

Abernathy Wants Young To Run U.S.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy says a five-day, 120-mile protest march across Georgia will be the beginning of a drive to remove from political office "wretched old souls in positions of high trust"—including President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

"What we need is some young 'soul power' to drive them out of office, for we are tired of old folks running the country," Abernathy told a rally in Atlanta which climaxed the protest march Saturday.

"Today, we are marching against repression, and tomorrow we are going to be registering to vote against repression, and the day after we will be casting our votes to sweep out of office the racist politicians and political hustlers who have created the present situation," he said.

In his speech to about 10,000 who attended the rally at Morehouse College, Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, listed 10 officeholders he said are the organization's "Ten Most Unwanted Politicians."

Abernathy named Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., as foremost on the list. Second was Rep. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C.

Stennis is chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee. Rivers is chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

After that, Abernathy said, come Rep. John McMillan, D-S.C., Mayor Hugh Addonizio of Newark, N.J., and Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia.

Maddox is not eligible to succeed himself as governor, but is running for lieutenant governor. Addonizio faces a Negro, Kenneth Gibson, in a June 16 runoff election.

The other five men on the list, Abernathy said, are Nixon, Agnew, Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

Among the other speakers were Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., Mrs. Coretta Scott King, widow of Dr. Martin Luther King; and Leonard Woodcock, the new president of the United Auto Workers Union.

Meanwhile, the Supreme Court acted to day to promote integration of small picnic parks and local "swimming holes" by refusing to hear a private Virginia operator who is under orders to admit Negroes.

The court's rejection of an appeal by Joseph S. Young, who with his family runs a 23-acre picnic park near Oakland, Va., near Washington, D.C., represents another blow at segregation in recreation facilities.

Young, who once closed down his refreshment stand in an effort to escape the force of federal civil rights law, claimed his "purely local swimming hole" in the Fairfax woods was an entirely private business. He asserted a common law right to refuse admission to any person for whatever reason—whim, caprice, prejudice or malice.

Fight Disrupts Antiwar Talk

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — A meeting of student antiwar strategists turned into a riot.

It happened Sunday when about 80 members of the Progressive Labor Party and the Students for Democratic Action stormed the meeting room at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

At least seven persons were treated for minor injuries at the infirmary. No police were present, and no arrests were made.

The brawl erupted, according to Carol Lipman of Washington, executive secretary of the Student Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam when the committee refused members of PLP and SDS seats in the meeting room.

Southviet Paratroopers Engage In Heavy Fighting in Cambodia

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese paratroopers were reported engaged in heavy fighting today along Highway 7 east of the Cambodian rubber plantation town of Memot, about 10 miles inside the border.

For a while, enemy gunners drove back American helicopters trying to lift out wounded paratroopers, field reports said.

Reports were sketchy, but one officer said the paratroopers suffered light to moderate casualties in the fight that began Sunday and gradually built up today.

There was no immediate count of enemy losses.

"Two American medical evacuation helicopters tried to get in there today but the mission was aborted because of the heavy fire," said one officer.

"Several hours later they got in and lifted all of the wounded out."

The fighting occurred in the Fishook region north of Saigon, field reports said.

The reports said the fighting began tapering off at nightfall.

The size of the North Vietnamese force was not immediately known.

Memot lies 20 miles to the east of the large rubber plantation of Chup, seized late Saturday by a South Vietnamese task force who took over from the French staff.

Michele Dherbey, chief accountant at the plantation, said about 20 civilians were killed and 29 wounded when the South Vietnamese fighter planes attacked.

All but six of the 30 French personnel supervising the work of the plantation had pulled out two weeks ago. Two of these six were wounded in an ambush Sunday and evacuated. The other four said they intend to remain as long as security permits.

In the Vietnamese fighting, U.S. B2 bombers attacked a new North Vietnamese buildup in the northernmost provinces of South Vietnam.

About 60 of the big Stratofortresses dropped nearly 2,000 tons of bombs on North Vietnamese base camps, bunkers and staging areas along the Demilitarized Zone and more than 11 miles to the south below Da Nang.

South Vietnamese troops on a sweep just south of the DMZ caught up with a North Vietnamese force in one area where the B2s hit.

Backed by artillery and fighter-bomber strikes, the South Vietnamese infantrymen reported 45 North Vietnamese soldiers killed and 17 weapons captured. They said four government troops were killed and 16 wounded.

Informal sources said North Vietnamese troops were moving across the DMZ and through Laos to take up positions in the rolling hills.

While the size of the buildup was uncertain, sources said it appeared similar to past troop concentrations that have been dealt with mainly by air attacks because allied forces are spread so thinly in the northernmost parts of South Vietnam.

"I don't see the North Vietnamese doing anything different from what they've done before," said one source. "They come in from across the DMZ and Laos from time to time. The idea is when there are enough of them in there to make a good target, we hit them."

U.S. Air Aid May Not End With Pullout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indications are continuing to pile up that U.S. air support, and perhaps more, will be provided for South Vietnamese forces remaining in Cambodia after American forces pull out sometime next month.

Although President Nixon seemed to say earlier this month there would be no such help, Secretary of State William P. Rogers indicated Sunday U.S. air aid would be provided for South Vietnamese operations continuing after the American soldiers withdraw.

Another administration official, Herbert Klein, the President's communications director, said Sunday "I couldn't really rule in or out," the likelihood of American air and logistic support for troops Saigon keeps in Cambodia following the June 30-mandated U.S. withdrawal.

Klein was interviewed on the CBS program "Face the Nation."

Nixon appeared to rule out such American action in a May 8 news conference. "I would expect that the South Vietnamese would come out at approximately the same time that we do," he said then. "Because when we come out our logistical support and air support will also come out."

But Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said Monday: "There appears to be some waffling on this issue. There is a sense of some confusion and doubt."

Kennedy, the assistant Senate Democratic leader, and his Republican counterpart, Sen. Robert P. Griffin of Michigan, talked with newsmen as the Senate began another week of debate on legislation which

Town Dead After Rain Of Shells

TONLE BET, Cambodia (AP) — Ten days of war, a rain of shells and the town of Tonle Bet was dead.

The last pockets of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong resistance were crushed Sunday by Cambodian troops recruited and trained by the U.S. Special Forces in Vietnam. They had been thrown into the battle five days before when Cambodian Army regulars were in danger of being driven off or destroyed.

A Cambodian officer standing amid the rubble that had once been a lovely, tree-shaded Mekong River ferry town said with a sigh:

"It was an unfortunate necessity. We had to retake this place."

They had retaken a corpse.

Lebanese Report Raid by Israelis

BEIRUT (AP) — An Israeli armored force crossed the south Lebanese border today, a government spokesman announced here, and battled for nearly four hours with the Lebanese army at the village of Yaroun, a mile inside Lebanon. The Israeli force, which the spokesman said was backed by air and artillery support, then withdrew.

In Tel Aviv, the military command said only that an Israeli army patrol came under gunfire from Lebanon while operating in the region of the Lebanese border and returned the fire.

The spokesman said he had no information about a large-scale attack in southern Lebanon, declining to say whether the patrol intruded into Lebanese territory.

He located the scene of the incident as the border region between the Israeli settlement of Avivim and Yaroun, a Lebanese village less than a mile away. There were no Israeli casualties, he added.

Israeli patrols have stepped up patrols in the area since Friday's guerrilla ambush of an Israeli school bus in which 12 persons died.

A Lebanese government announcement said Syria had offered all necessary aid to repel the Israelis but did not say whether the offer had been accepted.

A Beirut communique said Lebanese tanks engaged the Israeli force and blocked it north of Yaroun and clashes were continuing. The Lebanese suffered one killed and five wounded, it said, and two Israeli tanks were hit.

Blint Jbell is in the central sector of the frontier, about 18 miles from the Mediterranean. Together with three nearby villages, it was blasted by Israeli artillery last Friday as a reprisal for the Arab guerrilla ambush of the school bus.

Twenty Lebanese were killed and 40 wounded in Friday's bombardment and several thousand civilians fled the area. Interior Minister Kamal Jumblatt put the figure at 15,000; the authoritative newspaper Al Nahar said it was double that.

The Lebanese communique reported today's attack began at 12:45 p.m., and termed it a "new aggression against Lebanon."

Radio programs were interrupted to broadcast news of the Israeli assault.

It is the second ground attack on southern Lebanon within two weeks. Israeli tanks stabbed into the southeastern corner of Lebanon May 12 in a bid to smash a network of guerrilla bases in the area. They remained 30 hours before pulling back over the border.

Today's reprisal has been predicted following the bus ambush.

There have been persistent reports in the last 48 hours of Israeli tanks and troops moving up to the border.

Israeli newspapers are demanding that the army carve out a "security belt" in southern Lebanon, and keep Arab guerrillas away from Israeli bases.

The idea of a security belt has been mentioned by military bases here since the Lebanese-Israeli border started heating up more than a year ago.

The newspaper Maariv suggested the strip could run be-

Views Differ On Guerrillas In Mideast

By TOM LAMBERT
The Los Angeles Times

JERUSALEM — The Arab guerrillas are devils to some, angels to others.

To many, but certainly not all Arabs in the Middle East, they are heroes. They are brave, resolute and gallant fighting men carrying to Israel the war the Arab states are not conducting.

They are the vanguard of Arab forces hoping to defeat or obliterate the Jewish state.

To most Israelis, they are skulking murderers. They are child and woman-killers. They are sneaks, cowards, mercenaries, despoilers of their own people. They are armed thugs with no ideology but slaughter.

By Israeli calculations, based on nobody knows precisely what, there are perhaps 10,000 Arab guerrillas, a minuscule number compared to the estimated 60 million Arabs living in the area from Egypt east to the Persian Gulf.

The Israelis profess an angry contempt officially for the guerrillas as soldiers and as revolutionary fighters, a contempt perhaps somewhat undeserved in view of the persistent troubles the guerrillas cause here.

An official Israeli treatise on the guerrillas speaks of their "fear of outright combat" as if they were supposed to stand up and fight Israeli formations, which is not the task of guerrillas.

True, some of them have proven anything but valiant. On the other hand some of them have fought, although not in classic military tactics, well enough to inflict casualties on Israeli soldiers.

The same treatise says the guerrillas have failed to attain the goals they set for themselves—those of gaining a foothold in enemy territory with a view to eventual consolidation, and then operating against the focal points of the (Israeli) military forces.

That assessment indeed is correct. Although the guerrillas claim to have some clandestine networks within Israel and its occupied territories—they seem to be quasi-intelligence rather than tactical combat networks—they have failed to establish either in Israel or the territories any apparatus comparable, say with those formed by the Viet Cong in Vietnam.

But again some observers wonder if the Israelis, in dismissing the guerrillas as revolutionary standards even the guerrillas do not follow?

The guerrillas currently present no great military prob-

NATO Official Warns Of Mideast Repercussions

ROME (AP) — Manlio Brosio, Secretary-General of the North Atlantic Alliance, warned today that renewal of the Arab-Israeli war would have repercussions in the whole Mediterranean area, which is a responsibility of the allies.

Brosio spoke to newsmen as foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization assembled for their semi-annual meeting.

"For example," Brosio said, "if war starts in the Middle East we don't know how maritime operations in the Mediterranean might develop."

If NATO ships or planes were attacked, he pointed out, each of the 15 Alliance governments would have to decide how to react under the treaty.

The minister's two-day spring meeting opening Tuesday is shadowed by war dangers in the Middle East and Indochina.

Brosio said he would not pass judgment either on the presence of Soviet pilots in Egypt, or the actions of the new Libyan military government. But he emphasized that from the viewpoint of the alliance, the situation in the Mediterranean was getting worse.

"A zone formerly controlled by the Alliance is being taken out of its control," he said.

He noted that a NATO surveillance force and an on-call naval force already exist in the Mediterranean. The surveillance is being improved, he said, and the on-call squadron recently held its first joint exercise.

Brosio emphasized that it has been at the initiative of the Western powers that talks on basic problems in East-West relations have begun over the past year. He pointed to the strategic Arms Limitation Talks in Vienna, the West German approach to the Soviet Union, Poland and Communist East Germany, and the negotiations among the United States, Britain, France and the Soviets over Berlin.

A major chance to exchange information on these talks was scheduled at a dinner that British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart was giving for U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers, French Foreign Minister Maurice Schumann and West German Foreign Minister Walter Scheel.

Brosio said the Alliance had not rejected the Soviet idea of a general European security conference but that the situation did not justify one soon.

"It should be kept in mind."

"Coming Apart?"

What bids fair to become the quota of the year, on the state of the American spirit, soul and society, has come from an economist, discussing, of all things, the state of the stock market, which is exceedingly low.

The economist was Paul Samuelson, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

His diagnosis of the stock market reached this conclusion:

"The weakness in the market is not explained in terms of weakness in the economy.

"It's a reflection that our society is coming apart."

Once that simple statement has been made, put into actual words, out in the open, it stimulates all kinds of recognitions among all of us.

We think of a war which can neither be won nor lost even statistically, and we think of the fragmentation of the American people on the issue of this war.

We look at our racial issue, and wonder if it, too, is not becoming a situation we have all too little chance of solving, and what threatens us is the possibility that what we once thought to be the great birth of freedom on this continent should turn out to be the ultimate in human bitterness and frustration.

There is no comfort, in our search for some problem we can handle, when we turn to the so-called generation gap. Instead of being something that can be closed, this distance between those who are content and happy and generally satisfied with America as it has been and those who think it has not begun to be true to its own proclaimed principles seems to be constantly widening.

And, going back to the problem which inspired the MIT economist to his notation of doom for our whole society, we find that even when we make what seems a sensible, practical effort to steer our way between inflation and depression, the tiler we try to grasp may not connect to any rudder.

Such a sense of powerlessness as we meet to meet whenever we try to address ourselves to a solution of one of our problems is the exact thing that leads men and societies to drastic decisions, to extreme pretense of belief, to rash formulas for action, and to violence in thought and action.

The basic things that are missing—the things that might be holding this society together—are easily named and described.

There is a lack of our being all for one.

We seem to recognize no real living compact among ourselves.

We have reached the point in our development as a nation and a society where the great needs still ahead of us are spiritual rather than material, and this is where mankind always finds the going toughest. We can fly to the moon more easily than we can create understanding between two people standing on a street corner.

We do not trust our own leadership, and our leadership does not trust us.

And the intangible things we need back in order to put cement and cohesion back in our society are things that have to be felt rising in our own blood and instincts.

We can't get them just by talking about them to ourselves.

We do seem to be "coming apart" and it does seem almost as if the only thing that could put us back together again would be the cohesive impact of a great crash of some kind.

But perhaps, if we have imagination enough to see and sense where we may be heading, we shall still regress, within ourselves, that sense of compact, that acceptance of goals bigger than differences, which has to be the cement of any society.

Perhaps the most simple important thing to try to remember and realize is this:

Everything we do really matters because it is always likely, in some degree, to be related to the quantity of blind dissension, gap feeling, and violent instinct in our relations with one another as individuals and as a society.

Theme For Career

All of us who have always envied those happy people who settle on some special interest early in life and then make it stand up not only as a pleasure but also as their bread and butter, will appreciate, we think, the main points in the career of Dr. Elmer A. McClure, a botanist at the Smithsonian Institution, who died at his home in Bethesda, Md., the other day.

Dr. McClure went to China as a teacher in 1919, remaining there for 24 years, most of the time as professor of economic botany.

During this span of teaching, he became especially interested in one of Asia's starchy crops — the bamboo.

When Japan invaded China, Dr. McClure came back to this country, and became a consultant on bamboo for our Department of Agriculture.

At that time, our Government was worried about how it could equip American ski troops in World War II, with the normal supply of Chinese bamboo for ski poles shut off. It asked Dr. McClure to try to propagate a suitable type of bamboo here. Subsequently, he had a number of Latin-American countries develop various kinds of home-grown bamboo for themselves.

After he had stopped working for governments, Dr. McClure kept on with the development, in his own backyard, of a bamboo garden which was this country's finest, for the variety and the rarity of its plants.

Four years ago, when he was 68 years old, he published a comprehensive work titled "The Bamboos: A Fresh Perspective."

When he died of a heart attack, the other day, he was working in his bamboo garden.

Law And Order In New Haven

Under the emaciated, skittish and courageous leadership of Chief James F. Ahern, the police of New Haven have demonstrated their own last week — a demonstration of how to preserve the right of free assembly in the face of mob violence.

New Haven's "finest" may have reached their finest hour. They not only resisted the temptation to overreact when by bottle-throwing demonstrators but masterfully managed to stay clear of the protective thousands while keeping a close eye on potential troublemakers.

Making maximum use of modern equipment that allowed for mobility and good communications, the policemen were prepared to cope quickly with mob violence — and did when it broke out — but made it plain that they had no intention of interfering with the right of free expression. Our police lived up to New Haven's reputation as a great central center. And they lived up to the highest traditions of their profession.

New Haven's police also proved that law and order are not code words with sinister connotations but words that remain their time-honored meaning. They showed that maintaining law and order is far from being synonymous with repression in New Haven. There was tolerance because police and military power were employed with great restraint and only when necessary.

The City police were backed up effectively by Connecticut State Police, whose expertise and training were ever present. And it was reassuring to have State Police Commissioner Leo J. Mulvaney at the scene. The department of the National Guardsmen, who were well-deployed and used with decisiveness, also showed a good grasp of how power can serve the purpose of a democracy.

Also meeting the tough challenge were the City's firemen, who were better able to overcome the harassing tactics of rioters by calling on a detachment of National Guardsmen to shield them. Our firemen have stood up to the pressure that has been placed upon them by the news of fires of suspicious origin and by the major blaze Saturday at the office building at Church and Elm Streets.

The difficulties of both the firemen and policemen were eased greatly by many Yale students. Fire Chief Francis J. Sweeney had praise for many volunteers "Yales" who alerted his forces to fire and potentially dangerous situations. Police Chief Ahern lauded the many Yale students known as "marshals" who, on their own, strove mightily to keep the demonstrations non-violent.

After the great performance of New Haven's policemen last weekend, anyone who calls them "pig" must have a special fondness for that breed of animal. Right now the "pig" in New Haven's pet — NEW HAVEN POLICE.

Inside Report

by Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON — A fragment effort by the military dictatorship of Greece to exploit a new World Bank loan as evidence of rising international support for the Junta has been categorically denounced in a private letter from an official of the bank.

Notwithstanding this letter, however, the loan of $20 million to the National Investment Bank for Industrial Development of Greece has raised new questions about lending policies of the World Bank, particularly in Western Europe where the military Junta is under sharp and rising criticism.

The April 4 loan was announced routinely here by World Bank officials, with no allusions to possible international political implications.

In fact, top World Bank officials specifically sought and gained a pledge from the military Junta in Athens that no effort would be made to exploit the loan as indicating approval of internal Greek government policies.

This pledge was given to Munir P. Benjani, a regional director of the World Bank, by no less a figure than Col. George Papadopoulos, prime minister of Greece and chief of the military Junta.

Despite the pledge, the information office of the Greek consulate in New York issued a public statement in mid-April that placed the loan in a blatantly political framework. That statement in mid-April stated that the loan was a "particularity happy" about the loan because it "constitutes an indication of possible cooperation between the World Bank and Greece which had been delayed for reasons unconnected with the will of both parties."

Further, said the Greek Junta's information office, Knapp expressed "particular satisfaction with the economic progress that is taking place in Greece" and looked forward to more World Bank aid to Greece.

A leader of the anti-Greek resistance movement in this country, Elias P. Demetriopoulos, bitterly complained to Knapp about these words attributed to him by the Greek information office. In a letter to Knapp, Demetriopoulos asked whether he had been correctly quoted.

Knapp replied on May 11 that the statement attributed to him was filled with "serious misrepresentations." Furthermore, Knapp indicated that a formal protest had been made to the Greek government.

Moreover, William Clark, the bank's director of information and public affairs, wrote a separate denial of his own.

Clark's denial went to the Greek-language newspaper National Herald in New York, which had published the statement of the Greek consulate verbatim. Wrote Clark:

A Thought For Today

Sponsored by the Manchester Council of Churches

"Not only will we burn buildings, recently I could not help but reflect they have a message for a small 'minority' today; whether they are rioting students, enterprising newspaper reporters, over-enthusiastic college presidents, crafty politicians, yuppies, pot peddlers, a small number of minority group leaders, and all the rest of 'The Zoo' so coined by Mr. Agnew.

Over the years past and present a great number of immigrants have entered this country through the port of New York. Aside from the tall buildings they saw upon entering the new land, all looked for the standing in one of the greatest harbors of the world. Many entering had little more than the clothes on their back and possibly a suitcase or two. Yet, I would imagine for many the sight of this great monument for a moment, if only briefly, strengthened their hope and gave them the courage to face the unknown future.

In many cases few could speak a word of English, but they elected to come here to escape the torture and hell of body and mind living under dictatorial regimes. Life in these people, a new language had to be learned; jobs, often below their level of ability had to be taken but such were the realities to be faced.

However, these various groups: The Irish, Italian, German, Poles, Russians, French, Czechs, and a long list of others rolled up their shirt sleeves, put their pride in their pockets, went to work, raised their families (many of whom later graduated from college), paid their taxes, attended church, and time permitting tried to become naturalized citizens of the United States. Some even managed to become elected leaders of their town, state or country.

These immigrants had their complaints also, there were few federal or state agencies they could turn to for help but they did not loot and steal from the private sector of the society, they left totalitarianism behind.

"We Don't Care"
 To the Editor,
 The current social-cultural-economic-political crisis in this country is confusing to most Americans because we only read the newspapers and the pictorial magazines; that is, a skeleton account of what is happening nationally and internationally.

The law-waving supporters of the Nixon administration are its very dupes. The people in power need our dumb, blind faith — faith that anyone can grow up and become President. That's the (defunct) American Dream. Do you know how private occasion I do not know the source of your misformation, but it seems obvious to me that your account was intended to convey the impression that in extending this loan, the bank was making political judgments and endorsing the policies of the Greek government. Any such implication was erroneous and unjustified."

This swift World Bank reaction shows the sensitivity of all international organizations to the growing hostility in Western European Parliaments and the U.S. Congress to the Greek Junta. The Colomels were reprimanded last month in a unprecedented political resolution of the European Common Market, which warned that their association with the Junta was "contrary to the democratic procedures. Several members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are preparing an attack on the Junta for the NATO meeting at Rome next week.

Here at home, Republican Rep. Floyd Rindley of Illinois has just sent a letter to President Nixon warning that full-scale resumption of U.S. military aid to the Colomels (cut off three years ago when the Junta seized the government) "would be an accommodation to the Junta."

Findley recommends that the head of the U.S. arms industry in Athens be degraded from major general to colonel to reduce the Junta's prestige. And the World Bank, despite disavowals of any intent to help the Junta, will not change its lending policies unless the U.S. arms aid to Greece is now tentatively approved.

Pay TV Fight Heads For House Floor

(Continued from Page One) mitte, however, it was rejected in turn. Dingell's new package was rammed through, opponents claim, without any actual hearings and in the absence of subcommittee Chairman Rep. Torbert H. Macdonald, D-Mass.

The FCC would allow a pay-TV station to show commercial advertising in its conventional programming. The Dingell proposal would let it entirely, both in the station's pay and conventional operations.

—The bill would extend from two to five years the ban against pay on showing sports programs which have been regularly carried live on conventional television in a community.

—It would prohibit feature films from being shown on pay television more than one year after first general release. The FCC had proposed this be set at two years.

—The commission (FCC) is subjected to intense but correct pressures when the financial stakes are high." The committee's majority report said: "Therefore, it was felt that the guidelines for RTV and particularly the safeguards preventing the slipping of conventional television programming should have the force of law."

—Also, Company 3 has scheduled another door-to-door paper drive for June 13 throughout the north and south including London Park, Londonberry Estates, Abbey Dr. and Forest Park.

—All residents in town are asked to save their papers. Any one not living in the above named areas who would like pick-up may call either Harvey Desruisseaux or Jim Lee at Forest Park.

—The following meetings and activities are scheduled for this week: Monday: Gilfed Congregational Church Council meeting, 8 p.m. Church Social Room.

—Tuesday: Planning and Zoning Commission hearing on proposed zoning regulation changes concerning apartment house construction, 8 p.m. Town Office Building.

Hebron Canvass of Town Planned By Registrars of Voters

James L. Derby Jr. and Joseph J. Phil, registrars of voters, have announced that during the next few weeks a canvass of house-to-house canvases throughout the entire town will be made.

—In accordance with state election laws, section 9-32, a canvass must be made within the period of six months before the regular election to ascertain changes in residence.

—The purpose of this canvass is to determine the name of any voter who no longer lives at a particular residence in town and the registrars are requesting residents' assistance in this project.

—Tax Notices: Mrs. Beatrice Andrews, tax collector, reports that notices reminding residents of unpaid real estate taxes will be mailed out on the first of June.

Nation's Capitol Architect, J. George Stewart, Dead

WASHINGTON (AP) — J. George Stewart, an ex-politician once charged with trying to "make the Capitol into a king-sized Howard Johnson's," has died, ending a stormy 16-year career as the Capitol architect.

The 79-year-old Delawarean local conventional home President Dwight D. Eisenhower appointed the former Republican congressman to the post in 1964, although Stewart was not an architect, but what Stewart did was some of the most important work in the history of the building.

His plan was to extend the west front 85 feet, thus providing more office space, restaurants and other facilities while also heading off the possibility the Capitol would collapse.

The plan prompted Sen. Stephen Young, D-Ohio, to charge Stewart and other proponents with trying to "make the Capitol into a king-sized Howard Johnson's."

Stewart's early renovation and extension of the east front in 1950 also has drawn bitter criticism from architects and historical societies. There were demands he be fired, but he maintained that it was merely an agent of Congress, doing as he was told.

Construction of the Sam Rayburn House Office Building through extension and replacement of the front wall as Stewart had argued.

His last major controversy—the west front project—remains unresolved. A study is under way to determine whether restoration would be a better answer.

We didn't make it any easier to look at. Just easier to drive.

You'd never know it to look at it, but that's a Volkswagen without a clutch pedal. What it does have is something called an automatic stick shift. "Automatic" because you can drive it up to 55 mph without shifting at all. "Stick shift" because you still shift it when you go over 55.

Find it at the miracle of modern downtown Manchester.

Available in these sizes: 8 1/2" x 11 1/2" oval, 8 1/2" x 11 1/2" square, 8 1/2" x 11 1/2" double.

As a matter of fact, this VW still gives you 25 miles to the gallon. It still takes only an occasional can of oil. And it still won't go near water or antifreeze.

If it were anything but a Volkswagen, you'd probably pay dearly for all this luxury.

Instead, a Volkswagen with an automatic stick shift costs a mere $XXXX. All which reinforces what we've been saying for 20 years. Looks aren't everything.

Tolland Two Junior Women Honored At Club's Annual Banquet

The Tolland Junior Women's Club honored two of its members last week, naming Mrs. Alan Bacon, ways and means; Mrs. Paul Feeley, Public Affairs; Mrs. Lance Lasher, education; Mrs. Robert Basso of Mile Hill Rd. as "Outstanding Clubwoman of the Year" and Mrs. Robert Basso of Mile Hill Rd. as "Outstanding New Member of the Year."

The awards were presented during the organization's annual banquet and installation of officers at Willie's Steak House in Manchester.

In addition to the two major awards, several other members were presented with certificates for outstanding performance.

New club officers are Mrs. John McCarthy, president; Mrs. Gerard Pasternik, first vice president; Mrs. Philip Nangle, second vice president; Mrs. Ernest Africano, recording secretary; Mrs. John Conrad, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Richard Symonds, assistant treasurer; and Mrs. Benjamin Elliot, nominating chairman.

The Tolland Junior Women's Club is a non-profit organization of women who meet for social, educational and cultural purposes.

Coventry C-DAP Unit Opposed By Republicans

The local Republican Town Committee has gone on record as being against the formation of a C-DAP Agency at this time, which raises at a special meeting last week. The vote on the action was 12-5 with two abstentions.

The Town Council will take up the question of C-DAP Agency formation at tonight's meeting, and there is no indication at this time as to whether or not the GOP action will have any effect on the vote.

A C-DAP committee was formed last year, but through some oversight was never officially constituted as an agency, and the council has had no discussion of it since last year.

Bridge Report: Town Manager Dennis Moore has given an updated report on the status of the two closed bridges, which raises at a special meeting last week.

The South St. bridge over the Hop River is now targeted for reopening this week.

The bridge was closed when a large chunk of concrete broke off and fell into the river.

The Case Rd. bridge over the Skunkanaug, closed now for two years, was supposed to be open May 1, but work to repair the bridge, so that it could carry auto traffic only, has been delayed because of high water and work on the South St. bridge.

Moore indicated that work will begin on the bridge as soon as the South St. bridge is finished, and as soon as the river waters recede somewhat, since the bridge has to be easily accessible from underneath in order to repair it.

Mothers' Meeting: The Mothers Club will hold its regular meeting at the town tonight at 8 at the Booth-Dimock Library. Special guest speaker will be Police Chief Gordon Smith, and his topic will be narcotic. The talk will be followed by a discussion period, and members are invited to bring a guest.

Hostesses for the meeting will be Mrs. Lois Farrell and Benji Sondstrom.

ACTION GALORE - Fans attending this Formula Ford open cockpit race at Charlotte, N.C., got their money's worth when seven cars piled up. Here one lands atop another, setting it on fire. There were no serious injuries inflicted.

Broken Clutch Spoiled Bid By Pearson in Charlotte

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) - David Pearson slumped in his defeated bid across the newest table of the stock car king was beaten physically by Sunday's bolting hauler, but was victorious by personal misfortune.

"God, I thought I had it," he murmured. "I had it in my hands."

An expressive driver can push 1000 for a burst which at his neighborhood garage. The same problem had just cost Pearson a cool $20,000.

Pearson led by two miles when he wheeled his Ford Torino into the race for the World 600 start. A routine service job was home free in a two-car fight with Ford teammate Donnie Allison.

No really exotic cars made their debut in this year's program, although there are 500 preliminaries but only New Zealander Denis Hulme, former world champion, was injured. He suffered severe burns on the neck and face when his car was launched into the air.

Thirty cars spun into the wall in the final qualifying and practice sessions, all of them driven by men who have never made a road race, let alone a world class race. The fastest was an Alfa Romeo, driven by a young man named Adamovich.

On the track, in front of the 250,000 fans, Hulme's Alfa Romeo was caught in his cockpit by turbocharged engines, 10 May 10.

pushed, but nothing. A broken clutch killed the Spartans, who limped northeast toward the garage.

Allison, meanwhile, had been relieved by Leo Roy Yarborough after his Ford floorboard over Yarbrough's own Mercury had flamed because of a 300 miles.

Lorenzen, 35, has won four of the 14 Charlotte races and a pair of World 600s. His car was sponsored by the speedway it carried 11 Charlotte races.

Allison's floorboard stalled when in insulation burned away in the second lap. The engine faltered twice in the second, then he won two four-run frames and added five more markers.

"I had to get out of the car and I'm thankful Leo Roy who carried me," said Allison. "I was available to drive for me."

Allison's car averaged 129.0 miles an hour. The speed was held down by 10 caution flags covering 90 laps.

Panic Button Prime for Pushing Ryan Halts Met Skid

NEW YORK (AP) - Ryan allowed a leadoff single to Don Kessinger and then drove home the bases loaded on a double play. He was then hit by a pitch and had to be replaced by Tom Seaver, who struck out three batters.

The Mets didn't know it then, but they would get only three runs in the first game of the series.

Manager Gil Hodges handed the bat to Nolan Ryan, who hadn't pitched in two weeks.

Despite Two-Stroke Penalty Aaron Snaps Drought of 10 Years in Win

ATLANTA (AP) - Tommy Aaron refused to gamble on the 18th green Sunday, but after some 30 minutes as a nervous spectator, he finally won the $125,000 Atlanta Golf Classic and broke a 10-year win drought on the PGA Tour.

Aaron, a native of Gainesville, Fla., 50 miles north of here, built a 77-hole record with a 65 on the 18th hole on Sunday.
