

Official says tax auditors worth weight in gold, almost

JUAN TAMAYO
HARTFORD(UPI) — Tax Commissioner Gerald Heffernan says state tax auditors are worth their weight in gold. Almost.

Heffernan said Friday each new auditor put to work checking corporate ledgers could find $400,000 a year in uncollected taxes. Those working on the sales tax could each find about $80,000 a year, he added.

Heffernan told the legislature's Finance Committee it should spend more to hire new auditors if it wants additional revenues to bridge a $145 million shortfall predicted for next fiscal year's budget.

Some 50 audits last year turned up $500,000 in uncollected sales taxes, he said, and that was only 5 per cent of the 10,000 new taxpayers created in 1975 by extending the sales tax to leases and business services.

The commissioner said auditors are paid about $17,000 a year — including fringe benefits, car costs, and needed clerical staff — meaning each auditor could find the state at least four times his salary.

Connecticut audits only about two per cent of its tax-paying institutions, Heffernan said. There is no state income tax.

He said the 50 audits that came up with $500,000 in unpaid lease and services taxes included $250,000 turned up by three auditors sent to check more than 100 state employees to the Tax Department. Tepper said the move was under preliminary consideration.

The Finance Committee also said it will look through state bond issues to determine if any can be refinanced at a lower interest rate. One committee member said two bond issues were approved last year when interest rates were higher.

Cracking the whip on Union Pond

These teens are beginning to work up speed as their nine-person "whip" gets ready to crack on the ice of Union Pond. The teens repeated the whip action over and over for about an hour without any apparent injury. But there were screams and squeals from those on the ice at high speed. (Herald photo by Barlow)

State

HARTFORD — The Special Revenue Commission will meet Wednesday to review the case of one of its officials, Sturgis Sobin, racing director, rebuked by a grand jury for accepting a truckload of free bricks from the scandal-ridden Bridgeport jail alibi front.

HARTFORD — Acknowledging an apathetic response by members, the Connecticut State Employees Association has canceled a threat to strike in protest of the layoff of 500 state employees. Only a "trickle" of strike vote ballots issued in December have been returned, a CSEA spokesman said.

Regional

SALEM, Mass. — Democratic presidential candidate Terry Sanford was expected to return home to Durham, N. C. today after two days of hospitalization, which turned up no evidence of heart trouble.

CONCORD, N. H. — The name that wasn't there — Gov. Meldrim Thomson — drew the most attention as filing of delegate slates for New Hampshire's Feb. 24 presidential primary officially closed Monday. Thompson has been a supporter of conservative candidates in both parties and had been expected to be a delegate for former California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

National

PITTSBURGH — The city's 4,100 striking public school teachers and aides today faced fines of $100 a day each unless they complied with a court order to end their seven-week walkout.

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger told a court Monday that former President Richard Nixon personally ordered FBI wiretaps in an effort to halt national security leaks.

WASHINGTON — Ralph Nader says cancer is not strictly a medical disease but should be called "corporate cancer," since much of it is caused by pollution of the environment by industry.

WASHINGTON — Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., has predicted the next session of Congress will not pioneer a great deal of new legislation. He says tax reforms might be an exception.

International

CANBERRA, Australia — Australian Prime Minister Malcolm Fraser has issued a call for a U. S. naval and military buildup in the Indian Ocean to offset a Soviet foothold there and to guarantee strategic Middle East oil lines.

LONDON — Britain has officially approved the nomination of Anne Armstrong as new U. S. ambassador in London, government officials said today. Mrs. Armstrong's formal appointment is expected to be announced soon.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — A bomb exploded without warning in a crowded downtown shopping area today, and police said at least three persons were killed and eight others injured.

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia — African leaders failed to produce a peace plan for warring Angola today and ended their emergency summit meeting still deeply divided.

Fears have increased that new fighting will engulf the former Portuguese West African colony.

Grasso pledges no new taxes

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso today pledged no new taxes and said she would resubmit two money-saving measures rejected late last year by the legislature.

"We will be able to maintain essential state services (without a tax hike) in economic projections are borne out during the fiscal year beginning July first," she said in an address to the Bridgeport Rotary Club.

She said her budget to be submitted to the legislature next month "will not increase existing taxes except where revenue is needed in one area of taxation to replace revenue lost through repeal or reductions in other areas of taxation."

She said a proposal to have the state take over the Soldiers' Sailors and Marines Fund, which benefits needy veterans, and have payments come from the general fund would be resubmitted to the legislature.

That proposal, along with one to lengthen — without an accompanying pay raise — the work week of state employees from 35 hours to 40 hours was rejected by a special legislative session in December.

That session was called to meet a projected $80 million budget deficit for the current fiscal year. Through administrative and legislative cuts, officials now estimate that deficit at $55 million.

"If the General Assembly adopts these proposals — and with a little help from the economy — we can end this fiscal year in balance," she said. "This administration is making every possible effort to achieve a balance."

"Our state has experienced a traumatic economic year," she said. "We still have a long way to go to balance the budget, and we are moving as rapidly as possible."

She said restrictions on overtime, out-of-state travel and deferred equipment purchases have saved the state about $14 million.

Weather favors ice skating

The winter of 1976 is shaping up as one the better ones in recent years for the ice skating fraternity. Not only has ice skating been a regular event on ponds in Manchester but in nearby communities as well. Shown is a group of boys playing a game of make-shift hockey at the Bolton Notch Pond recently. ## $14.1 million school budget recommended by Kennedy

By DOUG BEVINS
Herald Reporter

Manchester School Supt. James Kennedy has recommended a 1976-1977 school budget of $14,150,063, up 8.9 per cent over the current, 1975-1976 appropriation of $13,000,000.

Kennedy, presenting his budget to the Board of Education Monday night, said it will cost $13,918,852 in 1976-1977 just to continue the same level of services allowed by the 1975-1976 budget of $13,000,000.

Besides the "continuation" budget of $13,918,852, Kennedy is asking for an additional $111,000 to expand services and $122,211 to open the Regional Occupational Training Center. The continuation, improvement and training center budgets add up to the $14,150,063 figure.

Kennedy's budget document also forecast student enrollment for 1976-1977 at 9,890 students, down from 9,827 in the current school year.

The current $13,000,000 budget represents a cost of about $1,323 per student. The proposed $14,150,063 budget would represent a cost of about $1,460 per student.

In presenting his recommendation, Kennedy split the total budget plan into three budgets: Continuation (up 7.1 per cent), Improvement (up 7.9 per cent) and Regional Occupational Training Center (all new).

The continuation budget is highlighted, Kennedy said, by tentative estimates of increased salary costs now being negotiated, by reduction of four elementary teaching positions due to expected enrollment drops, by plans to hold the line on pupil transportation expenses by altering schedules, and by inflation in several categories which the system can't control (utilities, insurance, postage, etc.).

In presenting the improvement budget, Kennedy said that schools "like all human institutions," will either improve or worsen. "They seldom, if ever, just hold their own," he said.

The $111,000 requested for improvements would fund seven items on the administration's 21-item improvement priority list. The seven items are for an alternative learning program at Manchester High School, more resources for socially and emotionally maladjusted students, increased custodial staff, a better MIS science program, improvement of regular programs in line with recent studies, expansion of the reading program in elementary schools, and expansion of the elementary physical education program.

The third part of Kennedy's budget is the money needed to begin operation of the Regional Occupational Training Center, Kennedy said the $122,211 needed for the training center will be offset partially by tuition income from area towns (about $85,000) and anticipated increases in state grants for special education.

There was only one item in Kennedy's 102-page budget plan where a reduction in expenses was recommended. There were very few items where the 1976-1977 School complex ($70,000), and installation of a concrete slab under bleachers at MHS to prevent them from sinking into the ground ($8,000).

In comments accompanying his recommendation, Kennedy said, "The superintendent of schools has attempted to present for Board of Education consideration a realistic budget which, while recognizing the financial limitations facing the town and the school district, also details what in our judgment is needed not only to maintain but to improve the opportunities in the Manchester public schools."

The Board of Education must adopt a budget plan by Feb. 9 for submission to Town Manager Robert Weiss and action by the Board of Directors by May 15.

School board budget workshops are scheduled Jan. 19, Jan. 22, Jan. 27, and Feb. 2.

Also made part of the budget document was the updated, long-range plan for capital improvements in the school system. The capital improvement plan, which runs through 1981-1982, calls for three projects in 1976-1977: Resurfacing of playgrounds and parking lots at Bowers, Nathan Hale and Waddell Schools ($45,000), building two crosswalk bridges over Main St. at the Bennet Junior High School complex ($70,000), and installation of a concrete slab under bleachers at MHS to prevent them from sinking into the ground ($8,000).

In comments accompanying his recommendation, Kennedy said, "The superintendent of schools has attempted to present for Board of Education consideration a realistic budget which, while recognizing the financial limitations facing the town and the school district, also details what in our judgment is needed not only to maintain but to improve the opportunities in the Manchester public schools."

The Board of Education must adopt a budget plan by Feb. 9 for submission to Town Manager Robert Weiss and action by the Board of Directors by May 15.

Board makes progress on personnel issues

By SOL R. COHEN
Herald Reporter

Sparked and guided by Director Paul Willhide's expertise in labor relations, the Manchester Board of Directors Monday night made considerable progress toward resolving personnel problems that have been hanging fire for a year or more.

Willhide is personnel director for United Aircraft and his questions, knowledge and suggestions dominated the three-hour meeting and found the other directors agreeing with him in most instances.

The board met to consider five major personnel issues facing the town, identified by Town Manager Robert Weiss as follows:

- Vacancies.
- Management and middle management salaries.
- Labor relations.
- Merit System improvements.
- Affirmative Action Plan.

At one point during Weiss' explanations, Willhide described them as "imaginative accounting."

Basically, the board took some position on each of the five issues — formally or informally.

It indicated it is amenable to filling some of the vacancies that exist, at least those backed by available funds in the departmental budgets. It instructed Weiss to come up with cost figures for correcting inequities in management and middle management salaries. It backed a $5,000 to assist in labor negotiations with four unions, but balked at giving the consultant a free hand in the negotiations.

Also, it approved a $500 expenditure for revising the town's personnel rules and merit system, to be accomplished by Alex Bogauff of UConn's Institute of Public Service.

And, it indicated it (the board) wants to retain control of whatever Affirmative Action Plan (to give equal opportunities to minorities) the town adopts and that it won't abdicate its authority to the Human Relations Commission.

The board indicated it approves providing the building department with an additional clerk and with another building inspector — the latter to succeed Francis Conti, now chief building inspector. These are the only vacancies which may require additional funding.

Other vacancies, all with budgeted funds available, are: an account clerk in the assessor's office, five firefighters and one training officer (to be a deputy fire chief) in the Town Fire Department, a superintendent in the highway department (six other vacancies won't be filled this year), seven police officers and the position of clerk in the police department, a program director and recreation supervisor in the recreation department, a clerk in the social services department, and a lab director, water and sewer technician and water treatment manager in the water and sewer department.

LET'S BE FRANK

What is the truth about stamps? Who pays for them? Who benefits from their use? These are important questions because they deal directly with your money and the quantity of the food you buy. Let's start at the beginning. Every super market engages in advertising - newspaper, radio, supplements TV. We do some also. We advertise the same as our supermarket competitors except for two differences. One we spend far less when you consider the cost of TV and 6 & 12 multi page inserts, and No. 2, we offer S&H Stamps as part of our advertising. We found them to be the most effective drawing and holding force. The fewer dollars spent on advertising and the popularity of S&H Stamps help to keep our expense lower. That makes Franks among the top five in LOWER PRICES, offering better values, service and quality than any other store. So the question is should we give all our advertising dollars to the newspapers, radio, and the great expense of TELEVISION or give you the benefit of S&H Stamps?

For smokers only

This commentary is for cigarette smokers only. Tomorrow, Wednesday, Jan. 14, could be a big day in your life—if you are willing to take a risk. The Connecticut Lung Association has proclaimed Wednesday as Connecticut No Smoking Day. It is challenging all smokers to quit for just one day by not smoking from the time they arise in the morning until they go to bed at night. The association admits that it won't be easy for many long-time smokers, but what it is gambling on and wants smokers to take a chance on is that for many, many smokers, quitting will not be the foreboding and anguishing thing they might believe. The association said that based upon no smoking days in other states, many will stop to think that it's the longest period of time they've gone without a smoke and find it was much easier than they imagined. Sure there will be withdrawal symptoms and actually it will take several days to wean for all the effects of tobacco on the human system to disappear, but the focus of No Smoking Day and the

"I thank my God whenever I think of you." This is a word from St. Paul to his friends at Philippi. Paul meant it as a demonstration of how God's love became clearer to him because of their love for him. During this past year I had that unique but universal experience of "falling in love." This June I'll be getting married and so often these same words of Paul are on my mind when I think of my fiance. She has made my life brighter and so much happier. Through her I have again discovered what it means to forgive and to be forgiven. In short, she demonstrates to me more clearly what God's love for me is. And so I wonder how God's love is demonstrated through me and through you. Are there those who thank God for when they remember us? God's love is shown through the lives of loving people. May we be among them! Rev. David W. Rinas, Co-Pastor, Concordia Lutheran Church

High court to review Pasadena busing case

WASHINGTON — In 1970 the authorities in Pasadena, Calif., came under court order to bus students in order to integrate the school system. Form 1970 to 1974, the system lost 37.4 per cent of its white students. In 1975, the system was about 57 per cent "minority." Just so, I suppose one can concede that Pasadena schools now enjoy racial balance, except for a slight edge on the side of the "minority." However, the sociologists who advocate busing have always denied that racial balance was a goal or even a factor in their master plan to reform the nation's public schools. What they seek, they claim, is equality of education. Nuts, said the Pasadena school board in effect. Last fall the school board brought suit before the Supreme Court, contending that busing had brought "white flight" and caused a deterioration in the quality of education. Said the board: "Until this court re-establishes its ruling in the historic 1971 Swann case) that racial balance is a proper factor for consideration but not a constitutional goal and that busing is a permitted but not a compulsory means, federal court desegregation plans will continue to result in chaotic school conditions." Responding for the government last October, the Justice Department opposed review of the case, but conceded that the school board's concern about busing was "legitimate." Readers are free to figure out that one; I plead incompetence. Anyway, Atty. Gen. Edward H. Levi obviously has had some second thoughts about busing. On the TV show, "Face the Nation," Levi opposed a constitutional ban on busing but said everybody should take a second look at the methods employed to achieve integration of public schools. Said Levi: "I think the courts found themselves in a most difficult situation...I don't think the school system should be run by the courts. I don't think the courts really want that, and I think all of us, including the courts, are learning about the problem, and as we learn about the problem we've got to rethink the cases, and we'd have to reread the remedies and we'd have to take into account the actual results. When we do that, I think the law develops and changes." Then, at a meeting with several civil rights leaders, Levi replied to a question by acknowledging that the Justice Department is "reconsidering our approach" to the Swann case, in which a federal court okayed desegregation remedies, including busing, in the Charlotte-Mecklenburg, N.C., school system. That has brought howls from civil rights leaders. The respected Roy Wilkins, head of the NAACP, charged that any judicial re-examination of Swann would be "a capitulation to ignorance, racism, anarchy and mob rule." Joe Rauh, a career civil libertarian, said he was "shocked and astounded" by Levi's statement. Now then. What Levi said or didn't say is really unimportant. The fact that forced busing not only has not worked in many cases, it has also divided the country and even caused some of the pro-busing sociologists to change their minds about its benevolence. Indeed, in its curious memorandum to the Supreme Court, the Justice Department last October ventured to suggest that "concern about transporting school children to accomplish desegregation...may call for further attention of this court in an appropriate case." Whereupon, the Supreme Court concluded that Pasadena's was "an appropriate case." The Supreme Court's decision that Pasadena's was "an appropriate case," by agreeing to review it. In Levi's words, the highest bench clearly is willing to "take into account the actual results" of forced busing. So far, those results mostly have achieved only a rigid racial balance in integrated public schools. And if court-ordered racial balance in any corner of American life is constitutional, so were Jim Crow toilets in Mississippi bus stations.

Salty solution for hungry world

As if the world did not face an acute enough problem already in feeding its burgeoning billions, another threat to the global food supply has appeared. It is salt, creeping into farmland waters at a disturbing rate, reports NOAA magazine, a publication of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration. Salt is encroaching not only in coastal areas that have never been arable; excessive and growing amounts of salt are intruding into areas that have long been intensively irrigated, such as the lower Colorado River Valley, posing a major agricultural problem. That's the bad news. The good news and it could be very good news for an increasingly hungry world — is that the salt problem may literally contain the seeds of its own solution. Many varieties of plants, called halophytes, can live comfortably with salt. Indeed, much of the earth's Rift Valley which push back the crops strains is a long-term one. But if it is successful, the results would be of inestimable value to the world. Crops could be harvested in regions presently totally unusable for agriculture. At the same time, the salty water itself could provide concentrations of several major plant nutrients — potassium, calcium, magnesium and sulfate — that are currently supplied by chemical fertilizers whose cost, in terms of both energy and dollars, is becoming increasingly high. A comforting thought Radio astronomers have picked up the sounds of what they believe was the explosion of a stupendous "primeval fireball" out of which the universe was created 10 billion years ago. Meanwhile, anthropologists have discovered the fossil remains of manlike creatures in Africa's Great

Chop off the head to kill a snake

WASHINGTON — Organized crime costs your family and mine $1,000 a year — $50 billion nationwide. It's expanding into legitimate businesses and fueling the corruption of officials and police. Yet, we're bumbling our attacks on the syndicates — going after insignificant targets, ignoring the jugular. No syndicate can operate on any important scale for any length of time without large payoffs to officials or police, usually both. So long as these authorities go free, or if only a bribe recipient here or there is caught and jailed, a clampdown on organized crime is impossible. Investment capital and working capital are essential to any major syndicate operation. But our attacks on organized crime, in the main, ignore these truisms. We are so obsessed with the thought we must catch the man actually running dope, stealing, strongarming or jacking, that we end up with a barrel of small fry and, in total, a few billion dollars worth recovered from the $50 billion the syndicates take home. The men can be replaced at a dime a dozen. And the syndicate losses from law enforcement officers

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Ferguson of Forest St. (she writes "Your Neighbor's Kitchen" for The Herald) are hosting a private party Jan. 30 in celebration of the Chinese New Year. The festive occasion will be held at the Islander and Lei Eng, the restaurant's proprietor, is making a special trip to New York City to acquire just the right items to make it authentic. I understand from the invitation that the food will be such goodies as steamed melon with Virginia ham and crab meat, a shrimp course, a lobster course, and a mouth-watering piece of resistance of Peking Duck, made, it was noted according to a recipe once served to an ex-president on his visit to China. I guess there are about 7 or 8 courses in all and each will be explained. Sounds wonderful! I'll have to go on a crash diet so I can truly enjoy such gourmet cuisine. "Gung Hoy Fet Toy!" that means "Happy new year" in Chinese (I think).

Travel Show

The Herald's next travel show will be Thursday, Jan. 22 at 8 p.m. and will feature "Great Britain." We will be presenting it at East Catholic High School and free tickets are available at The Herald office or from the sponsoring travel agents. Films entitled "A City for All Seasons" and "Pubbers — a visit to an English pub" will be presented courtesy British Airways. Come on along and join in the fun. We hope to have a few surprises, and, of course, door prizes.

Chestnut Hill Preschool plans open house Sunday

The Chestnut Hill Preschool at Emmanuel Lutheran Church will have an "Open House" on Sunday from 2 to 4 p.m. Parents of presently enrolled students are encouraged to attend along with any interested parents or friends. The purpose of the open house is to give parents a chance to see what their children have been doing during the year and to talk with the teachers. New interested parents will have an opportunity to ask questions and see what type of program is offered. Parents will also have a chance to enroll their children for next year. Mrs. Sandra Misage and Mrs. Carol Mahlfeldt are the co-directors and teachers of the school and refer to it as "a rather too structured not too open." It offers a combination of both for children. The curriculum provides for creative indoor and outdoor play, organized activities including stories, learning games, practical life, musical experiences, creative body movement and creative art experiences. The school has various sessions ranging from two days to five days a week, either mornings or afternoons. For more information or for an appointment to observe the school in session, call Mrs. Mahlfeldt, 643-6822 or Mrs. Misage 643-4346.

Directors act tonight on Meals-on-Wheels

Action on a proposed appropriation for launching Manchester's Meals-on-Wheels Program will be taken tonight by the town's Board of Directors, when it meets at 8 in the Municipal Building Hearing Room. The $10,770 appropriation would be financed from part of an anticipated federal grant under Title XX of the Social Security Act. The town anticipates receiving about $24,000 for various social programs. The Manchester Homemakers Service, which will direct the Meals-on-Wheels Program, estimates its one-year cost at $41,480, with $10,770 of it from the town. $10,770 from the United Way and $19,950 from those elderly and handicapped shut-ins (estimated at about 50 for the first year) who will receive the meals one hot and one cold per day, Monday through Friday. All but $3,500 of the budget would go for the cost of the meals and for distribution costs. The $3,500 would be paid a coordinator of the program. The meals would be prepared in the Manchester Memorial Hospital kitchen at $2.50 per recipient per day—an estimated 15,000 packages a year. Because the pilot program is unsuccessful in Manchester, the estimate of 50 participants in an educated guess and may prove too low. In that event, adjustments will have to be made. Also tonight, the board is expected to take action on other proposed appropriations—all the subjects of public hearings last Tuesday. In addition to a few other items on the agenda, all under new business, the board will open the meeting (as the last item) to electors who wish to be heard on any subject in the board's jurisdiction. Drug association records checked HARTFORD (UPI)—Records of the Connecticut Pharmaceutical Association are being examined by the state attorney general seeking possible anti-trust law violations. Attorney General Carl Ajello said Monday he has subpoenaed the records because of complaints from several welfare recipients and on the basis of reports that several drugstore owners are refusing to fill prescriptions for welfare clients because the state reimbursement was reduced 20 cents per prescription.

Shooting victims still in hospital

WATERBURY (UPI)—Two police officers and a public defender remained hospitalized today after being shot by a man who snatched a policeman's gun in a Waterbury court house. Police said Arthur Sweeney II, 35, of New York City, was in a holding cell Monday when he snatched a service revolver belonging to Waterbury policeman Michael Bolton, shot him, and wounded a deputy sheriff and a public defender. Sweeney gave up when he was confronted by two policemen at a point after a wild chase from the basement cell into a courtroom and then back downstairs. One of the officers who apprehended Sweeney, Sgt. John Ladd, 54, was grazed in the chest by a bullet. He was treated and released. Police later charged Sweeney with four counts of attempted murder and held him on $100,000 bond on each count. Bolton, 51, shot in the groin, was listed in stable condition Monday night after surgery at St. Mary's Hospital. Public defender Edward McCarthy, Jr., 44, who was shot in the chest, was placed in the intensive care unit in stable condition. Deputy Sheriff Kelly Dillard, 27, was listed in good condition with a bullet wound of the right knee. Prosecutor Arthur McDonald said at least 15 shots were fired. Police said Sweeney apparently was able to obtain ammunition and reload the six-shot weapon. Police said Sweeney was filling out an application for McCarthy about 11 a.m. when he grabbed Bolton's gun and shot McCarthy twice in the chest. Dillard ran into the courtroom upstairs, shouting, "Somebody's got a gun." Shots were then heard from the courtroom. Sweeney then dashed to the top of the stairs and shot Dillard in the leg, police said. Attorney Donald Tammis, 30, was treated at St. Mary's for severe lacerations of the left wrist and thigh caused by broken glass as he ran from the courtroom, police said. Also released after treatment for an injured wrist were Deputy Sheriff Mario Geffredo, 45, and a spectator, Nicholas Perugini, 44, who was examined at the hospital's cardiac care unit for a possible heart attack. Sweeney was treated and released from Waterbury Hospital Monday afternoon with minor head injuries sustained in scuffle with police. Sweeney, whose New York address was listed as 201 E. 102nd St., was arrested Friday night in Waterbury on charges of assault, threatening, carrying a dangerous weapon and breaking and entering without a permit. His Connecticut address was the Palace Hotel in Waterbury.

Leniency for criminals hit

HARTFORD (UPI)—The shooting of three law enforcement officers in Waterbury Monday reflects a breakdown in the criminal justice system, a police union official says. "I am outraged, appalled and angered at the attack on the police officers in Waterbury as well as the bystanders," said Joseph J. Mazzotta, Connecticut director for the International Brotherhood of Police Officers. "I am more appalled with the proliferation of these wanton attacks because it reflects a breakdown in the criminal justice system," he said. Mazzotta said society has encouraged criminals by showing leniency toward them. "The alleged criminals have learned they may be out on bond within minutes or hours, whether the felony be severe or otherwise, and they're at liberty to commit other crimes," he said. "It now costs approximately $15,000 to incarcerate a criminal and rehabilitate him," Mazzotta said. "The public wouldn't mind this extreme burden of expense, but they do mind, and I mind, that alleged criminals will attack, lie, cheat and provoke law enforcers during or after apprehension."

Board approves appointments

Hebron

HEBRON EVELYN CROSTON The Board of Selectmen has approved the names of three persons proposed for Community Health Services membership by the agency's Board of Directors. The three names submitted to the board by Nancy A. Zimmer, secretary, were Ann Perrin of Church St., Harvey Backmender of Bremen Rd., and Jean Cafazzo of Hope Valley Rd. The selectmen's action came at a recent board meeting. The board also accepted the resignation of Carol Pelletier of Buck Rd. as a member of the Evaluation Committee of the Columbia-Hebron-Andover Community Health Services. A letter from Congressman William Colter assured the board no action is pending to compel towns to report Social Security withholding on a monthly basis. Colter said no change can be made by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare without 18 months notice. He said he believes before any change is proposed, the problems it would impose on towns will deter the federal agency from acting. Tough policy The selectmen voted approval to a new policy of the Bicentennial Commission to remove persons from the commission if they miss three consecutive meetings without justification. The selectmen declined to comment on the creation by the Regional Board of Education of a "principal designate." It would provide a year's on-the-job training for J. Colin Pushee's successor as principal of Rham High School. Pushee's resignation is to take effect June 30, 1977. First Selectman Aaron Reid said he did not know enough about the situation. He did question the wisdom of duplicating administrative services. Sihun objects John Sihun, a local resident attending the board meeting and whose wife is a member of the Regional Board of Education, said he appreciates the fact that Pushee has given the district 18 months notice to find a replacement. But he does not feel the school board should "carry an understudy for that period." Sihun said, "a few months to cover hand-over responsibilities is in order. Any longer period of time is out of line." "We have seen the cost of the administrative side of education continues to increase, while so many pointers indicate that the quality of today's education, countryside, is going down," he said. "In these days of increasing economic stress, it is unbelievable that any idea to add to the cost of administration is entertained." Mrs. Sihun supported creation of the new position at a special board meeting last week. Sihun said he plans to attend the Regional Board meeting on Jan. 19 to state his views. PZC meeting The Planning and Zoning Commission will meet tonight at 8 p.m. in the Town Office Building. Agenda items include many matters which have been before the commission before. These items include the abandoned houses in the Amston Lake area which were referred to the zoning agency, year-round occupancy of a house on Ames Rd., Sorghum Mill Farms proposed subdivision on Millstream Rd., Northam Hill on Old Colchester and Reidy Hill Roads, Paul Leslie Costes Re-subdivision and Kariwood Rd. in Glodhill Acres. Also under old business, a report from PZC chairman Salvatore Mastandrea concerning amendments in the Wetlands Regulations.

Mayor moves mower merger

Vernon

BARBARA RICHMOND Herald Reporter A proposal to merge the maintenance of school grounds and athletic fields with the town maintenance program was approved by the Board of Education Monday night. Mayor Thomas Benoit proposed the operation be under a proposed new Park Department to be formed on approval of the Town Council. Mayor Benoit said when schools are in session the athletic fields are kept mowed but during the summer vacation they are let go. Under the new plan everything will be coordinated and done on schedule. The intent is to have one continuous operation year-round. The gang mowers used by the school department will be transferred to the Park Department. School custodians will still mow the inner perimeters of the school grounds. G. G. May, supervisor of maintenance for the school system, approved the move. Benoit said the new Park Department superintendent will be Erhardt "Cookie" Koschik. He will have five full-time and some part-time persons working with him. William Houle, chairman of the school board, asked if the program would be on a trial basis for one year. Benoit said he couldn't agree to that because it will take about a year to get the program going. He did agree to a two-year trial period. Many things will have to be worked out such as purchase and repair of equipment. Judges named Vernon Jaycees named three judges for choosing the recipient of the Jaycee Distinguished Service Award to be presented Jan. 21. Named were Thomas Dooley, mayor pro tem; Donald Caldwell, states attorney for Tolland County; and Martin B. Burke, state representative and town attorney. The award is presented each year to a young man between the ages of 21 and 35 who has served to the community. The dinner and award ceremony will be at the Country Squire Restaurant, Rt. 83, Ellington.

First aid program to start Jan. 21

A training program in advanced first aid and emergency care sponsored by the Manchester Red Cross will begin Jan. 21. The sessions will be weekly from 7 to 10 p.m. for a total of 40 hours. Harry Berberich, Red Cross instructor, will conduct the classes which will be at the local Red Cross office at 243 E. Center St. This newly developed course is designed for use by persons who are responsible for giving emergency care to the sick and injured—policemen, firemen, ambulance attendants, ski patrol members and other special interest groups. The program consists of lectures, discussions, demonstrations and skill practice. Any persons interested in participating in this program may register by contacting the Manchester Red Cross at 643-5111. Registration is limited. There is no charge except for the purchase of a textbook. WANT ADS cover your needs THERE'S A BUMPER CROP OF VALUES IN THE WANT ADS CALL 643-2711

Potterton opposes auto taxing plan

Bolton DONNA HOLLAND Elaine Potterton, tax collector, recently voiced her opposition to proposed legislation that would have motor vehicle taxes collected by the Motor Vehicle Department. The MVD in turn would charge towns an unknown dollar amount per collection. The taxes are now collected by the tax collector. Mrs. Potterton said she has two major concerns. First, the town will lose control of its money. It will lose a source of investment money. The proposed legislation would have the Motor Vehicle Department collect taxes at the time of vehicle re-registration. Mrs. Potterton said in July of the total $147,555.65 to be collected she collected $133,774.29. Second, the amount of motor vehicle money she is unable to collect is less than the amount the Motor Vehicle Department would charge to collect the taxes. She said the idea behind the proposed legislation is that when people renew their vehicle registration they could pay their taxes. However, she said the only motor vehicle taxes she is unable to collect are from people who move out of state. If she can't collect

Area residents win lottery

Nine area residents were winners of $500 in the Connecticut Lottery's "Holiday Bonus Bucks" drawing Jan. 8 in Meriden. They are J. Schaschi of 119 Bryan Dr., E.H. Falcutta of 81 George Dr., Vernon, Florence Carlton of 30 Meyer Rd., South Windsor, Alice C. Lumberger of Maple St., Ellington, Josie Coleman they could pay their taxes. However, she said the only motor vehicle taxes she is unable to collect are from people who move out of state. If she can't collect

Mayor asks seniors to tell their needs

Vernon

Speaking to a meeting of the area chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP), Mayor Thomas Benoit, last week, called on them to make known their needs. He said, "Never since the depression of the 20s and 30s has the senior citizen been in such a turmoil."

He said there are many who may feel they never had it so good, but for the average person on a fixed income, seeing prices rise on gas, water, food, medical coverage and other necessities, is not an easy thing.

Benoit told the senior citizens he feels the federal, state, and local governments have a duty to help all senior citizens wherever possible. Mayor Benoit said he is the first to admit he does not have all of the solutions to the problems, but he encouraged the elderly persons to come to him or the council meetings to tell of their needs or give their suggestions on how things can be improved.

He told them they are entitled to relaxation and that the town and his office is in a position to offer services to them.

Mayor Benoit outlined the needs of retired persons noting those in the recreation area such as trips, cards, sports, bowling, fishing, golf, and such.

He also encouraged them to find an outlet in which to share their knowledge with others, especially younger people.

He told them they are entitled to relaxation and that the town and his office is in a position to offer services to them.

Benoit stays silent on price for Thrifty's

Vernon

Mayor Thomas Benoit has been authorized to negotiate a six- to eight-month option with the owners of the Thrifty Building located on Rt. 83, but until negotiations are completed prices have to be kept secret.

Mayor Benoit said he will be happy to reveal everything after he has the option. Then there will be a public meeting to discuss the merits of the building's use.

The building, once an outlet for home building supplies, has been closed for more than a year. Benoit proposes the building be used for an all-purpose safety center for the town.

This would include relocating the police station there and also using it for fire safety facilities.

"My job as mayor is to provide the best facilities possible for this town," Benoit said.

He said a referendum turned down a firehouse addition and other fire safety needs and the police station has been under-sized for years.

"I'm trying to put together the tax dollars and spread them out as best I can," the mayor said.

Referring to the fact the voters turned down the referendum question and the fact that there has been some negative reaction to the new proposal, Mayor Benoit said, "It seems you're damned if you do and damned if you don't. It's a concept that could save the town money...it might kill three birds with one stone."

Despite repairs, roofs still leak

Hebron

EVELYN CROSTON
228-9561

After spending $29,000 to correct the leaky roofs at Hebron Elementary School, the roofs still leak.

The Board of Education was told at its meeting last week both the rebuilt roof and the old roof at the school is leaking.

Principal Paul A. White said there are "many leaks."

White said the contractor and architect have been called about the problem.

Two roofs, the one over the intermediate wing and the one over the old wing were rebuilt last summer. Contractor for the job was Paul D. Puhlick of Lebanon. He was awarded the job by the board from a field of 10 bidders. His bid was for $27,350.

The architectural firm of Chandler, Palmer and King of Norwich did the architectural work for the project.

At a town meeting last June, voters approved a $28,000 appropriation to be taken from Revenue Sharing Funds designated for the Town Office Building addition reserve for the roof project.

The work on the roofs was completed this past summer.

The administration has been notified by Carl D. Paternostro, unit head of the state's School Building Unit of approval of the final requisition for the grant of the project.

Actual cost of the roof project was $29,403.78 and the grant totals $14,701.89. Receipt of the grant is expected in about two weeks.

Lunch game

The board was informed Marjorie Porter, cafeteria manager, is planning to conduct a promotion during March to stimulate interest in the school's lunch program.

During March each child purchasing a hot lunch will receive a slip. The child will be asked to guess the number of hot lunches which will be served during that month.

Winner of the contest will receive a giant stuffed bear which has been donated.

Appointments

Board Chairman David Allbee appointed members to serve on various committees.

Serving on the personnel policy committee (negotiations) are Caroline Murphy, Patricia Mulligan and Charles Barrasso.

Mrs. Mulligan will also serve on the insurance committee, and be the board's representative to the Bicentennial Commission and to the Connecticut Association of Boards of Education (CABE).

Barrasso and Joseph Pelletier were appointed to the maintenance committee. Pelletier will also serve on the transportation committee.

Barrasso and Robert Nickles were appointed to the central office committee.

Nancy Foote will serve on the temporary deregionalization committee, a position she was elected to by the board last year.

Serving on both the Health Committee and representative to the Capitol Region Education Council (CREC) is Barbara Stanchfield. Mrs. Murphy will be the board's representative to the Recreation Commission.

Louise Bourret was appointed to serve on the board policy committee, budget review committee and to the Area Special Education Association.

Ahearn reports

In a letter to the board, State Rep. Aloysius Ahearn said he will introduce a bill to the February session of the legislature that would require a plurality of voters in the district for a vote on dissolution as long as 15 per cent voted.

At the present each town must vote affirmatively.

The district includes three towns, Andover, Hebron, and Marlborough.

In the same letter, Ahearn told the board that by law the money received from the lottery is to be used "for educational purposes," although it goes to the town's general fund.

The intent of the law, wrote Ahearn, is it be used by the school system as extra funds in this fiscal year.

Ahearn said that unless the selectmen can think of "educational purposes" other than schools, he would expect the money would be turned over to the school board to be used as they determine.

The town should receive $17,000 plus in two payments, one this month and one in June.

The amount is figured at $12.50 per pupil.

School Supt. David Cattanch said ways the money could be used would be for programs which were cut from the budget, to cover anticipated deficits, for audio visual material and library books to name a few areas.
