

In China Talks: Moscow Probes Chances To End Communist Split

LONDON (AP)—A Soviet informant said today Moscow's top priority at the Peking border talks is to find out whether the danger of war in the heartland of Asia has receded. "There is no fighting as long as we are talking," he said.

The Kremlin was "fully aware" of the Soviet negotiators' position, the informant said. He said the chief of the Soviet negotiating team, First Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov, has settled in for a long series of probing talks with his Chinese counterpart, Chiao Kuang-hua.

This would indicate a considerable broadening of the objectives of the talks which began in Peking on Jan. 20 after a two-year hiatus. The two ambassadors are scheduled to meet again in Warsaw Feb. 26.

The informant said Kuznetsov returned to Moscow in December to study the new situation resulting from resumption of diplomatic talks between the Kremlin and High Soviet diplomats around the world.

There was no way to determine whether the resumption of the Soviet position or getting under a propaganda front. But his remarks in an interview with a Russian newspaper forced to do this.

The dispute over the sections along China's western border between Sinkiang and Kazakhstan, and along the Amur and Ussuri rivers separating north-east China from Siberia, arises from the Soviet-Chinese treaties of August in 1858 and Peking in 1860.

The source in London said the Kremlin was heated by Peking's willingness to remain in the talks broken off by Moscow in December, and especially by a Chinese agreement with the American and British governments to include issues of trade and diplomacy.

At this point, the source said, Kuznetsov sent for his wife to join him for a long stay. Asked if the Kremlin believed China would end its "splitting Paul J. Manafort of New Britain" conference president, has a Communist fold if a settlement were reached on border, trade and other relatively minor issues, the official directly through the city.

The amendment, offered by Kuznetsov's talks and the basic Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Indiana, would make the figure 50 per cent, he said, there has been cent.

Bolton Lathrop, Democratic Head, To Leave Town Committee

Charles Lathrop, Democratic Town Committee chairman for the last six years, has announced that he will not continue on the committee. Lathrop said his resignation was due to business and personal obligations.

At its recent meeting the town committee recommended 25 names to be presented to a Democratic caucus on Feb. 20. Those recommended are the present members: Aloysius Ahearn, John Connelly, Ronald Harris, Edward Fonseca, Maurin Houle, William Houle, Bruce Hutchinson, Elaine Jones, Joseph Lustra, John McDevitt, Judy Miner, Marilyn Moonan and Russell Moonan.

Other names may be presented to the caucus at the Community Hall, but it is expected that the endorsed names will be accepted.

William Houle, Democratic registrar of voters, said that recent decisions in the state party prevented the selection of other names which were at the same caucus. The committee will therefore hold a special meeting on March 13 to select delegates and they will be voted on at a caucus on March 20.

Leon Rivers has been appointed as a fire commissioner to replace William Andreolevich who resigned for personal reasons.

There will be a Senior Citizens' tour to Washington, D.C., for the Cherry Blossom Festival. It will be a three-day, two-night trip, leaving on a Friday and returning on a Sunday.

A sightseeing trip is included and will visit the Smithsonian Institute, the Washington and Lincoln Memorials, Mount Vernon and Arlington Cemetery. At Arlington, the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, the changing of the guard and John F. Kennedy's grave will be seen. Desegregation on Agenda Congress Rolls Up Sleeves To Tackle Ticklish Issues

WASHINGTON (AP)—A five-day session of the House of Representatives returned from a five-day holiday today to confront the politically explosive issue of public school desegregation. North and South.

The Senate voted to begin Tuesday a series of hearings on amendments to a $33 billion education bill with some Northern senators on a political spot, and the White House position a study in ambiguity.

President Nixon is said by the White House to believe school desegregation should be applied equally throughout the nation. That appeared to align the administration with the theory of an amendment proposed by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., to require equal enforcement of federal regulations on matters where the reason for segregation in the schools.

Leaders of both chambers are hoping to keep the swift pace which has marked the session since it opened Jan. 19.

The Senate particularly has acted on a number of major bills, and promises of more of the same come from Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Republican Leader Hugh Scott.

The ideal is to avoid the protracted showdown which kept the legislators in Washington until Dec. 23 last year. Mansfield and Scott are among those particularly anxious to see a much earlier adjournment than the one scheduled for next week.

Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., chairman of the House Rules Committee, has asked Speaker Carl Albert, D-Mont., to schedule a hearing on the bill to discuss desegregation.

Colmer seeks to report on federal policies toward busing, freedom of choice plans, and other issues involved in the school desegregation situation.

The appearance is an unusual one for the committee, which schedules legislation for floor action, usually hears only House members.

The Finch testimony was requested in connection with the coming House vote on appropriate application of the instructions for their agency and the Department of Labor, as part of

Nixon Would Set Voting Age at 18

WASHINGTON (AP)—The small percentage of young Nixon administration asked Congress today to follow the lead of Great Britain and approve a constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18 for federal elections.

The time has come for us also to measure the constraints of custom and tradition against the compelling force of reason and the every-day facts of life and the every-day facts of life which surround us," Kennedy said.

He said a Senate Judiciary subcommittee the nation does not wait until 21 years of age for young people to enter the labor market, to pay income taxes or to serve in the military.

Senate Confronts Busing in North

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate reached the time of decision today on proposals designed to check the drive toward school integration now in full swing in the South.

The initial vote was set for around 4:30 p.m. on an amendment by Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., to a $33 billion education bill seeking a unified policy for school desegregation throughout the nation.

Stennis' amendment provided the government must move as vigorously against Northern de facto segregation—that caused primarily by neighborhood patterns of housing—as it does against the South.

South Seeks Definition Of Race Balance

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court which has been slowly spelling out its school desegregation policy for 16 years, has been urged to spell out whether racial balance in every school is the only way to achieve integration.

The Memphis Board of Education told the court Monday it is doing all it can to end school segregation but that it cannot control the makeup of the city's neighborhoods.

At the same time, President Nixon said he supported busing pupils to obtain racial balance in schools, asserted the neighborhood school concept should be the rule "to the extent possible."

The Memphis school board ruled on whether schools which reflect the racial composition of the neighborhood should be maintained. Nixon noted in a statement Monday the courts have yet to define what is meant by a unitary school system.

The board also said that it did not demand racial balance in every school, this is what lower courts and government agencies are ordering under general Supreme Court desegregation rulings.

And the board declared in its brief: "It is high time this honorable court speak on this issue."

Racial balance, the board added, is "the dominant issue" in a suit by the NAACP Legal Defense and Educational Fund seeking further school desegregation in Memphis this term.

The U.S. Court of Appeals in Cincinnati ruled in December that Memphis has a "unitary" school system and that there is "no necessity for precipitous action."

In its opinion the appeals court noted it asked one of the Fund lawyers during a hearing what he considered would be a unitary system for Memphis.

"He replied that such a system would require that in every public school in Memphis there would have to be 55 per cent Negroes and 45 per cent whites," the court said.

The Fund said the lawyer was mentioning only one integration measure which could be used.

In urging the court to speak out on the issue, the board noted that it had built a modern high school in a racially-balanced neighborhood in the northern part of the city which was to be "shown the way to maintain the mixed racial characteristics of the neighborhood."

But by the time the school opened the neighborhood balance had slid so that enrollment was heavily Negro.

Rocky Gets New Role In '70 Election Script

By CHARLES DUMAS
Associated Press Writer

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — For Nelson A. Rockefeller, happiness is running for governor in the self-styled role of underdog. The first three times he ran, Rockefeller displayed political and Democratic support. Each time a razzed-razz campaign brought a Rockefeller victory.

"I like starting from a down position," he says, "because the only way you can go up."

Crawling up now for a fourth term run, the Republican governor has had to harden to identify a legal Democratic opponent. He play the overdog role in his favorite script.

Last summer, Rockefeller leaked out the results of a poll that ranked former U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg as the winner in a gubernatorial matchup with Rockefeller. But Rockefeller, at the age of 62, still did not want to accept him into the party.

Democrat State Chairman John J. Burns says, however, that it is unlikely either that Lindsey would try such a maneuver or that Rocky would accept him into the party.

Tollard PZC Votes Regulations On Town Camping Areas

The Planning and Zoning Commission last night formalized the creation of zoning regulations concerning the establishment of overnight camping areas in the town of Tollard.

The regulations were sent to Town Counsel Robert K. Sullivan for his approval of the wording, and will be subject to the calling of a town meeting next month.

The proposed regulations, which will be in commercial or special recreational camps, will be subject to the calling of a town meeting next month.

The minimum acreage permitted for the location of a camp is 25 acres, and 25-foot buffer zones must be provided along with protective screening if required by the PZC.

All prospective camping areas must be approved by the PZC and will be subject to an annual review of the zoning commission.

The new owners of the Del Aire recreation area attended first year of variety play and last night's meeting to discuss with the proposed regulations with the PZC. They have approved an overall 51-acre lot record, which will be divided into two parcels for the location of two camps.

The owners of Del Aire raised questions regarding the requirements for the buffer zones, license provisions, camping season and minimum stay.

Whether a public hearing will be necessary before approval of the Del Aire camping area is the subject of a decision from Atty. King.

Under the proposed regulations, applicants must file an application and a $25 application fee.

All applications for camping areas will be subject to a public hearing if the PZC feels it is in the public interest.

The owners of the camping area will operate on a one-year renewable license to be approved through the PZC. The license fee will be $150 annually, with approval granted pending the outcome of a referendum of the camp area.

The family will be permitted to camp longer than four weeks on a site, and will not exceed seven days of camping in any one year.

Storage of the camping vehicle will be permitted if they are taxed in the town of Tollard.

All sanitary facilities in proposed camping areas must be approved by the town of Tollard's consulting engineer or the Health Officer, and be laid out in accordance with state standards.

Facilities for garbage collection and refuse disposal will be the responsibility of the owners of the camping area. It must be kept in designated areas and screened from public view.

The minimum size for each camp site will be 1,600 square feet and at least 40 by 40 feet in size.

Owners of the camping area are encouraged to keep in mind the ecology of the camping area, and are encouraged to retain outstanding trees and other natural resources when setting out the camp sites.

Camping will be permitted only on established camp sites, which cannot exceed the number approved by the PZC.

An overflow field may be provided for use during the daylight hours only when campers are in the process of leaving and others arriving.

Owners of the area must submit a current official report certifying the safety of the drinking water at the time of the annual license renewal, and provide a minimum of one flush toilet for each site every 20 camp sites.

All roads in the camping area will be considered private and remain solely the responsibility of the owner of the camping area.

Sheinwold on Bridge

When my Uncle Bartholomew was on his deathbed he sent for me to pass on the accumulated wisdom of a lifetime. "Never trust a crossed bridge play," he told me. "Don't fence if the king is in question, if the queen is doubtful. Always think before you think."

So-called dealer.

Both sides vulnerable.

Opening lead — Queen of Clubs.

My uncle was fond of using his life's philosophy. The actual declarer took the ace of clubs, drew trumps, cashed the ace of hearts, and then tried a finesse with dummy's jack of hearts.

East won with the queen of hearts and returned a diamond. South lost another finesse, and then the opponents took two clubs to defeat the contract.

Uncle Bartholomew never complained about this hand because he was East and was pleased with the outcome. "It wouldn't be considered such a clever fellow."

My uncle would have made the contract by following that advice about finessing for a trump. He would take the first club, draw trumps and then take the king and ace of hearts.

The doubler queen would fall, and Uncle Bartholomew would have no further problem. He would eventually lose two clubs and a diamond, but serve his military commitment in a civilian capacity as director of the Polish night dinner and at the Polish Home.

Bermuda No Paradise For Working People

By TOM HOGG
Associated Press Writer

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — On a clear day, the sun catches the turquoise glint of the waters that bathe Bermuda's coral beaches, and it rays play over rows of pastel-hued villas and palatial hotels.

To live in this smart little British colony with no income tax, no unemployment, and only a nominal property levy; could anyone ask for more?

Life is not quite so pleasant for those unable to maintain waterfront homes or sail about in sloops of fiber glass. Steno-rappers earn about $60 a week. Cleaning women get less than $50. Shop girls hover slightly above $40.

Merrill Cann, an earnest Negro youth of 19, is a trainee reporter on a Bermuda newspaper. He earns the minimum wage and spends close to half of it to feed himself and his mother.

Cann is trying to save to study journalism in England, but it's hard going. He has to dress decently on his job, but a good suit costs about $70 and a pair of shoes about $20.

Amusement is a problem in a colony geared to the tourist trade that keeps it aloof.

A lot of these night spots charge $1 just for a soft drink.

Cann said, "I sometimes go to the movies, but that's about $1.40 a seat."

Cann has not been particularly troubled by the racial situation, which has disturbed many of the blacks who make up 60 per cent of Bermuda's 50,000 inhabitants.

"I have not encountered discrimination in hotels or restaurants," he said, "although some Negroes feel that there is definite job preference."

Cann would like to return to Bermuda after completing his education.

"We have our share of problems," he said, "but I feel that we are still better off than people elsewhere."

Life is a little easier for Jeffrey Estis, 22-year-old white who was born in Philadelphia.

He has worked for the Bank of Bermuda for four years and is now in the trust department. His Bermuda-born wife Elizabeth, works in the "proof machine" or account balancing branch.

But money isn't exactly flowing in, as indicated by the fact that the teller's job Estis formerly held pays $45 to $48 a week. Still he has a house just outside Hamilton, one of the minicars Bermuda drive, and a reasonably pleasant existence.

Computers Don't Even Get Gold Watch at Retirement

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP) — In an age when a man is considered over the hill at 40—and the boss suspects a machine could do a better job—it is comforting to know that computers, too, reach retirement age.

After only seven years, it happened to the 104th computer in the Oak Ridge National Laboratory's mathematics division. Seven years of round-the-clock toil, doing the work of 1,400 men, left old 104 pretty well burned out.

He took time out for fun only during lull moments, when he sang carols with the rest of the gang. But he was not a singer. He sang 36,193 consecutive hours of toll counting for nothing. Without so much as a gold watch, 104 was retired—terminated obsolescence property. His replacement, two more computers, will be in the machine shop.

Before man can have the last laugh, however, they must consider that computers, unlike men, do come in new models.

Each new generation of man, evolving slowly if at all, repeats inevitably the mistakes of its fathers. Each new generation of computers, while more expensive than the last, seems able to do more work with fewer mistakes.

ORNL paid $1 million for 104 from Central Data in 1962. When the computer was retired, the laboratory figured he had labored for $29 per hour. That does not include $6,000 a month in maintenance, a relatively high figure for a machine. The price of a new model to find for an obsolete model.

Shriver Visits Romania

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) — Sargent Shriver, U.S. ambassador to France, had a visit Monday with President Nicolae Ceausescu, which "passed in a cordial atmosphere," the news agency Agence France Press said.

The agency did not disclose the topics they discussed.

Shriver arrived last Friday for a four-day unofficial visit.

COLUMBUS, Ky. (AP) — Burglars came up short in their break-in at the post office in Columbus.

Harvard U Head To Resign Before He's Due To Retire

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Harvard University President Nathan M. Pusey will resign at the end of the next academic year, in June 1971, two years before he is due to retire at the age of 66.

He said he felt a change in presidents "should occur fairly soon" at the beginning of what he called a "fresh chapter" in Harvard's history.

"The new period which is now beginning poses a formidable array of difficult problems for Harvard," Pusey wrote to the Harvard Corporation. He asked the corporation in his letter made public Monday to begin choosing his successor, who would then "have an opportunity to help design and order the new developments of the area ahead."

Pusey became Harvard's 24th president in 1953.

When he was new to the office, Pusey publicly told off Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., for accusing campus of harboring Communists.

Just last week, a policy guided by Pusey resulted in requiring the contractors who build on the campus to hire minority group members in numbers proportionate to their ratio in the population.

Pusey also successfully led a campaign to raise $25.3 million — one of the largest pushes ever for private college fundraising. The campaign has been reflected in faculty salary increases, buildings and facilities.

Pusey's letter mentioned neither student unrest — the administration building was seized last April — nor the university's current financial status.

But he did say, "These great classes of difficult problems of the 1960's and 1970's which have made my administration possible, have... now discharged their responsibility."

"The time has come," he wrote, "for a renewed effort that will enable the energies of many young Harvard men."

The Harvard Corporation and the Board of Overseers are the university's two governing bodies.

Francis H. Burr, who will soon be senior fellow of the corporation, invited faculty, students, alumni, employees and others concerned with Harvard to suggest a possible successor.

Pusey was born in Council Bluffs, Iowa. He graduated from Harvard in 1925.

Barnes Says His Firm Had Record Earnings

BRITTON, Conn. (AP) — Walter Barnes, the State Senate Minority leader who is seeking the Republican nomination for governor, reports record sales and earnings by his firm, the Associated Spring Corp., during 1969.

The firm reported a 16 per cent increase in earnings over 1968 and a 14 per cent increase in sales.

Sales were 123.5 million and earnings were $6.2 million, or $3.29 per share, up from less than $4.4 million or $2.85 per share in 1968.

Barnes, who is president of the firm, and board chairman of the firm, said in a statement that the company's prospects in 1970 are "exceptionally good."

"Our plants are in better condition than ever before and backlog are a high level," the executive said.

Tollard PZC Votes Regulations On Town Camping Areas

The Planning and Zoning Commission last night formalized the creation of zoning regulations concerning the establishment of overnight camping areas in the town of Tollard.

The regulations were sent to Town Counsel Robert K. Sullivan for his approval of the wording, and will be subject to the calling of a town meeting next month.

The proposed regulations, which will be in commercial or special recreational camps, will be subject to the calling of a town meeting next month.

The minimum acreage permitted for the location of a camp is 25 acres, and 25-foot buffer zones must be provided along with protective screening if required by the PZC.

All prospective camping areas must be approved by the PZC and will be subject to an annual review of the zoning commission.

The new owners of the Del Aire recreation area attended first year of variety play and last night's meeting to discuss with the proposed regulations with the PZC. They have approved an overall 51-acre lot record, which will be divided into two parcels for the location of two camps.

The owners of Del Aire raised questions regarding the requirements for the buffer zones, license provisions, camping season and minimum stay.

Whether a public hearing will be necessary before approval of the Del Aire camping area is the subject of a decision from Atty. King.

Under the proposed regulations, applicants must file an application and a $25 application fee.

All applications for camping areas will be subject to a public hearing if the PZC feels it is in the public interest.

The owners of the camping area will operate on a one-year renewable license to be approved through the PZC. The license fee will be $150 annually, with approval granted pending the outcome of a referendum of the camp area.

The family will be permitted to camp longer than four weeks on a site, and will not exceed seven days of camping in any one year.

Storage of the camping vehicle will be permitted if they are taxed in the town of Tollard.

All sanitary facilities in proposed camping areas must be approved by the town of Tollard's consulting engineer or the Health Officer, and be laid out in accordance with state standards.

Facilities for garbage collection and refuse disposal will be the responsibility of the owners of the camping area. It must be kept in designated areas and screened from public view.

The minimum size for each camp site will be 1,600 square feet and at least 40 by 40 feet in size.

Owners of the camping area are encouraged to keep in mind the ecology of the camping area, and are encouraged to retain outstanding trees and other natural resources when setting out the camp sites.

Camping will be permitted only on established camp sites, which cannot exceed the number approved by the PZC.

An overflow field may be provided for use during the daylight hours only when campers are in the process of leaving and others arriving.

Owners of the area must submit a current official report certifying the safety of the drinking water at the time of the annual license renewal, and provide a minimum of one flush toilet for each site every 20 camp sites.

All roads in the camping area will be considered private and remain solely the responsibility of the owner of the camping area.

Roche Would Bar Rate Hike Unless Water Quality Rises

Republican Mayor Frank McCoy was strongly criticized at the Board of Representatives meeting last night. The criticism was registered by Democrat James Roche who said he objected to a comment made by the mayor concerning the proposed increase in water rates.

Mayor McCoy was not present at the meeting to answer Roche, and after a lengthy discussion it was voted to place the matter on the agenda for the next meeting of the board.

Following the issuing of the report by the water company, Mayor McCoy made it clear he would protest the 185 per cent increase but noted that the company will show some increase is warranted.

Under the old rates, fire protection for a 12-month period for District 1 (the city area) would amount to $20,160. With the proposed rate increase, for the same period, the amount would be $27,000.

Extradition Postponed For Seale

The deadline for Black Panther chairman Bobby Seale's extradition to Connecticut has been postponed for Feb. 25 as a result of an action-filled day in court by his attorneys Monday.

Turned down within minutes by the state District Court of Appeals, attorney Benjamin Dreyfus asked the state Supreme Court to freeze Seale on bail and set aside his extradition to Connecticut.

After Dreyfus and Charles Carthy, another Panther attorney, argued before the appellate court that Seale, 32, is the victim of harassment by the U. S. Department of Justice, the court responded with a written denial.

Plans for Airport On File Next Week

Plans for the proposed Coventry Airport will be filed in the town clerk's office 30 days prior to a scheduled March 26 report hearing on the issue, according to a letter from Transportation Commissioner George Conkling that was read at last night's Town Council meeting.

The hearing on the issue will be held in the high school gym, and promises to draw an all-time record crowd, since the report question is uppermost in the minds of many citizens.

Atty. Schwab explained that completing a $2.5 million filtration plant is expected to be in operation in May.

Atty. Schwab also claimed he had a lawyer or had offered the services of a lawyer, according to the U.S. District Court ruling in the Wade and Gilbert Cases.

The long, hard winter of 1969-70 was made evident in a report from Moore to the Town Council last night, in which it was revealed that 4,184 hours have been spent by the town since this far this year. Last winter, a total of 3,999 hours was spent, and the figure included the entire winter. Moore noted that we could still have some snow storms this year, so that the man-hour figure could go even higher. Since 1966, the man-hour figure has not been as high as 4,000 mark, so the snow and ice of this winter has not been a sign of anyone's imagination.

"No Fault" At Albany

State Insurance Commissioner William Cotler may be coming with considerable interest that his counterpart Insurance Department in New York State has formally recommended adoption of the "no fault" plan for automobile insurance in that state, and that the recommendation of the New York Insurance Department goes to the Legislature with the full endorsement of Governor Rockefeller.

The New York argument for the "no fault" system hits at the injustice of the present negligence system, citing a statistic that "one out of every four people suffering bodily injury in an automobile accident in this state receives nothing whatsoever," and also produces an overall economy which could reduce insurance costs in the state by 50 percent.

As in the plan which Commissioner Cotler recommended to the last session of the Connecticut Legislature, payment of medical costs and net income losses would be automatic, without any requirement for proving that one driver or another was at fault in any particular accident. There would still be recourse by suit for accident victims who felt they had suffered some injury or loss not covered by the routine scale of awards. But it would be expected that most accident cases could and would be settled without the expense of preparing both sides of a negligence case.

The fact that the "no fault" system would tend to do away with the necessity for the negligence lawyer seems to explain the cool reception the plan gets whenever it hits a legislature. Here in Connecticut Commissioner Cotler's proposal met a quick and untimely death the moment the Judiciary Committee succeeded in obtaining jurisdiction over the proposal. But it will be back, and if, when it reappears, it bears the stamp of adoption in another state which shares Connecticut's problem of soaring insurance costs and clogged state courts, it won't be pigeon-holed quite so easily.

Destination For A Pilgrimage

First, there is the fascinating gigantic contrivance in itself.

Second, there is the climate in which it is located.

The French are now completing a solar furnace grotesquely larger than anything of its nature ever built before.

A solar furnace is, as its name implies, an arrangement for focusing the heat of the sun into practical industrial use.

The solar furnace the French are now completing can focus a heat which will burn a hole through a half inch plate of steel in approximately 50 seconds.

The way the heat of the sun is caught and concentrated is in some 63 flat mirrored panels, each containing 100 small mirrors, are set out on a hillside where they can be moved and angled to catch and follow the sun.

When the panels catch the sun, they reflect it over to a giant parabolic wall, nine stories high, made up of 9,000 mirrors.

This giant paraboloid focuses its captured heat forward toward a giant hammer-head shaped tower in which the material to which the heat is to be applied can be held in place.

The heat available at this focal point goes as high as 7,000 degrees Fahrenheit.

That is not the greatest heat man can create, but it seems the cleanest, free of any contamination from the materials used in construction of a normal furnace, and especially suited to the refinement of materials for which the ultimate in purity is being sought.

So much for the scientific, industrial marvel involved.

Now for what is really interesting.

This solar furnace has been located in a town called Odeillo, in the French side of the Pyrenees Mountains. And it has been located in that precise place because the records show that this is the sunniest place in all of France, with an average of more than 2,700 sunny hours a year. Such a focal generosity of sunny hours could bring as much purification to flesh and spirit as the solar furnace to metals, and this particular offering of sun is located not in any parched desert, but in the bright airs of a soft reepest landscape. A pilgrimage of sun worshippers would seem to be in order.

One Peril Less

We can, after all, relax about the walking catfish.

They are dying by the tens of thousands in Florida waters because this Florida winter has been chilly enough to give their frost bite.

Let the water ever get down to the walking below 50 degrees, and the walking catfish has had it.

That means that New England is automatically safe against this marauder, and that, therefore, we don't need to have anybody crusading to protect us.

Any development which has the effect of reducing, even by one, the number of crusades in our living is very welcome, indeed.

Cross off, from the list of things we are supposed to be afraid of, the walking catfish.

The Subpoena And The Media

Attorney General John Mitchell, President Nixon's former law partner, has pulled his third major boomer in less than six months. They say three strikes and you're out. It begins to look as if he would be well advised to return to his corporate law practice very soon.

His most recent error of judgment was his Department's ill-advised attempt last week to subpoena the notes, tape recordings, news film, and unedited files of a newspaper reporter, three magazines and a TV network as part of the Justice Department's crusade against the Black Panthers, and the Students for a Democratic Society.

His first two major errors were when they had attempted to investigate fully the background of Judge Haynesworth and Judge Carswell before President Nixon made the nominations to the Supreme Court. With troubles like that, who needs a lawyer?

With Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser correctly regarded by Moscow as less than a fully reliable ally, Syria offers an essential pressure point to insure against Soviet loss of influence should Nasser go his own way.

For example, if Nasser decided he could lead Egypt into a political settlement of the Israeli question, a big "right" given the emotional cries for 30 years' war from Nasser's militant left following Israel's bombing of Cairo - Moscow's gambit is obvious: A thrusting of Syria front and center on the political stage to outflank Nasser.

Unlike Egypt, Syria's Baathist regime, a left-wing Socialist government that makes a fetish of ideology, has never accepted the Nov. 22, 1967, UN resolution that the resolution called for Israeli withdrawal from the occupied territories and a political settlement of the six-day war. Nor did Syria design to send its President Atassi to the Arab summit conference in Rabat last December, another demonstration of Syrian refusal to follow the Nasser lead.

Syria's ruling Baath party is far more militant than Nasser. Nasser says he is willing to settle the corrosive dispute with Israel by the return of the occupied lands, with Israel then to take its place as a sovereign state with guaranteed access to the Suez Canal and the Gulf of Aqaba. To Syria, that is rankst Syria. Syria's Baathist regime will never acknowledge Israel's existence. As a state, Israel must be driven from the news media.

The best comment, in my opinion, on the whole affair was made by Newton Minow, former chairman of the FCC, who strongly recommended that the media refuse to honor government subpoenas of this nature.

If the facts later turn out that this was more than a Justice Department boomer and was really an attempt to use the subpoena like backshot there will be enough for all representatives of the news media to stand up and be counted.

One of the failings of modern society is to make harsh judgments without letting a situation ripen. Because of this failing, we will probably never know whether the Justice Department's reversal of its stand within 24 hours was due to the solid public outcry against this use of the subpoena power or was strictly an effort to clean the egg off its face from a very sloppy omelet - CARTER H. THE CONNECTICUT AT EAST HADDAM

Inside Report

By Rowland Evans Jr. Robert D. Novak

DAMASCUS, Syria - The alarming Soviet interest in Syria springs from strategic concerns which, far beyond Syria itself, go to the heart of the highly successful and dangerous Soviet game - control of the whole Middle East.

Connecticut Yankee

By A.H.O.

We wouldn't dare say, or that we wouldn't dare say, or that any particular combination would be the one that might make history.

But there is obviously going to come, some year, with some combination, a startling reversal of all the old assumptions with regard to the business of the "balanced ticket."

After ages, those frequently had to be political tickets which included more than one Yankee. This was not just because the Yankee liked it that way. It was because the Yankees were the people who took the most interest in public service, who had the best qualifications for public office, and who knew how to parlay their position and strength and influence in other sectors of state life into dominant positions in politics too.

The period of automatic Yankee domination of political tickets has been followed by the era of the ethnic groups willing to claim the goal was to have every state ticket include a representative of every important ethnic group.

Since there were never enough places on a state ticket for all the ethnic groups willing to claim them, the law of supply and demand rather automatically set up the standard that no single group should have more than one major place. That law of supply and demand advised also came to be considered good taste. To give two major nominations to the same ethnic group would be a needless affront, so it was restricted to all other groups.

This is about the way the political book reads, as of today. But the politics of this year of 1970 in Connecticut may be about to break the book, and to make people begin to think that it costs far too much in waste of public talent to try to follow the book.

There are ethnic groups which, today, give politics even more fervent attention than the monopolist Yankees used to give it, and which tend to produce large numbers of people eligible for high office, and the 1970 Connecticut picture presents several possible examples of how strict adherence to the "balanced ticket" formula might lead to ridiculous results.

There are, for instance, all kinds of reasons for and against the candidacy of State Senator Edward Marcus of New Haven to run for the Tom Dodd seat in the United States Senate. But should Senator Marcus be the perfect paragon of a candidate in all respects, he would still not be eligible for high office, and the 1970 Connecticut picture presents several possible examples of how strict adherence to the "balanced ticket" formula might lead to ridiculous results.

Mlodzinski-Robb

Miss Marjorie Beth Robb and Michael S. Mlodzinski, both of Manchester, exchanged vows Saturday morning at the Church of the Assumption.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald T. Robb of 44 Morse Rd. The bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Laura Mlodzinski of 26 Dover Rd. and the late Matthew Mlodzinski.

The Rev. Ernest Coppa of the Church of the Assumption performed the double-ring ceremony and was celebrant at the nuptial Mass. Paul Chetelat was organist. Bouquets of pink and white carnations were on the altar.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a full-length gown of pearl de sole and chandelier lace, designed with Sabrina neckline, long sleeves coming to points at the wrists, and a chapel length train. Her elbow-length veil of white illusion was arranged from a petal bouquet of pink and white with searls, and she carried a bouquet of carnations with lemon leaves.

Mrs. Lloyd Boutlier of Manchester, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Barbara Jo Robb and Miss Donna Robb, both of Manchester. The groom's best man and sister-in-law were Mr. Thomas Crickmore, also of Manchester.

The attendants were dressed alike in full-length gowns of pink linen, fashioned with antique lace tabs and bishop sleeves with matching lace cuffs. They wore shoulder-length headpieces with shoulder-length veils, and carried colorful bouquets of pink and white carnations.

Gregory Mlodzinski of Manchester served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Lloyd Boutlier of Manchester, brother-in-law of the bride, and Thomas Crickmore of Manchester, and James Wells of East Hartford.

The ring bearer was Charles Keene named to preside at Charles Keene's funeral. The officiating minister was the Rev. Ernest Coppa, pastor of the Church of the Assumption.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald T. Robb, 44 Morse Rd., Manchester, on Saturday.

Covertry Vaughn Monroe Set For Benefit Ball

"Facing With the Moon" will be the familiar theme when Vaughn Monroe and his orchestra are featured at Covertry's Fifth Annual Pits and Drum Ball.

This is the first year that the Ball Committee has secured a nationally known band for the charity event, which will be held at the spacious Manchester Armory on May 2.

Monroe and his music group have performed on both radio and television for many years, appearing on the Perry Como and Ed Sullivan shows.

Many will remember his hit songs "Mule Train," "Ballin'" and "Riders in the Sky" of years past.

Monroe is currently touring Australia and will be performing in Las Vegas next fall.

As in past years submarine commanders from the nuclear sub Nathan Hale will be invited as special guests to the occasion.

The Nathan Hale Ancient Pipes and Drums will add Colonial color to the ball festivities during the evening with a brief performance of their slow beat military marching music.

The committee is now making preparations for the queen contest. Girls of high school age, who are residents of Covertry, are eligible to join the competition.

Last year Robin Mesler, 17, of Covertry, was crowned queen.
