Mrs. Linda C. Daly of 121 Maple St. pleaded guilty yesterday in federal court to charges of embezzlement while employed at the Wapping branch of the South Windsor Bank and Trust Co.

The amount involved was $1,475. Miss Daly's guilty plea was only one portion of the school administrators with the problems and needs of children. The hearing, held in the U.S. District Court in Hartford, was part of a hearing on the charges of embezzlement.

No date for sentencing was set. The hearing was held in the U.S. District Court in Hartford, where Attorney Jerome Walsh of Manchester represented the defendant.

Junior Women Get Citation

The Manchester Junior Women's Club recently was awarded a Certificate of Appreciation by the National Association for Retarded Children.

The club initiated several projects this year to assist those who work with the retarded.

The projects included collecting used postage stamps for the Southbury Training School and coupons for the home economics department at Mansfield Training Center, and donations to Camp Kennedy and to the National Association of Retarded Children. Other gifts to Mansfield were decorated bibs, stuffed animals and acoustical baffles, all made by club members, and a donation to purchase aids for the children's hospital under the Handicapped Child's program.

More Security With FALSE TEETH

Don't be so afraid that your false teeth will come loose or drop just at the wrong moment. Now you can have more security with the new method of fitting dentures.

More than 7,000 patients, brass knuckles, submachine guns and other weapons were dumped into a furnace and melted into a metal block weighing four tons and worth $240.

While the former method of dumping this material into the ocean produced minimal pollution to the environment, our new method reduces pollution to nil," said Sheriff Peter Nichols.

State Shoreline Pollution Studied

NORWALK, Conn. (AP)—A public health professor from Yale said today that the urban poor suffer disproportionately from the ability of Long Island Sound to spread disease.

It is the poor, said Eric Mood, who have no other place to swim than the city harbor beaches where pollution is worst.

Another witness, author and editor Norman Cousins of New Canaan, warned that unless steps are taken to stop pollution of the sea, within 40 years the microscopic organisms that produce life-giving oxygen will be so scarce that they will no longer be able to do their job.

Cousins, who is editor of the Saturday Review, said the way down the coast after the New York Mayor John V. Lindsay's "Task Force on Air Pollution."

American are stealing oxygen from both the water and atmosphere at dangerous rates, Cousins said, by replacing vegetation with highways gaily unloading operations begun.

The million-gallon tanker was bound from Baton Rouge, La., and was en route to New Haven. The Coast Guard was cruising along the shore east of New Haven, where the tanker was spotted.

But in Pocomoke, Fla., the captain of the tanker as saying that his ship scraped bottom near Block Island because the Southwest Ledge light and buoy was off its position.

The slick around the tanker was an estimated 400 yards wide, tapering off about 100 yards east of the ship.

L.I. Wise said last night that the Coast Guard personnel would check the tanker today to check for oil.

The Labor Department reported Tuesday that union members throughout the nation would return to work as soon as a curfew was lifted.

The department said the National Railway Labor Conference, the industry group representing more than 125 railroads, rescinded its consideration of a look-out of employees threat to shut down the system.

The UTRU called the strike yesterday after charging the lines with refusing to bargain in good faith over the use of firemen on diesel engines.

Spot checks early today of areas served by the Baltimore & Ohio, Louisville & Nashville and Southern Pacific railroads showed most pickets down today.

Southern Pacific said a wildcat picket line marched today at the railroad's biggest yard at Rockville, Calif., in a local display they would ask that the numbers of state troopers be reduced immediately to ease tensions.

Police estimated damage at over $1 million.

Violence resumed in the main business district about 5 p.m. EDT when the crowd moved across an expressway railroad tracks from the Negro sector and began breaking windows.

Police, some using clubs, herded the crowd back, but at the tracks the blacks turned and attacked.

Protesters fired mortars, ostensibly as warning shots. However, police said that some shots were fired.

The Jersey Shore Medical Center reported that since trouble broke out Sunday night it had treated 140 injured persons, 22 of them with gunshot wounds, the rest with lacerations.

Agnew Promises to Help Spanish-Speaking Citizens

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has pledged his help in a drive to improve the lot of the nation's 10 million Spanish-speaking citizens.

A major problem, one spokesman says, is to convince the United States and its government that there are minority groups other than the blacks. And a major goal will be to make the nation's news media sensitive to the needs of Mexican Americans, Puerto Ricans and Cuban Americans who make up the second largest minority group.

Twelve Nixon administration appointees of Spanish extraction met Tuesday with Agnew to discuss problems of Mexican Americans.

Martin G. Castillo, chairman of the Cabinet Committee on Opportunity for the Spanish Speaking, said after the meeting he is confident Agnew wants to help, perhaps by interceding with other federal officials on behalf of the Spanish-speaking.

The vice president said the 90-minute meeting brought to him the uniqueness of the problems of the Spanish-speaking—especially in the areas of language and the spread-out mode of life in migrant farming.

When Castillo said Agnew had agreed to troubleshoot for his agency in a pinch, the vice president didn't correct him.

Castillo said the lack of recognition that the Spanish-speaking minority exists has meant bureaucratic bottlenecks in seeking federal cooperation for assistance programs.

Another of those meeting with Agnew, Gilbert Pompa, deputy director of the Community Relations Service in the Department of Justice, said the vice president showed special concern for the alienation of younger Spanish-speaking Americans.

The move to give Americans a better image of the Spanish-speaking minority picked up when representatives of "chil-

Maurice Wilson, 23, of 108 Birch St., charged with non-support. He was arrested on a warrant at his home last night and turned over to Windsor Locks police.

John D. Burdick, 17, of 75 Union St., charged with reckless driving. He was arrested last night after police received a complaint that someone was squealing their tires at Burger Chet on Main St. Court date July 20.

ACCIDENTS
Ariene H. Stammer, of Willimantic, was issued a written warning for defective tires, and Teresa W. Low, of 109 Dale Rd., was issued a written warning for improper backing, after an accident on Main St. yesterday morning. Police said Miss Low was apparently backing out of a parking stall, and Miss Stammer could not stop in time to avoid hitting her.

Mood said that only about one third of Connecticut's shoreline can still be called "Class A" water, and that 20 per cent of the shoreline is "of doubtful quality" or "not recommended for bathing."

And 65 per cent of that dangerous shoreline, he said, is in the harbors of Norwalk, Bridgeport, New Haven and New London.

Others scheduled to testify today included Norman Cousins, writer and editor; U.S. Rep. Emilio G. Daddario, Democratic candidate for governor; Mayor Frank Zullo of Norwalk and James G. Herlihy, chairman of the governor's committee on environmental pollution.

Abraham Ribicoff indicated he may change a key provision of his commission bill, which has been sponsored.

He said he is considering scrapping the idea of setting up the commission as a new body, instead, he said, the power—and funds—to conduct a three-year, nationwide study of water pollution may go to the New England River Basin Council.

Common Ills: Backache a Great Leveler Among 30 Million Americans

Editor's Note: Thirty million Americans suffer from chronic backache. The cause is varied. So are treatments. But there are ways to avoid the problem, as this article—the third in a series on man's common ailments—reports.

NEW YORK (AP)—The middle-aged matron was waiting for a bus at the corner of First Ave. and East 24th street, for a block from the United Nations building.

Suddenly, she started rhythmically vibrating her pelvis in the motion known by devotees of burlesque as "the bumps."

An New York policeman, directing traffic at the busy intersection, dashed to the bus-stop, intent on driving anything but lascivious from his best. He was about to call the paddy-wagon when the now indignant woman gave him the explanation for her pelvic gymnastics.

"She had just come from near New York University's Institute of Rehabilitation, where she had been practicing the 'pelvic thrust' exercise prescribed by doctors as rehabilitation for her recent acute attack of backache."

And she recalled the pain in the case. "She was a teacher, a colleague of mine, Dr. Harvey K. Korr, recalled the case. "She was a teacher, a colleague of mine, Dr. Harvey K. Korr, recalled the case. "She was a teacher, a colleague of mine, Dr. Harvey K. Korr, recalled the case."

Minis Minimize Frequency Of Aching Backs

Modesty demands, the doctors note, that when mini-skirted young mothers pick up their children, they bend their knees in a crouching fashion and lift with their legs.

This compares with the back-straining, bend-over-and-lift techniques employed by longer skirted mothers of yesteryear.

Unwed expectant mothers also have a better chance of avoiding back ailments. Doctors say that such women, in trying to hide their pregnancy, forcefully contract their abdominal muscles and keep their backs straight—the best backache-avoidance posture.

This contrasts, they say, with the tendency of properly wed expectant mothers to accentuate the spinal muscular strain caused by pregnancy itself by pushing their tummies forward—like a "ledge of honor."

Delightful Dining

The secret of a good soufflé is in the egg whites. They must be beaten until they are a trace of yolk and must be room temperature in a clean, dry bowl. Stabilize them with a little cream of tartar. A popular legend is that soufflés were first made by a French housewife who was cooking a vegetable, meat and fish. She was impatient and simple to prepare. For light meals and first courses, soufflés are perfect.

It is also a popular legend that Mr. STEAK, 244 Center St., 646-1995, is the place to come for the finest steaks prepared to perfection. All our steaks are shipped direct from Denver. Backache Woes Afflict Those In All Walks of Life

NEW YORK (AP)—It may be common sense to millions of backache sufferers, but many prominent American and foreign designers have shared their miseries periodically over the years.

The late President John F. Kennedy's back troubles, and one of his techniques for easing them touched off a national revival of the rocking chair.

Other backache sufferers include Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York, the late boxing champion Rocky Marciano, former star halfback Frank Gifford, actress Margaret Leighton and Ingrid Bergman, and the Duke of Windsor.

Not even doctors themselves are immune.

Dr. Howard Frank, chief of New York University's Institute of Rehabilitation Medicine, is a member of the backache club, thanks to an injury sustained decades ago when tossed from a horse.

And Dr. Ralph L. Willard, dean of the Kirkville (Mo.) College of Osteopathy and Surgery, says he became a sufferer because of "bending over wrong to move one of those hideaway beds at my home—about 20 years ago."

"It hurt most of the time, but I was a farmer when they'd come to me, suffering from back trouble," Dr. Willard said.

Book Review

TWO SYMBYERS. By Gore Vidal. Little, Brown, $5.95. This is a really tricky book, labeled "A Novel in the Form of a Memoir." In other words, part fiction and part fact. The narrator seems to be Vidal himself, recalling at length in 1968 some rather odd occurrences in the summer of 1964 in Paris; in that respect it follows the pattern of a memoir. Yet the feeling is that a substantial part of the chronicle is a product of the author's imagination. The narrator tells of a special relationship between himself and a pair of American twins, Eric and Erika, who turn out to have incestuous tendencies. Eric is a young filmmaker who would like to try his hand at writing and at directing feature movies. In 1968 it is discovered that Eric had left behind in Paris the manuscript of a screenplay addressed to Erika, telling her about his experiences in writing and the screenplay for a Hollywood producer (and this character is a caricature). The narrator reads the two documents, pausing frequently to recollect the 1948 scene. The text flickers back and forth between sections marked "Then" and "Now."

South Windsor Wood Library Begins Move

By BARBARA VARRICK (Herald Correspondent)

Closing of the Wood Memorial Library, no matter where it is done, is a sad occasion, but closing of the memorial library in a small town like South Windsor is more than unpleasant.

Library Director Clayton Massey and his staff have begun the task of transferring 10,000 books from the Wood Memorial Library on Main St. to the Central Library at Sullivan Avenue Plaza.

The entire operation of moving, cataloging and incorporating the books into one unified collection will be done in a period of about three months, Massey said, that under no circumstances would any books be placed in "dead storage."

Wood Memorial Library has been a part of South Windsor since 1827 when it was presented to the town by William Wood, dean of Graduating in memory of his father, Dr. William Wood, and his mother, Mary Ellsworth Wood.

Approximately four hundred of the books have been contributed to the Wood library services of Wood in the past few years. Anna Gaylord Rockwell and With the continual growth in South Windsor in the past few years, the population concentration is no longer near Wood, but is spread out in other points in the town. The central library at Sullivan Avenue Plaza is approximately in the center of the entire town. Consequently, the central library and its facilities are utilized regularly. Wood, on the other hand, because of its size and location, has had a downward trend in circulation of books and library materials.

To use Wood Memorial Library at a branch, Massey said, would not be feasible since recently, over a six-week period, the library had a total of 876 books borrowed, with 113 borrowers representing a very small percentage of South Windsor's population. Branches of the Wood Public Library normally used to serve 30,000 people and the entire South Windsor population accounted for contributing interest and effort to the preliminary 1970 census, which is being maintained by the Wood Library.

"The action of the Board," Massey said, "was made in 1969, South Windsor order to provide improved li-

Bouncing Baseballs Stir League Sit-Down

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—The score of a little League game here was Dougherty 3, St. Wagner Cleaners 4, police 5.

The police netted their score by arresting three persons slugging a sit-in on the pitcher's mound during the game.

Mrs. John Hall, who along with her husband and a neighbor were arrested Monday night, said she didn't have anything against Little League baseball. It's just that she's upset about other boys bouncing baseballs off her house and cracked interstate highways.

The General Accounting Office, Congress' watchdog on federal spending, said Monday virtually all of the superhighways built so far in the interstate system may need an added layer of concrete surfacing to patch eventual cracking.

Engineers have underestimated the heavy truck loads the highways have to carry, a GAO expert said.

"The crucial factor is truck traffic. Most engineers have told us if there's a big increase in the number of heavy trucks, the highways would last longer," said Bernard Sacks, who headed the GAO investigation.

As long as truck weights keep going up, more money is going to be needed for continual repairs, a Texas highway official added in the highest study of damaged interstate highways to enable them to stand up under traffic for 20 years in the future. The $200 million was

Trucks Cited as Cause As Superhighways Buckle

WASHINGTON (AP)—Big trucks are giving the nation's superhighways an unexpected headache that may cost taxpayers billions of dollars in repairs, a government investigation warns.

A special report to Congress says $200 million is needed so far to smooth over badly cracked interstate highways and is only a start.

The 1968 highway report to Congress, Highway officials estimate this year, completed design due to misjudgments about bad weather, underlying layers before the end of the 20-year period," the report said.

The total overlay costs will be entirely used up but did vastly exceed those included in the $200 million estimate," it added. Layers of pavement warmed, but GAO experts declined to estimate how much the higher final repair bill $250-million superhighway might run.

Tire Company Boosts Prices After Strike

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Armstrong Rubber Co. announced Tuesday that it has increased tire prices by 5 to 8 percent. The company was hit by a strike last week at four of its tire-making plants. In its announcement, Armstrong said passenger tires and tubes will be increased in price by about 5 percent. All other tires and tubes will be increased 8 percent. The announcement said the increases are necessary to help meet higher costs.

The announcement made no mention of the current, wobbly market for tires. The company said it has about 3,400 members of the United Rubber Workers at its plants in neighboring Westfield, Natchez, Miss., Hartford, Calif., and Des Moines, Iowa.

Union and management spokesmen have declined to go into issues in the strike which began last Thursday. The strike could pass through its 400-foot doors. The building could house major tire manufacturers—Uniroyal, Goodyear, Firestone and B.F. Goodrich.

It was also decided that the chicken barbecue will be held on Labor Day weekend Saturday through Monday.

All those wishing to be patrons are reminded that the deadline for submitting names is July 15. Mrs. James Kendall is in charge of patrons.

Dr. Sheridan urgently requests that all committee chairmen be at the meeting July 20 at 8 p.m. at the Town Hall.

Libson Returns Envoy to Vatican

LIBSON (AP)—Portuguese Premier Marcelo Ceuano indicated Tuesday night that Ambassador Eduardo Brazao would return soon to his post at the Vatican as a result of the Vatican's explanation for Pope Paul's recent meeting with three African rebel leaders.

Ceuano said a note from the Vatican has reduced the dispute to its "proper proportion." The note said that a brief audience with the rebel leaders was a peaceful means of resolving the dispute. Ceuano called his ambassador home last weekend to underline his government's anger.

Highway Deaths Down in 1970's First 5 Months

CHICAGO (AP)—There are more cars and more drivers on U.S. highways than there were a year ago, but the highway fatality rate for the first five months of 1970 decreased to 29,800 deaths for the same period of last year.

"It's not enough to say merely that this year's drivers are more careful," said Howard Pyle, president of the National Roadway Council, which monitors the highway death toll.

"We have 1 examined the entire road, vehicle and driver situation. For instance, we know there is a much lower death rate on the limited access, safety-engineered interstate highway system.

"Automobiles built today are safer in many ways than the cars that are gradually replacing them. Motorists are being required by law to drive more responsibly as illustrated by efforts to get drinking drivers and other unqualified persons off the road."

Pyle said if the rate of fatalities for the first five months continues, "we can hope to experience several hundred fewer traffic deaths than last year. This may happen in spite of the fact that there are at least two million more motor vehicles and about two million more licensed drivers on the roads today."

The 1969 highway toll was 56,400 lives.

Pyle said other factors in the decline of the fatality rate included enrollment in driving courses, greater use of seat belts and efforts to "get drunk drivers off the road."

Pyle said drunken drivers are "responsible for killing at least 26,000 Americans in traffic crashes each year."

U.S. in Red $373 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's bookkeepers in red ink to close out the government's books with the highest fiscal year-end debt in history.

The Treasury Department said Monday the $373 billion recorded on a preliminary basis last week at the end of the fiscal year represents a steady jump over the $367 billion a year ago.

The sum is not the nation's deepest indebtedness. Official estimates anticipate a $1.3 billion deficit, but private and government forecasters predict the probable red ink figure will be in the neighborhood of $8 billion to $10 billion or higher, according to corporate profits.

The outlook for the current fiscal year is unclear. Official estimates anticipate a $1.3 billion deficit, but private and government forecasters predict the probable red ink figure will be in the neighborhood of $8 billion to $10 billion or higher, according to corporate profits.

The Treasury said that $3.5 billion in short-term notes each week and occasionally issues other types of securities to insure sufficient operating cash.

The Treasury's account, the basic government checking account, listed deposits of $4.9 billion at the end of the 196 fiscal year. At one point, the tally dropped as low as $2.3 billion but income tax payments replenished the account.

Unusual Shrimp BRIDGEWATER, England

La. Child Maurice Ingram, working with the Central Electricity Generating Board's "farming" his shrimp in water warmed by the Blyth nuclear power station to 7 Centigrade degrees warmer than the sea in nearby Bristol channel.

The shrimp, said Ingram, will be grown in 18 months instead of the normal three to five years they take in the sea, and they'll grow year around instead of just the summer.

The water does not expose the shrimp to radioactivity since it has been used only for cooling turbines in a building removed from nuclear reactors.

The experiment, currently involving 25,000 shrimp, could have important economic benefits to Britain, which imports $13 million worth of shrimp a year.

There will be no smoking and sticking if the pancake griddle is first rubbed with salt.

Summer Noon
 The wind, lazy, half turns the leaf, and passes quietly on.
 We think it went through the meadow grasses.
 The redwing droops on his reed; the cricket gives desultory notice; the bee booms in and out of the honeysuckle; the rose opens; the kitten sleeps.
 The air is light. The sun does not seem as hot as it could be. It is kind. It makes things still.
 The sky looks as if it were wearing a tinted windshield. The cloud swells, but does not move. The high silver plane has lost its sound.
 People move slowly, as if they had no energy for the remainder of the day.
 Not, at least, in an office.
 Summer noon.

The War That Spoils War
 It's the same story, repeating itself over and over, that of how difficult it can get to conduct all the traditional business of war in a goldfish bowl.
 There never used to be trouble about burning a primitive native village anywhere.
 Nobody ever stopped to audit, in Spain, or Rotterdam, or Coventry, or Dresden, the number of innocent civilians killed by somebody's bombs.
 Nobody ever had live interviews with soldiers in the front lines who didn't like the war they were in.
 And if you had to pay somebody to do a little fighting on your side, it was always an act of voluntary patriotism on their part, not the performance of a mercenary.

Restoring The Life of Reason
 Amid all the dissonance, especially on the campuses, a modest but potentially significant sign of hope is emerging: A number of thinking people, regardless of ideological predilections, are reasserting the imperative need for a return to reason and order in the public discussion and the public behavior.
 Most so-called conservative intellectuals have been saying that all along, but recent weeks have seen a number of liberal-leaning luminaries agreeing in no uncertain terms. A notable example, was Harvard President Nathan Pusey's exhortation of the New Left elements on campus coupled with his insistence that academic rednecks "be civilized way."
 Now at hand is an article in the New Republic by Alexander M. Bickel of the Yale Law School, and it is a somber assessment indeed.
 "No sane person," writes Professor Bickel, "can condone riots by construction workers or by police, and certainly not killings. But a riot is inevitably going to be paid for by destroying the order of society. If the streets belong to all the people, they are going to belong to all the people, not just young radicals. If all we say about Kent State is that it is an instance of brutal repression for which the Vice President and the Attorney General and an isolated and insensate President are responsible, we are not telling the truth, and by not doing so we will help bring on more Kent State...."
 "We must restore conditions in which slogans and mass emotions do not drown out and drive out reasoned analysis. In a world in which passionate assertion is not automatically seen as high-minded and presumptuous right, while dispassionate judgment is denounced as insensitive and presumptuously immoral."
 Granting, in his opinion, that those various institutions are correct in a lot of what they say, Mr. Bickel rejects the idea that they are right about repression in this country.
 "The society is free and open, if flawed and gravely troubled. What repression is supposed, as often as not, by the young in the universities, where their pressure for ideological orthodoxy and a kind of amoral solidarity threaten to achieve what Joe McCarthy never did."
 In this scholar's opinion, the place to begin restoring to speech and action is the university; he thinks the heads of leading universities should announce their intention to institute a reform which is the precondition of all other reforms, namely the use of disciplinary power to keep discourse and action within the bounds of order. He puts it simply and forcefully:
 "No more vandalism; no more assaultive, vicious speech; no more incitement to violent action; no more libeling, simulated or actual. If the resumption of this minimum of authority should bring strife and violence in the short term, as it may, it will be less strife and less violence than is otherwise in store for us."
 This and some of the other strong liberal statements of the day are in essence certainly true, and they are interesting in a couple of other connections as well.
 They afford a sharp and welcome contrast to the pusillanimity with which numerous administrators and faculty members were greeting the radical students' violence and "nonnegotiable" demands only a couple of years ago. Had this kind of common sense prevailed then, much spiritual and material damage might have been averted.
 Moreover, there is increasing recognition among the liberals that they are partly at fault. That, in Professor Bickel's words, "we have listened—quietly, even solemnly, as if it were rational to incredibly loose talk about the obsolescence and rottenness of our society and all our institutions, and have come to narrow it in order to perpetuate a sizeable number of young."
 We would go further. A whole generation of largely liberal dominated higher education has done a good deal to discredit, in the minds of not a few young people, that society and those institutions that have been better vehicles of free intellectual inquiry and not so much indoctrinators of a particular liberal view.
 In any event, change seems to be in the air. It is probably too soon to say that a liberal-conservative coalition of men of reason is coming into being. It is nonetheless clear that more intellectuals are speaking out not particularly because they consider themselves liberal or conservatives but because they treasure the life of reason and order and see it tragically threatened.
 And that alone is cause for encouragement—for the future of America.—WALL STREET JOURNAL

Inside Report

A Thought for Today
 Democratic Difficulty

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON—Two private political meetings held in California recently have hammered home this deeply foreboding message to the Democrats: There will be no financial aid from out-of-state sources for the vote-registration campaign so essential to the party's chances in November.
 Meeting No. 1 was held at the Beverly-Hilton Hotel in Los Angeles June 24 with some 60 party notables assembled for cocktails and buffet. The Californians had been hoping for Democratic National Committee money to finance a registration drive, but what they got from the committee's two top officers—Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien and Treasurer Robert Strauss—was an appeal for contributions from California.
 A more agonizing shock came from meeting No. 2 at the Del Webb Townhouse in San Francisco on July 1. Managers of statewide candidates were stunned to learn that organized labor felt it could not finance a statewide registration effort. Al Barkan, head of the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education (COPE), said big labor would limit its California registration efforts to labor union members—a mere sliver of the unregistered potential.
 Those two meetings indicate that while President Nixon's difficulties with indochina and the economy provide nice issues for the Democrats, they do not begin to compensate for severe structural deficiencies in state Democratic parties.
 A flagrant example is California, where rising aerospace unemployment has put a raw glow on Democratic chances for November. The stakes are immense: A seat in the U.S. Senate, the governorship, and perhaps more important, control of the state legislature.
 The legislature about to redistrict a state Congressional delegation swollen by the 1970 census, state legislative control could affect no fewer than 10 seats in Congress.
 What has brought voters to Democratic pros in California has been the inattention in recent years to party registration. Vast numbers of nominal Democrats in California are really conservatives who habitually vote Republican. Thus, state Democratic victories have not been produced with Democratic registration much below 87.5 per cent of the statewide total. Today the Democratic proportion has slipped to a telltale 84.5 per cent.
 Consequently, California Democrats are belatedly aiming at a crash registration program centered on Negroes, scandalously unregistered and certifiably Democratic—during the July 8-Sept. 10 registration period.
 Remembering the halcyon days of 1962 when Robert Kennedy ordered the National Committee to dispense $100,000 to California for voter registra-

Congress Prepares Bills Aimed to Curb Terrorism

WASHINGTON (AP)—Several months after a surge of explosions and bomb threats touched off calls for new federal antiterrorist laws, congressional committees are arranging hearings on proposed legislation.
 Among proposals set for review by a House panel next week is legislation offered last March by President Nixon, who said: "The archaic and criminal elements who perpetrate such acts deserve no more patience or indulgence."
 Nixon's legislation is certain to cause controversy because it provides the death penalty when a terrorist act kills someone.
 However, some backers say privately they might be willing to scrap the capital punishment provision if it endures an otherwise acceptable bill.
 But they say long prison terms for convicted bombers are essential elements in an effective legal approach to the problem.
 While a House judiciary subcommittee prepares for hearings starting July 15, the Senate investigating committee is reported planning an inquiry later this month into "the general problem of bombings and terrorism."
 The Senate panel headed by Arkansas Democrat John L. McClellan intends to "outline the problem and take legislative recommendations from a number of people—and then go forward from there," a source said.
 McClellan is expected to announce the dates for the investigation soon.
 Among the measures to be studied by the House subcommittee is one entered by Rep.

Manuel Celler, D-N.Y., aimed at helping law enforcement officials fight crime while avoiding unnecessary federal restrictions on the use of explosives for lawful purposes.
 Explosives-control measures flowed into Congress shortly after a series of bombings earlier this year. But there was no movement on the bills until now.
 Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., had wanted hearings in 1968 on gun control law, to Ohio Democrat Rep. Charles Van...
 But his Senate juvenile delinquency subcommittee postponed of blasting material and outlaw possession of untraced explosives.
 The President's recommendations specify certain acts—such as transporting explosives for unlawful purposes, or damaging federal buildings—as being federal crimes.
 The President noted that under some circumstances it is already a federal crime to transport explosives across state lines, but he said, "I am proposing an extensive strengthening and expansion of that law."
 Austin, an optician, "It gives them somewhere to put their foot and keep it active."

Extra Pedal
 LONDON (AP)—At last, British motorists have a gadget dedicated to absolutely nothing except keeping their left feet from feeling bored and unneeded.
 "People with a touch of arthritis find the pedal very helpful," said its inventor, Charles

South Windsor Donnelly Finds State 'In Trouble'
 Republican State Rep. Thomas J. Donnelly said he "welcomes the opportunity to continue the effort to help return the government to the people and to reestablish their confidence in the representative form of government."
 Donnelly is seeking a second term as representative from the 4th Assembly District.
 "During my term as representative over the past two years," Donnelly said, "I have tried my best to actively illustrate to the people of our district that this office, as one held in public trust for the benefit of the people—not a property for the gain of a party. But our state is at a critical crossroad this year. We must elect more able and responsible leaders; we must defeat the Bailey machine if our state is to recover and if we are to maintain an effective, legitimate, representative government."
 "Our people," he continued, "know that our state administration has been ineffective and inefficient in the conduct of its affairs. In the past, it has been ineffective and inefficient in the handling of our state's education and college unrest problems have gotten worse—all under Democratic leadership."
 "It's time the people no longer had cause to hold politics and politicians in contempt and it's time they no longer had cause to laugh at the 'trust' placed in our elected officials or at the politicians' pledges to serve the people. It's time we had a complete change in the leadership of Connecticut," Donnelly said.

O'Brien Has TV Day; 'Con Job,' Says GOP

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic National Chairman Rogers C. B. Morton said President Frank Stanton of CBS last Friday asking for clarification of the administration on a broad front, O'Brien said there are results only when the Democratic-controlled Congress "takes the initiative and calls the shots."

The Democratic National Committee made the attack Tuesday night in a 25-minute free prime-time radio-TV broadcast over CBS in response to demands by the party for equal time to answer Nixon's statements over the past 18 months.

Five hours before the taped broadcast was aired, the Republicans called a news conference and declared "the Democratic National Committee is attempting 'one of the greatest con jobs in the history of American politics.'"

They have already conned the networks out of free time and now they are trying to con the American public into rewriting history," said James N. Allison, Jr., deputy national GOP chairman.

Psychologist Questions Advertising Effectiveness

BY JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — Are advertising campaigns successful? Agencies will waste no words in telling you they are. They won't be defensive about it either; they'll consider your question absurd.

But a minute researcher, a professor of advertising no less, is convinced by any amount of words, desiring the facts, he undertook extensive research in seeking an answer to this question.

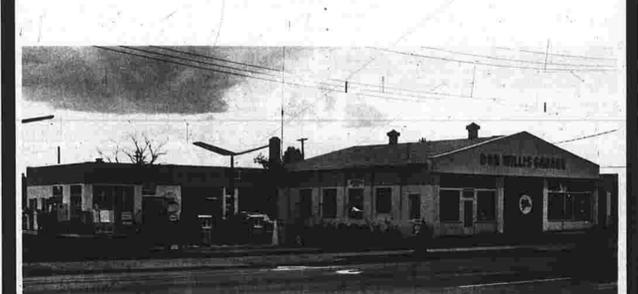

To what extent do advertising agencies know whether or not their campaigns are successful? To reach a conclusion he analyzed "reports to states" listed by 40 ad agencies for 195 campaigns. And he decided: "Campaign objectives: To convince mothers that is the best fruit drink they can serve their children: Because it is good for them; because it is the best-tasting of all fruit drinks."

Why, Britt asks, "does a business name or organization spend a fortune on advertising without knowing exactly what is supposed to be achieved?" It has been advertising for years, and his curiosity was aroused when he came upon an advertisement for "successful advertising campaigns."

Advertising may consist of agencies usually don't brag doing something right or that they take something wrong, but generally they do not permit their ads to be assessed and advertising agencies actually. Here was a chance to know just what "somebody" do so, each agency listed its!

Israelis May Fight Russians

... "U. Thant contributes nothing to the spreading of peace, but he adds much to making peace the tension and war," said the daily Maariv in an editorial.

The paper was commenting on Thant's remarks in Geneva. "Thant also aroused Israeli anger when he termed as 'defensive weapons' the SAMs missiles Israel says Russia has brought into the canal zone.

An Israeli Foreign Office spokesman said Thant's remarks in Geneva seem to reflect the "very intensive letters which the secretary-general appears to have been subjected during his recent stay in Moscow."

In Cairo, the newspaper Al-Ahram said Egyptian military experts have discovered "many of the secrets of Phantom jets and its electronic equipment."

Studies were made on parts of the five Phantoms downed last week, Al-Ahram said.

Al-Ahram did not disclose any details of secrets it said Egyptian experts discovered.

In Tel Aviv, the former head of Israeli intelligence said Tuesday the purpose of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser's visit to the Soviet Union is to win support for his recently announced plan to drive Israeli forces from the Suez Canal.

Retired Brig. Gen. Chaim Herzog said the reaction of the Russians will doubtless be governed by the degree of importance they place on President Nixon's recent warning and to what degree they believe it will be backed by deeds.

Herzog, speaking as military commentator for Israeli state radio, said the recent installation of Soviet-built anti-aircraft missiles near the canal was presumably the first phase of Nasser's plan.

But, the former intelligence chief pointed out, unless the Russians fail to involve themselves to a greater degree than they have done, the next phase will develop more on Egyptian forces themselves because of the face-to-face combat will be involved.

Herzog said the next two phases are proclaimed by Nasser—achieving air parity with Israel and crossing the canal—must be decided in a confrontation which occurred near the Penn Center's station here, Mr. McGee said.

The six cars, located near the front of the long Boston-to-New Haven freight train, went off the tracks at about 6:30 a.m., he said. One lost its wheels but remained upright on the tracks.

Repaired trains were dispatched from Boston and New Haven to remove the disabled cars. "We think when we get the railroad back on track, we'll have to have a very close watch on the cars," the spokesman said.

It Will Hold a Lot of Water in Reserve

The inside of the partially constructed water tank in Rockledge area off Garth Rd. poses an interesting spectacle to the photographer. Shown here through the fish-eye lens, the cylindrical tank will hold 500,000 gallons of reserve water when completed.

Graydon Lockwood, superintendent of the Town Water and Sewer Department, says this reserve water will be used when demands are high, as in minor cases when many residents are watering their lawns at the same time, or during severe fires and emergencies. This tank is located next to an already existing 200,000-gallon tank and will be cross-connected, Lockwood says, with another 500,000-gallon tank planned to replace an open reservoir at Lookout Mt. The need for the Rockledge water tank was outlined in the December 1968 Griswold Report, prepared for the town by Griswold Engineering Inc., and the money was appropriated six months ago. Lockwood says the tank may not be ready for use for several months.

University Woes Not Fatal, Say Two Spokesmen

The councilman agreed with Lewis that the council meet with representatives of the newly appointed firm to discuss its future role with the town. Members from other town boards that normally use the services of an attorney will also be invited to attend this session.

The council has also appointed a three-man committee to look into a stricter enforcement of the housing code, which, although adopted in 1966, has apparently never been adhered to completely. Bruce Wilson will serve as chairman of his committee, assisted by Charles Nyack and Jesse Haines. All three men are on the Town Council.

The committee will work with Town Manager Dennis Moore to review the code, and a report is to be made back to the council no later than Aug. 17.

"There have been abuses of academic freedom on the campus and attacks on it from the outside, but the campus is alert and determined to defend that freedom," the fact is that the University of California is one of the few which in terms of learning, which it could not be of academic freedom were dead," Haines said.

Columbia University President Dr. Andrew Cordier was not available for comment but a spokesman for the university said: "While the pressures facing society in general and universities and colleges in particular are perhaps as great now as at any time in modern history, Columbia fully anticipates meeting the challenges whether it be in September of this year or in 1975, or for that matter, at any time in the future."

Nixon met Tuesday with the advisers, Dr. Alexander Heard, chancellor of Vanderbilt University, and Dr. James Cheek, president of Howard University, but the White House issued no report on the meeting.

The networks said that the report by Heard and Cheek will say that the reason colleges may not be able to open is extreme and widespread among the students, further inflamed by the "inflammatory rhetoric of Vice President Agnew."

Regional Drug Squad To Hit Fringe Crime

The Capitol Region Narcotics Squad (CRNS) will soon widen its scope of investigation into fringe criminal activity connected with drug traffic, but the main thrust will remain in the area of narcotics.

The squad is sponsored by the Capitol Region Council of Governmental Officials (CRCOGO), formerly the Capitol Region Council of Elected Officials.

The squad will change its name to the Capitol Region Crime Squad, to reflect its broadened interest in fringe crime.

Todd H. Taylor, administrative assistant to the CRCOGO, said the squad is the result of an expansion of the squad in a close link between drug use and crime. In the course of the investigation into drug traffic, the squad's undercover policemen have run across considerable peripheral criminal activity, Taylor said.

To support a drug habit, an addict often turns to theft, merchandise, or passing of bad checks to get the money.

This type of crime is organized to the extent that burglary rings operate to steal jewelry and goods. The squad will attempt to collect, classify and store the information regarding these about these rings, and then pass it on to local police departments to make the arrests.

Deaf in Traffic

The CRNS has already made a stable dent in area drug traffic. Dana Hanson, of Bolton, executive director of the CRCOGO, said that in the last six months, they have formed one of the most effective regional undercover squads in the country. The federal government is very interested in the squad, he said.

Hanson continued, saying that the squad has made a "fantastic contribution" to the fight against drug traffic. He considered one of the major problems as trying to keep the squad from growing too fast.

The CRNS, supervised by Hartford Police Sgt. Thomas J. Brown, was formed last September as part of the Capitol Region Task Force on Narcotics Abuse and Related Problems.

The Capitol Region Drug Interdiction Squad was organized with the National Institute of Mental Health, the Alcohol and Drug Dependence Division of the state Dept. of Mental Health, and the State Dept. of Corrections.

The information center, at 170 Albany St., in four major areas: Education, community organization, youth work, and counseling and referral.

The CRNS has enjoyed a great deal of success in its task to date, Hanson said. The CRNS is not presently part of the CRCOGO want to join, Hanson said.

Drug Center

Another arm of the task force, a regional drug center, was established in Hartford last March. A $90,000 grant from the Federal Bureau of Investigation made the center possible.

Managed by Walter A. Stewart, of the Greater Hartford Council on Alcoholism, the center is to provide a "comprehensive, coordinated effort by the 29 towns of the Capitol Region to combat narcotics abuse and related problems."

Diane Banning Leaves Monday On Scout Trip

Miss Diane Banning, assistant scout leader of Junior Scout Troop 7 of Manchester, will leave Monday with 24 other scouts on a bus trip to the 29th National Girl Scout Center West in New Sleep, Wyo.

Miss Banning is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Banning Sr. and had charges of operating a patrol motor for the trip.

A June graduate of Manchester Valley Girl Scout Council, Miss Banning was named a cadette, she received the First Class Badge, the highest award in Cadette Girl Scouting.

Most of the girls traveling to the 25,000-acre camping and conservation site are from the Connecticut Yankee Girl Scout Council of Farmington.

The group will camp in Girl Scout camps and state and national forests along the way.

Among the places the girls Grand Ave., Rockville, and a house to visit are cities of Montreal and Toronto, Niagara Falls, the Air Force Academy, Kirby, 46, of 88 Legion Dr., Versailles, and the National Park.

A transfer to juvenile court was ordered for Timothy M. Foley, 16, of 80 Windsor Ave., Rockville, charged with breach of peace.

Correction

Yesterday's report in The Herald on the Planning and Zoning Commission's hearing Monday on a proposed apartment density regulation contained an error.

The report mistakenly identified two speakers, Frank U. Lupien of 21 Sunset St. and Milton C. Hansen of 48 Strong St., as representing the Manchester Property Owners Association.

Although both men are association members, they were speaking as individuals and not for the MPOA.

Peek in the Dark

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — Law enforcement agencies were able to monitor dark areas and record criminal evidence along the way.

Court Cases

CIRCUIT COURT 12
Rockville, Md.

A non-stop talker was found in contempt of court yesterday by Judge Nicholas Armstrong, and fined $10.

The proceedings, however, were later erased for Federal Public Defender and Milk Rd. when she agreed to listen while the judge explained her rights and continued her case two weeks. She is charged with breach of peace.

Court trials are scheduled on sale of heroin brought to the arrest, along with several others who were arrested after others in Bridgeport, Hartford, and East Hartford, came at the name to the Capitol Region Crime Squad, to reflect its broadened interest in fringe crime.

Todd H. Taylor, administrative assistant to the CRCOGO, said the squad is the result of an expansion of the squad in a close link between drug use and crime. District's Share of Interceptor Costs

Director of Public Works William O'Neill, right, has good reason to smile. Eighth District President William Hankinson has just presented him with a check for $138,377. The money represents the district's estimated share of costs for the construction of the Northeast Sewer Interceptor and Secondary Treatment Plant. The cost-sharing is under a formula worked out when the project was planned. The District is the second participant to pay its share of the project. Lyall Inc. of Parker St., the first to contribute, paid its share of $76,150 in May. According to Town Manager Robert Weiss, the money received from the Eighth District will go toward paying current bills from contractors on the project. Though the federal government's share is 85 per cent, the bulk of the grant funds are not expected until fall. In the interim, the town has been in a cash bind. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Board Votes To Buy Land Next to Pool

By a 6-1 vote, with Mayor Nathan G. Agostinelli opposing, the Board of Directors last night approved a proposed purchase of 14,500 sq. ft. of land adjacent to Globe Hollow and contiguous with town land on three acres.

The property owned by Robert H. Schelner has a Spring St. frontage of 146 feet and a reasonable distance apart, 230 feet. The lot is 264 feet wide and contains 204 sq. ft. of undeveloped land. Court Okays Distribution Of Underground Newspaper

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — A school administrator's requirement was "a classic example of prior restraint of speech and press which constitutes a violation of the First Amendment."

Moore Silverman, a Stamford attorney for the group said the ruling was "total victory" for freedom of expression in the underground newspaper movement. He said that similar "freedom of expression" rights for college and university students and also to aid school administrators by providing them with an insight into student thinking and student protest, which is encouraged, not suppressed.

The federal judge's decision went on to say that "the removal of the Free Press and its distribution by the school is not if they distributed any future issue of the publication on school property. Later that month the Connecticut Civil Liberties Union took the youngsters' case to federal court.

U.S. District Court Judge Robinson, and there was no indication that the youngsters' case would be dismissed.

Manchester Area Coventry Police Hold Nine Teens In Disturbance

Wayne Colombaro, 22, of 87 Union St., Rockville, was arrested early yesterday morning and seven other teenagers were arrested after Coventry police received complaints of loud noise in one of the lake-side developments in Coventry.

The two arrested were Carol Stanfort of Olton Dr. and Susan L. Woodman of Bolo Rd., both of Coventry. Both were charged with breach of peace private property, police said, and are to appear in Manchester Police Court on July 13.

Police said they apprehended six boys and three girls at about 11 a.m., and that the young people had been drinking beer.

Police also reported they found stolen goods at the scene, and an investigation is under way.

Last night Coventry police arrested Dennis R. Hoyt and Michael Jowers, both 19, and both from the Naval Base at Newport, R.I., on charges of intoxication.

Insurance Rates Bloomfield (AP) —

Some rates for life insurance were raised at Connecticut General Insurance Co., the company announced Monday.

"Averaging 1 per cent, the increases affect only two of the company's more than 28 life contracts and does not change ordinary or term rates," a company spokesman said.

Stamps In the News

By BYD KRONHISE
AP Newswatchers
In the large commemorative stamps, Grenada hails the main leaders of the Allies and important battles to mark the 25th anniversary of the end of World War II.

The half-cent shows President Franklin D. Roosevelt and a painting of the famous raising of the American flag on Iwo Jima. The 8-cent bears a portrait of Marshal George K. Zhukov, supreme commander of the Russian forces which captured Berlin. A scene of Russian tanks entering Berlin at the Brandenburg Gate also appears. The 15-cent illustrates Winston Churchill, British prime minister, plus the evacuation at Dunkirk. The 20-cent depicts Gen. Charles de Gaulle and the liberation of Paris. The 30-cent has Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme allied commander, and an overall view of the invasion on D-Day in Normandy. The 60-cent shows Gen. Bernard Montgomery, commander of British Armies in Europe, and a scene of the battle of El Alamein in Egypt.

Nicaragua has issued a new sports set honoring the world pool winners of the Football (soccer) Hall of Fame. Each of the 11 stamps depicts a famous player from various countries chosen as best in this athletic endeavor, reports the Crown Agents Stamp Bureau. The men honored are Franz Beckenbauer of West Germany, Sir Stanley Matthews of England, Giacinto Facchetti of Italy, Ferenc Puskas of Hungary, Lev Yashin of U.S.S.R., Billy Wright of England, Alfredo Di Stéfano of Argentina, Djajma Santos of Brazil, Pele of Brazil, Josef Bozak of Hungary and Bobby Charlton of England.

The latest country to issue a set of stamps for "Europe 1970" is the Netherlands. The purpose is a tribute to the Conference of European Foreign and Telecommunications Administrations (CEPT).

The Dutch stamps have a common design featuring a woven fabric in the shape of the sun. The interlaced fibers symbolize the cooperation of the member nations of CEPT, while the sun represents the radial nature of postal and telecommunications services.

The design of the stamps is by Irish poet and broadcaster Brody who won an international design competition.

Did you know that... Two U.S. stamps depict Abraham Lincoln minus his beard. They are the 1-cent of 1959 and the 8-cent of the same series issued to commemorate Lincoln's bicentennial. The first U.S. stamp featuring an American Indian was issued in 1970 and the value was 50¢. The first U.S. postage stamp design with a theme connected with the state of New York was the 6-cent adhesive of 1901 depicting the bridge at Niagara Falls.

The Banknote Printing Office in Finland not only prints the Finnish postage stamps but has produced stamps for Iceland, Honduras, Costa Rica, Sweden and Ethiopia, as well as the United Nations.

This year Great Britain has issued stamps honoring the 25th anniversary of the sailing of the Mayflower, the 60th anniversary of the Declaration of Arbroath, the 100th anniversary of Florence Nightingale's birth, the 75th anniversary of the International Cooperative Alliance and the 150th anniversary of the Royal Astronomical Society. All of these issues, including special first day cover of the Mayflower stamp are available only from local stamp dealer or stamp department.

Liberated Swimmer
PULLEMAN, Wash. (AP) - A liberated female swimmer's topless tank prompted Washington State University officials to add a rule to its list of regulations for use of a new gymnasium swimming pool.

The lady took the swim during pool hours, and a supervisor on duty did nothing to interfere because there was no rule against it.

UW Recreation Supervisor Robert L. Stephens said that when the pool opened, no thought was given to such a rule. He said that when it would change, however.

The code, who asked to remain unnamed, said she wanted to demonstrate her disapproval of society's insistence that women cover their breasts while men go topless.

Warm water is preferable when laundering corduroy as it seems to encourage softness in the corduroy pile.

Washington Whirl: Decorator a Confidante Of the Kennedy Women

By MAXINE CHESHIRE
WASHINGTON—Sometime in the 1950s, the late Joseph P. Kennedy bought the antique contents of three fine old New England homes.

The furnishings were crated and shipped to the Kennedy family compound in Hyannis Port. There, under the roof of a huge garage which has since been torn down, patriarch Joe Kennedy set up a kind of private Park-Bernet Galleria for the women of his family.

Rose Kennedy, her daughters and her daughters-in-law all rummaged through the treasure trove of American and English what pleased them for their various houses.

The cache lasted a long time and some of it is still stored in Rose Kennedy's attic. If any of the ladies ever coveted one of the other's selections, no one knew about it.

The only swapping that was ever done came about when Rose Kennedy realized that an 18th century wing chair in her house was meant to be a match to one that had gone to Jack and Jackie's living room.

Jacqueline Kennedy eventually relinquished the matching chair to her mother-in-law and look another in "the Kennedy" house.

Laddington has been decorative overseer for the family's many houses on Cape Cod. He designed the Joseph P. Kennedy's New York apartment and did both Boston voting addresses for Sen. John F. Kennedy and Sen. Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy.

Rose Kennedy asked recently if he had read Pearl Buck's book, "The Kennedy Women."

That was not the first time she has teased him about putting all he knows into a book. She said, "I should have written a book titled 'The Kennedy Women'."

Retardation in Any School, Aim of U.S.-Canada Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Men- report said, so should mental retardation programs be merged into comprehensive community schools, but placed in the mainstream of the educational experience. A joint U.S.-Canada study said today. The report, released simultaneously in Washington and Toronto, summarizes a joint conference of the Canadian-U.S. Study Group on Mental Retardation held last year.

The study called for at least 10,000 more special education teachers in the two nations, adding the supply of aides is critically short.

The report said U.S. institutions, in addition, need at least 50 per cent more professional staff and paraprofessionals to care for the retarded.

Just as the retarded child should be integrated into the regular education process, the study also includes Bino, an Angora goat of a rather sensitive nature and two Bech de Colles. Mrs. Summons is particularly pleased with her experiments with the goat. She has a sweater she knitted for her husband out of collar fur and a stole made from her own fabric and turns the materials into a wardrobe. Mrs. Howard J. Summons does all this and goes even further. She raises her own raw materials.

Mrs. Summons, wife of a Reading, Pa. (AP) — In this modern, scientific world where technology is making the role of the housewife less burdensome, it is news when a woman spins her own yarn and turns the materials into a wardrobe. Mrs. Howard J. Summons does all this and goes even further. She raises her own raw materials.

Still experimenting, Mrs. Summons plans to produce the hair from her coat for added strength. The wool from each sheep varies in color and texture. The design in an afghan she crocheted was achieved with the wool from different sheep.

Although she has been spinning for years, Mrs. Summons said she still considers the sweaters in the making stage. The sweaters she knits are mostly for Christmas gifts.

Mrs. Summons, a native of Heidelberg, Germany, came to Reading in 1908. After completing training as a nurse at the Reading Hospital, she was employed at the institution. It was there that she met her husband, a resident physician at the time.

Occasionally people inquire why Mrs. Summons does not go back into the hospital work now that her two sons are grown. She replies that she has her own nursery ward for animals—right on the premises and in her own house.

Mrs. Summons, Dr. Summons later, after purchasing a keepsake furthering his wife's interest by bringing her books on the hobby. This past summer she raised her own nettle and thistle, which are now being processed. She plans to incorporate the fibers in the warp of other materials during the long winter months.

"The actual time spent sorting the fibers," Mrs. Summons revealed, "takes much longer than making them into the finished—a big dog named lashed product." Her next project will be the study and use of Plus, plus two others. Buster homemade oyes, the plants for which she plans to raise herself.

Housewife Raises Sheep; Weaves with Their Wool

Vernon Junk Auto Project Set By Chamber

The Rockville area Chamber of Commerce is proposing an auto-crushing operation to rid the three towns it serves of junk cars. Bernard Crowl, executive director of the chamber said that its members have been holding meetings to plan the project which if the towns approve would go into effect right after Labor Day.

He said they have met with William Chalansay, owner of Connecticut Mobile Auto Crushers Inc., and that this company would handle the entire operation if the towns would provide a place for it.

Junk car removal service is without charge as the company receives the scrap metal.

One difficulty, besides providing a temporary site for the operation, is getting rid of the items which are left over such as fabric seating material, gas tanks and tires, items not permitted in many town dumps.

Presently, according to Public Works Director Andrew Tricore, the town is managing to get rid of at least some of its junk cars by means of an arrangement with John Levellie. Somers who picks them up at a charge to the owner of $15. In cases of hardship he has cooperated with the town by removing some cars at no fee.

However, unless the owner is forced to take some action usually the cars remain and Tricore agreed that an extensive effort involving no charge could accomplish the demise of many wrecks about town.

Tricore estimated there are about 200 or 300 junk cars left in the area even though Levellie has carted off about 280.

This effort is only part of an extensive campaign of beautification being undertaken by the chamber. There was an anti-litter crusade this spring, and many of the projects in which a tree was planted at each elementary school in the area and seedling trees distributed to many fourth and fifth graders.

A memorial tree project is being considered which would allow persons to donate the cost of a new tree to be planted in public property in memory of another person. Crowl estimated that a tree would cost about $20 and stressed the idea that living persons could be remembered as well as the departed ones.

Co-chairmen of the chamber's Beautification Committee are Kenneth Waldron and Miss Evelyn Patrick. Town chairmen are Henry Lane for Ellington, William Summers for Tolland and John McAlmont for Vernon.
