GI Force in Saigon Cut by 15,000 Men

SAIGON (AP)—American forces in the Saigon military region are being cut by about 15,000 men as the result of a major reshuffling of allied units and the sources disclosed today.

The sources said two full brigades plus other units would be shipped home from Saigon and the 11 surrounding provinces of the Military Region. Men of the 11th Air Force who have not completed most of their 12-month tours in Vietnam will be transferred to other units.

Security regulations prohibit publication of the units to be sent back to the United States until the U.S. Command announces them.

Elsewhere in the war—Small ambush actions and mopping up operations were reported along the northern coast where U.S. and South Vietnamese forces claimed they killed more than 300 North Vietnamese in fighting Wednesday and Thursday.

The largest allied casualties reported today occurred about 60 miles northeast of Saigon when mortar rounds fired by an American unit accidentally landed in a Viet Cong position. Eleven government troops were killed, and 24 Vietnamese and two American advisers were wounded.

One of the two, Pvt. Michael A. Schwarz, 21, of Weymouth, Va., has been sentenced to life imprisonment for his part in the killings Feb. 19 in Son Thang village, southwest of Da Nang.

The second, the patrol leader, Pvt. Ronald E. Herrod, 20, of Calver, Ohio, is awaiting trial. The chief prosecutor, Capt. Charles E. Brown, 29, of Alliance, Ohio, told the court the evidence would show that the five women and 11 children were brought out of three houses by the Marines and shot to death with absolutely no provocation.

Grat testified, as he had in the previous trials, that his 13-man patrol the next day found the 16 bodies in clusters of four and six, lying in front of three houses in the hamlet.

His unit collected several dozen cartridges from M16 and M16-caliber weapons as well as some unspent shells, Grant said.

PT. BENNING, Ga. (AP)—The military trial of Lt. William L. Calley Jr., in the 1968, originally scheduled to begin here Aug. 24, has been postponed indefinitely.

Defense attorneys for Calley are seeking for the Army to disclose contents of certain documents relating to Calley's case.

Pennies Spent 53 Years In His Stomach

PITTSBURGH (AP) A 62-year-old man who complained of stomach trouble most of his life underwent abdominal surgery this week. Doctors removed two pennies and a large fruit seed from the small intestine.

From his bed in West Penn Hospital, Curtis Kestler called Thursday he swallowed the pennies 35 years ago: "I was rolling pennies down my forehead—and they rolled on down."

The pennies, now parchment, were worn to about half their normal size by stomach acids.

Kestler didn't remember swallowing the seed, which doctors described as a 1 by 1 1/2-inch mass, probably a plum seed.

Kestler, who checked into the hospital after X rays showed an intestinal obstruction, was reported in satisfactory condition.

On the eve of the President's meeting with Southern officials, Mitchell said he expects the Supreme Court to decide later in the year what steps the Justice Department should take in attacking school segregation in the North.

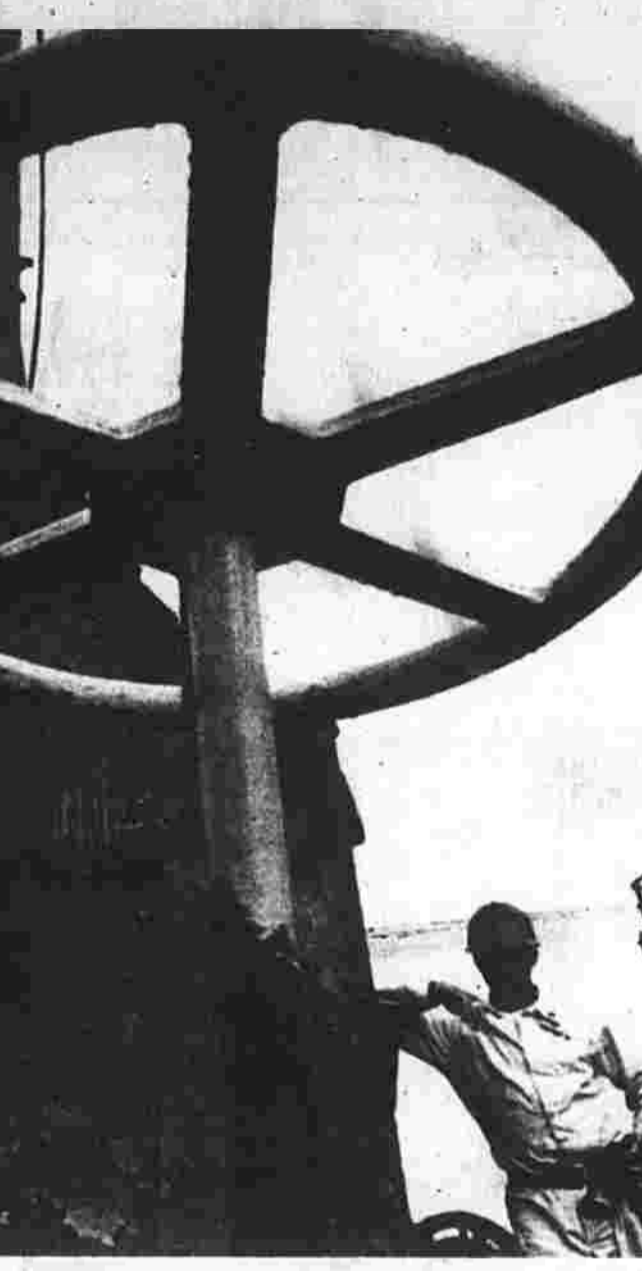

Mitchell told a Senate committee Thursday his department cannot move against segregation caused by housing patterns until the court acts.

Senators from the North and South told Mitchell the nation needs a new policy to get away from the hypocrisy of ignoring segregation in the North—while the South is being attacked.

Mitchell agreed the criticism is valid. The state desegregation advisory committee was formed by the Nixon administration to drive the Southern integration drive.

Nixon planned to meet with the full panel from Louisiana and the chairmen and vice chairmen of Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina and South Carolina.

The committee are biracial, bipartisan and composed of educators, physicians, lawyers, other professionals and civil rights leaders.

Restraining Order To Halt Burial Of Nerve Gas Denied by Judge

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal district judge refused today to forbid the sea-bottom burial of 2,675 tons of deadly nerve gas.

The Weather Bureau in Miami reported a dangerous tropical depression with winds of 60 Cape Key, Fla.

The suit, contending there are no present forecasts of a possible hurricane in the area, Dr. Robert H. Simpson, head of the National Hurricane Center in Miami, said it was possible a hurricane "could come with great suddenness."

Attorneys for the fund indicated they will appeal Judge Green's ruling. They first go to the U.S. Court of Appeals in the effort to restrain the Army from proceeding with disposal of the gas at this time.

There was no immediate indication, moreover, about the rejection of the Defense Department and the Army to the judge's "request" that they seek another disposal site "at a reasonable distance" from Sunny Point, N.C., the port of embarkation.

Army officials said loading of the rusty old Liberty ship might be completed today, allowing the vessel and the 2,675 tons of gas to begin the final ocean trip.

Nixon in Louisiana; Talking Integration

WASHINGTON (AP)—Stressing cooperation rather than coercion, President Nixon ventured his greatest involvement in Southern school desegregation today with a New Orleans meeting with advisory councils from seven states.

Advises said the President's journey had two goals: bolstering the effectiveness and prestige of the state desegregation advisory councils, and emphasizing his commitment to enforcing wide-scale voluntary integration in the South this fall.

Nixon, aboard Air Force One, departed for New Orleans from Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland at 10:25 a.m. EDT.

Nixon faced the difficult political job of administering unpopular medicine while keeping the patient reasonably happy with the doctor.

George H. Shultz, who led the administration party accompanying Nixon, said one idea of the trip was to extend a hand to the South on the eve of what likely will be its largest dose of desegregation.

Shultz is vice chairman of the Cabinet Committee of Education and Director of the Office of Management and Budget.

Also accompanying the President were Secretary of Welfare Elliot L. Richardson, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, White House aides Robert H. Finch, Leonard Garment, Harry Dent and Dan Patrick Moynihan.

Donald Rumsfeld of the Office of Economic Opportunity and J. Stanley Pottinger, Richardson's chief civil rights aide.

On the eve of the President's meeting with Southern officials, Mitchell said he expects the Supreme Court to decide later in the year what steps the Justice Department should take in attacking school segregation in the North.

Mitchell told a Senate committee Thursday his department cannot move against segregation caused by housing patterns until the court acts.

Senators from the North and South told Mitchell the nation needs a new policy to get away from the hypocrisy of ignoring segregation in the North—while the South is being attacked.

Polls Show South Rates Nixon High

WASHINGTON (AP)—Postmaster General William F. Blount, the only Southerner in the Nixon Cabinet, says administration action to enforce school desegregation hasn't hurt the President's popularity in the South.

"There is great enthusiasm in the south for the Nixon administration," Blount said in an interview.

Even though desegregation is "a difficult issue for people in the South," Blount said, "the popularity is high in the area, the postmaster general said.

Blount said an "even handed" approach to problems in both the North and the South.

"I don't believe treating all parts of the country the same is what you could call a Southern strategy," Blount said. "That is what I would call a national strategy."

Nixon has denied there is a Southern strategy.

Blount, a member of the cabinet Thursday, said the idea of segregation by housing patterns until the court acts.

Senators from the North and South told Mitchell the nation needs a new policy to get away from the hypocrisy of ignoring segregation in the North—while the South is being attacked.

Mitchell agreed the criticism is valid. The state desegregation advisory committee was formed by the Nixon administration to drive the Southern integration drive.

These were the highlights of the report: Personal income rose 3.6 billion during July reaching a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $80.1 billion. It was $49 billion higher than July, 1969, an increase that can be attributed partially to the federal pay raise effective earlier this year—both of which helped to boost production and personal income during July, while a reported increase in industrial production disclosed that real production of goods and services rose more than was reflected in the preliminary report for April, May and June.

It should be quite obvious that this country has little or no talent for the business of making itself a favorable image in the world. It is bad enough for us to be indulging in so much public controversy over how we are going to dispose of the 15,000 rockets full of nerve gas which are now at that North Carolina dock, waiting burial out at sea.

Adamy amid "blooms" of "Solar Fire Garden". Behind him building opens onto Water Street. Note pedestrian and curve of the escalator

A former Manchester man who quit the world of Wall Street for a career in art has created a striking plastic sculpture for a new office building in New York City's financial district.

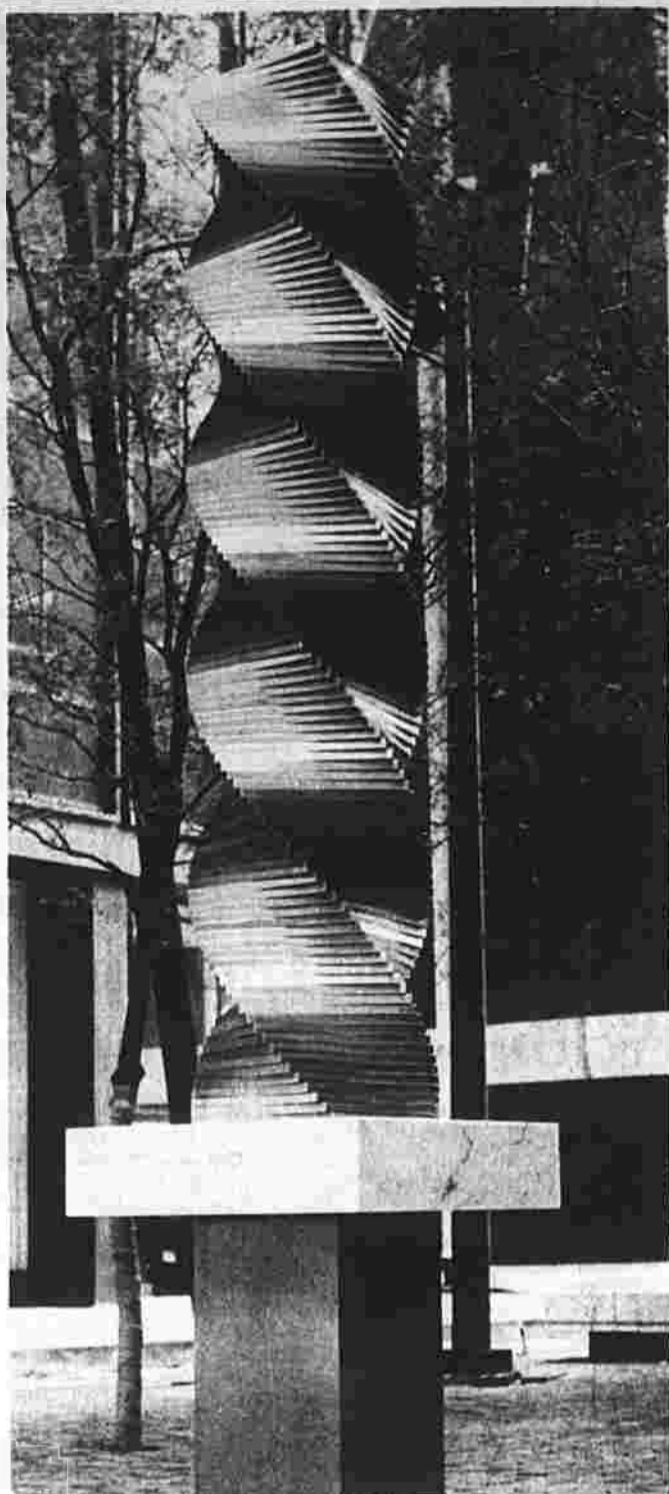

When he gave up his job eight years ago, George E. Adamy was a securities analyst on Wall Street and had never had an art lesson.

Recently Adamy's five-disc acrylic sculpture, "Solar Fire Garden" (The Month of June), was installed in the ground-level arcade at 77 Water St.

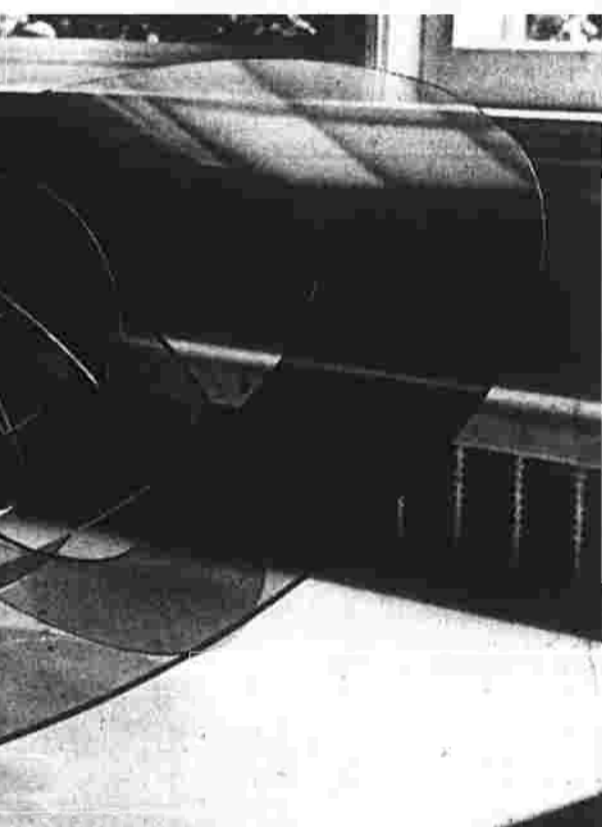

His sculpture was among several commissioned by the builder especially for 77 Water Street. The building is situated in the new financial section, a block south of Wall Street and almost in the shadow of Blyth & Co., the brokerage house where Adamy was formerly employed.

Slated to open this fall, 77 Water Street is a sparkling 26 stories of glass and satin aluminum, whose key tenant will be Wainwright & Co., another major stock brokerage.

(See Page Eleven)

Concentric circles in rose-colored acrylic spread their soft glow through Adamy's living room

Small early piece gives impression of texture when viewed through laminated discs.

Students at the Art Barn in Greenwich watch as Adamy demonstrates use of scraper for smoothing cast pieces.

Career Switch, Finance to Art

Adamy, a native of Manchester, grew up here and attended local schools, graduating from Manchester High School in the Class of 1943. He earned his degree in business administration at the University of Connecticut at Storrs, before moving to New York about 1950. He now makes his home in suburban Larchmont.

He is the son of the late Jacob and Anna Adamy who lived here 50 years, most recently at 43 Franklin St.

Adamy's "Solar Fire Garden" at first glance resembles five huge orange holltops whose sticks have been buried into the tile floor at a side entrance to the ground-level arcade.

A close look reveals that the "holltops" are actually discs of plastic, each five feet in diameter and individually mounted on low concrete pedestals by means of stainless steel rods in sleeves that allow the discs to rotate 360 degrees.

Adamy explained that each disc is a lamination of two yellow-orange sheets of acrylic (like Plexiglas) sandwiched between two clear sheets.

The bonding for the lamination was done with a transparent adhesive, which Adamy applied with a spatula to form patterns in each layer.

Because of a southeast exposure in the arcade—which is open to the weather—the bright fluorescent discs catch and reflect the sunlight.

An one looks into the discs, against the light, the patterns of adhesive give the impression of three-dimensional texture. But on being touched, the surface is polished and perfectly smooth.

Depending upon the quality of light and the viewing angle, the colors of the discs change from yellow through pink to near purple.

Adamy fabricated the discs over several months last winter in his tiny basement workshop at his home in Larchmont, working from a "lary susan" he rigged himself. Each finished disc is one and one-quarter inches thick and weighs more than 150 pounds.

"Solar Fire Garden" is placed near steps leading from the street through the open arcade to the center shaft of the ground level, which contains escalators and elevators to the floors above. Around the perimeter of the 600 square foot area are low walls which also serve as seats.

According to Adamy, the idea behind his sculpture, "environment" is kinetic: It is meant to be "garden" people will pass through on their way to the upper floors, touching and rotating the "blooms" as they go.

Adamy says he thinks of his work as being more like a revolving painting than sculpture, and that the concept for "Solar Fire Garden" was an outgrowth of his interest in the interplay of light and color.

In fact, he says it was his interest in the qualities of light and color that first led him to experiment with acrylics, polyester resins, vinyls and various other forms of plastics.

"I am trying," he says, "to physically mix colors in a medium that I think of as part painting and part sculpture—an amalgamation of both."

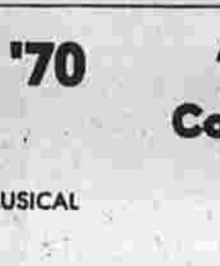

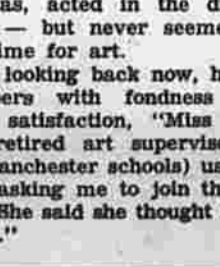

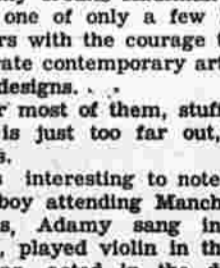

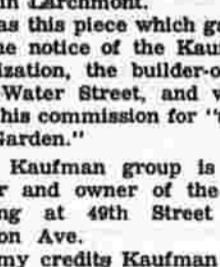

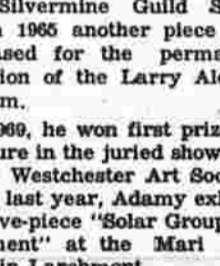

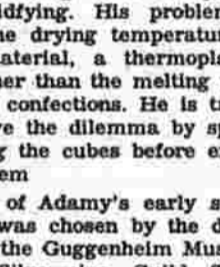

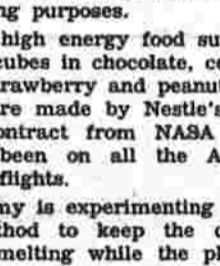

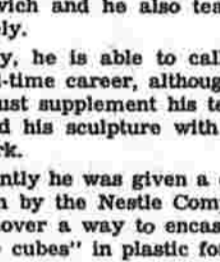

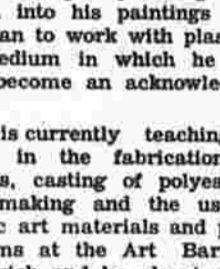

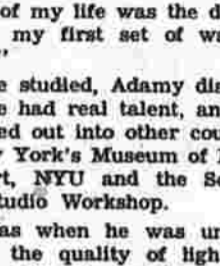

Usually sculptors think primarily in terms of mass," Adamy first got "turned on" to art by a course he took at the New School for Social Research when he returned to college full-time after deciding to quit his Wall Street job in 1962.

At the time he was 37, married and the father of three young children, and working long and hectic hours as a specialist in Canadian stocks and head of industrial research for Blyth & Co.

He was tired of the daily commuter race to and from his home in suburban Larchmont: "I figured that some day I was going to end up dead running for that train."

When he enrolled at the New School, he had a master's in business administration from NYU and credits towards a PhD—and no specific career goal in mind.

"But I enrolled in all the kinds of courses I missed earlier—philosophy, psychology, history. Then I took a course in painting and I was hooked. One of the biggest

New Water Rate Plan Cuts Size of Increase

A revised schedule of proposed water rates cutting the increase from 50 per cent to 33 per cent for the average user has been prepared by Public Works Director William O'Neill. The lower proposal might require a cut of $500,000 in a proposed $2 million bond issue for water system improvements.

The new figures were prepared at the request of the Board of Directors who tabled action on the proposed rate hike at an Aug. 4 meeting because they said the increase was "excessive."

At the meeting they discovered that the rate schedule recommended by Town Manager Robert Weiss and O'Neill was an average of 50 per cent for the increase user.

The average home, with a family of four, uses about 2,400 cubic feet of water (18,000 gallons) quarterly. The present charge for this amount of water is $8.10. The revised schedule calls for a charge of $10.77.

The earlier proposal, had it been okayed, would have made the average user pay 50 per cent more for water. These figures are for water only. A hike in water rates, however, would mean an automatic and proportionate increase in sewer rates. Sewer rates are computed on the basis of water use charges.

The combined quarterly water and sewer charges for the average user, which are now $14.10, would jump to the revised proposal cost of $18.80. Again this is less than the earlier proposal which would have been $22.32.

O'Neill and Water Sewer Dept. Sup't. Graydon O'Neil also have cut back the suggested bond issue to an amount that would bring the total to $1.1 million. Improvements would be made for water supply, distribution, and quality.

Supply improvements would include Fern St. well piping to connect the Fern St. well to a main on Dixmouth Rd. in the amount of $8,000.

Engineers would also make an investigation of the Charter Oak Well field, to determine if it is possible to direct new water into the well field. This would cost about $10,000.

A similar project on Birch Mountain Rd. would provide irrigation and development, would cost $100,000. This also includes the possibility of the town buying land in this area.

Auditory power automation of the three Charter Oak wells would cost $25,000. Presently, only one of these wells could operate in event of a power failure, and the auxiliary power meter schedule with a bond issue would be turned on.

Quarterly Costs for Water Use

Water Use (Cubic Feet)	Present Charge	Proposed Charge
0-100	$1.20	$1.20
101-200	$2.40	$2.40
201-300	$3.60	$3.60

Coventry Education Board To Review Curriculum Report Sept. 17

The Board of Education last night set Sept. 17 as the date for a joint meeting with the Lay Curriculum Study Committee to discuss the findings of that group, which recently submitted its final report.

The session will be held at a special school board meeting, but will, as all school board meetings are, be open to the public. The board spent some time discussing the merits of the report, whereas at the joint meeting it will only be to observe a hearing.

A public hearing would give townspeople an opportunity to comment and ask questions on the report, whereas at the joint meeting on Sept. 17, townspeople will only be to observe a hearing.

Social Security Administration Celebrates Its 35th Anniversary

By MICHAEL G. SINCLAIR Associated Press Writer

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. (AP) — While-haired Miss Ida Puller cashed her Social Security retirement check this month, her 35th since receiving the first one ever issued 30 years ago.

That first check was for $22.54, Miss Puller recalls, but it was nearly five years later before she was told by Social Security officials that she was the first in the nation to receive benefits under the program.

"When I got my first check, I didn't even stop to look at the number on it," she said. "I just cashed it. I wanted the money."

The Social Security Administration is celebrating its 35th anniversary today. Monthly payments began in 1940.

Miss Puller doesn't think any more payment increases are needed.

"It's been raised as far as it ought to go," she said Thursday. "Every time they raise it, they raise the amount taken away from the working people who pay into it and it's just getting to be too much of a burden."

Three years ago, she sold her home in Ludlow where she was born and lived for 22 years. Now she resides with a niece here.

"I pay my board and I have a little income from my savings interest and what money I got for my house when I sold it," she said.

"She had rented an apartment in her home to help pay the taxes and other living expenses. "No one could live on Social Security alone and maintain a home at the same time," she said.

"The only way to live with someone else, if you can't live on your own, is to be a freshman at Black River Academy in Ludlow and a senior classmate named Calvin Colidge."

"He wasn't anything but just a boy in school then, I remember, just a member of the senior class and I wasn't particularly interested in them."

After receiving a teacher's certificate at age 18, Miss Puller worked for a dozen years, even some in the home of a woman who was a business school teacher. After graduation, she worked for a Ludlow overnights by the Supreme Court, Cohen said.

Cohen attributed the Supreme Court decision to Roosevelt's overwhelming victory over Landon in 1936. The Department of Housing and Urban Affairs and the Veterans check.

Connecticut's Democratic representatives are Emilio G. Daddario, Robert M. Glavin and John S. Monahan. The Republican candidates are Thomas R. Meekill, Arthur Altmeyer, 70, first and Lowell P. Weicker.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress today passed a bill to override a veto by President Nixon of a bill to increase the Social Security tax.

The bill, H.R. 10000, would raise the Social Security tax from 4.2 percent to 4.8 percent on wages up to $10,000 a year.

Typhoon Rages Move Cuts GI Force In Vietnam

In the major reshuffle of allied forces in the Saigon region, all American combat units except one brigade have been pulled back from the Cambodian border. Most of them have been moved to the northeast and east of Saigon, inland from the South China Sea.

South Vietnamese forces have replaced the Americans along the border west and northwest of Saigon to block North Vietnamese infiltrators, and the 7th Air Force has moved to the Cambodian border.

While the South Vietnamese army carries out the blocking role in and along the frontier, the protection of the 3.2 million persons living in villages and hamlets in the region is assigned to the militiamen of the Territorial Forces and People's Self-Defense units.

At the hospital, the boy asked for an ice-cold soft drink, "and we gave him one," Dr. James said.

She said the boy fell asleep right after he was put to bed. The boy's mother, Mrs. Denise Crowley said, "I feel so wonderful because he looks so wonderful."

She said she felt "down" when the search party was recalled Wednesday "but I still knew they'd find him."

"He had a lot of praying and I was doing a lot of praying, too," an American commander said.

Most of what we have found so far was put in there prior to the Cambodian operation, "Destroying enemy stockpiles across anything you find gives us any evidence of having been put in since then. Our troops also are hauling the remaining equipment left, whittling away at it and I was doing a lot of praying, too."

Doctors' Offices Chamber Target In Break Series

Sight doctors' offices and the Chamber of Commerce office have been broken into in a series of break-ins.

Two doctors' offices at 35 Haynes St. were broken into sometime Wednesday night. The offices were ransacked and an unknown amount of money was taken from a cash box in one of the offices. It was not known whether anything else was missing.

Police said entry was gained by forcing a door which led to both offices with a heavy screwdriver or pinbar.

Another doctor's office at 301 E. Center St. was broken into late last night.

Police were notified by someone in the neighborhood who said that he had heard glass breaking in the building. Police arrived but found no sign of anything being broken into.

The witness said he saw two men in the rear of the building before the police arrived. He could only say that one was short and fat and the other tall and thin. He said that one man toward Walker St. and another drove away in a car he could not describe.

Five more doctors' offices and the Chamber of Commerce office, all located at 297 E. Center St., were broken into sometime early this morning.

The building was last checked by police at 3:30 a.m. The first break was reported shortly after midnight.

The Chamber of Commerce office was broken into first. Entry was gained through a window which was opened by a crow bar. Between $40 and $50 was taken from the office.

The thief or thieves then left the Chamber of Commerce office through the front door. The thief or thieves then entered the office through the front door.

The doors of five doctors' offices were then broken open and the offices ransacked.

About $50 was taken from one office, $40 from another and an undetermined amount of petty cash from a third.

Stop signs are being installed in several new locations around town. The announcement came from Police Chief James Reardon.

The intersection of Fern St. and Dartmouth Rd. will be made a three-way stop. Chief Reardon said poor sight lines for cars entering Fern St. and the increased traffic during school hours are the main reasons for the new signs.

Another stop sign is to be installed at the intersections of Porter, Autumn and Parker Sts. The intersections of Brookfield and Durkin Sts. and Ellard and Broad Sts. were made into four-way stops.

Nixon Tells Southern Leaders He'll Enforce Integration Law

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon, assuring Southern leaders of an even-handed policy on school desegregation, said he has no intention of waiting for trouble before enforcing the law.

After meeting in New Orleans Friday with federal sponsored citizens committees on desegregation from seven states, Nixon said: "I believe that leadership in this requires some preventive action. We are trying to take some preventive action and we are getting magisterial cooperation from dedicated people in seven states involved."

The President was greeted warmly on a motorcade through downtown New Orleans. He conferred with the chairman and vice chairman of units from Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, North Carolina and Arkansas.

Before the two-hour conference on desegregation, Nixon held a briefing on national security problems for Southern newspaper editors.

In the news conference, he urged cooperation of news media in talking of peaceful means of the nation. Nixon told news men in relating details of the meeting with Southern leaders.

Earlier this week, an explosive, and we are going to carry out the law that way, not in a punitive way, treating the South as basically a second-class part of the nation," Nixon told news men in relating details of the meeting with Southern leaders.

But, he added, his administration will exercise strong leadership on desegregation "because American flags—and a few Confederate flags—marked the route. That was seen reading 'Nixon Go Home.'"

Resistance to integration, the President declared, "will hurt the South. They will pay the price for failure to shake hands. He rolled up the sleeve of his coat in the 87-degree weather, his right cuff fluttering because he had lost his cufflink.

The President first with the newly formed citizens' panels from Louisiana. He conferred later with the chairman and vice chairman of units from Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, North Carolina and Arkansas.

Nerve Gas Burial Delayed by Winds

SUNNY POINT, N. C. (AP)—An aged Liberty ship loaded with poisonous nerve gas remained in port today, its trip to an ocean burial ground delayed by the swirling winds of a tropical depression.

The Navy planned today to begin towing the hulk to a point in the Atlantic Ocean where it was to be sunk at least 24 hours ago.

Monday, but Friday night, officials postponed the departure because of the storm. The threat posed by the storm bearing down on the Bahamas.

If the operation is not held up by a U.S. Court of Appeals hearing Monday, the ship is to be sunk with its vast stores of obsolete Army nerve gas northwest of the Bahamas, 283 miles east of Cape Kennedy, Fla.

A Navy spokesman reported Friday night the storm was located just south of the Bahamas. The ship is to be sunk with its vast stores of obsolete Army nerve gas northwest of the Bahamas, 283 miles east of Cape Kennedy, Fla.

He called it a big storm that was moving westward. At the time, winds were 40-45 miles per hour, gusting to 60 mph.

There is a good possibility of additional delay, Navy Capt. A. G. Hamilton, in charge of the sea phase of the operation, said. He will not start towing the Liberty ship until the storm has passed.

Major Bill Keston estimated the hours of good weather. He said once the bugs get under way, it will take about 10 hours to reach the disposal zone, an area in the Atlantic where for years the Army has dumped obsolete munitions—not gas.

The rusting ship, the LeBaron Russell Briggs, is to be sunk in 11,000 feet of water. Some 500 tons of water were being pumped out of the ship after the sinking, but Army officials said the ship would be neutralized within 10 hours by mixing with sea water.

Each coffin contains 100 lbs. of nerve gas. It is a total of 12,500 lbs. of nerve gas, capable of killing a person within two minutes. The nerve gas is being pumped out of the ship after the sinking, but Army officials said the ship would be neutralized within 10 hours by mixing with sea water.
