BRIDGEPORT — A grand jury report says the Bridgeport jail area obtained an air pollution permit through fraud, but Superior Court Judge Robert J. New U.S.-Soviet arms reduction possible

BRUSSELS, Belgium (UPI) — The United States and the Soviet Union have unexpectedly begun consideration of a new formula under which the strategic arms ceiling set by President Ford and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev at Vladivostok in 1974 could be reduced by about 10 percent, a senior U.S. official disclosed today.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, apparently alluding to this development, told newsmen on leaving Moscow to brief NATO foreign ministers in Brussels that Brezhnev had given him "constructive" and "significant" new ideas. The senior official, speaking to newsmen aboard the Kissinger jetliner during the flight to NATO headquarters, declined to explain the specific details; but he claimed Kissinger's Moscow arms talks had achieved the biggest single progress of any Soviet-American negotiating session in Moscow. The superpowers are trying to reach a long-term agreement to limit their strategic arsenals. The Soviet Union currently possesses about 2,500 strategic missiles and bombers, while the United States has about 2,100. Under the new proposal the Soviet Union presumably would have to reduce its strategic arsenal by 400 missiles and bombers while the United States could remain at its present capacity. The official said the United States originally proposed a formula involving restrictions on the Soviet Backfire Bomber which could carry with it reductions of several hundreds of strategic weapons allowed the two superpowers. At Vladivostok, Ford and Brezhnev agreed Russia and the United States should place a

State hit with cold snap

The cold spell forecast Thursday by the weatherman hit Connecticut during Thursday night with a drop in temperature to frigid below zero degrees accompanied by gusting north-northwest winds. The cold, today, however, did not break the record for the coldest Jan. 23 in Connecticut. The National Weather Service said a temperature of 23 below zero was recorded on the date in 1961, during a seven-day sub-zero cold snap.

The outdoor time and temperature sign above the Savings Bank of Manchester on Main St. registered eight degrees below zero as of 6 a.m. today. A low of 11 degrees below zero was reported elsewhere in Manchester and in Bolton. Gusting winds plunged the frigid air down to a windchill factor of minus 50 in some areas. The winter's coldest temperatures froze many autos and stalled others, even after motorists were able to start out for work. One auto was seen stranded this morning at the corner of Oak and Spruce Sts. About 10 vehicles were abandoned on Interstate 86 and Interstate 84. Local service garages were swamped with calls with one garage reporting a three-hour waiting list as of 9:30 this morning. Garage sweepboard operators reported getting one call right after another. Although many schools in the state were closed because of frozen bus motors, those in the area began to schedule, or in some cases, an hour late. Fuel dealers contacted said so far they had received no emergency calls. They service their customers on an automatic basis. However, one dealer said the people most likely to run out of oil were the ones who do not pay their oil bills and go from one dealer to another trying to get deliveries. Fires reported Thursday include a chimney fire from a fire in a fireplace at 7:54 p.m. in the North End. From the weather bureau in Windsor Locks comes this forecast: Fair and cold tonight, lows around zero. Becoming cloudy with moderate temperatures Saturday, highs in the 20s. Anyone for the odds days when there were no car engine problems, when all the horns in the barn needed to start was "giddap?" Or all that was needed to keep the house warm was another log on the fire, if the wood had been cut and seasoned?

Christians and Moslems observing cease-fire

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Christian and Moslem gunmen today held a shaky Syrian-backed cease-fire, despite occasional exchanges of rocket and machinegun fire. In Beirut, a skirmish during the looting of a supermarket killed six persons.

The state radio said all parties were "generally abiding by the cease-fire," although most political sweepboard operators reported getting one call right after another. Although many schools in the state were closed because of frozen bus motors, those in the area began to units of the Palestine Armed Struggle Command in the downtown police force, fought with the looters. Six persons died and 13 were wounded, police sources said. Photographers at the scene had their films confiscated.

Moslem and Palestinian forces controlled at least two-thirds of the country when the cease-fire went into effect at 8 p.m. Thursday. The major test of today's cease-fire was the agreement by rival fac-

Jury exonerates Moeller in Shelton arson case

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Millionaire Charles D. Moeller was back on his Ohio farm today as the jury which exonerated him in the $11 million firebombing of Shelton's Sponge Rubber Products Co. turned its attention to the five remaining defendants.

The tobacco-chewing, 48-year-old father of seven, was found innocent on all four arson-related charges shortly after 4:30 p.m. Thursday in U.S. District Court. It was the fourth verdict handed down in a week by the eight-man, four-woman jury. The remaining defendants and their lawyers seemed cheered by the acquittal. Two other defendants were convicted Monday.

Self-styled psychic David N. Bubar, 47, of Memphis, a consultant to Moeller, and Dennis C. Tiche, 29, a chemist from Boyers, Pa., were found guilty on all four counts stemming from the March 1, 1975, blaze. Both are being held in state jails, pending sentencing dates and transfers to federal prisons. Each faces a maximum of 30 years and $40,000 in fines. The tedious wait for verdicts, which begins daily at 10 a.m. in a long corridor outside the courtroom, has been eased by efforts at humor. Illustrated Thursday when one lawyer posed for a photograph as if he were a criminal with an identification number. "You look like a bookie I represented once," said another lawyer. Others read newspapers, tossed a rubber ball to each other, and looked at a courthouse janitor's collection of old-time picture postcards of movie stars such as Clark Gable and Edward G. Robinson.

Mississippi caucuses Deep South vote test

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen and Sargent Shriver took their turn seeking delegate votes in Mississippi today on the eve of precinct caucuses that will provide the first Deep South political test for five Democratic presidential aspirants.

Bentsen, making his fifth visit to the state in recent months, planned stops in Jackson and six other cities during the daylong campaign tour. Shriver was winding up a three-day swing with an appearance in Gulfport. Many political observers view the state as a test of strength between Alabama Gov. George Wallace and former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter.

The precinct caucuses will be the first step in choosing Mississippi's 24 delegates to the national Democratic convention. The actual naming of delegates to the national convention will occur at district-level caucuses and the state convention next month. Carter has made several recent trips to the state and Wallace stopped off in three Mississippi cities during a one-day campaign visit last week. The other active campaigner in this Dixie stronghold was former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris, who made a swing through the state earlier this week. Carter led the field in Iowa's precinct caucuses this week and he has a strong organization and wide backing in Mississippi. Wallace swept the state as a third party candidate in 1968 and still has broad support.

CCSC fiscal review asked

HARTFORD (UPI) — The chief state's attorney has been asked to determine if alleged fiscal improprieties at Central Connecticut State College warrant prosecution, UPI has learned. The board of trustees of the state college system has referred the case to Chief State's Attorney Joseph Gormley, according to board member Patricia Geen. The board specifically asked Gormley if a finding by state auditors that the payroll records of employees at the student center had been tampered with warranted criminal action. "There was an allegation that the hours of work put in at the student center was not the true amount of hours," she said. "There was an allegation that the hours were changed."

"Some students were hired at a higher rate of pay than authorized by the personnel procedures," she said. "In order to have that higher rate of pay and not have it show up, they upped the number of hours actually worked." Miss Geen of Reading, chairman of the ad hoc trustee committee that looked into the student center charge, said the workers were not the ones being probed. She refused to elaborate further. The auditors, in their report of the financial records of the New Britain school for portions of 1973 and 1974, pinpointed 15 fiscal practices they challenged. "I can't say anything at this time," she said about what action the board could take itself. "I want to wait for the state's attorney to reply."

"We don't know whether the state's attorney will take action," she said, "we referred it to him for that purpose." She said if Gormley found insufficient grounds to warrant prosecution the matter would revert to the board which could pursue it administratively. "I can't say anything at this time," she said about what action the board could take itself. "I want to wait for the state's attorney to reply."

Auditor Leo Donohue, at the time he issued his report in December, said the financial procedures at the school were not being followed. "There is a pattern here of cavalier attitude toward fiscal administration. It is not an attitude which inspires confidence," he said. "Thursday night, he had no comment on the board action."

Opinion

Reagan's $90 billion political lesson

A month before the nation's first presidential primary in New Hampshire, Ronald Reagan has collided with the first law of politics:

Never depart from generalities. Above all, never make concrete proposals which, although they may appear reasonable and straightforward enough on the surface, require the kind of backing and filling Reagan has had to go through in defending his suggestion that some of the functions that the federal government has assumed over the years be returned to the individual states.

In 1972, George McGovern was never able to shuck the image of irresponsibility and carelessness he created with his scheme to send every American a check for $1,000, even after he became his party's nominee and no longer had to contend with rival Democrats as well as the opposition.

It remains to be seen whether Reagan can overcome the similar handicap he has imposed upon himself so early in this election year. The media, gleefully abetted by the supporters of President Ford, has latched onto Reagan's "90-billion plan" like a mutt that has sunk its teeth into a postman's ankle.

By contrast, nobody knows what any of the dozen or so announced Democratic candidates stands for or what course they would chart for the Republic as it begins its third century. Thus no one is yapping at their heels demanding explanations and justifications.

The voters, whether they admit it to themselves or not, are powerfully influenced by first impressions, and the impression left by Reagan in New Hampshire is that his 90-billion idea was broached with no more thought to its practicality or consequences than McGovern gave his $1,000 one.

Whether it was or not, Reagan since then has been forced to devote most of his energies to not altogether convincing elaboration of his proposal. The transfer of certain federal responsibilities to the states, chiefly those involving welfare, would be a gradual, not a sudden process, he says. Ultimately, of course, it would be subject to the will and decision of the people as expressed through their representatives in Congress.

This is good. Men who offer themselves as leaders of the nation should not be allowed to get away with vague generalities.

Unfortunately, American politics doesn't work that way. For all their complaining about Twiggleded and Tweedledee, voters are always uneasy about any candidate who threatens to change the status quo too profoundly, however unsatisfactory that status quo may be, or who asks them to peer too deeply into the unknown future.

Know your rock

Those lucky people who found themselves the proud owners of a pet rock on Christmas morning may want to know more about the lovable things that have won their hearts with such tricks as rolling down a hill or playing dead.

Because we are as slappy as anybody else from the usual run of the news, we take this opportunity to pass along the announcement that geologists with the National Water Well Association will prepare a detailed genealogy for any pet rock sent to them.

Some pet rocks have been estimated to be more than two billions years old, says Dr. Jay Lehr, executive director of the association. "Many began as a molten mass hardening deep below the earth's surface. Millions of years later they were subjected to the forces of impact between colliding continents, contorted and compressed, and finally thrust thousands of feet above sea level.

"Tormented by millions of years of exposure to wind, rain, snow and heat, many of our poor little friends were taken from their original homes and carried away by massive glaciers. Finally, resting along a stream or on a beach or on the surface of a desert, these rocks were collected and sold to warm, friendly people who have given them a loving environment in which to spend the remaining millennia of their existence."

So, pet rock owners, send your rock, along with $1 for return postage and handling, to the Geological Division, National Water Well Association, 500 West Wilson Bridge Road, Worthington, Ohio 43085.

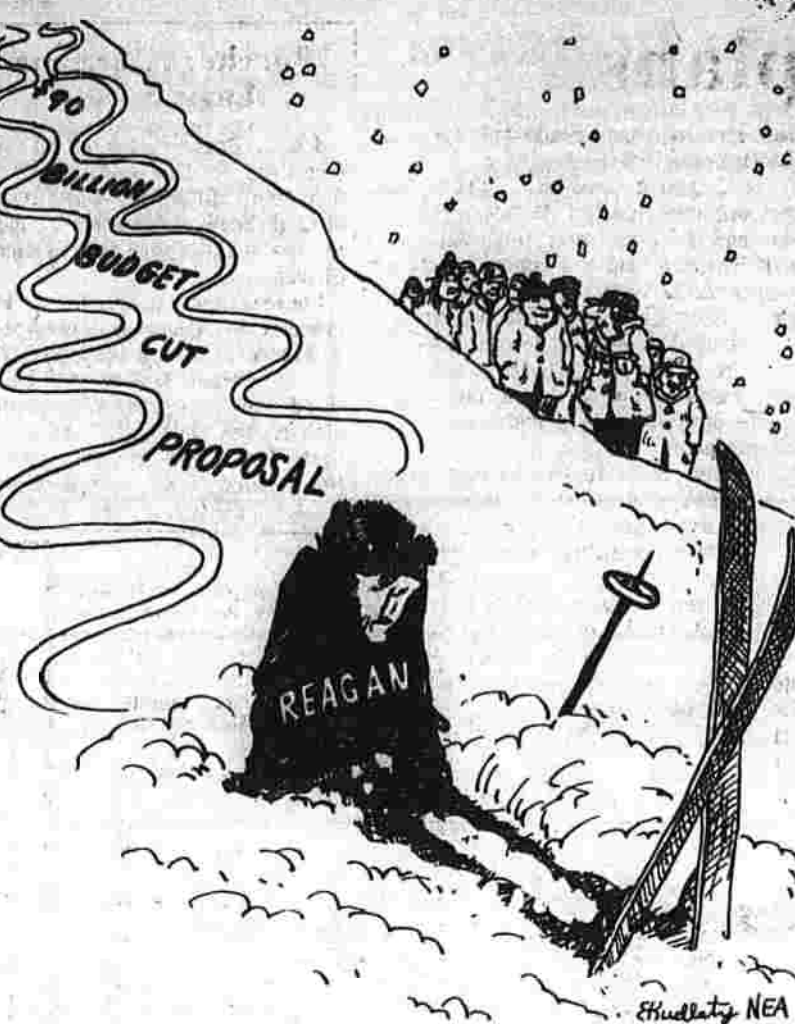

Besides a glowing history of your pet rock, the NWWA will send you back a vial of "precious underground water, similar to that which for millions of years caressed and gave life-giving moisture to your pet before he ever saw the light of day."

Instructions for proper use will, of course, be included.

Fairfield's citizens point the way

WASHINGTON - Professional cop haters, turn the page. This is the story of how the Connecticut community of Fairfield expressed its appreciation - and yes, its compassion - for its working policemen.

In the early morning hours of last Dec. 19, Patrolman Norman Messing was driving past the Church of the Assumption School when he saw two men running towards the rear of the school yard. He pursued the men on foot and a fight ensued. Messing was stabbed twice in the back and one of the men fired a shot at his midsection.

Almost surely, that shot would have ended Messing's life. It did not, because Messing was wearing a bulletproof vest bought with his own money. The stab wounds were superficial, and Messing is now back on the job.

But a realtor named James E. O'Neil pondered the fact that the Fairfield police budget had no funds for outfitting the force's 106 cops with bulletproof vests. After pondering, he acted. On Christmas Day, O'Neil brought together three other citizens - Ansel Gladstein, Jack Shannon and Alfred Bowes - and they established the "Fairfield Cops Are Tops Fund" to raise $7,500 via private contributions to buy vests for the entire force.

The four-man committee, with First Selectman John Sullivan as honorary chairman, announced that 100 per cent of all monies collected would go into the fund. Expenses of conducting the campaign would be borne by O'Neil, Gladstein, Shannon and Bowes. The appeal was publicized in newspaper advertisements, news stories in the Fairfield Citizens-News and the Bridgeport Post-Telegram, on radio and TV, and through telephone solicitations. Patrolmen's wives raised $177.49 at a cake sale outside a local supermarket. Each contributor got a button proclaiming "Fairfield Cops Are Tops."

Fairfield, a town of 58,000 on Long Island Sound, didn't drag its feet. By Jan. 15 the committee had pledged that it put the fund over the $7,500 goal, and $5,000 was already in the bank. Jim O'Neil, an old friend from the days when he lived across from each other in Wellesey, Mass., naturally is a happy man. "We knew we'd raise the money," he said on the phone the other day, "but we underestimated the response of the people of Fairfield. I'm proud of my town."

He should be. Meanwhile, he hopes Fairfield will set an example for other communities, "so that every policeman in the country is provided with a bulletproof vest. In this age of violence, such a vest could be more important to a cop than his gun. Maybe we here in Fairfield can be the catalyst that prompts citizens elsewhere to stage similar cam-

We can't fight what we don't see

RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON - To a marked degree, it was a failure of British and French military intelligence that enabled Hitler to make his rapid conquest of France in World War II.

It was a failure of intelligence which made Pearl Harbor possible, and which led in some considerable measure to the misconceptions resulting in our unsuccessful effort in South Vietnam.

It was a failure of intelligence also which resulted in the much heavier than expected early Israeli losses in the last round with Egypt. Today, we are not well informed on the expansion of Peking or Hanoi backed underground groups in Thailand, Malaysia and the Philippines which could endanger the existence of those lands. We are not certain by any means of North Korea's scenario for an invasion of the south, or whether such an invasion is planned for the near future.

Had Soviet and Cuban plans for Angola been known early enough in the game, this country might have been able to take political and economic action at a strategic moment to prevent the introduction of outsiders. Once commitments have become as deep as today in Angola, peaceful resolution becomes difficult indeed.

If the Russians knew the Western order of battle in Europe and we don't know the Soviet dispositions and strengths in the border areas and the details which normally are prelude to attacks, the USSR can arrange easily to be in a position to roll over the NATO forces in the first hours of a Red attack. It is all very well to talk about defending ourselves from a Russian attack after Moscow launches its missiles or sends its troops across strategic borders. But it is certain that unless we have more warning than we can acquire from satellites and other electronic means, we shall be ill prepared at the crucial moment and suffer many more civilian and military casualties than if we had better intelligence. No nation can afford to be on ready alert in full force year after year without going broke emotionally and economically.

All this is a prelude to saying that if we are to avoid war, or successfully defend ourselves if and when war comes, we must know in detail what potential attackers are planning. Our life and mine, and the lives of untold millions may depend on our having such adequate intelligence. It may make the difference between war and peace.

We are not here talking of dirty tricks or assassinations of foreign leaders or other special operations which have no place in spying. We are talking solely of the gathering of information on the possible actions and capabilities of foreign aggressive powers and foreign terrorist organizations, actions which could endanger the U.S. or its allies in the free world.

Russia and its satellites do not announce their planning or buildings in the daily press, and if we allow our spy organizations to be destroyed or emasculated it is not only a clutch of CIA agents who will be endangered. Spy satellites, other electronic means and document analysis are not enough.

In the final analysis there is no substitute for skilled men and women operatives. NOR Mala Hari types, but rather researchers who slowly build contacts in one country and another to contribute missing links in our knowledge. Because all pervasive police systems in Communist and other totalitarian nations, a good deal of the agent information must be picked up in third countries.

THOUGHT FOR DAY

Week of Prayer for Christian Unity

What kind of unity do we seek? Our search for unity finds expression in many forms - in the "charismatic movement," as Christians, inspired by the Holy Spirit gather together across denominational lines in witness and prayer... in churches meeting in dialogues and consultations, attaining some unions or re-unions, issuing joint statements of faith... and of course working together through councils and conferences of churches (such as MACC and CWU).

This year will see great ecumenical participation in the 1st Eucharistic Congress of the Catholic Church. To most Christians, myself included, the ultimate unity will come when we can all gather under the Lord's Table and share together the Bread of Life. "Unity in diversity" has been the cry of the ecumenical movement. At the same time we must be careful, as Father Avery Dulles warns, not to confuse "ecumenical" with "indifference" - or a watering down of one's beliefs for the sake of promoting unity. A proper balance must be maintained. It has been said that the ecumenical movement gets stuck when unity is seen and hoped for as no more than rearrangement of human institutions. It can move again when we Christians open ourselves to the direction of the Holy Spirit.

PZC hears project plans

South Windsor

JUDY KUEHNEL The Planning and Zoning Commission received revised plans for a Torrington developer for a subdivision of 38 acres north of Norton Lane, T and M Building Co., who first went before PZC in 1963, presented the plans before a crowd of persons still apprehensive about drainage in the area. The 78-home subdivision would be above Avery Heights, an area with more than its share of drainage problems. To solve drainage problems, the developer has worked with a Vernon hydrological firm. Engineer Charles Pelletier has outlined plans for 15 foot high dam and a storm water retention pond. Pelletier said the storm provisions would be built before the 78 homes. Plans call for 26 of the 68 acres to be used as open space and devoted to the town. According to PZC regulations, lot sizes may be reduced if open space is provided for in the proposal.

Also in the revised proposal were plans to make Norton Lane extension a curved rather than straight road. A private recreation area includes a tennis court and basketball court in the new plans, as well as the pool. PZC chairman said if the subdivision was approved it would be built in stages, enabling the commission to have close control.

Norway is ready for ski touring

Norway — "where skiing began" — is now preparing for another great winter sports season, which opened at Christmas and lasts until after Easter. The snow falls earlier in Norway than anywhere else in Europe. Also, it lasts longer and stays more powdery white. This is a great bonus for foreign skiers, who can't waste time just waiting for good snow conditions.
"Our snow and your money last longer here," said a Norwegian ski instructor to an American visitor last winter — and he will be right again. Norwegian ski lifts, ski schools and instructors still charge less than in most other countries.
Norway's most popular ski resorts are situated in the mountain ranges along the Bergen and Dovre Railroads, also in the district of Telemark, where snow conditions are ideal, and the sunshine is really warm. Norway is certainly more solar than polar!
Although alpine skiing is quite popular, it is Nordic ski touring which is everyman's sport in Norway. Most Norwegians prefer to start their ski tour right outside the hotel, instead of using a ski lift. And ski touring is certainly a family affair in Norway, where children are "born with skis on." Even toddlers come along, too, strapped safely inside a small "pulk," trailing behind mom or dad.
("Pulk" is a Lapp word, used to describe the peculiar type of sled which is pulled by a reindeer.)
Information on Norway including a new ski guide is available from Norwegian National Tourist Office, 75 Rockefeller Plaza, New York, N.Y. 10019 or 3600 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles, Calif. 90010.

Take your children with you to Norway. They'll like it and you'll enjoy this view from Pefor near the Dovre Railroad. (Norwegian National Tourist Office).

Worldwide Bicentennial program

What are the chances of finding New England clam chowder on a Paris menu or of being served Shooftie Pie in a Nairobi restaurant? It is unusual for a Hong Kong chef to be preparing Jambalaya or for a German maitre d' to be offering a dinner guest a Mint Julep?
This year, all of these culinary feats — and more — will be possible. Because of the bicentennial of the Bicentennial, Hilton International has developed an ambitious project which will introduce the traditional cuisine of seven regions of the United States to the 57 cities in 40 countries around the world where the company operates hotels.
All 64 Hilton International hotels will participate in the "Bicentennial Festival of American Culinary Heritage," which will feature an extensive calendar of worldwide activities throughout the Bicentennial year.
Bicentennial parties, food festivals, special traditional menus, and Washington's Birthday, July Fourth, and Thanksgiving celebrations are just some of the exciting events being planned at Hilton International hotels from Hong Kong to London and from Bogota to Nairobi.
The rich culinary heritage of the United States is filled with unique and interesting dishes and traditions, many of which are unknown even within the country. Hilton International's "Bicentennial Festival of American Culinary Heritage" is designed to bring this important element of America's past to the four corners of the globe.
The seven regions of the United States whose culinary heritages are featured in the program are New England, Philadelphia and the Pennsylvania Dutch country, Virginia, Louisiana and New Orleans, the Great West, California and San Francisco, and the Gay Nineties era in New York.
These regions were selected because they typify the variety, history, and unique quality of traditional American cuisine. In-depth studies of each region were conducted, and a complete culinary heritage of each area was prepared in book form.
The individual culinary heritages describe in detail the principal foods of each area, the development of the region's culinary tradition, a description of cooking techniques unique to the area, unusual cooking utensils, and amusing stories and anecdotes of the region. Also included are illustrations of the local communities, creating a better understanding worldwide of an important part of the history of the United States.
Both sides say substantial progress has been made and they are optimistic negotiations can be concluded much earlier than in past years.
At the initial meeting agreement was reached by one representative of the Board of Selectmen would be invited as an observer to the process and Kevin Cavanaugh, chairman was chosen.
Cavanaugh was cautioned by Atty. Harold Garrity against participation in

TAC asks town to give it land

Vernon
The Tolland County Agricultural Center just a year ago asked the Town Council of the board of trustees of the TAC, asked for a meeting with Mayor Thomas Benoit and any other interested town officials.
The land is adjacent to the center. TAC officials contend that parcel was erroneously omitted when the land was deeded in 1957.
The council, under former Mayor Frank Coy, decided it would not convey the land until a thorough study of its value was made and the matter was apparently dropped.
The property where the TAC facilities now stand was originally town farm land. It was bought by TAC for $10,000 in 1957.
TAC officials have a copy of the original resolution presented at the 1957 town meeting. They claim it said all of the land south of Rt. 30 and several parcels were involved.
One portion was deeded to the state for expansion of the center ever be dissolved, the land would go for educational purposes.
Atty. Abbot Schwedel, then town attorney, said it was his opinion the land belongs to the town.
Atty. Robert Kaban for TAC contends when the original deed was written, another deed was overlooked and that it should have been included.
TAC officials want to meet with town officials to discuss the matter further before it is placed on the Town Council agenda for a vote.

Saints all set for East, Indians, Cheney home

By LEN AUSTER
When are Saints most dangerous? In regard to basketball after they've had their halo disturbed.

St. Thomas Aquinas' Saints were upended by St. Paul Tuesday and they'll be fighting mad as the unbeaten East Catholic Eagles invade their gym in New Britain tonight for an HCC encounter.

Manchester High and Cheney Tech, meanwhile, will be on friendly hardwood against opponents which they've had success with previously. The Indians, 9-2 over-all but 0-1 in the CCLL, host league for Windham High at Clarke Arena at 8:15. Cheney will be looking for its second CCK victory at home at 8:15 against Rocky Hill, the only conference adversary it holds a decision over. Five area and two girls' contests are also on the slate. On the distaff side, 6-3 East Catholic is at Aquinas and 3-10 Manchester ventures to Williamantic to oppose Windham.

In area contests, 3-3, 5-8 Rockville High enters 4-2, 8-5 Bloomfield and 5-1, 6-4 South Windsor is at 1-5, 2-10 Glastonbury in CVC matchups. NCCC leader 7-0, 10-4 Ellington High hosts 4-3, 6-6 Suffield. Charter Oak Conference action finds 6-4, 6-6 Rham High hosting 10-0, 12-4 Portland, 4-5, 5-6 Bolton High visits Vinal Tech in Middletown and 8-2, 10-2 Coventry High entertains 4-5, 5-6 East Hampton. The Patriots qualified for the State Tournament Tuesday with an 82-42 duke over Rham.

"I can imagine what kind of practice sessions Bill (Aquinas Coach Bill Reagan) has put them through," commented East Coach Stan Ogrodnik Wednesday. "Aquinas is now like a wounded animal and will be even more dangerous than before. They'll be fighting for their lives."

The Saints, 3-3 in the HCC and 6-6 over-all, are in contention for the third and fourth spots with 3-2 Northwest Catholic and 4-4 St. Paul for conference playoff spots.

Cheney has lost five straight and is 1-8 in CVC play, 3-8 over-all. The Beavers' lone triumph in the conference action finds 6-4, 6-6 Rham High hosting 10-0, 12-4 Portland, 4-5, 5-6 Bolton High visits Vinal Tech in Middletown and 8-2, 10-2 Coventry High entertains 4-5, 5-6 East Hampton. The Patriots qualified for the State Tournament Tuesday with an 82-42 duke over Rham.

It wouldn't be surprising if the Silk Towers take all their shots against the visiting Whittampts from 15-feet or less. Whittampts sports a 4-5 CCLL mark and aggregate ledger of 4-7. In the first meeting, Manchester took a 60-50 date in Williamantic. Six-foot-four senior Bruce Ballard resumed practice Wednesday but isn't expected to dress tonight.

Robinson blocks set Bullets' mark

NEW YORK (UPI) — Len Robinson admits he doesn't expect to achieve too many National Basketball Association honors, but he has rewritten a part in the Washington Bullets' record book.

Robinson blocked a team record eight shots and scored 14 points Thursday night as Washington snapped a two-game losing streak with a 109-86 victory over the New Orleans Jazz.

"I don't worry about scoring," said Robinson, "and I'm not going to win any titles or go to an All-Star game. But I can still help the Bullets win."

Robinson, making his third career start in place of the injured Elvin Hayes, teamed with Wes Unseld to shut down New Orleans' inside game. Unseld blocked six shots and the Bullets finished with a team record 17 blocked shots.

"Our blocking had to take away some of their offense," said Robinson. "They depend a lot on (Maravich), Louie (Nelson) and Henry (Bibby) going to the basket. They couldn't do that tonight."

Paul Chamber and Dave Bing combined their scoring talents in the first half for Washington. Chamber finished with a team high 20 points while Bing scored eight in the second period as Washington outscored New Orleans 32-16 for a 49-37 lead.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Golden State routed Los Angeles 129-106 and

Tennis ups bonus purse

BOSTON (UPI) — The Grand Prix of Tennis will offer $1 million in bonus money in 1978 to the top finishers in its year-long series, the sponsoring Commercial Union Assurance Companies have announced.

According to the announcement made Thursday, Grand Prix points will be awarded in 48 tournaments — 21 in Europe, 13 in the United States and 14 elsewhere in the world.

Argentina's Guillermo Vilas has won $100,000 in each of the past two years for accumulating the most points.

The top eight finishers also qualify to compete in the Commercial Union Masters Tournament, held each December. Ilie Nastase of Romania defeated Sweden's Bjorn Borg in last year's final at Stockholm.

Looser at gate
BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — The Minnesota Twins lost $136,000 in 1975, less than half the loss predicted at the season's end by club President Calvin Griffith. Griffith had projected a loss of around $400,000 on home attendance of 737,000.

Griffith is one of the few baseball owners who also owns park concessions. Concessions revenue at Metropolitan Stadium increased and averaged $1.80 per person at crowds attending Twins and Minnesota Vikings games.

Bennet tops Illing girls

Jean Hennigan and Sharon Maher, left, of Bennet, battle hair-flying Sue Brown of Illing for rebound in yesterday's game won by Bennet, 38-30. Hennigan tallied 14 points, Maher 10 and Wendy Warren eight for the winners. Lisa Griffin paced the losers with 11 points. Maher pulled down 15 rebounds. Pat Sheldon, Lisa Tilden, Georgianne Ebersold and Lisa Tilden all played well for Bennet.

Zavarella cars on display

Tip Department: Don't miss Frank Maratta's annual Auto Show this weekend at the Hartford Armory. One of the many immaculate groomed and designed racing cars will be Ron Zavarella's Econoshaker, the nation's fastest econocar.

The local man topped national honors last year at Indianapolis in the National Hot Rod Association Class Division.

The creation has speed of better than 170 mph in competition. Zavarella also has a second car on display, the E.T. Shaker which has been clocked at 187 mph. Beautiful paint jobs on both cars are the work of Brian's Signs of Rockville. A light green carpet under the cars adds class to exhibit.

Connors best player today

One of the all-time tennis greats, Pancho Gonzales is one of the 'name' personalities at the Auto Show.

While Gonzales owns a go-cart, which won the national championship in 1974, and which is displayed, the Caesar's Palace head pro found time yesterday to talk tennis.

"Jimmy Connors is the No. 1 tennis player in the world," the former two-time U.S. singles champion said.

Tonight, Evert faces Mima Jausovec of Yugoslavia, Hunt plays Terry Holladay of La Jolla, Calif., and Barker meets Phil Chamber and Dave Bing combined their scoring talents in the first half for Washington. Chamber finished with a team high 20 points while Bing scored eight in the second period as Washington outscored New Orleans 32-16 for a 49-37 lead.

Tennis first, social second

FAIRFAX, Va. (UPI) — Chris Evert was talking about her tennis game and social life, in that order.

"Hopefully, close matches will make me tougher. The more I'm pushed, the better tennis I play," she said Thursday night after beating Betty Stove, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1, to advance to the quarterfinals of the $75,000 Virginia Slings at Washington tennis tournament.

Before leaving for her second dinner date in three nights with Jack Ford, the President's tennis partner, Evert was asked about her relationship with Ford.

"Well, we're friends. No romance," she said, then hid behind her racquet as he expected a load of questions about her first date with Ford.

She didn't get any. Evert, 21, from Port Lauderdale, Fla., jumped to a 3-0 lead in the third set and easily polished off the 30-year-old Stove, who predicted Evert would win the tournament's $15,000 first prize.

"She puts a lot of pressure on you. She never gives a point away. You have to win every point," said the Holland native.

In other matches, Lesley Hunt of Australia upset fourth-seeded Francoise Durr of France, 6-0, 6-4, and Sue Barker of Great Britain beat Mariana Simionescu of Romania, 6-0, 6-1.

He played the opening round at Cypress Point Thursday in the Crosby like he had never been away since winning the seven-brier two bogies for a 35-37 to share the lead with Mike Morley, a man who has won little and could use a card of 30-34 at Pebble make things easier the rest of the year.

"I played reasonably well," Nicklaus said. "My- is played by bad weather and soaked courses. The course this year are home to with fast greens and the weather has been summer-like.

Those long hot summers of laborious effort did not go in vain after all for pitchers Robin Roberts and Bob Lemon.

The two right-handers finally made it to the Hall of Fame Thursday when the Baseball Writers Association of America overvoted them by a 389-27 margin.

Roberts, who won 286 games and worked more than 4,000 innings in 19 years with the Philadelphia Phillies and two other clubs, and Lemon, a 207-game winner who pitched over 2,800 innings in 13 seasons for Cleveland, had been severely disappointed last year when they missed election by narrow margins. This time they had no trouble getting the 75 per cent of the vote.

With 291 votes needed, Roberts received 337 and Lemon got 336 in balloting by 389 members of the Baseball Writers Association of America.

No one else among the 32 names on the ballot was close. The late Gil Hodges, a slugging first baseman for the Brooklyn and Los Angeles Dodgers in the 1950s, finished third, 58 votes short. He was the only other player to get more than 200 votes.

Election for Roberts, 49, and Lemon, 54, was held in the Hall of Fame since its inception in 1938.

If hard work is the criteria for success, then Roberts and Lemon certainly paid their dues. Roberts won 20 or more games six consecutive years for the Phillies, 1955, and worked more than 300 innings each season.

Lemon, who didn't become a pitcher until he was 26, had seven 20-victory campaigns from 1948-56 and averaged more than 270 innings a season in that stretch.

There were cowboys galore in Steamboat Springs and Sacherek and his cohorts were all presented with and wore cowboy hats on their return to New York.

While in Steamboat, two storms dropped eight inches of snow on the slopes. Ninety-six passenger gondolas carried skiers to 2,200 feet to the peak. The Central Park trail measured 200 yards wide in some places.

The thin mountain air was a new experience for the Eastern group where 33 trails were maintained. The lift carried 12,700 skiers per hour. A crowd of 9,000 turned out on one day, Sacherek said.

The Silk Tower cut up old touches with Billy Kidd, a former Vermontor, now at Steamboat.

Simb, where President Ford skied, was one who Sacherek challenged and mastered Vail.

The gondola offered a spectacular view of the Rocky Mountains.

'Not sympathetic'
OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau said Thursday he is "not at all sympathetic" toward a request from the Quebec government that Ottawa contribute $200 million in federal taxes to help the province absorb the $600 million deficit for the 1978 Summer Olympic Games.

Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa said Wednesday he planned to ask the

Wins court battle

HARTFORD (UPI) — A Roman Catholic priest who coaches an all-black basketball team has won a preliminary court battle against tournament officials who allegedly discriminated against his inner-city players.

The Rev. Alphonse Labieniec of St. Michael's Parish got a judge Thursday to delay local Catholic Youth Organization post-season tournament playoffs, scheduled to start Saturday.

"We've traveled down every road and tried to follow every rule, and the only way we had left was to turn to the courts," the priest said.

Tournament officials said the St. Michael's team failed to meet a New England league provision limiting teams to two non-Catholics. But the priest said the rules are not available locally and charged officials with hating his players because of their color.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a respectable, married, God-fearing person. Something has been weighing heavily on my conscience for nearly 20 years, and I fear that you can help me to make things right with the Lord.

DEAR ABBY: I am a professional woman. I married five years ago and the marriage was going badly, so I adopted a child to hold the marriage together. That was a big mistake as I later learned.

DEAR ABBY: This has been bugging me for a long time, so I finally decided to write to you. Maybe I should tell you that I am a 13-year-old girl. Sometimes after dinner, our family talks over the events of the day. My mother will say to me, "Go out of the room for a minute. Your father and I want to talk about something."
