

Lights in England To Glow On Again

By KENNETH L. DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP)—Britain's electrical workers called off their power slowdown today, assuring 55 million Britons of a Christmas with lights, heat and other facilities they missed in a week of brownouts.

Union negotiator Frank Chapple announced the surprise after a marathon session with the government and its Electricity Council as "an act of good faith with the nation."

The differences between a union seeking 25 per cent more pay and a council willing to give only 10 per cent remained.

Even a national court of inquiry to recommend a peace formula remained uncertain.

The 125,000 power station workers wanted absolute freedom from blame. The government wanted to make certain the British economy didn't suffer and feared setting off spiraling inflation.

Employment Minister Robert Carr scheduled another negotiating session with the union.

"For the moment," said Chapple, "we have taken the opportunity for everyone to have second thoughts on the situation. We are making an act of good faith with this nation."

Chapple said the unions have been unfairly accused. Public irritation has been mounting as rolling dimouts snuffed out the lights across Britain.

"This is the only way to put it right," said Chapple. "We are trying to give the nation a fair shake. We do not intend to go on arguing another 24 hours for doctrinaire reasons."

Britain breathed with relief as they renewed their Christmas shopping in stores where the lights no longer glittered on merchandise displays and decorated trees stood dark and rather forlorn.

The emergency wasn't over. The dimouts still rolled across the country. But no later than Christmas Eve, the public happily calculated, all the lights would be burning normally.

In the hospitals and the homes of the aged where electricity meant heat against the near-freezing cold the bite of the dimouts was more punishing. The Electricity Council warned that the public must turn off their unnecessary electricity still, or heavier power cuts would follow.

As industry's machines began pounding today the reduction of power amounted to 22 per cent and 5 per cent of British homes were cut off before daylight.

But the electricity workers began cooperating on overtime to swell the power output. The negotiating went on. The present issue dealt with the court of inquiry.

An inquiry court in Britain is taxed with recommending a fair solution to industrial disputes. But neither the government nor the unions are bound by the court's findings.

The issue suspending the appointment of a court was twofold: the unions want absolute freedom from blame in the power cuts and the government wants to maintain its grim struggle against inflation.

There appeared no break in pay demands, the real crux of the problem.

Victor Feather, secretary-general of the Trades Union Congress, said: "I would think that the unions have shown themselves to be extremely conciliatory and I am hoping there will be some reciprocal action by the government to meet the wishes of the unions here."

Inflation, said Feather, is a government responsibility.

"The government cannot put this responsibility on the three-man tribunal, however good the three men may be."

The unexpected end to the slowdown focused attention on Chapple, 50-year-old Cockney chief union negotiator—a former Communist who turned on the party in a still-going fight to rid the electrical union of Communist influence.

While making the goodwill gesture, Chapple still showed signs of being tough on the Conservative government.

"We are trying to behave in the most responsible manner possible," he said, "but it seems it is expected in some quarters that we must betray the interests of our members and this we will not do."

Referring to Employment Minister Carr, he said: "There are some words the minister is

Treasury Secretary Resigning

WASHINGTON (AP)—

President Nixon announced today that Secretary of the Treasury David M. Kennedy is resigning his post Feb. 1 and will be succeeded by former Governor John Connally, a Texas Democrat.

Kennedy is not leaving the administration but will become the country's ambassador at large under Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

Nixon announced the shifts personally at a briefing for reporters.

He lauded both Kennedy and Connally highly, the one for contributions he already has made and the other for qualities he said will be of great benefit to the government.

Kennedy still will have the title of a member of the Cabinet in the post he will take over on Feb. 1.

Nixon said that Kennedy, white-haired and 65, had accepted the Treasury post with the understanding he could leave at the end of two years and perhaps consider some new assignment.

By putting the departure time at Feb. 1, Kennedy will be on hand through the final stages of preparing the next federal budget. And Connally will be around in the interim to consult and brief himself on budget matters.

Connally, a friend of former President Lyndon B. Johnson, will be the first Democrat to fill one of the regular, departmental Cabinet positions.

Nixon stressed the need of bipartisan approaches to national problems in speaking of the appointment.

Patrick J. Moynihan, who has resigned as presidential counselor to return to the Harvard University faculty, was accorded Cabinet rank—and he, too, is a Democrat.

Campus Unrest Head Hails Nixon Response

CHICAGO (AP)—The chairman of President Nixon's Commission on Campus Unrest said today that the President's comments on the report "are in complimentary agreement with the report."

The chairman, William W. Scranton, told a news conference in Chicago that the President's response agreed with the commission's "condemnation of violence, our recommendations to the colleges and universities, our concern for the needs of black students and black colleges, that the responsibility for maintaining order on the campus is not government's alone, and our opposition to politicizing universities."

Scranton, former governor of Pennsylvania, said he believes the fact that President Nixon has read and responded to the report "is at least unusual and possibly unique in the annals of major presidential commissions over the past several years."

Scranton said he was especially pleased with Nixon's commendation of the report as "a contribution to the White House Conference on Youth."

"Although some phrases in the letter seem to read negatively or critically in tone, yet their meaning agreed with the report in substance," Scranton said.

Scranton implied that previous interpretations of the commission's report misinterpreted its assessments of the causes of violence.

"The commission's report, despite distortions of it to which the President also refers in his letter, does not point the finger of blame for the increase in campus disorders at anyone," Scranton said, adding: "We were not charged to find blame."

"Instead the report lifted this issue above the level of accusation and blame and asked for leadership from all involved to bring us together, back from the brink of deep division and further alienation," he said.

Asked what he thought about Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's characterization of the report as "a plea for permissiveness," Scranton replied: "Few people have read the report."

"We utterly condemn violence," he said and cited portions of the report which call for an end to violence on campuses.

"If anybody says that is permissiveness, I don't

Nixon Pushes His Aid Plan For Families

By MARGARET SCHERF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Branding the welfare system "a consuming, monstrous, inhuman outrage," President Nixon has called for passage of his Family Assistance Plan before Congress adjourns.

"For the Senate to adjourn without enacting this measure would be a tragedy of missed opportunity," Nixon said Sunday night as he opened the once-a-decade White House Conference on Children.

The legislation, which would set an income floor for a family of four at $1,500 a year, has been passed by the House but is mired in the Senate.

"In terms of its consequences for children," the President said, "I think it can fairly be said to be the most important piece of social legislation in our nation's history."

In his speech, Nixon also said the federal government cannot solve all the problems hampering the welfare of the nation's 55 million children.

"We shall do our best to meet

Senate Committee Approves Nixon Bid to Aid Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP)—

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee approved today President Nixon's request to send aid to Cambodia. But it coupled the action with sharp restrictions and disclaimed any U.S. commitment to defend that nation.

The committee adopted a revised form of the Cooper-Church amendment, approved by the Senate last June but stalemated in conference by House opposition, barring U.S. advisers and instructors as well as American ground combat troops from Cambodia.

Like the earlier amendment, it was sponsored by Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky. Approval was unanimous.

Then, the committee adopted an amendment by Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., specifying that approval of the $25 million aid request in no way constitutes a U.S. commitment to defend Cambodia.

Sens. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., and Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., won inclusion of an amendment requiring President Nixon to give advance notice in case any foreign aid or defense funds are transferred to Cambodia to supplement the aid program there. Present laws require notice to Congress—but only after the action is taken.

The committee's action came as the Senate took up a $2 billion catch-all money bill that includes $500 million for credits for Israel, authorized previously, and the new $536 aid request in the bill foreign relations committee approved.

Church expressed hope that the Nixon administration, which opposed the earlier Cooper-Church proviso, will accept the new move. "I am hopeful and indications are that the administration is now prepared to accept this," he told reporters.

Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana, the Senate Democratic leader, said he expects Congress to approve the Cambodia aid program before the current session adjourns.

The catchall bill makes clear the $535 million cannot be spent until Congress passes the military authorization measure—a move to avert a conflict with the Foreign Relations panel, a center of opposition to expanded U.S. involvement in Southeast Asia.

Most committee members believe any approval of the Cambodian aid will carry a restriction such as last June's Cooper-Church amendment barring American ground troops and advisers and U.S. underwriting of "third country" help for Cambodia.

That amendment has been stalemated in conferences since because of House and administration opposition.

A separate provision barring use of defense funds for introduction of U.S. combat ground troops into Cambodia is con-

Yule Toys Can Bring Tears: Here's What To Watch For

Editor's Note: Hazards may lurk in Christmas toys. This dispatch from the AP Special Assignment Team tells parents what to watch for.

By G. DAVID WALLACE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Soft cuddly animals which harbor barbed teeth or wire in their ears. Toy weapons which can damage a child's hearing. Noise-makers which can easily become dislodged and be swallowed.

These are examples of hazards which private and government organizations say parents should watch for when they buy Christmas toys this holiday season.

President Nixon's consumer assistant, Virginia Knauer, warned parents last week to examine carefully the toys they give children.

"Santa Claus should not be followed by a visit to the doctor," she said.

The Food and Drug Administration has negotiated changes or termination of 24 toys this year and proposed banning four others. Consumers Union has petitioned the courts to require that the government ban five others.

As the biggest toy-buying season of the year approached, Mrs. Knauer suggested that the best way to make sure toys are safe is for parents to examine them carefully.

"Too often, parents have purchased toys under the mistaken impression that the holiday purchases would be safe for use," said Mrs. Knauer. "Mistaken impressions can be dangerous ones."

And Morris Kaplan, technical director for Consumers Union, has warned that manufacturers' agreements to stop selling toys cited by the government as unsafe are not assurances that the toys aren't still around. They can stay in the marketplace for months or years, said Kaplan.

One yardstick of the dangers inherent in some toys is the list of 24 on which the FDA has acted unofficially since the Toy Safety Act became law in January.

In a toy clarinet the agency found a four-inch metal pin with a sharp point which could tear flesh. The point was made blunt.

Lenses in toy sunglasses were found strong enough to alter a child's vision. The manufacturer stopped distribution.

The point on an electric wood burning set exploded when plugged in. The point was redesigned.

A stuffed dog contained a nose anchored by sharp teeth and eyes which could be removed and possibly swallowed.

The firm stopped using the style of nose and eyes.

The noise of a cap pistol hurt children's eardrums. The pistol was discontinued.

A bottle of play electric shave lotion was contaminated with bacteria. The firm retained a laboratory to monitor future shipments.

Other dangers cited in the National Commission on Product Safety's final report this summer included electrical toys which become hot enough to burn children or presented shock hazards.

The commission also was critical of high-rise bicycles, noting that the number of injuries associated with bicycles in general amounts to 1 million a year. This compares with 700,000 toy-related injuries and another 700,000 associated with playground swings and slides.

Both bicycles and toys rated in the commission's list of the ten household products most likely to injure.

An engineering report for the commission concluded that operation of high rise bicycles requires more skill than conventional bicycles because "shorter wheelbase and smaller wheel size are detrimental to both lateral and vertical plane stability."

The commission found that devices like "lassy bars," "banana seats" and center-mounted gearshifts make the high-rise bikes even more hazardous.

The bicycle industry, which admitted it made no detailed engineering studies before putting the bicycles on the market, has formed a safety advisory committee since publication of the commission report.

Fires Cause Blackouts In Three Towns

NEWINGTON (AP)—

Thousands of families shivered through the night in Newington, Berlin and parts of New Britain Sunday after a fire-caused short circuit knocked out power.

The blackout, the second of the day, left some 4,000 families and businesses without electricity for up to nine hours until all power was restored at 12:40 a.m. Monday.

The first blackout earlier Sunday afternoon left between 12,000 and 15,000 customers of the Connecticut Light and Power Co. without electricity for about one hour after a short circuit and fire at a Newington substation.

The second fire and short circuit at the substation halted power to about 15,000 homes and business at 3:15 p.m. Power was restored to about 9,000 customers within three hours, but the remainder of them, mostly in the Newington area, were without electricity until early Monday.

Fires Claim Two Lives In State

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fires claimed the lives of a 30-year-old New Haven woman and a 47-year-old West Haven woman yesterday; in addition, four other persons were injured, none seriously, in the Sunday-night blaze in New Haven.

The New Haven woman, Mrs. Mary Austin, died when flames destroyed a frame home at 10 Read St., where the woman, her husband and two children, resided on the second floor of the two-family structure.

The woman's husband and two children escaped from the fire without injury but four other persons were slightly injured. Hospital spokesmen said all would probably be released after treatment. Among the injured were two firemen.

The three-alarm blaze broke out at 5:38 p.m.

In West Haven, Mrs. Corrine S. Bennett, 47, died early Sunday when flames swept through

Weekend Of Snow Claims 10

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least 10 persons died over the weekend in the first snowstorm of the season in Connecticut. Three of the deaths were in traffic accidents, the rest attributed to heart attacks while shoveling snow.

The storm left nearly 11 inches of snow on the ground in parts of the state, only the southern area receiving substantially less. But the coastline region was plagued with sleet and snow which alternated throughout the weekend to make travel slow at best and hazardous at worst.

On Saturday afternoon, Helen Ramsey, 68, of Harwinton, was struck by a car as she stood on snow-covered Wolcott Road in Wolcott checking damage to the rear of her family car, which had been struck by an auto moments before, police said.

In North Haven, 20-year-old Francisco Davilla of Patterson, N.J., died early Saturday morning when he fell beneath the tires of a passing auto as he and another man tried to flag down a car on Interstate 91. Davilla's car had stalled in the passing lane of the expressway.

David M. Clark, 23, of South Orange, N.J., was killed by a passing car Sunday morning while walking at an exit of the Merritt Parkway in Fairfield. State Police said it couldn't be immediately determined why he was there.

Joseph Molinek, 56, was found collapsed in snow in front of his Waterbury home Saturday and was pronounced dead of a heart attack at St. Mary's Hospital there. Police said snow shovels were found some distance from the spot where Molinek collapsed.

Mather-Dolin

MRS. THEODORE M. MATHER JR.

Nancy Lynn Dolin of Bolton became the bride of Theodore M. Mather Jr. of Manchester Saturday afternoon at Second Congregational Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis J. Dolin of 140 Keeney Dr. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore M. Mather of 64 Concord Rd.

The Rev. Ernest Harris of Second Congregational Church performed the double-ring ceremony. Mrs. Alexandra Leason of Chicopee Falls, Mass., was organist, and the soloist was Jeff Maxwell of Bolton. Arrangements of white gladioli and red carnations were on the altar.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an empire gown of crepe trimmed with schiffli embroidery and designed with cow collar, puffed sleeves, and detachable chapel-length waltz train. Her veil of silk illusion was arranged from a matching headpiece, and she carried a colonial bouquet of miniature carnations, roses, stock, baby's breath and ivy.

Miss Dana Dimock of Manchester was maid of honor. Her empire gown of cranberry velvet was fashioned with cow collar, long sleeves, and gold ribbon accenting the waistline. She wore a matching velvet headpiece, and carried a colonial bouquet of red roses and pink miniature carnations and ivy.

Bridesmaids were Miss Jane Mather of Manchester, sister of the bride; Miss Susan Mather of Manchester, cousin of the bride; Miss Gail Popplek of Rockville; and Miss Mary Levinson of Belmont, Mass. Their dark green velvet gowns and headpieces were styled to match the honor attendants', and they carried colonial bouquets of yellow pompons and ivy.

Marcel Dolin of Manchester, niece of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. Her cranberry velvet gown was similar to the honor attendants', and she carried a nosegay of pink miniature carnations and ivy.

William Swing of Manchester served as best man. Ushers were Wayne Mather of Willington, Walter Mather of White River Junction, Vt., and James Mather of Hartland, Vt., cousins of the bridegroom; Alan Tupole of Manchester, and Jeff Maxwell of Bolton.

Mrs. Dolin wore a deep purple velvet dress with silver accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a peach color linen jacket dress. Both had corsages of white cymbidium orchids.

A reception was held in the church parlors. For a wedding trip to Vermont and Canada, where the couple will ski, Mrs. Mather wore an off-white crocheted dress with brown accessories and a corsage of red roses, ivy and mistletoe. After Dec. 20, the couple will live at 87 Asylum Ave., Hartford.

Mrs. Mather is employed at the University of Hartford, where she is a part-time student and member of the junior class. Mr. Mather is employed full-time as a television engineer at WTRF, Hartford, and is a full-time student and member of the senior class at the University of Hartford.

Mr. Stosak, a 1966 graduate of Albany High School, is a senior in the evening division of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. He is employed as an accountant in the New York State Department of Education in Albany.

The wedding is planned for April 17, 1971.

Mr. Gasek, a 1967 graduate of Albany High School, is a senior in the evening division of Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. He is employed as an accountant in the New York State Department of Education in Albany.

Ambro-Gliha

MRS. RORY ALAN AMBRO

The marriage of Marsha Gliha of Ambro to Rory Alan Ambro of New York City was solemnized Friday evening in a candlelight ceremony at the Church of Our Lady of Sorrows in Hartford.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Gliha of 206 Henry St. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Ambro of West Hartford.

The Rev. William M. Mulcar of Our Lady of Sorrows Church performed the ceremony and was celebrant at the nuptial Mass. The bride was given in marriage by her father.

Miss Vicki Ambro of West Hartford, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. Richard Haklan of West Hartford served as best man.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for members of the immediate families.

Mrs. Ambro attended Fashion Institute, New York City, and Vernon Court Junior College, New Britain. Mr. Ambro attended Central Connecticut State College, New Britain.

The couple will live in New York City where Mr. Ambro is employed in radio and television advertising.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney T. Peterman of 40 Jortt St. were feted Saturday night at a 25th wedding anniversary celebration at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Forde of 24 Buckingham St.

Irate Duchess Routs Burglar

LONDON (AP) — Margaret, Duchess of Argyll battled a long-haired young burglar she caught looking for jewels in her Mayfair home Sunday night, police disclosed. The man got away, and Scotland Yard would not say whether he stole anything.

The 56-year-old duchess had laid out her jewelry in her bedroom so it could be packed for a trip abroad. A man of about 25 with long black hair emerged from the adjoining bathroom and found the 56-year-old millionaire in the room.

The man lunged at her throat. After a brief struggle, he fled. Meanwhile, the duchess's 35-year-old maid pressed a burglar alarm connected to a police station.

The former Margaret Whigham, the duchess was the third of the present Duke of Argyll's four wives. They were divorced in 1963 after one of the longest, conflict and most scandalous divorce cases in British legal history. Last month she announced she had adopted two boys 9 and 7 years old.

The Final Refinement

It wasn't until we saw that most modern of all means of personal communication — the "picturephone" — demonstrated on another marvel, television, the other day that we became aware of fact that it has given one final and unexpected refinement.

Perhaps it was an afterthought. In any case, it offers the final proof of our possession of the ultimate genius which brought it to a close, or to the next long trail of events likely to follow?

Conceding the absence of sanity or common sense, is there now anything any one of us, individually or collectively, is going to do to improve the situation?

Are we going to make any changes in the way we handle our affairs? Are we going to insist on some new system, or on some new priority of values? Are we going to do the slightest single thing in response to the disclosure that our established systems no longer work, no longer command respect, no longer pack authority?

We are not. We are not going to do any slightest thing. We are going to keep on as we have been keeping on, breaking our own rules, defying our own laws, saving each other.

Let us not try to solve ourselves by naming particular villains. The railroad unions are no more guilty than other unions, and no union is more guilty than that management which willingly surrenders its own responsibility and judgment into the hands of labor and management play with the public and its pocketbook, and neither labor nor management is, in reality, any worse than the public itself, which meekly tolerates any and all inequities, so long as they have some group or institutional sponsorship.

Occasionally our scientific brand of progress stumbles for or corrects its own mistakes, and some such development is now in the offing, we should say, in a potential marriage between one of our great disposal problems and one of our great agricultural needs.

Inside Report

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON—So stunned were President Nixon and the Republican high command by a national poll showing Mr. Nixon trailing Maine Sen. Edmund Muskie for President that they ordered an immediate, nationwide telephone poll of their own, which promptly lowered their blood pressure.

The Republican findings: Nixon, 54 per cent; Muskie, 40 per cent; "neither," 6 per cent (with the "undecideds" distributed proportionately).

With Gov.-elect George Wallace of Alabama included, the Republican poll of 1,600 voters gives Nixon 40 per cent, Muskie 32 per cent, Wallace 12 per cent, "don't know" 18 per cent (with the remainder for somebody else).

White House political operatives refused to accept the accuracy of the Harris poll, a suspicion partly based on a post-election Gallup poll showing that Mr. Nixon was up to a 57 per cent national approval rating.

But the deeper reason for the swift Republican reaction is concern over the psychological impact of growing political conversation — now heard every where politicians gather — that Mr. Nixon is highly vulnerable for 1972. Knowing that the Harris survey would feed this psychology, the Republicans commissioned their own poll.

Hard feelings between young-er, moderate Republican Congressmen and conservative Rep. Frank Row of Ohio have been intensified by a slick Row maneuver to seat an ally on the powerful House Appropriations Committee.

Death For Drug Pushers To the Editor: State Senator-elect David Odgard and Rep. Donald Genovese both of Manchester have just filed a bill which calls for the death penalty for drug pushers whose victims die.

Backstage efforts by Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana to launch his campaign for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination have hit a solid brick wall.

We are indeed fortunate that Mr. Odgard and Mr. Genovese have decided to go into action rather than just express superficial alarm and then conveniently throw up their hands as so many other legislators have.

Thus, for the moment at least, Bayh's presidential prospects have been reduced close to invisibility, and some friends are pointing him toward the vice presidential nomination.

At a heated point in Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird's cross-examination by hostile Senate Foreign Relations Committee Democrats on the Sonny POW raid, the usually grim-visaged Laird received a handwritten note with three words: "Stop smiling, Mel."

Interested in Predictions Into The Future? Here is a prediction made by the Israelite Patriarch Jacob. "The scepter shall not depart from Judah, nor a lawgiver from between his feet, until Shiloh (the Messiah) come; and unto him shall the gathering of the people be." Gen. 49:10

Almost 2,000 years later Christ was born of Mary, the wife of Joseph — both belonging to the tribe of Judah. The prediction was accurate. Shiloh had come. "Shiloh" means "The One Who Has The Right To Rule." Jesus of Nazareth is the One who has the right to rule in this world and in your life, is He? Submitted by the Rev. Fuller Denies He Has Plans To Develop Provension Land

By ANNA FRIEDNA (Herald Correspondent)

In a letter sent to First Selectman Percy Cook, Robert P. Fuller of Manchester has denied having definite plans to develop the Provension property area.

Stating that since he is obviously the "other person" referred to in recent newspaper articles, Fuller, who is president of the Colonial Board Company in Manchester, said that certain misunderstandings relative to the property mentioned should be cleared up.

Fuller wrote, "It is true that I have bid for this property and that I own other property bordering the swamp. It is not true, however, as stated recently that I have 'revealed definite plans to develop the area'—in fact I have no plans at all."

At the present time Fuller owns considerable acreage in the Juruvaty swamp area both personally and in joint ownership with other parties. He has owned some of this land for as long as 15 years.

On Sunday, Fuller repeated a point previously stated in his letter, that he has offered his cooperation to the Andover Conservation Commission in seeing that the town's welfare is considered in whatever use may be made of this property.

Fuller stated that he had spoken to Mrs. Margaret Hohmann, chairman of the Conservation Commission and had offered his help in determining the best course of action to take concerning the Provension property, including attendance at a meeting for that purpose.

In speaking with Mrs. Hohmann, Fuller said that at no time did he either state or imply that he had plans to develop the area, except to consider some of the possibilities that might occur in the future. And as of today, he still has made no plans regarding the property, and has no plans for the land he has owned for some 15 years in the town of Andover.

Since various sources were repeating Fuller's alleged plans to develop the area as a lake community, the question was posed to Fuller as to whether he did indeed have any such plans and whether these plans included purchase of the Juruvaty land, which would be necessary to their fulfillment.

Against Despoiling Area

Fuller pointed out that he would consider it a tragedy to "create such a mess" as has been perpetrated in other lake community ventures such as now exist in Andover, Bolton, Coventry and numerous other towns. He states that as an outdoorsman, wildlife enthusiast and conservationist, he not only has no desire to despoil the area, but would vehemently oppose any "recreational or irresponsible developing" of any kind that would diminish the natural beauty and value of the site.

Fuller admitted his interest in the Provension property and the Juruvaty property. This is a parcel of some 90 acres adjoining the Provension piece, and about 2-3 of the existing pond is located in this larger piece. It has just recently been offered for sale and is part of the estate of the late Mary Juruvaty. All of the land tracts located in this area comprise what was at one time known as the Bishop Swamp and in more recent years, referred to as the Juruvaty swamp.

The town's best interests would certainly not be served by buying up the Provension and Juruvaty tracts, Fuller stated, pointing out not only the cost but the loss of tax revenues as well. Fuller stated that although much has been said about preserving the locale as a possible source of water in the future, there has been, as far as he knows, not one shred of evidence to support this idea. He says that at this point none really knows whether using this area as a source of water would even be feasible since there have been no studies made to determine the need, the cost, the quality of the water or the quantity which would be available.

(Much of Andover lies in what is considered a natural watershed; the Hop River still relatively pure and unpolluted, winds its way through the middle of the entire town. Andover Lake contains approximately 125 acres; there are other streams and watercourses throughout the town.)

Considering the number of other possible sources of water in the area, Fuller believes that no valid argument can be made favoring the swamp area as a water supply without considerable investigation. He also pointed out that the town certainly could not consider developing the area for a source of water unless it purchased all the land in and around the swamp necessary to this plan; or possibly, rather than outright purchase, the town could buy certain water and use rights. In either event, preserving the land solely for this purpose becomes an extremely expensive proposition and the question arises whether the town can in fact afford this kind of speculation.

Tax increases in the area and Cook at present has a mill rate of 48, one of the highest in the state. Fuller has increased its mill rate each year for the last few years.

Cook states that the town has not yet had to pay its portion of taxes toward the new regional high school. Since new construction at Rham had not yet been completed, figures showing each town's share of the cost were until now unavailable. There is no doubt, however, that this coming year the town will be billed for its share of that cost and Cook states that an educated guess would place it in the vicinity of a small increase in taxes.

Also brought out by Cook was the fact that this coming year the town must allocate and set aside funds to pay an assessing firm for a re-evaluation and assessment program which will be conducted in 1972. The time the town had a re-assessment in 1970, the cost was $10,000; towns which paid the $10,000 price approximately 10 years ago are now paying from $20,000 to $25,000 for the same

Nativity Scene To Be Dedicated

Robertson Park Nativity Scene will be turned over to the town Wednesday at 7 p.m. in brief ceremonies at the site.

Mayor Nathan Agostinelli will accept the scene for the town. In the 2 1/2 years since it began, the Nativity Scene Committee, with the cooperation of many organizations, has put up two scenes in town, one in Center Park and one in Robertson Park.

Some of the many individuals who donated their time and talents include William Stevenson, Matthew Moriarty, Ernest Turcek, John Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Piris, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Arty, Paul Misseri, James McBratney, Robert Perry, Wilbert Hadden and Mrs. Charles Carlsky.

The committee hopes to make the Carol Sing, held this year at Center Park an annual event.

Jaycees Hear Cede Tonight

Bill Ciede, outdoor editor for WTC and the Hartford Times, will be guest speaker tonight at 8 at a Jaycees meeting at the British-American Club, 75 Madison St.

Besides programs on the outdoors, Ciede gives ski reports on WTC. Before joining the Times staff in 1968, he was a free lance writer for magazines as the school site, which consists of about eight or 10 acres, the public library, the town office building, the old Town Hall and the small area where the War Memorial stands.

There are also numerous local club projects and activities scheduled to start next month.

Hartford Man Slain, Fellow Tenant Held

HARTFORD (AP)—Luis Antonio Eschavara, about 50, was fatally shot Saturday and a fellow resident of his apartment building was charged with murder.

Police said the suspect is Jose N. Rosas, 42, who was held without bond pending arraignment in Circuit Court Monday.

Eschavara's body was found in a communal bathroom in the apartment complex at 94 Edwards Street.

Police gave no motive in the slaying.

Northview Open

Snow has its aggravations, but there is one group of people that is seldom disappointed when the landscape turns white. That group consists largely of skiers with a few die hard sledders completing the contingent that thinks snow.

Town facilities for skiers and sleds were opened yesterday for the first time and will continue operation for the rest of the winter on a day to day basis with the weather being the controlling factor.

The Northview Ski Slope attracted between 350 and 450 skiers Sunday during the peak afternoon hours, according to Park Superintendent Ernest J. Cedar. St. Proof of Manchester residence must be presented in order to get a patch.

Center Springs will be open today afternoon from three to five o'clock, weather permitting. Snow fell during most of the day so that there was an ample supply of fresh powder.

Tureck reported that the conditions were "ideal." Even with the fine conditions, at least one person had a little difficulty getting back into the swing of things.

Both rope tows were in operation below and by the end of the day, the grooves in the snow reflected the heavy use the tow.

Recreation director Mel Siebold remains Manchester resident and admission patches for the ski slope can be obtained free of charge at the Recreation Department office at 110 Park Street.

The sledding slope in Center Springs Park was also open yesterday for the first time.

It is also planned to open the ski slope from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. (Herald photos by Pinto).

Tolland Middle School Experiments With 'Involved Simulation'

Involvement simulation is the name of the game, in a special social studies program being developed at the Tolland Middle School.

The program, developed by Adele Blaszczak of the school's reading department, is designed to produce high levels of motivation, interest, enjoyment and retention for a selected seventh grade class at the Middle School.

Ingredients of the program are the use of techniques involving simulation games, role playing, resource people, student-selected, multi-media presentations. Absent from the course is the formal textbook.

Students are encouraged to select topics in a general social studies area such as England.

Then each student (or small groups of students) present the area to the entire class in oral report form.

The students perform simulation games about the area being covered. An example would be the setting up of a "make believe" government for England. Role playing or acting is the formal textbook.

Those selecting the establishment of a government for England might for instance cast themselves in the roles of statesmen, industrialists, farmers and others, reflecting the situations they are describing.

Multi-media and resource presentations are also used to supplement the reports and oral studies area such as England.

The multi-media approach includes the use of tapes, films, slides, records and pictures on the topics being covered.

Resource people will be brought into the program to make presentations and White House activities in the special area being studied.

In the unit on England, the school librarian, music and art teachers, as well as the home economics and English teachers of West Willington, past master would all participate as resource personnel. Miss May Peterson, an exchange teacher from England would also make a presentation to the class.

According to Mrs. Blaszczak, the students who are actively involved in learning show a high level of motivation and achievement.

She further feels this approach to learning should have definite applications for students who have failed to achieve under the existing programs.

St. Matthew's Notes

St. Matthew's Ladies Guild is seeking wrapped gifts for girls and women at Merritt Hall Mansfield Training School. The age range of the patients is from 10 to 70 years.

A box has been left for these donations at the entrance to the church Parish Center. The Guild requests that all presents be wrapped and labeled as to contents.

Suggestions for the gift items include dolls, handkerchiefs, dusting powder, soap, games, finger nail polish and lipstick.

In addition, members of the Guild will visit St. Anthony's Nursing Home Dec. 22 at 7 p.m. for the purpose of distributing the gifts of sleepwear and baked goods which have been donated for the project. Anyone wishing to donate baked goods may contact Virginia Parrow, Carol White, Marilyn Aramini or Anna Bonk.

Tolland Special Session Called Of Town Officials, PZC

The town's subdivision and road regulations and procedures, and the processes of issuance of building and sanitary permits will be the subject of a special joint meeting of several local officials and the Planning and Zoning Commission tonight.

The meeting was called by First Selectman Charles Trifault and will be held tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the Town Hall at 8 p.m.

Invited to attend the meeting are the PZC, Town Council, Robert King, Road Superintendent; William Sewick; James Thompson of Buck and Burr, the town's consulting engineers; and Building Inspector Charles Schuss and Sanitary Inspector Leon Dwire.

Boys League Notes

The officers of the Tolland Boys League have issued an outline of the accomplishments of the past season, and are embarking on expansion plans for the 1971 season, during which they expect additional boys to register, especially in the senior division.

The league registration total of 294 boys during the past season; those were separated into 22 organized teams including two Pony League teams for 11 and 14 year olds.

The Pony League teams competed in the Windham-Tolland-New London league.

The balance of the teams were divided into four tional league teams and eight major and farm teams.

The Junior program games for the 11 to 13 year olds were played at Lavitt Field on South River Rd., while the home games of the Pony League were played at the Tolland High School field.

The Twins ended their regular season of play winning a best 2 of 3 series in both the major and farm divisions, edging the Pirates for the farm title and the Braves for the major title.

A six team invitation tournament was held with the New Britain All Star team edging the Tolland All star team for the championship.

Special events held during the season were well attended, although complicated by poor weather conditions. Opening day and the annual picnic were postponed due to rain and the trips to Boston and UConn were made in rain and snow respectively.

Tolland Juniors

The monthly meeting of the Tolland Junior Women's Club will be held tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Religious Education Building of the United Congregational Church.

A program of mountain music will be presented by Bud Godreau on a guitar, banjo and fiddle. Godreau has performed at the Pacer County Fair in California and was a finalist in the Great Western Talent Search. His musical compositions have been recorded by the Icon Record labels; they have also been performed at the famous Purple Onion in San Francisco.

The Godreau family recently moved to Manchester where he has participated in church concerts in the Hartford area. He is employed as an engineer at Pratt and Whitney.

The Tolland Juniors will conduct a story hour Saturday at the Tolland Public Library for 3 and 4 year olds. The story hour will be held from 10 until 11 a.m.

The Home Life Committee of the club recently held a Bingo party for patients at the Veterans Hospital in Rocky Hill.

LTM Yule Party Set Wednesday

The Little Theatre of Manchester will hold its annual Christmas party and program for members only on Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the studio at 30 Oak Street.

The program, arranged by James Pendegast, will be an Evening of Comedy and Poetry and will feature the talents of Mr. Pendegast, Ed and Lois Tull, Jean Pierce and Marilyn Minutillo.

A Christmas tree with a grab bag, Christmas punch and other festive refreshments have been planned by Mary Blush and Beverly Burton, hospital-ity chairman.

Newly elected LTM President, David Newirth, will be installed after the festivities.

Drug Program Contact People Meet Tomorrow

The contact people of the 29-town Capitol Region Drug Information Center will hold their first meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the Bloomfield Town Hall Building. The contact people are coordinators between the center and the towns.

Topics on the agenda include the contact person's role in the community; further information of new services; functions and resources available to area groups; newly published literature; how and where to make referrals on drug abuse cases; a report on community activities; what new trends and directions are developing in drug abuse educational programs; and what new needs the communities may have.

Participants will include: Dana Hanson, executive director of the Capitol Region Council of Government; Gerry Sherman, consultant from the University of Connecticut School of Social Work; and Rod Goldberg, of the University of Hartford.

Joseph S. Dolan, director of community services for the region drug center, will be moderator.

Area contact people are Mark Swerdloff, Manchester; the Rev. Robert Dhoof, Bolton; Carroll Mason, Ellington; Mrs. Joanne Kilgore, South Windsor; Philip Nangle and Mrs. Joan Lander, Tolland; and Mrs. Claire Alborn and Dr. Daniel R. Woolwich, Vernon.

Spain Near State Of Emergency

MADRID (AP)—Spanish police arrested 12 persons in raids in Madrid today as a government order suspending civil liberties throughout the country went into effect. Sources said police all over the nation were rounding up opponents of the regime of Gen. Francisco Franco. Government critics were threatened with six months in jail without charges under the new state of emergency.

The regime ordered the stampdown Monday night in efforts to stop a tide of protest and violence over the trial in Burgos of 16 Basque nationalists. Civil liberties are to remain suspended until next June 30.

Verdicts for the 16 Basques were expected Wednesday. There was speculation that some of them would be sentenced to death for the murder two years ago of a political police chief.

The Vatican said it has appealed to the Spanish government not to hand down any death sentences in the trial and reported that it has played a role in seeking the release of West Germany's honorary consul in San Sebastian, August Beth, who was kidnapped by Basque extremists.

Hundreds of new arrests are expected as a result of Franco's proclamation. A similar proclamation was made in the Basque province of Guipuzcoa on Dec. 4, and more than 200 arrests have been rounded up there and are being held without charges.

Dempsey To Become Consultant

HARTFORD (AP)—Gov. John Dempsey announced today he will become a consultant on environmental policy to the Southern New England Telephone Co. after leaving office next year.

"I welcome the opportunity to devote a substantial portion of my own time and effort to constructive action in this field," the governor said.

The announcement at a news conference in the governor's office ended months of speculation about Dempsey's plans for the future. The Democratic governor, who has spent most of his life in public office, had made it clear nearly a year ago that he did not intend to run again for any office.

Later in the morning, Lt. Dempsie T. Clark Hill, a Republican, suggested that Dempsey should start receiving his state pension of $10,000 a year immediately after his retirement instead of having to wait nine years until he reaches age 76. He said he would recommend to leaders of both parties that present legislation regarding pensions be amended.

Hull said Dempsey "has foregone all other means of acquiring assets during the last 10 years of his service to the state. He's entitled to a pension and shouldn't have to wait nine more years."

Youth Held After Killing Of Doctor

PROVIDENCE (AP)—Boston police have arrested an 18-year-old youth wanted for murder in the gunshot slaying of Dr. Charles B. Potter, 62, last Thursday in a parking lot at Providence Lyng-In Hospital.

The wanted youth, Michael S. Marchetti of Providence, was seized in the Massachusetts city Monday shortly after a warrant was issued here for his arrest.

By a strange quirk, police saw the plane take minor damage and the navigator in the back seat ejected. A Jolly Green Giant rescue helicopter picked up the downed navigator for the same day. He was dead because the rescue operation was delayed and the weather was very cold.

The cause of death is unknown, but he did suffer multiple injuries.

FBI Investigating UConn Bombing

STORRS (AP)—Federal authorities and state police were investigating an early morning firebombing and blaze which caused "significant damage" to three offices in the ROTC building at the University of Connecticut.

"We assume it is some sort of Molotov cocktail, gasoline in a bottle," said an FBI spokesman in New Haven. The FBI entered the case because the incident occurred in a military building.

State police investigators said fragments of bottles were found in the office of the professor of military science, Army Col. Richard Delay, where the fire apparently started. Windows in the office were broken either before or during the fire, so it was impossible for witnesses to tell if firebombs had been thrown in from outside the building.

Police Move to Extradite State Boy From Arkansas

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—Connecticut authorities arrived in Arkansas late Monday night to begin extradition proceedings against a 17-year-old honor student who was wanted on a charge of murder in the slaying of four members of his family in New Canaan, Conn.

Two Connecticut State Police men and a New Canaan policeman arrived at the Little Rock airport and were to spend the night in Little Rock before driving the 194 miles to Fort Smith early today to question John Rice Jr. about the slayings.

Rice walked into the Fort Smith police station Monday and told officers that he was from Connecticut and did not know how he got to Arkansas or why he came here.

Police Chief Carl Beyers said he was not informed of the charges and officers had said nothing to the boy about his family.

The brothers, held in federal prison in Danbury, came before U.S. District Court Judge T. Emmet Clark to plead for the right to send sermons to the outside.

Ferry Sinks; 250 Koreans Feared Dead

SAIGON (AP)—A U.S. Navy courier plane crashed today shortly after it was launched from the carrier Ranger in the Tonkin Gulf, and the six American and four Filipino aboard were feared killed.

A spokesman said two bodies had been recovered, and there were no signs of survivors.

First reports said all aboard were Americans, but later the Navy announced that four of the passengers were Filipino repairmen employed by the Navy in the Philippines.

The plane, a twin-engine, prop-driven C-2A Greyhound, was on its way back to its base at the Cebu Point Naval Air Station in the Philippines with six passengers and four crewmen.

Ships and helicopters of the carrier task force in the Tonkin Gulf were making an extensive search.

Identification of the 10 Americans was withheld until their next of kin were notified.
