Students Hired By Town Make Sewer Survey

Students hired by the town through money furnished by state funds are now doing a survey of jobs for the Public Works Department.

One group is conducting a survey of some seven areas where residents have petitioned for sewer lines installed. The boys are going from house to house with questionnaires to gather information on the property owner's present method of disposal and the condition of the septic tanks. They will also ask if the property owner would like to have a line installed by the town.

The questionnaires, when completed, will be used to determine priorities.

Another group is cleaning up areas between crevices in sidewalks, curbs and gutters, and these areas are cleaned up and they will be sprayed to prevent future growth.

Yankees Lead Little League For Season

Season standings for the Little League have been announced by Edward Conzole, baseball chairman for the Rec. Council.

The Yankees, coached by Jim Calahan and John Davis, took first place, they had 12 wins and six losses. The Cardinals were second, play with 10 wins and eight losses. They were coached by Dick Jensen and Gen Williams. The Redlegs, coached by Jim Lester and Dave Ehrhardt, were third with seven wins and 11 losses, and the White Sox, with coaches Ray Melady and Roland Laraine, were fourth with six wins and 12 losses.

Connole named 15 boys chosen for the All-Star Team. They are Eric Goldstein, Chris Hamm, Brian Piesz, John Ryan, Wayne Hoernig, Nick Haug, Dave Deschamps, Mark Danks and Bob Williams.

The Little League All-Star tournament will be held Aug. 2 and 9 in Tolland at the Little League Field.

YOUNGER GENERATION COUNTS WELL ENOUGH

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

"It is well known that the younger generation cannot read," the Old Kibitzer fumed, "but it is also true that they cannot count. What's more, the kids don't know how to draw trump. What is the world coming to?" The old gentleman left the club in a perfect fury, all because of the way South had begun to play today's hand.

North dealer.

East won the first trick with the king of spades when declarer, a member of the younger generation, played a low spade from the dummy. For lack of anything better, East returned a spade to dummy's ace.

South led the queen of hearts from dummy, led a heart to the ace and then brightly remarked, "Well, that's that," as he led a club to dummy's ace.

The Old Kibitzer was so furious at South's apparent failure to see that a trump was still out that he stormed out to see what happened.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid three spades. If partner has three or more spades, you want to play the hand on four spades. If partner has only two spades, you will be content to let him play at 3-N.

News for Senior Citizens

By WALLY FORTIN
DIRECTOR

Hi! It's that time again, and square dancing, with our good old looks like this one will be a quickie again, as things this past week were rather quiet. We did have 100 members at our Wednesday Fun-Day to see the colored slides of our trip around New York.

During the afternoon, I heard some talk about Channel 30 giving the Senior Citizens throughout the state a parking space at Lake Compounce. We're looking for more details about this and from the reasoning. We would like we'll work out something. So keep your eyes on next week's column.

There isn't anything new to add about our Canada trip, but one of our bus drivers is making that tour right now, and will bring back the necessary information; and, hopefully, before long we'll be able to set you straight on it.

I also asked the group if they would like to take in a baseball game in September, or the horse races, and the reason for the vote was, to the races, naturally, so maybe we'll have something along that line to report next week.

Friday night's setback tournament had 56 players with the following winners: John A. Peterson, 132; Ester Anderson, 139; Helen Erickson, 128; Lynn Steele, 128; Robert Schubert, 123; Florence Pitt, 121; Mollie McCarthy, 121; Henry Boyer, 121; Dan McCarthy, 120; JUD, 121; Vernell, 119; Beth Mitchell, 119; Charlie Tachas, 117; Alice Pitkin, 116; Ann Hoffman, 114; Grace Moore, 114; Ted Rivard, 114; E. H. Lippson, 114; and Oliver Roberts, 114.

Monday morning we had another fine turnout for our kitchen social. This Monday will be our last for a month or so, and therefore, we have some plans for a good time. Each one coming should bring one can of canned goods, and we have a couple of special games to play.

Monday afternoon there were 50 playing in our pinocle tournament, and the lucky winners were: Cis Wilson, 721; Joe Windsor, 712; Florence Brooks, 697; Esther Anderson, 688; Tom Grant, 682; Rose Campbell, 648; Margaret C. Donahue, 638; Guy Sanford, 634; Emma Russell, 632; Harriet Keeney, 629; Paul Schuetz, 621; Julia Vendritto, 620, and Lee Steinhilber, 621.

Tuesday was rather quiet. The bowling gang had their matches at the Parkdale Lanes. The high triple score was won by the Angels with 2046, and the high single was won by the Devils, with 704, for the team. The women's high triple of 391 and high single of 146 was won by Ruth Johnson. The men's high triple of 411 and high single of 164 was won by Henry Rivers.

Wednesday at the Fun-Day, we heard that Mr. Harold Lehmann, while painting his house, fell, ladder and all, and broke his wrist and fractured his ankle. He's home recuperating at 31 Caru Dr. Mrs. Elizabeth Robinson is quite ill at her home at 7 Otcott Dr., and Ethel Mohr is in the Manchester Memorial Hospital. We certainly hope that they are all feeling better, and that they'll soon be up and around, and ready for our opening in September.

Along with showing the colored slides of New York, the gang sang along with Mitch Miller, and his oldie but goodie songs, and this was followed by

Dr. Casanova Gets Fulbright Grant to Sweden

Dr. Joseph Casanova, now a resident of Monterey Park, Calif., formerly a resident of Rockville, has been awarded a Fulbright Grant to attend the University of Lund in Sweden.

Dr. Casanova is a 1949 graduate of Rockville High School. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Casanova of Pillsbury Hill, Rockville.

A chemistry professor at California State University since 1961, Dr. Casanova was named Outstanding Professor of the Year by his colleagues in 1964.

While in Sweden, Dr. Casanova will be in research in electro-organic chemistry. He will work in the laboratory of Robert Amende of Queen's University, Kingston, Ontario, Canada, and will complete his Ph.D. in Chemistry at the Connecticut State College Fair.

Dr. Casanova is a member of the Connecticut State College Fair and will be held during the week of August 1-5.

The queen-crowning ceremonies will be held Sunday at 2 p.m.

Heralding Homes

House - Vastly Altered - Appears Unchanged

Being a hostess is easy for Mrs. Trabitz in her spacious living-dining-den area.

When the Barry Trabitz family moved into their split-level white walled home several years ago, they chose to make structural alterations first, and concentrate on furnishings later. The physical changes in the house have been completed, and gradually, new furnishings are replacing the old.

The front of the house remains unchanged. But changes have been made which greatly affect the back of the house. "Mrs. Trabitz says, 'the neighbors wondered what was going on because they couldn't see anything happening.'"

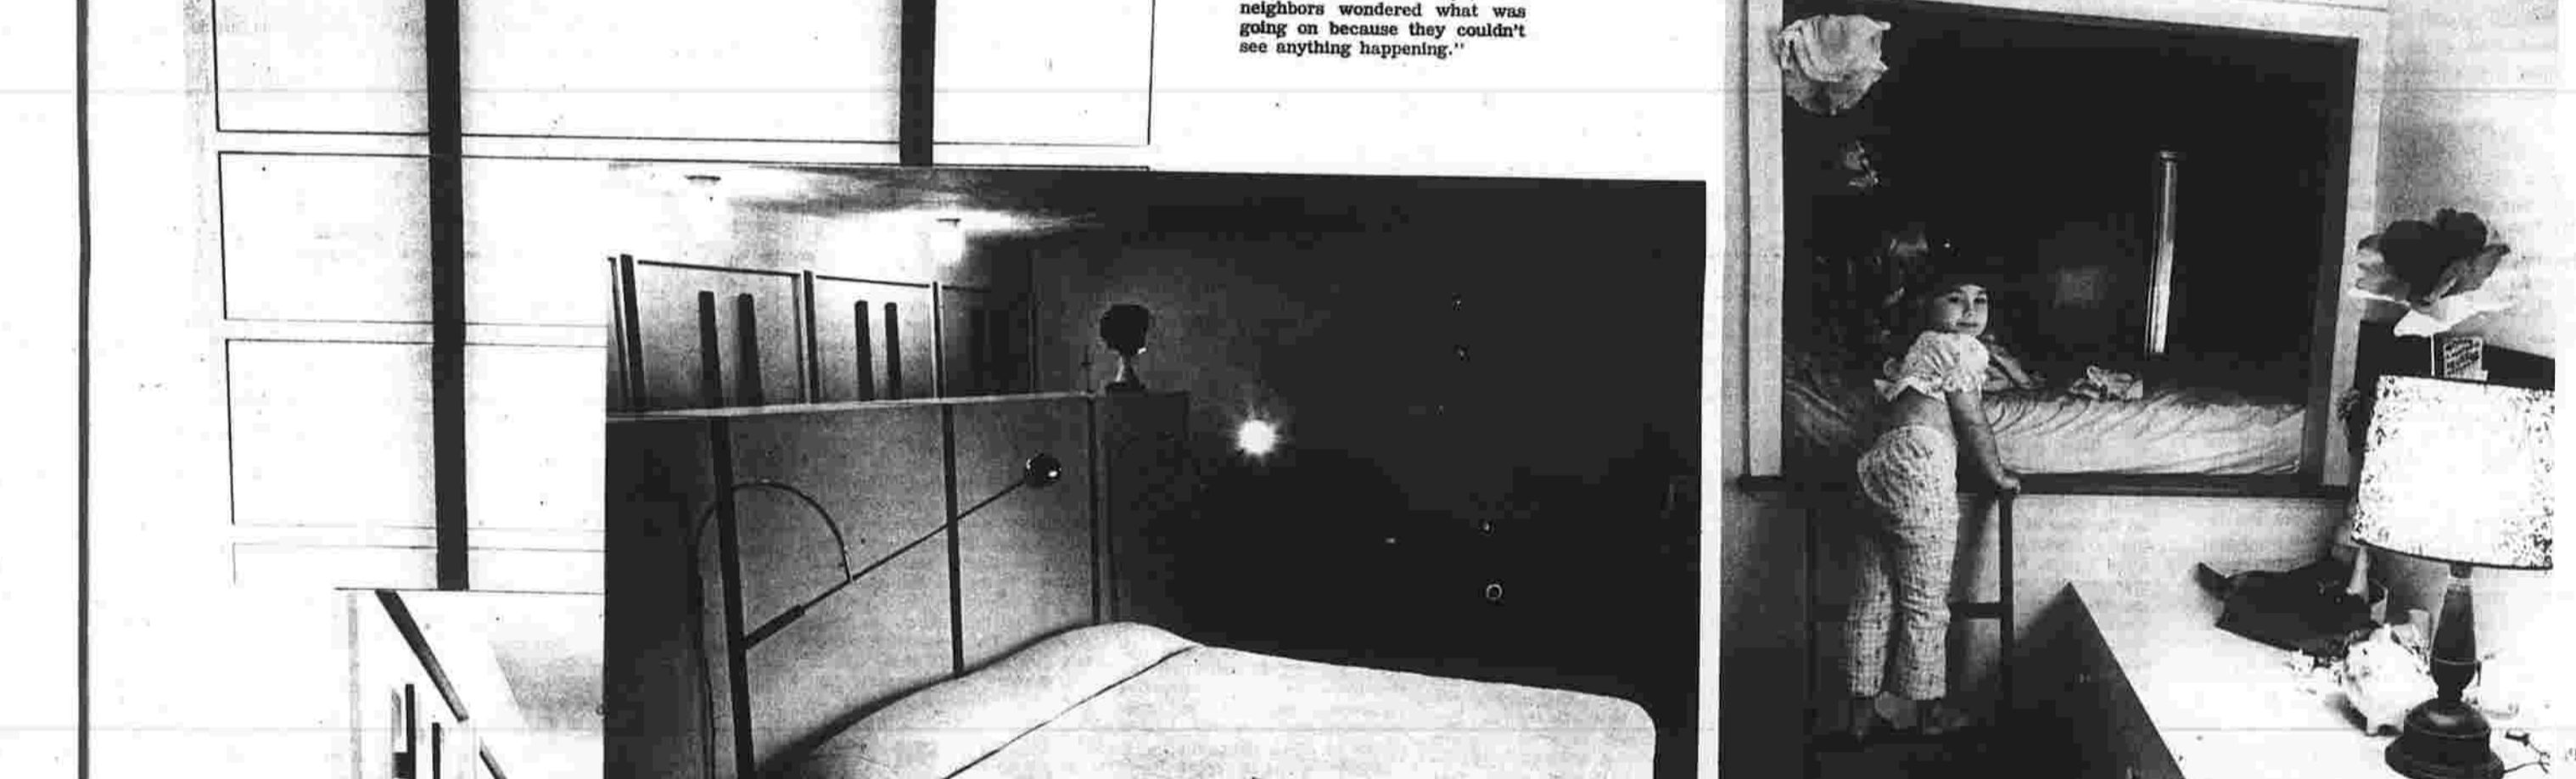

The rear wall of the living was not only extended a few feet, but it was converted into a window wall. This wall abuts the projected den which boasts two window seats. This expansive window area permits a full view of the woods with a huge border jutting up from the ground directly outside.

The short stairs which lead from the entrance foyer up to the landing and living room, once wood, have been laid with var-colored slate to match the foyer floor. The slate floor, and stairs, much more practical than the formerly carpeted stairs which were always such a nuisance to sweep down, are a breeze to wipe dry after wet boot tracks.

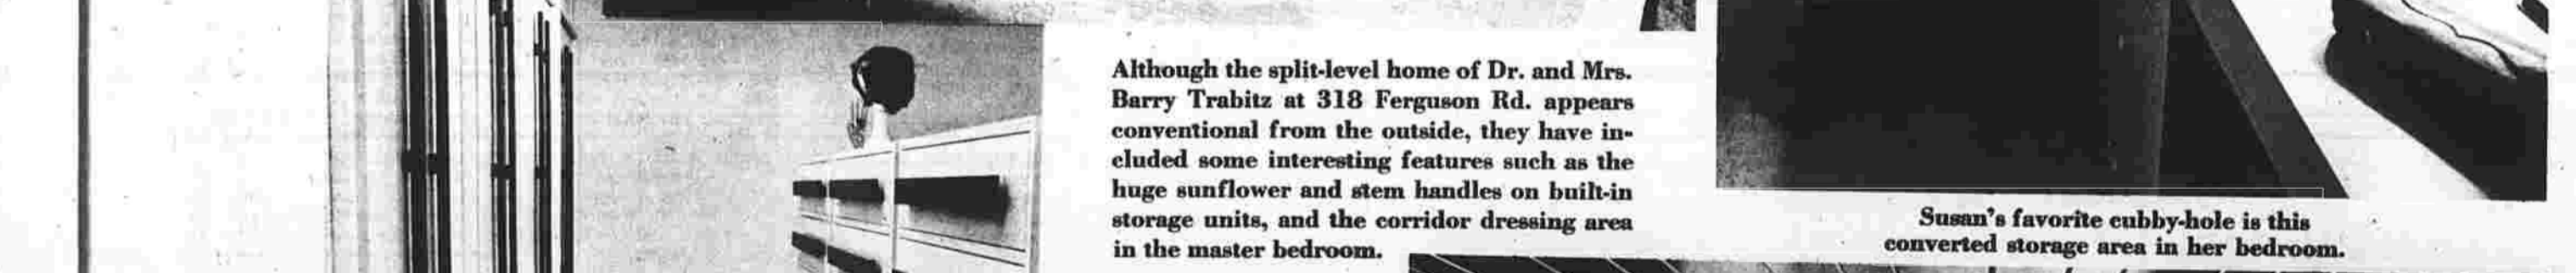

Mrs. Trabitz has scattered daffodil bulbs at random through her wooded yard and the springtime, she says, it's like a park. The rear wall extension also adds the master bedroom and two regular windows has become another window wall. East stairs which lead from the entrance foyer up to the landing and living room, once wood, have been laid with var-colored slate to match the foyer floor. The slate floor, and stairs, much more practical than the formerly carpeted stairs which were always such a nuisance to sweep down, are a breeze to wipe dry after wet boot tracks.

Although the split-level home of Dr. Mrs. Barry Trabitz at 318 Ferguson Rd. appears conventional from the outside, they have included some interesting features such as the huge sunflower and stem handles on built-in storage units, and the corridor dressing area in the master bedroom.

Susan's favorite cubby-hole is this converted storage area in her bedroom.

The paneled den blends naturally with the wooded yard.

Second Congressional District

Barbs and Boosts at GOP Dinner for Steele

By BETTE QUATRALE (Herald Reporter) Republican gubernatorial and senatorial candidates attending last night's Willimantic dinner honoring Second District Congressional candidate Robert Steele of Vernon threw several barbs at each other, but were united in their support of Steele's candidacy.

They boosted the 31-year-old Vernon candidate, describing him as "young, vigorous and young enough to keep on winning year after year."

U. S. senatorial candidate Lowell Welcker was most obvious in his criticism of his primary opponent John Lupton and of Lupton's campaign approach which claims he is a "better Republican" than Welcker.

Gubernatorial candidate Thomas Meskill was far more charitable regarding his primary opponent Wallace Barnes, and both called for pulling the party together again immediately after the primary to work for victory in November.

Barnes leveled a criticism against Democratic gubernatorial candidate Emilio Dardato, which could also be interpreted as being against Meskill.

"When one man has been in Washington for all these years, he can't really understand the problems of the state of Connecticut," said Barnes, who has served as minority leader of the State Senate.

Both Meskill and Barnes took off after Democratic primary Congressional candidate William Stanley and his proposals for a jetport-industrial city for Eastern Connecticut as a means of combating the area's economic problems.

No mention was made even indirectly of the Democratic convention-endorsed candidate for Congress, John Pickett.

"We can have an economic boom in Eastern Connecticut, without a sonic boom," Meskill stated. "We don't have to lose the attractive beauty of the region to improve the economy."

As governor he would sell Eastern Connecticut as an attractive area for desirable industry to locate in. This is necessary, he believes, to combat the area's heavy dependence on the defense industry.

"A jetport is not the answer to the area's economic problems," he added.

Primary Defended Barnes called for an open primary in the future and noted that a heavy turnout would provide the next legislative session with an excellent argument in favor of legislation for such a primary.

Welcker, the convention-endorsed candidate for U.S. senator urged Eastern Connecticut to "hang onto these trees" and warned against the jetport, also.

He took off after Lupton, claiming it is important to campaign on specific issues, on getting better solutions, and on "is one Republican a better Republican than another."

"If you win in November then you can do something about life," he told the approximately 300 Republican supporters at the Willimantic dinner.

Lupton spoke in his usual format, leading off with some stories, and then making a hard appeal for electing a senator who will support President Nixon on all matters.

"The President needs support to stave off the potential dangers of unemployment, inflation and to cool the college campuses."

He hit at Welcker's sometimes independent stands. President Nixon needs the support of every Republican Senator and Republican Congressman, he said.

Revenue Sharing Steele took advantage of last night's speaking platform to boost President Nixon's revenue sharing plan as a means of balancing the economic problems of the local communities.

He lashed out at Gov. John Dempsey for not exercising his powers to control the mounting deficit which he estimates will reach $800 million.

"The Democrats have been unwilling to cut out desirable but not absolutely necessary programs," he noted, but was critical that "the recommendations of the Drug Advisory Council have not been carried out."

Strengthening the laws regarding pollution is not the answer, he explained, noting the present laws are not being enforced. He particularly cited laws which would have eliminated the recent oil spills in Long Island Sound.

He accepted the support of the top level party candidates both party-endorsed and in the primary challenger roles.

It was his night and he was making the best of it as he circulated throughout the room shaking hands and greeting supporters.

"The towns and cities of Eastern Connecticut are going to require sharply expanded federal aid in the years ahead," Steele stated.

"Yet it is equally clear that the current system for apportioning and distributing federal funds is inadequate for these future needs."

"The present system is based on categorical federal grants which must be specifically applied for and then granted by the bureaucracy administering the program," Steele stated.

According to the candidate these programs have mushroomed from 18 in 1964 to over 1,300 today, creating "overlapping programs at the state and local level, increasing administrative costs and delays and uncertainty in programs."

His prime complaint regarding the administration of these programs is the placing of an enormous hardship on small and medium size towns in Eastern Connecticut which desire federal assistance but lack the kind of highly trained staff necessary to shunt out the programs and fill out the complex application forms.

Steele was critical of Congress' failure to pass the recommended legislation to permit the federal revenue sharing program, and many other programs advanced by Nixon.

"The only one really effective way in which we in this room can work for this bill's passage is to give our district a Republican congressman, and our state a Republican senator in November," Steele concluded.

Republican Secretary of State candidate Mrs. Barbara Dunn also attended the dinner as a guest of honor. The dinner was sponsored by the Republican Women's Club of the Second District North, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Elizabeth Hill of Columbia.

Primary Funds May Come From Revenue Account

Because the current General Fund budget makes no provision for next month's two primaries, the Board of Directors, when it meets Aug. 4, will consider a $9,000 additional appropriation for that purpose—$4,500 for the Aug. 12 Republican primary and $4,500 for the Aug. 19 Democratic primary.

The 1970-71 budget was adopted in May. It was not until the end of June that primaries were indicated.

The board's action will follow a public hearing on the proposal. The $9,000 would be financed by an increase in anticipated receipts to the Miscellaneous Revenue Account.

Miscellaneous Revenue Account

Miscellaneous Revenue is an all-inclusive account, and an expansion of the source for the anticipated increase has not been made.

A second proposed additional appropriation up for public hearing Aug. 4 is $250, to the Recreation Account. It would be financed from baseball league registration fees, already received.

And a third proposed action involves a shifting of funds only. On July 7, the board allocated $7,150 for air-conditioning units in the Municipal Building and the Hall of Records. The funds were taken from the Capital Improvement Reserve Fund.

Bomb Kills Industrialist

(Continued from Page One) has acquired more than 600 independent telephone companies in the United States and several foreign countries, and its assets have grown from $26 million to more than $1 billion.

He was described by a business associate as a "fast and energetic man" who jetted to various facilities but was "never in town long enough to make any enemies."

Police Maj. Herbert Johnston said a parking attendant had been about 40 feet away from the car for the hour it was parked while the three had lunch. "It was a very professional job," Johnston said.

First Flag Raising

The first recorded raising of a flag over a school took place at Catamount Hill, Colrain, Mass., in May, 1812. A monument marks the site of the old log schoolhouse.

James Stewart: TV's Prize Catch

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The prize catch for a television series is James Stewart, and the man who did the catching is onetime gag writer Hal Kanter. Recently NBC announced that Stewart would star in a half-hour comedy series for the 1971-72 season. The news came as a surprise to the television trade, because no one believed that a film star like Stewart would consent to a series.

"After all, Jimmy's still making a couple of movies a year, at good money plus a percentage of the take," said one observer. He's had all the fame, and he's loaded. At his age 62 why would he want to take on the grind of a TV series?"

Hal Kanter wondered, too. He is a showwise fellow who has turned out gags for Danny Kaye and Amos 'n' Andy, movie scripts for Bob Hope and Elvis Presley, and television shows for George Gobel and Diahann Carroll. Kanter is the fellow who created "Julia" and continues to produce it.

"We had Jimmy on a 'Julia' last season, in connection with his work as chairman on the Red Cross drive," said the producer. "Everyone on the show was impressed by his easy professionalism."

"He had a call for 9 o'clock, which is the time most actors would arrive at the studio. At nine Jimmy was not only at the studio; he was in wardrobe, had his makeup on and all of his lines memorized. When the director told the assistant to call him, Jimmy was out of his chair before the assistant could get to him."

Kanter had previously worked with Stewart on the Gobel show and in a film, "Dear Brigitte." The actor was impressed by the speed and efficiency of the "Julia" operation, and Kanter asked if he has considered doing a series.

"I'm not too interested," Stewart remarked. "First of all, I'd have to decide if I wanted to do a series at all. Then I'd have to consider what kind of a show I'd do. But I haven't reached the first question yet."

Kanter dropped the matter. A few months later he was called by a television executive at Warner Bros. Would he be interested in creating a television series for Jimmy Stewart? Kanter said yes.

Next came a meeting with the executive, Jimmy's agent and the star himself. Kanter outlined his idea.

"Jimmy smiled," the producer recalled. "Jimmy Stewart smiling is the equivalent of most actors knee-slapping and bending over. I figured we were in."

Kanter is not too expansive about his idea—his competitors might beat him to the tube with it. But he did reveal the basic premise: The generation gap. That's not exactly a hot new subject, but Kanter figures he has a new approach.

Stewart will portray a married college professor in a Southern California town. He has a 28-year-old son and a 6-year-old grandson. Stewart and wife will also have a 6-year-old son. See the possibilities?

The title for the series: "Family Plan." That's a surprise. Networks usually like to use high-powered names for marquee value, and you'd expect it to be "The Jimmy Stewart Show."

"This may surprise you, but 'The Fred MacMurray show' is actually called 'My Three Sons.' And it has been doing all right," Kanter said.

Duke Ellington is a guest on "Happy Days" Thursday 8 to 9 p.m. on CBS.

Serling On Shelf

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Rod Serling says he is more or less on the sidelines of television now, and prefers it that way, but:

—He will be the author and host of a collection of eerie tales on "Night Gallery," a segment of NBC's "Four-In-One."

—He is adapting "A Storm in Summer," which won an Emmy as the best dramatic show last season, as a Broadway musical. Steve Allen is writing the music.

—He is a much-in-demand voice and performer on commercials. The day after this interview he flew to San Francisco to appear in an automobile commercial.

Serling, the most honored writer in television, says he likes being on the periphery because "you don't have to worry about ratings. And every now and then I'm brought in off the shelf like a reasonably valuable antique."

Serling, a small, thin man

(See Page Three)

Virginia McKenna, who was in "Born Free," stars in TV adaptation of E. M. Forster's "A Passage to India." The drama, co-starring Dame Sybil Thorne-dike, will be on Thursday at 8:30 on Channel 24.

High Costs Maketh the TV Season Short

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Inflation, rising costs, the economic squeeze and the loss of cigarette advertising are combining to make the upcoming television season the shortest ever.

The average series will have only 24 original shows. Some will have as few as 22, while a few lucky series will run as long as 26 weeks before going into reruns.

This means that the season will run out sometime in March, the exact week depending on whether the networks paid the time by dropping in a special or two.

Not only are high costs whittling away the number of shows, but some producers are having to cut corners in other ways, such as fewer sets, fewer location shooting and smaller casts.

Just 10 years ago a half-hour show such as "Richard Diamond" could be brought in for $39,000. Producer Bob Claver said "The Partridge Family" is costing $108,000 an episode. "That's a lot of bread when you think 'Diamond' was done for under $40,000," he said.

Eleven years ago, when "Bonanza" began, it cost $114,000, which was expensive then because it was the first program filmed entirely in color. This season it will cost $215,000 a show.

Hal Holbrook, starring in "The Senator," said budget restrictions are forcing some compromises in casting on the show. "The administrative staff is what keeps a senator going, but (See Page Four)

High Costs

 We can't cast as many assistants as we'd like to," he said.
 Producer Aaron Ruben said Andy Griffith's new show, "Headmaster," is "costing at least a third more than Andy's original show 10 years ago. We have to hold down in some places. We don't show the whole faculty; there's no need to. We don't show all the students; there's no reason for that, either."
 The ban on cigarette commercials, ordered by Congress effective Jan. 1, will mean a $225 million loss to the industry and a $150 million loss to the networks alone.
 The rising cost of television programming is due to several factors, the most important of which is the cost of labor. Some new equipment and techniques are being introduced, but for the most part films—including television shows—are still being made the way they were 30 years ago.
 Another reason is that the audience today demands a more sophisticated show and the extra cost money.
