

Nixon's Apologies Sent to Pompidou

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon has apologized to President Georges Pompidou of France for discourteous incidents on Pompidou's visit to this country and will underscore his concern by flying to New York to attend a dinner tonight honoring the French chief executive.

The White House announced the unusual step on the President's part and emphasized that it was a matter of strengthening traditional friendships with an old ally.

"The President feels very strongly," said press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, "that a head of state who has been invited to this country and is our official guest should receive courteous treatment."

In Chicago especially, crowds have voiced displeasure over France's Middle East policy, by demonstrating against Pompidou.

As the host government, the United States has the responsibility, Ziegler said, to receive President and Mrs. Pompidou respectfully and courteously.

He said Nixon feels, also, that "a few citizens who have acted in a discourteous manner and disrespectful manner... do not represent the American people and this country's attitude toward France."

"In this vein," Ziegler said, "President Nixon last night called President Pompidou and personally and officially conveyed his apologies and regrets, and those of the American people, for the incidents that have taken place on this state visit."

The President, Ziegler said, was referring particularly to incidents in Chicago Saturday night protesting France's sale of jet fighters to Libya while maintaining an embargo on arms sales to Israel.

In New York, Pompidou used to meet with two groups but arrived at the United Nations today for lunch with Secretary-General U Thant, leaving a group of Jewish leaders waiting for him at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

The president had been scheduled to meet with two groups but canceled the session at the last minute.

Spokesmen for the Jewish group said they still hoped to meet with Pompidou, whose speech at a dinner meeting in the Waldorf tonight was expected to produce another demonstration.

The French president had threatened to call off the remainder of his American visit after pro-Israel demonstrations against French Middle Eastern policy erupted in Chicago.

The Jewish groups said Sunday night they deplored disorderly demonstrations and called on all opponents of French policy to "act in an orderly, peaceful and nonviolent manner."

After an overnight visit at the home of a millionaire in suburban White Plains, Pompidou and his wife left for the city in separate cars under police escort.

Both got send-offs from a group of neighbors who lined the street, waving French flags and placards.

Pompidou decided Sunday to go ahead with his scheduled two-day visit to New York de-

Fired Official Raps Agnew For Ouster

WASHINGTON (AP)—A recently fired administration civil rights official says four powerful White House aides are to blame for slackened government school desegregation efforts.

The charges were made as Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, head of President Nixon's special cabinet-level task force on school desegregation, declared the panel would not "give support to any evasion of the law."

Leon S. Panetta, dumped by the White House as civil rights head of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, also said the vice president and two senators played major roles in his ouster.

The four White House aides identified by Panetta, as principal architects of the administration desegregation policy were: H. R. "Bob" Haldeman, the man who controls access to the President; Bryce N. Harlow, counselor and congressional relations expert; John D. Ehrlichman, domestic policy chief; and Harry C. Dent, No. 1 political strategist at the White House.

Panetta said Agnew, a former Maryland governor, and Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., became irritated after the department "indicated to Maryland its higher education (civil rights) program was not good enough."

Dole was mad because "we were moving on Wichita, Kan., which was a Northern system where we were able to establish discrimination and frankly where city leaders said there is discrimination," he said.

Panetta also blamed the administration's request last summer for a desegregation delay in 30 Mississippi school districts on Sen. John Stennis' threat to withdraw as floor leader of the President's hotly contested Safeguard antiballistic missile system.

Stennis, a Miss.-Democrat, is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The President's special school desegregation panel was viewed by some government officials as a means to decrease HEW's role in Southern school desegregation.

Agnew, however, said that the panel would not attempt to intrude in the "operating jurisdiction" of the departments of Justice and HEW.

Instead, Agnew said, it would work with black and white moderate community leaders to achieve court-ordered compliance in the least disruptive way.

The vice president emphasized it would not "be in any way an appeal body, permit any

Boy Scouts Go Camp

SITTINGBOURNE, England (AP)—The magazine produced by local Boy and Girl Scouts is a best seller this year — it has a naked girl on the cover.

On inside pages there are jokes about turkeys and chickens taking the contraceptive pill, an article in favor of camps for both sexes and a glowing report on the movie "The Killing Of Sister George," which is about lesbianism.

And all for six cents. The magazine, called Dimension One, sold out its first printing of 100 copies when buyers spotted the bosomy blonde pouting and hugging a swivel chair.

District Scout Commissioner Sidney Beacon was philosophical but firm. "I appreciate that in these days it was the sort of picture young people wanted to see," he said. "I hope it will build up circulation — but I don't want to see any more nudes."

The magazine's joint editors, Scout Nigel Goodman, 21, and Girl Scout Alison High, 16, were delighted with the soaring sales.

"We decided on the nude picture as something to catch the eye and win everybody's interest for the next edition," said Goodman. "It has certainly done that."

FBI Seeks Spoonful Of Moon Dust

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A vital containing about a spoonful of moon dust is missing, the first loss in 60 displays of priceless lunar samples.

Officials disclosed Sunday that the vital, containing 2.3 grams of material from lunar rock No. 50 brought to earth by Apollo 11, disappeared the night before during a charity affair for scientific research that included a $100-a-plate dinner.

"I'm going to call it a theft," said Steven Lawrence, business manager of the Institute of Geophysics at the University of California at Los Angeles, who arranged the display. "But I hope it was a joke and we'll get it back."

Several persons from the institute were with the display, he said, but there was no guard "as such."

"Police and the FBI said they were investigating. In Houston, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said it had not authorized the exhibit, and that about 50 samples had been displayed with authorization and without a loss."

NASA assigned the sample last November to Dr. George Weatherill of the Institute for analysis to determine its age.

"Much of its value has been extracted," Weatherill said. "We were going to try to work on it some more. It's possible we would have found

Cuban Jet Landing Points To Holes in U.S. Border Defense

By RICHARD HOMAN

The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Control tower officials at Homestead, Fla., Air Force Base last fall didn't know the plane they were watching land was a Russian-built MIG until a surprised U.S. pilot who had just returned from Vietnam called them on the telephone and told them.

Tower operators mistook the plane, a MIG-17 piloted by a defector, a Cuban Air Force lieutenant, for an American F-84 and routinely gave it permission to land, according to testimony given a House subcommittee that investigated the incident.

"As the MIG proceeded around the traffic pattern," an Air Force colonel testified, "a pilot in an F-4 airplane, who had landed at Homestead on a flight from MacDill (Air Force Base, Fla.), called the tower and told the tower they had a MIG in the pattern."

At that, the colonel said, the tower operator "ran the bag alert alarm" which brought security police to the scene and "enabled the airplane to be secured and surrounded immediately after it landed." Parked nearby was President Nixon's official plane, Air Force One, and the President was a few miles away in his Key Biscayne cottage.

Until the Vietnam veteran telephoned the tower, a series of military witnesses told the investigating committee, the United States — because of a variety of detection system weaknesses, as well as errors by personnel manning the devices — was not aware that a foreign aircraft had entered its airspace.

Even today, according to Gen. Seth J. McKee, commander of North American air defense, an airplane from Cuba could probably slip undetected through U.S. radar defenses and drop a bomb on the President's cottage.

"There is no threat to the city of Miami per se," McKee said. "It could be a threat to the President of the United States if they wanted to bomb his house down there... if some fanatic down there wanted to, that could be done. That's the worst thing I can visualize that could be done down there."

The House armed services subcommittee, headed by Rep. Charles E. Bennett (D-Fla.), held closed hearings on southeastern U.S. air defense capabilities last November after the Oct. 5 landing of the MIG.

At the time, the Pentagon said the pilot eluded land-based U.S. radar screens for four minutes above water, rising briefly to 3,000 feet to check his navigation.

According to testimony given in the hearings, made public recently: —The MIG was tracked on U.S. radar screens for four minutes when he rose to 3,000 feet, but an air defense officer at Gunter, Ala., Air Force Base "after careful consideration decided that a valid track did not exist and the intermittent radar returns observed were probably erroneous data."

"The day before the landing, as a cost-cutting move, airborne radar surveillance of the Florida coast, which probably would have detected the MIG as it approached, was reduced from fulltime to one-third time, on a random basis. No EC-121 radar plane was in the air at the time the MIG arrived.

—The defense Department concedes that there are three sections of North America — Florida, Alaska and Newfoundland — where an enemy could violate our sovereign airspace and we couldn't do anything about it because of detection gaps and inadequate intercept aircraft.

—The United States is resigning to accepting occasional intrusions from Cuba because the cost of a reliable detection system would be too great and Cuba is not considered a major threat.

—Shortly after the MIG landing, but not directly related to it, 35 Army enlisted men in sensitive missile defense positions in the Miami-Homestead area were charged with using or sell-

MIAMI (AP)—Ship radio reports today indicated a Cuban patrol boat had escorted into Cuban waters an American treasure-hunting craft its crew had boarded on the high seas.

A spokesman for the firm that chartered the Jocolyn-C for treasure-hunting tests said at least five persons were aboard.

The U.S. Coast Guard in Miami refused to comment.

Marine broadcasts monitored in Miami said Cuban seamen boarded the 65-foot red, white and blue Jocolyn-C Sunday and removed two Cuban crewmen before beginning escort of the American boat into Cuban territorial waters just off La Isabela on the island's northern coast.

As the Jocolyn-C and the patrol boat traveled the 140 miles from the point of the reported boarding to La Isabela, the U.S. Coast Guard cutter Steadfast watched off shore. The cutter remained outside Cuba's three-mile limit.

Only four of the persons reportedly aboard the Jocolyn-C were identified immediately.

Early morning Havana radio broadcasts monitored in Miami made no mention of the incident.

The Steadfast was dispatched to the Atlantic between Cuba and the Bahamas early Sunday afternoon when the Jocolyn-C, commanded by Capt. Sten Carlson of East Orleans, Mass., reported by radio that the Cuban craft was approaching it. The vessel was 15 miles offshore, the radio report said.

Moments before the Jocolyn-C's transmitter went silent, the captain reported: "They're lowering their guns on us."

Captain Says He'll Be Freed

EAST ORLEANS, Mass.

(AP) — The wife of a sea captain who, along with his boat and crew was captured by a Cuban vessel, said today the State Department has told her that her husband radioed that he will be freed "in a day or two."

"A desk man at the State Department in Washington phoned me this morning just before going off duty, saying the Coast Guard had picked up a radio message from Sten," Mrs. Sten Carlson told the Providence, (R.I.) Bulletin.

"He said they are alright and he felt they would be released in a day or two," Mrs. Carlson said, adding that the message "relieved a lot of her worry."

She quoted the State Department as saying her husband's boat was being escorted to the Cuban port of Barien, located on the island's north coast.

In Jail: Bobby Seale Sits Silently, His Name Echoes Over U.S.

By JACK SCHREIBMAN

Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Bobby Seale sits quietly behind the bars of a California jail. But his name echoes across the country.

As the man who sat in chains for part of the Chicago conspiracy trial. As the national chairman of the Black Panther party. And as one of nine accused of conspiracy to kill a Panther in Connecticut.

In a prison interview he alternated between protesting his innocence of the conspiracy and talking about Panther ideology.

"I have to be found not guilty," he said of the charge that he and nine others conspired to kill Alex Rackley near New Haven, Conn., May 21, 1969. "I'm not guilty of anything like that."

Of his organization, he said, "The Black Panther party is concerned with the hopes and future of all the black people in particular."

Seale has been in custody since his arrest last August on the murder conspiracy charge. He was taken to Chicago for the trial stemming from demonstrations at the time of the 1968

Democratic National Convention, but his case was separated after courtroom demonstrations.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Julius J. Hoffmann in Chicago, upset by Seale's behavior, ordered him bound and gagged and removed from the court, then separated his case from the others and sentenced him to four years for contempt. That sentence is being appealed.

Denied bail, Seale has been fighting extradition to Connecticut. The California Supreme Court has the case under advisement.

Seale's white lawyer, Charles R. Garry, said in an interview that despite the extradition fight he is sure Seale eventually will have to go east to face the Rackley charges.

Seale said, "The Alex Rackley situation was a form of black racism on the part of George Sams."

"I was in San Francisco... Oakland when Rackley was murdered," he said.

Sams, 23, of Detroit, has pleaded guilty to second degree murder in the slaying and allegedly told authorities Seale ordered Rackley killed because he was believed to be an informer against party members.

Testy and nervous after months of confinement, the usually well-controlled co-founder of the militant black group often gives way to expressions of asperity.

"People keep harping!" he said. "What is your hope—the future of the Black Panther Party?"

"... People keep trying to isolate the party. What is the hope and the future of the people in America—what is the hope and the future of the black people in America?"

"The same in both cases—the hopes of black and white are the same."

"We see black America existing and surviving against the fascist oppression; we see white America becoming politically conscious—gaining the soul of life also to resist fascist oppression."

Seale was asked by a reporter if he had given up the hope of ever getting justice from the white man.

"White man? White man? We don't put it that way! We don't

Columbia Key Issue in New Charter May Be Length on Terms

At a sparsely attended public hearing last week, members of the Charter Commission expressed their views on the key issue in the new charter—length of terms for the mayor and council members.

Dr. Bruce Bradford, chairman of the commission, said he felt after hearing comments by the public that the only real issue to be resolved in the new charter was the length of terms for the mayor and council members.

Dr. Bradford admitted this was one of the few questions on which opinion is divided among the members of the commission, as proposed, recommends two years for election and four years for the council members.

Dr. Bradford said the commission members feel that the office of the town clerk and tax collector are complex and it takes a great deal of time to learn the work.

Small Plane, Jet Collide in Canada

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP)—A small, private plane and a commercial jetliner collided Sunday near Vancouver International Airport, causing the small plane to crash.

The airplane, an Air Canada Cessna, was carrying two people. The jetliner, a Boeing 707, was carrying 100 people.

A spokesman for Air Canada said the collision occurred as the four-engine, turbo-prop jet was approaching the airport after a 25-minute flight from Victoria.

The captain felt a slight bump. An airline spokesman said the crew was warning passengers that the plane was shaking.

The collision, which occurred in good visibility at about 1,200 feet, was witnessed from the ground by Ellen Hollinger of suburban Langley.

Florida was classified as 100 per cent rural in 1960 and its population of 8,745 ranked last among the 51 states of the Union, according to Encyclopedia Britannica.

High-Rise Rules Hearing Topic
High-rise apartments will be the main topic of discussion tonight at the public hearing of the Planning and Zoning Commission.

Proposed zoning regulations governing high-rise structures will be opened to the public for comment.

Those who into the complex system based on a ratio of lot size to total floor area.

The only other matter to be discussed will be a one-to-one ratio of lot size to total floor area.

The requested lot covers 90,000 square feet and is now owned by Stone and Goldberg, building contractors.

The hearings begin at 7:30 in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.
