wham, day in day out."

Blackwell, a carpenter, is building his own furniture for the three-room apartment he has rented. His children go to a Jewish school, and, says Blackwell, "I don't mind the Negroes' presence."

The newcomers say they don't remember being anything but Jewish, but when asked to describe how they felt about their new life in Chicago, they made no comment.

The 300-acre tract occupied by the original group was 100 miles north of Monrovia, the capital of Liberia, which was founded early in 19th century by freed American slaves.

Personality in the News
New President of Columbia U

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—When asked how he'll approach his post as the new president of Columbia University, James McGill replied with characteristic brevity: "Very gently."

McGill, 47, was named Columbia's 18th president, effective Sept. 1. A former chairman of the university's psychology department and a native New Yorker, McGill was the past two years has been chairman of the University of California at San Diego.

Asked what he thought the chief problem would be at Columbia, he said: "Money." The campus of Columbia, which has an enrollment of 16,000, has called down since a series of disturbances in 1968.

McGill succeeds Dr. Andrew W. Corliss, who became acting president of Columbia in 1968 and was named president last summer with the understanding that he would serve only one year. Dr. Corliss plans to return to his old post as dean of the School of International Affairs.

McGill has a controversial record as a faculty member at UC-San Diego. He supported retention of Dr. Herbert Marcuse, Marxist philosophy professor, over strenuous objections from the American public institution.

in parliament and a mayoral post in a large city are in comparable, but the law doesn't seem to be getting any more abandoned," Dardis explains. "Until recently we were particularly in crisis, and was good to have something to fall back on."

He plans eventually to drop out of parliament. For the moment, he is drawing a salary of $10,000 a year, plus a monthly $200 expense differential as mayor's representative as well as his deputy's salary of $500 and his deputy's salary of $500.

"This ridiculous mayor's salary dates back to the old days, when people and I was a hobby," he says. "In small Italian towns, the mayor's job is a very important one, and a way of life here too."

Dardis said he has no residence from the municipality, has only one driver at his disposal, and must do all his private errands himself. He also has fewer duties than most mayors, with some exceptions for traffic, are under state control. And Rome, which has a long history of municipal government, has a mayor who is elected by the people.

Your Dental Health

This is the second in a series of six articles on dental health published by The Herald, in cooperation with the Massachusetts Dental Society, in observance of National Children's Dental Health Week, Feb. 17.

Even though my family sees the dentist regularly, it seems to me that we all have some decay, especially the children. Isn't there some way we can prevent decay between dental visits?

With modern techniques, most decay can be prevented. But this disease is mankind's most widespread health problem, it is estimated that more than 90 per cent of the people have decay.

One of the most effective weapons against decay, or dental caries, is fluoride. The fluoride ion, when it enters the tooth, forms a fluoride-saturated enamel which is more resistant to decay.

Fluoride is found in many foods, but the most common source is in the water supply. In areas where the water is not naturally fluoridated, it is possible to add fluoride to the water supply.

Another source of fluoride is in toothpaste. Many toothpastes now contain fluoride, and brushing with such toothpaste helps to prevent decay.

Fluoridated salt is another source of fluoride. It is available in many grocery stores, and it can be used to season food.

Fluoridated sugar is another source of fluoride. It is available in many grocery stores, and it can be used to sweeten food.

Fluoridated oil is another source of fluoride. It is available in many grocery stores, and it can be used to cook food.

Modern Fashion Is Where You Find It

By KATHERINE WHITEHORN
The London Observer
The other day as I got the day's mail from my friends, I was struck by the fact that the fashion magazines were all out in the evening. It came to me how utterly at sea I would be if I ever wanted to go back to fashion writing. Not because of the mud, which was always there, but because everything has altered so much in the past seven years. Clothes, designers, styles, but even more the fashion process, by which people decide what, if anything, to wear.

The clothes themselves have changed totally of course; items and heels and the feel of fabrics seem different enough to mark 20 years. 20 years ago I wrote a long warty skirt, a trouser suit, a smokeskin mini and a long-sleeved dress. I never thought the odd woman out.

The revolt from "a wardrobe of a woman's wardrobe" was beginning even then, with dresses and jackets, trousers and blouses. The fragmentation is complete: a girl can look great whose outfit is a collection of items that have been to cover herself in blue and roll through a second-hand shop.

The one thing no one is wearing anymore is the idea of a fashion authority. Not that it had a fashion dictator, not that before the war the influence came from eight or a dozen Parisian houses. Vogue, Spectator, guarded their detailed secrets like the plans of the H-bomb.

It was only when the New Look struck in 1947 that the fashion dictator notion — and then everyone spent the next 20 years trotting in and out of the fashion show. But who dictates now? Oms and Alice? Ungars with all their hair and their hair? Vogue? Maybe a lot of ideas still start in Paris, but the idea of an all-powerful fashion dictator is dead. Actually a powdered wig might be interesting.

Scientists are studying an enzyme—dextranase—which appears to be a natural killer of bacteria. Dextranase attacks a metabolic product of streptococci, which is a common cause of caries. By effectively halting the formation of this product—dextran—the enzyme can help to break one link in the decay process and thus prevent, or at least delay, tooth decay.

In this area, of course, will continue for quite some time. The principle that is being tested here, there are several methods of preventing decay or reducing the amount of bacteria. Fluoridation of the drinking water remains the most effective preventive measure. Brushing the teeth immediately after eating and cutting down on sweets will also help to prevent decay. Regular visits to the dentist will permit your dentist to treat any beginning decay before it becomes a serious problem.

Washington (AP) — President Nixon budgeted a $3.19 billion urban program for fiscal 1971, but also cut $200 million from the program. The President budgeted $300 million for Model Cities outlays in fiscal 1971, versus $200 million this year. But the original spending figure for the current fiscal year was $200 million.

The budget also calls for urban renewal expenditures to continue at the $1 billion level. Federal assistance for low and moderate income mortgage and rent subsidies would rise from $88 million in fiscal 1970 to $143 million in the coming fiscal year.

Washington (AP) — President Nixon proposed the government increase by 20 per cent the money it spends on major federal consumer programs.

The budget did not specify how the money proposed would be used. The amount earmarked for the Division of Consumer Protection is $12 million for the new consumer protection division.

The budget proposed no further reduction in the number of states. But the commission was the only major consumer program proposed for fiscal 1971.

President also proposed expanding meat and poultry inspection authority by $4.7 million. The program is a consumer protection, marketing and regulatory programs in the Department of Agriculture to $144 million.

Judge Rules No Surgery Alters Sex

By HONEY FINDER
LONDON (AP) — A High Court Judge made British legal history Monday by ruling that surgery cannot change a person's sex.

Roger Ormrod had to decide if a woman before he could rule on the validity of a marriage between a 26-year-old Air Ashley, a merchant seaman, and a 21-year-old Air Cameron Corbett, 50-year-old son of a peer.

After outlining "this essential pathology, but not including the story," Ormrod declared: "The only cases where the term change of sex is appropriate are those in which a mistake as to sex, made at birth and not corrected by surgery, is not a ground for annulment of a marriage."

Medical witnesses agreed, he went on, that the biological sex and constitution of an individual fixed no later than birth and could not be changed by medical or surgical means.

The law, said Ormrod, should apply to all cases, including chromosomal, gonadal (presence or absence of testes or ovaries) and genital factors (including internal sex organs).

Would-Be Page Pens Her Appeal To Congressmen

MIAMI (AP) — Using feminine logic, a bright-eyed 16-year-old blonde who wants to be a congressional page is telling 435 members of Congress they shouldn't hold her sex against her because "some of the greatest people in the world started out as girls."

Wendy Green, a high school junior who started her campaign at the top and resorted to letters to every congressman after President Nixon stepped the issue, has licked stamps and envelopes for two days to further his cause.

Wendy is a slim, smiling Miami honor student who says she has wanted to be a page for a long time and won't stop her campaign until she gets a positive response.

Her letters begin: "I don't think it's shame if a woman would join a country club and wouldn't become a member if it would be illegal. It would be illegal to restrict girls from becoming pages in the United States Congress."

"I don't think it's fair that girls can't be pages and I think I have an answer for all the reasons they say girls can't do it," she said.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fourteen Princeton University students, hearing details about the proposed ban on the use of nuclear weapons, are experimenting with opening lines of communication between the campus set and Washington's foreign policymakers.

The students are using a variety of methods to reach their leader Stephen Fuzesi Jr., who says they got a good hearing Monday from Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y.

Fuzesi, 21, of Hamden, Conn., says this effort "to re-establish a dialogue between students and the government is a man who wants to help to undercut the student protest movement."

The students are going to have to accept more responsibility during the coming decade and they have a right to say to the business government.

In all, 20 Princeton students spent 14 weeks researching and commenting on the policies of the Congress with respect to the employment of pages.

responsibility and casualties, there is also beginning to be some realistic doubt among more moderate possibilities of Vietnamization. This doubt can be found, in concentrated form, in a new report from the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. It is a report which questions the military and political ability of the present Thieu government to meet the tests which would follow the reduction of American participation in the war. But it does not, when it is unable to give a satisfactory affirmative answer to that question, ever go on to the great unspoken business which has had, from the beginning, to lie just under the surface of the Vietnamization concept.

The only way any realist, in Washington or anywhere else, expects Vietnamization to work is for there to develop in Saigon, by change in the Thieu government, or by arrival, by some means, of a new government, not an ability to fight the war as fiercely alone as in our company, but an ability to make for itself the kind of compromise which our own would not dare offer directly. At some stage in the Vietnamization process, Saigon is supposed to get reasonable enough to convince the Viet Cong and North Vietnam they can give up the fighting in the field and try to win by the weapons of coexistence.

But the very thing realists calculate will have to happen, to make Vietnamization work, is just about the last thing the Nixon Administration could admit even thinking about. The only way for us to leave the South Vietnamese totally safe is not to leave them at all. Face that fact long enough and frankly enough and you might decide to stay and resume bombing the wretched North, without, however, having Vice President Ky put his fly suit back on.

He looks Before He Forecasts. We are truly sorry not to believe in the Groundhog.

For the Groundhog, all credit and praise to him, always includes in his forecasting formula one routine which should, in his humble opinion, be required of all who forecast the weather.

The groundhog at least sticks his head out in the open air, looks around to see whether it is clear or cloudy, bright with sun or dark with rain, and then, but only then, renders a verdict.

The groundhog, then, begins his forecasting process with his feet on the ground, his nose to the wind, and his eyes open.

That wins and deserves our confidence. Heated as his nose is, the groundhog lets his own sense whither until they have plotted him toward a certain course of action—to sleep or not to sleep more. The one thing he doesn't do is consult some ally computer which knows only what he himself has told it, which can never, but not till the end of time, all he knows.

Defensive Action. If they defend it before, the North Vietnamese now have emphatically been informed that the U.S. will retaliate swiftly for any attack on its unarmed planes. Air Force fighter-bombers raided a Red missile site in Laos inside North Vietnam, in quick response to an attack on an unarmed reconnaissance plane by Communist surface-to-air missiles. U.S. fighter-bomber planes, escorting the reconnaissance craft, hit the SAM site. One jet was destroyed and the other, a helicopter looking for the crew was later downed by a Red MG interceptor.

UDO BRONZE FIGURE OF A CHIEF: Loaned by Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Price, Los Angeles

Inside Report

By Rowland Evans Jr. Robert D. Novak

CAIRO—Egyptian frustration over the quality of weapons supplied by the Soviet Union is getting deeper, fueled by Israel's military superiority over President Gamal Abdel Nasser's clearly inferior forces.

The Soviets have fished up a new lot to give Egypt. It is the latest model SAM III anti-aircraft defense, insisting that SAM II is good enough. At one point, Egypt had 40 of the SAM II sites, with six launchers each, but many of these have been eliminated by Israel, starting with total destruction of forward defense positions near the Suez Canal.

Having destroyed these forward defenses, Israeli aircraft are now moving against SAM II sites deep inside Egypt. With their early penetration of Egyptian air space, they are punishing military camps and defense installations on the outskirts of Cairo.

Last Wednesday (Jan. 28), the shock of exploding bombs in a mid-morning air attack in the vicinity of suburban Maadi, for example, knocked out windows in the American School. Autoclaves at the school, which teach children of the small U.S. diplomatic mission and resident American businessmen, informed Donald Bergus, top U.S. diplomat in Cairo, that the attack was a threat to the school itself.

Connecticut Yankee

By A.H.O.

Ever since the Democrats, in 1960, reeled for a dear old gentleman from Yale and used his white-tufted wit and Eastern Connecticut drawl to take the state away from J. Henry Roraback, Connecticut politicians have kept their eyes on the Yale man as a candidate who would lead them to victory.

In all this time, however, only two gentlemen from the campus have actually been nominated for Governor, and only one elected. It is happened that they had to run against each other, and they came from the same university, Wesleyan. Wilbert Snow, the unsuccessful Democratic candidate, as a professor of English, James L. McCaughy, the successful Republican candidate, as president of the University.

Nor did these two gentlemen spring from the campus as full-fledged candidates for Governor. Each of them served an apprenticeship as lieutenant governor in the 1960 campaign. Snow, the unsuccessful Democratic candidate, as a professor of English, James L. McCaughy, the successful Republican candidate, as president of the University.

For that matter, Wilbur L. Cross, the winner of the 1968 election, did not get his start in politics until 1946, after he had returned from World War II. He got his start in politics as a member of the Yale crew team, and it wasn't until 1946, after he had returned from World War II, that he got his start in politics.

But, although there has been no follow-up action, there has been follow-up opinion, and follow-up suggestion, and there has been one perhaps very relevant report in the news.

We reprint, at the end of this column today, an editorial from the Springfield Union, an adult American newspaper, which has absolutely no trouble at all accepting the concept of our bombing in North Vietnam was basically a "defensive action" and which seems to take for granted that for us to have our aircraft, unarmed and armed, over North Vietnam at will is some sort of God-given right the heathen enemy had better not dispute.

With such response available on the home front, who can blame the hawks at Washington, or the hawk part of President Nixon himself, for thinking that maybe this country wants to get rid of the peace nonsense and get on with winning the war, before too many more troops are withdrawn?

Meanwhile there came from Saigon a suggestion which might show the Nixon Administration how to remain a dove while carrying out the rights of a hawk. Vice President Ky is responsible for the due suggestion that, if we should really want to resume bombing North Vietnam, he could have his South Vietnamese air force do it for us. We would supply the pilots, the planes, the bombs, the maintenance, and yet, technically and legally speaking, the bombing itself would be done purely a South Vietnamese, not an American, function.

South Windsor Former Mayor Raps Proposed Ethics Code

Former Mayor John Madden

Former Mayor John Madden last night criticized a proposed code of ethics for town officials as vague and ambiguous. Madden, speaking at the Town Council meeting, said the proposed code placed no real restraint on municipal leaders and viewed a section dealing with "confidential information" as potential threat to honest government.

The former mayor spoke when Mayor Howard Fitts invited comment on any topic from the citizens attending the council session. Councilman G. Warren Westbrook dismissed Madden's remarks as "a waste of time."

Another resolution passed by the town council was to appoint a commission to study the ethics code. The commission will be made up of representatives from the town, the state, and the federal government.

The town's proposed code of ethics, which the council discussed last night, attempts to define the appropriate standards of conduct for those involved in municipal government. The code would not be applicable to any individual or group, political or otherwise, in a non-official capacity.

The resolution met criticism from Councilman Robert Sills, who considered the wording too strict and the code too restrictive. Sills argued that the code would be too difficult to enforce and that it would be a waste of money.

The second section of the code is devoted to the prohibition of gifts and favors. It states that no local official or employee may accept any gift or favor from any person or organization, except as provided in the code.

The code also deals with the prohibition of self-dealing. It states that no local official or employee may engage in any business or financial transaction with the town, or with any person or organization, in which he has a financial interest.

The code also deals with the prohibition of nepotism. It states that no local official or employee may appoint, promote, or employ any person who is related to him by blood or marriage.

Congressman Calls for Vote On McCormack Leadership

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new conference after the disarray of the McCormack leadership in the House of Representatives was under investigation in connection with reported use of the speaker's office to seek special consideration for federal agencies.

Rep. Jerome R. Waldie, one of a group of young Democratic representatives seeking at least a symbolic vote this year on the issue of Speaker McCormack's leadership, said he would introduce a resolution to force a vote on McCormack's leadership.

Other Democrats have spoken of a possible change next January when the new Congress convenes. They speculate that McCormack, despite his public statements, may not try to retain his post in the next Congress.

Manfield and Scott Order Senate to Stick to Business

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the name of dignity and decorum, the Senate's high command has ordered its members to stick to business and not to engage in side conversations during sessions.

The decision seems a bit drastic in a chamber where business and side conversations are often intertwined. Manfield and Scott suggested a "stricter enforcement" of these rules.

Manfield and Scott, who have been active in pastoral and evangelistic ministry for the last 18 years, said they were concerned about the quality of the Senate's work.

Manfield and Scott also expressed concern about the Senate's reputation. They argued that the Senate should focus on its primary duties and not get distracted by side issues.

Report Asks Improvements In Student Testing Program

Arnold Pressman, director of the Institute for Testing and Assessment

Arnold Pressman, director of the Institute for Testing and Assessment, has issued a report on the testing program in the schools in which he states that the present testing program does "not appear to be particularly well suited" to the local situation, based upon criteria such as the administrative organization of the schools and the characteristics of the school population.

Pressman notes in the report that the testing program in the schools is based upon a joint study with Teachers' College at Columbia University, and includes administration of the Iowa Test of Basic Skills and the Differential Aptitude Test (DAT). In Grade 8, and Tests of Academic Proficiency (TAP) in Grades 9 through 11.

Comparing last year's results with the same group in the eighth grade this year, on the TAP, students score in math at the 26th percentile. On the DAT, eighth grade students score in reading at the 26th percentile. Pressman concludes, however, on the basis of the TAP testing program at the high school, that these students "generally are at, or above, the national median in academic achievement," when all six areas covered by the test are considered.

Story By June B. Tompkins

My name is Michelle and I live at 25 Davis Ave. in Rockville. One day the photographer came to my house. I did everything I could to attract his attention so he'd take my picture. How could he avoid me? I wore my best pink coat and hat with the black pom-poms. I have a matching pink rhinestone collar and leash. (I also have other matching collar and leash sets to go with my tweed sport coat and plaid snow suit.) I posed this way and that. I think I won him over. This was my day. Oh, well, c'est la vie!

Darling, je vous aime beaucoup.

Today I am a Star

Do you like this pose?

Or do you prefer a more formal pose?

Is it me? — or is it?

Do you get the point?

Day's Biggest Viewing Audience As could be expected the football game on New Year's Day that had the biggest viewing audience, according to the Nielsen ratings, was the Cotton Bowl football game between Texas and Notre Dame. It's been estimated that 17,870,000 sets were tuned to this Jan. 1 attraction or 58 per cent of the viewers during the time of the game.

Next in popularity on New Year's Day with viewers among the bowl games was the Rose Bowl with 12.7 per cent (this game was played after the Cotton Bowl) and into 17,370,000 homes. Orange Bowl rated third with 43 per cent of the sets tuned in with another 16 per cent watching the Sugar Bowl. The latter was in conflict with the Cotton Bowl attraction.

Harry Caray, for 26 years the voice of the St. Louis Cardinals, until fired last October by General Manager Branch Rickey, has been named as the new play-by-play announcer for the Oakland Athletics. Rickey said Caray was a "great play-by-play announcer" and that he had been looking for a replacement for Caray since he was fired from the Cardinals.

Each of the 26 professional football teams in the realigned National League will receive $12 million for the next three years under the new three-year contract. Next year there will be 13 regular season games and night attractions on national telecasts. Despite poor attendance in Boston the Red Sox will be in the fifth best in pro football and bigger than any of the AFL clubs, except for New York. CBS announced that there were 90,000,000 viewers for the Red Sox game between Kansas football and Minnesota, or in round numbers, more than half the professional football fan base.

Mideast Crisis Worries Russia

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS. The tone of the Kremlin's diplomacy suggests that it is frightened by the prospect of a gathering storm over the Middle East. It may mean that Moscow is unwilling at this time to face new major risks and is seeking some way to head it off.

While its bargaining may be tough, the Kremlin has been concerned that its whole foreign policy drive may be thrown into jeopardy by the intensifying Arab-Israeli hostilities.

In its latest note to Washington, Moscow has threatened to escalate the arms race in the Middle East by sending more arms to Egypt. Yet the thrust of its diplomatic activity suggests deep worry.

Nasser May Seek Arms From Russia

By WILLIAM TROY. The Los Angeles Times. Nasser said Tuesday that he has decided to purchase 100 more Phantom jet fighters-bombers from Egypt.

Town Areas Flooded

By TERRY DITALIA. The northern section of Manchester was hard hit by flash floods last night. The cellars of at least three homes in the low-lying areas of N. School St. were completely filled with water.

Another house, next to Sweet's and just a few feet higher than the school and gyvers of the water out of its cellar. Her said there was about eight inches of water in the cellar. The water was still pouring in.

The water escaping from the burst manholes formed a large pond over the ball field there and the pond overflowed and formed a good-sized river which ran downhill, through the Kinsley-O'Leary house and across N. School St. into Union Pond.

The water running across N. School St. at 9:30 last night in front of Kaminisky's was from six to ten inches deep and at least 50 feet wide. A smaller river was still flowing there this morning.

Two logs, about six feet long, were seen next to one gyesser in Robertson Park. The logs were seen next to one gyesser in Robertson Park. The logs were seen next to one gyesser in Robertson Park.

One of the departments' pumper trucks was standing in a small foot-deep pond on N. School St. in front of Sweet's house. The water was about half way up the truck's tires as the firemen were attempting to pump the water from the street.

Nixon Viet Budget Set at $17 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon's secret budget for the Vietnam war in the coming fiscal year is estimated by the congressional experts at about $17 billion, a 9 percent increase over the current year ending June 30.

Nixon's new budget, which went to Congress this week, offered no estimate of the cost of the war during the year starting next July, and this secrecy has drawn a protest from a ranking Democratic U.S. politician.

"I can see no justification for classifying the cost of the war," said Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. "I think it is of first importance that we know what it is costing."

Former President Lyndon B. Johnson had sent Congress his war cost estimate in each of his last three budgets.

The Nixon budget said new estimates would offer a lifeline to the size or the timing of future American troop withdrawals.

"Because of the need to maintain the security of this plan, certain information included in recent budgets does not appear to be available to the public," the Nixon memo stated.
