Board nervous on busing costs

By DOUG BEVINS
Herald Reporter

The Manchester Board of Education hasn't even adopted a 1976-1977 budget plan and school officials are already "nervous" about a proposal to hold the line of transportation costs by staggering public school hours.

School Supt. James Kennedy, who made the budget recommendation, said Tuesday night he has a "nervous hope" that rescheduling school hours will hold down busing costs.

School board members, reviewing Kennedy's entire budget recommendation, seem just as nervous. Some board members want to add more money to the transportation program request; a decision is expected next week.

Kennedy's $14,150,063 budget plan for 1976-1977 includes a request of $479,300, just $1,300 more than budgeted in 1975-1976, for transportation.

Kennedy said the 1976-1977 transportation program could be funded at the 1975-1976 level only by changing opening and closing times of many schools.

Kennedy and Asst. School Supt. Wilson Deakin explained that staggering of school hours would allow removal of up to five buses from the 58-vehicle contracted fleet now serving town schools.

But Kennedy and Deakin aren't yet sure that savings by reducing the fleet will be enough, because there might be increased costs for operation of the remaining 50 vehicles.

If extra labor and maintenance costs offset the savings, it wouldn't be worth disrupting the school schedule, Deakin said. He has estimated that school hours would have to be varied by as much as 45 minutes to accomplish the bus reduction.

Another factor making everyone nervous is that the $478,000 budgeted in 1975-1976 isn't going to be enough to pay for transportation this year, not to mention next year.

The transportation account is estimated to go $20,000 to $30,000 in the red in the current year.

Yet another problem is steadily increasing costs of gasoline for the buses: Deakin said the gasoline prices went up two cents a gallon last week.

Kennedy said staggering school hours to cut transportation costs isn't a new idea. Opening all town schools at about the same time requires an expensive transit system, he said.

But it was one area where administrators thought they could hold the line, he said.

Deakin estimated that about 4,500 children are bused to school in Manchester, which means a cost of about $106 annually to bus each student.

The school board's current contract with the Manchester Bus Co. provides for 39 regular school buses and 18 vans. One of the vans can accommodate wheelchairs. Buses are for both public and parochial students.

School board members discussing the budget plan Tuesday night suggested a juggling of other accounts to add a reserve to the 1976-1977 transportation program.

Another suggestion was to increase the entire budget by about $30,000 to cover possible transportation cost increases.

But School Board Chairman Allan Thomas discounted that suggestion, saying, "If we're short it won't be because we didn't ask for it; it will be because we didn't get it."

Thomas apparently expects the usual cuts by the town manager and the Board of Directors in the school board's budget request.

No decisions were made Tuesday night on the transportation program or other possible adjustments in the budget plan. The board will meet again Monday night, and final school board budget action is due Feb. 9.

The budget request will then go to the town manager and the Board of Directors, which will decide the final appropriation by May 15.

Interstate highway plans

91 improvements, Sullivan said the list of five proposals was without a clearcut recommendation. However, the proposal for reconstructing and providing for a bus/carpool lane (plus elasticity for growth beyond the year 2000 and with traffic relief for arterial streets) appears to be the DOT recommendation.

Other alternatives for I-91 are:

- To do nothing at all.
- To improve only arterials and interchanges.
- To improve Rt. 5 and provide rapid transit.
- To provide rapid transit—by bus routes or utilizing the railroad tracks from Bloomfield to Enfield.

The alternatives for I-291 are:

- To do nothing.
- To provide rapid transit (the DOT acknowledges the Burr Corners express bus to Hartford now provides adequate service and no improvements would be accomplished).
- An I-291 connector from the Bissell Bridge westerly to Rt. 20, at the Windsor-Windsor Locks town lines. (The DOT insists this alternative is the answer and would result in increased traffic on I-94 and I-86).

An I-291 connector from I-91 in with greater rights-of-way than previously — for future needs; including possible forms of rapid transit.

In urging speed in planning and construction, he pointed out the rising costs, year after year.

Mrs. Parla said she prefers an effective transit plan to highway construction. She said, "If the decision is to go with I-91 and I-291, it should be with plans having the least possible environmental impact."

Dr. Spaulding urged the DOT to change its thinking, in order to protect the environment and to protect people living in the areas to be affected.

He said he's worried about the proliferation of highways in Connecticut, in New England and in the nation. He recommended that a master plan be formulated, at least for New England, before a final decision is reached.

Sullivan replied that the DOT's plans dovetail with the whole picture of state highways and that the final solution will acknowledge that each is a part of the whole.

The cost of such construction would be a multi-million dollar project. The environmental impact study alone would cost about $25,000 per mile in rural areas such as South Windsor and about $75,000 per mile in urban areas.

Accounting for $8,778 or 36 per cent of the increase in the contractual commitment in the pupil transportation contract escalation clause.

Special needs including painting of trim on the primary wing and the front of the Hebron Elementary School and sealing the black top at the Hebron School account for $2,700 or 3 per cent.

All other budget meeting are Feb. 28. The regular board meeting is Feb. 18.

In the current budget, surpluses may come in teacher salaries, $8,500; unemployment compensation, $2,000; special education placements, $1,800; electricity, $500; gas, $150; and area special education association, $114.

Deficits are expected in substitute teachers, $4,000; teacher physicals, $99; special projects, $500; extra kindergarten bus, $2,700; special education transportation, $1,630; telephone, $274; fuel oil, $1,112; textbooks, $161; noninstructional equipment, $575 and transportation insurance, $7.

Finance Board Chairman David Althee will attend the Board of Finance meeting tonight to review the status of the current budget and to support the board's request the funds designated for the town from the instant lottery proceeds be allocated to the school board for educational expenditures in excess of the current budget.

The need for a new tractor at the Hebron Elementary School will also be brought before the finance board. The old tractor has ceased running and a replacement is $2,500.

Principal Paul A. White has been authorized to obtain prices for the tractor replacement. He is to give the prices to maintenance committee members Charles Barrasso and Joseph Pelletier.

Windsor to I-291. (this is the DOT's preference).

Expressing opinions Tuesday night were Town Manager Robert Weiss; Town Planner Eric Potter; Terry Parla, chairman of the Conservation Commission; and Dr. Fred Spaulding, a member of the Conservation Commission.

Weiss said Manchester is more interested in I-291 plans than he is. He conceded something has to be done about I-91, whatever the alternative, in order to improve its traffic pattern.

Dr. Spaulding urged the DOT to change its thinking, in order to protect the environment and to protect people living in the areas to be affected.

He said he's worried about the proliferation of highways in Connecticut, in New England and in the nation. He recommended that a master plan be formulated, at least for New England, before a final decision is reached.

Rt. 5 relocation plans draws objections

South Windsor
JUDY KUEHNEL
644-1364

The proposed relocation of Rt. 5 is still a controversial issue among South Windsor residents.

Facing the state Department of Transportation (DOT) Monday night at the public hearing on the alternatives to I-91 and I-291, residents made clear their objections to losing valuable meadow land and gaining more traffic.

DOT officials said any highway construction to either I-91 or I-291 is still to come after years away. Environmental impact studies are at least two years away.

Town Manager Terry Spronkel, State Rep. Abe Glassman, and Mayor Sandra Bender were among town leaders expressing opposition to the relocation of Rt. 5 from Governor's Highway, East Hartford to the Bissell Bridge in South Windsor and possibly continuing to I-91 in Enfield.

The cost of such construction would be a multi-million dollar project. The environmental impact study alone would cost about $25,000 per mile in rural areas such as South Windsor and about $75,000 per mile in urban areas.

Board accepts resignation

Hebron
EVERLY CROSTON

The Board of Selectmen has accepted the resignation of Thomas Ford, chairman of the Board of Directors of the Columbia-Hebron-Andover-Marlborough Community Health Services, told the selectmen the agency office is being moved to Rt. 6 from its present site on Rt. 66 in Columbia.

This move will enable the Community Health Service to provide more efficient services at a reduced cost," said Ford.

Norma C. Lundquist, R.N., Director of the Public Health Nursing Division of the state Department of Health, warned the selectmen about the town's growth. Ms. Lundquist said Hebron will lose the state grant when it reaches 5,000 people. The present estimate is 4,800.

The town has been increasing at the rate of 100 persons per year recently. If this continues, the cut off date for the same grant could be July 1, 1977, she said.

For the past few years, the state health grant has been about $5,500.

Board views budget

Hebron
EVERLY CROSTON

The Board of Education at a special meeting last week looked at a proposed 1976-77 budget of $1,627,829. It also reviewed an analysis of the present budget showing an estimated $1,000 surplus.

The proposed budget was prepared by the administration. It is $127,829 or 14.2 per cent higher than the present $900,000 budget.

A summary sheet of the increases shows 3.6 per cent or $32,450 in the area of special education. Program expansion accounts for 3.6 per cent of $33,019 at the Hebron school and sealing the black top at the Hebron School account for $2,700 or 3 per cent.

Strange things, strange people

SOL R. COHEN

Strange things by strange people are happening day in and day out all over these United States. Some are happy things and some are sad. Many are pointless and some are a fad. All we can be sure of is that because this is the Bicentennial Year, people years from now will want to look back and find out just what was going on here in 1976. When they do, here are some of the things they'll find out about: Out in Alameda County, Calif., a mystery bridge painter was caught yellow-handed, but authorities don't know whether to praise or punish him. For months, he's been painting pretty landscapes on the side of a freeway structure. When caught, he was putting the final touches to a bright yellow sunset. Said the 22-year-old swimming pool contractor, "I just wanted to make the world look more beautiful." Officials told him to watch himself and not get caught the next time. Compare him to a thief in Seattle who emptied a change machine loaded $100 in nickels and dimes while patrons of a crowded laundromat went about their business. After 10 minutes at the change machine, a patron was curious enough to ask if he were the owner. The thief said no, just right on emptying the machine, nodded goodbye and left. In Los Angeles County, Calif., meanwhile, a man filed a missing house report about an uninhabited (could it have been uninhabited, too?) dwelling he owned. Neighbors said they saw two men dismantle the house piece by piece over a month's span and cart it away. Sheriff's deputies said any suspect arrested would be charged with grand theft house. In Memphis, Tenn., about the same time, a drug addict opening his store was accosted by a young gunman who asked politely, "Do you have any money?" When the druggist said no, that it was too early and that the gunman was his first customer, the would-be hold-up man complied and loaded the 22-300 in nickels and dimes while patrons of a crowded laundromat went about their business. After 10 choirmaster, organist, music therapist and later of rock and roll music insists that type of music is "more deadly than heroin" and just as addictive. He says, "It isn't a harmless pastime but a dangerous drug on which our children are hooked," and calls performers like Elvis Presley, "purveyors of the gospel of the wrong note." Insisting, "Rock music is mostly noise," he says, "Noise causes hostility, fatigue, narcissism, panic, indigestion, high blood pressure, hypertension and other problems." Well, and to think we used to blame it on the Vietnam War and then on unemployment and the recession. If you've read this far, we'll show you that things could be worse: "Two men met on the street. "How are things with you," asks the first. "Not so good," answers the other. "I was sick two days last week and it cost me $50 for doctors and medicine." "Fifty dollars," exclaims the first. "Back in the good old days you could have been sick a whole year for that kind of money."

Town highway crews deserve our thanks

If you are like most of us, you don't enjoy the cold weather, snow and ice and the other discomforts associated with winter except when you might indulge in your favorite winter sport. Scraping windshields and trying to get the old car started are too often enough to get a day started off on the wrong foot. But these inconveniences distract us from something that we who have been here a while tend to take for granted. Once we get the car started and the windows cleared, most of us are able to travel to our destinations on freshly plowed or sanded streets thanks to the Manchester Highway Department which has had its crews on the job many hours before most of us begin our day. We are indeed fortunate in Manchester to have a very efficient department which seems able to cope with any storm. This past week we had an example of its work in the quick way it opened streets for traffic and kept them open until the snowfall ended. Then instead of waiting for nature's cooperation as many other communities are prone to do, it removed the snow before so that if another storm occurs (after all, it is still midwinter) there would be more room for traffic lanes. We think these men who are roused out during late night or early morning hours to ensure us safer driving conditions deserve a pat on the back. Manchester can and should be proud of its highway crews, for without them things, we fear, would soon halt, for almost all our activities depend on vehicle transportation. Instead of griping about the delays that sometimes occur before your street is plowed or sanded, remember the magnitude of the task and the fact that town crews will, regardless of the time of day, get the job done as quickly, safely, and as soon as Mother Nature will permit. It is our duty to thank them.

Let's give Ella five more minutes...

ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON — Everything costs more these days, so most working stiffs have had to cut down on their spending. President Ford must be pleased. He likes to see folks tightening their belts. It builds character. However, Ford has decided the Pentagon's generals and admirals already have enough. He has approved a new defense budget which for the first time breaks the $100-billion spending barrier. In fiscal 1977, the brass and brasses will get to spend $101.1-billion to pay troops and Pentagon civilian bureaucrats and buy the hardware of war. The outlay for fiscal 1976 is a frugal $91.2-billion. Moreover, defense officials predict higher military spending every year for the next five years, even if Congress goes along with personnel reductions and the Soviet Union agrees to limit strategic arms. Allowing for inflation and other increases in prices, the Pentagon estimates that defense spending will rise to a neat $141.3-billion between fiscal 1977 and fiscal 1981. Said Ford in his budget message: "If in good conscience I could propose less I would. Great good could be accomplished with other uses of these dollars." The amount I seek will provide the national defense it now appears we need. We do less." Well — hogwash. We dare do a great deal less and it's about time we found a President who would refuse to be conned by those Pentagon pitchmen. We've got more nuclear weapons that we know what to do with. We're selling excess nuclear plants to all variety of irresponsible governments. Money is coming out of our ears. There are at least 20 military bases around the country that could be closed if they were not the protection of a pork-barrel Congress. I reject Ford's assertion that the Pentagon budget can't be trimmed. Any government budget can be trimmed. The fact is that no President in recent years has dared to stand up to the generals and admirals, who shriek that the national security is being endangered every time the word economy is mentioned. Inflation, yes. But that should be everybody's burden, not just that of the working stiff. During the Vietnam war critics in Congress kept promising that once we pulled out of that mess defense spending would be sharply curtailed. But the Pentagon doesn't waste a dime without Congress' approval. Perhaps the time has come to elect wants state employees to work an additional hour a day without more pay. She rides in a state police cruiser instead of a limousine, and says she'll sell the state-owned silver tea and coffee service to raise money. Most members of Congress capable of uttering a simple declarative sentence make extra dough delivering uplift-type speeches in the hinterlands. Mrs. Grasso also has hit the lecture circuit, but she hands over her fees to the state treasury. Talk about daring: Ella Baby has even refused to go along with higher welfare grants and has made cuts in spending for social services. Obviously, Mrs. Grasso's former liberal pals should throw her out on her ear. I hope they throw her as far as Washington, where a conservative President named Ford has proposed a record $39.2-billion federal budget, with a $43-billion deficit. Give Ella Grasso five minutes, and she'd find a buyer for the White House silver.

Bicentennial voter registration under way

When one reads the historical accounts of events 200 years ago, it seems a bit disturbing that we should concern ourselves today with the fact that a substantial number of Americans do not bother to vote in our local, state and national elections. Even more disturbing is the fact that there is a substantial number who don't even bother to register to vote. Manchester is leading the way in an effort to overcome this civic deficiency. The town and the state have adopted as a special Bicentennial effort the 100 per cent registration of all eligible voters in the state. Mayor Matthew Moriarty has officially proclaimed Manchester's commitment to full voter registration this year. The effort came from Mrs. Lila Cohen, a member of the Manchester League of Women Voters, and was adopted by the town and state Bicentennial committees as an official project. But committees and public appeals can only call attention to who can register and where this can be accomplished. What is needed is a personal commitment by every registered voter to personally encourage and help an unregistered voter to join the rolls.

Portrait of the true terrorist

WASHINGTON — "The true terrorist is committed — committed to an extent that is difficult for rational people to comprehend. A perverted sort of courage and profound dedication sustains every step they take. They are humorless, insensitive and they are influenced by no truths other than those they perceive to validate their cause." FBI Director Clarence Kelley, in a recent speech, added that terrorists "are prepared to kill men, women and children to further whatever cause they claim to be pursuing. And the heinousness of these murders is accentuated by the fact that they murder without passion. They murder with cold deliberation and careful planning." Kelley said during his 35 years of law enforcement work he has met and talked with murderers who have taken lives cruelly and viciously; but nevertheless, most of them have moments of compassion and gentleness. The terrorist does not. Kelley's point, made at a recent luncheon sponsored by the American Security Council, is that too many Americans have an erroneous view of the revolutionary terrorist. "I fear many people see them as a caricatured comical figure, a bearded, rumpled individual furtively clutching a round bomb with one sputtering," the FBI chief continued. "It would be folly to confuse this invention of some cartoonist's mind with the true revolutionary terrorist. He is not amusing. He is lethal. And Americans simply must realize this."

We have been receiving many contributions from helpful citizens like you for a dollar or more attached to their water bill enclosure. It always gives me great pleasure to acknowledge all contributions by sending a personal note of thanks. This Open Forum letter is the only way I can thank you, Anonymous, and tell you that if every citizen of Manchester gave one dollar, as you have done, our goal would be reached in record time. ### Hockanum River needs water of South Windsor, engineer

Vernon
An engineer with the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) suggested in a report recently that the Hockanum River needs the three million gallons treated daily from the Sippic Lake by the Connecticut Water Co. in order to keep the river clean.

The water company sells much of this water to South Windsor customers. Steven Gerdemeier filed the report on the clean-up of the river. He noted waste treatment powers of the proposed new plant for Vernon may not do the job of cleaning up the river by DEP standards.

Vernon will open bids this Friday for a $10.5 million tertiary treatment plant. The town was ordered to abate pollution in the river almost 10 years ago. Since then, it has been working toward the new plant.

Gerdemeier said the new plant will still leave high amounts of ammonia in the water. This would use much of the oxygen in the river.

The river is fed at its source by the Sippic Lake. Therefore, Gerdemeier suggested the three million gallons flow into the river each day.

Gerdemeier's report was planned for use within DEP. But his ideas may go to a public hearing in the spring and eventually be put in the form of an order to the town sometime after the new plant is built.

PTA backs Kennedy budget

An ad-hoc budget review committee of Manchester's Parent-Teacher Association Council has recommended that the Board of Education adopt School Supt. James Kennedy's 1978-1979 budget recommendation of $14,150,063.

The committee, which presented its recommendation to the school board Tuesday night, also suggested a strong emphasis on continuing maintenance of facilities, and proposed that the board add two items to its improvement budget.

Patrick Brown of 91 Washington St., chairman of the PTA committee, asked the school board to fund a "Safety Town" program for kindergarten children and an improvement in the speech, hearing and language program for mentally handicapped students.

Kennedy's 1978-1979 budget plan as presented would fund the top seven items on a 21-item priority list set by the school board. The two improvements suggested by Brown are further down the priority list.

The school board continued its review of Kennedy's budget plan in its third budget workshop Tuesday night. The last workshop is scheduled Monday at 8 p.m. at 45 N. School St., when it's expected the board will make adjustments in the proposal.

Other comments heard Tuesday night by individual members of the PTA committee included a request that the board allocate more money for a girls' swimming team at Manchester High School and a request for speedy action to correct a Main St. traffic hazard where Bennett Junior High School students cross the street.

Suburban briefs

Truck flips over

BOLTON—A town dump truck with a plow attached and carrying a load of sand flipped over on Cider Mill Rd. Monday at 8:10 a.m. Lance Dimrock, a town employe and the driver, was uninjured. He used the radio to get help. State highway crewmen were needed to right the big truck and clean up the sand. David Dresselly, first selectman, said today the truck is now at the M&M Garage on Rt. 6 and there does not appear to be much more than $100 damage to the unit. There were no arrests, state police reported. The accident was apparently caused by the plow's blade catching a snow bank on the left side of the road and twisting and flipping the rig, said Dresselly.

Typing classes offered

BOLTON — The spring continuing education program at Bolton High School will offer classes in typing each Tuesday from 7 to 9:30 p.m. from next Tuesday through April 20. To register, call the school and tell what level of typing is preferred. The program will also offer art classes.

Art group meets

ANDOVER — The Andover Art Committee will meet Thursday at 2:45 p.m. in the elementary school library. Representatives from town groups are expected to attend. The committee will conduct the town's annual arts festival, a cultural fair featuring children's and adults' arts and crafts. There is also music, dancing and drama. It is set for March 13 and 14. All who would like to help are urged to attend the Thursday meeting.

Hebron's offerings

HEBRON — A program titled "What Hebron Has To Offer" dealing with the town's clubs and services will be presented by the Hebron Center Nursery School Thursday at 8 p.m. in the basement of the First Congregational Church. The public is invited. People from 21 town organizations will speak briefly about their works. Paul A. White, principal of Hebron Elementary School, is moderator.

Board meets tonight

TOLLAND — The Board of Education will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Central Administration Building. The board will take action on a policy concerning the psychology department; review some audit recommendations; review policies concerning sex equality in school classes; and discuss budgets.

Leaders tell why voucher plan denied

East Hartford

SHEILA TULLER
When the Board of Education voted against Parents' Choice Monday night, members did not vote along party lines nor conservative-liberal lines. The experienced members did not join together to form a block.

Board members did their homework. After studying reports, reading surveys, and listening to public opinion, they made their own judgments. The board members who voted yes to the roll call were Democrat Robert Bannon and Republican Barbara Atwood. Both are long-time board members.

Barbara Atwood
Mrs. Atwood's opening remark was "I'm in the minority. I'm in favor of it."
Mrs. Atwood, who didn't hint at her decision earlier than that moment, thought this was the board's chance to do something greater than they had ever done before.

"East Hartford could do it. The children would continue to learn. In the end even with trial and error, other towns would benefit from East Hartford trying Parents' Choice."
"If Uncle Sam wants to pick up the cost, let's try it," she said.

Robert Bannon
Bannon, who supported Parents' Choice since the feasibility study began, felt parents should have a choice and were competent enough to make a wise choice. In Bannon's mind, the neighborhood school concept was discriminatory if a school across town offers a better program and a child can't take advantage of the program because of his address.

Walter Miles
As reported previously, Walter Miles opposed the voucher plan. He felt many of the components were already included in the system to a degree and without the added costs of this plan.

Joyce Ruggles
Joyce Ruggles hoped the plan could be implemented because of the many benefits it offered. Because of lack of staff support, she had to vote no, she said.
Newly elected members Richard Daley and Larry DelPonte joined fellow Democrats Miles and Ruggles voting no.

Richard Daley
Daley was concerned about parents getting adequate information to make a good choice. After studying programs at the elementary level he didn't think East Hartford's schools were so different that they really offered a choice.

Larry DelPonte
Prime concern of DelPonte was the possibility of autonomy. He felt this could create discrimination because of schools competing against each other.

Richard Veltri
Dr. Richard Veltri said as a parent he would certainly enjoy some components. But as a board member, he could not support a project that was so costly. Veltri didn't think the federal funds available would be enough to cover the costs.

Emory Daly
Emory Daly disagreed with his Republican colleague's remark concerning Uncle Sam paying the bills. "It disturbs me," he said. "It's still our money." He agreed with urging equal opportunity for all students. Veltri and Daly are also newly elected board members. Veltri did serve part of last year as an appointee to the board.

The audience had been carefully tallying the votes as each board member spoke. Some votes had been expected while others were a surprise. At one point a tie was thought possible. In that event, Board Chairperson Eleanor Kepler would have voted and most expected her to be in favor of the proposal.

Eleanor Kepler
Like her colleagues, Mrs. Kepler said she, too, agonized over her decision. She felt Parents' Choice is an important element and she had faith in parental judgment. She earlier hoped to see some federal dollars come home for the chance to improve budgeting.

But she concluded she would have to lean with the majority. The community did not give a strong mandate to accept Parents' Choice.

Girl Scout cookies on sale

HEBRON — The Girl Scout cookie sale will run through Feb. 7. The girls are taking orders for the cookies which will be delivered in March. Payment is expected on receipt of the cookies. Anyone not contacted is asked to call Mrs. Lorraine Braggion, Mrs. Karen Biskupiak, Mrs. July Baber, or Mrs. Dot Ring. The profits stay local and help fund camp fees and camping equipment.

Flea market Feb. 21

EAST HARTFORD — The women of the Burnside United Methodist Church plan a flea market Feb. 21 at the church at 16 Church St. Space is available. Some of the things to be offered are a black walnut dropleaf table with three chairs and refreshments. The market is free to the public and will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Church education workshop

VERNON — The Union Congregational Church will conduct a workshop on "Planning Education for the Congregation," Thursday at 7:30 p.m. It will continue for several sessions and is designed to help evaluate and plan the total educational picture of the church.

Flanders Bridge vote due

COVENTRY — Voters will pass judgment on a Flanders River Road Bridge project at a special town meeting Thursday at 6 p.m. in the Capt. Nathan Hale School on Rt. 31. Coventry's share of the project would be $36,500 to rebuild the bridge which spans the Hop River into Columbia. Voters will be asked to act on an agreement between Coventry and Flanders to rebuild it for not more than $50,000. The cost per town is based on tax collections over the last three fiscal years. Voters will also pass judgment on several town roads.

'Last chance' lost, says church leader

EAST HARTFORD (UPI) — A spokesman for Connecticut Roman Catholics is lamenting the decision of East Hartford officials rejecting a proposed school voucher system.

The proposed system, rejected by the city Board of Education Monday night, would have provided parents with a voucher equal to the amount of educating a child in city schools. It would have been redeemable at any school in East Hartford, including two Roman Catholic schools. William J. Wholean, executive director of the Connecticut Catholic Conference, said the voucher program was the "last chance" for major public tax support of financially strapped Catholic schools.

"We had a good situation in East Hartford," he said. "It would have offered tremendous hope."

Town meeting set

Andover

DONNA HOLLAND
646-0375
At its last meeting, the Board of Selectmen set Feb. 9 as the tentative date for a Town Meeting.

Agenda items range from allowing Bolton to continue using the Andover Disposal Area to spending $20,000 for an emergency carry vehicle. Residents will be asked to rescind action taken at the March 26, 1975 Town Meeting when they voted to cease allowing Bolton to use the area as of June 30, 1976.

If Bolton is to continue sharing the area, the action must be rescinded. David Yeomans, first selectman, said Andover wrote Bolton recently asking what it planned to do about a disposal area. Yeomans said David Dresselly, first selectman in Bolton, said the town still wants to share.

At the Town Meeting, residents will be asked for $20,000 for a new emergency carry vehicle. The selectmen are recommending $10,000 be taken from the town's fire engine fund and $10,000 from revenue sharing. The means of financing must be decided by the Board of Finance. Residents will be asked to authorize the fire commissioners to make or may not be included.

Other agenda items include:
• An ordinance concerning the selectmen's control of town equipment.
• An ordinance concerning the demolition of damaged buildings.
• Approval of Berch Dr. and Lakeview Dr. as part of the town road system. Yeomans said the town now plows and sands the roads but does not maintain them in any other way.

Hear a report by the town hall improvement committee concerning the Old Town Hall on Rt. 6. A report by the law enforcement study committee may or may not be included.

Bolton gets 20 charters

DONNA HOLLAND
Twenty towns that are like Bolton, sent copies of their charters for Bolton to study.

Bolton's Charter Commission has made copies of the charters available at the library or town hall. Get a lawyer. At its last meeting, the commission members spoke with Patricia Stewart and Joseph Coatsworth.

Mrs. Stewart works for the Institute of Public Service of the University of Connecticut and served on Mansfield's charter commission. Coatsworth is chairman of Cromwell's charter commission.

Both emphasized the commission should have a counsel to work with when it begins drafting a charter. Coatsworth said to make sure the charter will be accepted, the commission members, elected officials and the public should be in agreement. Catherine Leiner, town clerk, attended the meeting.

It is expected the Board of Selectmen will confirm her commission at its next meeting. There is one vacancy on the commission.

Bon Ami seeks early slogan

Does any Herald reader have a Bon Ami container with the famous slogan, "It hasn't scratched yet" on it?
If you do, Bon Ami is looking for one; it doesn't even have to go back to the original slogan; anything in the 1930's will do, says Gordon Beahm, president of Faultless Starch Co. which is now marketing Bon Ami.
Beahm has issued his call for the Bon Ami label through Mrs. Gloria Weiss, wife of Manchester's town manager. The company seeks the label for an advertising campaign.

Flash floods follow

Emergency call involving a young boy who lost control of his bicycle near the firehouse and went down in a deep gutter filled with water.
A spokesman said the boy was treated for facial cuts and returned home. His bicycle had some front-wheel damage which the boy said could be repaired.
The worst situation was in several adjoining backyards on Burnham St. where the water had flooded to 12 and 24 inches deep, threatening the nearby basements with heavy damage.
The fire department was using its pumps, sandbags and a water vacuum to remove the water before serious damage could result.
Another bad situation reported by the fire department was a 100 by 200 foot area at Pressure Blast Manufacturing Co. on Chapel St. which was filled with water Tuesday night. It has been removed.
Of the 42 calls received since 8 a.m. Tuesday, the Town Fire Department said 14 complainants had been able to help themselves by following advice from the fire department. The other situations were remedied by pumping, using a water vacuum, and sandbagging.
About 800 bags were used for sandbagging by the various town departments to avert flooding.
A fire department spokesman suggested people whose flooded basements were aided by the use of sand bags empty the bags, dry them out and keep them for future use, especially if their homes are subject to flooding. The spokesman said sand was usually available from the town sand piles.
A power failure occurred Tuesday early afternoon in the northwest section of town caused by a faulty transformer at S. Hawthorne St. affected about 1,500 customers who were without power for less than an hour. East Catholic High School was also affected.
The town roads are in "terrible condition," said George Ringstone, highway superintendent.
He said when the ground is frozen, as it was with a 30-inch frost depth and the top layer breaks up with warming temperatures and rain, the whole top surface lets go "with a boom" which is aggravated by traffic.
Cold weather will help the highway crews in mending the numerous potholes throughout the town's street network.
Ringstone said the highway's five trucks are out today working on road repairs.
The worst street conditions, Ringstone said, are on Adams St., W. Middle Tpke., Green Rd., Cottage St. and Hillstown Rd.

Run and gun Manchester enjoys fun trouncing Enfield in CCIL, 77-59

By LEN AUSTRER
Herald Sportswriter
Run and gun and have some fun must have been the motto last night as Manchester High raced to a relatively easy 77-59 CCIL basketball win over disgraced Enfield High at the Raider gym.

A small and seemingly disinterested Enfield following and vocal Silk Town rooting section saw the Indians move their CCIL record to 11-0 and over-all ledger to 11-2. Manchester, which leads the league by three games in the last column, hosts Simsbury High Friday night at Clarke Arena in its next encounter. Enfield with the setback, its sixth straight, fell to 3-9 in league play and 4-10 over-all and appears headed for further deplac.

Enfield battled the Silk Towners on even terms the first quarter with the score deadlocked 16-16 at the turn. Don Whittle had 11 of his 21 points for Enfield in the stanza and Jeff Kierman, 6-5 junior pivotman, poured in 10 of his game and career-high 22 points in the canto.
Sophomore Scott Hyde put the clamps on Whittle in the second period, denying him the ball very effectively, and without its big gun working the Raiders went dormant. Manchester went on a 14-0 tear in a three-minute span, eight from the charity stripe, to hold a 36-20 advantage with 2:56 left. The Indians led 39-29 at the intermission.
The Indians upped their margin to as many as 22 points in the third period and went into the final eight minute session with a 58-38 lead. They got somewhat sloppy and offense ran well," stated Indian Coach Doug Pearson. "It was over-all pleased. I thought (Jim) McNickle had an excellent game defensively and he is turning into a good setup guard. He was the one who broke Enfield's press with ease. Kierman had a super game. Tonight was a total team effort."

Senior Co-captain Mike Quesnel was Manchester's second leading scorer with 21 points, 15 in the second half. He also had 12 rebounds and handed out seven assists in a fine performance. Demko had six of the Indians' 22 assists while McNickle had three steals and continuously disrupted Enfield's offensive flow, what little there was.
Manchester connected on 29 of 63 field goal attempts and had an excellent night from the charity stripe, 19 for 23. Enfield with plenty of individual play caddled 23 of 54 attempts from the floor.

The Indian jayvees upped their record to 7-6 with a 56-44 victory. Frank Besuire had 11 points, Bill Tablot 10 and bury Rich Marshall 14 rebounds for Manchester.

Eagles remain unbeaten trimming Saints, 51-38

By DOUG OVIAN
Correspondent
St. Bernard became the 14th straight victim of the unbeaten East Catholic basketball team by a 51-38 count last night in Uncasville before a crowd of 400.

The Eagles, 8-0 in Hartford County Conference play, face arch-rival South Catholic Saturday night at the Hartford Civic Center in the finale of an HCC tripleheader. With the loss, St. Bernard is 0-9 in conference play and 2-12 overall. Juniors Jon Lindberg and Scott Holland turned in fine performances for the Eagles picking up the slack for ailing Gary Carlson and Jeff Heim. Carlson, 6-4 junior forward averaging over 11 points per game, missed the contest because of the flu and Heim, also ill, saw limited service.

Lindberg, 6-3 forward, poured in 14 points while Holland split the backcourt duties with Peter Thompson.

"We lost physical power (Carlson, Heim) but Holland and Lindberg showed that we have good depth," Eagle Coach Stan Ogradnik stated. Also turning in fine performances were senior Co-captain John Lusa with 18 points, all in the second half, and 14 rebounds and junior Mark Dumais contributed 12 markers.
The first quarter was a tough defensive battle with the score tied at 8-all at the buzzer. Outside shooting by Lindberg and Dumais in the second stanza helped to give the Eagles an 18-11 halftime margin.

Five baskets by Lusa in the third period expanded the East lead to 34-25 going into the final eight minutes of play. East started to kill time in the last period while slowly adding five points to its advantage with carefully executed scoring plays.

Dave Michaud was top scorer for the host Saints with 15 points with teammate Mike Wells adding 10.
"We played well enough to win," Ogradnik commented. "Our defense was good and the offense worked well."
In the jayvee tilt, East lost a hard battle with the Saints, 64-49. Top scorer for the 8-10 Eagles were Ollie Lucier with 13 tallies and Steve Sullivan carefully executed scoring with 11.

DeMarco hits 28 points for MCC

By CHRIS BLAKE
Correspondent
It wasn't the most artful exhibition of basketball ever witnessed but it counts in the win column for Manchester Community College.

The Cougars, keyed by seven over-time points from George Smith and a 28-point effort from Nick DeMarco, overcame a tenacious Tunxis Community College five, 78-77, in overtime last night at Plainville High.
The sloping COCA win was the Cougars' fifth against seven losses. Tunxis falls to 4-5 in league play and 6-10 over-all. MCC, 7-12 in all games, hosts Greater Hartford Community College Saturday night in its next outing.
MCC did almost everything in its power to throw away the game in regulation play but got a reprieve in the overtime.
After a bucket by Tunxis' Mike Martin put the Tomahawks ahead, 68-66, Smith scored a layup for Manchester but Jesse Brunson regained the lead for the home troops with a long jump shot. Smith made one of two free throwers for the Cougars but Tunxis high scorer John Smay scored on a picturesque backdoor play for a 72-69 advantage.
DeMarco brought the Cougars within one and Pete Leber put MCC ahead for keeps with a foul in jump shot. Time was running out and after a Tunxis miss, Smith put in a one-and-one situation and 30 seconds later he sneaked behind the Tomahawk defense for a layup.

Tunxis managed two foul shots and a closing hoop but all was academic. Sloppy floor play by the Cougars diminished two brilliant shooting efforts. DeMarco canned 14 of 18 shots for his 28 points and Smith was seven of nine in field goal attempts. But MCC had 29 turnovers.
Tunxis took advantage of early mistakes going on a 14-4 binge to take an 18-14 lead. Relying on the glittering shooting of DeMarco, the Cougars fought back and led, 29-28, but Tunxis led at the half, 39-34.
MCC fell behind by as many as 11 points, 47-36, with 16:30 left before waking up. Two Smith foul shots made it 60-39 for MCC with 5:22 left and the quintets battled until they were stalemated at the end of regulation.
Smith had 21 points for the Cougars with Leber and Lum Jefferson adding 11 and 10 markers respectively. Small had 22, Brunson 15 and Curtis Banks 14 for Tunxis.

Cheney falls to Bacon

Squaring its Charter Oak Conference basketball mark at 6-6 last night was Bacon Academy with a 74-52 win over Cheney Tech in Colchester.

Bacon now stands 7-6 in all games while the Beavers fall to 1-10 in the CAC and 3-10 in all games. There is no rest for the Techmen as they return to action tonight to face East Hampton High at the Bellingham gym to make up an earlier postponement.

Sid Lesher and Ron Watus shared team scoring honors for Bacon with 19 points apiece. Paul Strycharz had a game-high 20 markers for the Beavers with teammate Emil Haberberg tossing in 10 markers.
Cheney led after the first turn, 13-

11, but Bacon surged in the second canto and led at the intermission, 32-20. Cheney fell behind by 18, 52-34, going into the final session.
"We played just one good period—the first," noted Cheney Coach Gerry Blanchard. "We were badly out-rebounded and didn't get any offensive rebounds to speak of."

Whalers' new line set to go

By EARL YOST Sports Editor
Area hockey fans will get a first look tonight of the new England Whalers' new line when Mike Rogers centers for Ralph Backstrom and Don Borgesson against Indianapolis at the Hartford Civic Center.

The Jacket Night presentation is expected to attract a capacity crowd. Yesterday, the public relationship-minded Whalers unveiled the three new players at a press conference.

Backstrom, the best known of the trio, has been a big league hockey player for 18 years, the first 14 in the NHL. Asked how one of the league's superstars and highest salaried players decided to come to Hartford just hours before the Ottawa franchise folded he commented: "Hartford is where I wanted to be. I had no trade (transferable) contract so I could decide where I wanted to play. I'm just thrilled being here."

"The Whalers have a solid franchise. It's a good hockey club and we got the best of it," said the Philadelphia Flyers probably realized Tuesday wasn't their night in Atlanta when the Flames sent Dave Schultz, the Then, adding insult to Schultz' injury, ex-Flyer Bill Clement scored a three-goal hat trick to give the Flames an 8-4 victory. The Flyers didn't take this lightly and right after Clement's third goal with 6:10 left, a brawl erupted involving every player on both clubs.

Pro hoop roundup

Rutgers rallies to win

NEW YORK (UPI) — For about 10 minutes, it looked as if Pittsburgh might end Rutgers' unbeaten streak at 15 games. Then Phil Sellers went to work. Sellers sparked an offense that had been throttled by the Panthers' pressing defense by scoring 17 points, grabbing 17 rebounds and had 11 assists Tuesday night to lead the six-ranked Scarlet Knights to a 102-71 rout.

Princeton past Penn for its seventh straight victory. The Tigers rolled to a 34-18 lead at halftime and led by as many as 26 in the second half while Rutgers set three school scoring records with a 139-101 rout of Northern Arizona and No. 19 Princeton downed Penn 99-82.

Top-seed Connors in singles debut

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Top-seeded Jimmy Connors, a winner in doubles competition Tuesday, makes his singles debut today in the $115,000 U.S. Pro Indoor Tennis Championships.

Connors teamed with Ilie Nastase for a 6-3, 3-6, 6-1 triumph over Wojtek Fibak of Poland and Karl Meiler of Germany.

"We had fun out there," Connors said. "We laughed. Still I'm serious enough and I like to win. I enjoy playing tennis."

In singles action Tuesday, Andrew Pattison of Rhodesia scored a 6-3, 2-6, 6-3 upset triumph over 10th seeded Ram Ramirez of Mexico to gain the second round.

Pattison, 27, won three straight games to take the match. Ramirez, a leading contender, is a former Davis Cup player and has won the Wimbledon title in 1968.

Connors is the top seed in the men's singles and will be the favorite to win the $115,000 title. He is 19 years old and has won 15 singles titles and 45 doubles titles.

The sixth annual Boy Scout Communion Breakfast, sponsored by the Algonquin District Catholic Committee on Scouting of Long Rivers Council, will be held on Feb. 1 at 9 a.m. at the Army and Navy Club.

Frank Coffey, director of religious education at St. Rose Parish, East Hartford, will be guest speaker. His topic: "Heroes and Other People."

The guest speaker was formerly the assistant director of religious education for the Archdiocese of Hartford. He has conducted Boy Scout retreats, youth "Search" weekends and has lectured extensively in the New England Diocese at congresses of religious education.

All Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Explorers and their parents are invited to attend the annual event. Robert Bourque is chairman of the breakfast.

Due to the limited seating capacity of the hall, tickets may be obtained by calling Bourque, 643-1824, or Mrs. Jackie Emis, 643-9037, or by contacting unit leaders. Donations are $1.50. All packs, troops and posts are asked to attend in uniform.

SENIOR CITIZENS

Hello everybody. Well, the old cougar is back in action again, and although not up to full capabilities, I'm in there swinging. The first and most important news is that this coming Sunday is a very important one. You all know about our annual Variety Show and as some Sunday we will be holding our first "try outs" for this year's show.

Now here's some more news that is important to you folks who like to travel, and in fact have called in for intentions of going on some of our trips. First of all, you folks going to Florida must be all paid up on or before Feb. 9. You may get all confused, so I'm hoping you will cut this column out and keep it so it can keep you straight.

Registrations for the following trips: Monday, Feb. 2 for a one-day trip to Mystic. Total package is $7 and includes a visit to the aquarium and the Old Mystic Village, plus a nice luncheon. This trip is for Feb. 15. Monday, Feb. 8, registration for Las Vegas-Canyonland trip. The first down payment is $175, to be paid at our Senior Center. The remainder to be paid to the O'Keefe Agency, on special dates you will receive when you sign up.

By the way, the fliers are now in for this trip, and one thing is that you get just about all your meals except for the day you arrive and the day you leave. Sounds like an exciting fun trip, and we need about one dozen more to be sure of the trip.

The action starts this Sunday afternoon starting at 2:30 and we're looking for you. We might also add that if you don't think you have talent to perform, but would like to help out, drop by because I'm sure we can find things for you to do that will be a help. See you Sunday.

Tuesday, Feb. 17, the New Orleans trip sign up and deposit is $100. All registrations start at 9 o'clock for all trips, and always on a first come basis. There you have it. So please cut this out, and keep it around so you'll know what is happening and when.

Setback: Well now, let us get back to the happenings here at the center which started with that nasty cold cold Friday. We had 48 players for our setback games with the following winners: Gladys Seelert, 133; Harvey Laquerre, 131; Sam Schors and Bernadette Risley, 128; Lillian Ruchik, 124; Wilbro Messier, 123; Archie Houghtaling, 120; Edward Scott and Hans Frederickson, 119; Dorothy and Robert Schubert, 118, and Josephine Schuett, 114.

Then came Monday, and in the morning, along with the icy conditions, we had 39 players for our kitchen social games. In the afternoon we had eleven tables for pinocchie with these lucky winners: Wesley Frost, 716; Esther Anderson, 708; Felix Jesamis, 683; Ann Ferras, 684; Al Cheilman, 686; Sam Schors, 687; Gertrude Herrmann, 684; Lee Steinmeyer, 664; Edward Scott, 653; Peter Frey, 651, and Andy Noske, 648.

Parade unit meets today

Manchester's Bicentennial Parade Committee will meet tonight at 7:30 at the Army and Navy Club. All interested persons or groups interested in participating in the June 12 Bicentennial Parade are invited to this meeting. Ideas for floats may be obtained from slides of patriotic floats, which will be presented by Mari Conderino at tonight's meeting.

Teachers study special adolescents

Vernon BARBARA RICHMOND

This requires the regular classroom teacher to deal with these children on a daily basis and this imposes, on the teacher, a necessity of knowing ways to cope with these children.

She said many of the teachers were trained prior to the recognition of need for special techniques and approaches. She added, "Even now, a minimal amount of time is allowed teachers to take courses outside their discipline."

Mr. Kerkin said it is hoped the proposed program will start in February. He would like to see teachers of all adolescent students (Grades 5-9) involved in the program if they wish.

Mrs. Woodbury said she would prefer confining the program to middle school teachers (Grades 7 and 8). During the course teachers will hear from some 10 experts in the field of special education. Then, under the leadership of the special service personnel within the school system, they will discuss the practical implications for dealing with the situation in the school.

Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent, said there will be a lot of work involved. "It's not an easy job to get credits," the teachers involved will really be working."

The programs will include such topics as: "The Retarded Adolescent," "The Learning Disabled," "The Auditorily Handicapped," "The Minimally Brain Damaged Child," "The Socially Maladjusted Adolescent" and others.

The program will also include field trips to: The Manchester Sheltered Workshop, Mt. Sinai psychiatric program for adolescents, Becket Academy, and Woods Lane.

Group discussions will be led by Anthony Magliocco, Carole Woodbury, Tom Foote, Eisy White and Ethel Coleman.

"The Community and the Adolescent," will be the topic of a panel discussion. On the panel will be representatives from juvenile court, the police, Manchester Child Guidance Clinic, Protective Services, and The Rockanum Valley field trips. Resource Center. Mrs. Woodbury

The program will not cost the town any money. The only contribution the town is making is use of the school space. All of the guest speakers will be donating their time.

The right price buys a school

Vernon For the right price, a town group can take over a school or part of it or its grounds, says the Board of Education.

The right price for the Rockville High School auditorium for a day is $75.

The group can also have the gym or the cafeteria for $75.

A combination of RHS gym auditorium, or cafeteria is $100. An elementary school gym is $30 per day.

Added costs might be for custodians, police, cafeteria workers, operators of special equipment, and more.

Choirs gather

Vernon Choirs from churches in eight area towns will join together this Sunday in an ecumenical choir festival at the First Congregational Church of Vernon, Rt. 30.

The festival will start at 7 p.m. and will involve Catholic and Protestant Churches from Vernon, South Windsor, Coventry, Glastonbury, Ellington, Somers, Windsor and Windsor Lockers.

The theme of the program will be the Bicentennial with the choirs singing songs by American composers only.

Some of the instrumental music will be by composers from other countries. Each choir will sing three selections and the combined choir will be featured in five numbers.

Report given by sanitarian

Vernon During the past three-month period, towns Vassilopoulos, Charles Vassilopoulos, town sanitarian, issued 11 permits for new wells and collected $185 in fees.

He also approved: eight plot plans; five pipe systems repairs; and inspected 47 new septic tank systems.

He also inspected seven markets and inspected one of the state Department of Environmental Protection.

He also investigated a public building for bats; investigated a case of suspected food poisoning; and using radioactive instruments, inspected all public and private day care centers for the presence of lead paint.

His office has now been moved from the Public Works building to the Memorial Building, Park Pl.

Recently Vassilopoulos submitted a proposal which calls for local licensing of places dispensing food and beverages. The matter has been turned over to Town Atty. Martin Burke for study and recommendation.

He said three of the complaints received were forwarded, for investigation, by the Air Commission Unit of the state Department of Environmental Protection.

Y.M.C.A. offers two programs individuals in the home, the community, and on the job. As a winter session Bicentennial craft, the Y.M.C.A. will offer a six-session course in quilting starting Tuesday from 7:30 to 9 p.m. at the Northeast School, Rockville.

Quilting, which is also called paper filling, is an ancient art of the Egyptians. Diedre Vozolo of Vernon will teach. Both classes will be limited to 15 persons. The quilting course is open to teen-agers. Prerequisite is required.

To learn more call the Y.M.C.A. office at Vernon Circle.

Ford leads Reagan in new sampling

United Press International President Ford, moving up in performance ratings, has passed and now leads Ronald Reagan in an NBC poll that asked Republicans which candidate they prefer as their presidential nominee.

NBC said Tuesday 50 percent of 535 registered Republicans questioned in its January poll stated they prefer Ford over the former California governor if the GOP convention narrows down to a choice between the two men. Thirty-eight per cent said they would favor Reagan and the remainder were undecided.

A month ago, Reagan had led Ford 43 to 40 per cent in the poll. The telephone poll, in which a total 2,175 persons were surveyed, also found 56 per cent approve of the way President Ford is handling his job compared to 51 per cent in December.

Grasso regime scored

WESTFIELD (UPI) - A Republican legislative leader says Gov. Ella T. Grasso's first year in office has been one of broken promises.

"I would describe Gov. Grasso's first year in office as one that was marked by broken promises, poor fiscal management and government by gimmickry," said Rep. Gerald F. Stevens, R-Milford, in a speech to the GOP state committee.

Stevens said Mrs. Grasso, elected in the 1974 Democratic landslide that swept the Republicans from control of the legislature, had reneged on her campaign promise of no new taxes.

He said Mrs. Grasso also had changed her mind on her position last summer not to pay state employees' increments.

"That type of fiscal mismanagement did not go unnoticed," he said.

"Connecticut's credit rating was dropped by both major bond rating agencies. A drop that will cost Connecticut taxpayers an additional $5 million in this fiscal year."

He said Mrs. Grasso and the Democratic-controlled legislature abdicated their responsibility by adjourning a special legislative session without taking action to erase a projected $80 million budget deficit.

"The governor says we face an $80 million deficit. Her party controls the legislature abdicated their responsibility by adjourning a special legislative session without taking action to erase a projected $80 million budget deficit."

Dear Abby By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I am nitpicking, but I just don't like to see an ex-serviceman make a fool of himself.

DEAR MIKE: Thanks for the info. I realize that for every regulation there's a reason, but I think that the ex-serviceman (or woman) who can still button his uniform from W.W. II should be allowed to wear it!

DEAR ABBY: I live in a duplex apartment building. The lady who occupies the other apartment has been taking a bath and again on one of her sisters who was changing her clothes.

Brazilian pianists

Gerardo Parente, foreground, and Jose Alberto Kaplan, Brazilian pianists, practice in Bailey Auditorium Monday morning as students watch. Later, the duo performed a program of Brazilian music attended by about 300 students who are interested in music. The pianists, who are visiting the United States sponsored by the Connecticut/Pariba Partners of the Americas program, have presented several concerts recently in the area. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Brazilian pianists play concert at MHS

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter
A piano duo from Brazil brought some of its nation's music to Manchester High School students Monday as part of a cultural exchange program between the two countries.

Both pianists are graduates of music in Brazil. Kaplan, a native Argentinian, has toured Europe and South America and is coordinator of the performing arts department of the Federal University of Pariba. Parente, a native of Brazil, has represented his country at the International Chamber Music Festival at the University of San Marco, Lima, Peru. This is his third visit to the United States. It is his first visit to this country as a piano duo.

Parente said he and Kaplan were delighted to discover so much music available in New York for four hands. During their concerts, Parente, who usually plays in the treble range, switched with his partner. Each also performs solo. In concert in Heublein Hall Auditorium at the Hartford Hospital School of Nursing last Saturday, Kaplan's nimble dexterity in his rendition of Schubert's "Impromptu, Op. 90, No. 4" was high praise. Kaplan attributed his agility to a method of complete relaxation, the achievement of which he calls his own method.

State police seek cars, mechanics

HARTFORD (UPI) — State police, who say their fleet of 1,070 cruisers has been crippled by age and use, want 400 new vehicles and 16 additional mechanics.

They said Tuesday 431 cruisers, either Ford or Plymouths, have surpassed previous mileage limits, 70,000 to 80,000 miles, and need replacing. And, the police said in a new budget request, their staff of mechanics must be doubled to 51 to repair aging cruisers and maintain the requested new ones. The problem began in 1972 under the administration of former Republican Gov. Thomas J. Meskill who instituted fiscal restraints and cut the cruiser budget, officials said.

Named to board
HARTFORD (UPI) — Lucy Benson, formerly Massachusetts secretary of human services, was named Tuesday to the Board of Trustees of Northeast Utilities. Mrs. Benson, an Amherst, Mass. resident, left Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis' cabinet last month. She is a former national president of the League of Women Voters. She had previously served as a member of utility's board from 1971 until 1974.

Grant aids Vietnamese schooling

Manchester's Board of Education has received a $4,500 federal grant to offset extra costs of educating Indo-Chinese children who have relocated to Manchester since the fall of Vietnam last year.

The grant, awarded under the federal Indo-Chinese Children's Refugee Assistance Program, will supplement the educational program for 15 Vietnamese students in Manchester schools, school administrators said.

There are 14 Vietnamese children in public schools and one child in a non-public school. So far this year, the school system has spent an extra $3,200 on educating the Vietnamese children, administrators told the school board. Administrators said the extra money is being spent on special tutoring for the Vietnamese children, either on a one-to-one basis or in small groups. Vietnamese students in the secondary school have needed more help than elementary school children, administrators said. The school board learned of the program Monday night, when it voted unanimously to ask town officials to set up a washout account for receipt and use of the $4,500 grant.

The town Board of Directors will consider the washout account next Tuesday in an 8 p.m. public hearing at the Keeney St. school.

In other business Monday night, the Board of Education heard a presentation of metric system education in elementary schools and approved three personnel matters.

June Charlamb, a sixth grade teacher at Robertson School and chairman of the school system's elementary mathematics committee, said elementary teachers are introducing the metric system gradually as plans are made for phasing out of the existing English system of measurement. The personnel matters approved by the school board were:

The resignation of Mrs. Lynn Space, a teacher at Bennet Junior High School for four years and now on leave of absence, effective immediately.

Appointment of Mrs. Carol Bellingham, a Manchester teacher for seven years but now on leave of absence, to assume a fifth grade vacancy at Waddell School, effective Jan. 5.

Appointment of Mrs. Sue McInerney of Manchester to teach Unit C at Nathan Hale School, effective March 1. Mrs. McInerney has had four years of teaching experience in South Carolina and in Germany.

Local shop supplies clothing to needy

By BETTY RYDER
Family/Travel Editor

"They used to call me 'Miss Black Velvet' but now they call me the 'rag lady,'" attractive Pat Shea said jokingly as she told how her business at the Exchange Shop at 501 E. Middle Pk. has grown into a rewarding, charitable venture.

Pat, who was Heublein's "Miss Black Velvet" from 1971-73, opened her shop in June.

"We take in articles on consignment, price them, and when they are sold, we split the money with the owner. If the articles are not sold over a certain period of time, the owner may pick them up."

"We began to discover that people who left items that didn't sell would just leave them with us rather than take them home again," she said.

At about that same time, Pat's husband, Jim, who works with disturbed patients and victims of drug abuse at a Middletown hospital, was looking for clothing for some of his patients.

"As the clothing items began to increase, we would sort them and send them to the hospital. Soon, other organizations approached us for clothing to fulfill their needs."

"We have worked with Edward 'Ned' Coll, director of The Revitalization Corps in Hartford and have donated a considerable amount of clothing to his organization for distribution to needy families," Pat said.

When Youth Challenge of Greater Hartford, Inc., a rehabilitation home for young men, many of whom are drug addicts, had a fire, the Exchange Club donated clothing and coats.

"We just sort of branched out," Pat said. "Several area church organizations contacted us in search of clothing for families in their area, and we assisted with whatever we had," she added.

Among those who speak highly of Pat's efforts are John P. Melendez, vice president of Youth Challenge of Greater Hartford, and the Rev. Kenneth Gustafson of the Calvary Church, Assemblies of God, in Manchester.

"Many of the young men who come to our facility (Youth Challenge) have only the clothes on their back, and through Pat's help we have been able to secure clothing for them," Melendez said.

The Rev. Gustafson also commended Pat's untiring efforts and the people who leave their unsold clothing at her shop when they are told it will be used for the needy.

Pat, who lives with her husband and three children, Debra 16, Sherry 11, and Garol 6, is accustomed to a busy schedule.

She attended Barbizon Modeling School, Hanover School of Modeling, Revlon's School of Make-up in New York City, and conducted a charm school for Seventeen Magazine.

She also attended the Max Factor School of Make-up in California, and served as director for the New England area of the Sears & Roebuck Charm School. Later she was a Revlon model.

Currently, between caring for her family and working in the Exchange Shop, she is also in charge of the European Health Spa Cosmetics Co.

As for workers at the shop, Pat says, "Everybody is a volunteer."

"Among them are my aunt, Mrs. Ella Hary of Rockville; my sister, Mrs. Wanda Turcotte of Manchester; and a friend, Mrs. Nancy Morin of Vernon. They all pitch in," she said.

The Exchange Shop is open Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; Thursdays till 9 p.m.; and Saturday, 11 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Army's research center aids services, civilians

By BETTY RYDER
Family/Travel Editor

The old saying "the Army travels on its stomach" may well be true and the U.S. Natick (Mass.) Development Center is seeing to it that the stomachs that are traveled on are full, well-clothed, protected, and sheltered as well as its up-to-date research can provide.

On a recent press tour of the Natick facility, we noted that constant research is conducted daily at the installation in an effort to improve the soldier's effectiveness, welfare, safety and comfort.

Additionally, scientists are taking an active role in helping to solve two of the nation's biggest ecological nightmares - waste disposal and fuel shortage.

At the Center, Army scientists have developed a method of converting waste paper into energy-rich fuel and food. The process hinges on a reaction between cellulose and a produced enzyme called cellulase to produce glucose sugar.

According to Dr. J.M. Nyström, "The glucose could also be refined and used in commercial baking or for intravenous feeding at hospitals. The glucose could be fermented into ethanol, and used in the production of certain plastics, solvents, or cosmetics."

"Ethanol, produced from glucose, could also serve to stretch our gas supply," he said.

"Automobiles can run quite efficiently on a mixture of one part ethanol and nine parts gasoline. As an added bonus, a by-product of the conversion process, lignin, can also be burned as a fuel much like coal."

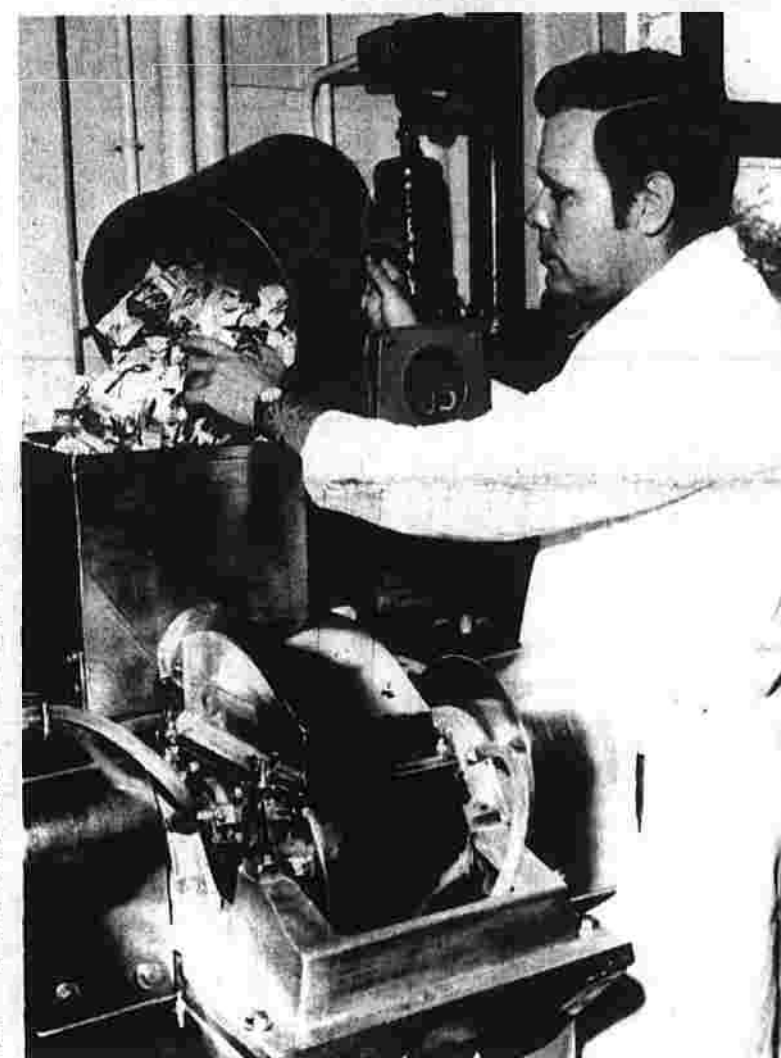

Under the command of Col. Rufus E. Lester Jr., a native of Macon, Ga., the Center has introduced or conducted improvements on more than 1,100 items ranging from uniforms to space foods.

Members of the press were shown a section of the vest material which had three bullet shells imbedded in it, but did not penetrate the vest. Many of the food items, which undoubtedly will one day be of great commercial value, were displayed and even tasted.

The components of the test meal, which went through rigid testing under arctic winter conditions, consumed both hot and cold, are packaged in flexible containers and contain all accessories necessary for consumption of the meal, except a canteen, canteen cup and water.

Each menu of the test individual Ready-to-Eat Meal contains a dessert component, crackers, cheese, jelly or peanut butter spread, a meat, and instant coffee. In addition, three menus contained beans with tomato sauce, three menus contained a freeze-dried potato patty, and three menus contained cocoa beverage powder.

Following lunch with Col. Lester, the Center was ushered into the food irradiation department. Maj.

This is where it all begins. Shredded newspaper or other waste materials are fed into the hopper of the milling machines in the first step of the process converting waste into glucose which may be further reduced to ethanol. (U.S. Army photograph by George Thomason)

From Your Neighbor's Kitchen

By Vivian Ferguson

Statistics indicate that a great part of America's food bill is spent in dining out. It has become a way of life whether it be the fast-food counter or the elegant gourmet restaurant.

It has always amazed me that many of the very best restaurants are weak in the vegetable department. Unless the establishment has someone who hand-selects the produce, it is easier to purchase huge cans of vegetables. It saves on the labor of cleaning, cutting, paring, etc.

What further amazes me is that the vegetables, be they fresh, canned or frozen are frequently over-cooked.

In recent years, more cooks have learned the art of cooking vegetables. How often have you heard a person say, "Well, I only like salad." If the vegetables are not over-cooked, usually the individual who likes raw vegetables will find it his surprise that he also likes them cooked.

Take green beans, for example, which are available all year in the markets. They need to be cooked only a few minutes. If you have fresh, crisp produce, leave the beans whole. Bring water to a good boil, add salt and drop the beans in a few at a time. Cover, and cook until tender but still firm.

If you are calorie conscious, simply drain the beans, sprinkle with fresh lemon juice and season to taste. Otherwise, add butter. If there are some left over, reheat the next day. Add some leftover tomatoes. A slice or two left from a previous meal can be chopped. You can use stewed tomatoes or just a touch of tomato sauce. Add garlic and Italian seasoning.

Wherever possible, I prefer to stir-fry or bake vegetables thereby losing no vitamins in water. To stir-fry, cut up celery, or zucchini or yellow squash. Melt some butter in a frying pan, add onion cut to your choice, and cook until transparent. Add the raw vegetables and, on high heat, stir about five minutes. Continue cooking until vegetables are done but still firm. Here again, you can add such things as a little chicken broth, consommé, tomatoes.

Mushrooms, fresh or canned, can be added to peas, green beans, or served stir-fried, with or without onions. A little cream can be added or red wine, sherry or Marsala wine. The winter vegetables such as butternut squash, acorn squash, turkeys, yams or sweet potatoes can be baked in the oven. Mash, add butter, seasoning and some milk, just enough to hold the mixture together.

This can be done in advance and reheated in the oven, in a casserole. Remember, when cooking fresh beans that you can retain vitamins by peeling them after they are boiled. It takes longer to cook them whole so allow enough time. Pierce with a fork and peel with a knife. You won't lose the vitamins in the water and they won't bleed as they do when cut before cooking.

Broccoli and cauliflower are usually cooked far too long. Both these vegetables can be eaten raw so why overdo them. The flower clusters of the broccoli should still be green when they come to the table. Neither of these vegetables should be mushy. Both, if cooked properly, can be placed in a casserole with melted butter, covered with grated Italian cheese and reheated quickly. I like to do this in one layer.

Carrot rings are delicious done in the frying pan. Sauté in butter a few minutes. Add a small amount of water, or chicken broth. Cover, and cook until just tender. Or, boil carrots in consommé - good for dieters. Add crushed mint leaves for flavor.

Cabbage is probably one of the vegetables that suffers most from over-cooking. If you're making a boiled dinner, it shouldn't fall apart when taken from the water. The wedges of cabbage should hold together. Cabbage can be shredded or cut into pieces with a sharp knife and nicely done in a frying pan. You can add white wine, onions and butter. This needs only a few minutes.

Spinach is another vegetable that is over-cooked. Wash the cabbage. It can be eaten raw and makes a delicious salad. Wash the leaves in cold water and place right in your saucepan. Don't add any more water. Cover and steam on high heat until just wilted. Serve with butter, or lemon juice, or vinegar. Do beet greens the same way.

The following recipe can be made with fresh, frozen or leftover spinach.

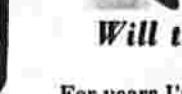

Spinach parmesan
Cook spinach until wilted. Drain well. Melt butter in frying pan, season to taste, add a pinch of nutmeg and grated Parmesan cheese to taste. Variation: Add an egg or two, slightly beaten with a fork before adding the cheese. Cook until eggs are set. Note: Many leftover vegetables such as zucchini, asparagus, broccoli can be reheated with the egg or mixed into the vegetable. A nice luncheon dish.

On 2nd Thought

By Jan Warren

Will the real "Everybody" please stand up!

For years I've wanted to meet that very special friend of the children's named Everybody. Everybody would rather fall down dead than be seen with parents at the movies on a Saturday night.

Everybody is making things pretty rough for my husband and me. "Who the devil is Everybody?" demanded my husband last night when our daughter told him that Everybody was going to Jamaica over spring vacation.

From where we stand, Everybody is the classic example of a problem child.

Everybody gets 50 cents more allowance than our kids, stays up a half hour later, and is allowed to go to R-rated movies at the tender age of eight.

Everybody wears patched jeans to school, goes off in the morning without eating breakfast, and is allowed unlimited quantities of pretzels and potato chips.

Everybody gets the family car on weekends, studies with the stereo at full blast, is driven to school on rainy days, and is never expected to walk home after the sports program.

Everybody has a 10-speed bike. Earth shoes, and a prewashed denim outfit. And Everybody would rather fall down dead than be seen with parents at the movies on a Saturday night.

Each time the kids come home with a new friend, I look the friend over from head to toe and then inquire, "Are you, by any chance, Everybody?" It never is and I'm beginning to think our kids are deliberately keeping us apart.

Actually there's only one way for parents to defend themselves and that is to keep the kids from claiming exclusive rights to Everybody.

This morning when I went off to John's hockey game bundled up in my husband's ancient red and black lumberjacket, Kate was appalled.

"Mother! You're not going out in school, goes off in the morning without eating breakfast, and is allowed unlimited quantities of pretzels and potato chips. Everybody's wearing them!"

"Everybody?" Kate eyed me skeptically. "Everybody?" I repeated as I started out the door. "Not your Everybody...MY Everybody."

ENVIRONMENTAL EDUCATION

The Bald Eagle, an endangered species

Why study about endangered species?

Our teachings here at the Center for Environmental Education cover a wide range of subjects and ideas. We present important environmental concepts to the children of Manchester with the hopes that our efforts will give them a different view of the world in which we live; and maybe help them to develop respect and healthy attitudes towards our environment.

We feel that it is of the utmost importance that our children try to come to learn just how complex our natural world is, that there are intricate webs of life that are being toyed with on a very dangerous scale.

During the school year many of the students we work with will be exposed to a class we present on endangered species. A lot of our children have heard the term "endangered species" or the word "extinct," but many of them do not realize what profound words these are.

Animals become endangered for a number of reasons, almost all connected to man in one way or another. For example, habitat destruction, pesticides, and over-hunting are some pressures exerted upon animals which cause their numbers to diminish severely.

Every one of us either knowingly or not contributes to the demise of some species of animals. Every day we introduce wastes into our environment, use a product which has probably been manufactured from a natural resource such as trees or minerals.

Teaching about endangered species or ones which have already gone extinct and contributes to the demise of some species of animals. Every day we introduce wastes into our environment, use a product which has probably been manufactured from a natural resource such as trees or minerals.

Social Security questions and answers

Q. I'm 65 and getting monthly Social Security retirement checks, and I'm also working part time for a church nursery. Since the church has not decided to cover my part-time work by Social Security, can these earnings affect my monthly checks?
A. Yes, if your total earnings for the year go over $1,760. Earnings from any work, whether or not covered by Social Security, have to be included in figuring the amount of your earnings that may affect benefits due you for a year. However, income from savings, investments, pensions, and insurance does not count.

Q. I receive Social Security disability payments. Although I'm still disabled, a friend has offered to let me try a job at this company. Should I report this to Social Security?
A. Yes, the work must be reported. A disabled person like yourself may be allowed a trial period in which to determine his ability to work. If that is the case, the disabled person still gets full monthly benefits for a limited period of time.

Q. Both my husband and I work full time. And because we also have two young children, I'd like to know how about Social Security protection for my family. Is there a booklet I can get?
A. Yes. Call any Social Security office and ask for a free copy of the booklet, "Social Security Information for Young Families." It explains the Social Security and Medicare protection you are earning for your family.
