Gorshin Finds Starring in A Flop Boosts Career

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Funny thing about being in an unsuccessful Broadway show, Frank Gorshin finds. It has given his career a boost.

His night club price has gone up, and he's getting offers of straight acting roles — "which," he adds, "is what I want to do."

Gorshin is the skinny, gaunt-seemed impressionist who imitates some 40 other show business notables so skillfully that many watchers say he takes on their looks. A grinning, burly Lancaster and a teeth-gritting, intense Kirk Douglas are among his best.

Frank claims an almost hypnotic psychology augments his facial changes. "When I say I'm going to be Richard Widmark, the audience wants to see Richard Widmark. Half the job's done for me."

Producer Jack L. Warner, turning from films to television, saw Gorshin on a television special and picked him for the title role in "The Name of the Game" which aired last week on NBC.

"The show closed Jan. 3 after a little over two months," says Gorshin. "The reviews were mixed and the show was really painful."

"On the last night, with the curtain coming down, I saw the audience applauding. I was crying. Not because the show was closing but because I had straight ahead. You can't look back."

Hebron Fish Awaits Calls for Aid

The officers and members of Hebron's FISH Program have announced that effective immediately they will be able to provide emergency services to the residents of Hebron.

Should any resident find themselves in an emergency situation where they need transportation, baby-sitters or other help, they should call 422-4088 and avail themselves of FISH's services. A FISH volunteer will contact them immediately.

Currently there are 40 persons who have indicated that they will serve as a volunteer in one capacity or another. However, more are urged to volunteer if they find an interest in this community service.

Mrs. Douglas Fellows, chairman, or Mrs. Edward Prell, secretary, may be contacted for further information.

Sheinwold on Bridge

FOOTBALL ROYALTY LOSES SCHOLARSHIP BY ALBERT SHEINWOLD. Now that the football season is safely behind us, the story can be told at last. People wonder why Sheinwold didn't get an athletic scholarship to State after his brilliant high school career. Little did they know that Sam lost his opportunity in a bridge game with State's backfield coach.

Channeling Foreign Aid

We will have to wait and see how it is actually budgeted and then put into practice, but President Nixon, in his budget message, headed himself and his administration directly toward the finest principle we could possibly bring to our continuance of foreign aid program.

The President's budget message language put it this way: "I have concluded that the answers lie in greater initiative by the countries we assist, more trade, a larger role for private enterprise, and increased reliance on cooperative multilateral efforts."

It would not be doing that directly, of course, and the source of aid donated by us would still be obvious.

But what would be eliminated is the present business of allotting so much of our aid on the basis of bilateral agreements between the United States and the various recipient nations — agreements which inevitably develop into political complications.

These and other ambiguities do not mean, of course, that no changes are occurring because of recent demographic shifts, technological discovery, affluence and the other changes which are changing, how rapidly the changes are taking place, which segments of the population they involve, how they affect us, how stable any of the new values will turn out to be.

Now there is a troubling question implicit in all of this. Why should a society which often seems all too wedded to status and other objectives, which has trends often to accept as true such an easily questioned notion as the generation gap? The answer, Mr. Adelson says, is that over simplification is more appealing than facing up to our seemingly confusing unknowns of our current disorders and conflicts.

We fabricate a generation gap "because it suits our various psychological purposes. On the left, it holds us in numbers and political potency is masked by imagining horde of radicalized youth. On the right, one can minimize the intense strains in the American polity by viewing it, and thus dismissing it, as merely a youth phenomenon — kid stuff. And for the troubled middle, it may be easier to contemplate a rift between the generations than to confront the depth and degree of our current social discord."

There is truth in this. The tendency to oversimplify the confusing in self-serving terms is hardly limited to the generation question. The currently popular belief in a polarization between a "silent majority" and a "liberal establishment" may well prove exaggerated, as at least one recent poll tended to indicate.

If the tendency to fabricate out of chaos in this way is all too human, however, it can't be thinking it holds a certain peril for the future, especially as it is indulged by people in power. For false certainty usually is the forerunner of overconfidence in the power of government to solve difficult or complicated problems. And no many agencies of the past decade — from racial tension to inflation to the war in Vietnam — have been aggravated by just that sort of question-begging self-assuredness.

Disquieting as it may be, there is courage in learning to accept confusion as a part of life. For the alternative, Mr. Adelson's phrase, is to sacrifice the truth to a host of false ideas whose time has come. WALL STREET JOURNAL.

Living With Confusion

For Americans, confusion is difficult to tolerate. Whether because things are more complicated, or people more perceptive, uncertainty seems an increasing threat to the peace of mind of powerful and powerless alike. And too often, lately, the reaction in influential quarters has been to declare certainty where none exists.

Such thoughts are inspired by a recent article in the New York Times Magazine by Joseph Adelson on the "generation gap," the popular idea that a forbidding gulf in understanding has opened between the young and the old. While such a division is casually accepted by scholars, journalists and the public in general, Mr. Adelson, a professor of psychology at the University of Michigan, observes that when subjected to the least bit of hard scrutiny, the generation gap idea seems only slightly valid at best. "Once we examine the idea, we find it is too slippery to hold," he writes.

As it turns out, there is much evidence to refute the existence of any significant generation gap at all. Recent surveys of college students have shown that majorities feel their relationships with their parents are friendly, close and comfortable. Those who do have problems along with their parents usually report long histories of family tension. The young who do have problems with their parents more often than not simply reflect the same tendencies in their parents.

Furthermore, the rebellious young who gain the most attention currently are a distinct minority of college students, who themselves are a minority of the young in general. "With some remarkable consistency," Mr. Adelson writes, "those who hold that there is a generation gap strongly support international organizations as effective channels for development assistance."

To state this principle more baldly, in a way which creates instant understanding of why it has been so difficult to bring political regimes to adopt it, what the President is approving is a policy of taking the dollar sign off American economic aid.

It wouldn't be doing that directly, of course, and the source of aid donated by us would still be obvious.

But what would be eliminated is the present business of allotting so much of our aid on the basis of bilateral agreements between the United States and the various recipient nations — agreements which inevitably develop into political complications.

These and other ambiguities do not mean, of course, that no changes are occurring because of recent demographic shifts, technological discovery, affluence and the other changes which are changing, how rapidly the changes are taking place, which segments of the population they involve, how they affect us, how stable any of the new values will turn out to be.

Now there is a troubling question implicit in all of this. Why should a society which often seems all too wedded to status and other objectives, which has trends often to accept as true such an easily questioned notion as the generation gap? The answer, Mr. Adelson says, is that over simplification is more appealing than facing up to our seemingly confusing unknowns of our current disorders and conflicts.

We fabricate a generation gap "because it suits our various psychological purposes. On the left, it holds us in numbers and political potency is masked by imagining horde of radicalized youth. On the right, one can minimize the intense strains in the American polity by viewing it, and thus dismissing it, as merely a youth phenomenon — kid stuff. And for the troubled middle, it may be easier to contemplate a rift between the generations than to confront the depth and degree of our current social discord."

There is truth in this. The tendency to oversimplify the confusing in self-serving terms is hardly limited to the generation question. The currently popular belief in a polarization between a "silent majority" and a "liberal establishment" may well prove exaggerated, as at least one recent poll tended to indicate.

If the tendency to fabricate out of chaos in this way is all too human, however, it can't be thinking it holds a certain peril for the future, especially as it is indulged by people in power. For false certainty usually is the forerunner of overconfidence in the power of government to solve difficult or complicated problems. And no many agencies of the past decade — from racial tension to inflation to the war in Vietnam — have been aggravated by just that sort of question-begging self-assuredness.

Disquieting as it may be, there is courage in learning to accept confusion as a part of life. For the alternative, Mr. Adelson's phrase, is to sacrifice the truth to a host of false ideas whose time has come. WALL STREET JOURNAL.

Inside Report

Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON — The bleak prospects for government help in financing the nightmarish cost of politics was hammered home bluntly during a recent visit to Sen. John Pastore of Rhode Island by two other Democratic Senators bearing party responsibility for the 1970 campaign.

Making the visit were Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, Democratic National Chairman, and Sen. Daniel Inouye of Hawaii, Senate Democratic chairman. Accompanying them were two top operatives of organized labor, political collaborator of the Democratic party. Upstream in the minds of all four men was the party's present money crisis.

Consequently, they asked Pastore to support one modest proposal: A bill requiring television stations to sell time at a discount as low as 20 per cent of the top commercial rate to candidates for Congress, both House and Senate, during the last five weeks before an election. As chairman of the communications subcommittee of the Senate Commerce Committee, Pastore has decisive influence over all broadcast legislation.

In response to the pleas for help, Pastore was wholly negative. Repeating what he had said during his subcommittee's recent hearings on the bill, Pastore asserted that Congress could not vote such assistance for its own members without also extending it to governors, state legislators, and all other candidates. Elaborating on this theme, Pastore told Harris and Inouye that the bill would be mad to follow its huge 1969 pay increase with a 1970 campaign subsidy.

But in the privacy of his own office and in the presence of political professionals, Pastore revealed another defect in the bill. It adds the enemy, Pastore, so popular in Rhode Island that he wins reelections with ridiculous ease, asserted he was not about to vote a Federal bill which would give a campaign subsidy to encourage potential opponents. Nor would he support the bill if it were to be used by his colleagues, Pastore added.

Given this attitude coupled with the potent opposition of the television industry, the four Democratic campaign planners left Pastore's office badly discouraged. Indeed, they assumed Pastore would not even permit a committee vote on the bill.

On that last score, they were mistaken. Pastore has told us the subject will be raised in the full Senate Commerce Committee relatively soon, and sponsors of the telecast discount bill will be given a chance to bring it to a vote.

But that is scarcely cause for jubilation by those who believe the government must halt the soaring cost of seeking public office. Not much good passed in this area if it is opposed by both the industry and John Pastore, and he told us that "we'd become laughing stocks" if Congress passed the bill in its present form. Even the bill's sponsor, Rev. William A. Taylor, Church of the Nazarene

Our meditations the last four days have suggested that the coming Lenten season with New Testament in hand, taking only the last two or three chapters of the Gospels, would reveal that the suffering of Christ was indeed for our sins. SRAM Bugs Ironed Out, Pentagon Sources Reveal

WASHINGTON (AP) — An important bug-lance missile, whose future was uncertain less than a year ago, apparently has overcome its developmental problems and is back on course toward production. The Short-Range Attack Missile-SRAM is designed to penetrate U.S. bombers to strike targets from distances of 50 to 100 miles. This would spare the U.S. planes the risk of anti-aircraft missiles and gun batteries massed around such targets.

The missiles armed with nuclear warheads would be mounted on late model B-52s, the B-111 and the Air Force's hoped for bomber of the future, the B-71.

After reviewing the Johnson administration's final military budget, Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird April 1969, announced that $38 million from SRAM funds would be used to meet the project's needs.

"We have reached the 100-mile range stand-off missile called the Skybolt program for firing by ballistic missiles in a cancellation. The Skybolt program was accurate within a mile or so of our target and was a very good program," Laird told Congress.

"We do not know when operational missiles will be available," he said. "We did not know when operational missiles will be available," he said. "We did not know when operational missiles will be available," he said.

Egyptian Frogmen Attack Israeli Navy Supply Ships

TEL AVIV (AP) — Egyptian frogmen blew holes in the sides of two Israeli navy supply ships in Eilat harbor early today, according to an Israeli official. The Israeli navy said it was not clear whether the frogmen were attacking the ships or the harbor itself.

Later in the day two Egyptian jet fighter-bombers attacked the USS Cana and attacked a U.N. observation post near the southern tip of the Canal, an Israeli spokesman said. The spokesman made no mention of casualties to U.N. personnel but said two other Egyptian jets were shot down.

Police Log

ARRESTS: Francis Wegryn, 55, of 16 Union St., charged with breach of peace as the result of an alleged altercation with his landlord. He was served with a 120-Circuit Court warrant and arrested on a $100 non-surety bond for appearance in court Feb. 16.

COMPLAINTS: A routine police check early today revealed a break into a piano store at 24 Windsor St. in which a change bag containing $2 was stolen.

Rockville: A clock was reported stolen off the wall and two soap machines broken into yesterday at a coin-op laundry at 600 Center St.

Hospital Notes: Visiting hours are 12:30 to 2 p.m. in all areas except maternity where they are 2 to 4 p.m. and 8:30 to 9 p.m.

Admitted Wednesday: Mary Martin, Moor Hill Rd., Rockville; Stephen Skowronek, Virginia Ln., Tolland; Dean Welt, Ellington Ave., Ellington; Mary Williams, Prospect St., Rockville; Carol Drury, Crystal Lake, Rockville; Kenneth R. Rockville, Spring St., Rockville; Sally Johnson, Kennebec St., Rockville; Gloria Belotti, Fox Hill Dr., Rockville; and Marshall Deming, Hartford Pike, Rockville.

Commander To Retire: HONOLULU (AP) — Lt. Gen. Henry W. Bush Jr., Pacific Air Force commander, says he will retire July 1.

Bush, 57, a 1954 U.S. Naval Academy graduate, has commanded the Pacific Fleet Marine force since 1968.

What makes this significant is its impact on the 1970 congressional elections, likely to be minimal, then on the 1972 Presidential election. The bill, signed by Russell Hemenway of the National Committee for an Effective Congress, would take foot in the door. Passage this year almost certainly would be followed by demands for similar cut-rate charges on TV time for Presidential candidates — help to help serve the dinner to the fathers and sons. Anyone interested in helping is asked to contact Mrs. Harry K. Meeson, Church St.

All counts are requested to notify their mothers by next Friday, if they and their fathers plan to attend.

No Waiting at Checkout With Grocer-Computer

By ALEXANDER AVERBACH
The Los Angeles Times

SAN DIEGO, Calif. — San Diegans will soon be able to let their fingers do the waiting down the supermarket aisles. Beginning July 4, housewives in San Diego will be able to do the week's food shopping by plugging up the telephone, talking to a computer, and waiting for a delivery truck to bring the groceries that afternoon.

A. G. (Bill) Bailey, Chairman of the Board of Telemart Enterprises, Inc., calls his firm's system the "shopping method of the 21st century."

For the housewife, it's a lot like the shopping method of the first years of this century, when grandmas called old job down at the store and told them what she needed. Pretty soon job's boy would hop his horse-drawn wagon at the front of the house and bring in the groceries.

Supermarkets don't do that because of the time and labor involved and because they aren't geared to operate like a grocery store. Bailey claims he has worked out a system that will allow him to operate just like job, but be competitive in price with conventional supermarkets.

A housewife who has paid her $3 permanent membership fee and passed a simple credit check will get a quarterly catalog of 2,000 food and nonfood items available from Telemart.

She will also see daily and weekly "specials" advertised on TV and in the newspapers. When she decides what she wants, making up her shopping list by the catalog code number, she dials the Telemart number.

An operator answers, ready to take the order. She also hooks up Clara, a talking computer, into the conversation. Clara verifies the order, item by item, gives

Malcolm X University Sets Its Sights on a Brief Future

By RICHARD DAW
Associated Press Writer

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Four months after opening its doors, Malcolm X University is setting its sights on a brief future.

Rayley, 43, a former radio announcer and advertising man whose closest contact with the food industry was a five-year stint with Kentucky Fried Chicken Corp., notes that "a box of Wheaties is a box of Wheaties. What we're offering is convenience and service."

And he feels he can do it and equal or even beat the prices at standard supermarkets, where a 2 per cent profit margin is considered a good return.

The biggest cost facing a supermarket is land and building. Prime land in a good location with plenty of parking area, a new building and fixtures, and a 30-minute drive.

"Our labor costs are about the same as a standard warehouse, and we have a lot of semi-automated equipment."

The monthly billing system gives his customer free use of his credit card. Bailey's capital, whereas a standard supermarket gets its cash immediately.

But Bailey says this "float" won't cost him anything, since wholesalers supply him and other supermarkets on a 60-day billing schedule. He will have his customer's money before he has to pay his suppliers.

Because of the mall building, anything to say about the way the church uses its money, and the poor are completely excluded from any voice in it.

Korean Austerity Campaign Cramping Executive Styles

By GC. HWANG
Associated Press Writer

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — President Chung Hee Park's "five year moral campaign" is causing anguish among high-ranking government officials. And any official caught smoking a foreign cigarette is subject to dismissal.

High-ranking men who own lavishly furnished mansions worth $20,000 or more are the hardest hit. Park has asked the men to sell their mansions within a few months.

Seoul newspapers report Park's office secretly conducted an investigation of 300 officials.

The campaign failed to check because it was alleged they bought their mansions while in office.

Park himself owns a small house he bought 10 years ago while in the army. He lives simply.

Drastic cuts are being made in allowances for executives of government corporations. Park also disallows their use of expensive cars. Many executives have switched to Korean-produced Toyotas or Jeeps.

A ban on expensive dinner parties is proving effective. Many government officials are turning to a third of what it used to be.

Ralph H. Reveruzzi, 23, of Windsor Locks pleaded guilty to a shoplifting charge yesterday and was sentenced to 90 days by Judge Max Savitt.

Before passing sentence, the judge ascertained that Reveruzzi was not working steady and that he had a record of previous offenses.

Reveruzzi was arrested Dec. 3 and charged with taking two suede coats from Caldor valued at $90.

William F. Lee, 21, of Colchester, formerly of Coventry, was found guilty of evading responsibility after a trial and was fined $75.

He was driving a car that had been reported stolen by the Connecticut State Police.

Donald A. Cyr, 28, of 23 Edgerose St., failed to appear in court for a hearing on charges of driving in the improper lane, and operating a motor vehicle under a suspended license.

A probable cause hearing was waived by Wayne R. Bastis, 18, of 88 Hilliard St., and he was ordered bound over to the next session of Hartford County Superior Court.

He is facing charges of being an accessory to breaking and entering with criminal intent, and one fatal accident.

Vermon Traffic Light Due Shortly At Rt. 30-Dobson

By RICHARD DAW
Associated Press Writer

Highway crews are expected soon to start installation of a traffic light at the intersection of Dobson Rd., and Rt. 30, according to State Sen. Robert Houley.

In a letter to Police Chief Edmund Dwyer, Sen. Houley said the state crew will begin shortly the necessary preliminary installations of poles, cables, and lines.

Delivery of the custom-designed signal is expected about Feb. 23, the senator said, and it should be operating by Feb. 25.

The site of the installation has been one of many serious traffic accidents in the area.

Houley was responsible for urging the introduction of a bill in the senate for installation

She's Killed by Car

By RICHARD DAW

GREENWICH (AP) — Helen L. Martin, 38, died Thursday morning in the driveway of her home after her car apparently rolled forward, into another vehicle, crushing her between her car's left front door and its front seat.

A medical examiner said the door apparently was forced shut on her as she was on foot between the open door and the seat.

Her body was discovered about 11:30 a.m., apparently several hours after the accident.

Bruins Sailing Smoothly Thanks to Expansionists

NEW YORK (AP)—The Boston Bruins are sailing smoothly through the National Hockey League's West Division and their success among the expansionists has kept them afloat in the NHL's East Division race.

The Bruins battered Philadelphia 5-1 Thursday night and moved back within three points of the New York Rangers in the East race. Montreal kept pace with Boston, whipping Los Angeles 5-3 to remain tied for second place.

Boston's victory over the Flyers ran the Bruins' undefeated string against the West to 25 games—their longest since 1962. Against the East, Boston's record is a mediocre 7-12 with six ties.

Bobby Orr, the NHL's leading scorer, paced the Bruins with two more goals and three assists, increasing his total to 30 points, a continuing record for NHL defensemen.

Orr's goals were his 18th and 19th of the season leaving him two short of his own record for a single season—the only scoring mark for a defenseman who hasn't already shattered this one.

Garry Unger and Alex Delvecchio scored quick power goals, two of them by Unger, and set up another leading Detroit past Toronto.

The Red Wings fired 43 shots at Bruce Gamble, who had kicked out 44 the night before in shutting out St. Louis.

The victory moved the Wings three points ahead of the Chicago Blackhawks in the battle for fourth place in the East. Toronto, last in the division, is 11 points back of Detroit.

The Canadiens took the Kings in a wild game that saw Montreal score three quick power goals, two of them by Jean Beliveau, to take charge.

A total of 54 penalties minutes was doled out in the first period with major brawling between Bill Flinn and Los Angeles' Bill White of the Kings against Montreal's Les Harris.

Three-Point Goal Factor In ABA Play

For it's a . . . 2 . . . 3 points and you're out of the game.

The three-point field goal was a factor in both ABA games Thursday night as Denver trounced New Orleans 125-88 and Kentucky held off Pittsburgh 118-102.

Two quick three-pointers by Larry Jones in the third period broke open a fairly close game and boosted Denver to a 64-48 lead over the Bucks. The victory enabled the red-hot Rockets to pull within 1½ games of pace-setting New Orleans in the Western.

Jones led all scorers with 20 points and all rebounders with 18 and a like number of rebounds. Steve Jones led the jokers with 19 points, 16 in the first half.

Kentucky saw an 11-point lead dwindle to one before bounding back to subdue Pittsburgh. With six minutes left, George Thompson scored nine of the Pipers' next 15 points as a rimmed 96-85 deficit to 101-100.

But Darel Carrier made two free throws and Jim Ligon made a driving layup to give the Colonies some breathing room. Ken Kelly built a 47-49 halftime lead as the Chiefs on the shooting of Louis 53.

Carlos won his second event of eight, three-pointers and scored 21 of his 37 points in the first half. Thompson and Arvest Kelly split 44 points for the Pipers.

Slim Girl Missed Loud Cheers Women Set Marks, Canadian Girl Fails

TORONTO (AP)—Two young women set indoor track records Thursday night but it was a slim 16-year-old who missed, who won the loudest cheers.

Debbie Bell of Haney, B.C., twisting backwards over the bar at the Telegram-Maple Leaf Games, soared to six feet in the high jump—higher than any girl her age has gone before—and a Canadian open record.

But when she raised the bar two more inches to leap at the world record of 6'4½, owned by Iolanda Balas of Romania, she found she didn't have enough

However, two world indoor records did fall. Chi Cheng of China, in the first final event of the night, sought out world record-holder Manlio Bellina of Chicago, won the time for the 80-yard hurdles in 6.5 seconds from 6.8. Miss Bellina equaled her record time to place second.

Cheryl Tousaint, 17, of New York, in her first crack at the 60-yard indoor run, set a world record of 1:22.4, eclipsing the 1:22.4 set by Françoise Kraker of the United States in 1967.

Miss Cheng, who later won the women's 80-yard dash, missed her lead but had her own record.

John Carlos, the U.S. Olympic star drafted recently by Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League, won two events and then became sick to his stomach and retired to his hotel.

Carlos repeated his 1969 meet victory with a time of 5.2 seconds for the 50-yard dash. His time was matched by Herb West of Washington State, who placed second. World record holder Kirk Clayton, who has a record of 5.0, tied for fifth at 5.5.

Carlos won his second event of eight, three-pointers and scored 21 of his 37 points in the first half. Thompson and Arvest Kelly split 44 points for the Pipers.

Red Sox Prospect

BOSTON (AP)—Shortstop Peter Emery, 22, of Wilmington, who batted .343 for Colby College last year, is hoping for a baseball career with the Boston Red Sox.

The Red Sox announced Thursday signing of the young prospect to a contract with Greenville of the Western Carolina League. He will report to Ocala, Fla., next month.

Cue's Continue Domination, Defeat Green Manor, 93-83

knotted at 41-41. The Cue's finally went ahead to stay at the 45-43 mark in the third quarter, 69-67. During the first half, Cue's Billiards defeated Green Manor 93-83 in a game that was a nail-biter until the final minutes.

Billiards' continued their overall domination of Green Manor by posting a 93-83 victory Thursday night in the first of League action at Hill gym. It was the winners' 15-3 edge over the Cue's in the first round of the charity stripe that spelled the difference.

The contest was close throughout with each team building up five point leads only to have the other come back to tie it up.

At the end of the first 10 minutes, Cue's 47-39, Green Manor 41-39. Intermittion was tied at 18-18.

Yankee Voice

Bob Gamers, 31-year-old sportscaster from Worcester, Mass., and a native of New York City, has been named to the broadcast team of the New York Yankees.

"We have selected a little known, but bright young sportscaster who relates to our young fans and our fans," Mike Burke, Yankee President, observed in making the announcement. "We can't do it without an extensive search for a young person who could develop into another voice of the Yankees."

The goal Bob set for himself as a sportscaster was to become a Yankee broadcaster. He liked that about him too, incidentally his name rhymes with "come here."

Gamers will join Bill Hunter and Steve Sawyer on the Yankee broadcast team for 1970. Both Paul and Frank have signed new contracts for the up-coming season.

Gamers will be working on the "great" of the Yankees, joined the make team in 1967 and has been with the team for three years as a Yankee broadcaster.

Horsemen Are Much In Demand

MIAMI (AP)—Good thoroughbred training seldom has changed jobs in the last few months.

The changes are quite noticeable at the Hialeah Park meeting where some of the top leading trainers in action for the busy campaign ahead.

When Harry Guggenheim dispersed his Oak Hill racing stable last fall it meant trainer Frank A. (Dovey) Bond, who had been training at Hialeah since 1967, was at liberty. Then Henry Forst, who added Forward Farm, and Bob Rattis of Toronto, quit as Calumet Farm trainer in December.

Forst took over as private trainer for Calumet Farm. A. B. (Bull) Hancock of Calumet was a trainer who could concentrate in his stock alone. His previous trainer, Lucien Laurin, still keeps busy with a huge public stable.

Laurin's son, Roger, was also involved in a switch. He replaced his father at the Meadow Stable trainer. Harry quickly took over as the trainer of the stable.

Flint (Scotty) Schuster, a former stepfather of Bob Seaver, who was training at Hialeah since 1967, but when John Nerud retired as full time trainer for Tartan race horses, Scotty took that job.

Palmer created a new breed of fans who dubbed themselves "Arnold's Army." Largely they start walking fast. Then he says, "The game is on."

Palmer shot an 82 in the first round of the PGA Championship last year in Dayton, Ohio. Little boys and women on the sidelines and women dabbed tears from their eyes.

"Oh, God, no, it can't happen to Arnold," one woman said when it was announced he was getting withdrawn because of a bad hip.

"We all owe our big pay to Arnold," one woman said when it was announced he was getting withdrawn because of a bad hip.

Joel Rottner To Accompany Europe Tour

Joel Rottner, chemistry teacher at the Robinson School in West Hartford, and his wife, Susan, French teacher at Webb Junior High School in Wethersfield, will accompany his school students to Europe this summer with the Foreign Study League of Salt Lake City, Utah.

First Notice

By SOL R. COHEN I should have known that something was different when I came home Monday. I found a stack of mail waiting for me at the Robinson School.

Usually, my bills arrive in dribs and drabbles—stretched out over the entire month. On Tuesday, when the postman braved high winds and a driving rain, to slash up my sidewalks and bring me more bills, I was certain that something was different about this week, and not the townwide flooding, either.

And on Wednesday, when a city to study abroad, in the oldest and largest international school system, with a 1969 summer enrollment of nearly 14,000. All-inclusive tuition includes round trip transportation, lodging, three meals a day, excursions and sightseeing, intra-European travel, textbooks, and insurance.

The six-week study tour will leave Boston by ship July 28. Students will study in London; Paris; Leyen, Switzerland; and Rome. Comparative government is the curriculum with four hours of classwork in the morning, and excursions and course-related activities in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Rottner, residents of Chatsbury, will re-learn further details to interested parents and students Feb. 12, 7:30 p.m. at 19 Lawton Rd., Manchester.

Included in the group of 20 students going from the central Connecticut area will be Thomas A. Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Wright of 406 Spring St., and David Zuhrov, son of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Zuhrov of 19 Wanaque Rd. Both are sophomores at the Robinson School.

The Rottners are honor graduates of Manchester High Union, He is a graduate of Wesleyan University in Middletown, and has done graduate work at Wesleyan and Central Connecticut State College. Mrs. Rottner is a graduate of Albertus Magnus College in New Britain. In the summer of 1968, she studied and traveled in France and other parts of western Europe.

Some of those members are behind in their dues. And no doubt, the association has collectors who try to collect those delinquent dues.

A telephone conversation between the collector and the collector might go something like this:

"Hello, Mr. Owe? This is Mr. Owe. I'm calling you because you haven't paid your dues for 1968 and 1969, not to mention 1970."

"But Mr. Owe—this association has a big payroll and other expenses to meet. We depend on the dues of our members. If we don't get them, we can't exist."

"Mr. Owe, that's the wrong attitude. After all, we are in business for your own good. We represent you. We try to collect your outstanding bills, don't we? Our staff is experienced in mail collecting and we take the work off your hands. But Mr. Owe, if you and others like you don't pay their dues, we at the association will be out of work."

"If we're out of work Mr. Owe, we won't be able to pay our own bills. Some of us will have to go to work."

"Then, what will you do?" "I'll have a check in the mail in the morning."

No, it isn't the federal government, as one way to stop inflation. It isn't the state government, attempting to meet rising costs for present and requested services. And it isn't the Manchester government, trying to raise money for all those CDPAP goals and objectives.

It isn't even my wife's doctor, anxious to pay for his expensive medical education and equipment, paid for on the installment plan with the rest of our money. No, so many times they have stopped him.

"National Pay Your Bills Week" is sponsored by the American Citizens Association. It is a national program to encourage citizens to pay their bills on time.

We can't fault the association, and has done graduate work at Wesleyan and Central Connecticut State College. Mrs. Rottner is a graduate of Albertus Magnus College in New Britain. In the summer of 1968, she studied and traveled in France and other parts of western Europe.

Caron Fails to Promote Discussion on GOP Rules

David Caron, chairman of the Republican Citizens Committee, tried to get a discussion going Wednesday night at a meeting of the Manchester GOP Town Committee.

However, except for Town Chairman M. Adler Dobkin, nobody joined Caron in a philosophical discussion of the pros and cons of electing the town committee by caucus in the seven voting districts.

Caron tried hard to get the discussion going, but finally gave up after Dobkin said, "I have no intention at this time to appoint another rules committee to consider your suggestion. It takes 60 days for a rules committee to become effective, we'll wait March 5, the date on which we will elect a new town committee."

Dobkin reminded Caron that, in January, the town committee adopted those rules changes which were recommended by its rules committee.

"The rules committee had considered your proposal for election by caucus, and it is evident that it didn't see it recommend them," Dobkin said.

Clifford, he added, "nobody on the committee seemed to think it was a good idea. I don't see it recommend them," Dobkin said.

Caron replied, "My quarrel is with the rules committee, not with you. I'm not going to argue with you. I'm going to argue with the rules committee. I'm going to argue with the rules committee. I'm going to argue with the rules committee."

Guest Preacher

The Rev. R. Kenneth Taylor of New York City will be guest preacher Sunday at the 9:15 and 11 a.m. services at Center Congregational Church.

The guest preacher is the division general secretary for the United Church of Christ.

He assists in organizing church-sponsored programs of relief and rehabilitation for victims of natural disasters as well as for victims of war, political uprisings, and other man-made disasters. He also evaluates the need for aid to people in underdeveloped areas of the world.

Before assuming his present post in 1966, the Rev. Mr. Taylor served as general secretary of the Division of Interpretation and Personnel for the board for two years. He has also served Congregational parishes in Bradford, Wethersfield, Belmont, Mass., and Elyria, Ohio.

It is a national program to encourage citizens to pay their bills on time. We can't fault the association, and has done graduate work at Wesleyan and Central Connecticut State College.

Mrs. Rottner is a graduate of Albertus Magnus College in New Britain. In the summer of 1968, she studied and traveled in France and other parts of western Europe.

Miners Rap UMW Tactic

WASHINGTON (AP)—Several charges of wrongdoing were leveled against the United Mine Workers of America (UMW) by a Senate subcommittee on Wednesday.

The subcommittee, headed by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said the UMW had misappropriated funds for its own purposes.

The charges include the UMW's failure to disclose its financial records to its members and its failure to pay its dues to the International Union of Pure and Applied Chemists.

The UMW, which has 100,000 members, is the largest union in the coal industry. It is also a member of the AFL-CIO.

The subcommittee's report is part of a larger investigation into the UMW's activities. The report is expected to be released in the next few weeks.

The UMW has denied the charges and has filed a lawsuit against the subcommittee. The lawsuit is currently pending in federal court.

The UMW has also filed a motion to dismiss the lawsuit. The motion is currently pending in federal court.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Landon B. Johnson says his secretary of state, Dean Rusk—rather than Defense Secretary Clark Clifford—played the key role in a 1968 decision to stop bombing most of North Vietnam without concessions by the enemy.

Rusk, who had been considered the hard-liner in the Johnson Cabinet, declined comment on the former president's version of the events except to say Johnson's account of the bombing halt preliminaries "seems to be accurate."

Clifford, who generally had been considered the most powerful advocate of de-escalation in the former administration, declined comment. Johnson said in Friday night's televised interview that Clifford had proposed the bombing halt when they were going over recommendations
