Teacher Walkout In Hartford Ends

HARTFORD (AP) — Hartford's union teachers, who went out on strike three weeks ago because they didn't have a contract, swallowed a bitter pill Friday and agreed to work next week—still without a contract and with no hint that the teachers' mood might change.

The strike ended in a closed union meeting of the Hartford Federation of Teachers Friday night, with some 825 teachers giving approval in a voice vote to return to work. The vote came despite a vote by the union when the strike began that was over the principle: "No contract, no work."

Although there was one attempt to get contract talks going midway through the strike, the talks quickly collapsed. Since then, there has been no published formal contract between the teachers and the school board.

One union official conceded Friday that a reason the strike couldn't be sustained was that it never drew the large number of participants that it needed for success.

The school board was able to keep schools open, though on shortened schedules, and by the end of the week school officials were claiming teachers were returning to work anyway. The officials were also hinting that the teachers who didn't return might lose their jobs.

School Supt. Medill Bair said that by the end of the school day Friday, there were 293 teachers still on strike, out of a total of 1,700 in the school system. The system has 29,000 students.

Throughout the strike, the union consistently disputed the school board's figures on how effective the strike was. But even so, the union never claimed that more than 800 of the teachers were staying away from classes.

Clockwork Robbery Nets Gold

LONDON (AP) — Britain's air and sea ports were on maximum alert and a massive hunt was under way by Scotland Yard today for three masked bandits who stole $254,000 worth of gold and diamonds from an airline truck in the middle of London.

A spokesman for KLM Royal Dutch Airlines said he believed it was the biggest robbery ever staged against his company. He said the gold bullion and diamonds were being shipped by several clients in the London area and were on their way to Heathrow Airport for shipment to several clients in Amsterdam.

"It must have been a brilliantly planned operation, and it worked perfectly," he said. "Our vans always take different routes. We are very hot on security."

The thing that puzzled Scotland Yard most was how the

Cross in Tribute To Slain Captive

MONTREAL (AP) — British Trade Commissioner James R. Cross said goodbye to Canada today with a moving tribute to his fellow captive of Quebec separatist terrorists—Labor Minister Pierre Laporte, who was killed after a week's captivity.

"Why Pierre Laporte is dead and I am alive, I do not know," Cross said in French at a brief night in a very uncomfortable airport news conference. "But I want to pay homage to the brave man and express my conviction his sacrifice was not in vain."

Cross spoke just before boarding an official Canadian government plane for a flight to London and a reunion with his wife, whom he has not seen since he was kidnapped Oct. 5.

He looked pale after his 60-day confinement in a windowless room, but walked briskly into the heavily guarded airport lounge and shook hands with acquaintances among newsmen.

Officials out of questions after only a few were asked and "one thing this dreadful period has given me is a sense of the importance of the ordinary simple things that we take for granted to live with one's family, to talk with one's friends and to breathe fresh air."

He said that he had extended political discussions with his captors during the first two weeks of his confinement. But, he said, he had learned about Laporte's death and he did not feel he was continuing the conversation.

Cross said in reply to a question that he did not attempt to include any coded messages in the tribute to his French-Canadian fellow victim.

"I don't know if I am coming back to Canada," he added. "I never met Mr. Laporte," Cross spoke mostly in English but switched to French for his tribute to his French-Canadian fellow victim.

"I want to take this first occasion to express to Mrs. Laporte and his family my deepest and most sincere condolences."

The brief news conference was held in a room in the Montreal airport under rigid security precautions. Mounted Police and plainclothes security agents guarded the corridor in the middle of the

Pope Paul Home From Asian Trip

By PATRICK O'KEEFE Associated Press Writer

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI came home from his missionary journey halfway around the world early today and resumed his normal activities—conferences with aides and possibly audiences for visitors—indicated that the Pope had rested some on his scheduled leg of the journey.

He had nothing major on his schedule for the rest of today. Sunday, however, an unusually large crowd is expected to gather in St. Peter's Square for his customary noon blessing from his stately windows.

Pope Paul scrapped his original message to China, delivered in Hong Kong Friday, and replaced it with an appeal for dialogue with Communist China, informants reported.

An indication that the original speech was thrown out came when the Pope finally delivered his message at the Vatican. It came out with a half-hour's delay, and then only in Italian.

Vatican officials let it be known that the original speech, prepared as is customary in many languages, was replaced by a quietly pleased with the revised speech still contained situations to Communist China. It expressed the Pope's love for "all the Chinese people."

Tough Anti-Inflation War Announced by President

By BILL NEIKIRK Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — With a bold attempt to roll back gasoline and oil prices and an ultimatum on construction costs, President Nixon has launched the toughest anti-inflation drive of his administration.

Not only did Nixon announce direct government action Friday night to force down the price of crude oil, but he issued a warning to all industry and labor against betting on future inflation.

Criticizing this year's big wage increases in the construction industry, Nixon offered the most direct challenge to the rate of inflation he has ever made.

"Unless the industry wants government to intervene in wage negotiations on federal projects to protect the public interest, the moment is here for labor and management to make their own reforms."

In his speech to the National Association of Manufacturers in New York the President took up a new economic strategy long-fought but in reverse—bold in its assumption of a high rate advisers—using the power of his office directly to push down a public interest and against the

New Southviet Action Opened in Cambodia

By ROBERT TUCKMAN Associated Press Writer

SALGON (AP) — Helicopter-borne South Vietnamese troops killed 36 Viet Cong in a battle 15 miles from Saigon, spokesmen said today.

Simultaneously, 2,500 South Vietnamese marines and rangers launched a new offensive drive in southeastern Cambodia.

In the first hours of the new sweep, the marines reported killing 15 enemy soldiers in fighting in the Parvov's Bank section of Cambodia, which extends into South Vietnam some 45 miles southeast of Phnom Penh.

Salgon headquarters said the unit suffered three killed and seven wounded.

The new operation was launched by South Vietnamese troops already in Cambodia. It involved about a fourth of the 10,000 South Vietnamese troops who are there.

In the fighting close to Salgon, South Vietnamese officials claimed they had killed an asst-

Cabbies — 36,000 of Them, Stage Strike in Manhattan

NEW YORK (AP) — The familiar yellow-painted taxis that usually crowd the streets of the city virtually vanished today after 36,000 cab drivers went on strike at midnight.

By 1 a.m., reports from around the city indicated that virtually no cabs remained on the streets. Only a few "crazy" cabs—unlicensed vehicles not permitted to bear taxi insignia and yellow colors—were still to be seen.

The drivers set up picket lines around garages, where they were watched by police details. The strike by the union drivers affects 4,818 fleet-owned cabs. A further 4,983 owner-drivers were expected to honor the strike.

The taxi fleets said they grossed some $16 million last year but would lose $1 million in the red. Both they and the drivers have sought City Council action to force the city to pay the higher wages.

The package proposal was put forward early last week by Mayor John V. Lindsay, which would have promised an additional $33 million a year in fleet revenues.

It involved various rate increases that would raise the

Armed Conspiracy Feared in Ireland

DUBLIN (AP) — Detectives uncovered the government of untested seven persons in a raid on a house near the Dublin airport today, only hours after the government invoked emergency powers to deal with what it called a "secret armed conspiracy."

The seven were not identified, but police said they had not been formally arrested. It appeared that they had been picked up mainly as a government warning to extremists.

Prime Minister Jack Lynch announced Friday that the government had invoked Part 2 of the 1940 Offenses Against the State Act, which gives police the power to intern any citizen without trial, and that detention centers were being prepared. He said he was acting because police believed conspirators were planning to kidnap leading citizens and to stage bank robberies likely to involve murder.

His action brought on outcry today from opposition politicians, newspapers and the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA). Irish rightsists, however, welcomed the move.

Chief U.S. Delegate to U.N. Seen Giving Up Post Soon

By MAX HARBELSON Associated Press Writer

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Charles W. Yost is expected to give up his post as chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations after two years, according to a high-ranking government post in January.

The reports that Yost was to be replaced came as a surprise to the 63-year-old career diplomat, who served as No. 2 man in the U.S. Mission to the United Nations under Ambassador Arthur Goldberg and Adlai E. Stevenson.

Newspapers in Washington reported that Yost would be replaced by Daniel P. Moynihan, a White House adviser, and that Moynihan had accepted the appointment. The White House never confirmed the move, but Moynihan's name was reported Friday night after Harvard University, from which he had gone on a leave of absence for his White House job.

"I shall continue to be at your service for anything that I might want that I wrote to be able to provide," Moynihan told Yost. "I am glad to see that you are giving up your post."

How Much is Knowledge Worth?

The other day, a giant, tremendous, astounding contraption which had 228,000 parts developed a failure in one of two of these 228,000 parts, and the result was a loss of all the time, work and money that had gone into making these 228,000 parts, putting them together, and blasting them off into space.

What happened, specifically, with regard to the launching of a reconnaissance satellite which was launched from Cape Kennedy, was that the protective cone which was necessary to keep the thing cool during its flashing exit from the atmosphere failed to explode itself off after that part of the journey had been completed. It then became the excess weight which dragged the Observatory back down out of orbit, and caused the whole thing to plunge somewhere in Africa or the Indian Ocean.

If orbiting had been successful, we should have had a great telescope eye up there, beyond the film of our own atmosphere, reading the distances of the universe as never before.

When the project failed, when possibly just one of those 228,000 parts failed, we lost the whole thing, including an investment of $28,000,000 in taxpayer's money.

The moment this loss had been sustained, there was the usual chorus of protests from those who held that we could have spent that much money to better purposes, most of them social, down here on earth.

One supposes so. Nevertheless, if one is going to rate our expenditures in space according to the absolute purity of their intent, one might end up compelled to give this proposition a better purpose, most of them social, down here on earth.

There is nothing like a 13-day cruise in the Caribbean to help break a troublesome habit, like that of smoking.

That, at least, would seem the verdict of 86 cruise passengers who disembarked the other day, with the hope that they had been cured.

The cruise, it seems, was especially organized just for smokers who wanted to kick the habit.

The early statistic, that 86 of the 130 enlisting came back thinking they had succeeded, will have to be checked out later on.

But even if the percentage of cure fails to hold up through the temptations of the holiday season, the new invention of the cruise method for changing personal habits would seem to hold high promise.

If, being at sea for 13 days in luxurious surroundings can help people give up smoking, who knows what other admirable examples of self-discipline might not also be developed? We could have cruises for smokers, for drinkers, for gamblers, as well as for those people for whom work itself is an addiction.

Who wouldn't want to be cured of something? One slight uncertainty remains. There was, on board the cruise for smokers, a psychiatrist who conducted hypnotic sessions in which he tried to persuade the passengers they didn't really want another cigarette. There was also, early in the voyage, a dose of rough weather, which had some of the passengers temporarily so seasick they couldn't stand the idea of trying to have a smoke. There is, then, some slight academic question as to which might deserve more credit for curing the psychopomp of the smokeship. Until there has been some determination on this matter, cure cruises will have to try to provide both.

The Mercenaries Strike Again

President Sekou Toure, appealing for help to the African chiefs of state and the United Nations, described the amphibious force against his capital city as consisting of "hundreds of Portuguese mercenaries and mercenaries of many nations." Americans who are accustomed to seeing mercenaries thrust on a more massive scale may be gravely misjudging the emotive forces of fear and anger among African leaders triggered by mercenaries on African soil.

If President Toure's maverick policies have generated little warmth in his relations with other African states, he is nonetheless respected for the European countries he has cultivated. His cry of alarm is credible to Africans. They are acutely aware of the frequency with which mercenary forces have been employed in Africa over the past decade.

These mercenary units are an African phenomenon, the product of recent colonial wars and of the international market in weaponry. Their origins do not lie in the quiet area of Senegal and Janjari, but in the drugs of Algeria and the Katanga goldmines.

Units were first assembled while Belgian metropolitan forces delayed their withdrawal from the Congo after the revolution of the Congo at the beginning of the past decade. In the two years before they were reformed in the Congo after the revolution, they demonstrated a critical political advantage: regular and recognizable units of mercenaries were available to African might attract international sanctions, but surreptitious support and encouragement by mercenaries was cheap, effective, and relatively riskless.

Wonders of the Universe

In the Gulf Stream to disclose its boundary and complex structure. There are many problems associated with this new concept: One is that when the satellite views this portion of the sea, clouds may be obscuring the ocean surface. Thus, while the thermoclines may be present, they cannot be detected. In inclement weather this concept may be inoperable.

Also, the thermocline is long and we do not know where in this corridor the fish may be running. However, with a ship at the scene correlating results from the satellite, perhaps the location of the fish can be pinpointed.

This technique represents only a beginning in the quest for more food from the sea. Some scientists have proposed looking for oil slicks characteristic of schools of fish. As fish oil is unique in that it has a spectrum with a characteristic infrared signature, it should be easily distinguished from mineral oil. Thus, a satellite sensor which would provide an absorption spectrum of the fish oil vapors could provide an infallible sign of the presence of fish.

Only now are we taking the first steps in a program which could provide a fresh approach to acquiring foods for the underdeveloped population. If satellites can provide information on underwater food in the sea, that is a most significant step. It will evolve to alleviate a critical food shortage, especially in the underdeveloped countries of Africa and Asia. These countries desperately need help to hunt for food proteins. If they succeed, this may be viewed as one of the major contributions of the space program to the welfare of mankind.

Thus, while the thermoclines may be present, they cannot be detected. In inclement weather this concept may be inoperable.

Also, the thermocline is long and we do not know where in this corridor the fish may be running. However, with a ship at the scene correlating results from the satellite, perhaps the location of the fish can be pinpointed.

This technique represents only a beginning in the quest for more food from the sea. Some scientists have proposed looking for oil slicks characteristic of schools of fish. As fish oil is unique in that it has a spectrum with a characteristic infrared signature, it should be easily distinguished from mineral oil. Thus, a satellite sensor which would provide an absorption spectrum of the fish oil vapors could provide an infallible sign of the presence of fish.

Only now are we taking the first steps in a program which could provide a fresh approach to acquiring foods for the underdeveloped population. If satellites can provide information on underwater food in the sea, that is a most significant step. It will evolve to alleviate a critical food shortage, especially in the underdeveloped countries of Africa and Asia. These countries desperately need help to hunt for food proteins. If they succeed, this may be viewed as one of the major contributions of the space program to the welfare of mankind.

Vermont Victim Of Wintry Sting

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) — An early season snowstorm Friday covered northern and central Vermont with snow, sleet, ice and freezing rain and ended an unseasonable warm spell. State police headquarters reported many traffic accidents, but no fatalities.

Massachusetts recommended speed on Interstate 89, which crosses the central portion of the state, was dropped from 65 miles per hour to 40. Schools were closed early, and some factories shut down at mid-afternoon.

In Shelburne, the town manager declared a state of emergency because of icy streets and asked travelers to bypass the town.

A police dispatcher in Shelburne said there were a dozen auto accidents there in little more than an hour.

"They've been hitting one night after another," the dispatcher said. "Everybody's having accidents. It's so slippery out there that it's almost impossible to walk, let alone drive."

The storm was a boon for the state's ski areas, which had received only light dustings so far this season. Most had been using manmade powder on their trails.

Six cars and a gasoline tanker that had been coupled only a short time earlier crashed at a bridge on U.S. 7, the major north-south route through western Vermont. There were no injuries, but the road was closed for almost an hour.

The Weather Bureau said more snow could fall Sunday.

ACCIDENTS

Peter Wheeler, 18, of 538 Oakland St. escaped injury yesterday afternoon when he was hit by a car driven by Robert W. Nelson of Vermont. Wheeler was riding a bike on Toland "Yoke" as darkness fell, and Nelson, making a turn onto Taylor St., was unable to see him in time and struck the bicycle. Wheeler was examined at Manchester Memorial Hospital and released.

At Main St. and Hartford Rd. last night, a car driven by Stephen A. Dault of 108 Walker St. collided with one driven by Michael Stein of Hebron. Stein was issued a citation for making an improper turn.

Temporarily blinded by headlights, William S. Popoff of 423 Lyall St. drove his car into a telephone pole brace at Main St. and Woodbridge St. last night.

Michael Scuderi of Vernon hugged the right shoulder of Lyall St. yesterday morning, making room for an oncoming car. His tires caught in the soft shoulder, causing the car to spin out and roll over onto its roof. Scuderi was uninjured.

Bruno Sumanianak of 342 Charter Ct. was issued a written warning for failure to drive the proper lane. His car struck a telephone pole at Pine St. near Forest St., early this morning.

wherever they may be," and described Christmas as a "redeemer for China, too."

The original version was believed to have worded the same feelings in stronger terms in a plea for Red China to accept the friendship of the Church.

One version published in Rome was that British authorities in Hong Kong and Chinese Catholic prelates from the crown colony and from Formosa prevailed on the pontiff to modify his speech.

These reports said the Pope was told that a clear "opening" to Red China or a ringing, explicit appeal for religious freedom in China might provoke an opposite reaction from Peking.

In Hong Kong, official Catholic spokesmen said they were not sure of a switch in the papal text.

The pontiff stood in his open limousine in a whipping wind and almost freezing temperatures and waved to a small crowd that greeted him from Rome's Fiumicino Airport. Vatican prelates and minor Italian government officials were also on hand, but there was no official ceremony.

As his auto rolled into St. Peter's Square, about 200 persons including many mass held candles and torches and shouted "Viva il Papa!" the same wish for a long life that Pope Paul heard in most of the eight stops he made in Asia, the Pacific and Australia. The Pope smiled happily, appearing as usual and relatively refreshed.

There had been concern about Pope Paul's health before he began the ninth leg of his 7 1/2 year, as spiritual leader of the world's 800 million Catholics.

During the first few days—which included an assassination attempt at the Manila airport by a knife-wielding Bolivian painter—a strain on the 78-year-old Pope appeared taxing. But observers said he seemed more rested on subsequent stops in Hong Kong, Australia, Indonesia, Hong Kong and Ceylon.

During the Pope's three-hour stay in Colombo, Ceylon on Friday, before beginning the 8,000-mile trip to Rome, he told hundreds of thousands at a Mass beside the airport: "My final word is peace."

He had intended a similar message to the governments of South Vietnam, North Vietnam and Cambodia as his chartered Alitalia DC8 flew overhead en route from Hong Kong to Ceylon, an island nation at the tip of India in the Indian Ocean.

His airborne call for a "just peace" in Indochina was a repetition of an appeal he made earlier in Manila.

His stop in Hong Kong was considered major, although it was one of the shortest. In a banquet sponsored by the 40,000-member Parent-Teachers Organization at St. Helen's Island, the Pope spoke of the "great Handmade jewelry and hand carvings will be featured. In addition, a light feast has been arranged for the guests.

been denied even that small meeting security, turned down the proposal Thursday night in a 3-3 vote with three more of the members falling even to show up.

Canceled said Friday that he expects no "reprisals" from the board and added "There's a tremendous need to rebuild this school system and get on with the business of educating."

The basic issues behind the strike—a list of 89 areas of disagreement, including pay grievance procedure and whether hiring and promotion policies will be written into the teachers' contract—remain to be solved.

They were involved at the beginning of November, when the teachers' contract expired and the teachers threatened to strike. But the board secured a no-strike injunction from Superior Court on Nov. 18, with the teachers' vote to give the board a grace period of two weeks.

On Nov. 18, with the teachers' vote to give the board a grace period of two weeks, the teachers' vote to give the board a grace period of two weeks.

During the strike, the injunction was used by Judge Prichard as the basis for fining 14 teachers $4,500 against the union and 55 individual teachers. The teachers were fined $500 apiece, but none of the fines had been paid by Friday. The teachers' vote to give the board a grace period of two weeks.

As he said it, another 142 teachers were appearing in court to face contempt charges and possible fines.

The injunction, and the fines, were based on a new Connecticut law "forbidding teachers' strikes. It has been used several times this year in a number of the state's cities and towns.

Nixon Takes Tough Stand On Economy

the national average for all manufacturing, at a time when many construction workers are being laid off.

Nixon said he has ordered a federal sponsored commission "to take the initiative in working out these changes with leaders of management and labor."

And if legislation is needed, he said, it will be proposed.

Nixon thus went beyond White House use of the word "inflation" to pressure-by-publicity technique to curb wage and price increases. But he stopped short of endorsing the wage and price guidelines approach used by his Democratic predecessors.

The President continued the worst of the inflation is over and said the price for it has been an employment.

The speech came on a day the Labor Department announced the unemployment rate jumped from 4.8 per cent in September to 6.8 per cent in October, worst unemployment level in 7 1/2 years.

While Nixon blamed part of the unemployment rate on the "trip home for the bell at Jim's Atlantic Station on Hartford Rd."

Southviets Open New Offensive

The South Vietnamese command claims its infantrymen are helicopter landings have killed 11 Viet Cong so far in the forest campaign.

South Vietnamese casualties so far are only half dozen killed or wounded, Saigon headquarters said.

In Cambodia, a government spokesman reported that Communist-led forces Friday night destroyed a key bridge on Highway 4, which linked southwest from the capital to the coast. This move raised the possibility of a Communist offensive from the Cambodian border to the city of Phnom Penh's only land route to the seaport of Kompong Som.

The Cambodian command also reported continued pressure from Communist-led forces above Phnom Penh along the southern border from 50 miles from the capital.

In South Vietnam, a massive night raid on the town of My Lai continued today for two U.S. C-123 transport planes missing in the central part of the country.

One plane disappeared eight days ago with six American and 12 Vietnamese aboard. The other, lost last Sunday, carried 12 Americans and 12 Vietnamese.

North Vietnamese army newspaper Quang Doi Nhan Dan said, "We are within our right to defend and shoot at U.S. reconnaissance planes, to post anti-aircraft guns in whatever part of our country goes to the central or armed forces on whatever we judge necessary to defend our fatherland."

In an editorial, the newspaper quoted U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin Laird's statement that the United States will make every effort to free American prisoners of war in North Vietnam, including possible future military action.

Engaged

The engagement of Miss Anna Joyce Alexander of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Hartford, to Robert Alexander Rockwell of Glastonbury has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Alexander of St. Paul's.

Her fiancé is the son of Mr. Alexander of Glastonbury and Mrs. Albert M. Rockwell of 184 Mountain Rd., Glastonbury.

Miss Alexander is a junior at Radford (Va.) College where she is majoring in English.

Dr. David Clifton, Cross' personal physician, said in a telephone interview that the British diplomat was hospitalized at night by his captors, but not tortured.

"He was also given a television set, as you will surely know from previous reports," the doctor said. "It was on his television that he heard about Mr. Laporte's tragic death. It shocked him very much."

Pierre Laporte, Quebec's labor minister, was kidnapped Oct. 20. Five days after he was abducted, and was found strangled Oct. 27.

The terrorists, who want to make French-speaking Quebec independent of Canada, had threatened to kill Laporte if the government freed 23 and paid a ransom of $500,000 in gold. When the government refused, another front cell kidnaped Laporte and murdered him.

The government then offered safe conduct to Algeria or Cuba to the kidnappers if they released Laporte.

Acting on various tips, police discovered the house where Laporte was held.

The Senior Citizens will meet Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 at Community Hall. There will be a business meeting followed by card-playing and refreshments. Door prizes will be awarded.

The Women's Auxiliary of the St. George's Episcopal Church will sponsor a candy sale beginning next Saturday. Boys are asked to meet at the town hall on that date to pick up their supply of candy.

apartment in the Waldorf Towers. The president was in New York to speak to the National Association of Manufacturers in the Waldorf ballroom.

The Rev. Francisco Parais, director of Vatican Radio news-casts, said the Pope's trip was "the greatest missionary voyage ever made in such a short time."

Father Parais, who traveled with the Pope, said in a broadcast after his return: "Everywhere, as a missionary, the Pope announced first of all the Gospel... and in the name of the Gospel, justice, social advancement, progress, cultural and material elevation, solidarity, peace and brotherhood among the classes and the peoples."

Correction

Next week's meeting of the Manchester Democratic Town Committee will be Wednesday, not Tuesday, as stated in yesterday's Herald. It will be at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

The letter was said to have carried Spanish postage stamps.

Deserter Escapes

A Manchester man, wanted by the United States Army for desertion, escaped from a cell at Manchester Police Headquarters last night.

Robert J. Klein, 20, of 152 Brunford St., was being held in a cell at Manchester Police Headquarters last night.

Police were called to Sears to the Parkside to investigate a shoplifting complaint against Klein. He was taken to the station.

Klein was alone in the cell block about 9 last night. Police report he somehow managed to get both an inner and outer door open and escape from the building.

Three Memorials Planned For New Hospital Wing

Three memorials for the $3.1 million east wing of Manchester Memorial Hospital have been announced by Bert Dittus, director of development for the hospital. The wing, scheduled to open in February, will contain facilities for surgery, radiology, intensive care and related services.

A cobalt room on the lower level of the addition will be known as the Eaton and Reed Memorial. He died Nov. 26, 1967, who died Feb. 23, 1969, left $50,000 to the hospital for building or for furnishing a room in the wing.

The wing stipulated the name of the memorial, Miss Evelyn B. Reed, who died in February 1964, was Mrs. Eaton's partner in real estate and in second

Negative Strategy

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — U.S. Sen. Edward Brooke, R-Mass., says the strategy used by the Republican party in this year's campaign was negative and that he regrets it. Brooke told a news conference here Friday he hopes the "Republican party will change directions for the 1972 campaign."

Brooke said the GOP's goals should be withdrawal from the Vietnam War and "a turnaround in the economy." "I would like to get these two issues solved so that we can turn our attention to the goal President Nixon set for himself in his inaugural address, to bring us together as a people," Brooke added.

Soloist

David Gwathmey Jewett, tenor, of Newtown, will head a group of guest performers Monday at 8:15 p.m. at the annual Christmas program of the Chaminate Musical Club at the Federation Room of Center Congregational Church. The event is open to the public. Other guest performers are Mrs. Anthony Urbanetti of Manchester, who will accompany Jewett and direct and accompany the club chorus in a cantata; her daughter Miss Holly Urbanetti, who together with Miss Janet Peck will present a group of folk-Christmas songs with guitar accompaniment; and William Johnston of Vernon, who will accompany his grandmother, Mrs. Eldna Johnston, a club soloist, and play a piano selection.

Jewett, who prefers to sing under his Welsh name of David Gwathmey, was a banker until four years ago. His early attempt at a concert career was interrupted by five years of military service. After the war, family responsibilities dictated his going into business.

When, four years ago, he decided to resume his music, he resigned as vice president of his bank, sailed to Melbourne, Australia, and has been working with the celebrated Alfredo Bartleman, who toured in concert many times with Dame Nellie Melba.

His wife, Margaret, is a representative of Community Concert Service. Club soloists, besides Mrs. Johnston, are Mrs. Mary Stewart and Mrs. Elizabeth Lambert, who will be accompanied by Mrs. Urbanetti.

Chaminate members and guests presenting the cantata, "Child Jesus", are: Miss Holly Urbanetti, Mrs. Patricia Barry, Miss Muriel Lambert, Mrs. Lambert and Mrs. Johnston, sopranos; Mrs. Stewart and Miss Peck, second sopranos; and Mrs. Lois Hunt and Mrs. Doris Gorsch, altos.

Members are reminded to bring a novelty donation for the Town Welfare Department Christmas program. Refreshments will be served after the entertainment.

From Jewish Seminary

Silverstein To Get Top Layman Honors

Saul M. Silverstein, a founder of Temple Beth Shalom, its president for the first 11 years of its existence, and now its honorary life president, is to receive the highest award to a layman by the Jewish Theological Seminary of America.

The faculties and board of directors of the seminary have voted to honor Silverstein with its National Community Service Award. The presentation will take place at the seminary's 12th annual convocation dinner, Feb. 24 at the Diplomat Hotel, in Hollywood, Fla. Silverstein will be cited in recognition of his "distinguished record over many years, in serving and advancing the welfare and strength of the general and Jewish communities, through his efforts in behalf of the seminary and other notable institutions and causes."

Silverstein, of Manchester and Columbia, is board chairman of Rogers Corp. He is now in Japan, on his 29th trip abroad and his seventh around the world. He is participating at the dedication of a new plant of Nippon Mectron, a joint venture with Rogers Corp.

In addition to his work on behalf of Temple Beth Shalom, Silverstein was active in Manchester community affairs. He was a member and chairman of the Town Building Committee when Iling Junior High School and several elementary schools were constructed, and was a

What's Ahead for TV Holidays?

Familiar Disney characters welcome Christmas month of TV specials, including their own on Dec. 20.

The NBC Television Network will present 10 special programs during the month of December to observe the holiday season. The list of specials will include both religious and entertainment programming.

In addition, NBC-TV's regular series also will participate in the holiday festivities, musically and dramatically, with episodes to be announced in a separate story at a later date.

The specials follow in chronological order:

Friday, Dec. 4: "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" (7:30 to 8:30 p.m.). Fully animated musical relates how Rudolph becomes a hero when a blizzard threatens to cancel Christmas. Burl Ives is the voice of Sam the Snowman, who sings and tells the adventures of the shy little buck.

Sunday, Dec. 6: "The Littlest Angel" (7:30-9 p.m. NYT). "Hallmark Hall of Fame" encore colorcast of original musical based on Charles Tazewell's tale depicting the amusing and poignant efforts to transform a somewhat headstrong shepherd boy into an angel. Johnnie Whitaker stars as the shepherd boy, and Fred Gwynne as the angel.

Six special guest stars also have prominent roles—Cab Calloway as the Angel Gabriel; E. G. Marshall as God; John McGiver as the Angel of the Peace; Tony Randall as Democritus; George Rose as the Syncopomp; and Connie Stevens as the Flying Mistress.

Saturday, Dec. 12: "Hans Brinker" (7-9 p.m.). Original musical version of Mary Mapes Dodge's classic story about the poor Dutch boy, who perseveres until he finds adequate medical help for his ailing father. The encore colorcast, featuring authentic outdoor locales in Holland, stars Robin Askwith in title role, Eleanor Parker as Dame Brinker, Richard Basehart as Dr. Boekman, John Gregson as the father, and Cyril Ritchard in a special guest appearance as Mr. Kleef, the innkeeper.

Wednesday, Dec. 16: "The Little Drummer Boy" (7:30-8 p.m.) Animated musical special concerns the little drummer boy's arrival at the manger of the Christ Child in Bethlehem just as the three kings are about to offer their gifts.

The boy has no gift—except

Network Juggling Holds Jobs

By JERRY BUCK

NEW YORK (AP) — Unemployment is a current national problem, but you would never know it from the economic status of the characters on television series.

The network shows may be the only place in America where you will find full employment and where no one worries about rising prices.

It is an ambiguous situation because the networks themselves are trimming expenses.

ABC is turning back 2½ hours a week to its affiliate stations beginning in January to solve some of its own prime time losses. This is in anticipation of next fall, when all three networks will be required by the Federal Communications Commission to cut 3½ hours a week from their prime time schedules.

NBC is not turning back any time as yet, but it is eliminating the equivalent of a half-hour series a week by switching "Adam-12" to Thursday to replace the canceled "Nancy" at midseason. In place of "Adam-12" the network will run longer films on Saturday night.

As a result of this and other economies, actors, writers and others involved in production are finding it tougher to find work.

One hard-hit industry is the aerospace industry, but on "My Three Sons" Fred MacMurray, who plays an aerospace engineer, is unaffected.

The exception is "Julia," where Diann Carroll lost her job as a nurse in an aerospace business earlier this season but got it back when another nurse left to get married.

Advertising is another nervous industry, but on "Bewitched" advertising man Darin Stephens apparently is immune thanks to the occult powers of his wife, Samantha.

The fact that television has not taken cognizance of the business recession is not surprising. It is difficult to recall, for instance, any character who ever worried about the draft.

It can be argued that television shows are planned and filmed far in advance and it is difficult and risky to predict economic and social conditions at air time. Besides, the producers want to protect future syndication rights when a series would be rerun long after such a condition had faded into memory.

The escapist value of the medium is not to be overlooked either. Virtually all of the series that dealt with relevant topics this season will either be dropped at midseason or will be altered.

Board of Rabbis On CBS Sunday

"Still, We Seem to Be One People. . . We Seem to Be One People Still," a CBS News special broadcast commemorating the 90th anniversary of the New York Board of Rabbis and focusing on the oneness of the Jewish people, will be presented Sunday at 10 a.m.

Actor Harry Goz is the host. Looking at Judaism as a people in addition to being a religious faith, the special broadcast examines the past and present unity of the Jewish people throughout the world.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban will speak about what it means to be a Jew on the broadcast, which will also present films of Jewry in India, Spain, Hungary, Israel and other countries.

Actors Jordan Charney, Bibi Besch and Harold Gary will dramatize scenes on motherhood, humor, the Torah, the holocaust (1943), the statehood of Israel and ritual.

Pamela Hott, director of religious broadcasts for CBS News, is executive producer. The special broadcast was produced by Chalmers Dale and directed by Norman Gorin. Stephan Chodorov is the writer.

Larry Storch will appear soon in his recurring role as Duke Farentino, boxer, on "The Doris Day Show," Monday night comedy on CBS.
