

GI Pullout Runs Ahead Of Schedule

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced today it is running several days ahead of President Nixon's timetable for reduction of American forces in Vietnam.

A spokesman said American military strength in the country has dropped below the 384,000-man ceiling that Nixon ordered reached by Thursday. He said precise figures were not yet available but would be announced next Monday.

Since Nixon announced the first American troop withdrawals from Vietnam in June 1969, U.S. strength has been reduced about 160,000 men from a peak of 543,400 in April 1969. The President has announced that total American troops will be reduced another 100,000 during the next six months, trimming U.S. strength to less than 284,000 by next May 1.

Sources in Saigon have hinted that this may be accelerated and more than 100,000 men may be trimmed from the American force. Combat divisions are now being positioned in the interior of South Vietnam for the next phases of Nixon's withdrawal program.

The U.S. Command released an official weekly military strength summary today that said 384,600 American troops were in the country. But "departures since that date including Army and Marine units have reduced the total strength below the Oct. 15 ceiling of 384,000," a spokesman said.

Columbus Finds Going Gets Rough

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Maybe Columbus would have second thoughts about finding America if he had been treated 468 years ago the way he was treated this year.

In New York, mutineers slunk across Columbus Circle in the middle of the night, hopped through the fountain and climbed a base supporting a statue of the fargazing Italian explorer.

"Indians discovered America," they wrote in red paint. "They discovered Columbus," they spray-painted on the 50-foot-tall monument.

Their messages of "Red Power" was echoed in San Francisco, a port Columbus never even imagined, much less visited.

As Joseph Cervetto stepped ashore in his new $396 Columbus suit, claiming: "I come for peace, not war," a Chippewa Indian told him to shove off.

"This is my land," the lady said. "Get off of it."

She told police her name was Mrs. Wong. Since she was not one of the scheduled attractions, she was escorted from the scene.

Cervetto stepped ashore at Aquatic Park, a city facility near Fisherman's Wharf. He has landed there often in the past during Columbus Day ceremonies but this year Mrs. Wong was there, too, saying she had an earlier claim to the land than the city.

Not allowed near the pageant stage was a group of 75 Indians

Nixon Arrives in Connecticut; Hopes for GOP Election Gains

HARTFORD (AP) — President Nixon was greeted by a warm, friendly crowd of thousands today as he arrived in Connecticut—scene of a potentially crucial Senate contest—on the latest leg of his effort to bring about Republican gains in the off-year election.

A presidential motorcade through downtown Hartford, the state capital, drew a surging crowd of about 25,000 on the streets, and hundreds looked out of windows of office buildings, banks and insurance companies along the way.

Manchester Mayor Nathan G. Agostinelli staged a personal protest against Nixon as he arrived in Connecticut at the Hartford Hilton Hotel today.

A group of about 50 persons, including some long-haired youngsters, shouted slogans, including some obscenities, and waved Viet Cong flags.

Mayor Agostinelli, the Republican candidate for state comptroller, grabbed one of the flags, stomped on it, and then turned it over to the police.

The motorcade came to a stop in front of City Hall, and crowds surrounded the car in which Nixon and Republican Senate candidate Lowell P. Weicker Jr. were riding.

The President, Weicker and GOP gubernatorial candidate Thomas J. Meskill climbed atop the car, with Nixon putting his arms around the state's two top candidates.

The White House had billed the one-day visit to Connecticut as nonpolitical, but Weicker told newsmen there was no doubt the Nixon appearance would help his campaign "tremendously."

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew launched an attack on the Connecticut Democratic candidate for the Senate last week, and the Nixon trip followed by just a few days.

Police seemed to be making no attempt to keep the crowds away from the President, and drivers of the cars tried to keep bumper-to-bumper.

Civil Rights Commission Says:

Equality Promise Unkept By Federal Government

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has failed to live up to its own promises on civil rights, the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights said in a landmark study today. It laid ultimate responsibility on "the quality of leadership exercised by the president."

Assistant Commission Staff Director Martin E. Sloane said the report was not aimed specifically at President Nixon, but at "every president... We've never had any period in the past when civil rights was enforced at any particularly good level."

In a 1,115-page report the size of the Manhattan telephone directory, the commission said minority groups still run into an equality gap in dealing with the federal government on a variety of levels, from hiring to housing and contract compliance and regulatory agencies.

The commission called generally for much tighter surveillance of the government's performance, with more money and manpower spent on enforcement of existing laws and orders.

"The great promise of the civil rights laws, executive orders, and judicial decisions of the 1950s and 1960s has not been realized," the report said.

Part of the blame was placed on government civil rights enforcement programs the commission said have been almost uniformly stuck with second class status—too few staff, too little money, and not enough authority.

Strong remedial measures were called for, including a kind of civil service Philadelphia Plan, with deadlines to meet specific minority hiring goals, to "achieve equitable minority group representation at all wage and grade levels within each department and agency."

The study, largest ever done by the six-member commission and its staff, examined more than 40 federal agencies and programs to "try to pinpoint the status of civil rights enforcement in just about the entire federal government," Sloane said.

Arguing in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg County, N.C., case, Chambers said what is unconstitutional is "a disproportionate concentration" of blacks or whites in schools in districts where segregation was enforced by law.

"We are not arguing for an absolute ration in each school," Chambers said under questioning by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger.

Top Court Opens Hearings On Classroom Segregation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court was urged today by a black civil rights lawyer to outlaw "racially identifiable schools" in areas with a history of school segregation.

At the same time, however, Julius LeVonne Chambers, appearing for the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund, said he was not insisting on "racial balancing" in all these schools.

Arguing in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg County, N.C., case, Chambers said what is unconstitutional is "a disproportionate concentration" of blacks or whites in schools in districts where segregation was enforced by law.

"We are not arguing for an absolute ration in each school," Chambers said under questioning by Chief Justice Warren E. Burger.

The Charlotte case and cases from Mobile County, Ala., and Clarke County, Ga., will be heard over two days as the court moves toward a fresh definition of the constitutional rights of black children and the obligations of school boards.

The fund lawyer, the first to make a presentation, appealed to the court to uphold District Court Judge James E. McMillan of Charlotte and the vigorous desegregation plan he has ordered the school board to adopt.

The black lawyer, under questioning by Burger and Justices Potter Stewart and Harry A. Blackmun, said a definition of "racially identifiable schools" depends partly on the particular situation and circumstances.

The Charlotte-Mecklenburg, where 71 per cent of the student body is white and 29 per cent black, Chambers said an excess of 50 per cent black in a particular school or an excess of 90 per cent white would make the school racially identifiable.

Blackmun asked Chambers whether he meant that all schools in a desegregated district must be balanced racially to reflect the racial balance of the entire system.

Again, Chambers replied: "It depends on the circumstances of the case. Racially identifiable is where the concentration of blacks is disproportionate."

Blackmun: "This means you are arguing for racial balance?"

Chambers: "No; we are asking for a plan that will disestablish all racially identifiable schools in a system."

AND, in response to questions from Burger, Chambers said: "We are not arguing for an absolute ratio in each school. We are arguing against a disproportionate concentration."

All major aspects of the desegregation problem, including massive busing, racial balancing and resegregation of neighborhoods are presented in the three test cases before the court.

Civil rights lawyers and the black families they represent are demanding a decision that finally insures "all black school children their right to a desegregated education."

The Charlotte-Mecklenburg and Mobile school boards, defending the moves they have already made, want minimal busing, preservation of the neighborhood school system and continuation of a number of all-black and all-white schools in their districts.

The Clarke County school board, meanwhile, is appealing for imposition of a strong integration plan, one the Georgia Supreme Court invalidated on the theory the 1964 federal civil rights law prohibits racial balancing and busing for balance.

And off to the side, in the stance of a moderate counselor, is the federal government, accusing the Charlotte-Mecklenburg and Mobile boards of attempting to perpetuate segregation from Mobile County, Ala., and Clarke County, Ga., will be heard over two days as the court moves toward a fresh definition of the constitutional rights of black children and the obligations of school boards.

Bombs Hit Five Sites In Rochester

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Two government buildings, two storefront churches and a private home by a series of dynamite blasts early today.

Police Commissioner John A. Mastrella said the bombings, which took place within a 25-minute period, appeared to be well organized. But police declined to speculate on who might be responsible and the FBI refused to make any comments.

Six federal or state facilities have now been bombed since Thursday, two days after a radical group said it was going to attack American institutions.

The blast against a subbasement window at the four-story county building, twisted heating ducts, ruptured water pipes, knocked out windows and chunks of concrete from a wall. Officials estimated damage at $100,000. One man was hurt by flying glass but no serious injuries were reported.

The storefront — New Bethel C. M. E. church and the Greater Bethlehem Pentecostal church — and the government buildings are in the city core. The private home, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Richard T. Clark and Mr. and Mrs. William Harkin, is several miles away in northwestern Rochester. There did not appear to be any connection between these buildings and the government structures and why they might have been bombed could not be determined.

Clark, business agent for Local 832 of International Union of Operating Engineers, said, "I'm not anti anything or pro anything."

Wisconsin Law Invalid On Abortion

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court declined today to decide whether expectant mothers have the right to medical abortions in the early stages of pregnancy.

The court refused to hear a case from Milwaukee, Wis., where the state's anti-abortion by a three-judge federal court, law has been declared in violation of women's privacy rights.

Today's Supreme Court refusal to hear the Wisconsin case left standing the three-judge court's decision against the validity of the state anti-abortion law.

However, this term the justices will review the District of Columbia's abortion law which has been declared invalid on "vagueness" grounds by a federal district court here.

The Wisconsin case appeared far more significant because the ruling sent to the court for review spoke in terms of human rights rather than whether the law was clearly written or not.

The case involved Sidney G. Babbit, a 60-year-old doctor who has been charged with performing an illegal abortion. Now a resident of Hallandale, Fla., his trial in Milwaukee is scheduled for Nov. 30.

Wisconsin law permits therapeutic abortions when necessary.

48th District Patsun Seeks To Intensify Drug Program

The creation of an intensified drug education program in the public schools, has been called for by William Patsun, Democratic candidate for the 48th District seat presently held by incumbent Republican Robert D. King.

Along with the intensified drug educational program in the schools, Patsun would also initiate an adult education program on the same subject. "We as adults must qualify ourselves in order to be able to work with our children in the solving of drug problems," Patsun states adding, "We must distribute to each family clearly understood literature which deals with all aspects of drug use and abuse."

Patsun further hit out at the "unbearable red tape surrounding court requirements placed upon state department of health toxicological laboratory personnel." This red tape requires a toxicologist to testify in person in every drug case, according to Patsun, who would seek legislation calling for the courts to accept a report certified by a toxicologist.

Patsun also questioned whether drug education classes in our school systems has even been started, despite state laws and Department of Education directives and policies presently in existence.

He claims that the majority of Connecticut school systems have failed to institute drug education programs, or at best present "only token programs."

"We must provide a continuous intensive educational program," Patsun maintains, promising to introduce legislation which would make this mandatory, immediately.

The 48th District includes the towns of Tolland, Ellington and Somers.

Two Films Open PANDA Seminar

PANDA (Public Attention to Narcotic and Drug Abuse) will hold its first seminar of its current seminar series at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Emanuel Lutheran Church, 40 Church St.

Companion films "Tripping" and "Rapping" will be shown. The first film deals with the reasons young people begin to use drugs, and continue to use them. The second film shows some alternate ways of producing good feelings, or of feeling worthwhile without the use of drugs. Both are realistic presentations of objective facts without any moralizing or preaching.

Following the films, there will be a discussion of the films led by Mark H. Swerdloff, coordinator of the Manchester Drug Advisory Center.

All adults and young adults who feel they would like to learn more about the drug scene are invited to attend this free seminar. The following seminars in this series will deal with what can be done to prevent drug use among young people.

Following the films and discussion, there will be a coffee hour.

Christine Jorgensen HOLLYWOOD (AP) - Christine Jorgensen believes that even if Vice President Spiro T. Agnew doesn't respond to her demand for an apology, he may be more careful in the future about using a private citizen's name in political speeches.

"I think it will have an effect on him in the future," Miss Jorgensen said Sunday. "I suppose that's politics. But one shouldn't bring private citizens into it."

Miss Jorgensen, 44, who was a GI in the early 1960s before a surgical sex change, sent a letter of protest to Agnew's Washington office after he called Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., "the Christine Jorgensen of the Republican party."

Agnew has not responded.

Coventry School Activities Group Features Athletics, Skiing

The activity program at Coventry Grammar and Roberson Schools will have a "lucky plate" day, Oct. 12. Two of the nine most popular clubs are skiing and athletics, with 81 and 84 participating students, respectively.

The Athletics Club has been divided into two groups, one for freshmen and sophomores and one for juniors and seniors.

The club program runs twice a week at the school during the scheduled activity period. Some clubs meet every activity period, but most are held every other week.

Daniel Carden, president of the Student Council, arranged an assembly during an activity period, with a representative from each club on hand to explain to students their club and the opportunity to sign up for a club or clubs of their choice.

Both meetings are open to the public.

The Democrats will kick off their local campaign activities officially tomorrow at 7 p.m. with the opening of headquarters on Main St. in the village.

On hand for the headquarters opening will be 35th State Senatorial candidate Robert Henley, 51st Assembly District candidate Aloysius Ahearn, and Judge of Probate candidate Tony Walsh.

O'Neill Opens His Hebron Campaign

Incumbent State Representative from the 52nd District, William O'Neill, talks politics with Mrs. Dennis Keith at the Lions Club barbecue for the Rhum High School Band Sunday at the Hebron Elementary School. O'Neill was at the event to kick off his week-long campaign in Hebron.

William O'Neill, Democratic incumbent running for re-election as state representative from the 52nd Assembly District, opened his campaign in Hebron yesterday afternoon at a chicken barbecue at the Hebron Elementary School.

The barbecue, sponsored by the Hebron Lions Club for the benefit of the Rhum High School Symphonic Band, was the first on a list of many activities, including door-to-door campaigning, scheduled for O'Neill this week in Hebron.

An active campaigner, O'Neill, who is running for a third term, spent last week in Columbia and after Hebron, he plans to visit East Hampton and Marlborough, the other two towns which comprise the 52nd Assembly District.

In his four years as state representative, O'Neill has served on many committees, including the Military and Veterans Affairs Committee. As chairman, he was active in securing benefits for veterans, including the Vietnam bonus.

He also served as a member of the Appropriations Committee allocating state funds for institutions, colleges and governmental agencies.

As a member of the Water Resources and Flood Control Commission, he has been active in efforts to assure the state clean water by 1974.

O'Neill is also a member of the Roads and Bridges, Inter-Governmental Regulations and Governor's Finance Advisory Committees.

WINF Will Help To Tell About Manchester Hospital

Did you know that in 1920, Manchester Memorial Hospital treated a total of 974 patients? That its operating budget for the year was $20,000?

That in 1970 on an average day the hospital's patients total nearly 500? That the yearly operating budget is now $8 million?

You'll be hearing nuggets of information like these each night from 9 to 10 over Radio Station WINF as the station starts developing special programming to close the celebration, sponsored by the hospital Auxiliary.

Robert Charman, owner and president of WINF, is providing the special programming as a public service.

Next Friday and each Friday for the four weeks before the anniversary, the station will also hold live interviews from noon to 1 p.m. with people close to the functioning of the hospital.

Members of the auxiliary will also be scheduled for the first program, to be followed in succeeding weeks by the nursing staff, doctors, and administration.

On Sunday, Nov. 8, WINF will carry live the ceremonies rededicating the hospital—originally conceived as a memorial to the veterans of World War I—to the veterans of all wars.

The Good Threat
 When, last Sept. 7, the Hanoi representatives at Paris advanced a new proposal for a cease-fire in Vietnam, the only response from Washington was semi-official comment which dismissed the Hanoi move as one which merely offered old wine in new bottles.

Yet, on Oct. 7, three weeks later, President Nixon made a public address in which he made a proposal for a cease-fire in Vietnam which was an answer and a counter proposal to the Hanoi proposal of Sept. 17.
 Having just been through this experience of tentative rejection and then more serious bargaining discussion of Hanoi's Sept. 17 move, the Nixon Administration has to be prepared to tolerate initial tentative rejection of its own Oct. 7 proposals and wait for the possibility that Hanoi will have second thoughts, which might take the form of a counter proposal or bargaining move.

The one certain gain is that both sides have now brought themselves to open discussion of a cease-fire, after one thing both sides previously seemed unwilling even to discuss.
 That is something potentially important in itself.
 Meanwhile, it might be fruitful for both public opinion in this country and diplomacy in other quarters to keep referring, from the difficulties which seem to rise so easily in the path of peace, back to the Nixon speech itself.

For instance, word comes from Saigon that both South Vietnamese and American authorities there were worried about what kind of a cease-fire we could possibly get in the confused jungles of Indochina.
 Go back to the Nixon speech, and you find the President anticipating such difficulties, and at the same time, emphasizing that they can be conquered.
 "I do not minimize," the President said, "the difficulty of maintaining a cease-fire in a guerrilla war where there are no front lines. But an unconventional war may require an unconventional truce; our side is ready to stand still and cease firing."

This President now speaks with some authority on the probability of the unorthodox, the unconventional, for he is the President who, in the face of all kinds of serious doubts and questionings from the realistic professional experts on war, has proved that one side alone can proceed unilaterally to de-escalate a conflict.
 It is perhaps not too much of a strain on the imagination to say that President Nixon has been using the good threat in Vietnam—a threat in which he keeps telling Hanoi, and keeps demonstrating to Hanoi, that Hanoi can agree to make peace, but that, if Hanoi doesn't want to take peace by negotiation and agreement, he will force peace upon Hanoi anyway, by his own irrevocable and irresistible moves toward it.

Whether its fate is tentative rejection, followed by new bargaining, or final formal rejection, and no new negotiation for the present, do not discount the power of the new American peace position. It moves, and moves forward.

The Crawfish Liberals
 Whatever the outcome on Nov. 3 is going to be, one thing is already obvious about the political campaign of 1970.

The nation's recognized liberals are worried, and they are worried so much that, being human, they have begun forsaking their poise and their principle in a rather unadvised effort to scramble toward those conservative positions which they hope may offer them safety. Out in Illinois, Adlai Stevenson III is so worried about the law and order, anti-student unrest pose of Republican Senator Ralph Smith that he, Stevenson, has begun boasting about authoring a "very tough law on bombs" while he was a member of the Illinois Legislative body. He has taken special care to emphasize, the support he is getting from Mayor Daly of Chicago. He has appointed Thomas Foran, the prosecutor in the conspiracy trial of the "Chicago Seven," as co-chairman of his campaign.

In all such moves, Stevenson has been offending his own natural liberal supporters. But his campaign strategists think he is forced to risk offending his own liberals in order to try to keep moderates from deserting him into conservative emphasis on law and order and college campuses.

Down in Tennessee, a similar kind of panic has appeared in the campaign of Senator Albert Gore, whose reelection effort is in trouble, apparently because of his liberal record at Washington. That record included votes against both of President Nixon's Southern nominations.

When, earlier in the year, an unknown Democrat almost knocked him out of his renomination in the party primary, Senator Gore reversed one of the positions at Washington and voted against the McGovern-Hartford amendment to put a time limit on the war in Vietnam.

And the other day, when Vice President Spiro Agnew was carrying into Tennessee his abusive attack on all liberals, Democrats or Republicans, Senator Gore made the unusual gesture of going to the airport to welcome Agnew. In the name, he explained, of "civility and respect" for the office. It looked, to most observers, like desperation.

Stevenson and Gore are not, of course, the only candidates who seem to be demoralized by their fear of a possibly conservative voting trend this fall.
 Watch almost any candidate who has, by his past, won a conspicuous liberal label, and you will notice that his campaign effort has consisted of a continual crawl movement toward the right.

We believe that realistic answer might be that, if a liberal finds himself in that much trouble, such frantic efforts to shift his own position merely increase his danger. And it might be that his only real chance of surviving would lie, all along, in his courageous reemphasis and defense of every position which might be his, in the most conviction and instinct rather than a temporary campaign strategy.

President Nixon's Peace Plan
 Given the fantastic complexity of the Vietnamese situation, we believe that President Nixon's five-point peace program is both head-on and just. It is a one-day move which could, if accepted as a basis of serious negotiation, open the way to the first and almost certain rejection of it by North Vietnam and the Viet Cong necessarily constitutes their last word.

What is needed now is universal world pressure to bring about a further and final melding of the two positions. Such a melding will require further adjustments on both sides and each should be ready to make them. It is to everyone's interest to bring sufficient pressure to bear to force meaningful (and preferably private) negotiations among the affected parties.

Of course, President Nixon could not let the Communists dictate the composition of the South Vietnamese government. But he rightly opened the question as to how to form the best such government.

A larger stumbling block in Hanoi and with the Viet Cong might be the fact that a cease-fire standstill along present lines would tend to freeze the present and quite considerable successes already attained by the Vietnamization program. The problem facing the Communists is whether such a freezing of positions is the best that can be hoped for. If they fight on, will the situation be more favorable to them a year hence or less favorable? It is a hard problem and every effort should be made to help them decide it on the basis of the present bird-in-hand.

We also urge Moscow to respond to the President's invitation to become involved (expressed in his statement that the Geneva agreement remained valid). Such involvement could be a final factor in getting decisive peace talks underway.
 The American offer to withdraw all American troops on, reportedly, a month-by-month schedule is a marked step forward and should reasonably be reached a definitive agreement. It should also strengthen the conviction among the American people that President Nixon is indeed utterly serious in his determination to end America's military involvement in Vietnam. The Nixon program is in this welcome step towards both peace in Vietnam and peace at home. — CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR.

Inside Report

Baring Taft's Fangs

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Tucked away in a locked filing cabinet in the Senate campaign headquarters of Rep. Robert Taft Jr., is a scrupulously compiled dossier listing Taft's liberal Democratic opponent to left-wing ideology—a dossier Taft may need to win but is trying to do without.

The dossier shows, for example, that the candidate, millionaire Cleveland businessman Howard Metzbaum, publicly opposed Harry Truman's firing of Henry Wallace in 1946 during their celebrated feud over the Soviet Union; that Metzbaum declared in 1966 that Hubert Humphrey was too "conservative" for him; that Metzbaum last year challenged students to "get mad" about social issues as it is, even the anti-Metzbaum material may be too strong medicine for amiable, low-key Bob Taft. Even if Taft's campaign strategists decide to make use of it in their much-delayed television campaign (which does not even start until late this week) it won't be Taft himself slinging and attacking Metzbaum.

"It Bob would only get mean in this campaign," a top Taft aide complained, "he might be able to cash in on Metzbaum's left-wing vulnerability, but that's not Taft's style."
 Moreover, Metzbaum has moved abruptly toward the political center since his upset primary victory last May over ex-senator John Glenn.

Metzbaum's television campaign has been in high gear for several weeks. Crafted by media expert Charles Dugenhelm, it avoids controversy and portrays Metzbaum as a warm fatherly figure who loves children and hates sin.
 That TV campaign has already helped to cut Taft's already lead to a mere 40 points, with the undecided vote down to less than 16 per cent. Besides, Taft is carrying the overwhelming burden of the money scandal which rocked the Republican party here last May and has doomed the campaign for governor of Republican Roger Cloud.

On that issue, Taft himself is utterly detached from the Columbus scandal. But in trying to divorce himself totally from its partywide impact, he has managed to alienate even further outgoing Gov. James Rhodes, already embittered over his defeat in the Senatorial primary by Taft. Rhodes has made pro-Taft noises in public, but Taft strategists are convinced that behind the scenes Rhodes is doing nothing for Taft.

Furthermore, Taft now is added with the growing political fallout from the General Hospital.

"Blind Up The Woods"

To The Editor,
 Basically, I agree with the intelligent tone of the "teacher at Lincoln" I agree in general with her statement concerning the general purpose of any school profile report or at least what this one should have been. However, I wish to inform her that in my own instance the matter is not "hurt pride." I believe the others in the area agree with me although I speak for myself. Rather, it is anger and perhaps shock at an ill-advised misuse of both our children and our personal lives.

Furthermore, it has created the same mistreatment toward the social workers they seem to find in children. What came out (both in context and tone) of this particular school profile was not what the teacher suggests. We in the "ghetto" have enough skills to accept fairness. Rather (both in context and tone) is applied a general high-handed condemnation of the physical properties, the economic status, and the moral structure of the area and its inhabitants. More offensively and dangerously it placed labels on all children in the area. To me the impression was unmistakable, the meaning clear.
 Thus, the people object to the handling of the problem and the people who handled it.
 A conciliatory "handout" cannot undo the damage done or offer much hope for the future. I would ask you to consider these suggestions and act on those which seem appropriate.

 governments have repeatedly rejected these demands.
 Dropped was a demand for $500,000 in gold.
 The new communique was accompanied by a letter from Cross to Premier Bourassa, who had called in a broadcast Sunday night on the kidnappers "to enter into communication with us." Bourassa said his provincial government wanted to set up machinery to insure the safety of Cross and Laporte.
 The PLQ apparently met Bourassa's demand for communications by proposing that Robert Lemieux, a lawyer who has defended numerous accused terrorists, serve as intermediary in contacts between the PLQ and the government.

Cardinal May Ask Polish Jurisdiction
 ROME (AP) — The Roman Catholic primate of Poland, Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński, arrived from Warsaw today. There were reports he would ask Pope Paul to give the Polish church jurisdiction over the diocese in the German territories taken by Poland at the end of World War II.
 To avoid angering German Catholics, the Vatican refrained from deciding the status of the diocese so long as Polish occupation of the territory was disputed by the West German government.
 The government now has signed a treaty with the Soviet Union recognizing the postwar boundary between Poland and East Germany and is currently negotiating a similar pact with the Polish government.

Nixon in Hartford

Balloons were held aloft by the welcoming throng, and placards could be seen everywhere, declaring, among other things, "Nixon is still No. 1" and "Nixon is a Nixon."

Dr. Charles Gervase, former Manchester resident and teacher, has been named chairman of the department of educational services at Central Connecticut State College.

He taught fourth and sixth grades at Buckley School from 1905 to 1908, and at Barnard and Donald W. Skinner of Bridgeport, N. Y., a brother-in-law, in 1908, when he joined Webster of Norwich; a sister, Mrs. John Schweitzer of the Vance School in New Britain, and two great-grandchildren.

After serving as principal of the Hebron Elementary School from 1902 to 1904, he was appointed principal of the Camp School, Both Vance and Camp are CCSC laboratory schools.

He is professor emeritus of the University of Connecticut, where he received a Ph.D. in 1958, and in 1961 was a Danforth Foundation Fellow in humanities at UConn.

He has written or co-authored a number of books, including "The American Association of School Administrators," "The American Association of Teachers," "The American Association of Principals," and "The American Association of Superintendents."

Tolland County Politics Houley, Dooley Challenge Sadlak's Highway Charges

By BETTE GUARALE for State Representative from the 48th District, incumbent Democratic incumbent George Sen, Robert Houley and 47th District State Representative candidate Thomas Dooley both took office after Republican 47th District candidate Antonio Sadlak's recent charges of "highway robbery" and the "disappearance of highway money for area projects."

Challenging Sadlak to document his charges with "specific details or to withdraw them," Houley and Dooley emphasized "the frustrating 184 situation at the top of their list for solution."

"Politically motivated misstatements of fact will never resolve design specifications, move one yard of earth, pour a concrete curb or lay a parking lot," they added.

Prompted by Sadlak's charges, Houley and Dooley conferred with high level Department of Transportation officials, including Commissioner George J. Conkling.

Houley, during his term of office "has discussed the I-84 problem with various bipartisan state and local officials."

"It is unbelievable that the Republican candidate who claims to have conferred with public officials, does not understand that 90 per cent of the highway financing is done on a federal basis and that all bonded state revenue must legally be used for the purposes of the I-84," the two Democrats stated.

"While constructive criticism must be encouraged and while the I-84 problem must be resolved, and resolved immediately, responsibility and accountability must be the prime requirement of all candidates' public statements," they concluded.

Mis Connecticut Support
Houley has announced that he will support the 1969 Miss Connecticut, Carol Jean Norval.

Mis Norval, a resident of the Stafford Springs-Willington area will campaign on behalf of Houley's re-election.

"I feel it is important that people work for good candidates and that they help in the best way possible," she explained. "I have known Sen, Houley and Dooley and I feel he is highly qualified to represent the people in his area. Hopefully, I can in a small way be helpful."

She is a junior at Eastern Connecticut State College.

County Candidates' Forum
The two candidates for Tolland County state senator, Houley and Thomas Caruthers, will debate during a "Candidate Forum," slated for tomorrow night at 8 at the Warren Memorial Town Hall in Stafford.

Also participating in the debate forum, sponsored by the Universalist-Denominational Church of Stafford Hollow, will be Republican House Second Congressional District candidate Robert Steele of Vernon and the two candidates

DeGaulle Well

PARIS (AP) — Visitors to former President Charles DeGaulle say he is enjoying himself in retirement at his home in the little village of Colombey-les-Deux-Eglises, in good health and mentally keen.

In a weekend radio interview his challenger Peter Leach, Jacques Vendroux said: "I had the impression of a man who was more alert physically than in the last months of his presidency and also of a man who expressed himself with more freedom." De Gaulle resigned the presidency in April 1969. The recently published first volume of his memoirs sold 260,000 copies in three days and is in a second edition of 150,000.

Duffey, Daddario Irate Over Agnew's Marxist Call

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — An attack by Vice President Agnew on Joseph Duffey, the Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate, was still reverberating over the weekend.

Duffey and his gubernatorial running mate, Emilio Daddario, both refused to let the matter die — evidently feeling there was more to be gained than lost in reminding voters that Duffey had been singled out by Agnew in his attacks on liberal candidates for the Senate.

Last week in a speech in Oklahoma, Agnew said Duffey had called himself a "Marxist revisionist." Duffey immediately called Agnew a "cowardly liar" and denied that he was a Marxist of any kind. He challenged Agnew to a debate, but one of Agnew's aides dismissed the challenge, saying the vice president couldn't possibly respond to all such calls.

That night Duffey settled the matter with a statement saying he was "amazed by the spectacle of Mr. Agnew's vicious attacks on national leaders of both parties."

Duffey called on Agnew to use his planned visit here Oct. 23 as an occasion to discuss "what his administration plans to do about" Connecticut's problems. Duffey said the problems include unemployment, inflation and the diminishing incomes of middle class citizens. "I have been making reasonable and sensible proposals on those issues," Duffey said.

And on Sunday Daddario picked up the standard, using in his attacks on liberal candidates for the Senate.

Illinois Official Paul Powell, Succumbs at 86

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The body of Secretary of State Paul Powell, died Saturday in Rockford, Minn., where he had gone for a check-up at the Mayo Clinic.

Since his successor will be appointed by Republican Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, Powell's death will have an important political effect. The secretary of state's office is next largest to the governor's and has about 4,000 employees, most of them subject to political patronage.

The body will be taken Wednesday to Vienna, Ill., Powell's home town, and interred there. Houley and Thomas Caruthers, services will be held there Thursday.

After spending 30 years in the house where he gained a reputation as a forest ranger, Powell was elected secretary of state in 1964 and again in 1968.

His three times was House Speaker and four times served in the Senate as Democratic minority leader. He was a widower, he had no survivors and the two candidates

Auto Rams Boat

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Delta Queen, the nation's only overnight passenger riverboat, now has another distinction.

The sternwheeler is one of probably a small number of boats ever to be involved in an accident with a car.

The Delta Queen was docked at a bill nearby, and the auto rolled into the water. But the vehicle did not sink and floated out a few feet and into the stern.

It still did not get underway and floated into the front of the boat. The car was finally pulled away by another boat.

I-86 Plan Avoids Taking Bryan Dr. Homes

A new plan for the proposed widening of Rt. 1-86 which will avoid the taking of eight to ten homes in the area of Bryan Dr. Manchester was announced by State Transportation Commissioner George J. Conkling. The acquisition of the homes in the Bryan Dr. area was one of the major objections raised at a Sept. 17 public hearing where preliminary plans for the 2.9 mile widening project were reviewed.

A petition signed by 100 residents of the Bryan Dr. area was submitted to the Bureau of Highways following that meeting. The new plan calls for a "forced alignment" which would swing 80 feet south of the original design. According to George S. Koch, assistant director of design for the highway bureau, only a minimal effect will be felt by homeowners along the right of way of the redesigned highway. It will be necessary to redesign the Deming

School Board Meets Today

Representatives from "Citizens Concerned for Better Education," an advisory organization, are expected to appear at a meeting of the Board of Education in the Bennett Junior High School Main Building at 8 p.m. today.

The citizens group was organized recently to support the Nov. 3 $1.9 million referendum for additions and renovations to Nathan Hale, Robertson, and Keeney St. Schools.

Superintendent of Schools Donald J. Hennigan said the merchants have retained the law firm of Buyer, Pheon and Squitro to represent them in the case.

The "parkway" school, fashioned along the lines of the one planned and developed by Dr. John Bremer in Philadelphia, is scheduled to open in the Hartford area next year under the sponsorship of the Capitol Region Education Council (CREC). It utilizes stores, offices, shops, etc. for classrooms.

Dr. John Allison, CREC executive director, said six towns affiliated with CREC have already contributed to the planning stage. Schaffer is expected to report on any implications the new type school may have for Manchester.

Manchester High School Principal George Emmerling; Gilbert Hunt, English department chairman; and Miss Anne Beecher, guidance department director, will present a progress report on incorporation of electives in the English curriculum.

Property Taxes Soaring in '70s

STORRS, Conn. (AP) — If there was any doubt about it, property taxes are going up. And Connecticut towns set a state record for property tax hikes in the 1970 fiscal year.

The Institute of Public Service at the University of Connecticut reported today that 94 Connecticut towns boosted property tax levies by 15 per cent or more during the past fiscal year. The 1970 fiscal year record set in 1968 and 17 more than the 1969 fiscal year.

The report said New Fairfield nudged the town of Hampton for the highest mill rate in Connecticut. New Fairfield reported a mill rate of 118, while Hampton dropped to 111.8 following a 1968 revenue loss. New Fairfield has an assessment rate of 30 per cent of fair market value, about half that of Hampton.

The report also noted that 46 of the 194 towns reported increased property taxes by 10 per cent or more, and 138 of the state's 189 towns increased property taxes by 10 per cent or more.

Extended Forecast Considerable cloudiness with a few widely scattered showers Thursday and Friday. Mild through the period. Daytime highs in the low 70s and over-nights in the 50s.

46th District Glassman Hits Donnelly On Welfare Issue

Abraham Glassman, Democratic candidate for state representative has charged his opponent, State Rep. Thomas J. Donnelly, of "deliberately clouding the sensitive and emotional issues of welfare" and using the problems of the system "as a money grab for the State."

In reply to statements by Donnelly in which he promised increased pressure on welfare eligibility standards, Glassman said, "The Donnelly knows that these standards are established by the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare. The federal government supplies 90 per cent of the funding for the Connecticut welfare system and therefore lays down all the guidelines by which the program is handled."

Glassman charged that Donnelly is "over-inflating his own importance when he suggests that pressure by him can bring any change to these guidelines."

Glassman added, "It may be of interest to the voters to know that at no time during the last session of the Legislature did Rep. Donnelly make an appearance before the Welfare Committee to voice any complaints whatsoever about the conduct of the Welfare Department."

Donnelly has attributed the current state budget deficit primarily to welfare budget overruns. Glassman repeated his belief that the "voluntary" decline of our business economy caused a drastic drop from an anticipated state budget deficit in December to less-than-adequate budgeting is decided upon in January," Glassman asked.

"Donnelly's incompotence to deal with these complicated and sensitive matters is glaring," he concluded.

Over the weekend Glassman hit state aid to towns and pledged to work for greater relief to property taxpayers, even if it makes necessary the adoption of a state income tax.

Bombs Hit Five Sites In Rochester

(Continued from Page One) I know of no reason why radicals should be involved. I can't think of any reason why we were picked out. It must have been by chance."

Radicals have claimed to have done the bombings on the West Coast Thursday of an apartment building in Westchester, N.Y. was heavily damaged by an explosion Saturday. It was preceded by a warning from a telephone caller who said a bomb was about to go off.

The federal building in Rochester, which is to be replaced by a structure under construction a few hundred feet away, was the target Sept. 6 of vandals who ransacked offices of the FBI, Selective Service System and the assistant U.S. attorney.

Eight young persons, who police said identified themselves as members of the "Flower City Conspiracy" were arrested inside the building.

A night watchman, Fred Thompson, 58, was seated in a small office 25 feet from the blast in the county building but was not injured.

THE Herald Angle

By EARL YOST Sports Editor

CINCINNATI, Ohio — Apparently running out of gas in the 1970 World Series is Cincinnati's big Red Machine. One of the reasons is elongated Dick Hall, at 40, the elder statesman of the Baltimore Orioles.

Baltimore notch a second better than 100-win season and a second from the bullpen yesterday by Manager Earl Weaver. All Hall did to cut short a Red Sox uprising, was to retire the last seven batters to preserve a 6-5 lead in other fields of employment.

Baltimore now takes a 2-0 lead home in Tuesday's third game in the best of seven series. Hall has been seen and down in the majors in the last 15 years. He'll never get into the Hall of Fame but he'll be remembered as the most consistent relief artist with the Birds, especially during the 1969 season.

Just how Hall gets the ball out of his side-arm, buggy with motion, remains a mystery. A guy once wrote that I looked like a drunkard giraffe on roller skates when I threw the ball. He kidded reporters on the staff, but did serious locker room of the Birds. The right hander looks like he's all arms and legs when he cranks up his arm and sends the ball over a ball plate.

One thing certain, Hall knows what to do when he's out on the mound. During the championship American League season, the balding pitcher, who was never touched in 32 relief roles. His 2.06 earned run averages was among the best in the league.

Bruins Step Closer Toward NHL Title

NEW YORK (AP) — The Boston Bruins are one step along the way toward another Stanley Cup championship in the National Hockey League. The Bruins opened their defense of their title with a 7-3 victory over Detroit Sunday night.

Montreal whipped Philadelphia 2-1, Chicago whipped Oakland 6-1 and Vancouver won 4-1 in other games on the second day of the season. The Bruins' goal was to win the first game in the playoffs.

Celtics Must Cut Two Squad Members

BOSTON (AP) — Two members of the Boston Celtics' draft choice, tops the newcomers of the Boston Celtics' coach Tommy Heinsohn's six to seven players to be cut from the club's 20-man roster.

MCC Soccer Team Loses First Game in Overtime

Manchester Community College soccer team lost its first game in overtime to the California Angels, joining Richie Allen and Denny Melan on a rapidly growing list of Emmanuel College players who have been unseated during the past week.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Tony Conigliaro has been traded to the California Angels, joining Richie Allen and Denny Melan on a rapidly growing list of Emmanuel College players who have been unseated during the past week.

B. Robinson Chief Reason Orioles Led World Series

BALTIMORE (AP) — Brooks Robinson made an error on the first ground ball hit to him in the World Series, but since then he has been nothing but trouble for the Cincinnati Reds. Manager Sparky Anderson of the Reds claims that the 23-year-old third baseman is the chief reason the Baltimore Orioles have taken a 3-0 lead on the best-of-seven series.

Boog Powell, the Baltimore first baseman who has driven in four runs while hitting a homer in each game, says the play in Robinson's error was not spectacular but routine. We see him to that day in the series.

Despite Robinson's heroics, the supposedly superior Baltimore fielders have committed four errors — to none by the Orioles — and two of them in Sunday's first inning led to three runs.

It changes over now to their ball park and we're two down. I still think we can beat them. This ball club usually comes back. If we don't it's a long winter.

So far the Orioles have made all the comebacks. They erased a 3-0 deficit before winning the opener 4-3 Saturday on Brooks Robinson's seventh-inning home run. And they struck back again Sunday to gain their 10th consecutive victory.

Vital Wheels of Reds' Machine Ready to Reverse Series Gears

CINCINNATI (AP) — John Bench and Pete Rose will use young Dave Concepcion and shortstop in place of veteran Brooks Robinson in the World Series.

Cincinnati lost 6-0 and 4-0 early in the second game. The Reds' offense was shut out by Baltimore's defense.

On Target Passing Defeats Waterford

By PAT MCCAIBE East Catholic came off fast and fierce Saturday afternoon at Mt. Nebo as the Eagles entered their three-game losing skid by defeating Waterford High (1-3), 21-6. The Golden Arm of East's offense, Brian Sullivan, and a sly defense combined to stop the Lancers.

The Eagles led first blood in the opening stanza as East's tight end, Ed Kelly, opened its forward halfback Marshall Rowe to the bulk of the work. They sustained many drives, but Waterford lightened up their defense and the Lancers 38-yard run.

The Eagles remained tough in the second period as Kelly's passing kept the many players forced to go back because of injuries played bravely.

Sullivan continued to pick apart the visitors' defense with pinpoint passing to his ace receiver, Ed Kelly. The two-way player passed, and the visitors were on the board.

Weekend Action

Both town high schools scored wins Saturday afternoon. Top left, Indians' Jim Jackson breaks tackle and runs 82 yards. Right, Eagles' Rick Brown runs around end for long gain.
