Training center work progressing well

Laborers on the roof of the Regional Occupational Training Center on Wetherell St. work through winter weather to finish the building for a June deadline. Interior electricity, plumbing, wiring and a fire alarm system are being installed. Nearly all the exterior windows are installed and the inside masonry walls are 75 per cent complete. Half the roof is completed and heat duct work is about 75 per cent complete. Richard Lawrence, architect, said work is progressing on schedule and he doesn't anticipate any delay. ## Ford offensive ignites supporters

DURHAM, N.H. (UPI) — President Ford's maiden campaign offensive ignited New Hampshire supporters with the Sen. Stephen Smith, R-Plymouth, a Ford delegate.

Retired Sen. Norris Cotton, honorary chairman of Ford's New Hampshire operation, concurred. Two days before Ford's New Hampshire tour began Cotton called Reagan a "great man." Sunday he said the Ford campaign was "a little sluggish at first up here, but now I think Ford has got the edge."

Cotton said he thought Ford would win the New Hampshire primary "if it were held tomorrow...but not the margin a sitting President should."

The White House was cautious in its estimates. Peter Kaye, a spokesman for the national Ford campaign Saturday called the Reagan-Ford showdown "very, very tight right now." Ford made only limited appeals for support, although his trip was financed by his campaign.

"I hope it's not inappropriate and I think it's obvious I have come to New Hampshire to ask for your support Feb. 24," Ford told 1,500 guests at a Chamber of Commerce dinner in Nashua Saturday night. He dotted a 30-minute speech with ready reference to local problems and a reminder "1975 was a year of hard decisions and difficult compromises. But it was also a year of new realism."

The 62-year-old chief executive mingled only briefly with voters during the weekend, shaking hands with some of about 1,000 persons who turned out to meet him at the Manchester airport Saturday. His most open appeal for support came before about 1,250 invited campaign volunteers Sunday.

Rep. James C. Cleveland, R-N.H., Ford's state chairman, roused supporters and the President himself with his call to "tell the Ford story...go tell it the mountains. That's what you have to do."

"Competition, whether it's on the ski slopes...on the football field or in government, it's good for America," Ford replied. He reminded backers that in contrast to other candidates, "we know something about running the federal government."

Ford repeatedly cited figures showing reduced unemployment, and by implication criticized Reagan's plan to return the cost of $90 billion in federal programs to states. "The worst alternative is to not give you the money and to get the services you'd have to raise local taxes," Ford said.

Guatemala death toll passes 15,000 mark

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (UPI) — Government officials say the death toll has reached more than 15,000 in this Central American republic, hammered by three series of earth tremors in five days of devastation.

A new set of shocks battered the capital early Sunday, swaying buildings, driving panicked citizens into the streets and prompting churchmen to call on their parishioners to repent.

Aftershocks rippled through the city late in the day. Citizens refused to enter their damaged homes, preferring to camp out in makeshift tents despite gusty winds, a temperature drop to the low 50s and the city's first rainstorm since the tremors began.

The official National Emergency Committee Sunday night placed the death toll at 15,043, with 37,000 injured since the initial quake rumbled through Guatemala and other parts of Central America Wednesday.

The committee said at least 220,000 Guatemalans lost their homes in the quakes, but reports had not arrived from many small towns left isolated by landslides and communications failures.

Sunday's tremors began at 3:20 a.m. EST, heavily damaging the Neuropsychiatric Hospital in the capital and sending patients running in panic. Patients from three other hospitals were sent to a treatment center at the trade fairgrounds.

Sporadic looting prompted several neighborhoods to organize vigilante committees.

Manchester area residents trying to communicate with friends or family in Guatemala were offered help today by a local radio amateur, Richard Reichenbach of 406 Woodland St.

Reichenbach, a radio ham for about 25 years, said he's been monitoring some of the emergency messages to and from earthquake-stricken Guatemala, and he decided to offer his help in communications.

Reichenbach said he has the Roman Catholic priests celebrated open air masses outside their wrecked churches, repeating Cardinal Mario Casariego's words that the quakes were "the will of the all-powerful one" and urging Guatemalans to repent their sins.

necessary telephone-patch equipment to get messages relayed to Guatemala.

Reichenbach, a member of Manchester's Disaster Control Advisory Council, said he offered similar communications help to area residents immediately after World War II, when townspeople were trying to contact servicemen abroad.

Reichenbach said anyone trying to contact people in Guatemala can telephone him at 649-2814.

Directors to consider suit over state funds

By SOL R. COHEN

Herald Reporter

With Manchester already a party in one law suit against the State of Connecticut, the Board of Directors is being asked to approve involvement in still another suit — unrelated to the first.

The board will consider the proposal, being recommended by Town Manager Robert Weiss, when it meets Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

The Connecticut Conference of Municipalities is instigating a suit to free state funds for special education still due the towns and cities for the 1974-75 fiscal year. Still due them is $6 million of the $36 million promised, with Manchester claiming $118,569 under the state's formula. Actually, however, Manchester has received all but $26,000 of the $500,000 it estimated it would receive. The discrepancy results from differences between school board estimates and state formulas.

The town's share of the court costs would be $470. State Finance Commissioner Jay Tepper already has assured the municipalities he will ask the legislature for funds and expects that the amount due them will be paid in a month or two.

Last November, the directors authorized an expenditure not to exceed $2,000 toward the cost of the first suit against the state by the Connecticut Conference of Municipalities. This one challenges the legality of the state's mandatory binding arbitration law — passed by the 1975 General Assembly.

Another recommendation by Weiss is for adjusting the pay scale for top and middle management personnel, to be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1976 and to cost the town an additional $23,379.

The proposed pay scale would be 7 per cent above what top and middle management was receiving on June 30, 1975, when the 1974-75 fiscal year ended, and not 7 per cent above what presently is being paid. Raises were given to all management personnel for 1975-76, but below the 7 per cent. To be added is the sum which will bring each to the 7 per cent figure.

The board is expected to take action on three additional appropriations to the school budget — all aired at last Tuesday's board meeting:

• $62,581 from "Instant Lottery" receipts, as authorized for school budgets by the 1975 General Assembly and to be spent for non-recurring programs.

• $22,675 for the Work Incentive Program, to be financed by federal WIN funds. It is for 41 weeks of employment in the school system for three persons. The purpose of the WIN funds is to take people off the welfare rolls.

• $4,500 for Manchester's (1 on 1) tutorial program for Vietnamese refugee children (1 at East Catholic High School and 14 in the public schools). It is being financed by a federal grant.

In other business Tuesday night, the board will consider appointments to the Human Relations Commission, the Development Commission and the Citizens Advisory Committee. For the fourth consecutive month (the proposal keeps getting tabled), it will consider an allocation for a connecting roadway on Case Mt.

Town meeting endorsed as Bicentennial event

Town Meeting '76, a one-day community forum, which has been endorsed by the Manchester Bicentennial Committee, is being planned for this spring.

In a contemporary recasting of the traditional town meeting, people of all ages, persuasions and backgrounds will spend a full day identifying basic issues of the community and proposing practical steps to meet these challenges.

Town Meeting '76, which has been recognized by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration and the Connecticut Bicentennial Commission, was developed by the Institute of Cultural Affairs (TCA), a non-profit research, demonstration and training group concerned with the human factor in world development.

To make Town Meeting '76 a reality, Manchester organizations, businessmen and individuals are needed to sponsor the one-day community forum. An informational meeting for all those interested is scheduled for Thursday from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. in the hearing room at the Municipal Building. Members of the IAC staff will explain the program and answer any questions.

Sponsors, to date, include the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce, Manchester Area Conference of Churches, Manchester Jaycees, Manchester Evening Herald, Manchester Community College and Church Women United.

Forest Hills customers getting corrected bills

Because it charged them sewage fees they don't owe to the Town of Manchester, the town water department is sending corrected water bills to 97 customers in the Forest Hills section.

The corrected bills are going to all 29 dwellings on Cushman Dr., all 22 on Tracy Dr., all 12 on Montclair Dr., and 34 on Scott Dr. (from number 4 to number 144).

Those 97 were billed for sewage fees by the town when, in reality, they are Eighth District taxpayers for sewage service and pay only to the district.

A spokesman for the water department said the mistake was because all other dwellings in Forest Hills pay sewage fees to the town. Until Sept. 2, the entire area bought its water from the Manchester Water Co. The town bought the private company on that date and now is billing all water users in Manchester.

Its a snow duck

You've heard of snowmen, but have you ever seen a snow duck? Ginny Peterson of 18 S. Hawthorne has one in her front yard named "Funny Duck." Others in Manchester are taking advantage of the snow as an outlet for their artistic talents, too. But if the warming trend continues, this pastime may soon fade away. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Police described the robbery as follows:

A man wearing a green ski mask with yellow trim and a dark hooded jacket with fur around the hood came into the restaurant after 11 p.m. He stood about 5 feet 11 and was of slender build.

The man ordered the store proprietor, Dimitrius Gitsis of Willimantic, to get down on the floor. Then he took the cash and left in a small, foreign car.

Variety of soloists heard with orchestra

By Michael A. Orfelli

What is it like to be a soloist? How does it feel to be carefully scrutinized by an audience large enough to fill two-thirds of Bailey Auditorium? As you look out upon an expectant crowd what thoughts race through your mind?

At first you view the experience as the end result of hard work and practice. A great sense of responsibility suddenly comes over you, as you think about the musicians in the orchestra. Quickly, you pour over difficult passages that require extraordinary manual dexterity or tonal flexibility that only few gifted performers are capable of. You notice that your hands are moist, and if you are a woodwind or brass player, your mouth is dry. You reach deep within you to muster courage to maintain your composure; the adrenalin flows through your body as you embrace the music.

The first segment concluded with a very fine performance of "Concerto for Piano No. 2" by Johannes Brahms. The soloist, Douglas Hanson, delighted the audience with his fine technique, accuracy and exciting style. His artistry was complimented by some very nice playing of the French horns by Mr. DeLago, who began the concert, and Dr. Lloyd Schmidt who accompanied Hanson in a later passage quite tastefully. The audience's receptivity was justly earned.

The second portion of the program opened with a work Claude Debussy wrote as a test piece for students at the "Conservatoire." The flawless performance would have passed with flying colors.

Peter Labombard concluded the solo work with a rendition of "Serenade for Flute" by Howard Hanson, a twentieth century composer. In this most enchanting piece of music, the flautist is accompanied by the string section. A sensitive musician, Mr. Labombard seemed to be one of the expressive players from the group. Good projection and technical excellence coupled with this eloquent style resulted in a powerful performance.

To conclude the concert, the entire orchestra was featured in Richard Wagner's "Overture to Rienzi." The performance was played by lack of concentration in the introduction, where poor attacks and intonation problems were heard. This gave way to some full-bodied string playing and some occasionally good playing.

The overall 1976 section concept and sound is what is last spring nor were the woodwinds as tight as they were at that time.

The concert was an enjoyable and fast-moving. It provided the audience with an opportunity to view six talented soloists, tested by the pressures of solo performance, and the Manchester Civic Orchestra — which continues to be a viable force for culture in this area.

Choppers prove a Cop's best friend

The helicopter, which first proved its value during the Korean War as a means of evacuating wounded soldiers from forward and often otherwise inaccessible positions, is coming into its own in another kind of war.

000 traffic violations in 1974 and were cracking down on speeders at the rate of 2,500 a month in 1975.

— Detroit has six helicopter patrol ships equipped with "instant daylight" lights that can illuminate a 50-foot circle from an altitude of 500 feet.

THOUGHT

Recently on a visit to Colorado Springs, it was my privilege to snoop the beautiful Pike's Peak region. Looking out in all directions from that great summit I couldn't help but contrast this outstanding view with that seen on the ground level on another occasion while in New York City.

are able to see things in their true perspective. The perplexities of life look so different when viewed in their proper setting and we know then that all things work together for good to them that love God.

Reflections

By Hal Turkington, Managing Editor

The East Side Rec once was the mecca of basketball in Manchester—in the '20s, the '30s and the '40s. They called it the cage game back in those days, and basketball at the East Side Rec was in reality the cage game. Nets were dropped from the overhead track to separate spectators in the bleachers from the participants of the game.

Johnny Green, and this writer. In 1947 the National Guard took over sponsorship of the team, and a year later Nassif Arms was sponsor. Competition creates crowds, so Art Pongratz went out and got Manchester a franchise in the Eastern Basketball League comprised of state teams such as Bristol, Meriden, Torrington, Wallingford, New Britain.

OPEN FORUM

Bennet 'hazard' solution wasteful

To the editor, I have just finished reading the article regarding the "hazard" at Bennet. I consider the Board of Education's solution to be one of the most flagrant wastes of the taxpayers' money I have seen.

I do not think a tunnel or bridge is going to help the situation. I recall a system whereby a student could receive a demerit for crossing against the light and when enough were accumulated he was thrown out of school for a few days.

Maybe the board has lost its ability to control the students and, if the problem rests with the motorists, then we have the authority to punish them also. How is the board going to make the students go across the bridge? Thorny bushes planted on both sides of Main St. from the Army-Navy Club to Carter Chevrolet intertwined with barbed wire?

I like the thought expressed in the words of a chorus, "I'm living on the mountain, underneath a cloudless sky." The only thing that can cause clouds, which would separate us from our Father's face, is the presence of sin in our individual life.

When sin has been entirely removed, there are no clouds and we truly know the joy of His presence.

Mr. Margaret T. Russell The Salvation Army

When competition became keener, Art Pongratz sought help for an all-local team, and that's how we got to know Jackie Allen, Kenny Goodwin, Al Palmieri.

The public address announcer (that was me) has life observations: "Mel Cushing, the ticket seller. His

Ford just making another funny

WASHINGTON — The late H.L. Mencken, who should be (but isn't) must reading in every political science course, put it this way: "Has the art of politics no apparent utility? Does it appear to be unqualifiedly ratty, raffish, sordid, obscene, and low down, and it its salient virtues a gang of unmitigated scoundrels? Then let us not forget its high capacity to soothe and tickle the midriff, its incomparable services as a maker of entertainment."

Democrats on Capitol Hill immediately announced they would be shocked, outraged and generally put out by Ford's violation of the new Federal Election Law. Midriff tickle, anyone?

Anyway, Ford sent Counsel Philip W. Buchen over to chat with Thomas B. Curtis, chairman of the election commission. The result was an agreement that Morton would do any political advising on his own time, after tolling at "nonpolitical" business for 40 hours a week.

Incidentally, Capitol Hill Democrats seem to suggest that Gerald Ford intended the practice of using his office for political profit. Forget the Haidemanns and the Ehrlichmans of the Nixon administration. In the sensitive post of Attorney General, Bob Kennedy was President John's top political adviser.

Adams as president. No candidate in the December, 1924 election had received the necessary majority. In 1900, 7,000 construction workers in Chicago voted to strike for an eight-hour day.

These born on this date are under the sign of Aquarius. William Henry Harrison, ninth president of the United States, was born Feb. 9, 1793.

On this date in history: In 1825, the U.S. House of Representatives elected John Quincy Adams as president.

Mr. Pongratz several days after it occurred Feb. 25, 1960. He was more than upset when he called and asked why he hadn't been told about it rather than reading it in the papers.

We were on the sports desk Friday, Feb. 26, 1960. The next riot with Wallingford, and a police escort out-of-town for Danny Finn.

This was a time out during the Pongratz benefit game. At left is the late Johnny Falkowski, a coach of many Manchester teams. Bobby Knight, the late Jackie Allen (with towel) and Big Buck Bychowski wait for the whistle to start play again.

Road & Track magazine considered hundreds of 1975 cars:

The best car in the world for under $3500.

The Volkswagen Rabbit was picked to be the best car in the world for under $3500 for the right reasons. Handling, acceleration, ride, comfort, space, luggage capacity, brakes, durability, reliability - all these entered into the selection.

We at Volkswagen are proud to take our place next to Mercedes-Benz and the other fine cars chosen "The Best."

39 mpg on the highway, 25 in the city, is another reason the Rabbit was picked. The Rabbit, with stick shift, got that mileage in 1976 EPA tests. (The mileage you get can vary, depending on how and where you drive, optional equipment, and the condition of your car.)

Northeast students mark Bicentennial

"Happy Birthday dear America, happy birthday to you," can be heard ringing from the first-grade classrooms at the Northeast School. The children are celebrating the Bicentennial. They followed the songs by taking turns telling what we can do to make America a happy place.

The first-graders are also cross stitching a Bicentennial sampler which will have on it a replica of the colonial flag, the present day flag, the alphabet, numerals, and the Northeast School Grade 1. The fourth-graders have started a "Time Line." When completed it will be a gift to one of Vernon's public buildings. Each fourth-grade class is responsible for a different time era. When completed it will be on display in one of Vernon's public buildings.

Other classes are doing tempera window paintings depicting colonial dress, soldiers, and the Liberty Bell. Fifth-graders will be making their own horn books and work slates. The old art of apple carving is being employed by a fifth-grade class. The children add bodies to apple heads and dress them like people in history.

Some of the older children at the school are spending their free time working on a display of Colonial American tools. The school chorus is working on 10 songs for their part in a musical production "Revolutionary Ideas."

The fourth and fifth grades at the Center Road School are working on a humorous opera. "Let George Do It," to be presented later this month.

Vernon

The Vernon School system has expanded its free and reduced price meal program for children unable to pay the full price. The revised rates follow guidelines set under the National School Lunch Program and allow an increase in the family income.
