Republicans Vote In State Primary

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — The first state primary in Connecticut history—going to the polls today to pick candidates for governor and U.S. Senator in a primary.

The state's two Republican congressmen, running as a team with the backing of the party leadership and the endorsement of the party convention, are facing challenges from two insurgent state senators.

Congressman Thomas Meskell, the more liberal State Senator Wallace Barnes for the gubernatorial nomination, and Congressman Lowell P. Weicker Jr., a moderate, faces a challenge from conservative State Senator John M. Lupton.

The GOP last occupied the state house in 1964, and Democrats have held both the governor's office and the U.S. Senate seats since 1962.

Both senatorial candidates are from affluent Fairfield County. Meskell, 36, is a former state legislator and chief executive of Greenwich, Lupton, 32, represents Weston and on several occasions has unsuccessfully sought higher office.

Lupton has criticized Weicker for casting votes against Nixon administration policies on the ABM, the HENW appropriation, and other issues.

Ulster Blast Claims Lives Of Policemen

LONDON, Derry, Northern Ireland (AP) — Three thousand British troops and Irish police today signed a nonaggression pact, the key to Bonn's efforts to improve relations with Eastern Europe.

Foreign Ministers Andrei A. Gromyko and Walter Scheel of West Germany added their signatures to the documents, which they had initiated last week.

Most of the 11-man politburo of the Soviet Communist party attended the brief ceremony in the Kremlin's Catherine Hall. They included Communist Party General Secretary Leonid Brezhnev.

The signing came after a conference for more than two hours. German sources said Brandt also is expected to meet with Brezhnev.

After the ceremony, Brezhnev shook hands with Brandt and said: "I think you have just signed a treaty of immense importance."

Brandt also shook hands with Gromyko and said: "By signing this treaty I think this is not only the end of an era but also a very good beginning."

Koegnyin replied: "I am in complete agreement with you on an adjoining room where champagne was served. There were no formal toasts or statements, but Brandt, Koegnyin, Scheel, Gromyko and Brezhnev engaged in an animated round of conversation and brought to a close a German delegation spokesman reported.

A few minutes before the signing, West German and Soviet dignitaries filed into the ornate room, where the President of Bonn and the Soviet Premier were seated for discussion next month, Bonn's economic minister, Karl Schiller, the science minister, Hans Leusink visited Moscow.

Mail Reform Edict Signed By President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon signed the postal reform bill today. He said the task of overhauling the post office was accomplished only through bipartisan support that "showed the system at its best."

"There is no Republican or Democratic way to deliver mail," Nixon said in signing the bill. "There's only the right way, and that's what this occasion is all about."

"Finally, the day has come, a day very few people thought would ever come," the President declared.

Flanked by six of his predecessors, Nixon turned to the balding Blount and quipped, "for those of you who don't understand modern art, that's a bald eagle."

The law removes the postmaster general from the President's cabinet and ostensibly takes the office out of politics. Nixon said history is full of examples of postmaster generalships that have failed.

Blount has declared to say what his plans are when the new postal system becomes fully implemented a year from now.

Blount said signing of the bill marked "the end of colorful period."

In the beginning, the mails were used to tie a young nation together. Before it ended, this country remained so closely allied to the moon and back," Blount said.

Nonaggression Pact Signed By Bonn, Kremlin Leaders

Spacemen Are Dogged By Admirers

NOERDLINGEN, Germany (AP) — A swoonhayer, a space buff and autograph hunters are dogging four U.S. astronauts on a rock-hunting expedition in southern Germany.

The casually clad Apollo 14 astronauts are on a geology field trip to the Noerdlingen Crater, which may have looked like the lunar landscape after it was hit by a meteor 10 million years ago. Now it blends into the surrounding countryside of fields and forests, but the astronauts hope their studies of the meteor-blasted rock will help them recognize significant rock samples on the moon.

The trip is strictly a working visit, not a goodwill appearance. But ordinary Germans turn out to see the spacemen in nearby towns and do some not so ordinary people.

They saw Hanssen II, for example, a thin, intense man clad in a mustard colored suit with a cape. He held himself as a "world renowned scientist and palm reader" and claims he forecast difficulties for Apollo 13, which had to abandon its moon landing.

"I have my prediction verified by a notary," said Hanssen. He waited for hours in Nueblingen to see Alan B. Shepard, Eugene A. Cernan, Edgar D. Mitchell and Joseph H. Engle, hoping to look into their eyes with a magnifying glass or read their palms.

Hanssen caught three of the astronauts after dinner. They weren't interested in the eye or palm reading routines, but the eager old German would probably blast off in "late January."

Cernan said the flight is scheduled for Jan. 31. Hanssen said if it got off in time he thought it would be more "lucky" than Apollo 12.

"I could predict that," Cernan replied.

"Think of me when you are on the moon," said Hanssen. The astronauts said they would.

Then there was Hermann Fritz, a short, stout man with an elevator who says he's something of a space nut. Many of his drawings show rockets blasting off or the universe. He succeeded in presenting copies of his work to the astronauts, who accepted without thanks.

Fritz said he is working on a large engraving "that is really something" in many months. He commended the Apollo 14. He said it will show the Tower of Babel with clouds overhead and Galileo standing with one hand on the earth and the other reaching for the stars.

"This will be my best," said Fritz, promising the first copy to the men of Apollo 14.

Ludwig Hipp, Reutlingen, who is over 60, said he left his slacks to make photographs of the astronauts.

"I had a heart attack 14 days ago and my doctor thinks I'm nuts to come here," said Hipp. After waiting for three hours at the American hotel, he shot a whole roll. His hobby is photographing the famous who visit the area.

"You should see my album at home," he said. "I have everything from Hitler to Hussein." The late Theodore Heuss was West Germany's first president.

The town sentinal in this walled Bavarian city got a surprise Tuesday night when two of the astronauts answered his A-1's well by shouting "The Romans are coming."

The prank was the work of Engle, Engle and Cernan Tuesday afternoon climbed the 200 steps to the church steeple where the sentinal is stationed as city lookout. After talking Thalfout and the recommendation by him, the astronaut team of State party chairman decided to play the prank that John Bailey, adopted a hands-off policy regarding news.

A lookout in the steeple is a Wednesday's primary concern. Anyone wishing to assist in the city in Donahue's local campaign may contact either Bielecki or Mrs. Bielecki.

The Democratic Town Committee is scheduled to meet Monday night's caucus to select delegates to the special convention next month to endorse a candidate for the short-term vacancy caused by the death of Congressman William St. Onyiah, endorsed John Campbell, Mrs. Ethel James and Mrs. Elaine Hughes.

The convention is expected to endorse Robert Steele, the GOP candidate for Congress from the Second Congressional District. Democrats will select their delegates, as well as endorse justices of the peace candidates and the registrar of voters, during a party caucus Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Town Hall, closed to the public.

Bulletin Board

The field day for mothers and daughters and sons, sponsored by the Board of Recreation, has been postponed until tomorrow at 1 p.m. at Cranford's Park.

The raised-out session of the Arts and Crafts program, rescheduled for today, forced the postponement, according to John Campbell, recreation director.

Much of the activity can be attributed to the Republican and Democratic primaries today and next Wednesday.

Republicans for the first time in many months outgated the Democrats with 47 new votes compared to 23 for the Democrats. Twelve new voters remained unaffiliated.

The additional voters raised the number of Republicans eligible to participate in today's party primary from about 1,000 to 1,077.

Action on the Democratic primary level picked up yesterday with the announcement of the formation of a group of local residents interested in working for the support of U.S. senatorial candidate Alphonso Donahue.

Donahue, a Stamford businessman, is the party-endorsed candidate for the office. He is involved in a three-way contest with challengers Joseph Duffey and Edward Marcus of New Haven.

There has been considerable local activity on behalf of Duffey, and some on behalf of Marcus.

Yesterday's appeal by Walter Bielecki and Mrs. John Burokas for volunteers for Donahue, was the first public move in town on his behalf.

Gardeners Have Choice Of Substitutes for DDT

By EARL ARONSON AP Newswatch

The U.S. government ban on DDT has raised two questions among home gardeners (and probably many more). One is what to use as a substitute, and the second how to dispose of DDT left on hands.

There are substitutes for DDT that give effective plant protection. The ban should cause no great hardship. Gardeners have a wide choice of insecticides in the garden store, all approved by the U.S. Department of Health.

The American Rose Magazine notes that most of the new biodegradable insecticides kill by contact with the insect or as a stomach poison. Some are also a fungicide or vapor action under certain conditions.

Substitute multipurpose powders available include Malathion, Dieldrin or Metasystox-R, plus Sevin or Methoxychlor. Both are absorbed by growing plants. Some are added to the soil and taken up by the plant roots and move throughout the plant tissue.

Others are absorbed by foliage, and ready for immediate use without having to mix and measure various components.

Multipurpose systems also are available. The systemic chemicals are absorbed into the plant sap so that sucking insects are killed after feeding on the plant juices. They are absorbed by growing plants. Some are added to the soil and taken up by the plant roots and move throughout the plant tissue.

Tombs' Prisoners Stage Their Third Day of Protests

NEW YORK (AP) — Prisoners created a new disturbance at the Tombs' Tuesday, the third straight day of protests against overcrowding, alleged brutality and filth.

Burning papers were thrown from windows of the tall building in downtown Manhattan. One prisoner, perched in a fourth-floor window shouted, "What's doing" the fifth floor, and quickly spread to the fourth and fifth floors.

The fourth and fifth floors were among those involved in Tuesday's riot, when three guards were held hostage in the jail here today and the Bureau of Prisons said in Washington he would be assigned to the Danbury, Conn., federal penitentiary.

The bureau also said that Berrigan's brother, the Rev. Phillip Berrigan, who is serving a six-year sentence at Lansing, Mich., federal prison for destroying draft records, would be transferred from Lewisburg to Danbury.

Later in the day, in response to a plea by the mayor, the state agreed to take custody of 300 of the 4,000 sentenced prisoners held in city jails to help relieve overcrowding.

On Monday, prisoners held five guards hostage for eight hours until they were allowed to present their grievances to the press and the mayor's office.

To secure their safe release, McGrath promised their captors on the ninth floor that no reprisals would be taken against them.

The prisoners had complained about being held in jail too long without trials, overcrowding, guard brutality and poor food.

The jail, built in 1900 to house less than 1,000 inmates, now holds about 1,900 prisoners, most of them two and three times over capacity.

The three guards were identified as Robert Taylor, Daniel Clancy and A. J. Mays.

Berrigans To Be Jailed At Danbury

CRANSTON, R.I. (AP) — The Rev. Daniel Berrigan, tracked down by FBI agents after four months as a fugitive from a three-year prison term for destroying draft records in Maryland, was taken by U.S. marshals from jail here today and the Bureau of Prisons said in Washington he would be assigned to the Danbury, Conn., federal penitentiary.

The bureau also said that Berrigan's brother, the Rev. Phillip Berrigan, who is serving a six-year sentence at Lansing, Mich., federal prison for destroying draft records, would be transferred from Lewisburg to Danbury.

Mitronis was kidnaped by Uruguayan guerrillas who had offered to release him and two other prisoners in exchange for the release of about 100 political prisoners. The Uruguayan government refused.

Mitronis was the first diplomatic hostage killed by the Red Brazilian communist Alopato Mares Dias Gomide and Claude L. Fly, an American agronomist.

"He was just a tremendous person that everybody loved," said Richmond Mayor Byron Beane. "He was a dedicated public officer."

Mitronis served as police chief at Richmond for five years and left that job in 1967 to go to Washington, D.C., where he worked in Brazil and in Washington before taking the assignment in hopes of propagating the polar female in the same of a male polar bear.

Mitronis was a native of Italy. His family came to the United States in 1920 when he was one-year-old.

At Luther Hall Sept. 10 Beethoven and G Clef Clubs Reunite With Helge Pearson

Plans were initiated last night to hold a reunion of former members of the Beethoven Glee Club, men's chorus, and G Clef Club, women's chorus, next month. It will be held in Luther Hall of Emmanuel Lutheran Church on Sept. 10 at 7:30 p.m.

All persons who sang in either the Beethoven or G Clef choruses during the movement. The guerrillas still have 26 years of their existence by annual concerts which featured guest artists from New York City.

Pearson left Manchester in November 1954, to study at Westminster Music College, Princeton, N. J., and later assumed positions as minister of music and Christian education in Pennsylvania, and California.

His brother, G. Albert, assumed the directorship of both choruses. Other Beethoven directors were Robert Chapman, Frederic E. Werner, and Clarence W. Hoising. Robert Baldwin succeeded G. Albert Pearson as director of the G Clef Club.

Two Glastonbury youths were arrested last night in South Windsor and charged with larceny under $200. A third youth, allegedly involved in the incident, has not been located.

Police officer Robert J. Foss, while on patrol, noticed a car parked by Elmwood's Fruit Stand at the corner of Chapel and Elmwood Rds. The officer said he observed three persons who appeared to be loading goods from the stand into a car. When he stepped to investigate the car took off, he said.

Two of the youths apparently fled on foot and the one driving the car was apprehended first. He was identified as Dennis Demio, 21, of Webster, La., while Officer Foss was talking with Demio, Anton Fustnelli, a Hartford police officer who lives in South Windsor and who lives off duty, came along. Officer Fustnelli had with him his police dog "Dirk," who is with the Hartford Cusine Corps.

The dog flushed a second police officer who was with the stand. He was identified as Officer Foss, who lives in South Windsor and who lives off duty, came along. Officer Fustnelli had with him his police dog "Dirk," who is with the Hartford Cusine Corps.

Two heavily guarded trains packed with military port agents of tomatoes, taken from the stand, police officers in the stand in lieu of $1,000 bonds. They were to be presented in East Hartford Circuit Court 12 today.

Craig Joslin, 18, of 200 Northview Dr., South Windsor, was arrested with violation of probation. Police said Joslin turned himself in on violation of his probation officer. He was held overnight in lieu of a $500 bond and was also to be presented in East Hartford court today.

Other area police activity: John E. Jamison, 16, of 60 Snipate St., Rockville, was arrested early this morning and charged with breaking and entering and larceny under $15 in connection with a break at the Italian Club off Snipate St.

Officer Daniel Stenick apprehended Jamison in the building. He was released under a $300 bond for appearance in Rockville Circuit Court 12 Sept. 1.

Franklin R. Brown, 16, of 5 Talcott Ave., Rockville, was charged with operating with unsafe tires after being involved in a one-car accident on Tunnel Rd. Police said the car struck and broke off a utility pole after Brown lost control. Court date is Sept. 1 in Rockville Circuit Court 12.

Hornet Sting Kills Southington Man

SOUTHINGTON, Conn. (AP) — Dr. Charles L. Leathard, medical examiner of New Britain, said the insect sting caused the death of a Southington man.

Ward had been painting his house when the insect stung him on the right wrist. He collapsed and died several hours after he was stung by a hornet outside his home Tuesday.

Police said the car struck and broke off a utility pole after Brown lost control. Court date is Sept. 1 in Rockville Circuit Court 12.

Meteor Showers Due Over State

NEW HAVEN (AP) — An annual phenomenon known as the Perseid meteor shower was expected to reach its height in the Northeast this week with falling stars visible nearly every minute of the day and night—weather permitting.

The shower is related to the travels of the comet Swift-Tuttle, according to astronomer Wessink, a Yale University professor.

At its height, on or about Aug. 12, the shower sends down blazing rocks from the cometary orbit to earth at the rate of about 50 an hour. There were few, if any, showers last year.

widely shared, until there might develop among us all that possibly stimulating and possibly quite harmless freedom of appearance in which every last one of us would be expressing his or her own tastes and ideas.

As the game of appearances is normally played, the only touch of individuality open to most of us is merely one of timing in relation to fashion trends decreed by somebody else and followed by almost everybody else. If we are a certain kind of individual, we are among the first to show the new fashion on ourselves. If we are the other type, we delay accepting the new fashion as long as possible, and surrender to it only after it has already become, to put it literally, the next thing to old hat.

This, either way, makes for rather a dull life, whether we be fashion leader or fashion follower. With everyone free to design his or her own thing, the scene would be more interesting, and it might become fairly obvious that, inside whatever was being worn, there were real people, not mannequins.

With the rest of the world has been watching the nerve gas angle of that experiment in transportation across some of our Southern states, some of us have been fascinated by the more elemental problem being attempted.

The question to this: can a linked line of vehicles, riding steel wheels on steel rails, and being pulled by a mechanical device called a locomotive manned by an engineer and a fireman, make itself progress through countryside, not dumping of the tracks in transit, not catching fire in its boxes, not slicing itself down some wrong junction, not vanishing from the communications and the records of its home office, and then, having avoided all these perils, reach a pre-destined destination without being several days late?

When this composite question gets an affirmative answer, what that answer tells us is that, yes, we do have a chance of learning how to run a railroad.

Who knows? Perhaps we could do it without rockets.

There could have been more serious accidents. There could have been more chain reaction accidents. There could have been many fatalities in contact, uninvolved people.

As a result of the chase, the stolen car was halted, smashed up, and the 15 year old boy was arrested on the scene. In the normal course of events, he will go back to an institution, be released in time, and then choose a new kind of character he wishes to be.

This case is noteworthy because it seems as good a case as any for raising the question being asked more and more frequently about the high speed police chase.

It is necessary, in cases where the description and marker number of the car, and even a description of the offender, may be available? Is it advisable, in circumstances when there is inevitable danger to innocent people who don't even have a chance to get out of the way? What if giving up such a chase meant that boy and car succeeded in getting away, would not even be better than depending upon the driving skills of a boy and the policemen at 125 miles an hour on a crowded superhighway?

The kind of character often involved in these chases is indicated, clearly enough, by testimony that in two of these recent chase instances, the driver of the car being chased made a deliberate effort to run down and kill a policeman. There is no question about the kind of game they like to play, when they get behind the wheel of some stolen power house. The question is whether the police score of car recoveries and of arrests wouldn't average out just as high if the high speed chase were refused.

Wearing One's Own Thing It has been reported, admittedly on the basis of a rather superficial survey of New York higher society on a few of its recent evenings, that we are now passing through a moment in which there is no clear trend for lady's dressup fashions.

Indeed, says the survey, the options are wide open, so open that each distinguished lady in New York society can feel free to wear the style, length and material which happens to appeal to her personally, and wear it without fear that any critical consensus will appear against her. The momentary reprieve is an attractive, appealing freedom which, if the world weren't high society, might be labeled fashion anarchy, with each lady free to do and wear her own thing. In exercise of this freedom, some wear skirts and some wear pants; some wear long and some wear short; some wear more and some wear less.

We suppose this is only a momentary privilege, even for our privileged upper classes. But we cannot refrain from wishing it more permanent, and more

Desegregation Backing And Filling

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON - With President Nixon's climactic school desegregation drive in the South now only weeks away, the deep contradictions marking the administration's erratic course on this issue are still to be resolved, no matter how many "clarifications" are put out to sugar-coat basic splits within the President's official family.

A year ago these splits had brought the Justice Department and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) to the edge of civil warfare. That war was abruptly ended after the White House fired Leon Panetta, HEW's civil rights chief.

Now, however, with HEW and Justice comfortably together and equally determined to enforce the new batch of Federal desegregation court orders, the split is between White House politicians, on one side, and Atty. Gen. John Mitchell and HEW Secretary Elliot Richardson on the other.

Thus, it was White House pressure that compelled Mitchell, in the role of "good guy" committed to seeing the law carried out, to publicly back off his own position for several score. Mitchell, Deputy Attorney General, reacted to front-page stories of July 17 about his enforcement task force, issued a statement that no final decision had been made and that the stories were "rumors."

But in truth, Mitchell and Justice Leonard Assistant Attorney General, had given final approval to the plan to set up five regional centers in the South to give the Justice Dept. attorneys easy and quick access to trouble spots.

Population Problem

There has been increased concern lately over the population problem and at the same time a skepticism over its importance. I hope the people of Manchester see the true seriousness of the situation.

Demographers tell us that the rate of population growth in these countries are "developed" increases tremendously as developing countries begin to utilize modern technology. This was slow in the U.S., but is much faster in developing countries today as they can apply all past discoveries almost at once.

Our objective should be to eliminate all unwanted births, and reduce the desire of parents to have large families. Senator Robert Packwood's bills to reduce the amount of tax exemptions for over two children are a start. Adoptions should be made easier. Abortions should be fully legalized and subsidized by the government.

Voluntary sterilizations should be readily available and subsidized by the government. Birth control information and materials should be made available cheaply to all who want them. These voluntary methods could help slow the population explosion.

For, as an individual, should become acquainted with the problem by reading such books as "The Population Bomb" by Paul Ehrlich, "Moment in the Sun" by the Rioneau, the President's message relative to Population Growth (House Document No. 91-139) and other related material. Ask candidates running for office their views and support those in favor of voluntary population control.

Write to TV executives asking them to present the small family as the American ideal. Support Planned Parenthood and ZPG. Most importantly, have two or fewer children yourself. Overpopulation (See Page Seven)

A Thought for Today Sponsored by the Manchester Council of Churches

How we strive to find security in this changing world. Do you remember when we laid in the winter's supply of fuel to be secure in the cold months, did lots of canning to have food for winter, wandered in which bank it was safe to invest our savings? Oh, much of our energy is spent in seeking security. Maybe our best security is in a revolutionary world less in material things but in the deeper values of life itself.

Extradition Battle Fought By Fugitive

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Henry L. Montgomery, a year-old convict who has twice escaped from Georgia work camps, appeared in Superior Court here Tuesday to fight his extradition to Georgia.

State officials are holding him at the state prison in Somers as a fugitive charge.

Montgomery argued before Judge Leo Parsney that he should be extradited because his original burglary conviction in Georgia in 1961 is invalid. He said he had no attorney at the time and has been subjected to cruel and inhuman treatment.

Montgomery was convicted in 1961 of burglary and robbery with violence and was sentenced to 20 years in prison. He escaped from the state prison in Connecticut to Georgia.

He was captured at that time by Connecticut authorities and sent back to Georgia. He said Tuesday he tried to prevent his extradition but was outwitted by Georgia authorities to whom he had fled to New Jersey.

He was not extradited from New Jersey because New Jersey officials refused to sign the extradition papers.

Montgomery came to Connecticut in May to see his wife and was arrested once again by state police on a fugitive charge. Judge Parsney said he would grant Montgomery a writ of habeas corpus if he can prove he was not in Georgia at the time of the crime.

Montgomery was arrested in 1967 but escaped again, and this time he fled to New Jersey. He was not extradited from New Jersey because New Jersey officials refused to sign the extradition papers.

Jetliner Hoax Worth $25,000

SEATTLE (AP) — Western Airlines officials said a plane carrying 115 passengers and a crew of seven landed safely at Seattle-Tacoma International Airport Tuesday night after the airline paid $25,000 cash in ransom from the family of a telephone booth thief.

Howard Clifford, public relations spokesman for the airline, said Western officials in Anchorage, Alaska, received the call after Flight 722 left Anchorage for Seattle.

"A bank messenger made the payment on an Anchorage street," Clifford said. He said he did not know whether the messenger delivered the money to an individual or left it for a safe deposit box.

First reports from officials of the airline and the Federal Aviation Administration indicated that the caller demanded the money as his price for telling the airline how to keep a bomb aboard from going off.

No bomb was found when the plane, a Boeing 720, landed, officials said. The FBI is investigating the matter.

The plane circled the Seattle airport for nearly an hour before it landed at the airport. An FAA spokesman at the airport tower said the airliner crew spent most of the time discussing the situation with company officials on the Western radio frequency.

The airliner landed in an out-of-the-way area, where emergency crews were standing by. Passengers and crewmen were taken from the landing area by a helicopter.

Chairs Parley

James B. Holmes of Manchester is general chairman of the first annual conference of the National Apostolate for the Mentally Retarded (NAMR), which will be held in West Hartford next week.

The Rev. Joseph Duffy, candidate for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator, will conduct a joint news conference tomorrow with the writer of the NAMR's recent Democratic U.S. Senate primary.

Duffy and U.S. Rep. Richard L. Ottinger of New York will be the main speakers at the conference.

The NAMR conference, which will be held in West Hartford next week, will be the first annual conference of the National Apostolate for the Mentally Retarded (NAMR), which will be held in West Hartford next week.

Five Israeli Civilians Die When Jeep Strikes Mine

TEL AVIV (AP) — Five Israeli civilians were killed at the southern end of the Golan Heights Tuesday night, the Israeli military command said.

Officials said it appeared that their jeep struck a mine.

The Algerians have been reported to have fired on the jeep, during an artillery exchange in March 1969.

Al Ahran also said the Egyptian Foreign Ministry has told U.N. peace negotiator Gunnar Jarring that they would like peace talks to be held in New York with the Egyptian ambassador in Cairo, Youssef M. Sidani, and the Syrian ambassador in Damascus, Muhammad Hassan al-Zayyat, as Egypt's representatives.

The other count in each indictment alleges illegal use of public money, which is a high misdemeanor punishable by up to seven years in prison and a $1,000 fine.

South Viets Kill 96 of Enemy But Suffer Heavy Losses

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese forces battled the North Vietnamese for the fourth day today at Fire Base O'Reilly, in the northern part of the country, and claimed 96 enemy killed in two battles in the south. But Saigon's forces suffered heavy casualties in one of the latter engagements.

A company manning an outpost about a mile south of O'Reilly beat off an attack before dawn by a North Vietnamese company and reported 10 of the enemy killed. The defenders said two of their men were wounded.

Military spokesmen said combat with the North Vietnamese continued during the morning. The artillery base 27 miles west of Hue has been under mortar and automatic weapons attack since Sunday by massing North Vietnamese troops who also have made several probing ground attacks against outposts.

The base and its outposts are defended by a 600-man battalion from the South Vietnamese 1st Air Division, supported by American helicopter gunships and fighter-bombers.

The enemy's force in the area is estimated at 1,500 men.

O'Reilly is one of five mountain bases in the area that are being attacked by North Vietnamese supply and infiltration routes to the east. Apparently the North Vietnamese are trying to drive the South Vietnamese from the area.

O'Reilly, which they drove the Americans last month from Fire Base Ripcord, five miles to the south.

A government force about 40 miles west of Saigon reported killing 48 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese Tuesday in a battle in the Parrot's Beak area of Cambodia. Fifteen South Vietnamese troops were killed and 70 wounded. It was one of the highest government tolls in recent weeks.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said he knew of no request yet from the Laotian government to halt the raids.

Republicans Pick Delegates

Hebron Republicans held caucus this week to name three delegates to the special Republican Convention to be held Sept. 12. The convention will nominate Robert Steele, the candidate for the second district, as the short-term candidate.

Nominated as delegates were Marion Fooks, Robert Dickson and Peter DeLiares. Alternates are William J. McManis and John M. McLaughlin.

State Sen. Edward Marcus, candidate for Connecticut and was an Army veteran of World War II.

Survivors include a son, Editor Monty Lynch of Naugatuck; a step-son, Laurence Laobon of Oxford; and a sister, Mrs. Rose Joseph H. Christoph, Harry Pospal, Peter R. Zerjo, Carolyn D. Gray, Robert Blumstein, Jane M. White, Camillo B. Vendrillo, Peter Vendrillo, John J. Vendrillo, Harry M. Mahoney and John M. McLaughlin.

State Sen. John Pickett of Middletown, the party-endorsed Democratic candidate for Second District congressman, has announced that he has no intention of serving the later part of the day there.

The critical supply situation requires long-range solution," Smith said. "This shortage does not develop suddenly, it became apparent a dozen years ago, but nothing was done about it."

Smith said transmission companies delivering gas to Rhode Island distributors have given notice they will not supply this winter over the amount contracted for on a firm basis.

"This is not due to deficiency in pipeline or pumping capacity," Smith said. "It is due to the fact that transmission company is unable to purchase additional gas."

The contract for correcting the storm drainage problems in parts of Perkins and St. John Sts. went to J.N. Clapp Co. of Ellington at a cost of $4,000, the amount allocated for the work by the Board of Directors June 3.

Clapp's original bid of $10,071.50 was low among eight submitted July 29. Director of Public Works William O'Neill met with the bidders to negotiate a contract under which the work and still within the available funds.

O'Neill said that the bill specifications included more work than the minimum project, as approved by the directors.

A contract for storm drainage correction work at Dover Rd. and W. Middle Tpke. is still under negotiation. The directors allocated $8,000 for this project. Maple Hill Construction Co. of Wapping was low for an estimate of $24,180.

Town Awards Four Trophies

The town awarded contracts today for three water main projects and for correction of storm drainage problems on Perkins St.

Maple Hill Construction Co. of Bloomfield won the contract for water main construction in E. Middle Tpke., between Dale and Mountain Rds., in Marion Dr., and in Thompson Rd. The contract for Perkins St. was $12,498.75.

Town Players Bridge Winners

Bridge players of every rank have assembled in Boston for the American Contract Bridge League's 42nd annual Summer Nationals.

Paul Hetter of Trumbull, and Michael Moss of New York City, today won the Life Masters Pairs championship. After six gruelling rounds and in a field that contained most of the country's leading players, they totaled 1,208 1/2 to win the coveted Von Seitzcup.

In the Women's Club Pairs championship played Saturday, Milton Gottlieb of 120 Rockwell St., Manchester, and Stanley Berry, of Hartford, placed first in their section. The best score was a mere 1.09 points to 71.7.

Declines barely inched beyond advances on the New York Stock Exchange.

With such spirited activity there really was not much for the analysts to talk about. Gen. Frank McCann of 160 Benton St. worked out his case of the summer doldrums by hopping onto his bike Monday and pedaling 60 miles to Moosup to visit his grandmother, Mrs. Edna McCann.

Allan's father reports that the youth phoned home Monday night to say he had arrived safely, making the trip in about 1 1/2 hours.

"He has his driver's license, but he just wanted to try the trip for fun," his father, McCann said.

Allan, who will be a junior in the automotive course at Howland Chetty Tech this fall, was cycling home today. He has a part-time job at a gasoline service station and was scheduled to work the 4 to midnight shift, his father said.

Republicans Go to Polls In Primary

"ultra-liberal" and Weicker responded by saying that Lupton represented only "one end of the political spectrum."

Lupton hammered away at his main theme, which was viability of federal gas during some of their televised debates; namely, that Weicker "voted with the Democrats" and is not a "real Republican."

The GOP primary is not a contest that will be decided by the major cities, which tend to be dominated by Democrats but by suburbs and small towns, where the party has its strength.

On the GOP map, Hamden is bigger than Hartford, Danbury is bigger than Hartford, and Stamford is the largest city in the state and Greenwich (Weicker's home town) is the second largest. In that map, Greenwich is bigger than Hartford and bridgeport put together.

Bicycling Beats Boredom

Not all youngsters get into trouble when they are bored and looking for "something to do."

Sixteen-year-old Allan McCann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rod-rod McCann of 160 Benton St., worked out his case of the summer doldrums by hopping onto his bike Monday and pedaling 60 miles to Moosup to visit his grandmother, Mrs. Edna McCann.

Convicts Give Gift of Life To Hemophilic

NEW YORK (AP) — Chris Rogano, a 6-year-old hemophilic, has 128 more pints of blood waiting for him, a gift of life from a group of convicts at Wallkill State Prison who read of his need.

"We have the blood because we cared about Chris Rogano," one of the blood drive organizers wrote in the prison newspaper. "Just as we care about our own kids."

The men serving sentences for crimes ranging from theft to homicide, have never met Chris. But they read that he needs transfusions of at least two pints a week to stay alive.

Hemophilia has a tendency to run in families.

Magr. Robert Moore, a prison chaplain, commented: "The men make regular donations to the blood drive for Chris the response was terrific. About 50 more men than usual contributed."

A mobile unit went to the prison on 73 miles north of New York City to collect the blood.

Chris was playing wiffle ball at his home in Queens Tuesday when he was bitten by the mosquito. The bright-eyed boy said, simply, "Thank you."

"We had no idea that the prisoners had done such a wonderful thing," said his father, Richard. "We're going to write and thank them immediately."

And we hope that perhaps we could take Chris up to the prison so that he can thank the men face to face.

Chris' mother noted the men had also been getting blood from some Queens policemen who donate on a Queens blood bank. She said Rogano, "I guess there was a lot involved, hearts just open up, whatever type of person it is."

The prison newspaper writer observed:

"To me this giving of the blood is a beautiful thing. The men here are sensitive, warm-hearted and just as human as their counterparts in this jungle called the free world."

Richard Rogano said Chris, also an epileptic, gets "four or five pints a week" at New York Hospital. "The doctor says, 'New York needs more blood,'" Rogano added.

The Roganos lost another son, Anthony, a year ago, when he was two years old. He also suffered from hemophilia and epilepsies. They have no other children.

Anyone Can Learn To 'Do It Yourself'

Can you really do-it-yourself? Even though millions do, have you ever taken the guesswork out of your garage believing that there are some persons who simply can't fix anything and you are "all thumbs" and that any time you attempt a home repair it turns out to be a mess?

Never mind the precise answers to those questions. It is our opinion that any normal human being can perform a wide variety of repairs around the house if he understands the fundamentals, the greater the confidence and the better the results.

It has even become stylish, especially in suburban areas, to be a do-it-yourselfer. You're not just a "fix-it" person, you're something in your house or on your property and explain, very simply, of course, that you did it yourself.

Perhaps best of all, there's a psychological sense of accomplishment in getting something to work that hadn't been working. It's especially gratifying when you're sure that your special skills and tools are too dangerous if your income-punching gross or violate local ordinance. You don't really care your manual lead statue of a young person can't fix a leaky faucet or put a seal.

Retired General Indicted

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Retired Maj. Gen. James P. Cantwell, president of the National Guard Association of the United States and former head of the New Jersey National Guard, has been named in three two-count indictments charging him with using three public employees for work on his home.

Cantwell, 63, is scheduled to appear Thursday on the indictments, which were handed down Tuesday by a Mercer County grand jury.

The indictments allege that Cantwell used three warrant officers on three occasions for improvements at his Irving Township home near Trenton.

One count of each indictment alleges illegal use of public money, which is a high misdemeanor punishable by up to seven years in prison and a $1,000 fine.

The other count in each indictment alleges illegal use of public money, which is a high misdemeanor punishable by up to seven years in prison and a $1,000 fine.

Driver Killed

CHAMPLIN (AP)—Glenn Dube, 29, of Mansfield was killed when his car was struck broadside by a tractor-trailer truck Tuesday night at the intersection of Routes 6 and 186, state police said.

Mark Gratton, 36, of Eastford, the driver of the truck, was not injured.

HEAVY TRAFFIC — Mr. and Mrs. J.C. McManis, who had one morning recently discovered that their claim book for a young person's insurance for passivity to admire, was missing.

They knew he hadn't walked away in his sleep, and they were certain his disappearance was a group of convicts at Wallkill State Prison who read of his need.

"We have the blood because we cared about Chris Rogano," one of the blood drive organizers wrote in the prison newspaper. "Just as we care about our own kids."

The men serving sentences for crimes ranging from theft to homicide, have never met Chris. But they read that he needs transfusions of at least two pints a week to stay alive.

Portugal's Pena Castle

The last residence of the Royal Family of Portugal, Castelo da Pena, (Castle of Sorrow) perches on top of Sintra Mountain overlooking a beautiful valley. Dating from the 14th to the 19th century, it blends many styles of architecture, including Moorish with its golden domes and minarets; Gothic with German flavor due to the German prince consort, and Portuguese Manueline with its nautical motifs.

Book Review

RUSSIA ON OUR MINDS. By Dennis and Ferdinand Kuhn. Doubleday, $4.95.

A ripe story titled "The Double-Edged Sword" is a series of written messages between a pompous old head of a law firm and his grandson, a newly fledged attorney who decidedly does not want to join the grandfather's firm.

There is an aura of defeat in several of these tales. "Days of Wrath" is the story of a lawyer who makes a late marriage with the weaknesses of the fading remnants of an older establishment and the "Pauper" is a ment. Miles A. Smith

THE EVOLUTION OF MAN AND SOCIETY. By C. D. Darlington. Simon and Schuster, $12.95.

In an age when cause pusher in public and private life is waving sociopolitical winds and muttering incantations, and forthwith claiming they are solving racial, social, and economic conflicts, it is high time for science to raise its too-subdued voice and make what contributions it can.

Ex-Japanese Officer Tells Marines: Iwo Jima Defense Was Impossible

(Ed. Note: Tom Stowe is a former Herald sports editor, and is the public relations officer for the Third Marine Division Association. Stowe was an American Red Cross war correspondent at Iwo Jima.)

By TOM STOWE. "No banai charge, no women, no saki, no surrender!" This was the battle strategy for the defense of Iwo Jima 25 years ago as described by a former Imperial Japanese Army major, Yoshitaka Horie of Tokyo, at the joint reunion of 3rd and 5th Marine Division Association members and their families in Washington, D.C., July 23-26.

Despite the overwhelming naval and air bombardment of the island prior to the landing of the 3rd, 4th and 5th Marine Divisions, Maj. Horie started his audience with a statement that only 85 Japanese were killed prior to the landing of the Leathernecks. All told, nearly 6,000 Marines and over 20,000 Japanese died in the 36-day holocaust.

"I know I was No. 1 bad man to the U.S. Marines from the standpoint of casualties," Horie said, "but please pardon me because I had great respect for U.S. sea and air power." He noted that the Japanese fleet had been destroyed, and its air strength crippled prior to the landing.

Horie, now 55, told of heated arguments among Japanese army and navy officers over the best defense plans. "Many officers yanked me about articles, Horie, like his listener, and I was called the most pessimistic and cowardly staff officer in Japan."

Few Surrendered. After a warm, affable, and even apologetic account of his war role, Horie learned he had been made an honorary life member of the 3rd Marine Division Association.

Appeals for Support. Reviewing the Iwo Jima war, Wall voiced high praise for South Vietnamese forces, expressed confidence of ultimate victory, struck hard at dissent and violence in the U.S., and appealed for full support of President Nixon and the military establishment.

Agostinelli In New Post With Guard

Connecticut Army National Guard Major Nathan Agostinelli, who is Manchester Mayor Nathan Agostinelli in civilian life, has been reassigned to the post assistant supply and logistics officer on the staff of the adjutant general.

He had been headquarters' commandant of the National Guard's Hartford Detachment. Agostinelli is the Republican candidate for state comptroller. He is chairman of the Capitol Region Council of Government, and is a member of the U.S. Conference of Mayors and the Connecticut Conference of Mayors. He has been Manchester mayor since November 1968.

He began his military career in 1962, when he enlisted in the U.S. Army. After basic training at Camp Chateau, Ark., he earned his commission at the Fort Sill, Okla. U.S. Army Candidate School.

After completion of duty with the U.S. Army, he joined the Connecticut Army National Guard and received successive promotions. His next, expected in a few months, will be lieutenant colonel.

Tall Cedars Will Worship At Cathedral of the Pines

The sixth annual New England Tall Cedars Sunday will be held Sunday at 1 a.m. in the Cathedral of the Pines, Ringdale, N.H., with Dr. Douglas Sloane, founder of the Cathedral, as guest speaker.

Announcement of the event is made by Noah Rowlett, Grand Tall Cedar of Nutmeg Forest, Manchester. General chairman is Dean W. Cronkite, of East Hartford, the originator of the Ringdale service.

Special music will be sung by the Wallston, Man. Glee Club under the direction of Richard F. Reed. Guest organist will be Shelia Caulfield. Chances are it'll cost you less to have your personal checking account at the bank that listens. To begin with, we've made it more likely that it'll cost you nothing at all. We've reduced the required minimum balance. Previously you had to maintain a $400 minimum balance to eliminate all checking charges. We've lowered that figure to $300. And if you find it difficult to maintain this lower balance, you'll pay only for the checks you actually use... 8¢ per check... plus a modest service charge of only 50¢ a month. No other charges of any kind. One thing more. If you're 65 or over, checking is absolutely free at CBT. Which is what you should expect from a bank that listens. ### Your Smile Can Give You Away

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP)—Beware the "oblong smile." That's when they're just pretending to enjoy your joke or off-the-wall remark.

Dr. Ewan Grant of Birmingham University's psychiatry department says that name for the smile all of us trot out when we know we have to be polite.

Grant has noted more than 100 "face-to-face" signals, including smiles, by which we give ourselves away.

"The way we use these signals can give extremely valuable information about the way we are thinking," he said. "The mouth is frequently used to express emotions and it is very difficult to disguise these.

"Our work will be useful in psychiatry because it will enable doctors to see how patients react to certain questions about their lives—not only in what they say, which might be disguised, but through their non-verbal signals."

There are other tips—like the eyebrow which lowers, the eyelids lowering, the moving hands—but the smile is an easy clue to catch.

The five basic smiles, said Grant, are:

Upper—the "how do you do" smile which tends to linger in family greetings. Only the upper teeth are uncovered and the mouth's generosity is only slightly open.

Simple—A "typically non-committal" smile occurring when someone is happy by himself. The lips curve back and up but remain together so there's no dental display.

Broad—the smile that occurs in situations of pleasurable excitement. The mouth is open, the lips curled right back and both upper and lower teeth can be seen.

Lip-in—This one is often seen in coy girls. It's much the same as the upper smile except that the lower lips is drawn in between the teeth. Grant said it implies that the smiler feels in some way subordinate to the person she is meeting.

And then there's the oblong smile, the one when the smiler pretends to enjoy something he or she isn't. The lips are drawn back from both upper and lower teeth, forming an oblong which doesn't seem to depth to this smile.

Grant said this is the grimace called forth "when a girl gets too much attention from an amorous drunk, or is being chased round the office by her boss."

Faith Behind the Forbidding Walls

Searching out and tending to the religious needs of confined men is the sometimes rewarding, sometimes frustrating world of three clergymen and their lay volunteers.

Manchester Herald reporter Margaret Hayden recently visited these men of faith at their round-the-clock prison walls. Here she tells of the dedication of these men.

By MARGARET HAYDEN
(Herald Reporter)

Men talked with their wives and their children climb all over them at the picnic tables on a hill overlooking the picturesque valleys and farmlands at the Enfield-Jonkers town line.

Although they looked like typical families enjoying a leisurely summer Sunday afternoon, the women and children were only visiting for a few hours—visiting their men who have forfeited their freedom by means of serious crimes. They are social offenders at minimum security at the Connecticut State Prison, Somers.

The men and children were visiting their men who have forfeited their freedom by means of serious crimes. They are social offenders at minimum security at the Connecticut State Prison, Somers.

Social offenders and correctional institutions are terms preferred to prisoners and prison by state penal authorities.

Chaplains have a many-faceted job dealing with the inmates and their multitude of problems, providing spiritual guidance, friendship, counseling and counseling. The Rev. Russell E. Camp and the Rev. William R. Shanley, Protestant and Catholic chaplains, respectively, both work full time. Rabbi Marc Brownstein gives religious services on Thursday and works part time with the men.

Other clergymen come as needed.

... a program of rehabilitation

They work with the other corrections personnel to provide the men with a positive program of rehabilitation including religion, industry, education and recreation.

The three members of the clergy all stressed the importance of the job preparation program which includes typing, data processing, printing, electricity, typewriter repair, automotive mechanics and several other trades. The vocational rehabilitation, education and social living programs all attempt in different ways to prepare the men for re-entry into the community.

... the men feel rejected

"Washing dishes or cars used to be the only kind of job available to the men after their release," Chaplain Camp said. "Now there's a new attitude on the part of some industries in offering them chances, but many doors are still closed."

In addition to staff clergy, guest preachers and lay religious education teachers visit the institution. They offer services for Connecticut prisoners going back to Old Newgate Prison, the first state prison. At Newgate, prisoners were chained to nail blocks while they heard fiery sermons about hell and damnation from men like Jonathan Edwards. In 1877 Newgate inmates were marched in chains 15 miles to West-erfield Prison, which was replaced seven years ago by the Connecticut Corrections Institute in Somers.

... it begins with the arrest

"The rehabilitation of the social offender begins when he is arrested," the Rev. Mr. Camp, a prison chaplain since 1960, said. "Men in prison are not a punishment but as punishment. He feels he has made it on the outside. One former inmate had gone into the Peace Corps; another is touring the world in an opera company. They speak with pride of meeting them on the street and in restaurants."

... families sitting together

At the Catholic and Protestant services we attended, members of some of the men's families sat with them. Others had no visitors—some never do. A few were lifers—many others also face long terms before they will be eligible for parole. All were neatly dressed in green, blue or brown work clothes. Their hair was neatly and individually styled but some were really long hair.

... voices of the Negro choir

The vibrant voices of the Negro choir were most impressive. For some of the songs, the congregation joined in. Three inmates, accompanied on the organ by another, sang several hymns and folk songs. One was dedicated to someone "going out next week. Their restrained voices were clear and strong and they sang from their hearts. Judging from the bold expressions, the congregation had been reached by the spiritual message and by the resonant music."

... a program of rehabilitation

They work with the other corrections personnel to provide the men with a positive program of rehabilitation including religion, industry, education and recreation.

... to keep a man in prison

"Taxpayers spend $4,240 a year to keep a man in prison," he said, "but they don't give him anything to pay society back when he gets out. Where's the good old Connecticut Yankee spirit? Why are taxpayers and a second chance? Taxpayers want to push the problem away. They forget the taxpayer who has been imprisoned come out."

He wants better communication among the clergy. "We want the men to be able to call on a minister or priest of their persuasion after they get out." We should be able to tell other clergymen how the men progressed or did not progress while they were here."

... looks like a young athlete

Father Shanley, who looks like a young athlete, works with the baseball and basketball team in New Britain. He has been allowed to play outside. He feels the physical recreation programs help the men regain their self-pride.

mission from General Lafayette himself, a captain in the Continental Army.

In what has become almost standard casting practice since the American Revolution—with a little help from his friends—has been retold by NBC. But his cause will be carried on next season by ABC's "Young Rebels."

The action series set in 1777 is hung on three young people who are supposed to be members of a secret American patriotic group called "The Yankee Dog Society." The television genealogy apparently includes "Mod Squad" and "The Scarlet Pimpernel."

Since ABC has placed the series in an early Sunday evening time slot, enthusiastically recommended to as a "family viewing" the series obviously is aimed at the under-18 audience. Certainly it is youth-oriented in concept and viewpoint.

Rick Ely, the youthful blond teen-ager who is one of its three leads, explained that while some liberties have been taken with historical fact in the interest of dramatic impact, "our script is more concerned with the philosophy of the revolution and the moral wrongs that were committed."

Ely, who has had little television exposure, will play a young Pennsylvania, Jeremy Leakin, who is believed to be a lazy, no-endorsement, but is really the leader of the underground patriots and, under a secret com-

As Others See Us

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LONDON (AP)—A Belgian newspaper accused President Nixon of "an unbelievable lapse" in his comments about alleged murderer Charles Manson. A West German paper said Communists no peace signals. And a Japanese newspaper reported he avoided meeting with people who are critical of him.

These are some of the comments about the United States in the world's press last week.

The Brussels Independent daily, Le Soir commented on the President's statement that Man-son was guilty, directly or indirectly, in the Sharon Tate murder case, a statement later retracted "it is an unbelievable lapse," the paper said, "the more unbelievable because it does not correspond to the style of the man, such a jurist as President Nixon."

Fish Important For Research On Pesticides

MINNEAPOLIS (AP)—Scientists here are using the common bluegill sunfish to learn how to use pesticide safely.

A toxicity test to detect the concentration of "hard" pesticides—the chlorinated hydrocarbons—in fish is being investigated at the University of Minnesota School of Fisheries, Wildlife and Entomology.

If perfected, scientists would be able to protect the world's fish food supply from harmful contamination by limiting insecticide concentrations in water systems.

The research is based on a theory proposed by Dr. Robert R. Koch, a biochemist at the University of Minnesota Center. Dr. Koch is a consultant on the project. The research is being directed by Dr. Lawrence Outkump, an entomologist at the University, who is working on a three-year $100,000 grant from the Department of the Interior Federal Water Quality Administration.

Koch, who has been studying the effects of "hard" pesticides—DDT, chlordane, lindane and others—cell structure for five years, suspects that pesticides kill their prey by preventing an enzyme in the cell structure from converting food into useful chemical energy.

Outkump is testing the theory on Minnesota bluegill sunfish, which concentrate insecticides in their bodies.

Fresh Bakery Codes

With few exceptions these items are coded as follows: Numbers 1 to 31 correspond to the day of the month.

Example: (14) on an item means it goes off sale at close of business the 14th day of that month. For the few items not coded as above, a code is used denoting day of week (M-Monday, T-Tuesday, and so on). Off code Bread and Bakery items may be sold on our Thrift Rack at reduced prices for no more than two days and then must be taken off sale.

Fresh Dairy Codes

The following Stop & Shop Dairy items: eggs, milk, cream, fruit drinks and cream cheese, use the following coding system, which signifies the expiration date, after which the item must be taken off display. These items use the four digit code: Example: 0812—August 12. The first two numbers—month, the last two—the day. Most brand name Dairy products are coded as indicated above, after which time they are taken off sale.

Air Pollution Disappearing In London

By MICHAEL ROBYTT
LONDON (AP) — Pollution crises are nothing new to this capital city. In 1273 the burning of coal was prohibited as being prejudicial to health and in 1325 a man was executed for violating the ban. In 1878, official records show, Queen Elizabeth I "findeth herselfe greatly grieved and annoyed with the taste and smoke" from coal.

The coal smoke and the London "pea soup" fog are things of the past. Some of the mining districts of England still use coal but London has not had a death as a result of fog since 1962, when 700 persons died from bronchitis and pneumonia. The London smog did not just disappear. It was fought vigorously.

The first major antipollution act was in 1956 — the result of a 1952 smog, which killed more than 4,000 persons and cut visibility in the city to five yards.

The Clean Air Act of 1956 declared London and many other areas of England "smokeless zones." Coal burning was forbidden and the air began to clear.

Automobile exhausts and industrial emissions are not major problems, the Ministry of Housing and Local Government says.

"We have different climatic conditions here than you have in the States," a spokesman told a reporter. "We also have smaller cars, so their exhaust doesn't bother us as much. Industrial pollution only gives us problems with sulphur dioxide emission, but that's being going down for the past 10 years."

Britain's new Conservative government promised "to intensify the drive to remedy past damage to the environment." The Housing Ministry expects a program to be announced this fall.

One advance was the opening this week of a $24-million garbage disposal plant for London. The plant is "like an ice cream parlor," says the Greater London City Council, and won't put any smoke or waste into the air. It will process 1,600 tons of rubbish a day from weekly collections, use the heat to run electric generators, and reuse metal to bring in $800,000 a year.

Not all Britons feel their government is doing enough to stop the threat of pollution, however. Graham Searle, who heads the National Union of Students committee on the environment, says: "Everyone's paying lip service to the environment because right now it's a popular issue but the government isn't confident enough to know what action it should take."

Searle admits that great progress has been made in London.

Italy's Po River Covers Remains Of Ancient City

ROME (AP) — Archaeologists say they have discovered an ancient city which may have lasted 5,000 years before disappearing under the mud of the Po River.

Digging has produced evidence of settlements in the Po Valley area from the Bronze Age to the 18th century of the Christian era when the Vandals raided Italy.

Aerial photographs reveal the outline of walls, buildings, tombs and a semicircular structure, probably an amphitheater. Experts say the city may have been Ostia. In his book "Historia Naturalis" historian Plinius referred to Ostia as a city with many dwellings built on piles due to the marshy site. Plinius mentioned the tribe of the Ostians as pile-dwellers in habiting the banks of the Po, Italy's longest river. When the Romans conquered Ostia they enlarged and embellished it, erecting marble and brick buildings. Archaeologists say they have unearthed some of the tombs and found many intact with such things as jewelry, earthenware pots and amphorae, sculptured deer horns and objects in bronze and other metal alloys.

The discovery may rank with that of Spina.

This Etruscan city, its tombs filled with perfectly preserved pots, was unearthed near the Comacchio marshland south of the River Po, about 49 miles east of the new discovery.

Direct Hookup

ALTON, Ill. (AP) — The intensive care unit of St. Anthony's Hospital is considering a doctor's request for an electrocardiographic hookup directly into the homes of physicians.

The doctors now have hookups from the unit at the hospital to their offices. A similar setup in their homes would enable them to keep a constant watch on a patient's heart problems.

The private room intensive unit and special coronary care unit were created from four rooms at the end of a third floor hallway. It was built after urging by physicians.

A constant cardiogram is shown on a screen and is fed into a doctor's office.

Vega Set for Sept. 10 Sale GM Plans Fastest Assembly Of New Chevrolet Small Car

By ROBERT W. IRVIN
Special to The Washington Post

Detroit, Aug. 11 (AP)—General Motors will have the fastest assembly line in the auto industry in the production of its new Vega small car.

GM officials plan for the Vega assembly line to be the fastest in the auto industry — 100 cars an hour — and yet provide the best quality control. Many robots are used in the production and computers monitor quality.

The Vega goes on sale Sept. 10 to compete with the Impala, now capturing 13 per cent of all U.S. car sales. The small car went into production June 26 at a plant in Lordstown, Ohio.

Officials from Chevrolet and Fisher Body briefed newsmen last week on how the company decided to make extensive use of automation in order to cut costs so the Vega can compete with the low-priced imports.

One official noted that manufacturers of some of the popular foreign cars sold in this country pay only a fraction of the labor and material costs encountered by domestic auto makers.

With the new system, the plant is expected to build "400,000 or a little more" Vegas in the first year, according to a Chevrolet spokesman. The assembly line is slowly being increased in speed. It is now at 30 cars an hour, but the scheduled rate of 100 an hour in early December, the company says.

Up until this spring, the plant had built Chevrolet Impala cars. There were about 4,000 hourly workers at the Chevrolet Fisher Body facilities.

There are fewer than that now but officials say that now when the assembly line reaches its scheduled rate the plant will have at least as many or more workers than when it was building the big Chevrolets.

The Impalas were built at a speed of about 60 cars an hour. Thus, partly through use of the new automated assembly process, the Vegas will be produced at a rate two-thirds faster. How do you turn out cars like cups of cake?

Geoffrey Waterworth, Fisher Body's Vega project manager, said simplicity of design was a prime objective in planning the car to be low in price, high in quality and capable of being built at a high line rate.

To achieve the goal of construction simplicity, they used a modular construction design — like modular housing where units are built at a factory and put together on site," he said.

In the case of the Vega, large body panels and other assembly sections are built elsewhere and brought together on the fast-moving assembly line.

The Vega sedan has only 678 body parts, compared with 966 for an Impala. A new metal fabricating plant adjacent to the Lordstown assembly plant does the sub-assembly work.

About 85 per cent of the body welds on each Vega are done automatically, much of them through robot-like devices called unimes. There are 26 of these $8,000 dollar machines on the assembly line, with two more being saved for emergency.

Another machine automatically hangs the doors on the car — a tricky operation now done manually in other auto plants. To reduce electrical problems, the entire instrument panel is assembled ahead of time and put into the car as one unit.

Computers are used in the process of checking quality. Optical scanners read reports of any problems encountered on the assembly line. The information is fed into a computer which analyzes it, then notifies other departments in the plant. No unresolved production problem is allowed to continue beyond a specified period of time, the computer blows the whistle or gives the all clear.

James R. Seeger, product quality engineer for Chevrolet, explained how computers were used in developing the basic design and production techniques for the Vega which will be about 10 inches longer than a Volkswagen but will be in the same price range.

After the basic shape of the car was designed, computer "smoothed out" the design, helped design the suspension system and checked design for other parts of the car for human risks.

through mathematical models," Seeger said.

As a result of these computer checks, the front bumper design was changed, so were front-end alignment procedures and the method for installing the one-piece instrument panel.

There were also computer suggested changes for installing the engine, rear axle, steering column and alternator.

The line is slower than a normal line while the workers learn the jobs. But GM officials learned thousands of times from the new Chevrolet Vega small car.

Computers were used to simulate the entire assembly process and pinpointed critical areas.

don't look for any serious problems in making it the fastest and yet keeping quality superior.

"The concept is based on making it easier for the guy on the line," said John P. Hincley Jr., coordinator for Vega production at Lordstown.

"We feel that by giving him less to do he will do it better," Hincley thinks that goal is being met: "We want to see this quality on other cars — but this is a start."

Chevrolet's also been working for months on a special employee motivational program.

"Employee morale is so good he said right at the end of the assembly line," Hincley said.

"There is unprecedented vehicle quality," he added.

Chevrolet General Manager John Z. DeLoach once said the Vega would be "the best quality car built in the United States."

It says the permanent increase is the result of pay raises and purchases of sophisticated equipment.

Coast Dwellers 'Sitting Ducks' For Disaster
MIAMI (AP) — Expanding populations along the warm weather coasts of the Atlantic and Gulf states could become "sitting ducks for disaster" unless escape routes are provided from tropical storms, says the chief of the National Hurricane Center.

"A hurricane in the near future could kill 20,000 or 30,000, even 50,000 people unless we have sound planning," Dr. Robert H. Simpson told President Nixon's fourth regional Disaster Preparedness Conference Tuesday.

"I am enormously concerned with development of high density populations right at the shore lines," Simpson said. "If we stack in people by hundreds of thousands and fail to provide escape routes, we will be sitting ducks for disaster one of these days."

Simpson said Dade County — Miami — is a prime example of mushrooming population and poor planning.

If a major hurricane struck south of Miami, he said, 200,000 people jammed between U.S. 1 and Biscayne Bay would have only one highway on which to travel to shelter.

"A very high percentage of these people would be drowned or killed by flying debris," he said.

Simpson told disaster officials from 12 Southern and Southwestern states that Hurricane Carla, which ravaged Corpus Christi, Tex., Aug. 3, was "a meteorological enigma which will give forecasters and building engineers something to think about for years."

The highest gusts registered by the Weather Bureau hit 161 miles per hour, Simpson said. "But who can say how high they actually were? They might have been 40 per cent higher."

Simpson said it was the first time on record that the major damage from a hurricane was done by gusts rather than sustained winds.

"Building engineers have told us through the years that they design for sustained winds and do not bother about gust loads," Simpson said.

"We can measure these sustained winds but there is no known means of predicting gust speeds. This calls for new thinking in meteorology and in designing of our building structures," he said.

ABA Panel Hears Westmoreland on Justice in Courts

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland, Army chief of staff, contends military courts are workable, serve justice and respect individual rights.

Speaking of discipline and justice at a panel of the American Bar Association Tuesday, the former U.S. commander in Vietnam said:

"The two are inseparable. An unfair or unjust correction never promotes the development of discipline. Without discipline a military unit cannot function."

Replying to charges that some commanders exert undue influence on courts-martial, Westmoreland noted safeguards against such activity were added to the military code in 1968.

"True, we have had cases of command influence but they are few and far between," he said. "The military justice system is imbued with the idea that this is not to be done."

Ecologist's Wife Says: Women Should Not Limit Their Roles to Motherhood

By MARY ANN SEAWELL
Falo Alto Times Writer

STANFORD Calif. (AP) — "We shouldn't give children the impression that women's only role is to be mommies. Little girls should be encouraged to achieve just as boys are," says Mrs. Erlich, wife of noted biologist Paul Erlich for whom we know has been a means not a hindrance to self-realization. Mrs. Erlich is a biology research assistant at Stanford University where her husband teaches. She helped him with his best-selling book, "The Population Bomb," and with more than 70 scientific articles and research papers. She is co-author of his recent book, "Population and the Environment," and she illustrated another of her husband's books, "How To Know the Butterfly."

The mother of a 14-year-old daughter, Lisa, Mrs. Erlich agrees with the goals of the women's liberation movement, but opposed militant tactics. "I don't think that women who behave like witches with much sympathy from men or women," she says. She thinks many women feel defensive in discussions of the population explosion: "They feel we are taking over the world and only accomplishment."

But, as her own experience has shown, women can succeed without producing large families. "Raising a child is not easy, and even with one, it takes considerable time, effort and thought to be successful," she says. She adds that she thinks the most important contribution any individual can make is to be politically aware and active.

Mrs. Erlich grew up in Des Moines, Iowa, in a family of three children. She met Dr. Erlich when both were students at the University of Kansas, he in biology and she in French. They were married in 1964.

Both she and her husband are concerned about environmental problems. "A mother has to think about what kind of world her children will grow up in. If she and everyone else decide to have sev-

She's the First Woman 'Sparks' Of A British Ship

MIDDLEBROUGH, England (AP) — Martin Bradshaw is going to sea with a cargo of iron ore, 35 men and a set of earphones.

Miss Bradshaw, 28, will be the first woman radio officer on a British ship.

She sails Thursday as assistant "sparks" aboard the 10,000-ton freighter Dunragit. Six months under the supervision of a senior radio officer is mandatory for all new officers. After that she will be promoted to a vessel of her own.

She took a two-year course at a radio college in Wales. She was a newspaper reporter in Canada but worked in Wales as a barmaid and waitress to pay her way through college.

The only other woman officer in the can at home, then went in third mate aboard another cargo vessel operated by Miss Bradshaw's employers, Denmark's lines.

Laraine Day Enjoys Job: Being Nice

By GENE HANDBAKER
Associated Press Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In San Antonio it's a ballpark with playground, baseball diamonds and floodlight . . . In Des Moines, a $40,000 youth clubhouse . . . In Bellingham, Wash., a refuge for mentally retarded children.

And what reward besides satisfaction is there for the real estate agent who sponsors such good works across the country? Praise and plaudits from an earnest, attractive Laraine Day, who presents official commendations from the National Association of Real Estate Boards for accomplishments in its Make America Better program.

"It's a square job but beautiful," said the actress. "After all, how often do you get a chance to be nice all the time? To express appreciation for the good things people do?"

Realtors launched Make America Better early in 1966 to counteract incidents of violence and destruction. Their association says hundreds of local boards and thousands of members are participating in active projects ranging from housing for the elderly and poor to fighting crime and delinquency.

The smiling Miss Day, who since March has been receiving plaques to governors and mayors and made speeches in six cities, said:

"In Dubuque, high school boys, with the help of unions, built a house that will be sold for something like $24,000, with the proceeds going to scholarships and vocational training."

"In Virginia, a big contractor built low-income housing projects after realtors brought in speakers from Washington to point out it's just as profitable to build low-income as luxury housing."

Amarillo and Dallas have instituted anti-drug-abuse programs in high schools, she said. Detroit realtors went door-to-door to avert panic selling when Negro families moved into a white area. Many cities have campaigns to combat drug-arm robberies by keeping high-crime neighborhoods well lighted.

Miss Day, ex-wife of baseball's Leo Durocher, is busy as a mother of two lively daughters, Dana, 7, and Gigi, 5, by her present husband, show producer Michael Goldstein.

With her former movie stand-in, she also has a dress business operated by appointment only from the stand-in's home.

"Through with screen acting? "I hope not, but at the moment it seems so," said the onetime "perfect nurse" in the 1951 "bare feet" series. Her last movie was in 1960. She played a wife in an "OBEY" television episode last season.

Meanwhile, being the Realtors' ambassador, she says, "is a happy job."

Atkinson Thinking of Rejoining; Jets' Iselin Wants Joe to Call

NEW YORK (AP)—Al Atkinson says he'd like to talk to Joe Namath but he doesn't know how to get in touch with the New York Jets' quarterback. Phil Iselin would also like to talk to Broadway Joe, but Iselin wants Namath to do the telephoning of him.

Atkinson, the Jets' defensive captain, retired last week. He said he has some hard things to say about Namath. Atkinson, hitting Tuesday that he may end his retirement, said of Namath: "I love Joe, whether he believes it or not. If I live to be 80, he will still be one of my closest friends."

But, he added: "It's just that over the last few years I have found it harder and harder to respect him."

"Joe knows where I am. I'm not hard to find," said Iselin. "All he has to do is call me."

And Namath? He has been around Manhattan, but he's not talking—at least for now. Iselin says Namath told him he had problems. That's believed to be a synonym for more money. In this case, Iselin says he's letting Weeb Ewbank, the Jets' coach and general manager, worry about about Namath. Atkinson, hitting Tuesday that he may end his retirement, said of Namath: "I love Joe, whether he believes it or not. If I live to be 80, he will still be one of my closest friends."

But, he added: "It's just that over the last few years I have found it harder and harder to respect him."

"I do feel a certain obligation to the team," said Atkinson. "Something is working inside of me. It doesn't have anything to do with what Joe does or doesn't do, but with what I do. I'm not doing it for the team, I'm doing it for myself."

Ray Parson, the Lions' No. 2 draft choice from Minnesota, underwent knee ligament surgery Tuesday.

On the subject of holdout quarterback named Joe, the St. Paul, Minn., Dispatch said Tuesday it had telephoned Weeb Ewbank and told that the Jets aren't interested in Joe Kapp, whose demanding a whopping $1.25 million from the Minnesota Vikings. He's been offered $100,000 a year for three years.

"I'm not interested in him," Ewbank said. "I can't give him that question mark. No player's worth that much."

Defensive back Mike Weiger can terms with the Detroit Lions and started working out Tuesday. The Lions also have without a contract, but Barney's been drilling while waiting for the Jets to be called. He's been offered $100,000 a year for three years.

Boxing Will Care for Own With Retirement Annuity

MONTREAL (AP)—The boxing world will begin to take care of its own with a retirement annuity plan for professional fighters launched by the World Boxing Association.

The WBA established a committee Tuesday at the second day of its annual meeting to make the necessary studies and set the scheme into effect.

Described as "revolutionary" by Charles Lohb of Cleveland, Ohio, a committee member, the annuity fund will likely give participating boxers a guaranteed monthly income or a lump sum of equal value on their retirement.

It will be financed either by annual dues paid by the boxers and managers or by voluntary cuts from fight purses.

Malcolm Forrester, a banker from Yorkville, Tenn., was appointed head of the committee in charge of overseeing the plan.

Wedding

The bride, 290 Oak St., is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen A. Higbie of 477 N. Main St. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Benoit of 202 Woodbridge St.

The Rev. Harry McHarris of St. Bridget Church performed the double-ring ceremony. Bouquets of pink carnations and white gladioli were on the altar.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of silk organza, designed with a smocked empire bodice. Her veil of silk illusion was arranged from a pink beehive headpiece, and she carried a bouquet of pink roses and cym-bidium orchids.

Mrs. George Benoit of Coventry, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, was matron of honor. Her gown of blue peau de soie was fashioned with a Peter Pan collar and a long, flowing train. Her bodice, she wore a circle of carnations and daisies in her hair, and carried a colonial bouquet of blue and white carnations.

Bridesmaids were Miss Joan L. Benoit, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Ronald Lepak, both of Manchester. Their pink gowns and circlets of flowers were similar to the honor attendant's, and they carried colonial bouquets of pink and white carnations.

George Benoit of Coventry served as his brother's best man. Ushers were Lon Robillard of Rockville and Michael Carroll of Ludlow, Mass., cousins of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Benoit wore a yellow crocheted dress with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses. The bridegroom wore a tuxedo with a white shirt and a white bow tie.

Edward Nixon of Manchester was best man. Ushers were Gary Youell and Michael Crowl, both of Manchester. Richard Kelly of Glen Falls, N.Y., and William Stier of Albany, N.Y., were ushers.

Mrs. DeMeo wore a champagne color cymbidium orchid on her purse. The bridegroom's mother wore an aqua lace dress with a mint green cymbidium orchid on her purse.

A reception was held at the home of the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. DeMeo, at 256 Lake Rd., Andover.

Mrs. Benoit, a graduate of Manchester High School, received her BA degree from the University of Connecticut. She is employed as a group insurance training instructor at the Connecticut Life Insurance Co., Bloomfield.

Mrs. DeMeo is a graduate of Manchester High School, attended Porter School of Design, Rock Hill, S.C., and served for four years with a champagne color cymbidium orchid on her purse. The bridegroom's mother wore an aqua lace dress with a mint green cymbidium orchid on her purse.

Nixon DeMeo of Kingston, Pa., became the bride of Thomas William Nixon of Manchester late Saturday afternoon, Aug. 1, in a candlelight ceremony at St. Ignace Church, Kingston.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bivio A. DeMeo of Kingston. The bridegroom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Nixon of 12 Green Rd.

The Rev. Joseph Foley of St. Ignace Church performed the double-ring ceremony. Bouquets of pink carnations and white gladioli were on the altar.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a full-length gown of ivory tulle, accented with Venise lace, and short lace sleeves. Her floor-length mantilla was edged with matching lace.

Mrs. William Fischer of New Jersey was matron of honor. She wore a full-length gown of turquoise ribbed linen accented with a lime green sash, and she carried a colonial bouquet of yellow, blue and white daisies.

The bridesmaid was Miss Mary Neville of Boston. Her gown was similar to the honor attendant's, and she carried a colonial bouquet of yellow and white daisies.

Stephen Koch of Bethesda, Md., served as best man. Ushers were William M. Shuck of Vernon and Jeffrey H. Stueck of Pittsburgh, Pa., brothers of the bride.

Mrs. Stueck wore a silk green silk shantung ensemble. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink tulle dress. Both wore cymbidium orchids.

A reception was held at the Podium Club, South Windsor. For a motor trip to Canada, Mrs. Volt wore a blue pant suit with white accessories.

After Oct. 1, the couple will live in Patterson, Calif.

MRS. DAVID E. VOIT

Engaged

The engagement of Miss Elizabeth Brooks Carpenter of Mystic to William James Kums of Manchester has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Carpenter of Mystic.

Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kums Sr. of 74 Mather St.

Miss Carpenter is a graduate of the Robert E. Fitch Senior High School, Groton, and Vermont College, Montpelier, Vt.

She is employed at Goldman and Sacks, Boston.

Mr. Kums, a graduate of Manchester High School, received his BS degree from Norwich University, Northfield, Vt., and his MS degree from the C.W. Post College, Greenvale, N.Y.

He has been commissioned a second lieutenant with the Artillery-Air Defense, and will report for active duty in November at Ft. Bliss, Tex.

The wedding is planned for Sept. 26 at the Mystic Congregational Church.

The bridegroom's mother wore a pink tulle dress. Both wore cymbidium orchids.

A reception was held at the Podium Club, South Windsor. For a motor trip to Canada, Mrs. Volt wore a blue pant suit with white accessories.

After Oct. 1, the couple will live in Patterson, Calif.

New Haven Girls Beaten To Death

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Police were combing the wooded hills of West Rock Park early today for clues in the heinous murders of a teen-age girl and a young woman whose bodies were found there late Wednesday night.

The girls, both reported to be mentally retarded, had lived in a home for the retarded on the other side of the city park, less than a mile away, police said. They were identified as Donald Healy, 15, and Sandra Schiller, 18, and Sandra Healy, 23.

In mid-afternoon, the girls had left the New Haven Regional Center, where they lived, for a shopping trip to the nearby neighborhood of Westville, with 20-year-old William White, who also lived at the home, police said.

White was found beaten about the head and neck.

Cong Seen Launching New Drive

SAIGON (AP)—Heavy fighting in which more than 300 North Vietnamese were reported killed indicated today that the enemy is trying to launch an offensive against the pacification program in the populous lowlands of South Vietnam's two northernmost provinces.

One battle still raged at dusk with North Vietnamese troops held up in villages along the French Indochina war's "Street without Joy."

Field reports said 17 South Vietnamese troops had been killed and 44 wounded. Among the dead was Maj. Nguyen Van Van, commander of Fire Base O'Reilly, killed in a mortar attack.

American planes and helicopter gunships flew some of the heaviest strikes of the war. U.S. tanks from the 5th Mechanized Infantry Division blasted North Vietnamese forces hiding in treeless dunes by houses.

At stake is the pacification operation which over the past year has brought security to the villages in the lowlands of Quang Tri and Thua Thien provinces.

Some of the villages were reported damaged, and hundreds of persons fled as fighting broke out there. There was no estimate of civilian casualties.

The heaviest fighting broke out in a string of villages along the coastal strip French soldiers named "the Street without Joy" in the early 1960s because of their losses there.

Intelligence officers said near 100 North Vietnamese filtered into the area.

Nine arrests, all of suspected "pushers" of marijuana, hash-rod and opium.

Police in Manchester, Vernon and South Windsor this morning arrested 12 persons as part of a sweeping crackdown on sellers of narcotics in a 10-town region of Central Connecticut, coordinated and aided by the Capital Region Narcotics Task Force.

The first morning raids started shortly after 6:30 p.m. as police in some of the towns surprised the suspects in their homes.

According to Task Force headquarters, which is in Hartford, this is part of a large-scale roundup which includes the seizure of marijuana, hash-rod and opium.

Nixon-Vetoed Money Bills Go to House

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon and the House passed today in an historic, arm-twisting confrontation over $2.4 billion funds for education, government agencies, veterans hospitals and small town environmental programs.

House Democrats hoped to end the veto of a $4.4 billion Education money bill and a $1.8 billion measure funding the Department of Housing and Urban Development and a score of other agencies.

Most observers gave the education bill the best chance of winning the necessary two-thirds majority needed to override a Presidential veto. The measure appeared to have less support.

House leaders ordered roll-call votes on the two spurned bills as the first order of business today.

Never before has the House scheduled votes on two major votes in one day.

Herbert G. Klein, communications director for the administration, told Republican governors Wednesday the vetoes will pay dividends during the November campaign.

Klein told Republicans at the National Governors Conference that the vetoes are "the kind of big opening that would drive up prices or demand higher taxes."

The two bills provide almost $1 billion more than the President requested for the current fiscal year, a sum the President said was "the kind of big opening that would drive up prices or demand higher taxes."

This action also paved many Republican seeking reelection. Many have in their districts projects and programs financed by the bills.

Making it tougher in the fact that Democratic Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri new chairman of the conference, said the vetoes are "designed to blame Congress for inflation."
