Fires Kill, Destroy in California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Huge fires spread on brush-covered slopes outside San Diego and Los Angeles today after destroying hundreds of homes and forcing thousands to evacuate. Three persons were killed. One blaze devastated 160,000 acres in southern San Diego County, advancing to the outskirts of several San Diego suburbs and inching to within six miles of the Mexican ranch community of Tecate. A spokesman for the State Division of Forestry said this fire covered a greater area than any single fire in the state's history. Another fire charred 115,000 acres around the Los Angeles Basin. During the early morning hours firemen made a stand at the San Diego County town of Alpine, already skirted by the advancing flames. "The fire was coming through the grass and oak when we pulled out," said Richard Place, 46, a postal clerk. "The houses around me were exploding. It must have been the butane tanks." Fire fighters managed to check the western progress of the San Diego area fire Sunday night as winds, wildly erratic during the day, subsided. But the fire moved southward toward the Mexican border. More than 60,000 residents fled the San Diego area fire and thousands of others were evacuated from canyon homes as flames raced along a 35-mile front northwest of Los Angeles. Other fires, some believed set by arsonists, burned in various parts of Southern California for the fourth straight day.

Weary fire fighters battled flames from the air and the ground. They faced another day of temperatures above 100 degrees and winds stronger than 60 miles per hour. "They were there with raw, red eyes and almost on fire," one man said of the firemen. "They had not slept for hours but they saved my property." San Diego, Los Angeles and Ventura counties were declared disaster areas by Gov. Ronald Reagan, who urged Californians to donate clothing and toys for families left homeless. Federal and state teams were ordered in to assess damage and pave the way for federal relief funds. Evacuation centers were set up in the fire-ravaged areas. Many of the evacuees were taken into the homes of friends and strangers. All Southern California military bases were ordered to stand by to receive fire refugees. The San Diego area fire had burned about 200 homes in Pine Valley, Alpine, Jamul, Harbison Canyon, Crest, El Cajon and other communities along a path 30 miles long and 10 miles wide. "The communities are a major disaster area," a fire official said. The fire began Saturday in Cleveland National Forest, 50 miles east of San Diego from sparks spewing from a fallen power line. It roared westward through brush-covered mountains and lush valleys to the outskirts of El Cajon and Spring Valley near San Diego. South of San Diego, flames approached National City and Chula Vista. William E. Marty, director of San Diego County civil defense, said 40,000 to 60,000 persons for awhile because of the potential fire danger." A State Division of Forestry spokesman said the San Diego County fire surpassed the 125,000-acre Matilija blaze. "In some cases," he said, "officers merely asked them to move away from their homes." Police grabbed seven youths and dragged them away. Nixon went in to see Pope Paul after being greeted in San Damascus courtyard by Msgr. Jacques Martin, head of the pontifical household. Also welcoming the President, Secretary of State William P. Rogers and others in the party was Bishop Paul Marinkus of Cicero, Ill., one of the Pope's chief American aides. Outside, on the edge of sun-filled St. Peter's Square, helmeted police stood by in tremendous force. Two fire trucks with water cannons were ready for any demonstrators. The square itself was cleared of cars. Thirty motorcycle policemen surrounded the President's car as it whipped at high speed through the route. At Piazza Venezia, the huge square where Benito Mussolini used to harangue the crowds, a few American tourists jumped up from sidewalk cafes and applauded over the heads of police as the motorcade passed. Nixon flew to Fiumicino Airport by helicopter and met the Americans as they walked off a special Trans World Airlines plane that is taking them back to the United States. Such was the crush around the smiling President that authorities herded the 28 hijack victims back into the plane. Nixon followed and addressed them inside. The Americans had arrived an hour earlier from Nicosia where they had spent the night after being freed by Palestinian guerrillas in Amman. They were to continue on to New York after refueling, but the surprise decision by Nixon to greet them held them in Rome a little longer than scheduled. Nixon said afterward: "I think I feel as happy as they do." He told reporters that what the hostages went through may mean "the possibility of this happening again in the future has been substantially reduced."

He referred to measures that include armed guards aboard aircraft and security at airports. "It sometimes takes an incident like this to bring world attention," Nixon said, adding that the reaction was one of outrage and one of compassion for the victims. Before visiting the hostages, the President told Italian leaders the United States is committed to a strong presence in the Mediterranean, which he called the "southern anchor of NATO." He made the reaffirmation to President Giuseppe Saragat at the beginning of talks seeking means of a lasting peace in the Mediterranean. He later talked with Premier Emilio Colombo, who accompanied Nixon on the trip to meet the hostages. Nixon said the hostages were "very proud of being Americans. They never lost their spirit." Their slogans were "thumbs up" and "they had no complaints about what happened," he added. And he said they were "glad the policy we followed was one that worked." The President spoke to reporters briefly on the ramp of the plane that was to take the hostages nonstop home to New York. Nixon spoke of what he said was a dilemma faced by his administration and other officials trying to gain release of the hostages. He said that while helping to obtain their release, it was not possible to move in "with massive force" for fear of hurting them. "While we showed great power, we also showed great restraint," Nixon added. He called this a "landmark case" that would influence American foreign policy in the future. His meeting with Saragat began only hours after cars belonging to U.S. military men at two Italian bases were set afire, a reminder of the scattered violence that accompanied Nixon's visit.

Hijack Hostages 'Survived' By 'Joking, Playing Cards'

EDITOR'S NOTE: George B. Freda, of Belpre, Ohio, is a businessman who was one of 32 American Airlines hostages released Sunday after witnessing the Jordanian civil war during three weeks of captivity by Palestinian guerrillas. At one point during the harrowing experience, Freda thought it was time to write a "last letter" to his wife. Here are excerpts from the diary he kept while he was in Jordan.

By GEORGE B. FREDA

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The ordeal started with a man, clutching a pistol in one hand and a hand grenade in the other, aboard an airplane over Europe. And it ended, a crazy three weeks later, aboard an airplane leaving a blown-up world behind.

We survived by taking each day as it came, by joking, playing cards and wondering how come shells were hitting all around us but not falling on us, and giving thanks that they didn't. Our experience began on Sept. 6, on the Trans World Airlines flight from Frankfurt. I had just finished a business trip in West Berlin. The stewardess was passing out drinks. Then a man with a pistol and grenade dashed up to the first class cabin. We were hijacked, and instead of New York we landed somewhere in Jordan.

Sept. 7—When we awoke the hijacked planes were ringed by the commandos and they in turn were ringed by Jordanian soldiers and tanks. We weren't allowed off. The guerrillas questioned all of us about any connections with Israel. Sept. 8—The sanitary conditions were deteriorating. We divided up duties. I organized the sanitation detail. We were allowed out of the plane for the first time, we stretched and got some air for a few hours. Sept. 9—The plane was a pig pen. Jim Major, the copilot, and I cleaned much of it out. Sept. 10—We drafted a telegram to President Nixon asking him to consider the "rightful demands" of the commandos. They wanted us to insert this phrase and we complied in the hope that the telegram would get out. Sept. 11—I signed the telegram in the name of the passengers and crew after they had all read it. I don't know if it ever got off. That evening, 18 of us were told: "Take your coat and hand luggage." We were crammed into a small bus with four armed guards and a land rover for an escort. We bumped and banged over a desert track swallowing dust, for over an hour. We thought we were going to Amman but we were taken to the town of Zarqa. I wasn't worried so much about myself at this time but about my wife, who is a real worrier. We 18 men joked about the situation.

When we came to the town, we were taken single file in pitch darkness through a clutter of adobe-like houses and tangles of alleyways. We went through a green doorway and into a courtyard and this was to be our home for the next few days. We called it the country club because we were able to sun ourselves and it was a lot pleasanter than the stinking, stifling plane we left behind.

Sept. 12—A guerrilla named Ben-Hasim, a gruff man with cold eyes, told us the hijacked airplanes would be blown up because, as he said in his halting, unemotional English, the guerrillas' demands had not been met and their promise to blow up the planes had to be kept.

Our quarters were two small rooms, one eight by eight feet and the other 10 by 10. We had filthy blankets to sleep on. The cold floor was our bed. The rooms opened onto the courtyard, as did the kitchen and the bathroom. If you could call it a bathroom. There was a hole in the floor. I got diarrhea for four days and I wasn't alone.

A Palestinian doctor came every day when we were in the country club. He told us the women were safe. He brought

Peace Force Eyes Truce In Mideast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An Arab peace force of 100 officers began setting up observation posts in Amman today to police a cease-fire between Jordan's Bedouin army and Palestinian guerrillas.

Radio Amman said two convoys of observation officers moved in trucks to positions on Jebel Amman and Jebel Asarhis, two of the seven hills in the Jordanian capital where fighting was heavy in the 10-day civil war.

The force is commanded by Gen. Ahmed Abdulmajid Hilmi of Egypt and is made up of officers from Sudan, Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Tunisia and Egypt.

Hilmi appeared in a broadcast for the Jordanian army and the guerrillas to adhere to the cease-fire and cooperate fully with the peace-keeping officers. Premier Bahl Ladgham of Tunisia headed for Amman to put into effect a 14-point accord to restore peace in Jordan.

The agreement was signed Sunday night in Cairo by King Hussein and guerrilla leader Yasser Arafat.

Ladgham left Cairo to head a three-man committee including one member named by Hussein and another named by Arafat. It apparently will have virtual custody of Jordan's sovereignty until further notice while permitting Hussein to retain his throne.

The 14-point agreement, which was endorsed by nine Arab leaders meeting in Cairo, did not say whether the committee's decision will require the unanimous vote of all three men.

The agreement, like many

Cong Rocket Hits Hospital In Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong rockets dropped on Hue, Vietnam's old imperial capital, for the first time in almost two months as the enemy tried to thwart the Saigon government's pacification program in five locations, a military spokesman said today.

The U.S. Command reported few attacks on Americans during the weekend, but five helicopters were lost at a cost of eight dead, two missing and four injured. One of the choppers, an Air Force UH1, crashed in Cambodia because of an operational failure, the first helicopter lost over Cambodia since American troops withdrew June 30.

One of three rockets that hit Hue struck a military hospital but caused no casualties, the spokesman said. Only light damage was reported.

South Vietnamese casualties were listed as 11 killed and 40 wounded in the other four attacks, two of them within 15 miles of Saigon.

The U.S. Command did not disclose the mission of the helicopter that crashed in Mondulkiri Province in northeastern Cambodia, taking two American lives and wounding two GIs. But sources said the craft carried only defensive weapons and indicated it was on a low-level observation mission.

It was the first disclosure that the United States is using helicopters to fly reconnaissance missions over Cambodia. Sources outside the command said some of the helicopters are equipped with electronic sensors.

The sources said Army and Air Force helicopters are being used for purposes including: —Low-level reconnaissance missions to spot potential North Vietnamese and Viet Cong positions and supply routes that other aircraft flying at higher altitudes would be unable to see because of jungles. —Flights to assess the effectiveness of U.S. air and artillery strikes. —Electronic surveillance flights to pick up signals from ground sensors that would indicate the movements of North Vietnamese troops and supply trucks.

President Nixon said when the

Police Catch Suspects In Bank Holdup

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — William A. Gilday, 41, sought in the holdup-slaying of a Boston police officer, was arrested today after a chase of about a hundred miles. Gilday was pursued in a station wagon in which he held two hostages at gunpoint. Police said the hostages were unharmed. Gilday was reported captured on state Route 122 near the junction with the Massachusetts Turnpike just south of Worcester. Gilday was believed armed with a revolver, rifle and shotgun. It was not determined immediately if any shots were fired in the chase and capture. Police fired at least 30 rounds at Gilday last Friday in a wild chase and gun battle in which Gilday slightly wounded a Lowell police officer, grazing his forehead with a bullet fired from a speeding car. Gilday was arrested shortly after funeral services were completed for Boston Patrolman Walter A. Schroeder, 41, the father of nine who was killed Wednesday, when responding to an alarm of a bank hold-up. One man was arrested last week in connection with the slaying-holdup, which police have linked to a radical campus

Hijack Deal Offered U.S. By Cubans

MIAMI (AP) — Cuba says it is willing to enter an agreement with the United States to return airplane hijackers, but only if such a pact also covers the hijacking of boats. This could involve Cubans who steal boats to come to Florida, and the State Department declined immediate comment while it studied the statement by Foreign Minister Raul Roa. In the past, such Cubans have been granted haven in the United States. Roa's statement was broadcast by Havana Radio Saturday night in an unusual public communication. "The problem of the hijacking of planes could not be solved by simple publicity measures," Roa's statement said. "If the United States government wishes to discuss this problem in a serious and definitive way, the Cuban government is willing to subscribe immediately an agreement on the basis established in the Cuban law No. 1,228 Sept. 16, 1969, which includes besides the hijacking of planes, the hijacking of ships and other violations of regulations and laws ruling the international traffic," Roa said. He added, "We do also express in a final and categorical

Tolland Voters Will Ponder Again The Fate of Crandall's Pond

Voters attending Wednesday did not affiliate with either party, but the future of Crandall's Pond, as a town swimming area.

A special town meeting called by petition, will seek approval of a sum "not to exceed $25,000" for the repair of the Crandall's Pond dam and for the scrapping of the pond to remove the present heavy accumulation of silt from the pond's bottom.

The appropriation includes all engineering costs and contingency fees.

The meeting will also be asked to approve proposed junked car ordinances which would regulate the storage and disposition of unregistered and inoperable motor vehicles within the town.

A previous town meeting held during the summer vacation period resulted in a narrow defeat of the Crandall's Pond appropriation.

Since then, First Selectman Charles Thibault has received cost assurances from town Sanitary Inspector Leon Dwire, that the pond is not being polluted by the local schools or other buildings in the vicinity of the Crandall's Pond.

Dwire took dye tests in the area over a period of time to determine whether there was any seepage into the pond.

The prime objections to the expenditures at the original meeting were based on the improved fears that the pond either was or would shortly become polluted.

These people did not want to pay the necessary money back into repair of the dam if the pond would not be usable.

At that time figures were tossed about for a municipal swimming pool of Olympic proportions, which have been estimated to vary from $100,000 to $250,000.

Thibault is hoping to have the estimate for the cost of tearing down the dam and filling the pond, allow for a portion to carry the water through the area in the form of a brook to the marsh across the street.

The state Water Resources Commission is reportedly pressuring the town to either repair the dam or destroy it, as soon as possible.

All plans either for the repair or the destruction of the dam must be approved by the WRC.

Also at 8 p.m. the ZNA will hear a variance request from John Dewart of Merrow Rd., who is seeking permission to construct a building to house a child care facility within a residential zone.

Pork, Iron Sale Lures Parisians

PARIS (AP) — It's Antiques and Ham Fair time in Paris again, and as usual the dealers are expected to gobble up the old iron and leave the pork for the public.

The Antiques and Ham Fair — French "Le Poire" — is held around the world in the old quarter of Paris, but it was shifted this year because of traffic problems.

A crowd of some 300,000 from around the world is expected to be lured by a range of treasures from 18th century settees for $1,000 to rusty hand-dogged keys for a dollar. Game-fanciers can choose among antlers, tuks, stuffed bears, wild boar heads, squirrels and owls.

From the attic come spinning wheels, Napoleonic uniforms, the piglets were marketed on the cathedral steps, they "run" dressed in flapper regalia. Piles of garbage and epidemics, and people could grab their dinner.

Up to a hundred years ago, the antique dealer explains, pork exclusively was sold at the fair. But then, peddlers and peddlers started to wedge themselves between the bacon booths. Now, only about 20 pork

Boy, 14, Mother Denied Appeal In Bias Court

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — The U.S. 6th Circuit Court of Appeals has refused to review the case of a Lebanon, Tenn., high school youth, who was dismissed from prep band for refusing to play the song "Dixie" and his mother, who was fired by the high school.

Charles Caldwell, a 14-year-old Negro, was dismissed from the band at Lebanon High school after an incident in November 1968 when his mother, Mrs. Marcus Caldwell, reportedly took him out of rehearsal. The youth was quoted then as saying the song "Dixie" was offensive to his race.

Mrs. Caldwell filed suit in U.S. District Court in Nashville, claiming her son's suspension and her dismissal as a teacher's aide at the school were based on racial bias and discrimination.

Harry Sutton, principal at the school, said Caldwell was suspended from the band in a disciplinary action and his mother was fired because of unsatisfactory work.

The suit was dismissed in U.S. District Court. The appellate court refused to hear the case because Mrs. Caldwell and her son have moved from the Lebanon school district.

Marine General Gets His Racial Message Across

CAMP PENDLETON, Calif. (AP) — The white dust, some tumbling down, but when husky Air Force Gen. Daniel James belted out "The Battle of Jericho" he got a standing ovation.

The 60-year-old Negro brigadier general addressed 1,500 Marines Friday on efforts to eliminate racial problems in the armed forces.

"The problems are going to be solved and they are going to be solved by men and women who consider themselves Americans and not Africans. It's up to you to keep the faith," he said. The audience, which included several hundred blacks, roared with applause.

James, deputy assistant secretary of defense for public affairs, charged the Marines with the responsibility to find their own way toward brotherhood and unity because the nation depends on the Marine Corps for its survival.

At the end of his address, James told the Leathernecks he wanted to tell another "military man" and his rendition of "Jericho" followed.

He got a two minute standing ovation.

Nixon Proclaims A Day of Prayer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has proclaimed Oct. 21 a national day of prayer, urging Americans "to pray that the scourge of war be lifted from the earth, and that the anguish of those who have felt the horrors of war be eased."

He emphasized in his proclamation that "the path to peace is through the hearts of men."

It was one of five proclamations Nixon issued Friday commemorating special occasions.

The week beginning Oct. 4 was named National Newspaper Week, and Nixon said he was doing it "not out of sentimentality" but because the press is essential to liberty.

The week of Oct. 11 was designated National School Lunch Week; Oct. 8, Child Health Day; and the month of October, Country Music Month.

No Winners

Two currently popular movies are satirical spoofs on war, specifically the Korean War and World War II. A few years ago, an English musical dealt devastatingly with one of the arch insanities of all time: World War I.

But both sides in the dispute know perfectly well that neither can dictate to the other and that eventually they will have to get together and reach a settlement mutually agreeable to both.

But no such basic issue is involved in this dispute. It is over money and improved fringe benefits.

So if the strike must eventually be settled by negotiation, why have a strike in the first place?

Because everybody loves a good scrap. Whether or not man is by nature an aggressive animal or is impelled by a "territorial imperative," as some authorities contend, it is this natural love of a good fight more than anything else.

Thus, as men once marched off to slay the glorious wars of yesterday as on a holiday, some auto workers were so eager for the strike to begin that they walked off their jobs a day early, also as on a holiday.

The American Occupational Therapy Association accreditation committee has formally approved the occupational therapy assistant curriculum offered by Manchester Community College.

According to Mrs. Walter Small, MCC curriculum coordinator, approval was given following a curriculum survey by a team of inspectors in May. It certifies that the curriculum meets standards in professional instruction and clinical affiliation.

Last year, the curriculum developed into a two semester program from a hospital-based program, started at Hartford Hospital in 1968.

Students gain both academic and clinical experience in two years, working under the supervision of professional occupational therapists and assisting in the treatment of patients with physical and psychiatric disabilities.

After graduation, they may expect to work in general hospital or convalescent hospitals or rehabilitation centers.

MIAMI (AP) — A $200,000 system of space age devices is being installed at the University of Miami to help student design, construct, burglar and vandals out of key buildings—or in them, if necessary.

Orville Briscoe, director of insurance and real estate at the school, said installation of the system would be completed by the end of the fall and would include the buildings they protect.

Included in the system are ultrasonic motion detectors that can spot the slightest movement in a building after it has been locked for the night.

New perhaps since I'm poor and my children underprivileged, I've entered to some of the necessary things provided under our state and town welfare systems, especially since I come from a ghetto, my children are underprivileged and I pride in our neighborhood.

Nader Asks FTC Probe Of Additives In Tobacco

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission has been asked by consumer protectionist Ralph Nader to investigate the possible production of hazardous foreign matter.

In a letter to FTC Chairman Miles Kirkpatrick, Nader said glass and ceramic fibers, asbestos, rock wool and diatomaceous earth either have been considered or are being used in reconstituted tobacco.

The largest cost factor in the manufacture of cigarettes and cigars is the cost of tobacco. The development of reconstituted tobacco sheet technology makes possible the use of virtually valueless waste tobacco, Nader said.

He added that patent literature by tobacco companies indicates the purpose of some additives, such as glass fibers and asbestos is to "firm the ash on a cigar."

Should smokers be inhaling asbestos, Nader said, one knowledgeable observer estimated it would be "a devastating discovery."

A spokesman for Phillip Morris Co. said in Connecticut that foreign matter cannot be used in cigarettes because of the tax based on their weight.

Other tobacco industry representatives could not be reached for comment on Nader's letter. Nader said that some specialists believe reconstituted tobacco may reduce tar and nicotine in smoke, but little or no information is available about the health aspects of non-tobacco additive.

"It may be far the most expensive price which a smoker has to pay for this industry-induced 'luxury,'" he said. "In a market economy, the smoker should be informed of the entire price he has to endure, at the very least."

Nader continued that while reconstituted tobacco use over the past 10 years has saved the industry from $200 million to $500 million annually, "such a corporate bonanza has not brought with it any self-imposed duty to analyze the extent of the health hazards involved."

Both the American Cancer Society and researchers at Mount Sinai Hospital in New York City have been working with a high sense of urgency on the safety question, Nader said. But he called for Public Health Service and other federal agencies to join the investigations.

Thus, the propaganda cannons boom on each side blasts the "enemy" for its unrealistic demands and rejects proffered concessions as beneath contempt.
