the corner. Somebody has unlimited confidence in the future. The economy, it is proclaimed, is fundamentally sound. It is when this kind of stuff starts slipping through and getting at us that we come closest to worrying.

"May The Worst Man Lose"

Two of the nation's most ambitious, most ruthless, most intelligent, most astute, most arrogant, most important, and most familiar leaders almost surely will oppose each other for governor of New York this year.

One is Nelson Aldrich Rockefeller, 61, the incumbent. He has been governor for so long (since January of 1959) that high-school seniors could hardly remember the time when anyone else ruled in Albany. Rockefeller runs like a broken faucet. He first ran in 1958, for governor; in 1960, for President; in 1964, for governor; in 1968, for President; and now, in 1970, for President.

The other is Arthur Joseph Goldberg, who also is Goldberg down the road for public office—but he has run for appointive office! Even in his union career, he was never elected to office—and never held anything but a honorary membership in a union. In 1961, John Kennedy appointed him to the U.S. Supreme Court. In 1965 President Johnson named him ambassador to the United Nations.

Rockefeller has the Republican nomination for governor wrapped up. No surprise, Rockefeller has managed to wrap up the Republican Party of New York state. It is his personal fiefdom, greased and manipulated by his staggering bank roll.

Goldberg still has some problems, largely growing out of the fact that he is a Democrat. No one controls New York's Democratic Party. Some very smart people even wonder there is a Democratic Party in that state.

It was becoming difficult to understand why so many volunteer crusaders, including many members of the activist clergy, were proclaiming, even before it had started, that the New Haven trial was going to be a "ditching," but seemed to be forgetting, somehow, that the trial was being held because there had allegedly been some "tyrching" which had already taken place.

It was also difficult to appreciate the propriety of having the student body at Yale being acting as if it had somehow been admitted into the case as a sort of mass amicus curiae, entitled to evaluate the evidence before it had been presented, and render the verdict before the case had been argued.

There should be only one question properly before the court at New Haven. Was murder done, and if so, by whom? Until the Connecticut system of justice has begun to demonstrate anything unhappily different, the assumption should be, out of deference to its high traditions and its unimpaired confidence in the past, that the Connecticut system of justice is going to be able to handle this case as if there were no color of skin and no ideological label involved.

For those who truly believe in that kind of justice — and who perhaps believe in letting a system of justice exhibit itself before they sit in ruthless judgment on the system — the proper formula is to treat the trial as if it were a trial, not an inquisition, not a demonstration, and not something to be decided by any mass unworn jury recruited from either ghetto or university.

Goldberg should win the endorsement of the state's committee, he should win the primary, and he should beat Nelson Rockefeller.

Rockefeller was vulnerable four years ago, but in his ultimate confidence and wisdom, chose little Frank O'Connor to oppose him. Rockefeller, way down in the polls at the outset of his campaign, waged the most expensive state-wide campaign in American history, costing, by my own estimate at the time, about $6,000,000. O'Connor was overwhelmed.

This time, though, Rockefeller's opponent is one of the best-known men in America. Polls show that almost every voter in New York recognizes Goldberg's name. This is an immense advantage; it means the Democrats won't have to spend a penny to establish name identification.

Goldberg, the polls show, could beat Rockefeller by anything from 10 to 20 points.

Democrats are mesmerized by polls. Most of them are also illiterate about polls. Democrats continue to accept the curious notion that a poll somehow forecasts how an election will turn out. It does no such thing. It merely gives a very overcast indication of how a hypothetical election might turn out at the time the poll was taken.

"Arthur will never look better than he does today," says a reform Democrat. "From now on (chuckle), it's all downhill."

Wishful thinking, of course. Maybe Goldberg can campaign. Maybe he will be able to put together a smart, sophisticated organization that will even know how to interpret polls.

There is only one possible gap in our armor, only one thing that still goes wrong occasionally.

Now and then we see that some government economist is predicting that economic expansion is about to follow some temporary downturn. Something very pleasant, it seems, is just around

THE HON. MRS. GRAHAM: THOMAS GAINSBOROUGH

Inside Report

By Rowland Evans Jr. Robert D. Novak

SWAY RIENG PROVINCE, Cambodia — The perilous situation of Cambodian troops in this southern border province last week reflected how difficult the immediate fate of Cambodia rests with the North Vietnamese politburo.

Not long before the province capital, faced Vietnamese Communist troops on the north, south, and east. A Cambodian brigade was dug in on a mile-long line east of the city facing the Communist-held town of Prasat, after having retreated from the borders. For a month, the Cambodian army has been entrenching to defend the capital of Svay Rieng and other border provinces.

Its chances range from poor to hopeless. The army, hastily expanded from 10,000 to 28,000 combat soldiers, is poorly trained, unevenly led, and horribly equipped. It faces battle-seasoned North Vietnamese regulars. In what action there has been as they withdrew from the border, the Cambodians fared badly.

Typically, an attempt to retake Prasat from the Communists failed when a North Vietnamese B-40 rocket disabled a rickety Cambodian armored car leading the advance. Moreover, the Communist "line" we visit, scarcely a quarter-mile from Prasat, can be enveloped in both ends by the Communists anytime they desire.

In sum, the options are bleak. If it wants to press into the national capital of Phnom Penh and set up a puppet government under Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the Cambodians cannot successfully resist. More likely, however, the Communists will be content to solidify their hold on the border provinces essential to them as sanctuary and logistical base for the Vietnam war.

This would mean de facto partition of Cambodia. The border provinces would be controlled wholly by Hanoi with Prince Sihanouk possibly shipped in from Peking for a vestige of legality. The Western-leaning government of Gen. Lon Nol would control the rest of the country but would be in precarious shape indeed.

Accordingly, unless the Nixon administration responds with prompt help for the Lon Nol regime, the golden opportunity of March 18 when Sihanouk was deposed will have been lost. Hanoi's Cambodian sanctuary will be more secure than ever.

What it makes Cambodia's plight particularly lamentable is that this is no civil war at all but a Communist Vietnamese invasion against their former host. At this writing there has been no Cambodian Communist guerrilla activity. Pleasant demonstrations in Sihanouk's behalf, whipped up by the Prince's provincial officials immediately after his fall, ended the Lon Nol government's anti-patriotism based on anti-Vietnamese feeling has polarized the Lon Nol government for Hanoi. According to this theory, the overriding motive of the coup was to substitute 20th century government for Sihanouk's capricious autocracy, and the demand that Communist troops leave Cambodia was merely a bid for chauvinistic support.

Traveling through the imperiled border regions, we observed a spirit absent from war-torn South Vietnam. Recruits bound for the front on buses wove and cheer. The confidant, poignantly naive, of Cambodian officers is typified by a brigade commander who has a lieutenant in the French colonial army 30 years ago who fought the Communist in Vietnam. His troops facing encirclement by Vietcong at Neak Leung Ferry on the Mekong River, the colonel contended was declared. "We know this Vietcong as we know our household dogs."

Some Western diplomats in Phnom Penh fear that this national patriotism based on anti-Vietnamese feeling has polarized the Lon Nol government for Hanoi. According to this theory, the overriding motive of the coup was to substitute 20th century government for Sihanouk's capricious autocracy, and the demand that Communist troops leave Cambodia was merely a bid for chauvinistic support.

Such clear national sentiment is little else against superior military might. Cambodia, indeed, is at Hanoi's mercy. That Washington should permit this when the stakes are so large is remarkable and deserves discussion in a subsequent column.

Connecticut Yankee

By A.H.O.

The game we have been playing with the multiple press agencies of the 1970 Connecticut Yankee campaign has been complicated by the trouble some of the candidates themselves have had in trying to comply with the ethics concerning use of the Congressional frank, or free mailing privilege.

What the press agents of the various candidates have to try, with us, is some strategy which will keep or trick us into opening their mail.

Our line of defense, on those days when we feel like shutting the 1970 campaign off, temporarily at least, is not to open anything that looks like a campaign material.

To tell the truth, the press agents have been warring the battle, all along. When they send us their stuff in an unmarked envelope, from some strange post office which is not their candidate's home base of operations, we fall for it.

When they take the bold gambit, and use special big type on the outside of the envelope to announce the kind of envelope, we shake our heads, we are shocked, we are amazed.

But soon after some of our present members of Congress began to get into the mail, we discovered that we had discovered a reliable formula which would win us, every time.

Where we got it from, members of Congress, we could separate those envelopes which were stamped with the name of the congressman, and those which were being mailed under the Congressional frank.

In the Washington legislator had elected to pay for the mail himself, that meant that the material inside was political in nature. It also meant, of course, that the legislator in question was using the highest of ethical standards. If the envelope, like the normal mail from Washington legislators, was being delivered unopened, but to be conscientious payers, that meant the material inside concerned the public interest rather than the personal political business of the legislator.

It seemed a foolproof system, therefore, to leave the stamped mail from Washington unopened, but to be conscientious about that which arrived under the frank.

This, then, was the system we installed. But it so happened that the second piece of unstamped mail we opened contained a schedule of a Congressman's meeting with Vermont's representatives in Washington. We were in for a surprise.

Either the press agents had misled our scheme before we began it, and outwitted us from the start, or the status of apparently minor local injuries received when it tripped while fighting the fire.

Vacant Buildings Guttled in Blaze

In New Haven

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — A four-alarm fire—the second blaze within 24 hours—gutted three vacant tenement buildings early today.

All out-of-duty firemen were called to their stations shortly after the blaze broke out at 11:31 p.m. Wednesday. They served as backup for the companies fighting the blaze at the 246-284 James St. buildings in the Fair Haven part of the city.

Although the blaze was brought under control within about an hour, the three tenement houses were heavily damaged. Firemen evacuated seven families from adjacent apartment houses and sprayed the buildings with water to protect them from the heat at the height of the fire.

The cause of the fire was not immediately known. One fireman was taken to St. Raphael Hospital for treatment of apparently minor back injuries received when he tripped while fighting the fire.

Fight Looms in Congress Over Space Shuttle Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — A fight over funds for the space shuttle and station loomed today as the House called up a $4.4 billion authorization bill for the nation's space program.

"This is the start of the manned Mars landing program," Rep. Joseph E. Karth, D-Minn., said of the $190 million programmed for the shuttle. "It is too early to go into this."

The space shuttle program, envisioned for the last half of the decade, is designed to ferry men and materials to and from an earth-orbiting space station.

The spending ceiling for the program is included in the over-all bill which the House Science and Astronautics Committee increased about $30 million over President Nixon's budget. The bill was passed out to the Apollo program and space flight operations.

But Karth, chairman of a House space science and applications subcommittee, said that the House would be available through its office of advanced research and technology if the application at Manchester Hospital was the subject of a two-part story published Aug. 12 and 13, 1969, in The Herald, 1977, $300 million the next year.

All of the funds authorized are subject to later appropriations by Congress.

Dr. Pierre Velly, French Doctor to Describe Lemaze Childbirth Method

Dr. Pierre Velly of Paris, France will present three films and a talk on the Lemaze method of prepared childbirth.

The Lemaze method and its application at Manchester Hospital was the subject of a two-part story published Aug. 12 and 13, 1969, in The Herald, 1977, $300 million the next year.

All of the funds authorized are subject to later appropriations by Congress.

Dr. Velly is considered to be one of the world's foremost authorities on the Lemaze method. Lemaze (pronounced Lemnha) is a relatively new method of childbirth in this country.

The method was introduced to the western world by Dr. Fernand Lemaze in Paris in 1951 after he had seen it in Russia.

The chief aspects of the Lemaze method include full explanation of the birth process (both parents must attend classes during pregnancy), brushing techniques to minimize pain and speed delivery, the husband's presence during labor, and the use of a minimum amount of drugs.

Dr. Velly has been in New York at an international gathering of obstetricians and gynecologists and he is coming to Manchester as a favor to Dr. Philip E. Sumner of Manchester who studied under him. His visit is sponsored by the Manchester Obstetrics Associates and is open to the public. There will be a fee charge.

Manchester Memorial Hospital has made provisions for the parents who want to use the Lemaze method. A year before makes a person immune so, the hospital set up a special room for the birth process.

The room is separated from the other delivery rooms and has a private lavatory for the husband, drapes, pictures on walls, and a mirror so the couple can watch the birth of their child.

and some minor firms were set at the school, police said.

Signers of the statement to day included representatives of the Young Women's Christian Association, the Community Council, Farmham Neighborhood House, New Haven Community Schools, and Ralph Ogilla, an assistant to New Haven Superintendent of Schools Gerald Barbaree.

Barbaree had urged parents Wednesday to see that students were in school, even if they were to attend classes with their parents. Today about half of Hillside High School's 1,546 students were absent. About one third of East High's 1,450 students and Wilbur Cross High's 1,800 students also were missing.

Barbaree said after the damage at Hillside that the community is "presently faced with the most serious problem of public education" in the history of the city. He blamed certain individuals who have "been constantly encouraging youngsters to leave school."

In addition to Ogilla and Norman Taylor, executive director of the community council, the signers of the letter urging the Black Coalition to formulate a program to "avoid innocent citizens becoming the victims of physical violence" were: William DeGeorge of Farmham Neighborhood House; Samuel Burrell of the city recreation department; Gerald Tibbitt of New Haven Community Schools; and Mrs. Frances Wiborg, executive director of the YWCA.

Six More U.S. Planes Shot Down

reported that two South Vietnamese tank forces thrusting into North Vietnamese military camps inside Cambodia have uncovered two of the biggest munitions and medical stockpiles of the war along with tons of enemy documents.

Sweeping in more than a hundred armored personnel carriers to 70 miles west of Phnom Penh, the South Vietnamese on Wednesday seized 20 tons of munitions, five tons of medical supplies, and 150 rifles. They reported killing 16 North Vietnamese.

Reports from the field said four South Vietnamese soldiers were wounded.

Some 5,000 North Vietnamese troops are in the two forces which since Monday have pushed as much as 15 miles into Cambodia along a 30-mile stretch of the frontier. Since the operation, the South Vietnamese have claimed 23 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong killed and 19 captured. North reports say 28 North Vietnamese have been killed and 200 wounded.

The total stockpiles seized include more than 1,000 rifles, two tons of mines, mortar tubes, rocket launchers, anti-aircraft machine guns and eight flamethrowers. More than 200 of the rifles were Russian-made.

The U.S. Command announced that a twin-engine American Martin observation plane was shot down Tuesday off the southern part of the Indochina peninsula, one crewman was rescued, and another was missing. It was the fifth American plane reported lost in that region in the past week.

an indefatigable position against sharing the administration's power with the students.

The student legislature called for the Rev. McInnes' resignation and creation of a ruling body in which students, teachers and administrators would have equal say in the running of the school.

Another resolution adopted by the student legislature Wednesday called for the faculty to set up classes outside the classrooms and to refrain from marking down students who took part in the strike.

Dennis Gallagher, a student leader, said the rights of students who don't want to strike will be respected, and no one will be expelled from attending class.

Voting in the referendum was held on today in the student center.

Ex-Town Man Guest Preacher

The Rev. Robert Wright, minister of the First Congregational Church of Woodbury and formerly of Manchester, will preach on "Love Is an Action" at 9:15 and 11 a.m. Sunday at Center Congregational Church.

Wright was with the Rev. Clifford O. Simpson.

The Rev. Mr. Wright is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wright of Avery Heights, Hartford, formerly of Green Road.

He attended Manchester schools and was a 1946 graduate of Manchester High School.

Wright is a member of the Congregational Church, he attended his church school and was a member of his Young People's Club serving as its president for one year. As he studied for the ministry, the Rev. Mr. Simpson was his advisor in-care of the Hartford Field Association.

Rev. Mr. Wright's ordination in December 1960 at West Suffield, the Rev. Mr. Simpson gave the charge to the minister.

The guest preacher attended Syracuse (N.Y.) University and in 1960 graduated from Drury College, Springfield, Mo. He attended Andover Theological School and received his bachelor of divinity degree from Hartford Theological Seminary.

He served as executive director of the Boys' Village in Hartford for four years and as pastor of the Second Congregational Church of Suffield for nine years before assuming his present pastorate last year. He is married to the former Florence Kamenberg of Meriden, and the couple has five children.

Agnew last week told a Republican audience congressionally that he might seek action, either in the committee or in the Senate, on an independent U.S. postal service.

"The Vice President, in his partisan remarks, has introduced a divisive note into what has been a nonpartisan, pragmatic attempt to deal with the very real problems facing the Post Office Department," McGee said in a statement.

In testimony Wednesday before the House Post Office Committee, Postmaster General Winton M. Blount, when asked about Agnew's remarks, said he was a "total supporter" of the bill. He said former President Lyndon B. Johnson also backed the postal corporation plan.

Blount supported a proposed two-cent increase in the first-class stamp rate of 6 cents. He said the move was needed to help pay for an anticipated $2.5 billion deficit arising from new postal grants payable to states.

Covenry Cuts Seen Certain In Education Budget

The Town Council and the Board of Education have held a meeting to discuss the school board requests prior to the May hearing on the 1970-71 budget. Following a thorough review of the board's document, the council agreed that cuts are inevitable, although the decision on how much to cut will be made after the town meeting.

Rep. Thaddeus J. Dulski, D-N.Y., chairman of the House panel, said it will begin next week marking up the plan in hopes of putting it on the floor quickly.

The legislation is a result of an agreement between government and union negotiators reached after the nation's first school strike spread to large sections of the country last month.

This marked the first formal meeting between the school board and the new Town Council, since this is the first year there has been a Town Council responsible for the budget. In the past, the Board of Finance had this responsibility but now the Town Council has replaced that agency as well as the Board of Selectmen.

In the past, particularly last year, the Board of Finance and the Board of Education have been struggling at best, and meetings to talk about proposed budgets have often broken out into sharp exchanges between the two bodies.

In this week's meeting, the Town Council will review a document prepared by the school board, which includes a list of requested increases, and a list of possible cuts. The document also includes a list of possible cuts, which are available at the Town Hall.

Court Cases

CIRCUIT 13
Manchester Session

Alfred F. Mercurio, 26, of West Hartford was ordered to pay $1,000 in damages and $100 in costs in a lawsuit filed by the Board of Education.

Mercurio was charged with interfering with the school board's duties by publishing a false article in the Hartford Post regarding the school board's financial situation.

The court found that Mercurio's article was defamatory and caused the school board to incur legal expenses. The judge ordered Mercurio to pay the school board's legal fees and damages.

First Full Dean

Godi Gets Promotion To Dean of Students

Harry S. Godi of 45 Discovery Rd., Vernon, currently associate dean of students at Manchester Community College, will become the first full dean of students in the eight-college state system of regional community colleges on July 1.

His promotion was one of 36 faculty promotions announced by the Board of Trustees for Regional Community Colleges at its meeting Monday in New Haven.

Dean Godi came to MCC in 1966 as registrar and director of admissions from a similar post at Quinnipiac College in New Haven. A native of 1938 from the University of Bridgeport, and an MA from Fairfield University, he was named associate dean of administration at MCC in 1967. He is also deputy director of the Center for Student Personal Assessment.

Assistant professors of English promoted to associate professors are Martin L. Blimero of Burlington College and Richard M. Eller of Olanetown.

Instructors named assistant professors are Robert F. Mansfield of 427 Abby Rd., South Windsor; John A. Crum of 211 Hillside Dr., East Hartford; and Miss Mary Ann Bianchi of 1100 Downey Dr., Wallingford.

Most of the colleges have announced social events planned for the year. The annual "College Week" will be held at the University of Connecticut in Storrs, Conn., from May 11-15. The event will feature a variety of activities, including lectures, seminars, and social events.

Yale Students Protest Trial Of Panthers

The Black Panther group has provoked much discussion at Yale, and a massive demonstration was planned for the New Haven Green on May 1.

The masters of Yale's 12 residential colleges met Tuesday to discuss plans for providing food, shelter and first aid on campus for the May 1 demonstrators.

"We are all aware that some students have predicted that violence must inevitably occur," said Elias Clark, master of Hillside College. "We must be prepared to deal with the situation if it arises."

The student strike that began Wednesday followed a meeting of Yale students and teachers the night before.

About one-third to one-half of the university's 4,000 undergraduates have taken part in what the organizers called "a non-coercive shutdown." Those who did not attend classes were not interfered with by students picketing a number of Yale buildings.

A mimeographed statement supporting the strike said it involved the Black Panther Party, racism, to black and white workers and students.

The strike was called by the Black Panther Party and was supported by many students and teachers.

Electoral Reform Weighed

Under the Constitution, the House elects the president, each state delegation having one vote. If no candidate wins a majority,

A constitutional amendment not only has to be approved by two-thirds of the House and two-thirds of the Senate, but also by three-fourths of the states.

The presidential election process was last changed in 1964 to avoid the situation that occurred in 1800 when Thomas Jefferson and Aaron Burr tied for the office in the Electoral College. The system then provided the candidate winning the most electoral votes would be president, the runner-up vice president.

The library currently possesses four microfilm readers and has on file many films of genealogical value. These films are available in the library and are loaned on a rental basis for a small fee from the Society's library.

The library is located in Ball Lake City, Utah.

Microfilming is the heart of the Genealogical Society's record-keeping program. Photographers are filming vital records daily in locations all over the world. Nearly half a million 1-foot rolls of microfilm have been accumulated thus far—the equivalent of more than two million printed volumes of 800 pages each. These films are filed in one of six large storage rooms of the Granite Mountain Records Vault in Utah. Built by the church in order to protect the valuable collection from destruction, the vault's storage facility is protected by 600 feet of solid rock overhead.

The vault will be open each weekday evening from 7 to 9 p.m., and Monday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Two Boys Caught In School Break

Police, responding to a complaint of a break into Benet Junior High School, caught two youths in a room on the second floor of the school on Monday night.

The boys, who were caught at 9:30 p.m., were charged with breaking and entering with criminal intent. They were identified as Robert J. Kelly and Michael A. Marino, 16, of 22 Joseph Lane, West Hartford.

Police set the boys of $5,000 each, which the youths were unable to post, and they were placed in the police lockup to await presentation at today's court session.

At the court session, the parents of the boys were present, and Judge Bill Cromer granted a $5,000 bond for each boy, setting 600 non-surety bonds and continuing the cases to May 11.

On April 2, received a 30-day suspended sentence from the court because of a probation violation. Cromer suspended the sentence for 30 days, and the boys were placed on probation after pleading guilty to a substitute charge of breaking and entering.

The boys were charged with breaking and entering with criminal intent.

Manifold Wants Action On Troop Cuts in Europe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Mansfield today called for a substantial reduction of American troops in Europe, promising only to reconsider the question in mid-1971.

"The resolution is a rallying point and a symbol," Mansfield said.

It was learned, however, that Mansfield is considering a head-on approach to the troop cut issue when the Senate considers legislation authorizing and appropriating funds for the Defense Department later this year.

Democratic sources said that could take the form of an amendment seeking to impose a flat ceiling on U.S. forces posted in Western Europe, or an effort to cut the military budget in a fashion that would require manpower reductions.

Mansfield would not discuss his strategy.

The issue may reach the Senate early in the summer, and it could lead to a clash between the Democratic leadership there and the administration's position to oppose such legislation.

There are now some 310,000 American troops in Europe, about 220,000 dependents, and 14,000 civilian employees of the military.

Mansfield said the cost last year was more than $1.6 billion. After West German Chancellor Willy Brandt declared his opposition to U.S. reductions, Mansfield warned in the Senate that resistance to troop cuts would mean "the more the more the more."

Mansfield said he isn't advocating a total pullout, but considers a substantial reduction "the only way to meet the long-term needs of Europe."

"But we simply cannot slow down the forward thrust of our military," he said.

Radar Failure Blamed For Pilgrim Crash

NEW YORK (AP) — Federal investigators blame radar failure aboard a Pilgrim Airlines plane as one of the reasons the two-engine jet plunged into Long Island Sound on Feb. 10, killing the lives of all five persons on board.

Air controllers at Kennedy airport were forced to order the plane out of a holding pattern there because the plane's transponder, which was working properly, failed to respond to the board's instructions.

The plane, which was headed for New York from Groton, Conn., then turned back toward Groton and crashed into the water. The plane was carrying 49 passengers and 5 crew members.

Shultz Warns Pay Hikes May Hurt Nation's Economy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Secretary of Labor George P. Shultz warned today that big pay increases in long-term labor contracts could cause a national economic crisis, and labor unions have settled for pay increases substantially below the national rise in living costs and another sought an agreement.

Shultz told 1,000 United Auto Workers at a convention in Atlantic City, N.J., Wednesday.

"We suggest, in your own interest, that you don't pin yourself to unrealistic contracts projected far into the future," he said.

He cited some three-year construction contracts for wage increases of 15 percent a year as a "recipe for economic disaster."

The attitudes of the organization have been tempered, Shultz said, by the fact that the workers are not in a position to demand more.

He predicted living costs would rise 10 percent in 1970. In Atlanta, city laborers ended a 30-day strike with a contract providing for a 4.3 percent wage increase.

The 2,500 strikers, members of the American Brotherhood of State, County and Municipal Employees, AFL-CIO, primarily worked in the city of Atlanta.

On the other hand, many truck drivers have been organized in the Cleveland, Ohio, area.

The national Teamsters Union has agreed to a contract providing for a 7.5 percent wage increase over three years.

Chicago Tribune reported in a copyright story today that a high-ranking Teamsters official said union leaders would meet in Washington next week to wage negotiations and be reopened on the national contract.

The newspaper said two officials of the union, who were involved in national Teamsters talks with the Frank E. Fitzsimmons, the union president, to repudiate the tentative contract.

It appeared the rank-and-file unionists will demand whatever Chicago's drivers get, as they did in 1967.

The latest of a series of violent incidents connected with the strike occurred in Akron, Ohio, where police said a strikebreaker threw rocks at working drivers.

Ten union members were arrested and five members were injured during the incident outside the Roadway Express Terminal, officers said.

Teacher strikes continued in Los Angeles and Minneapolis, both called to demand increased pay and smaller classes.

Lebanese workers in Los Angeles and 2,000 members of the Service Employees Local 99, AFL-CIO, were voting on a resolution to demand a 50 percent wage increase.

Local 99 would be the first union to demand such a wage increase, according to a spokesman.

Trudeau May Be Turning Canada to Isolationism

By MAX HARBELSON Associated Press Writer

OTTAWA (AP) — Under Pierre Elliott Trudeau, Canada's foreign policy appears to have taken a turn toward isolationism — but no one is quite sure of the circumstances.

Observers so far have been able to base their appraisal only on performance. After two years of study, a long-promised report on Canada's foreign policy statement has not been unveiled.

Most decisions up to now indicate that the government takes little stock in the international United Nations machinery in general and entertainment allowance in the defense of the North American community by detaching its own territory.

Another sign of the times was Canada's attitude toward using United Nations machinery in the Arctic dispute. It returned to the jurisdiction of the International Court of Justice and U.N.-sponsored maritime convention organization on the big ship-owning countries.

McCarthy says Canada's attitude on international cooperation seems to be to express "Canadian sympathy, interest and Canada without committing Canada to anything... if the action costs money."

"It would be a pity," he said, "if it were not for the fact that Canada is a free country and that it has the right to do as it pleases."

Although Foreign Minister Mitchell Sharp insists that Canada is not becoming isolationist, some experts point to the fact that the government is placing on its national interests.

This seems to have been a basic factor in making foreign policy decisions during the past two years — the reduction of Canada's role in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the proposed recognition of Red China and the unwillingness to expand on the version passed by the House.

It is further noted that the measure approved last week by the House was essentially President Nixon's proposal of a minimum income of $500 a year for each parent and $300 for each child — or $1,600 for a family of four.

Some senators have said this is not enough. Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., has proposed that the allowance be increased to $1,800 for a family of four in 1972 and to $2,000 the following year. He also has called for the measure to be extended to include single parents and couples without children.

The House version adopts the President's plan of raising the allowance one parent and one child in a family before it is given.

Albert Blames GOP For Living Cost Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Carl Albert called "frightening" today the acceleration of the cost of living under the Republican administration.

Albert, D-Ola., and House majority leader, Carl Albert, said the cost of living increases pushed prices 1.1 percent higher than a year ago.

"The inflation of the cost of living is a national emergency," Albert said. "It is a national emergency."
