Public Hearings Listed On New Appropriations

The Manchester Board of Directors, when it meets next Tuesday in a session originally scheduled for tonight, will conduct public hearings and will take action on 16 proposed additional appropriations to current accounts.

The largest, $135,827, is for Debt Service, and involves an equivalent grant from the state. It is for paying off temporary notes for heating repairs at Bennett Junior High School and Nathan Hale School. The grant will decrease the town's contributions by an equal amount.

Other proposed additional appropriations are: To the Police Department — $12,000, for special services in conjunction with extra duty at construction sites. The sum would be financed by equal contributions from contractors.

To the Capital Improvement Reserve Fund — $4,170, for reimbursing the fund for about 60 per cent of the cost of an ornamental fence at East Cemetery. The sum is a donation from the Cheney family.

To the Sidewalk and Curbs Account — $5,000, to be financed by an equal sum received from benefiting property owners who paid their share of sidewalk construction and repairs.

To the Unemployment Compensation Account — $1,200, to pay increased and unanticipated costs and to be financed by an equal increase in the Miscellaneous Revenue Account.

To the Park Department — $700, for fencing an area in the Redwood Farms Subdivision, decided to the town. The sum would be financed by an equal increase in the Miscellaneous Revenue Account.

To the Park Department — $800, for the cost if improvements to the hot water system at the West Side Rec. The sum would be financed by an equal

WEST HAVEN (AP) — The West Haven Board of Education voted unanimously Monday night to dock 11 days pay from each teacher who struck the school in September.

Russell McCreeve, spokesman for the American Federation of Teachers, immediately denounced the move as evidence of "bad faith."

The vote came in executive session and was announced after 19 minutes of negotiations between the teachers and the board broke off.

James Nugent, school board chairman, said the board will begin deducting one day's pay from the teachers' pay period as soon as the mechanics of the decision can be worked out.

The controversy dates back to June when original contract negotiations broke down. The teachers struck and picketed the school for several days.

The teachers had proposed that they be paid in full for a 100-day school year, later reducing this in a proposal that the striking teachers lose three days pay for each day of full curriculum workshops.

The last board offer in Monday night negotiations, rejected, would have cost the teachers seven days' pay, three sick leave days and one personal leave day.

Msgr. Quinn Dies Priest Was 95

WESTFIELD, R.I. (AP) — Rev. Msgr. John F. X. Quinn, who as pastor emeritus of St. Michael's Church in Pawcatuck was the oldest Roman Catholic priest in Connecticut, died Monday in a nursing home here. He was 95.

Born in Mechanicville, he studied for the priesthood in Montreal and was ordained in 1901. He served as an assistant at the Cathedral of St. Joseph in Hartford until 1965 when he was named pastor of St. John's parish in Westfield.

He was pastor of St. Michael's until 1965 when he was given the title monsignor. He was 90, he became pastor emeritus of the parish.

A sister, Laura Quinn Thompson, survives him. The Most Rev. Vincent Hines, Bishop of Norwich, will be principal officiant at St. Michael's. Burial will be at St. Mary's Cemetery, Putnam.

Board Must Act to Legalize Improved Pension Benefits

Last spring, the Manchester Board of Directors approved working agreements with the town's several unions. The agreements provide for improved pension benefits, effective Jan. 1, 1971.

The principal change provides for retirement benefits based on the average of the top three years' earnings, instead of the average of career earnings, as now is the rule.

For the Police Union, in addition to retirement benefits based on the average of three top years and retirement at age 65, with 25 years service, provision is made for working beyond the age of 65. Policemen would continue to contribute to the Pension Fund after retirement.

Members of the other town unions would be eligible for retirement at age 65 (tag at present), but could continue to work otherwise.

Scheinwold on Bridge

TODAY IS TIME TO LOOK AHEAD BY ALFRED SCHEINWOLD Election day is a traditional time to look ahead — perhaps for several years. If you're a bridge player, you can rely on your instincts. If you're a gambler, where good things are sure to happen if you look ahead accurately enough. Because this column tells you nothing but the truth, I'll let you in on a little secret: Even in a world championship the players don't always manage to look ahead far enough.

North dealer vulnerable East Pass West Pass South Pass North East South West Pass Pass Pass Pass 3 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ All Pass

When today's hand was played last June in Stockholm, during the match between North America and Norway, one of the Norwegian experts won at first trick in the East hand with the ace of hearts and returned to the nine of hearts.

Bobby Wolff, of the American team, played a low heart from his hand, since he had a pretty good idea of what was going to happen. West ruffed and returned a club, driving out declarer's ace.

Wolff drew three rounds of trump, ending in his hand, led the jack of diamonds for a successful finesse, and took the rest of his diamond tricks. Then he led the ten of clubs from dummy, not caring which opponent was the trick.

If West were to lead a club to return a club or a diamond, dummy would ruff, while South got rid of his last low point in high cards and 8 points for the side singleton.

East showed a lack of foresight at the second trick when he returned the nine of hearts. He should have looked ahead to the 11th trick.

Tolland Middle School Pupils Elect Representative Assembly

The Tolland Middle School has elected Ken Hoke as chairman of the school's Representative Assembly and Paul Norman as secretary.

The Representative Assembly is composed of representatives from each of the school's 11 homerooms. Their responsibilities include to improve communications between the students and the faculty and to make suggestions for desirable changes in existing procedures.

The assembly will also act as a service organization for social functions. Homeroom representatives for the fifth grade are Meredith Crawford (room 109); Daniel Dimmock (room 110); Adrian Cota (room 111); Judy Horn (room 112); Lee Ann Lombardo (room 113); Brian Koerber (room 114); Michael Truebe (room 115); and Terry Haymond (room 116).

Other places to be visited are the old South Meeting House, the site of the Boston Massacre, Faneuil Hall, Paul Revere House and the Old North Church. The buses will pick up the students at Paul Revere Mall, for the return trip home.

The trip is planned as part of an in-depth study of the American Revolution and the struggle for freedom, according to representatives are Glenn Hala (room 109); Kevin Kowalsky (room 110); Nancy Lett (room 112); Michael Yariot (room 114); and Tony Quillette (room 115).

Attendance at the conference was sponsored by the National Foundation for the Education of the Handicapped. The conference was held at the Yale Medical School. Students attending were Ken Hoke (room 111); David on Moulton, Vicki Gray, Jon

Chief at San Jose Denies Nixon Peril

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Police Chief Ray Blackmore says he "would have liked it a lot better" if President Nixon had not flouted a "V for victory" sign to antiwar demonstrators at a Republican rally here last Thursday.

But Blackmore said Monday the President was never in danger from the cheering crowd and added that reports of violence at the demonstration had been exaggerated.

"A few rocks were thrown. There was a verbal attack. That this violent act by a few should not reflect on San Jose nor should it reflect on the capabilities of the San Jose police force."

Chris Mosher, 23, a nonstudent of Medical Residence, a group organized to treat persons injured in demonstrations, said four students were injured by police clubs and 30 affected by an irritant gas. Blackmore said one officer suffered a broken finger.

He also refused comment on student assertions that it was a deliberate provocation for Nixon to make the V sign, but commented: "I would have liked it a lot better if he had not gotten on the car and waved. We felt the car was being hit by a rock. Windows were broken in a bus near the end of the presidential motorcade."

"Who threw the rocks? I don't know. It could have been workmen or one or two other miscreants, and had evidence that the car in the presidential party was hit by a rock, windows were broken in a bus near the end of the presidential motorcade."

Blackmore said he was sure the President would be safe. He said that "published and broadcast reports of the incident were in no way exaggerated."

Ziegler went on, "It was a serious and unfortunate incident that I personally would hope never would occur again under any circumstances."

"We charge that President Nixon personally aggravated and provoked the San Jose students for political purposes," Ziegler said.

"We charge that his San Jose scenario was arranged to divert attention from California's record high unemployment and runaway inflation."

A spokesman for the Democratic State Central Committee said, "Before the President came to California, we got reports from the Republican side — friendly conversation — that one reason they chose San Jose was because they expected spontaneous trouble."

He said, "We have no evidence that it was Republican-inspired. A Republican plot in a Machiavellian way, except that San Jose was chosen because it was a potential trouble area."

The San Jose City Council, without naming a source for its information, wrote to President Nixon Monday saying "several groups put out the word" to come to San Jose for the presidential visit.

The letter said, "We agree with your opinion that this is a potential trouble area. The Bay Area used this particular occasion to raise the incident."

Cour-Bearce

The First Congregational Church of Coventry was the site of the marriage of Beverly Cour, both of Coventry.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Bearce of Rocky Hill. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Cour of Coventry.

The Rev. James McBride, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Coventry, and the Rev. William Beldan Jr. of Storrs performed the double-ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of silk organza, designed with chantilly lace bodice, short puffed sleeves and an A-line skirt. Her chapel-length mantilla was edged with matching lace and she carried a cascade bouquet of staghorn lilies, peonies, sweet heart roses and lily.

Miss Brenda Bearce of Coventry, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. James Shelton of Manchester and Mrs. Peter Crowley of Seymour. Their gowns of royal blue velvet were trimmed with Venise lace and fastened with scooped necklines and short puffed sleeves. They carried colonial bouquets of white carnations and pink carnations.

Roland Milette of Coventry served as best man. Ushers were Thomas Cour of Coventry and Peter Crowley of Seymour.

Mrs. Bearce was dressed in coral pink, and the bridegroom's mother wore pale blue. A reception was held at the Williams Elks Home, both of Manchester. Mr. and Mrs. Cour are students at the University of Connecticut.

Kuhne-Ertman

Ruth Hollis Ertman of Hartford became the bride of Theodore Kurt Kuhne of Broad Brook, former of Manchester, Saturday evening at the Hotel Sonesta, Hartford, in a ceremony in the room written by the couple.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Ertman of West Hartford. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Kuhne of Broad Brook. The Rev. Nathaniel Lauriat of the Unitarian Meeting House, West Hartford, performed the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. Geraldine Douglas of the Hartford Conservatory of Music, was organist.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, wore a gown of ivory satin with a pearl trimmed veil and a pale orange color tulle hat.

Mrs. Leslie Sue Lieberman of Tucson, Ariz., was maid of honor. She wore a brown velvet gown, carried an autumn bouquet of wheat, cattails and alums.

Peter T. Kuhne of Broad Brook served as his brother's best man. Ushers were David Ertman and Richard Ertman, both of New Haven and brothers of the bride; Wallace Pettengill of Manchester, brother-in-law of the bridegroom; and William Kuhne of Thompsonville, another brother of the bridegroom. The bridegroom's mother wore a pale orange color jersey gown.

After a reception at the Hotel Sonesta, the couple left on a plane trip to New Orleans. For traveling, Mrs. Kuhne wore a camel cord suit with brown accessories. The couple will live at 212 Laurel St. in Hartford.

What motivates a man who has never been a Boy Scout in his youth to devote his free time and even his vacations to the guidance and training of a group of Manchester boys in scout work?

"I have always enjoyed working with boys," says Wilber Auden, "and it is especially gratifying to me to forward my fellow scouts to the level of where they take the responsibility of helping the younger ones along the trail of scouting."

A veteran of 17 years in scouting, Bill is presently Round Table commissioner for the Blackledge District. The district comprises the lower half of Manchester, Glastonbury, Marlborough, Hebron and Bolton.

Among his duties as Round Table commissioner, Bill conducts monthly meetings for the various scoutmasters in the district, keeping them abreast of the latest developments in district activities.

When Bill first got into scouting, he was a commissioner in scout work for Cub Pack 27, formerly of St. Mary's Episcopal Church.

After three years, he moved up to submaster for a year and then branched out into the group of older boys making up Scout Troop 27.

Here, he served as a troop committee member, moved on to the post of assistant scoutmaster and finally scoutmaster.

level of professionals in the Boy Scouts of America.

By Patricia Englebrecht

Arthur H. Illing, museum curator, is the past president of schools, with the most speaker at the first Lute Museum. Volunteer Scout Reservations in North Kingston.

He credits the success of a troop to the interest and leadership shown by fathers of boys who are troop members.

"Many men provide the leadership which, a successful troop needs, but we could always use more," Bill said.

To insure the continuity of leaders in scouting, Bill's son, William is now assistant scoutmaster of Troop 27. He is an 18-year veteran of scouting, having earned a cub when he was 11.

Bill holds several awards for his many years in scout work. He is proud of the Outstanding Scoutmaster of the Year Award for 1969 in the Blackledge District.

The Boy Scout Program does not depend entirely on volunteer help, however. Professional staff members are needed at many levels, and your contribution to the United Fund can help insure the continued high level of professionals in the Boy Scouts of America.

Kent State: F.B.I. Version: The record, it now stands that the official F.B.I. report on what happened at Kent State last May 4 tends to substantiate the findings of the President's Commission on Campus Disorders rather than the report of the special Ohio grand jury.

The President's Commission found two kinds of blame at Kent State — the behavior of the students and the unnecessary use of live ammunition by the National Guard. The special Ohio grand jury found blame only in the students and in the college administration itself, and none for the National Guard, whose firing into the crowd it justified on the basis of necessary self-defense.

The F.B.I. report suggests that, in order to get the Ohio grand jury to have believed a story the Guardsmen themselves made up, rather than any factual summary of events on the campus that day.

Specifically, the F. B. I. report says this: "We have some reason to believe that the claim by the Guard that their lives were endangered by the students was fabricated subsequent to the event."

In actuality, the F.B.I. probing revealed, most of the members of the Guard who fired were unable to explain why they did so.

And, although the F.B.I. found itself unable to determine, for itself, just how the firing did begin and continue, its report became quite emphatic about the non-existence of some of the reasons which have been claimed. The report makes a flat determination there was no shot of any kind from "snipers" on the scene, and it gives a description of the firing scene in which it makes it quite clear the Guard was in no exigent circumstances.

This F.B.I. version is important because, coming from a source which is not likely to be accused of softness or permissiveness or of Communist subversion, it corrects the one-sided slant of the Ohio grand jury back toward the more judicial findings of the President's Commission.

There can never be a happy version of the events at Kent State, and the full truth about it, if it could ever be ascertained for certain, would probably make the unhappy version of all. But we must and ought to keep aiming in that direction, even if it means resisting opportunities to let ourselves, as this America of 1970, off easy.

Teachers Beginning To Learn? By some kind of hearing miracle, the membership of the Hartford Federation of Teachers — the more "vigorous" teacher union which has pioneered in teaching teachers how to go on strike against the law — voted against an immediate strike last Sunday. The vote to allow at least two weeks more for possible negotiation and mediation was successful by a margin of only 21 votes. Coincidentally in two weeks, if the situation has not changed, the members of the Federation will please their own leadership by turning hard-bitten again.

It is, nevertheless, pleasant to find at least an isolated interval in which the teachers themselves are beginning to rebel against that calous kind of union leadership which has pioneered in teaching teachers how to go on strike against the law — voted against an immediate strike last Sunday. labeled a mistake in strategy; to cover up such weakness and moderate the union leadership redoubles its own public ferocity; if all goes as poorly as the leadership seems to hope, no doubt the traitors to the cause will have learned their lesson about how to be always as tough as possible.

One way or another, teachers seem to be beginning to get, at last, the real taste of what it means to give over their professional dignity and their own natural sense of a decent relationship between themselves and their community, into the hands of leadership which loves power first, and, after it has been accumulated and used for reasonable objectives, insists on continuing to try to use it for its own sake.

Cardinal Cushing

It sometimes seemed that Cardinal Cushing acknowledged and practiced a first dedication which was to people rather than to any formalized creed or philosophy.

And it certainly was no denigration of his standing as a clergyman to say that the first thing that stood out about him was that he was a man, and an individual rather than the wearer of a certain style of garment.

Actually, one supposes, it was in the roots and the spirit of his personal and institutional faith that he found the inspiration to reach toward people, and the confidence that, if he touched a heart here and a human need there, he was thus fulfilling the first essential mission of any kind of pastorate.

He was the shepherd first, the indoctrinator second, the big sheltering arm first, the admonisher second, and ended up having living chairs, and other pious Christianity than some others preached.

It was a large spot he filled, with that warm, craggy outwardness of interest and of spirit, and it is people of many faiths who join those of his own in remembering him with pleasure and gratitude.

Among the prime target collection bad guys of the newspaper cartoonist are the pulp and paper products industries. By and large, the bad evidence given the pulp, paper and fiberoptic industry by Nixon during his final bid for reelection in a dramatic story in 1968, the United States Department of Agriculture estimated that the pulp and paper products industries exceeded the output of the rest of the United States.

So it is pleasant and, to those who hear about the measures that are being taken by two pulp board plants in Manchester, that the pulp and paper industry Lydell & Foulds and Colonial Board of water which is taken from and returned to the Hookman River, which is being engaged in a large and costly anti-pollution program, which is well on its way to returning the Hookman to its pristine condition.

The other day, a new three-year union contract for the two plants was negotiated and signed. In most respects the contract was a routine one covering wages, hours and benefits. It is the long-established APF-CIO signed an agreement that appears to be unique in the state if not the country. The company and the union solemnly agreed that "every citizen, in a labor contract would be negotiable. Coming from a member of an industry that is among those most harshly criticized by the environmentalists, it deserves special attention, along with high commendation for both contracting parties. —HARTFORD COURANT.

Connecticut politics, for a four year period which began with the gubernatorial campaign of 1966 and ended with that of 1970 was considerably different from the type of politics of Albert W. Coote. There are a few instances in which we oldtimers still like to see the word pen instead of typewriter, particularly when we mean to infer the presence of something more than a writing instrument.

Coote's 20 matter how many keys and shifts it might possess, was still a pen because it was the tool of an artist, and, in the balance, and in result, more human than mechanical. It was, in that time, a typewriter-erpen which had taken what seemed a natural rhythm born of the man and subjected it to the disciplines of newspaper columnist and editor.

It was, in that time, a typewriter-erpen which had taken what seemed a natural rhythm born of the man and subjected it to the disciplines of newspaper columnist and editor.

Coote's 20 matter how many keys and shifts it might possess, was still a pen because it was the tool of an artist, and, in the balance, and in result, more human than mechanical. It was, in that time, a typewriter-erpen which had taken what seemed a natural rhythm born of the man and subjected it to the disciplines of newspaper columnist and editor.

Democrats Hold Control Of Congress

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats laid the basis for a strong 1972 presidential challenge with startling success in governing. They won control of the House, a four-to-one margin, and dropped a couple in the Senate as Republicans succeeded in sharply reducing the normal Senate and House mid-term losses for the party in the White House.

Connecticut Voting Age Stays at 21

HARTFORD (AP) — Connecticut will once again test the wisdom of having its lawmakers meet every year, but voters Tuesday chose not to experiment with a lower voting age. The proposed constitutional amendment mandating annual sessions of the legislature received a resounding approval of annual sessions marked a show of confidence in legislative judgment in 1969 when every member present in each house voted to place the issue on the ballot.

Meskill Elected Governor, Weicker Wins Senate Seat

Thomas J. Meskill, Republican governor-elect, his wife Mary, and daughter Maureen, wear jubilant victory smiles together with Manchester Mayor Nathan Agostinelli, winner of the state comptroller's post, last night at Meskill party in New Britain.

By DON MEIKLE
Associated Press Writer
HARTFORD (AP) — Connecticut elected its first Republican governor in 16 years and its first GOP senator in eight years Tuesday in an election marked by extensive ticket splitting.

Town For Meskill, Weicker, Re-Elect Representatives

By SOL R. COHEN
(Herald Reporter)
About 19,970 of Manchester's 23,200 eligible voters cast ballots yesterday, for an excellent turnout. During the last gubernatorial election, the Manchester turnout was 80 per cent. It was 72 per cent in November 1968, during the presidential election.

Area Voters Opt For Experience

By BETTE QUATRALE
(Herald Reporter)
Manchester Area voters placed their trust in the hands of Republican Thomas Meskill for governor but opted for returning experienced legislators to posts in the House and Senate.

Schools Pass, Town Defeats Other Bonds

By GLENN GAMBER
The $1,995 million school referendum question for additional and renovations to the Nathan Hale, Robertson, and Keeney St. Schools was approved yesterday by Manchester voters and 9,712 voters favoring the proposal and 8,157 voters opposed.

Connecticut Election Capsule

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
GOVERNOR
Republican Thomas J. Meskill, 46, 52, over Democrat Emilio Q. Daddario, 49, 48.

Area Voters Opt For Experience

Two notable exceptions to the voting trends were the results of the Second Congressional District contest which saw Robert Steele, incumbent Republican, run for re-election in the 4th District. Thomas Donnelly of the 4th District, and Robert King of the 4th District.

Area Voters Opt For Experience

It was quite a birthday present for Steele who turned 32 yesterday. He had spent a major portion of this year making himself known throughout the sprawling 84-town Eastern Connecticut district. He conducted a highly organized campaign and maintained a full-time staff of five men.
