

Contention Escalating On Carswell

Sen. G. Harold Carswell and Clement F. Haynsworth. If it is found that the President would make such a statement," chimed in Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., another leader against the Nixon nomination.

The Nixon's statement brought nods of approval from senators who stood behind Carswell and Haynsworth. "In view of the present makeup of the Senate, it would be very difficult to confirm any judicial conservative nominee from the South," said Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Meb.

No matter who Nixon nominated from the South, "the powerful Senate and House will rise up against him," Sen. Allen Bickerstaff, D-La., said. Nixon must bet on the new men Thursday, a day after the Senate voted 51 to 45 to reject his nomination.

The former federal appeals judge from Tallahassee, Fla. He told Sen. "My only hope will be from outside the South and he will fulfill the criteria of strict constructionist with judicial experience either from a federal bench or on a state appeals court."

Bayh said later the President was telling the South his two previous nominees were picked merely because they were from that region. That means, Bayh said, the President is trying to feather the political nest of Richard Nixon rather than pick a high court vacancy created by Abe Fortas' resignation last May.

Two Southern senators who voted against Carswell after supporting Haynsworth also disagreed with Nixon. "If the President's second nominee had been from the South as his first, he'd have been confirmed without difficulty," said Sen. William E. Long, D-Miss. Va. He said a Southern court member would benefit both the court and the country.

"It's quite wrong to attribute the opposition to regionalism," Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., said. He said both Carswell and Haynsworth developed "habitués" that the President should know about when he nominated them.

Both Spang and Fulbright voted for Haynsworth, a South Carolina federal judge, when he was defeated for the next five months ago. Fulbright's vote against Carswell triggered another presidential election in March, the Gazette reported.

Mrs. Mitchell called on the Arkansas Gazette to "correct" Fulbright for his vote during a long-distance telephone call to the paper at about 3 a.m. Thursday, the Gazette reported.

Teacher Strikes May Increase

Meanwhile, in Nashville, the American Bar Association's top judge announced today that the Supreme Court nominees are evaluated. Lawrence E. Walsh, a New York lawyer who heads the ABA's standing committee on the federal judiciary, suggested the group could begin by telling the Senate and the public how the nominees stack up against other judges from the same region.

Walsh, in a prepared Law Day speech at Vanderbilt University, said the committee would retain, at the same time, its present system of advising whether nominees meet intellectual and professional standards. He said Thursday night the committee is considering changes in evaluation procedures and Thursday, a day after the Senate voted 51 to 45 to reject his nomination.

The former federal appeals judge from Tallahassee, Fla. He told Sen. "My only hope will be from outside the South and he will fulfill the criteria of strict constructionist with judicial experience either from a federal bench or on a state appeals court."

Walsh ruled out any assessment by the ABA of a nominee's political or personal attributes, saying the bar association has no special jurisdiction to make such judgments. Both G. Harold Carswell and Clement F. Haynsworth, who passed ABA muster before their nominations to the Supreme Court, were rejected by the Senate.

The committee found Judge Carswell "qualified." Under its rating system for the high court the only other category available was "highly acceptable." Haynsworth, under an earlier but similarly imprecise system, was rated "highly acceptable" and what critics said was at least a mediocre judicial record.

Walsh, a deputy attorney general in the Eisenhower administration, suggested the committee could be more than a rubber stamp. He said the House, the Senate and the public by expanding its assessments of nominees, he said, would be evaluated "against both minimum standards of competence and those which would limit nominees to the best available in the same judicial circuit."

Walsh also called for consideration of a panel, including the current Supreme Court chief justice, to review the ABA's findings. He said he welcomed other suggestions. Looking back on the Carswell nomination, Walsh said 13 colleagues on the U.S. Court of Appeals in New Orleans were interviewed as well as a number of federal district judges in Florida.

"Of these judges," he said, "expressed doubts as to Judge Carswell's integrity, legitimacy or competence. Most were enthusiastically in favor of his appointment. The only one who spoke in opposition expressed his opposition on ideological grounds rather than those of professional adequacy."

Walsh said he would be pleased to see the President's statement unwarranted. "A competent, qualified Southerner with a proper record could be confirmed by the Senate," he said. In a statement issued after his meeting with newsmen, Nixon said he will submit his second nomination "in the very near future," apparently rejecting a proposal to wait until after the November elections. "A President should not leave that proposal to the court when it can be filed," he said.

State Police Make More Drug Arrests

Arrests also occurred in New Britain, East Hartford, Windsor, Vernon, South Windsor, Cheshire, West Hartford, Police Chief William Rush, spokesman for the regional narcotics task force described the roundup as a "cooperative effort." Besides the state and local authorities, it involved federal narcotics agents.

The age of the suspects, both men and women, ranged from 18 to 40. Most of those arrested outside Hartford were in their teens or early 20s, while ages of those in Hartford averaged in the upper 20s.

Most of the suspects arrested in Hartford were charged with possession of a controlled substance in lieu of $10,000 bond. A spokesman in the state's attorney's office said they were expected to appear in court next week.

Arrested in Vernon yesterday as part of the raid was Owen W. Wright, 19, of 76 Park West Apartments. Wright was charged with sale of narcotics (marijuana) and possession of marijuana.

He was held overnight at the Hartford Correctional Center in West of Hartford. Wright was charged with possession of marijuana and possession of a controlled substance in lieu of $10,000 bond.

South Windsor narcotics arrested, James Olekavik, 37, of Willow St. He was charged with possession of a controlled substance in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Other St. Bridge students arrested were Timothy J. Doherty, 17, of McCoolville, first honors for "Practical Uses of the Photocopy;" Stephen Brown, 17, of Translucents on the Mental and Physical Activity of Humans;" and third honors to Patricia Corran for "Smoking Can Be a Hazard to Your Health;"

Christie Franzone and Ann Marie Egan for "Effects of Pollution in Turbidity;" and Cindy Annals and Kathy Costello for "Algae as Future Food."

Some 2,000 Ford Motor Co. employees in Connecticut were laid off because of a parts shortage. They joined nearly 30,000 other workers idle in Detroit and St. Louis.

Not knowing what the full truth might have been, we cannot deny the possibility that it may be better for fairness and justice to innocent parties, to leave some of it untold. And bearing in mind the possibility that one of the innocent parties in the story may be Senator Kennedy himself, it is not surprising that some of us, some day, to his suffering, we cannot venture any pronouncement to the effect that his political career now has to be considered dead. There is only one thing one can be sure of. There will never be, on Chappaquiddick, an anniversary party.

Dick Proves He Loves The Press

President Nixon is a salt water man, and whenever he feels like a woolly swim, fits off to a proper climate for it. These are his relatives little use for a fresh water pool in the White House.

On the other hand, President Nixon, unlike his Vice President, is full of solicitude for the comfort of the press.

These two factors in the President's personal instincts have now led to what is, for the press, a handsome bargain. The White House swimming pool has been covered over. The resulting floor space has been used, together with that from a sauna room, three rub-down rooms, a floral display workshop and some dog kennels, to create a new kind of life for White House correspondents.

Instead of trying to find a place to lounge in a nondescript outer hall, the White House correspondents are now to be domiciled in a whole suite of their own, containing a combination bedroom and lounge room, two working press rooms, and two smaller lounges, one of which replaces the old dog kennels and now accommodate a whole battery of food vending machines.

All this is done in a taste which will probably end up being called Early Nixon, with captain's chairs, tufted suede Chesterfield sofas, luminescent lamps and Currier and Ives reprints, all so very handsome that the nation's leading newspapermen were speechless with awe and gratitude when it was first shown to them how much Dick Nixon really loved them.

A little later, remembering their profession, they made some half-hearted efforts to not touch and burnish the about the whole thing, pretending they felt obligated to investigate the expense of their new quarters and report possible extravagance to the taxpayers.

But they weren't really fooling anybody, even themselves. Really, they were purring.

Counting Immigrant Babies

If it were not for Mr. Enoch Powell, no one would have paid much attention to the statistics of the Registrar General's latest birth statistics for England and Wales. But now the spotlight has turned and very much it is, too. It shows once again, and perhaps more clearly than ever before, how misleading it is to say "immigrants" when you mean "coloured." The statistics demonstrate that less than half of the children born to "immigrant" mothers were coloured.

More children were born to Irish, Italian, Spanish, Australian, American, and other non-British mothers than to West Indians and Asians. So if taken together on traditional British majority beds is one thing that worries Mr. Powell, as he claims, then men mainly white, not coloured.

The latest birth statistics are too crude to be any guide to the future size of Britain's coloured population. Six-month figures can give no definite clue to birth rates of different cultural groups in the future. Indians and Pakistanis have a high birth rate now because their communities contain a large number of women of child-bearing age. The post-war British baby boom came about as men rejected their wives after years of absence. The Asians are in a similar position as wives rejoin husbands who settled here some years ago, saved up, and paid for them to come later. One cannot say definitely that their birth rate will go down in a few years time, but the experience of some West Indian communities which have been here longer suggests that it may. In Birmingham West Indians are beginning to have smaller families on the English pattern rather than the large families customary in the Caribbean.

All future predictions have to be tentative. In spite of what Mr. Powell says, the Government has made no considered estimate of the future coloured population in Britain. It is, despite the Johnson Show, the parliamentary secretary at the Ministry of Health, answered a question from Sir Cyril Osborne, and on the basis of Sir Cyril's assumptions about coloured birth rates gave a figure of three and a half million by 1985. Some months later Mr. David Ennals gave another figure of two and a half million based on lower but again inflated birth rates. The most scientific estimate was made last year by the Institute of Race Relations who produced a series of reports on different estimates of birth rates of between 2,000,000 and 2,873,000 by 1985. Agency Completes Review Of Task Force Proposals

By WILLIAM COPE (Herald Reporter) Manchester's C-DAP Agency has completed its review of task force goals and objectives leading toward a Community Development Action Plan for the town of Manchester.

In four more hours of discussion last night, members polished, amended and adopted goals and objectives for recreation and social services, the remaining two of the 12 planning areas developed by the C-DAP task force.

In reviewing and passing upon the task force proposals, agency members worked three and four evenings per week over a three-week period, putting more than 40 hours into the review.

A controversial item considered last night was a social service objective related to welfare and the ability to provide a program of care for the indigent.

On a vote, the item passed 7-1, with former Town Director John Garrahe casting the negative ballot.

Modified Version The objective, as passed, was a somewhat modified version of the original task force proposal and read as follows:

"To institute a program to insure that all persons who are unable to support themselves are maintained on a scale related to the community standard of living."

In explaining his objections to the proposal, Garrahe said he feared the plan would be the ability or means to support themselves are maintained on a scale related to the community standard of living.

The level of maintenance decided upon could be high enough to make Manchester so attractive that persons on welfare might flock here, and not have to be added.

Mrs. Jerome Nathan had served as liaison on the issue, and she had suggested that the original task force proposal be amended to read:

"To institute a program to insure that all persons who are unable to support themselves are maintained on a scale related to the community standard of living."

Hartford Postal Union Gets Stay in Contempt Fines

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — The government and union officials would be amnestied. He said he thinks Hartford's union branch has a good chance to be pardoned, and said, "I'm sure the government wants to be quite frank to keep that as the carrot on the stick in negotiations."

But later, in his decision to grant the extension, Judge Charles replied: "The court believes reasonable time be afforded (to gain the pardon) and that this right should never be characterized as the carrot on the end of a stick for labor bargaining purposes, but as an act of grace if it is to be utilized by the chief executive."

The union paid a $2,000 fine Tuesday while Godfrey paid a $300 fine. The money went into the court registry account and not the U.S. Treasury account. As a consequence, President Nixon could still decide to pardon the union. The court decision that if contempt powers are bargained away in negotiations, they will "become mockery and a nullity and disrespect of law and order will come into being in our democracy."

Ratner had applied for a 90-day stay and received approval from U.S. Atty. Stewart H. Jones. But Judge Charles said there was no adequate reason for such a long stay, and gave the union and Godfrey until June 15 at 10 a.m. before the fine will finally be turned over to the U.S. Treasury, if pardon is not granted by President Nixon.

Branch 86 of the National Association of Letter Carriers, AFL-CIO, and its president, James J. Godfrey, have already paid the fines.

ARNOLD PALMER PUTTERS AROUND A LOT

There is one thing you can be sure of. There will never be, on Chappaquiddick, an anniversary party.

On the other hand, President Nixon, unlike his Vice President, is full of solicitude for the comfort of the press.

These two factors in the President's personal instincts have now led to what is, for the press, a handsome bargain. The White House swimming pool has been covered over. The resulting floor space has been used, together with that from a sauna room, three rub-down rooms, a floral display workshop and some dog kennels, to create a new kind of life for White House correspondents.

Instead of trying to find a place to lounge in a nondescript outer hall, the White House correspondents are now to be domiciled in a whole suite of their own, containing a combination bedroom and lounge room, two working press rooms, and two smaller lounges, one of which replaces the old dog kennels and now accommodate a whole battery of food vending machines.

All this is done in a taste which will probably end up being called Early Nixon, with captain's chairs, tufted suede Chesterfield sofas, luminescent lamps and Currier and Ives reprints, all so very handsome that the nation's leading newspapermen were speechless with awe and gratitude when it was first shown to them how much Dick Nixon really loved them.

A little later, remembering their profession, they made some half-hearted efforts to not touch and burnish the about the whole thing, pretending they felt obligated to investigate the expense of their new quarters and report possible extravagance to the taxpayers.

But they weren't really fooling anybody, even themselves. Really, they were purring.

Counting Immigrant Babies

If it were not for Mr. Enoch Powell, no one would have paid much attention to the statistics of the Registrar General's latest birth statistics for England and Wales. But now the spotlight has turned and very much it is, too. It shows once again, and perhaps more clearly than ever before, how misleading it is to say "immigrants" when you mean "coloured." The statistics demonstrate that less than half of the children born to "immigrant" mothers were coloured.

More children were born to Irish, Italian, Spanish, Australian, American, and other non-British mothers than to West Indians and Asians. So if taken together on traditional British majority beds is one thing that worries Mr. Powell, as he claims, then men mainly white, not coloured.

The latest birth statistics are too crude to be any guide to the future size of Britain's coloured population. Six-month figures can give no definite clue to birth rates of different cultural groups in the future. Indians and Pakistanis have a high birth rate now because their communities contain a large number of women of child-bearing age. The post-war British baby boom came about as men rejected their wives after years of absence. The Asians are in a similar position as wives rejoin husbands who settled here some years ago, saved up, and paid for them to come later. One cannot say definitely that their birth rate will go down in a few years time, but the experience of some West Indian communities which have been here longer suggests that it may. In Birmingham West Indians are beginning to have smaller families on the English pattern rather than the large families customary in the Caribbean.

All future predictions have to be tentative. In spite of what Mr. Powell says, the Government has made no considered estimate of the future coloured population in Britain. It is, despite the Johnson Show, the parliamentary secretary at the Ministry of Health, answered a question from Sir Cyril Osborne, and on the basis of Sir Cyril's assumptions about coloured birth rates gave a figure of three and a half million by 1985. Some months later Mr. David Ennals gave another figure of two and a half million based on lower but again inflated birth rates. The most scientific estimate was made last year by the Institute of Race Relations who produced a series of reports on different estimates of birth rates of between 2,000,000 and 2,873,000 by 1985. But what, after all, does all Mr. Powell's rambling (see our issue) really matter? Does it really matter whether coloured people form 3, 4, 6, or 10 per cent of Britain's population by the year X? It will only matter if people think on trusting them as second-class citizens and deny them equal esteem. What happens in Britain's schools, factories, and suburbs is far more important than what happens in the maternity wards. MANCHESTER (ENGLAND) GUARDIAN

Not knowing what the full truth might have been, we cannot deny the possibility that it may be better for fairness and justice to innocent parties, to leave some of it untold. And bearing in mind the possibility that one of the innocent parties in the story may be Senator Kennedy himself, it is not surprising that some of us, some day, to his suffering, we cannot venture any pronouncement to the effect that his political career now has to be considered dead. There is only one thing one can be sure of. There will never be, on Chappaquiddick, an anniversary party.

ARRESTS
Police detectives have arrested Joel Spector, 18, of 13 Millford Rd. in connection with a woman's slaying on 78-year-old woman last July.

The woman was walking on W. Center St. July 2 when her purse, containing about $100, was grabbed by a youth who fled.

Spector was charged on a warrant with robbery with violence and placed under $10,000 bond. He was later ordered to Norwich State Hospital. No date was set for his court appearance here.

Kenneth Wayne Hask, 16, of 127 Deepwood Dr., was charged with breaking and entering with criminal intent, larceny, and theft from a person; and Wayne Warren Abrah, 17, of 23 Woodford Dr., was charged with breaking and entering with criminal intent, larceny, and conspiracy to commit theft from a person.

The arrests yesterday stem from a break in the case which went into the Hartford Rd. Motel Station.

The theft-from-person charges stem from an alleged purse snatching incident at the Manchester shopping Fairlane in November.

Hask was released on a promise to appear and Warren released on a $1,000 non-arresty bond. Both are scheduled for court appearances April 27.

Bolton Klars Ask for Ecology Class As Help to 'Future Leaders'

The board also authorized the superintendent to approve bus drivers by board members. The board also authorized the superintendent to approve bus drivers by board members.

The board approved Friday May 29 as a holiday. Memorial Day falls on Saturday. Since now days do not use up all the overtime, approval was granted.

A two-year agreement with the Bolton Custodial Maintenance Association was signed. The salary schedule for 1970-71 is $500 above the schedule this year at all levels. There are six steps in the three classification. Custodians go from $3,200 to $4,800; head custodian from $4,200 to $7,500, and maintenance men from $2,700 to $7,700. The schedule for 1971-72 is $500 above this at all levels.

The two-year aspect of the agreement is following a pattern established by the teachers' association. Dr. Joseph Castagna, superintendent, said that the secretary of the association is not a regular teacher.

The board approved the Senior High City during spring vacation.

An agreement was signed with the Vernon school board that if a can make application for the start of a special education program to be mentally retarded and emotionally handicapped children from 7 to 19 years of age.

The program to be committed to 10 years of approval. The program would include a food service program, a work study program and an industrial training program for students who could attend, the arrangement being similar to the classes for the lower grades.

It was noted that Dr. Robert Butterfield, school physician, has spent the last few days in the Bolton schools showing films on drugs and discussing them with individual classes.

In answer to a question about the budget hearing, Tuesday, the board said that it is preparing a four-page breakdown on what costs could be reduced at each school, and of the full school board budget that he has had 70 extra copies recent printed for distribution.

Before going into executive session to discuss the qualifications of those being considered for the teaching principal's position in the Center school, the board heard a brief report from Chairman Grunke on a National School Board Association members.

Dr. Castagna attended.

Grunke said that the meeting with two speakers, Dr. William Graham, and Andrew Mangiatra and Rigby Graham, members. They were asked to discuss, mainly, lowering the age at which parents are employed to drive Bolton school buses. A driver who will not reach the minimum age of 21 for three months will be given approval on a temporary basis last night "due to extenuating circumstances."

They Call John Swigert A Persistent Astronaut

By JOHN A. JOHNSON (Herald Reporter)

If the Apollo 13 moon mission goes tomorrow, John L. Swigert Jr. will replace Lt. Cmdr. Thomas K. Mattingly in the Command module, and you can be sure of one thing. It will be in good hands, because at the controls will be a serious, dedicated, persistent astronaut.

That is the unequivocal opinion of the Herald staff this morning when they met with Richard Conde, test engineer at Pratt and Whitney Aircraft; and Dr. Warren Stober, chairman of the Polioch Institute; and Dr. Joseph A. M. Lovell Jr., test pilot at PWA and a graduate student at RPI, lived with Conde at W. Center St. in East Hartford, where names were inadvertently omitted in the Herald, the April 3 issue of the Herald.

Mildred Wambolt COVENTRY — Mrs. Mildred Wambolt, 53, of Colchester, died Wednesday night at the home of her son, Ernest March of Coventry, died after a long illness. Hebron Dale Harned Quits As Gilead Principal

The Board of Education last night accepted with regret the resignation of Dale Harned, principal at the Gilead Hill School.

In his letter of resignation Harned stated, "I wish to submit my resignation effective the first of May, 1970 for personal reasons."

Harned had been appointed principal only last Nov. 1 to fill the vacancy created by Herbert Shedd's resignation in July. Shedd had been the full-time principal at the school, having served as a part-time principal for the 1967-68 school year. In July of last year, after only one year as principal, he resigned July 30 to take over as principal at the Burns School in Hartford.

Shedd's resignation in July made it very difficult for the board to find anyone at that time to fill the vacancy because the teachers' contracts state they may not change their positions during the month of August.

When school opened last September, Harned was appointed principal at the Gilead Hill School. He had been principal at the Gilead Hill School for two years.

The board now has one open position at the Gilead Hill School. The board will be interviewing applicants who had been successful first in the request by Ann Damjanian, superintendent, and finally Harned was selected.

Battle To Ease Abortion Law Won at Home

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — An end to a long battle to liberalize New York's strict abortion law appeared in sight today after the vote of the Albany Assembly of a measure that would permit abortions virtually without restriction.

The Assembly ratification came only on a last-minute change in the vote Thursday by Democrat George Michaels of Auburn who tearfully asked to change his negative vote "to keep peace in my family."

His vote brought the total to 75 in favor, and Speaker Perry B. Duryea then cast the 75th and deciding vote needed for passage in the 150-member Assembly.

Under the terms of the bill, abortions will be permitted by a physician within 24 weeks from conception with the consent of the mother. After that time, abortions would be allowed only when necessary to save the life of the mother.

The law was expected to be passed in the Assembly on Tuesday. Under the measure, an amended version of a law enacted in 1967 would be replaced by a new law.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has advocated abortion reform for several years and is expected to sign the bill if it reaches his desk.

Youth Arrested On Two Charges In Wild Spree

A 17-year-old youth was arrested last night after a brief but wild two-hour spree in the general area around McDonald's in W. Center St.

Richardson was in his car in McDonald's lot revving up the engine. Suddenly the car lurched from its parked position, squealing its tires. Richardson raked the car around the building, passing other cars parked in the center of the lot; the tires were still squealing.

Richardson then hit a town ambulance located near the National building, "completely destroying it," police said.

Richardson was arrested on charges of driving a motor vehicle under the influence of intoxicating liquor. Court date April 27.

Weiss Expresses Views On Revenue Problems

Manchester Town Manager Robert Weiss appeared today before the State Revenue Task Force, at a public hearing in the State Capitol.

Weiss, invited by the task force to testify to the present situation, said that the state should assume total cost for education. "If these major items of expense were removed from local government's property tax base, it would be adequate to serve local needs. I realize that some method should be developed to assure a continued local focus in educational policy if the state takes over the cost for local education."

PARKADE Liggitt-Rossall DRUG. $100 REWARD. To anyone who gives information that may lead to the conviction of a Drug Pusher.

WARNING: MARIJUANA CAUSES BRAIN INJURY!

Now it can be told! In my talks to schools, the argument our children gave to support the judicial use of marijuana was "There is no physiological proof that marijuana is dangerous."

NOW—the National Institute of Mental Health has come out with the first direct evidence, which took three years to acquire.

It stated, after an Israeli scientist, through an NIMH grant, isolated the exact active ingredients found in marijuana, "strong preparations of marijuana might produce brain damage in some chronic users."

No drug user knows the strength he is swallowing. KIDS—this is the great danger!

People who have listened to Dr. Tim O'Leary, psychologist, five years ago, and now listen to him today, will notice how his mind is much less lucid and less sharp, when he is debating. This certainly is more subjective evidence to prove some further brain damage.

As a pharmacist, I know that 1/30 of a grain of strychnine is a therapeutic dose.

But, a tiny, one grain of strychnine will kill you! Apply this to marijuana and get off the kick!

To those who want to help... CALL DETECTIVE SARTOR, phone 646-4655, to report drug pushers.

CALL DRUG ADVISORY CLINIC, phone 647-9222, for treatment.

I firmly believe that businessmen must take a serious interest in bettering their community and not exploiting it in the press. It is in this vein that I am voicing this appeal. If anyone is moved by my gesture, contact Chief Reardon.

Segregation Is Uniformly Evil: Ribicoff

WASHINGTON, (AP) — Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., said Thursday that America's political institutions have demonstrated an unwillingness to deal realistically with the critical problems of race and segregation confronting the nation.

Congress seems to believe that segregation in the South is evil but in the North it is benign, Ribicoff said in a speech at Eastern Michigan University.

"I think we have had enough discussion of integration as a goal for someone. No one has yet explained to me why a child in a segregated school in the South is inhumanly harmed while a child in the North is not."

Ribicoff said that attention has been focused on the under-achieving child in America rather than the underachieving school.

"Teachers deserve higher salaries," he said, "but let's see if we can give an incentive for improving their skills. Let's develop continuing education programs for teachers."

"Massive school segregation does not exist because we have segregated schools but because we have segregated our society."

Ribicoff said the biggest problem is encouraging suburbs to provide housing for low income workers.

One solution might be for private industry to reduce its taxes into such areas until such housing is provided, he suggested, adding that federal government also should refuse to locate its facilities in suburbs that do not provide such housing.

Chamber Elects Its Officers

Dr. Harvey Pastel, a surgeon at Manchester Memorial Hospital, was elected president this morning of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce.

All of these men, with past president Harrison, will comprise the Chamber's executive committee.

The election took place in the Chamber Conference Room with the 19 present members of the Board of Directors and 48 representatives of the last board voted on names selected by the nominating committee.

The new officers will be introduced to the Chamber membership next Wednesday, at the annual Chamber dinner at Pina's Restaurant in Bolton. Their terms of office begin today.

Other officers elected are: Walter A. Morrissy, vice president of Hartford National Bank, as the Chamber's first vice president; Andrew Anasid Jr., vice president of the Andrew Anasid Co., second vice president; and Matthew M. Moriarty Jr., vice president of Moriarty Bros. Inc., treasurer.

Alfred L. Perrault, manager of Sears Roebuck and Co., and William H. Smith, president of Iona Manufacturing Co., were elected members-at-large.

Proposed Airport Opposed by WRPA

The 10-town Windham Regional Planning Agency, of which Coventry is a part, has unanimously opposed the state-proposed general aviation airport near Bolton-Coventry.

Several reasons for the opposition were cited, including that the airport, which would be located on 400 acres in Coventry, would violate the zoning laws of the town.

The Canadian Bank arrived this afternoon by plane, for rehearsal this afternoon. There will be another rehearsal to night followed by a social hour.

Six More File Damage Claims Against Town

The Manchester town council's office is investigating six more damage notices, all stemming from alleged misdeeds on town streets, to determine liability.

Town Counsel John Shas said that previous damage claims are not guaranteed automatic payments, and that the money paid out by the town varies greatly from that claimed.

Donald F. Mordavsky of 20 Sherwood Circle, and John D. Hickey of 21 Sherwood Circle, in notices filed in the town clerk's office, both claim that they hit potholes in the vicinity of N. Main St. and Tolland Tpk., both on April 1.

Mordavsky states that the front end of his car was thrown out of alignment. He seeks reimbursement but does not name a monetary figure.

Hickey is seeking $29.58 for a new tire and $8 for road service. He states that the tire went flat, damaged beyond repair, after he drove 20 miles, and from Hartford.

William J. Carter of Vernon seeks $147.00, to pay for repairs to the left front fender and left rocker arm of his 1964 car. He stated by his wife March 21 on Wells St., dropped into a culvert, with the result of damage.

Mrs. Joseph J. Lucas, also of Vernon, has presented an $81.46 claim for parts, $46.50 for labor and $1.06 tax. She claims that her car was damaged when it hit a pothole March 31 on N. Main St.

Ryan Knowles of 197 Maple St. has asked the town to make some kind of an adjustment on a $60.00 bill he paid for two damaged tires and front wheel alignment. Knowles claims the damage was caused March 27, when his car hit a pothole on Regent St. He submitted bills of $6.00 for the alignment and $60.00 for the tires.

John Juselle of 319 Charter Oak St. is seeking a $29.42 reimbursement, $42.52 for a new tire, $14 for a rim and $2.00 sales tax. He claims that his car, while being driven March 21 by his wife, hit a pothole on Hartford Rd., and that the mishap ruined the tire and rim.

Five of the six who filed the claims stated that they were instructed to do so by town employees, following verbal complaints.

Etlinger Named To College Post

Jay M. Etlinger of Norwich, former Manchester controller and former director of administration for the Town of Vernon, has been appointed chairman of the New Haven College Board of Public Administration, School of Business Administration. He had been assistant professor of Political Science at the college.

Etlinger was Manchester controller from August 1969 to February 1969. Before then he was city manager of Norwich and before then was assistant borough manager of Fairwinds.

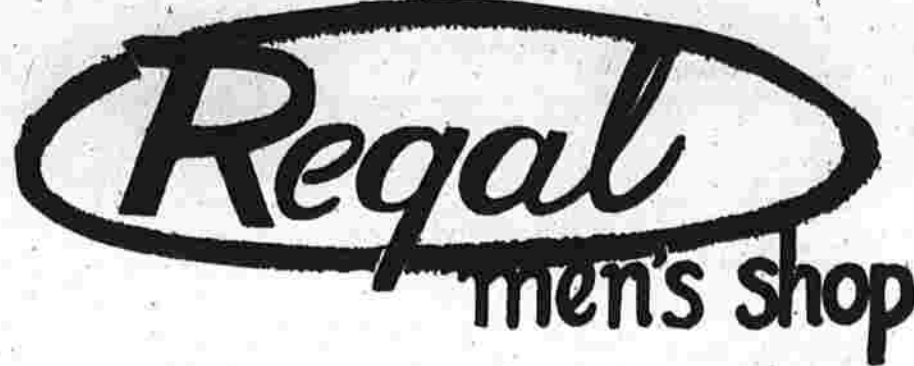

He left Manchester to become director of finance in Milford. In August 1968, he was named Vernon's director of administration and served until his resignation, in December 1967. In addition to teaching at New Haven College, he taught at UConn's Institute of Public Service for 12 years, on a part-time basis.

Court Cases

A probable cause hearing for David Hildebrand, 21, of 129 Birch St., ended shortly after it got under way yesterday when the state produced a witness to testify against the defendant.

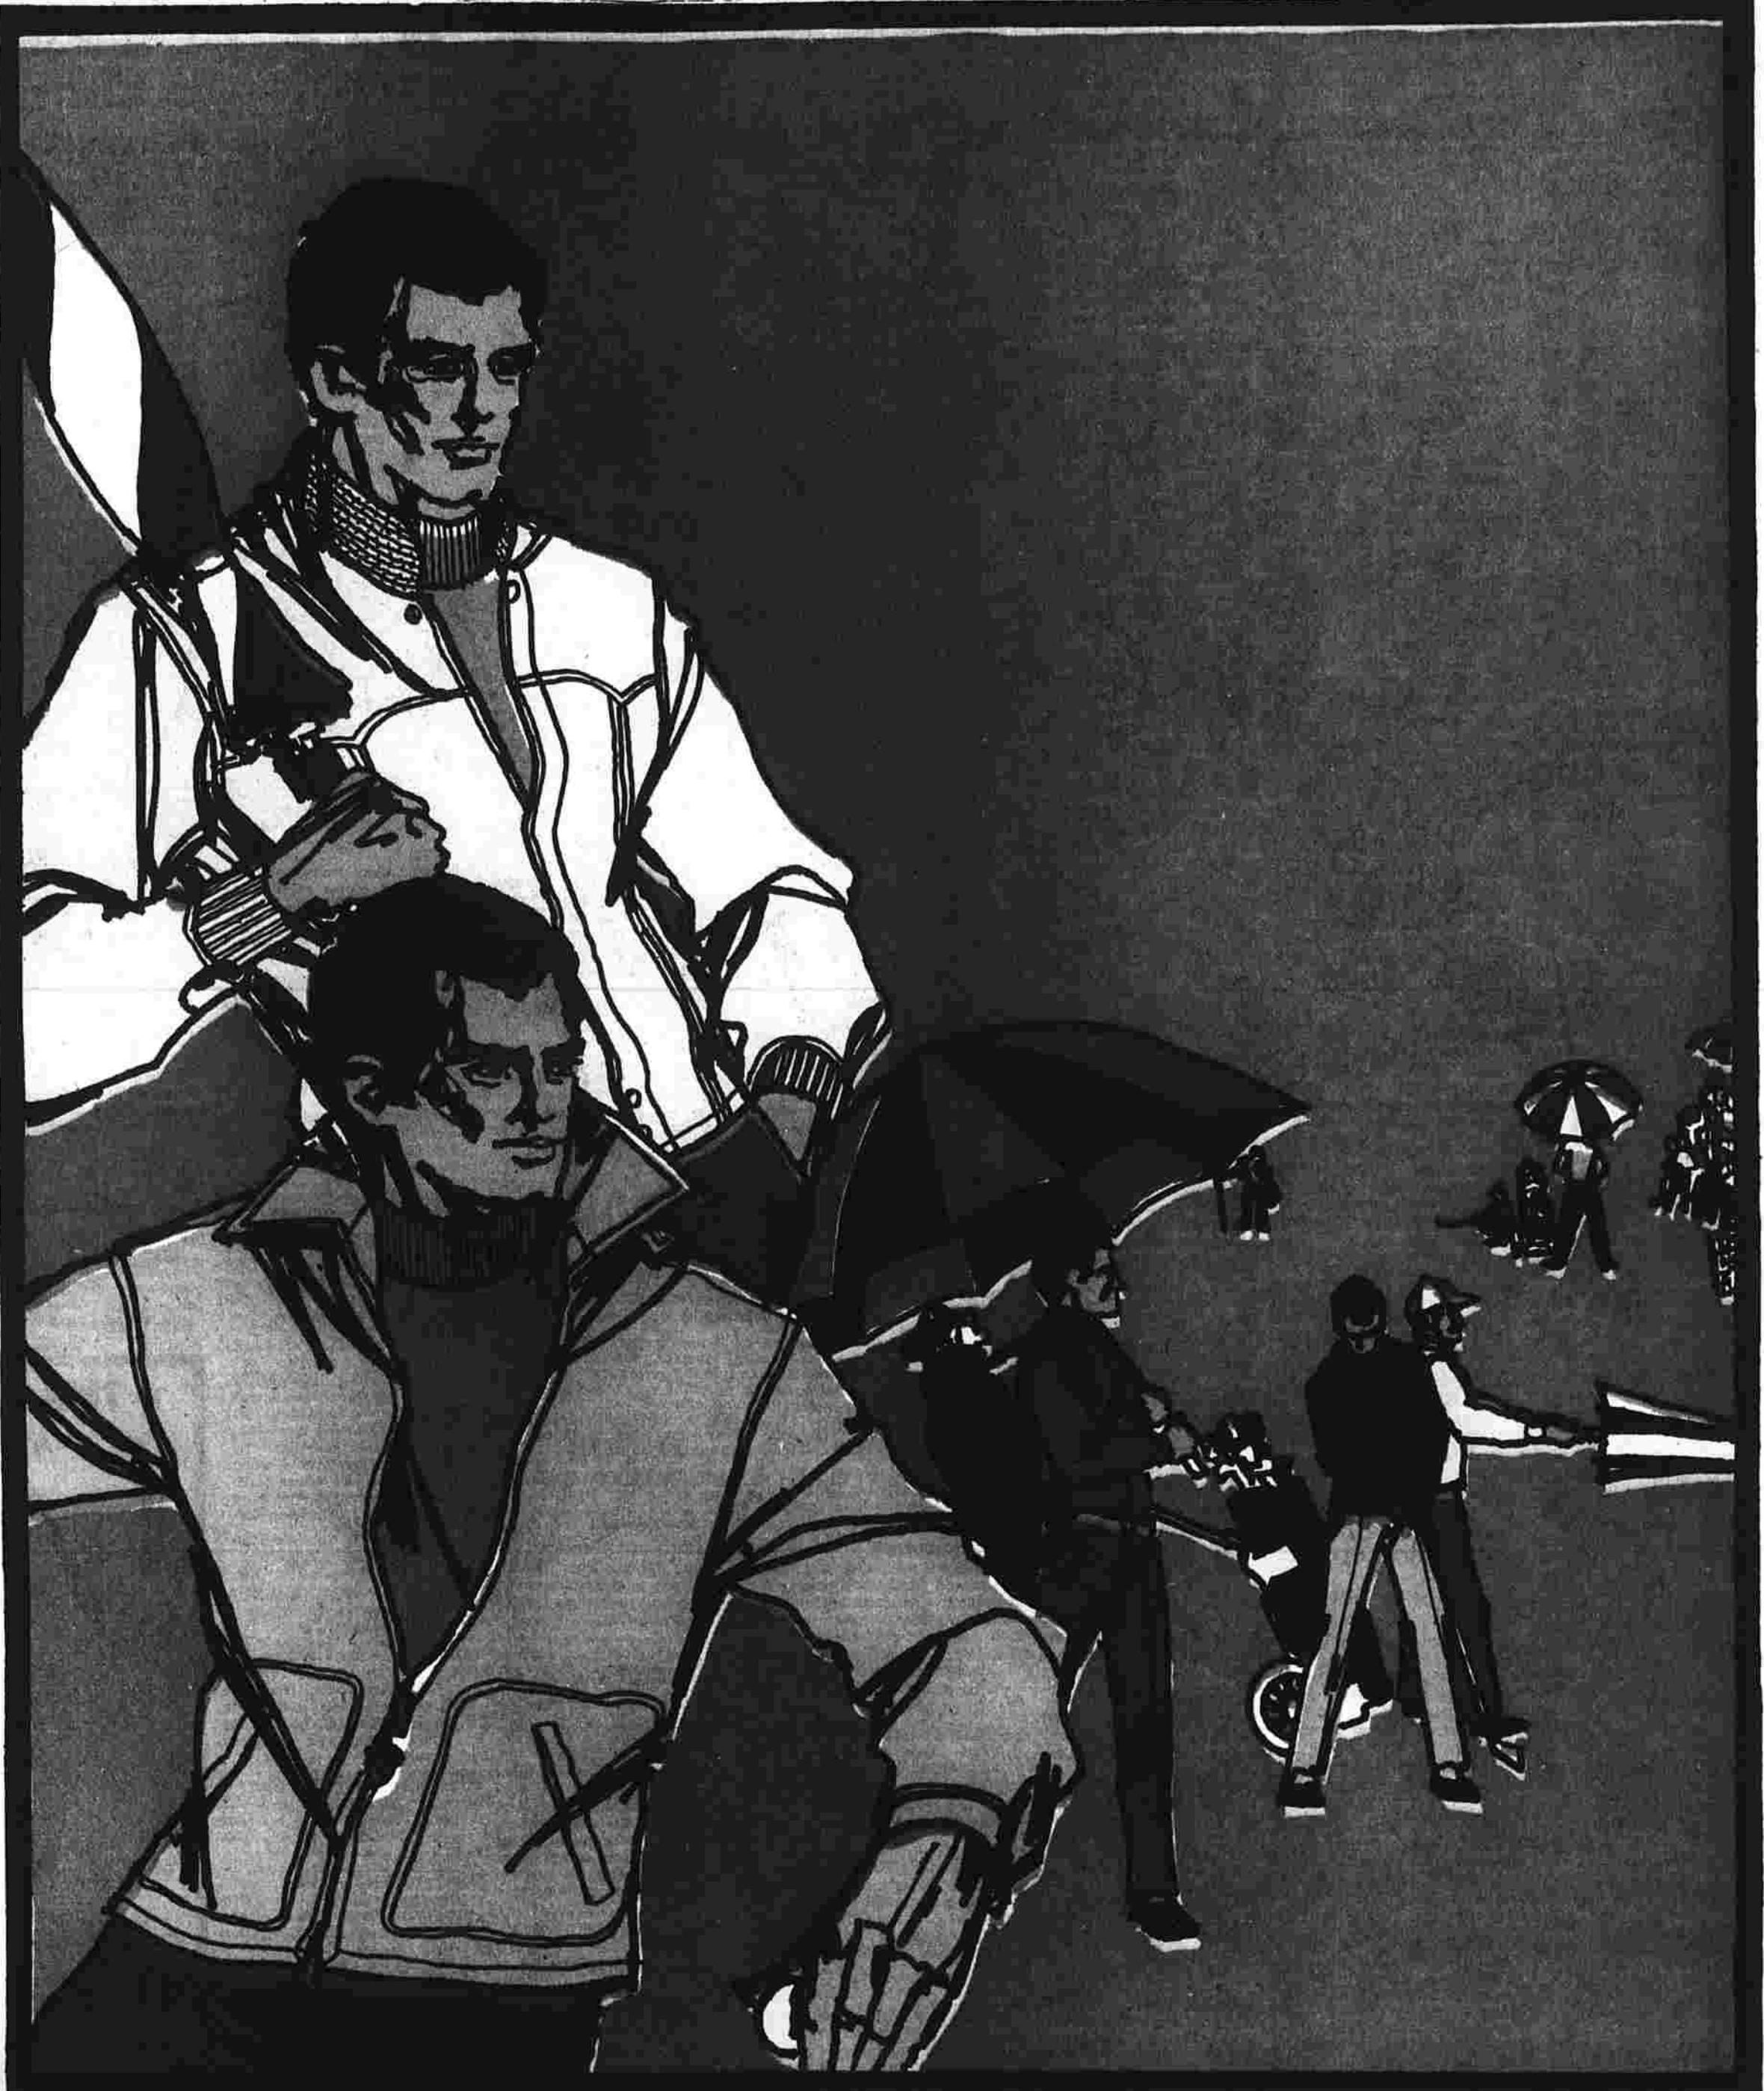

Hildebrand then waived hearing and Judge Bill Craner ordered him bound over to the next criminal session of Hartford County Superior Court under a $1,000 bond.

Hildebrand is facing counts of breaking and entering with criminal intent and larceny over $200, in connection with a hold until the October at Regal Men's Store on Main St.

New Names Arise For Top Court Post

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon's Northern search for a Supreme Court nominee is reported heading toward either a U.S. judge born and based in Maine or a federal appeals judge in Minnesota who has been a friend of Chief Justice Warren E. Burger since boyhood.

Kirk Sees Grave Threat In Florida

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—Again shunning a face-to-face meeting with a federal district judge, Gov. Claude Kirk sent two aides to a contempt hearing which took Manatee County's school desegregation case directly to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Kirk, in seeking a hearing before the high court, said through his attorneys in Washington Friday that "there is grave danger of loss of life" if the turmoil in Manatee County continues.

The Republican governor contends his assumption of control over Manatee schools and the 17,000 pupils is a matter that can only be dealt with by the Supreme Court. He has twice asked the U.S. District Judge Ben Kentman's orders to leave the school system alone and to appear before him on contempt citations.

Kirk sent his aides Loyd Hagan and Robert Hoffman and Manatee Sheriff Richard Weissenfeld and six deputies before Kentman Friday to hold contempt hearings.

Kentman, during the six-hour hearing, asked Hagan and Hoffman if they would obey the court's order.

In tears, Hagan replied: "I'll have to stay with my governor."

Hoffman followed: "Yes, your honor, I feel emotionally the same as Haganman does."

Asked the same question, Weissenfeld replied he could uphold the order of the court until he "receives another order from the governor."

Kirk's lawyer with federal court began last Sunday when he suspended the Manatee school board and appointed a new board, blocking a planned transfer of 2,000 pupils, who would be bused to schools up to 12 miles from their homes.

Sheriff's deputies blocked the path of federal officials attempting to enter Manatee school system's administration building before Gignoux in court, "I've always considered him to be a man of good character, a scholar, and a man of high integrity."

Another Democrat, Mayor Hugh C. Curran of Bridgeport, said his city's annual budget has increased 100 per cent since he first took office five years ago.

Speaking for the Connecticut League of Mayors, Curran said Bridgeport is far from unique. Of the state's 169 towns, 141 raised their tax rates last year, he said.

The mayors presented a set of charts to document their contention that Connecticut's state government is stingy in its aid to local governments, compared to most other states.

One chart showed that state funds paid only 17.8 per cent of local government costs in 1968, compared to the nationwide 26.5 per cent.

Illness Means Plaque Change

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The space agency had to hurry to get a new plaque made for permanent placement on the moon when it was decided to swap astronauts.

The plaque, with the words "Apollo 13" "Aquarius" and the date, also had the signature of the three crewmen on the flight. It is affixed to the ladder of the landing craft, which remains on the moon.

Donald K. Slayton, the astronaut boss, said that after it was decided to replace measles-prone Thomas K. Mattingly II with John L. Swigert Jr., a new plaque was ordered in Houston and would be flown to Cape Kennedy in time for the launch.

There was one personalized item that didn't need to be changed.

On previous Apollo flights the crew patches have borne their last names. But for Apollo 13 the only inscription was "Ex Luna, Scientia" — "From the Moon, Knowledge."

Connecticut Income Tax Gets Support

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—A parade of municipal executives went before the State Revenue Task Force Friday to tell the group their financial problems.

The stories were the same no matter what party they were from. The cities, they said, need more help from the state and can't get much more money from the property tax that they've been relying on so far.

Mayor Donald T. Dorsey, of Meriden, a fellow Republican of Gov. J. M. O'Connell, said that in little more than two years in office he has developed "a sense of despair" about coping with his city's problems.

"There aren't any solutions that we can find at the local level," said Dorsey, who said he won't be disappointed if the General Assembly's appropriations for aid to education are cut.

"A state income tax is not only necessary but inevitable," said Mayor Frank Zullo of Norwalk, a Democrat.

Another Democrat, Mayor Hugh C. Curran of Bridgeport, said his city's annual budget has increased 100 per cent since he first took office five years ago.

Speaking for the Connecticut League of Mayors, Curran said Bridgeport is far from unique. Of the state's 169 towns, 141 raised their tax rates last year, he said.

The mayors presented a set of charts to document their contention that Connecticut's state government is stingy in its aid to local governments, compared to most other states.

One chart showed that state funds paid only 17.8 per cent of local government costs in 1968, compared to the nationwide 26.5 per cent.

All of it pointing to this day: Apollo 13, man's third mission to the moon.

Did Mattingly make any comments, Slayton was asked. "Did he make any comments?" Slayton retorted incredulously. "Yes, but you wouldn't want to write any of them down."

Countdown Goes Smoothly For Riskiest Lunar Landing

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The countdown proceeded smoothly today as the Apollo 13 astronauts prepared for man's riskiest lunar landing expedition, a search for clues to the origin of the moon and solar system in rugged ancient highlands.

James A. Lovell Jr., 42; Fred W. Haise Jr., 34, and late replacement John L. Swigert Jr., 38, awakened at 4:28 a.m. and received the good news that everything was on schedule for the journey away from their home planet.

Swigert crisscrossed the launch area before scheduled lift off, after a remarkable and unprecedented brief medical examination, a search for clues to the origin of the moon and solar system in rugged ancient highlands.

Five miles from the crew quarters, the launch crew pumped thousands of gallons of supercold liquid oxygen and liquid hydrogen into the Saturn 5 rocket that was to blast off at 2:13 p.m. EDT.

The astronauts had slept about eight hours. They underwent a brief medical examination and sat down to the traditional launch day breakfast of steak, eggs, toast, coffee and orange juice.

Doctors reported all three in "top shape" for the mission. "The disappointed Mattingly did not stay at Cape Kennedy for the launching. He flew to his home near Houston's Manned Spacecraft Center Friday night.

The weatherman forecast cloudy but satisfactory conditions for the planned launch time.

The target for man's third lunar mission is the mountainous Fra Mauro region where the astronauts hope to find rocks dating perhaps five billion years to the beginning of the moon.

In the most difficult space maneuver ever attempted, Lovell and Haise are to steer their lunar lander toward a precision touchdown in a narrow valley surrounded by high hills, ridges, craters and rocks as big as automobiles.

The countdown for America's third moon-landing expedition proceeded smoothly because Swigert proved in a crash two-day trial that he could move from the Apollo 13 backup team to the first team.

The decision to fly Swigert was made less than 24 hours before the scheduled launching. If Swigert hadn't made it, the launching would have been postponed until May 9 at a cost of at least $800,000.

He got his chance when another backup astronaut, Charles Duke, exposed the prime crewmen, Lovell, Haise and Thomas Mattingly II.

Swigert's mission is to land in the rugged highlands of Fra Mauro on the eastern shore of the Ocean of Storms where they hope to find rocks dating back perhaps five billion years to the creation of the solar system.

Apollo 13 Timetable Highlights

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Here is a timetable of the highlights of the Apollo 13 mission: (Time Eastern Standard)

2:13 p.m.—Launch 4:48 p.m.—Fire out of earth orbit, on route moon. 6:13 p.m.—Pull lunar module from third stage, join it nose-to-nose with command ship.

Tuesday 7:38 p.m.—Fire engine to go into lunar orbit, 60 x 105 miles above surface. 7:59 p.m.—Third stage boosters crunched on moon. 11:08 p.m.—Go into lower orbit, 60 x 8 miles.

Wednesday 5:29 p.m.—Two vehicles separate, James A. Lovell Jr. and Fred W. Haise in lunar lander, now named Aquarius; John L. Swigert Jr. remains in mother ship, now known as Odyssey. 9:55 p.m.—Aquarius lands on moon in Fra Mauro highlands.

Thursday 2:23 a.m.—Lovell, then Haise, and Swigert begin lunar surface activities. (See Page Five)

Friday 11:08 a.m.—Swigert begins lunar surface activities. (See Page Five)

Saturday 11:08 a.m.—Swigert begins lunar surface activities. (See Page Five)

Moon Flight At-A-Glance

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Here are the facts and figures of the Apollo 13 mission:

As a result of the mission: Mission commander James A. Lovell Jr., 42; civilian John L. Swigert Jr., 38; civilian Fred W. Haise Jr., 36.

Purpose: Man's third moon landing. Lovell and Haise are to descend to the rugged highlands of Fra Mauro on the eastern shore of the Ocean of Storms where they hope to find rocks dating back perhaps five billion years to the creation of the solar system.

Swigert's mission is to land in the rugged highlands of Fra Mauro on the eastern shore of the Ocean of Storms where they hope to find rocks dating back perhaps five billion years to the creation of the solar system.

$2,000,000 a Year Spent In U.S. on Sleep Research

By RUDY ABRAMSON The Los Angeles Times

WASHINGTON — Dr. Fredrick Snyder would like to search out the most primitive corner of the world just to find how its people sleep.

He has an idea they dream more than we do, or at least they spend more sleeping time in a mysterious state called REM when dreams occur.

After nearly two decades of research, the REM condition—named for the rapid eye movements that characterize it—remains one of the most interesting puzzles in human biology.

Scientists from all over the world studying both the physiology and psychology of sleep will gather next month in Santa Fe, N.M. to put together the next best pieces of the puzzle.
