MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — The Tupamaro guerrillas executed American police expert Daniel A. Mitrone during the night because the Uruguayan government refused to release an estimated 150 political prisoners as ransom for him and two other kidnaped foreign officials.

Police Catch Rebel Chief In Uruguay

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — The Uruguayan government has derived one dividend from the search for three kidnaped foreign officials. It has captured the leader of the Tupamaro guerrillas sought for six years.

Raul Sendic, 45, was arrested Friday with a dozen other persons during the nationwide search for U.S. advisers Dan A. Mitrone, 50, and Claude L. Fly, 65, and Brazilian Consul Aloysio Mares Dias Gomide, 41. Apparently Sendic's arrest had considerable impact on the Tupamaros. The rebels immediately threatened reprisals against the government, the diplomatic colony and security forces if harm comes to their "arrested companions."

Before the abductions of Mitrone and Dias Gomide on July 31, the Tupamaros had kidnaped three Uruguayan officials but had not taken their war on the government of President Jorge Pacheco Areco into the foreign community.

Police believe the Tupamaro organization got its start among Socialist party organizers of a sugar workers union in northwestern Uruguay in the late 1950s. They later transferred their field of operations to Montevideo, the capital with almost a million inhabitants.

The Socialists were banned several years ago because of their violent pro-Castro stand.

The guerrillas are believed to have taken their name from that of Tupac Amaru, a leader of the Incas who was executed by the Spanish for leading a rebellion in Peru in the 18th century. Some say the name was used by the cavalry of Jose Gerardo de Artigas, Uruguay's national hero, during the war for independence from Spain during the last century.

Hunted by Uruguayan police since 1964, Sendic successfully remained underground. He was arrested once by Argentine police when he visited Monte Caseros, just across the border, but escaped and had not been seen again by police until Friday.

Police claim Sendic was a member of Tupamaro groups which robbed a series of banks and businesses and took part in a sensational robbery of the luxurious gambling casino in the

Bridgeport Man Dies In Gunfire

BRIDGEPORT, Conn. (AP) — A man described by police as an innocent bystander was shot and killed in a half of gunfire at a drive-in restaurant late Sunday night. Five men were arrested, two on murder charges.

Police said the dead man was Joaquim Teixeira, 37, of 81 Seely St., Bridgeport, the father of five children. Police said in addition to gunshot wounds, a knife was found beneath his body, but it was not immediately determined how many wounds he suffered.

The shooting occurred about 11 p.m. at Homa's University Drive-in on Main Street near the University of Bridgeport. Police said they were investigating.

Israelis Hit Arab Bases In Lebanon

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli planes attacked Arab guerrilla bases in Lebanon over the weekend, and ground forces battled infiltrators on the Israeli-held Golan Heights. But quiet prevailed along the Suez Canal for the second day of the Egyptian-Israeli cease-fire.

The air attack Sunday on the southwest slopes of Mt. Hermon was in retaliation for guerrilla raids on Israeli frontier settlements and military positions over the weekend, an Israeli spokesman said. A Lebanese army spokesman said the raiders burned crops and knocked out electrical power in three villages known to be guerrilla strongholds—Kfar Shuba, Shaba and Jerza.

Arab guerrillas in Lebanon fired mortars at an Israeli border settlement in Northern Galilee Sunday night, wounding one of the settlers, the military command in Tel Aviv said today. Israeli troops returned the fire, he said.

Guerrillas from Jordan claimed killing or wounding 20 Israelis in an attack Sunday on military positions five miles north of the Dead Sea. Tel Aviv said no Israeli casualties were reported in the incident.

The Israeli command said two guerrillas were killed and eight others captured Saturday after a small force from the Syria-based Popular Front "General Command" infiltrated into the occupied Golan Heights. A spokesman said the guerrillas were carrying explosives, mines

U.S. Youths Killed Aboard Plane Were Among Nation's Brightest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

They were 49 teen-agers who were among the smartest, most talented, most active and hard-working, thoughtful and concerned youngsters to be found in small-town America.

They were scholars, student council members, club presidents, and student editors; choir singers and band members; 4-H club winners, expert golfers or horsewomen.

Many of the girls were among the prettiest, too—prom queens, cheerleaders and drum majorettes.

They were, as Mrs. Mildred Brown, head of the exchange program International Fellowship put it, "the best that their communities could offer."

These 49 bright, attractive young Americans died Sunday when their plane crashed into a hillside in Peru.

Christopher Canniff, 17, of Carmel, N.Y., had visited most of the United States, including Alaska, his high school guidance teacher said, and went to Peru because "he felt he wanted to have an understanding of conditions in the world."

A science and math major who did volunteer tutoring for younger students, Christopher was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Canniff, who were too crushed to discuss their son.

But the counselor, Louis Wilson, told of a boy who was interested in music, on the golf team, in the photography club, a debater, a boy who loved skiing, skating and swimming.

"I don't know what to say except he was an awfully nice kid," said Wilson.

Deeva Jo Dulaney, 16, lived on a farm at East Millsboro, Pa., and dreamed of an acting career. Last June she represented her school at the International Theatrical Dramatic Arts Conference at the University of Indiana, and she had been in several productions of the Brownsville Community Theater.

Marjorie Rook lived on a farm, too, a 500-acre spread at Sullivan in Ashland County, Ohio, and her interests were closer to home. Seventeen-year-old Marjorie, a cheerleader member of the band and student council at Black River High School, was president of her local 4-H club, a Future Farmers of America queen, and had been showing her cattle since she was 10. The prizes won by her steers at the Ashland County Fair helped to pay for her trip to Peru.

"He was a smart kid, not long-haired," said Albert Fineman, of Glen Mills, Pa., of his dead son, Harold, 16. "He didn't take drugs, liked athletics. He wanted to study journalism and be a sports writer."

Fineman said Harold already had done some reporting of school sports for Philadelphia newspapers. He also collected rocks, said the father, and this was one reason he was excited about the trip to Peru—the thought of adding to his collection specimens from the Andes.

Three Indiana girls who died in the crash all stood out at their local high schools.

Janine L. Hullin, 17, was a pretty brunette who was a pom-pom girl with the Marion, Ind., High School band that won a state championship last year.

Mary B. Kinsock, 17, according to her father, James, of Hammond, Ind., took part in everything the school offered "instead of just sitting there chewing gum."

She sang in the school chorus, played tennis and was a horsewoman, and was happy about improving her Spanish because she hoped to attend Purdue University and eventually become a Spanish teacher.

At Brownsville, Ind., Edward Oehlman told how his 16-year-old daughter Cynthia Lynn had been a member of the high school year book staff and drill team. She studied Spanish and took part in the exchange program, he said, because she hoped to become a stewardess on an airline serving Spanish-speaking countries.

LIMA, N.Y. (AP) — A versatile 17-year-old girl from this western New York community was among the American youngsters aboard the Peruvian airliner that crashed Sunday near Cuzco, Peru.

She was Ardeth Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Marshall of Lima. She had spent the summer as an international fellowship exchange

LIMA, Peru (AP) — A Peruvian airliner returning tourists from a visit to the Inca ruins at Machu Picchu crashed Sunday, killing 99 of the 100 persons aboard, including 49 young American exchange students. It was Peru's worst air disaster.

"They were typical United States high school students, the best that their communities could offer," said Mrs. Mildred M. Brown of Buffalo, N.Y., president of the International Fellowship, Inc., which sponsored the Peruvian visit by the youths.

Fifteen other youths decided to remain in Lima with the families with whom they had spent the summer, rather than make the trip to the ruins.

Several other Americans were aboard but the number was uncertain.

International Fellowship received from the State Department a list of 49 of its students 14 to 19 years old aboard the plane. But the airline, Lanasa, issued a list of 54 Americans aboard which included three other teen-agers, a 21-year-old and four older tourists. The airline listed two of the students on International Fellowship's list as Peruvians, and it was thought some of those it listed as American might be Peruvian.

The airline said the Lockheed Electra carried 91 passengers and seven crew members, but later the Aviation Department said there were two more crew members aboard.

One man, the copilot, survived. He was found in the wreckage of the cockpit.

Most of the passengers had flown to Cuzco, the ancient Inca capital 365 miles southeast of Lima, for an excursion to the Inca ruins at nearby Machu Picchu. After the day of sight-seeing, the plane had just taken off from Cuzco for Lima when one of its four turboprop engines failed and the pilot, Capt. Alejandro Calagari, requested permission to return to Cuzco.

Light Voting At Polls Seen In GOP Battle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The stakes on Wednesday will be big—the Republican nominations for governor and U.S. Senator.

But a big question remains—how many of Connecticut's 400,000 registered Republicans will turn out to vote in Connecticut's first-ever statewide primary?

The question is hard to answer because of the lack of a precedent, but estimates among those willing to guess usually range below 40 per cent.

And one GOP leader says about 35 per cent of the party doesn't even know there's a primary on.

The candidates in the primary have been campaigning for two months now — Congressman Thomas J. Meskill and State Sen. Wallace Barnes for the gubernatorial nomination and Congressman Lowell F. Weicker Jr. and State Sen. John M. Lupton for the Senate nomination.

Meskill and Weicker — the choices of the state party leadership—are rated the favorites. Both were endorsed by the state party convention in June. Barnes and Lupton qualified for the primary at the same convention, by taking 20 per cent of the delegates for themselves.

The Republican party leadership had made plain its objections to a primary, with State Chairman Howard E. Hausman saying it would cost too much and would divide the chronically faction-ridden GOP.

In divisiveness, at least, events proved him right, with the Lupton-Weicker contest taking on ideological overtones reminiscent of 1964, when Sen. Barry Goldwater was running for President.

Lupton called Weicker an "ultra-liberal" on Thursday, and Weicker responded the next day by accusing Lupton of "trying to re-sell the election of 1964."

The Weicker camp is apparently more worried than the Meskill forces, figuring that Lupton's conservative following is dedicated and enthusiastic

Nerve Gas Rockets Head for Burial at Sea

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A heavily guarded munitions train rolled out of Richmond, Ky., today carrying 113 obsolete nerve gas rockets toward a burial at sea.

The Army was preparing to move a similar shipment of gas by rail from the Anniston, Ala., depot later in the day.

Both will converge on Sunny Point, N.C., later in the week where the rockets will be scuttled in waters 10,000 feet deep, 282 miles east of Cape Kennedy, Fla.

A pilot train carrying decontamination teams, ambulances, and medical personnel preceded the munitions train out of Richmond. It was running 55 minutes ahead of the main caravan.

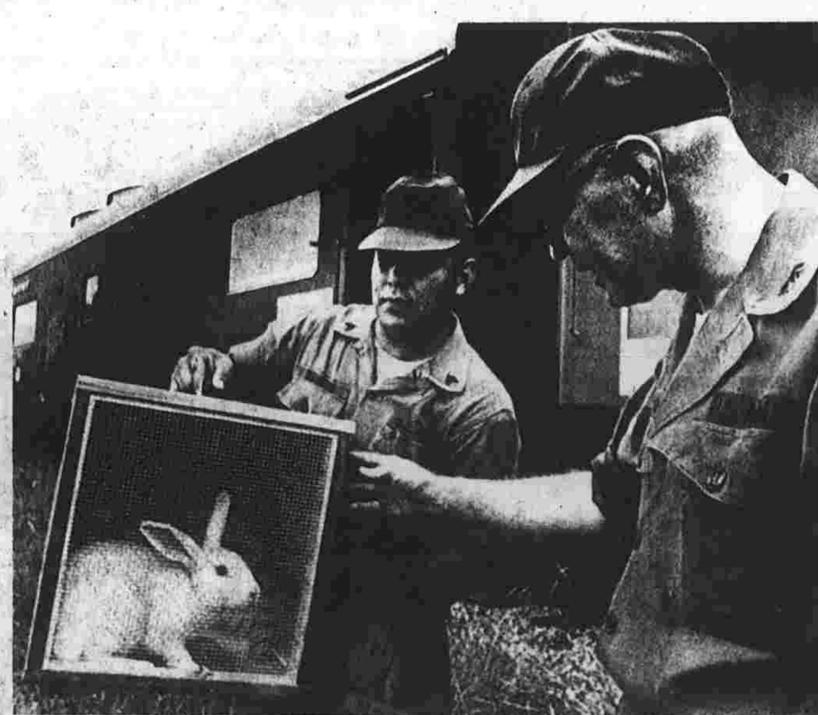

As the pilot train crossed under a bridge near the depot, a number of soldiers standing in the doorways waved at the few spectators on the bridge and then threw up their hands in the "V" for peace sign.

The two trains were sent on a secret route designed to carry them through thinly populated areas. By highway, it is about 645 miles from Richmond to the North Carolina coast while Anniston is about 340 miles from the port.

The Army said there is no danger of leakage from the vials, encased in concrete and steel jackets.

Army chemical experts will accompany the shipments and their mechanical gas-leak detectors will be backed up by 12 rabbits and 12 pigeons, highly sensitive to gas.

Army spokesmen said similar shipments in the future will be unnecessary because the Army is developing a method of de-

"THE WAY I HEARD IT"

By John Gruber

During the past months I've had several requests to do a series of articles on the instruments of the orchestra. I did such a series in these columns some eight or ten years ago but these are always newcomers to the field of orchestral music so I suppose I won't hurt to repeat the information again.

The modern orchestra has grown to a hundred instrumentalists but this was not always the case. In Mozart's day, for example, it was usually only about 55. Much of this period should still be played by an orchestra of that size, for the composer conceived his works in that scale.

Unfortunately, if the Cleveland orchestra should come here to play Mozart with only 55 players, the audience would feel it had been ripped. "What? Only a third of the members for Hartford? What do they think we are, stupid? Actually, that's just what some people are, stupid."

Just once Mozart got an orchestra of nearly 70 to conduct, and he wrote home that he doubled the flutes, oboes, and bassoons to achieve the balance he wanted. He also had the brasses play one dynamic mark louder than that indicated in the score.

But to get back to the instruments of the orchestra themselves, I'll take them up as they appear on the conductor's score, from the top of the sheet to the bottom. A violin is written on one staff, a piano on two, an organ on three, but the orchestra may require thirty.

The top section of the score embraces the woodwinds, including flutes, oboes, and clarinets, and two few platinum flutes exist, and their tone is superior to that of the silver flute, but whether the improvement is enough to justify the much greater expense, is problematical.

In its lowest range, the flute has a plaintive sound, something like the cooing of a pigeon or dove. In its upper ranges it is mellow to brilliant. It is impossible to play the very top notes of the flute softly. If this is necessary, the note is played on the piccolo instead, since it can play relatively softly in range.

Below the flutes in the score come the oboes. These are still made of wood, and like the flute are covered with a multi-ple of keys. The oboe has about the same bottom note as the flute, nowadays "B" or "B-flat" but it originally had "C" for its lowest note and fingered in the key of "C".

Effectively it has a range of only two octaves, although by means of "cross-finger" technique another half octave can be produced. These added notes do not have the same tone color usually associated with the oboe, but sound very like the flute. In all cases, there are even flutes that have "B" and "B-flat" in the score since the flute would normally put every thing up one whole tone. With all the finger holes closed, the lowest note was "D".

Nowadays the instrument has been extended downward to "C" in all cases, and there are even flutes that have "B" and "B-flat" in the score since the flute would normally put every thing up one whole tone. With all the finger holes closed, the lowest note was "D".

good times. There is more, not less, absenteeism.
 And, according to the survey, this performance, or lack of it, doesn't differ very much between union and non-union employees.
 This is all opposite to what most of us would have predicted.
 If most of us would err in our expectation of what people would do under such circumstances, that may be because we still place too much reliance, in our assessment of human behavior, on the efficiency of fear as a stimulus to good, positive action.

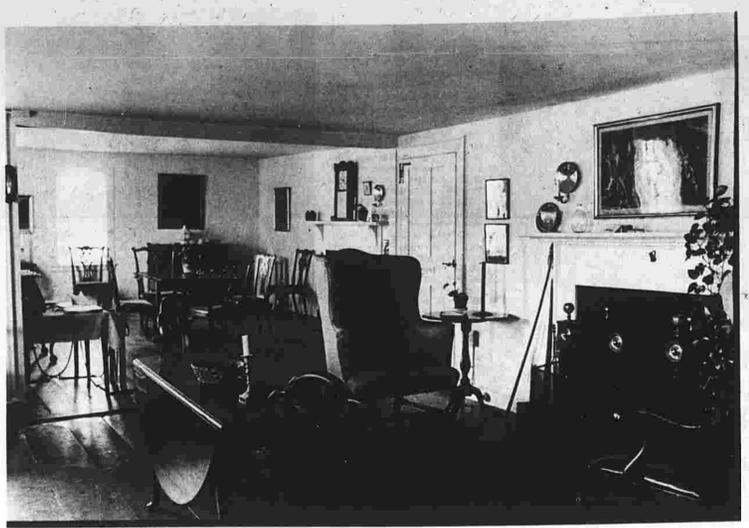

We still think, a good many of us, that human beings can be pressured, threatened, deprived, or rough-housed into better performance in this rough, tough game of life.
 But the real truth, lying under any truly accurate analysis of the past history of human behavior, and quite likely to control our future behavior too, is that we seldom do anything which is worth while and which has lasting soundness under the influence of fear. We are more likely to go into a state of demoralization, in which we accomplish less, or in some slam-bang type of action, which itself destroys more than it preserves.
 But perhaps the cynical but valid general conclusion to be made is this: that depression or not, the days when the ordinary American feels special gratitude for the privilege of earning his own living has probably gone forever.

Tranquilizer Colors
 "No one," said the story from London, "seems to like the red pills much."
 The patients—all on the same tranquilizers—were given three different colors of pills.
 They did well enough on the yellow and well enough on the green.
 But the red color, even though it covered the same ingredient, didn't seem to do them as much good.
 What this scientific study of the effect of color on patients discovered is, of course, something mankind has always known, instinctively.
 Who ever prescribed red pills for anybody, except, perhaps, a mortal enemy?
 The most efficient color, it we suppose, white, pure and authoritative. The easiest color to get down is, we suppose, pink, with its suggestion that we are back in the nursery, being ministered to.
 If the idea is to be lenient on our adult mind, but entice us with a something pleasing to the visual senses, the design might be for pastel green or blue faced with white, just like one of the best of all medicines for any ailment which is a view of water and sky and cloud to be taken every hour every day until the workday being has been thoroughly tranquillized.

Why Cease-Fire In Just One War?
 There are important differences, including the difference that the war in the Far East is a full-fledged military encounter, whereas that in the Near East has been one of sporadic skirmishing.
 And there is one difference which is more important than all others. It is that, in the Far East, the United States itself is in a full-fledged belligerent, fighting in the field, bringing the guns that would have to stop firing if there were to be a halt in the fighting.
 But surely the principle has to be the same.
 Surely, if a cease-fire in the Near East is the best way to halt the spread of war and give negotiations for peace a decent, realistic chance, it can also be reasoned that a cease-fire in the Far East would be a logical thing to strive for, to cool the war itself, and to prepare the way for meaningful negotiations.
 How then, one must ask, can the Nixon Administration demonstrate such brilliant and careful and thoughtful leadership toward a cease-fire and toward negotiating in the Near East, and still act as if it had never thought of the possibility of a cease-fire in Vietnam?

Why, to put the question bluntly, should not the United States be willing to do, in the Far East, what it has never persuaded the belligerents in the Near East to do?
 There is, of course, little percentage in asking such questions as if we expect the Nixon Administration can give instant recognition to the moral and the principle involved, and try to bring both situations to the front burner at the same time.
 But what is wrong with suggesting that, if there is good fortune in the Near East negotiations, and if the cease-fire there can be turned permanent, the Nixon Administration ought to try to do something that good momentum to open its own policy toward the possibility of a cease-fire in the war in which its own guns are hot?

The Side-Effects Of Lay-offs
 The human being remains a perverse and unpredictable response organism, and there seems, at first glance, to be considerably newly attached to a survey-report in the Wall Street Journal, about how the wage earners of 1970 are responding to the appearance of the lay-off in their midst.
 While we were in full prosperity boom, and bosses could detect some employees being quite comfortable and complacent in their jobs, and the bosses didn't dare complain, because they themselves needed all the help they could get, the bosses used to have one conoling mean thought.
 "Give 'em a good hard recession," the Journal has the typical boss saying, "and watch 'em work. If a man has to produce or get laid off, he'll produce."
 That sounded like accurate prognostication, back in the boom.
 Now, however, when there have been layoffs, the Wall Street Journal survey finds the strange thing happening.
 Instead of being stimulated and energized into greater performance, employees who have seen the lay-off coming into their plant seem to become listless and demoralized. Instead of turning out more production a day, they turn out less. Instead of fighting to be the ones who escape the next lay-off, by demonstrating their own superior individual values as an employee, they seem to have even less initiative than they did back in

Stennis Again

By WILLIAM RASPBERRY
 The Washington Post
 WASHINGTON — While several Senate liberals were either actively working for, or quietly supporting, or saying nothing whatever about that repulsive piece of legislation known as the District of Columbia crime bill, a couple of Southern conservatives were standing up for the Constitution.
 It was one of the conservatives, Sen. Sam J. Ervin (D-Kan.), who was principally responsible for calling attention to the word features of the legislation and working tirelessly, if unsuccessfully, for its defeat.
 And it was a certified liberal, Sen. Joseph D. Tydings (D-Md.), who worked so hard for passage of the bill, including particularly "preventive detentions," the provision for jailing volunteers for crimes they might possibly commit at some future time.
 Some Senators who fancy themselves middle-of-the-roaders tried to have it both ways, shaking their heads in dismay at the bill's most repulsive and unconstitutional features but voting for passage all the same.
 It simply isn't politically wise to oppose anticrime legislation, no matter how repulsive or ineffectual it might be when you're facing an electorate for whom crime is a matter of grave concern or when your constituents are mostly Southern conservatives.
 Tydings is up for re-election this year, and some have suggested that his stand on the crime measure was an attempt to recapture some of the votes he has lost because of his strong stand on gun control. That, at least, is one possible explanation. And Ervin, though a racial conservative, has always been a faithful defender of the Constitution.
 Just how do you explain either the silence of a Sen. Eugene McCarthy (D-Minn.) or the unexpected outspokenness of a Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.)?
 McCarthy said nothing about the bill, although he did vote against it; Sen. Charles Percy (R-Ill.), another liberal, said little and voted for it.
 But listen to Mississippi's arch-conservative Stennis on the day of the vote:
 "I, too, would like to support a sound (anti-crime) bill. I am not indifferent to conditions in the District of Columbia. In a small way, I am a property owner here-of a home, at least. A member of my family has been a victim of some of the lawlessness here...
 "(But) I think we are in the first place for the enactment of this bill. In the past, almost everyone has doubts about its constitutionality."
 Then, referring to those of his colleagues who had taken the position that they would do their political thing and pass the bill, leaving it to the Supreme Court to handle the constitutional question, Stennis said:
 "When those who doubt the constitutionality of statutes rely on the courts to overturn them, that does more to undermine our Constitution than anything else I know of...
 "I just do not believe some of the provisions are constitutional and if those of us who believe that way are going to surrender and say, 'let the courts decide everything,' then who else will stand up for these basic principles?"
 Stennis said something else about our new law: It cannot deliver what it promises.
 "I believe we are going to lose the people who think that paradise is at hand," he said.
 "We will lead the people of this country into a new era of crime and lawlessness. We will lead the people of this country into a new era of crime and lawlessness. We will lead the people of this country into a new era of crime and lawlessness."
 None of this suggests that our Stennis has suddenly become a liberal or a champion of the people of the District of Columbia.
 The former chairman of Gov. John Dempsey's clean water unit, Stennis pledged himself toward eliminating pollution.
 "We will not be successful until we recognize that our ways in the past have been wrong and

 (Herald Reporter)
 Both Democratic candidates in the Democratic primary for the Second Congressional District nomination have joined their Republican opponent Robert Stennis of Vernon in opposing a bill on industrial pollution and environmental problems.
 State Sen. William Stanley, the primary challenger for the Democratic nomination, this weekend called for a "drastic step in industrial planning to preserve the environment and eliminate the serious water pollution problem now becoming evident."
 His opponent in the upcoming primary, State Sen. John Pickett, called for enactment of the Resource Recovery Act, which allocates funds to increase the current level research in the fields of reclaiming and recycling solid wastes.
 Last week Stennis called for federal investigation of some 10 unidentified state industries and their possible discharging of mercury into state waters. Stanley offered some proposals regarding industrial pollution. He would favor centralizing industrial development in one area with tax revenue from the industry distributed to the area towns in which the employees live.
 The Daniels bill would create penalties for employer violations ranging from a $1,000 fine per violation to the closing of a plant in the case of critical and health officials.
 "Workers should not be forced to sacrifice their health and lives in order to hold a job and feed their families," the Daniels bill is an important step in establishing the workman's right to safe employment in industry," Pickett declared.
 Stennis, Service, Unemployment Stale, not to be outdone by his Democratic counterpart, stressed the need for a congressman's serving all the towns of the sprawling second district, but also decried the substantial unemployment rate in Eastern Connecticut.

A FUNNY THING HAPPENED TO PRESIDENT NIXON ON HIS WAY TO MAKING SOMETHING PERFECTLY CLEAR

Inside Report

 The Future' could become the nucleus of a 1972 Shriver-for-President operation.

An unpublished portion of the Oliver Murphay poll (which showed Rep. John V. Tunney leading Republican Sen. George Murphay in the California Senatorial race) has distinctly bad news for the onetime song-and-dance man. The poll shows conclusively for the first time how badly Murphay has been hurt by Tunney's last June that he had a financial deal with Patrick J. Frewley Jr., at that time head of Technicolor, Inc.
 The deal—now terminated—gave Murphay an annual $20,000 "consultant's fee" from Technicolor, together with one-half the rent of his high-cost Washington apartment and generous use of credit cards, including an airplane card.
 Of the California voters sampled in the Quaysie poll, 52 per cent "disapproved" of this Murphay-Frewley financial link, of whom 48 per cent said they felt "very strongly" about it. Murphay's Republican primary opponent, millionaire Norion Simon, made it a central issue. Only 19 per cent said they did not know enough about the matter to have an opinion—and 29 per cent said they approved of the payments to Murphay.

Q. I received a legal looking notice from a California firm stating a considerable sum of money was available in an unclaimed estate of a man having our family name. They implied I may be an heir and requested $8.00 for documents concerning the estate. Should I send the money?

A. Absolutely NOT! This is a racket! We heard there were as least several dozen fast-buck operators in it. Take or mail the "request" to the postmaster... and save your money.

Coventry Caucuses, Primary Due In Busy Political Week

Two party caucuses and the Republican primary are coming up this week. Both local parties will caucus to select candidates for judge of probate, justices of the peace and registrars of voters.

The Republicans meet tonight at 8 at the Capt. Nathan Hale School and the Democrats on Wednesday night, same hour and place.

The primary is Wednesday, with polls open from noon to 8 p.m. at the two voting places: Town Hall for first district voters, and the Grammar School for those in the second district.

The primary is open to all registered Republicans, and will feature two state-wide contests; party-endorsed candidate for governor Thomas Meskill against his challenger Wallace Barnes and party-endorsed candidate for U. S. senator Lowell Weicker against his challenger John Lupton.

It is the first state-wide primary in Connecticut history, and all registered Republicans in Coventry are being urged to vote for the candidates of their choice.

The caucuses of both parties are open to voters affiliated with the particular party involved.

Workers for the Wednesday primary have been announced. In the first district, the officials will include Mildred Elligen, moderator; Hen. Lacey, William Minor, Charles F. Glasseck, mechanic; Virginia Snow and Alyce Wiley Peterson, Albert Rossi, Arthur Madeline Green and Sebert, Arlington Smith, MI. Judges of probate in some

Tenants Told About Delays At Mayfair

Letters from the Manchester Housing Authority have gone out to the prospective tenants for the Mayfair Gardens housing project for the elderly, informing them the project has been delayed indefinitely.

In the letter, Gordon Harmon, the MHA tenant relations adviser, apologizes for the delay due to construction difficulties and indicates that tenants will be notified of a move-in date as soon as a completion date is received from the contractor.

An extension of 37 days has been requested by the contractor, the Rocky Marciano Construction Co., but the company

Republicans: If you want to win in November vote for Weicker in August.

We can't make the Republican Party strong unless we elect Republicans to office.

To make sure we do that we must get behind candidates who have proven they can win.

Lowell Weicker has never lost an election. Right now he's Congressman from the 4th District. With your vote in the primary he can be Senator from Connecticut this fall.

Represents Ceramics of Waste

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Engineers at Illinois Institute of Technology Research say they have found a way to convert municipal trash into ceramic material for sewer pipe, structural tile and other construction products.

In an experiment reported in the current issue of Technology Today, the engineers said that when waste material is burned at 2,800 degrees it leaves a "ceramic fraction" which also can be made into glass fiber.

Most incinerators burn trash at 2,000 degrees.

Vernon Day Care Center Plans Get Tender Loving Care

By BARBARA RICHMOND (Herald Reporter)

Setting up a day care center is a complicated process involving much red tape and a number of state organizations, according to Joseph Bradley, coordinator of the Rockham Valley Community Services Council, who is involved in setting up such a center in Vernon.

The council was formed two years ago, primarily to identify, evaluate and assist in the problems and needs of the tri-town area of Vernon, Tolland and Ellington.

A recent survey made by the council revealed the serious need for a day care center, especially for three year olds.

Those using the center will pay what they can afford. This will be judged on the basis of the income of the family and the number of children. The remainder of the cost will be subsidized by various agencies.

Further, the center will be a non-profit organization, and its operation will be supervised by a board of directors who have had experience working with children.

Women will be asked if they have a need for a day care center and if they would use one if it were established a year from now. They will also be asked how many children they have and their ages; how their child are currently being cared for and how much they could afford to pay per week at the center.

As part of his program, Bradley has recruited the help of the Rockville Public Health Nursing Association. Through the cooperation of the Tolland Windham Legal Aid Association, several welfare mothers are assisting with the survey also.

Explaining that a day care center is not specifically designed for the use of welfare mothers or low-income families, Bradley said, however, this will probably be the group to reap the most benefit from it.

Such a center would allow a mother, who perhaps otherwise could not work, to work and hope to take care of the welfare rolls.

Expanding on the fact that establishment of such a center involves much red tape, Bradley said money is available through the Department of Community Affairs (DCA) but funds must be invested in the Community Development Action Program (CDAP).

Vernon and Ellington are both involved in CDAP but Tolland is not. Whether or not this will affect the center, Bradley does not know.

Day care centers are designed to take care of infants up to three year olds. Those using the center will pay what they can afford. This will be judged on the basis of the income of the family and the number of children. The remainder of the cost will be subsidized by various agencies.

Hebron Harvest Fair Sept. 18-19 At Rham

The Hebron Recreation Council, Inc. will again sponsor this year's Harvest Fair on Sept. 18 and 19 at Rham High School.

Plans are already under way and any organization or group that is anxious to obtain space is asked to contact Mrs. Thomas Hovey, East St.

All requests should be made before Aug. 15 and forms for booth space applications may be obtained from Mrs. Hovey.

The Planning and Zoning Commission will hold a public hearing tomorrow evening in the Town Office Building to consider an application from Robert I. Pupper.

Pupper is requesting permission to re-subdivide property at the corner of Millstream Rd. and Wellwood Rd. to create a 1.2 acre building lot on Millstream Rd. for a one-family house.

This re-subdivision would still leave five acres for the existing apartment house site.

Pastor Vacationing

The Rev. Herbert Kelsey Jr., pastor of the Hebron and Gilead Congregational Churches, will be away on vacation for the next two weeks.

If a need should arise in either church that would require his presence, Danco Douglas Porter in Gilead or Descon Neil Wankeman in Hebron may be contacted.

The guest minister for next Sunday will be the Rev. Stuart S. Hagg of Bristol-Congregational Church in Bristol-Congregational, N. Y.

Services will be held in the Gilead Church at 9:30 a.m. on both the 16th and 23rd.

Regular schedule worship services will begin on Sunday, Aug. 30, with Mr. Kelsey conducting the services at 9:30 a.m. in Hebron and at 11 a.m. in Gilead.

On Sunday, Sept. 6, the Rev. Jerome Bodine, who was ordained in the Hebron Church on May 31 of this year, will begin his duties as assistant pastor and will conduct the services in Hebron.

Grange Picnic

Hebron Grange 111 will hold aged by fire.

Weicker and Lupton Visit in Copters

By BETTE QUATRALE (Herald Reporter)
A politically star-studded cast of candidates visited yesterday's Republican picnic in Tolland, but played to a smaller, than expected audience of voters.

Awarded DFC

The top of the GOP party-endorsed state ticket mingled with local residents as well as several from the surrounding towns of Vernon and Ellington. GOP party endorsed gubernatorial candidate Thomas Meskall and his running mate, U.S. senatorial candidate Lowell Weicker, made quite a stir as they arrived by helicopter direct from a television appearance in New York.

USAP Capt. David J. Kelsey received the Distinguished Flying Cross for his role as lead navigator on a highly critical mission over Vietnam. The award was made at McCop AFB, Florida, where he serves as a B-52 Stratofortress heavy bomber navigator of the Strategic Air Command.

Daddario Would Press Absentee Vote in Primary

HARTFORD (AP)—The Democratic nominee for governor said Sunday that as governor he would press the General Assembly for laws to allow absentee voting in party primaries.

Car Wash, Gas Station ZBA Topics

Though the zoning Board of Appeals has no public hearings scheduled during August, it will hold a technical session tonight to reconsider three applications tabled last month.

Both Mobil Oil applications ran into opposition when they were originally heard. The Adams-Hillside Rd. rezoning was hit by the Independent Gas Owners Association, and neighbors in the W. Middle Tpk. area spoke against the new car wash-gas station proposal.

The board, passing the Adams-Hillside application last May, stipulated a reduction in the number of entrances and exits because of its concern over heavy traffic at the intersection.

The company then moved to appeal the ruling to the Court of Common Pleas, but last month returned to the ZBA with a revised plan showing three driveways, instead of the four originally sought.

Board members appeared to favor the revised plan. However they decided to wait for a formal rehearing until all members who heard the original application were present.

In tabling the car wash proposal, the board said it wanted "clarification" of several items discussed by company representatives during their presentation.

Neighbors speaking against the proposal had expressed concern over some of the same items on which the board wants more information. These include the exact means of entering and exiting the site, and possible noise levels generated by the car wash machinery.

The board will again consider the DeLisle request to maintain a side yard variance at his home in an A zone.

DeLisle wants to build a family room over an existing non-conforming garage.

Members shewed the application until it is determined whether a variance was ever obtained before the garage was built.

Fire Calls

Town firefighters answered seven calls over the weekend. On Saturday, at 12:35 p.m., they extinguished a grass fire on Salem Rd. At 2:35 p.m., they put out a rubbish fire on Trotter St. Another grass fire was taken care of at 3:45 p.m. — this time at Bridge St. Later in the evening, at 7:35, firefighters were called to put out an electrical wiring blaze at 33 Parker St. And at 10:40 p.m., they put out another grass fire off Rt. W. Middle Tpk.

An application by Walter H. DeLisle of 173 Denning St. for a variance will also be reconsidered.

2,470 Republicans Eligible For Primary on Wednesday

With the exception of voters seeking re-election, the voters who will register in the voter making session scheduled for today from 6 to 8 p.m., 2,470 registered Republicans are eligible to vote in the primary to be held Wednesday.

The total number of registered voters in town amounted to the 11,000 mark. Registered Democrats number about 2,800, leaving more than 50 per cent of the voters unaffiliated and not eligible to vote in Wednesday's primary or the Democratic primary scheduled for Aug. 19.

Stuart Neff will be chief moderator for Wednesday's primary in District 1. Voting for this area will be in the Memorial Building, First St.

Voting in District 2 will be at the Maple Street School with Joseph Mastriani as moderator. In District 3 voting will be at Skinner Rd. School, Norman Strong, moderator, and in District 4, Vernon Elementary School, Mrs. Jane Lamb, moderator.

A list of Republicans eligible to vote in the primary is on display at the Town Hall. Absentee ballots are not allowed in the primary.

Lowell P. Weicker is the party-endorsed candidate for U.S. senator. He is being challenged by John M. Lupton. Thomas Meskall is the party-endorsed candidate for governor and Wallace Bartra is the challenger for the nomination.

Robert Steele, running for the post of U.S. Congressman is not being challenged. Democrats Meet

Tonight the Democratic Town Committee will meet at 8 p.m. in the community room of the First Federal Bank, Park Pl., to endorse a candidate for state representative from the 47th District (Vernon); 10 candidates for justices of the peace, and a candidate for registrar of voters.

Climber Dies After Plunge At Southington

A female mountain climber died at New Britain General Hospital today from injuries she suffered in a 60-to-90 foot fall from a sheer rock wall Sunday.

Dead is Pamela Moore, 28, of New Haven, who was spending the weekend at Southington, Borth and New Britain town lines.

techniques with her husband and several other climbers. Mrs. Moore suffered both injuries and fractures of both wrists, her right leg and several ribs.

She was climbing a rock wall called Rugged Mountain Cliff about 5 p.m. Sunday and had driven two pitons into the cliff when one of them gave way beneath her, police said.

The area where the fall occurred is near the junction of the Southington, Borth and New Britain town lines.

Rookie QB's See Action, Giants Headlock Packers

NEW YORK (AP) — from Louisiana Tech, as the Golden-haired Terry Bradshaw, pro football's No. 1 rookie, had had his baptism of fire in the play for pay ranks. Individually, he was a winner although his team, the Pittsburgh Steelers, lost.

"What an arm," said Coach Don Shula, whose Miami Dolphins beat the Steelers 16-10. "It was one of the 10 exhibition games—first this season—in the National Football League. Collectively, the games Saturday attracted 400,000 more than twice the crowds for 11 major league baseball games the same day.

All 26 teams have games for the upcoming weekend of exhibitions, which runs from Friday night to Monday night. A feature will be a nationally televised game Saturday at Kansas City Friday night between the Chiefs and the Baltimore Colts. The Steelers earned the right to play Bradshaw, last season's Little All-American quarterback.

Stargell's Homer Defeats Mets, Buccs Regain 3 1/2-Game Advantage

PITTSBURGH (AP) — game of their crucial four-game series. Stargell hit a home run left field, but the Pittsburgh left fielder feels no pain when batting against the world champion New York Yankees.

Against the Mets in the major league season, Stargell was batting at a .381 clip with 32 home runs and 88 RBIs. "I don't know why I do so well against them," Stargell said Sunday after the Pirates had rallied with four runs in the seventh and two in the eighth to beat the Mets 8-3 in the third game of their crucial four-game series.

Stargell's homer was a shot Matty Alou after he walked and was to third on Ryan's two-day, but will probably decide the game.

Beard Grabs American Classic Two Consecutive 7 Is Clinch Tournament

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Frank Beard took a look ahead at this week's PGA National Championship after picking off the $80,000 first prize in the American Golf Classic.

Beard, who won the 1967 U.S. Open, finished with a 71 and a 70 to clinch the tournament. He had a 278, two less than Jack Nicklaus, Bruce Crampton and Tommy Aaron, each tied at 279.

No Dating Plan Helps Blalock Win

ATLANTA (AP) — Fifteen months ago Jane Blalock joined the women's professional golf tour without a sponsor and with only $200 in her purse, but she was determined to succeed.

Blalock, who finished with a 72 and a 70 to win the tournament, said she had no dating plan. "I was just trying to win," she said.

Roche New U.S. Net Champion World Tennis Ruler Dethroned

BROOKLINE, Mass. (AP) — Tony Roche of Australia is the new champion of the U.S. Pro Tennis Tournament, but don't write off the king. Rod Laver is dethroned, but still the world ruler.

Roche, 25, spoiled his countryman Laver's 32nd birthday by winning the title in a five-set match. Laver, who had won 19 straight matches at Longwood, was broken in the fourth set. Then he was broken in the second final game of the deciding set.

Fierce Play Marks Slowpitch Tourney

Nearly 2,000 spectators enjoyed a weekend softball bonanza at Charter Oak Field, featuring teams from around the state pitted in 15 first-round games of the Slowpitch Tournament sponsored by the Hartford Recreation Department and the Silk City League.

Saturday's action eliminated one local team from the running, with three other championship games. The top team, the Hartford team, won 5-1 in the final game.

Tight Situations Are Wagner's Meat

BOSTON (AP) — Gary that's not meant to sound egoistic, but I think I work better in tight situations. I think I work better in tight situations.

Wagner, who finished with a 72 and a 70 to win the tournament, said he had no dating plan. "I was just trying to win," he said.

Bill Shoemaker Rides 6,000th Career Win

DEL MAR, Calif. (AP) — When Bill Shoemaker crossed the wire with the 5,000th winner, many of the 17,500 fans looked as they frequently do when the little jockey wins or loses.

Several races in history to the 35-year-old Shoemaker became the second jockey to ride to 6,000 winning horses. No boss worthy of the name, he has won 6,000 races and 100 stakes.

U.S. Regains Curtis Cup

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — The United States had the Curtis Cup back in its usual home today after continuing domination of the British Isles in the biennial trans-Atlantic competition.

The Americans won the trophy for the sixth straight time and the 12th since its inception in 1903.

Cubs Split with Phillies Dodgers Rip Reds With 35-Hit Binge

NEW YORK (AP) — "We have to do it right now," said Roberto Clemente. "Those games aren't crucial," said Willie Stargell.

When players on the Pittsburgh Pirates in this case—start hitting in opposite directions it generally means one thing: Pennant fever is spreading.

22 Innings, 21 Pitchers Later Yanks, Orioles Split Twinbill

NEW YORK (AP) — His Kangaroo Court gave him a life inside Frank Robinson's locker Sunday, gave the boys a day off, said Baltimore's slugging right fielder. "It was a long day," Weaver said.

The Orioles used a total of 21 pitchers, several hurlers appearing in both games. The doubleheader had a move leadoff spot first base being on the right field corner in the 11th.

AMERICAN CONFERENCE: OAKLAND OFFENSE

PASSING—Some day it may penetrate beyond the East Bay hills, that Doyle Linneman's doing the best job of it all — and that includes Brockway Joe. At his peak right now. Coming off 34-10 winning streak. But he to look beyond George Bamba for relief. Could be Kenny Stearns or Steve Allen in good games. Rating—A.

RECEIVING—Not dignify with great wide bands of Warren Wells, Fred Blaiskoff to dummy secondaries. And watch a kid up right and, but the dentist keeps filling the slot. Top draftee Kerry Caster is insurance there. Rating—A.

RUNNING—Can't fault the talent — Chris Smith, Larry Todd at zippy strides, Pete Bonczak, a plunger, Hewitt Diaz and Marv Hubbard to provide bulk at fullback. But field reads have only been so-so, maybe because Linneman's approach to game stresses pass. Look for Key, impressive Tunes, to add other notch of strength. Rating—B.

LINE—As if they didn't have enough, they added several all-league Big Mox at tackle. Now he's got to win job. Another all-AR favorite, Willie White, who's been a backer but never a blocker, is being moved to center. Jim Otto, who's got to be a center. Jim Otto, who's got to be a center. Jim Otto, who's got to be a center.
