Potential New, Young Voters Wooded by Political Groups

By JOHN STOWELL, Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Youth-oriented political groups moved quickly today to grab a share of the potential 11 million new voters enfranchised by the Supreme Court decision allowing 18-year-olds to vote for president and congressmen.

The National Young Democrats said it was joining with other youth groups in a campaign to register these millions whose vote can bring about social change, reordering of national priorities and increased support for their point of view.

State elections officials complained meanwhile that Monday's action will result in expense and confusion because the court refused to lower the voting age to 18 in state and local elections.

"This will be administratively difficult and will result in considerable cost to the taxpayer," said Oregon Atty. Gen. Lee Johnson who had argued before the court against lowering the voting age.

Shortly after the court's 5 to 4 decision on federal elections was announced, Sen. Edward Kennedy, a potential Democratic presidential candidate in 1972, said he will move quickly for Senate approval of a constitutional amendment giving 18-year-olds the right to vote in national elections.

"Once the law goes into effect for federal elections, it is extremely likely that the states will lower the voting age to 18 for state elections," the Massachusetts Democrat said. But he added, he would support a constitutional amendment to "speed up this result."

Provisions of the 1970 Federal Voting Rights Act, upheld by the court action, take effect Jan. 1.

Many state officials said the court's decision will require separate registration lists for voters under and over the age of 21. Some forecast the expensive possibility of two sets of voting machines or paper ballots.

The high court approved also, 8 to 1, the abolition of residency requirements of more than 30 days for voting in presidential elections and approved unanimously the suspension of literacy tests for five years.

Some state officials said they will ask their legislatures for a constitutional amendment lowering the voting age to 18.

The 1971 legislative session seriously consider placing an 18-year-old vote question on the ballot again in 1972," said Edward Bernard Wetherstield, leader of the unsuccessful "Let's Vote 18" campaign.

"Consider this court decision and the relatively close election (by 28,485 votes) of last November. This state's young people should have another opportunity to vote if they are as qualified to vote as they are in national elections," Ford said.

Forward warned of "massive election-day confusion" if the 18-year-old vote question on the ballot again in 1972," said Edward Bernard Wetherstield, leader of the unsuccessful "Let's Vote 18" campaign.

Secretary of the State Ella T. Grasso, who will take office as a member of Congress next Nov. 14, said she would be studying carefully before any decisions about election procedures can be made.

While the 18-year-old vote feature of the federal Voting Rights Act posed many difficulties for election officials in Connecticut, it was considered a relief in other states.

That's the reduction of the States' minimum for presidential elections is 60 days, while the minimum for qualifying to vote in state and local elections is six months.

There already is a paper ballot procedure for persons with less than six months' residency and more than 60 days to vote only for president and vice president on special paper ballots. All that's needed is a slight modification opening the procedure to those with only 30 days of residence.

SPRINGFIELD (AP) — David Smyth tried to get the jump on the rest of the 18-year-olds Monday, but he'll have to wait.

Smyth, 18, walked into the town clerk's office here and asked to register as a voter at 2:30 p.m. — just a few hours after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that 18-year-olds are eligible to vote in national elections for president through Congress.

"I would assume it would take two or three weeks before we get official approval to take them on," he said.

In Connecticut Confusion Seen in Wake Of 18-Year-Old Vote Ruling

By DON MEIKLE, Associated Press Writer

HARTFORD (AP) — Two sets of voting machines at each polling place. A dual system of voting — one with machines, the other with paper ballots? These are among the possible ways which Connecticut election officials will have to cope with the new federal law.

Monday by the U.S. Supreme Court — giving 18-year-olds the right to vote in national elections.

"It's going to create some confusion, with 18-year-olds being able to vote in state elections," said State Atty. Gen. Robert K. Killip.

He suggested the possibility of having two sets of voting machines — one for those under 21 and one for those 21 and older, in order to assure that 18-year-olds are voting only for federal officials.

"The only offices for which voters under 21 will be able to vote are president-vice president, U.S. senator and U.S. representative."

Voters over 21, on the other hand, will be able to cast an entire ballot, including state and local offices.

The Supreme Court ruling will let procedure for persons with less than six months' residency and more than 60 days to vote only for president and vice president on special paper ballots. All that's needed is a slight modification opening the procedure to those with only 30 days of residence.

FDA Ruling Potential Danger Bars 39 Toys from Market

By MIKE SHANAHAN, Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — With most gifts already wrapped and ready for stacking under the nation's Christmas trees, the federal government has ordered 39 toys off the market because of sharp wires that it says could be dangerous.

Among those listed was Toy Town of Randallstown, Md., which the FDA said made a toy called Squeaking Toy Donkey, which has a removable squeaker.

After the list was released Harold Moore, manager of Toy Town said his outlet sells toys that has never manufactured any. He said the toy donkey was imported, but was made by Toy Wood Manufacturing Co., N.Y.

"But we took it off the shelves," he said.

The FDA has also moved to remove a way for parents to get refunds if they purchased one of Country Game Ltd., Yonkers, toys on the list. The agency N.Y. Lawt, Dart, Regent Sports Co., Hauppauge, N.Y.; Javelin quiring manufacturers be prepared to either return the purchase price in full or repair the toys so that they are safe. But King Athletic Goods, Inc., Hunt Darts, lawn darts, Haecser Inc., Hunt Darts, Philadelphia, Pa., subject to 15 days of public comment before being finalized by the FDA.

Under fire from Congress and consumer groups, the agency moved for the first time Friday under the 11-month-old Toy Safety Act by banning four categories of toys.

But after saying it wouldn't name names, it did just that in Monday's announcement.

In November, Consumers Union, which tests toys for safety, displayed eight toys it said were dangerous. Only one, JARTS, a lawn darts game produced by J.B. Jarts, South Glen Falls, N.Y., appears among the 39.

Besides that, the FDA said Jarts has been staying pending action on the banning by a federal appeals court.

The FDA said the other seven toys on Consumer Union's list used various phases of investigation.

In a few cases, their manufacturers had agreed to make them safer, the agency said.

The consumers' organization later sought to have a federal court order the eight toys banned, but was turned down.

Besides the toy donkey and the Jarts game, the FDA banned the following toys listed:

Elzay Doodle Doll, squeaker; Parkmirth Corp., N.Y.; Squeeze Zoo Zee squeezee toy, squeaker; Squeak Wood Manufacturing Co., N.Y.

Marilyn N. Martino, a graduate of the University of Connecticut, said that when she finishes her graduate work next year she intends to return to her former job as a case worker for the State Welfare Dept.

Seale, 34, and Mrs. Huggins, 32, are charged in the State Welfare Dept. case with the murder of a Black Panther from New York City 19 months ago.

When it became apparent Miss Martino had been chosen as the fourth juror, Seale looked at her as she sat on the witness stand and smiled broadly. Both

Names of 368 American POWs Given to U.S. Lawyer by Cong

By JOHN STOWELL, Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said North Vietnamese diplomats in Paris provided today what they called an official list of 368 American prisoners of war they are holding.

Kennedy said the list was turned over to John Nolan, a Washington attorney whom he sent to Paris in response to an invitation from the North Vietnamese.

"The list is not available here immediately," Kennedy said. "The list also includes the names of 26 men identified as American prisoners who died in captivity and nine who were released. It lists the date of capture, date of death or date of release, Kennedy said."

He said he does not know whether the list is complete even though it was described as official.

The new list would be an increase of at least 23 over the previous names learned through unofficial channels, assuming the lists contain the same names.

There are a total of 781 missing or captured Americans in North Vietnam and 230 in Laos.

Four more names were added Nov. 14, for a total of 389.

The Pentagon says it has learned through mail coming from the POW camps, from Communist propaganda films and broadcasts, from the prisoners who have been released, and from other sources the names of at least 378 Americans held captive in North Vietnam.

Kennedy received the list at a meeting today with North Vietnamese representatives in Paris. The meeting lasted an hour and 15 minutes.

Kennedy said Nolan read him the list, and took it to David K.E.B. Bruce, chief U.S. negotiator in the Paris peace talks.

In addition, Kennedy said he telephoned Secretary of State William P. Rogers, and also called the White House, although he did not speak directly with President Nixon.

"I have no way of knowing at this time the accuracy of that list," Kennedy said.

Kennedy said the invitation came in response to a letter he sent June 23 to Ton Duc Thang, president of North Vietnam, asking that the prisoners be released through a neutral nation.

Kennedy said he did not know the identity of the North Vietnamese representatives with whom he met in Paris before Dec. 23, 1970.

It will hand over letters and documents included from Ton Duc Thang, President DRVN, in reply to your letter regarding the release of prisoners captured by the North Vietnamese."

"There's no danger to the cardinal," Lyon told newsmen.

"Our men made contact with seven North Vietnamese about seven kilometers north of here, and the shooting is still going on. The battalion commander of his chopper when his pilot was shot through both legs."

The battalion commander, Lt. Col. R. A. Scholtes of Oxon Hill, Md., was not hurt.

Cardinal Cooke arrived in Hanoi, Vietnam Monday for his annual with no hint as to the possibility of a faster-than-sound jet liner failed again today, possibly breaking a filibuster holding up continued federal subsidies for it.

The roll call on the cloture vote came shortly before Christmas was scheduled to quit work for a long Christmas weekend, its work still unfinished.

The vote was 44 to 42, short of the necessary two-thirds of the members present and voting, to invoke cloture.

Before the vote, SST supporters said the technological "no" also had compromise on its mind as he said before the vote "in the question of what, at the present rate until the bill will be used to subsidize further development of the 1,800 mile an hour, 300-passenger supersonic transport.

And opponents, led by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., continued to tick off their list of charges against the project: It will endanger the environment, make too much noise, all but exhaust U.S. petroleum reserves, and not help the U.S. economy.

Proxmire, however, said he is willing to consider a compromise on the impasse to allow the Senate to get on to other matters. But he said the House members present and voting, to invoke cloture.

Republican leader Hugh Scott said he believes the dispute could be settled by providing continued SST spending at the present rate until the bill by part of next year—perhaps charges against the project: It will endanger the environment, make too much noise, all but exhaust U.S. petroleum reserves, and not help the U.S. economy.

Republican leader Hugh Scott said he believes the dispute could be settled by providing continued SST spending at the present rate until the bill by part of next year—perhaps charges against the project: It will endanger the environment, make too much noise, all but exhaust U.S. petroleum reserves, and not help the U.S. economy.

Polish Press Lays Rioting To Gomulka. WARSAW (AP) — A Communist party newspaper charged today that under Poland's old regime the nation was ruled by concealed commands and a very narrow circle. "The paper did not mention the name of Wladyslaw Gomulka, the Communist party chief who stepped down Sunday on the heels of bloody rioting by workers. But it was clear in and his close associates were the targets."

Utility Lures for Customers Barred in Fuel Crisis Areas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The three fuel and power shortages this winter has prompted several states to call for a moratorium on utility company advertising lures for new customers, but some companies have declined to do so.

An Associated Press survey indicates that while some electric and gas utilities have voluntarily cut back or changed the thrust of their advertising, others continue to court new customers despite the possibility of not being able to service them.

Earlier this year, the Federal Power Commission reported that 17 states had taken action to restrict or prohibit utility promotional practices and that six states had investigated the promotional practices of utilities in their jurisdiction.

The Oregon Public Utility Commission warned electric and natural gas utilities as early as 1964 against imprudent claims for their products. Two years later, the practice of offering rebates for new customers was curtailed.

Northwest Natural Gas Co., Portland General Electric Co. and Pacific Power & Light were told in person to stop making excessive claims.

... to meet all the requests

However, according to Public Utility Commissioners in San Francisco, extensive promotional advertising by Oregon gas and electric utilities continues.

Clint, a utility company representative, said that there will not be sufficient gas available during the next few years to meet all the requests... by present and potential customers.

Haley said, "there appears to be no reason for gas utilities to promote sales that will increase peak loads in the face of such a bleak supply situation."

Haley criticized the electric utilities for being over-eager to sell their product. Reasoning that consumers could lead to greater demand, he said, "The existing customers may be ill-served by the promotion of additional loads at higher costs."

The chairman of Michigan's Public Service Commission, Willis Ward, has asked gas and electric utilities to discontinue promotion aimed at new business "to avoid the solicitation of new customers which will be served because of the gas shortage."

But two of Michigan's largest utility companies have taken diametrically opposite positions on the issue.

Consumers Power Co., which serves 1 million electric customers and 850,000 gas customers in the state, says it has dropped nearly $1 million in gas and electric promotional advertising this year. Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. says it has no intention of cutting back.

The inability of a gas pipeline company to deliver promised supplies and delay in completion of a nuclear generating plant prompted Consumers' action, a spokesman said.

However, a Michigan Consolidated spokesman said, "since we have sufficient gas to supply all anticipated new driven by an American who was part of the American occupational forces on that erstwhile Japanese territory...

But whether or not it does enter his mind, and influence his behavior in the moments following the accident...

After all, the natives see us Americans riding around all the time, as if we owned their country.

Almost invariably, then, the likely instinct of the American involved in the accident is met by a certainty in the minds of the natives...

There is only one sure cure: remove American power and authority from the soil of other nations.

Poland's Unmanageable Consumer. The unmanaged and the managed economies can get themselves into the same kind of trouble...

Both Poland and the United States have, at the moment, somewhat similar conditions in their consumer goods economies.

Another set of prices — on food items which were already priced high because of the inflation — the government has raised by decree...

Refusing, by demonstration and riot, to play their assigned roles in this governmental management of the economy...

Here in this country, the popular demonstration of discontent with the state of the economy seems to have taken place in the voting last Nov. 3.

But (tooth!) Only now is it possible to imagine the United States being run like the Green Bay Packers with, of course, full coverage by the television cameras and the usual pair of sportscasters.

"You bet, Radley, all clear from sea to shining sea. I might take a moment here to explain that Jack is referring to the Atlantic Ocean and the Pacific Ocean...

"Thank you, Radley, and now for the play-by-play. It looks like a substitution. Yes, one of the Cabinet members is limping to the bench, and a newcomer is smartly trotting into his position.

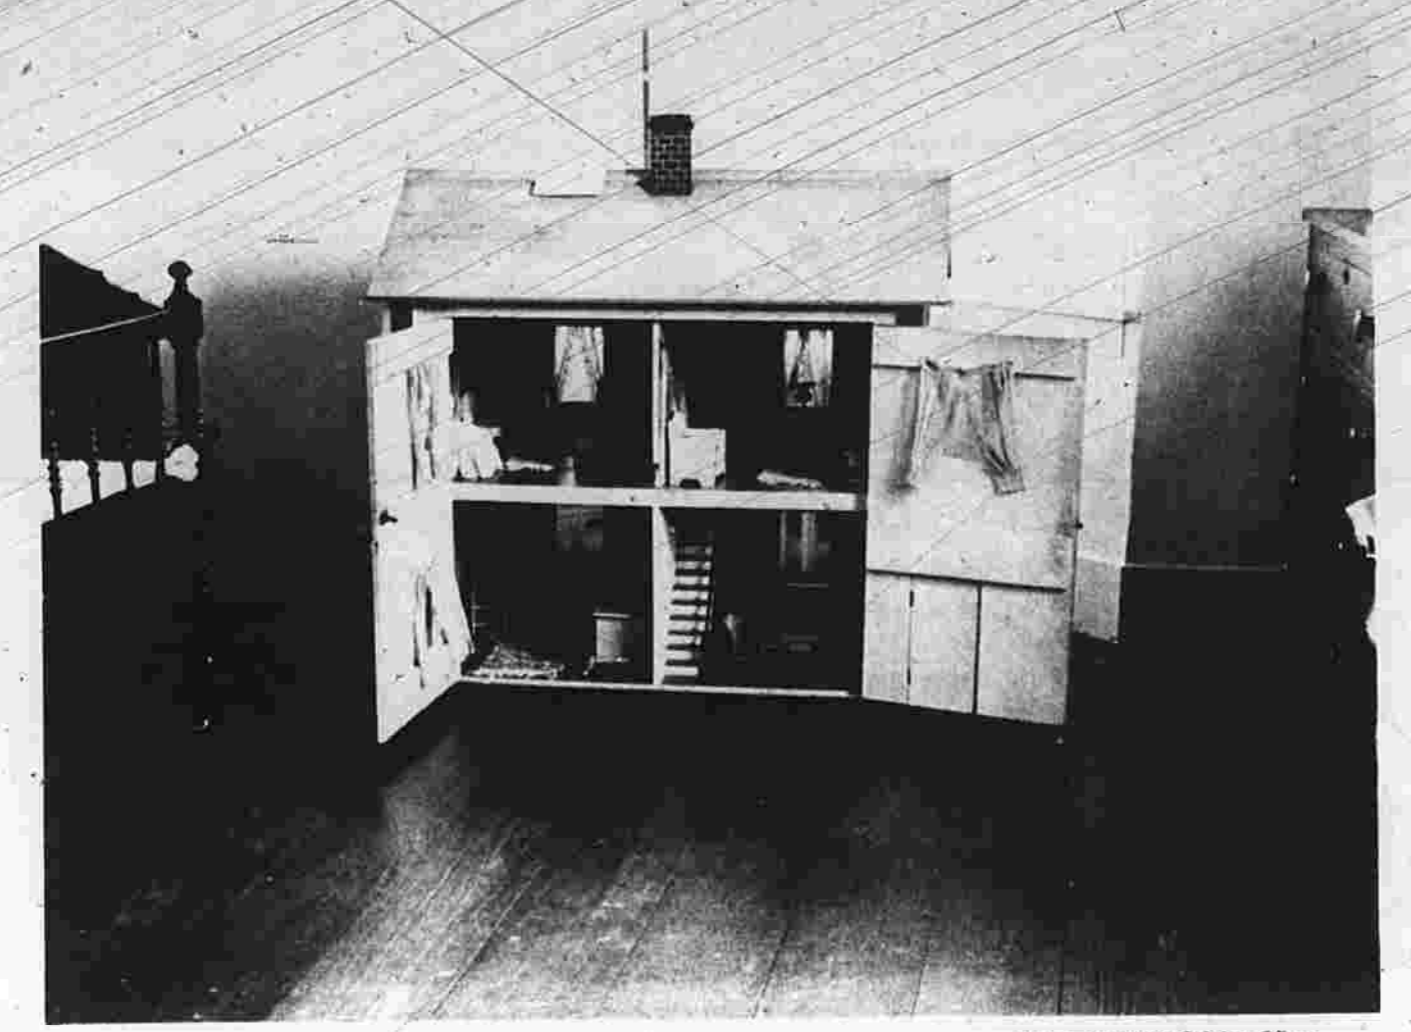

"From the sidelines we've just got the word that the outgoing Cabinet member may go to Alaska on a one-way trade, a new procedure developed when one of the players loses the confidence of the coach and —"

"Sorry, Radley, but they're out of the huddle now and, as usual, a penalty is being called. The Supreme Court appears to be offside again.

"Yes, Jack, the Supreme Court often seems to move out ahead of the rest of the team, and the excess are trying to bring them into line with a replacement from one of the Southern clubs. So far, however, not everyone's ready to play ball."

"Back to the action now, where the right halfback seems to be furloughing from here on, in this country that they do in Poland. Unless, of course, the current Polish unrest goes all the way into a revolution into the unpredictable, unreliable, unsystematic ways of running an economy.

The Inter-Civilization Accident. There is a certain almost irresistible two-way psychology which results when an automobile driven by a representative of one race and one civilization happens to injure the representative of another.

Inside Report The Legislative Crisis

By Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON—The ease with which freshman Sen. Mike Gravel of Alaska paralyzed the Senate for two days last week dramatically defines the Congressional sickness that has brought the legislative system near collapse.

Gravel, unprepared and largely unaided, waged a mini-filibuster Tuesday and Wednesday against President Nixon's proposed new military aid for Cambodia.

Gravel's filibuster was a surprise. He had been expected to support the aid, but instead he launched a surprise attack.

In the olden days, when government could still afford to remain primarily a business of politics, an incoming Governor was supposed to possess a rare privilege in his authority to name a long list of new state commissioners.

His major difficulty, if he encountered any, would come from the possibility that rival political leaders might be claiming a particular post for themselves or for some of their followers.

But, if he could settle the political rows in his own party, he appointed a good politician to be the manager of the politics in the particular state department and to wear the commissioner hat in public, and the work of the department was left, as usual, to carry-over civil service employees.

Filling his commissioner post might sometimes prove to be a political headache, but having them to fill was supposed to be the order. Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas, Long's House counterpart as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, cooperative. He informed Long last week he would not consider any legislative proposals in the House under deadline pressure.

Mills and other senior House members are outraged, but there is precious little talk in the Senate about broken-down legislative machinery. The decline has been so gradual that many legislators cannot remember when it worked, and others don't even care.

Street People of Kansas Wash Violence with Song

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—The pre-Christmas night in Lawrence was quiet and cold. Rusty Fairwell, landscaper at the University of Connecticut, directed a group of about 30 young people, swelled and echoed down the city street.

A group of about 30 Lawrence "street people" had come to the Lawrence police station Saturday night in a gesture of peace to troubled relations.

The "street people" are young persons who live near the University of Kansas campus. Their appearance and life style have caused friction in the past.

In April, in July and again this month, Lawrence street people and city police had clashed in bitter and bloody fighting which left two people dead, others injured and more than a million dollars in property damage.

But now it was Christmas time and the spirit of the season had touched everyone.

On Saturday evening, a card arrived at the Rock Chalk Cafe, a gathering place for many youths. It was addressed to "The Street People," inside was handwritten, "To the Street People" plus the printed message, "Merry Christmas, and best wishes for a happy New Year."

The card was signed, "Lawrence Police Department." It was not the "official" police department Christmas card and it wasn't clear who had sent it.

But privately there was speculation in the police department of what one of the men had done it on his own.

No matter who sent the card, it touched those who gathered that morning in the Rock Chalk. "What could they do to return the kindness, they wondered?"

Barri Mitchell, a young woman who lives in Kansas City but spends many weekends in Lawrence with friends, began to sing and to hand out Christmas cards.

"I was working with 'Season's Greetings' but it wouldn't work out," she said.

She had tried making the letters of "Season's Greetings" that morning in the Rock Chalk. "I was working with 'Season's Greetings' but it wouldn't work out," she said.

Quits Board Nixon Not Sure Of Cuban Base

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) - Roger C. B. Morton, President Nixon's choice to succeed Walter J. Hickel as secretary of the interior, has tendered his resignation as a director of the Pillsbury Co. milling firm. A company announcement Monday said the resignation would be effective upon completion of Morton's federal appointment by the U.S. Senate. Morton has been a Pillsbury director since 1961. Also on Monday, Rep. Paul Rogers, D-Ill., told the House that he was not sure of the administration's position on the health of Times magazine. "This information comes just shortly after the administration has denied that such a base was being built and that the activity in Cuba was in line with our agreements of 1960 and later verbal agreements that the administration has made within the past six months," he said. Rogers did not disclose the source of his information but told the House he was fearful the Russians had bookshelves in Cuba. "I feel very strongly that the Russians have boldly established a base and that the administration has made this very clear," he said. Rogers called on President Nixon and the appropriate Senate and House committees to investigate the Soviet activity and to make public the status of the Cuban base, plus any agreement the United States may have had administration dealing with Russia.

Holiday Surprise

EASTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP) - An Easthampton couple have a new twist to the traditional Christmas arrival of a 6-by-9-inch Christmas card from President and Mrs. Nixon. "Although I was the town clerk for 10 years I can't explain why the Nixons sent us a Christmas card," Edward LaPlante said Monday after the card arrived. He said he is a Republican but not an active one. But the LaPlantes are parents of 19 children and grandparents of 60, and these numbers may have been the key to the arrival of the greetings.

Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market greeted with restrained enthusiasm a cut in the prime lending rate by several major banks. At noon the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was about 6.61 at 822.15. Gaining issues on the New York Stock Exchange led declines by nearly 2 to 1. Minutes before the session's start, Chase Manhattan, the nation's third largest bank, cut its prime rate from 7 per cent to 6 1/2 per cent. Other large banks followed suit shortly thereafter. Investors generally react favorably to easier money because it facilitates corporate borrowing, thus paving the way for economic expansion. Analysts said a rate cut had not been expected. This may have accounted for the modest rise of the market's advance today. Airlines and building materials were low today while utilities were generally higher. Other groups, including glass, paper and steel, were mixed. Prices on the Big Board's most active list followed a similar pattern. Airline stocks were up 1/4 at 81; Pfizer, up 1/4 at 84; Air Products, up 1/4 at 22; Crown Cork, up 1/4 at 16 1/2; and GenCorp, up 1/4 at 33. Prices on the American Stock Exchange's most active list included Pepsico-Gallon, up 1/4 at 24 1/2; Milgo Electric, up 1/4 at 28 1/2; and Amstar, up 1/4 at 18 1/2. South Windsor Yule Party Merry For All Children

"Santa knows all" little children were the words of assurance spoken to a sandy haired little boy from the Warehouse Point Receiving Home at a Christmas party in South Windsor Sunday.

For months, members of Girl Scout Troop 164 had planned a Christmas party and program and invited to children from the home as their guests. The Wednesday before the party, however, a newcomer arrived at the Receiving Home and his name was not among those already received by the scouts for a place card table sitting.

With tears streaming down his face, fearing he would be excluded from the remaining festivities, the boy sought the aid of Mrs. Margaret Renaldi who explained the boy's plight to Santa Claus.

Santa came to the rescue and while arrangements were being made to seat the lad, Santa pulled something from his pack — just for the boy.

Gifts for the children were donated by State Rep. Thomas Donnelly and the Rotary Club of South Windsor provided food and entertainment.

The children danced to the music of Rick Altano and the "Dead Whopps" and the Gertie and Holman Dance entertained them with a story-type ballet dance. The Art Ensemble Troop of Hartford displayed a variety of talent as part of the program for the children's enjoyment.

An unusual castle-cake, created and decorated by Mrs. Renaldi highlighted the "party" for the evening and candy-filled bell favors and stockings full of fruit and nuts were given to the children by the scouts.

Sylvia, Sharon, Wolk, Darlene George, and Kathy Morse assisted Santa (Edward Morse) in distributing the gifts while two teen-age girls, Rita and Anne Pischowald helped serve the treats.

Scout Troop Leader Jan Krenfolds and Assistant, Sally Mathews were assisted during the entire evening by mothers Rita Beebe, Arlene Heel, Patricia Sweeney, Pe Brandy, Cheryl Curney and Dorothy Blomcroft.

Jews To Work For Christians On the Holiday

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Members of a Jewish group will work at two hospitals on Christmas Eve so Christians can spend the time with their families.

Alfred Jacobs, chairman of a committee established by the Congregation Emanu-El Brotherhood, said that 30 to 40 persons would work at St. Mary's and St. Michael's hospitals.

The volunteer workers receive brief training sessions enabling them to handle such duties as ward clerks, aides at the nursing stations, manning the information desks, and delivering food trays.

Jacobs said that for years the brotherhood had hired Jews for Christians at the USO on Christmas Eve and expanded the program after businessman Albert Rosen agreed to work for a bartender who had not spent the holiday at home in years.

Show Learner

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Thirteen years after she got her learner's permit, a 59-year-old Columbia, Mo., housewife got her driver's license.

She scored 80 on the written test 13 years ago and a Highway patrol trooper told her to come back for her road test when she learned to drive.

So she did last week—and scored a 99 on the driving test. The story was told Monday by Col. F. J. Mike Hickey, superintendent of the Highway Patrol.

To Remain Director Diana To Be Named Deputy Comptroller

Manchester Town Director William J. Diana is expected to be named to the political post of deputy state comptroller. The appointment will be made by State Comptroller-elect Nathan Agostinelli, now Manchester mayor, it will be effective Jan. 6, the same day Agostinelli takes office. Both are Republicans.

The appointment, from all indications has been cleared with Gov.-elect Thomas Meskill and with GOP State Chairman Howard Hausman.

Diana, 34, will succeed Nicholas J. Brodette, who is the deputy comptroller post, at an annual salary range of $15,292 to $18,228.

Diana is expected to remain on the Manchester Board of Directors. In fact, because of a chain of events, he is expected to be named Manchester deputy mayor Jan. 5. When the board conducts its regular, monthly meeting that night, Agostinelli will resign as mayor and as a board member. Deputy Mayor David Odgaard, who has been elected to the state senate and who will be sworn in as state senator on Jan. 6, will resign his deputy mayor post Jan. 5.

James Furey, now board secretary, will be named chairman of the board and mayor on Jan. 5. Diana will be named deputy mayor and Donald Wells will be named secretary.

Replacing Agostinelli and Odgaard on the board will be Mrs. Vivian Ferguson and Carl Zinsner.

All involved in the resignations and replacements are Republicans. The Republican mayor and Donald Wells will be named secretary.

Ansaldi Elected Chairman By State Bank Directors

The directors of the Manchester State Bank have elected Andrew Ansaldi Jr., chairman of the board.

Ansaldi replaces Mayor Nathan Agostinelli, the original chairman, who has resigned the post to assume the elective position of comptroller for the State of Connecticut. Agostinelli had headed the bank since its inception. The new bank at Main and Maple Sts. opened Nov. 30.

In accepting the chairman's position, Ansaldi said "The purpose of the bank is to serve individuals and business firms in Manchester and surrounding towns. I will attempt to do all that is possible to insure that the Manchester State Bank be known as the financial institution for local needs in both personal and business uses."

Ansaldi is a Manchester native, life-long resident, and vice president of the bank. He received his A.B. and M.S. degrees in engineering and business from Dartmouth College.

He is a veteran of the U.S. Air Force. He and his wife, the former Miss Katherine Kuhlmann, have four children.

He is a vice president and director of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce and member of the Town Building Committee, the technical advisory committee of the Manchester Board of Engineers, and member of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

Mayfair Gardens Gets Scout Gifts

Instead of giving grab bag gifts at their annual Christmas party, Boy Scouts of Troop 187 at St. Bridget Church this year decided to welcome the tenants at Mayfair Gardens, the new elderly housing project at N. Main and N. School Sts.

Several boys from the troop, accompanied by men of the church, last night visited Mayfair and presented a wall clock, portable serving table and two serving trays for use in the Community Building.

Atty. Vincent Diana, chairman of the Manchester Housing Authority, accepted and thanked the Scouts. Attending were Mrs. Catherine Fraligo, Miss Helen Mathews and Mrs. Arlene Geddes.

Scouts making the presentation were Richard Lajoie, senior patrol leader; Steven Galvin, assistant senior patrol leader; Harold Giglio, Richard Gobellie, Geoffrey Blackwell, Vincent Perry and Douglas Marshall.

The boys were accompanied by the Rev. John J. Delaney, pastor and troop chaplain; John Jay, troop committee chairman; and Arthur F. Galvin, scoutmaster of Troop 187.

Jews Will Mark Feast of Lights

Hanukkah, the Jewish Feast of Lights, will begin this evening and will continue for eight days through Wednesday, Dec. 30.

Little candles will be lit in Jewish homes each evening beginning with one candle tonight and increasing their number by one each consecutive evening.

Upon lighting the candles, blessings are recited giving thanks to God "for the miracles which took place in those days at this season" in ancient Palestine.

"Those days" referred to the second century B.C. when Greece dominated the land and the people of Judea, and the "miracles" refer to the victory which the Jews had attained over the Greek conquerors.

That victory was considered miraculous in view of the disparity between the might of the Greek Empire and the unorganized population of Judea. The joy of the population at this victory was enhanced by the fact that the Greek domination had lasted for several centuries and that it had broken and the people could once again live in freedom.

The victory was celebrated with the rededication of the Temple in Jerusalem which had been defiled by the pagans and the kindling of the lamp in the Sanctuary. The festivities lasted for eight days and it is this rededication that is celebrated each year when the lit candles are lit and prayers of thanksgiving are recited.

The Feast of Lights is thus a holiday on which the Jewish people dedicate themselves to the ancient faith and to the ideals of Freedom and Liberty.

46th District Donnelly Invites Questions From His Constituents

State Rep. Thomas J. Donnelly has invited citizens of the Assembly District to contact him regarding question or comments about pending or existing legislation or new legislation suggestions.

Donnelly said he would be holding regular, bi-weekly office hours at town halls in both South and East Windsor during the coming session of the state legislature, but noted that an early deadline date for submission of new legislation prompts him to request inquiries, suggestions and comments prior to mid-January.

Donnelly may be reached at his home "on 114 Clinton Dr., South Windsor, at the Society for Savings Bank office in Hartford, or by mail.

Coventry Drugs, Snow Topics At Town Council Meet

Last week's snow problems, which resulted in late school openings, left off the discussion at last night's Town Council meeting, with several school bus drivers and other residents on hand to voice their dismay over the situation.

The bus drivers were upset because they were instructed by school authorities to make their rounds, and parents were upset because, on the two days the buses ran one to two hours late, their children had to stand out in the cold for unreasonable periods of time.

Apparently, school authorities had been advised by the town that the roads were in satisfactory condition, but the bus drivers claim that this was not the case.

Town Manager Dennis Moore reported to the meeting that his skid devices must be used when conditions warrant. The police are left with the responsibility of deciding if the bus company has made the correct decision regarding chains. If they feel the late bus situation on Dec. 14 and forwarded to the office of Superintendent of School Laurence O'Connor, but that O'Connor did not receive the common general guideline we will use is that if the roads are snow packed, snow tires or chains are required, and when Junior Women's Club that a drug advisory committee be the country lecturing on drug use.

Morris thought a better approach would be to bring in speakers who will return to the drug use. These speakers, Morris said, are generally more effective since they relate their own experiences with drugs, and the listener can make up his own mind.

Albert Bradley, council member, said he had spoken to a member of the state narcotics team, and was told there are as many approaches to handling the situation as there are towns in the state. Each community would come up with its own methods, he said, whatever appears to work best for the particular community.

The presence or lack of a drug education program in the town schools was also discussed, since school officials have recently insisted that a formal program does exist from kindergarten through grade 12.

Most residents and parents present said they were not aware that such a program existed, and a board of education member, also present, said she had not actually seen anything in writing to indicate that such a program exists.

He said that there is a drug unit in his high school biology, but it was pointed out that this is perhaps not extensive enough.

Local resident Tom Morris, who has had considerable experience dealing with narcotics, told the council it must be treated lightly where formation of a committee is concerned. It would be awfully easy to "turn dies off," he said.

Regarding bringing in guest speakers on the subject, Morris said it has now become "quite the thing" to go on drugs, then quit and start traveling around it schedule.

Finally, when storms occur during the night, school officials will be notified so a decision can be made regarding school closing.

In making these arrangements with the schools, Moore noted that "we will not solve the problem of late buses. Townspeople will have to understand that snow covered roads can cause buses to be late no matter how well equipped they are."

The town, Moore said, will plow and sand roads as well as possible under existing conditions.

Then, if town officials are contacted by school officials, the town will report the road conditions, but will not make recommendations on use of chains on the school buses.

"This decision," Moore said, "must rest with the drivers, the bus company and school representatives."

Use of Chains
Moore continued, "The state law requires that chain mounted on the two days the buses ran one to two hours late, their children had to stand out in the cold for unreasonable periods of time."

Moore said that his skid devices must be used when conditions warrant. The police are left with the responsibility of deciding if the bus company has made the correct decision regarding chains. If they feel the late bus situation on Dec. 14 and forwarded to the office of Superintendent of School Laurence O'Connor, but that O'Connor did not receive the common general guideline we will use is that if the roads are snow packed, snow tires or chains are required, and when Junior Women's Club that a drug advisory committee be the country lecturing on drug use.

Morris thought a better approach would be to bring in speakers who will return to the drug use. These speakers, Morris said, are generally more effective since they relate their own experiences with drugs, and the listener can make up his own mind.

Albert Bradley, council member, said he had spoken to a member of the state narcotics team, and was told there are as many approaches to handling the situation as there are towns in the state. Each community would come up with its own methods, he said, whatever appears to work best for the particular community.

The presence or lack of a drug education program in the town schools was also discussed, since school officials have recently insisted that a formal program does exist from kindergarten through grade 12.

Most residents and parents present said they were not aware that such a program existed, and a board of education member, also present, said she had not actually seen anything in writing to indicate that such a program exists.

Midnight Mass Christmas Eve At St. James'

The Rt. Rev. Mgr. Edward J. Boardman, pastor of St. James' parish, will be the principal celebrant at a midnight Mass on Christmas Eve at St. James' Church.

The other celebrants are the Rev. Thomas Barry and the Rev. Joseph E. Vujus, assistant pastor.

The adult choir of the church, under the direction of Ralph Macaroni, will present a program of sacred music at 11:30 p.m. Edward O'Brien will be the commentator and Mrs. Marlene Carone, organist.

The program will include "O Come, O Come, Emmanuel," "E'en So, Lord Jesus, Quickly Come," "O Sing a Joyous Carol," "Adeste Veneres Genes," "The First Noel," "It Came Upon a Midnight Clear," and "O Holy Night."

As the priests enter the sanctuary, the congregation and choir will sing "O Come All Ye Faithful." The congregation will also join the choir in singing "Silent Night" at the Communion Service.

"Lord Have Mercy," "Gloria," and "Holy Holy, Holy, Holy" are by the Rev. Carlton Reedy, and the Propers are from "The First Mass of Christmas" composed by St. Ward Damiano, organist at the Cathedral of St. Joseph in Hartford.
