Drought threat to food supply

By JAMES F. WIECK United Press International A winter drought could bring disaster to much of America, endangering the nation's food supplies and bringing higher prices.

The grain belt needs water. So do California's fertile valleys. A drought is threatening disaster to grain farmers in the Great Plains and the area that stretches from Minnesota and the Dakotas down along the Rockies into New Mexico and Texas.

Wheat farmers in the western two-thirds of Kansas said the potential for crop loss is severe. In Kansas, Oklahoma, eastern Colorado and New Mexico farmers are reporting dry conditions.

Okahoma, where the wheat crop is described in poor to fair condition, received some moisture in recent days, but John Cochran, an emergency and Livestock Reporting Service said that "with this cold weather it really isn't helping much at all."

"We can't take much more wind or dry weather or we'll be in bad, bad trouble," said Erwin Witte of the Colorado Agriculture Department. "I'm pessimistic about irrigated crops, too, especially the hay. There isn't any snowpack in the mountains."

Farmer John Hadley said the situation was critical in the Clovis area of New Mexico.

"We're going to have to have it (water) precipitation soon before the situation deteriorates completely - say another four weeks," Hadley said.

Their hearts are in it

Putting their hearts into a February Heart Month project are these members of the Chestnut Hill Pre-School Nursery as they make heart-shaped cookies to sell. Rolling out the dough is Jeff Minor while Diane Ashton watches. Jonas McCray sprinkles colored sugar as Michelle Mac waits to put a tray full of cookies in the oven. The youngsters were shown a model of the human heart as compared to a valentine heart in a learning activity about February being Heart Month. ### Shelter beautification proposed Acknowledging that the bus shelters being placed around Manchester "could be considerably improved from the aesthetic viewpoint," Town Manager Robert Weiss is proposing steps be taken to that end.

The bus shelters are being placed by the state Department of Transportation at no cost to the town. The funding is under the Federal Manpower Act. Manchester's responsibility is for cleanup and landscaping and for minor maintenance.

Weiss has instructed Director of Public Works Jay Giles to "take whatever steps are necessary to provide some aesthetic treatment in the near future."

Weiss suggested the possibility of "window boxes with appropriate plantings during the summer months and some evergreen or laurel-type foundation plantings."

He suggested also that Giles possibly "could work with the Town Beautification Committee or with the garden clubs, to get their interest, assistance and, hopefully, contributions for this project."

"Also," said Weiss, "you might consider trying to interest schools to take on the project of adopting a shelter and making improvements as a civic-interest project."

Burkamp easement backed

A request by Kenneth Burkamp for a town easement across the back of the Jaffe & Podrove building on Main St. won the backing of the Parking Authority Monday night.

Burkamp, who purchased the former site of the W. T. Grant store with the idea of creating a mini-mall shopping center there, outlined his request Monday afternoon at a meeting with town representatives.

Among them were Joseph Garman and Leo Juran of the Parking Authority who recommended to the authority Monday night that it endorse the request.

Burkamp is seeking a perpetual easement for a strip about 12 feet wide by about 109 feet long across the back of the building in the town-owned portion of the Purnell Parking area. He plans to use it for an overhang above an entrance to the building, a walk, and landscaping.

Under the plan, seven of the parking stalls there would be lost. There are now about 40 stalls in that lot.

The plan would also remove the barricade which prevents drivers from going out of the lot south along Purnell Pl.

Burkamp plans to reorient the building so that the main entrance is off the parking lot instead of at Main St. His preliminary plans call for a restaurant at the lower level near the lot.

He told those at Monday's meeting that a lease is being prepared for a restaurant occupant and it hinges on obtaining a liquor license.

Burkamp would bear all the costs of the proposed improvements and may provide lights for the lot. Other portions of the Purnell parking area are lighted but the town-owned section is not.

The final decision over the easement rests with the town's Board of Directors. Weiss said Monday he would have the question prepared for board consideration next month.

Probate office hours work well

When Judge of Probate William FitzGerald assumed office in January 1973, he instituted office hours every Thursday evening — a first in Manchester's history. The probate court was established here in 1853. Judge FitzGerald is only its fourth judge.

How have the office hours worked out?

"Very well," says FitzGerald. "They give people a chance to talk about their problems concerning estates, such as the final accounting and the need for probating an estate at all. And they discuss problems of adoptions, such as eligibility and how to go about it among other things."

The Thursday night session are from 6:30 to 8 p.m., but they usually extend to about 9.

Judge FitzGerald says, "They're strictly for information purposes, to assist people with estate, adoption and similar problems. We don't have formal proceedings and we make no rulings at these sessions."

He remembers when they first started. "For the first few Thursdays, I sat around reading magazines. They've become so popular, we now encourage appointments, and I have two girls assisting me."

The reason for the appointments, he explains, is that people had to wait as much as 45 minutes before they had their turn. Now, says Judge FitzGerald, appointments are held to four each Thursday night, thus still leaving some room for walk-ins.

He says the Thursday night office hours have helped many people receive information they might not have received otherwise.

Opinion

High school grads: Small expectations

More Americans are going to school for more years than ever before, but they seem to be learning less and less. One in every five adult Americans is "functionally illiterate" and unable to cope with the basic demands of life, according to the preliminary report of a five-year national survey. And the illiteracy rate among young people, aged 18 to 29, is worse than that of those aged 30 to 39.

Millions of people don't understand simple things like how rent works when they get out of high school, says Dr. Norvell Northcutt of the University of Texas, who headed the team conducting the survey. "They lack the skills and knowledge to achieve even moderate success in life."

At the same time, there has been a decade-long drop in the scores achieved by college-bound high school seniors in such widely used tests as the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) and the American College Testing Program (ACT).

Up until the mid-1960s, the trend for all testing programs was a steady increase in all subject areas. Then a decline began which has steepened in recent years and has brought the level of SAT scores below that of the 1940s.

This has educators puzzled, and many of them are blaming the tests themselves, claiming they do not accurately measure true abilities. A different explanation, however, is suggested by another team of researchers.

Decreasing enrollment in traditional academic courses is the most likely cause of the declining achievement level of American high school students, say David E. Wiley, associate professor of education at the University of Chicago, and Annegret Harnischfeger, a former research associate at the same university.

High school students are taking fewer "basic" courses like English and mathematics, and fewer college preparatory courses like algebra, first-year foreign languages, chemistry and physics, they say.

Another finding of concern to parents and educators is a drop in enrollment in vocational training, such as business and home economics courses. This development, together with the general enrollment decline in academic courses, "has resulted in extreme drops in total secondary school course taking."

The researchers also speculate that students may be receiving less over-all instruction time because of shortened school days, or increases in study hall periods as a substitute for homework.

Wiley and Harnischfeger examined a number of other possible factors, such as problems associated with racial desegregation, the increased mobility of families, the rise in single-parent families, the effects of television watching, school crowding, teacher strikes, higher student suspension rates and a larger percentage of "drop-out prone" students staying in school and taking the tests.

They found nothing that could be linked as directly to the decline in achievement, negatively or positively, as the fact that students simply are not being given the basic education the schools are supposed to provide.

There would seem to be a more than casual connection between this report and the one on illiteracy.

In our desire to produce happy, socially adjusted individuals from whom little in hard academic study is demanded, we seem to be creating a generation of educationally shortchanged incompetents from whom little can be expected.

 American journalist William Allen White was born on Feb. 10, 1888.
 American actor-entertainer Jimmy Durante (1893) and Robert Wagner (1929) also were born on this date.
 On this day in history:
 In 1942, the American auto industry

 In 1962, U2 spy plane pilot Francis Gary Powers was returned to the United States in exchange for Soviet spy Rudolf Abel.
 In 1964, an Australian aircraft carrier and a U.S. destroyer collided in the Tasman Sea, killing 100 American naval men.

McCarthy: A less personal president

Editor's note: Candidates for the presidential nomination of their parties, and other political leaders, were invited by Newspaper Enterprise Association to contribute articles concerning presidential character: What sort of person should be elected President on Nov. 2, 1976, and why? Following is one of these contributions.

By Eugene J. McCarthy
 We have to move away from the idea of the personalized imperial Presidency. I was saying that as early as 1968, and I had observed the overpersonalization of the office of the Presidency since President Truman's days.

President Eisenhower overpersonalized it by omission, saying, "I have the power, and I'm delegating it," so that John Foster Dulles ran around the world signing us up anywhere anyone would sign, and a few places where nobody would. Then President Kennedy began a personalization as to style but also in bypassing his cabinet members to go more to his personal staff for advice on public policy.

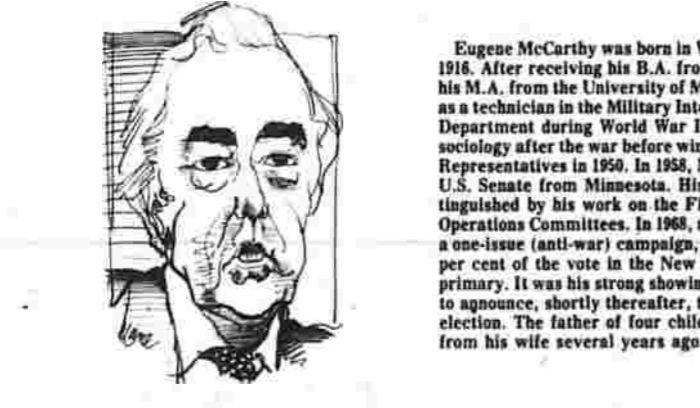

President Johnson really began manifesting the problem of overpersonalization when he referred to "my Cabinet," "my Vice President," even "my Congress," and at one point, when at a military base, to "my helicopters." Former President Nixon was the culmination, using the indefinite "we" as though he embodied the nation. He made no distinction between his private capacities and his public office, which led to the use of the FBI, the CIA and the IRS as arms of his personal reelection campaign.

President Ford shows no sign of diminishing the emphasis on personalizing the Presidency. In fact, the high point of the Ford Presidency was probably the time he was shown toasting his own muffins; unless it was the time that he without consultation with the Congress decided to remove the threat to world peace which was posed by the sampans of the Cambodian navy.

To make an effective change, the President elected in the Bicentennial year should be a person whose record and whose proposals support a trend away from excessive emphasis on personality, and toward concentration on the real issues facing the nation. A candidate shouldn't be concerned with his place in history, but with his country's place in history.

Chief among the issues which must be explored is the demilitarization of American foreign policy, coupled with a renewed weight to economic foreign policy. The new President

Tolland letter challenged

To the editor,
 The letter of 2/5/76 from Concerned Citizens is filled with lies. Whoever wrote that letter is a discredit to the Town of Tolland. I shall prove all the lies in a separate letter to the Concern Citizens box number. I ask all state employees to mail copies of their W-2 forms to Box 82, Tolland, Conn. Concerned Citizens should request copies of the W-2 forms for all political appointees, their assistants and their aides.

In a report that I read last month, the salary of workers in the private sector increased by 74 per cent during the years from 1967 to 1975. Wouldn't it be nice for people working under the Merit system to have their salaries increased 10 per cent every year?

Yes, Concerned Citizens members of the General Assembly and ask them how they decided to vote themselves a pay raise and ask them about their retirement benefits after a ten-year tenure. They also noted to give state employees collective bargaining which has forced us to become financial supporters of unions whether we like it or not. So if we are forced to pay dues, why shouldn't we reap the same benefits as union members do in the private sector?

Where is your concern when tax commissioners play "Let's make a deal game" with the businesses in Connecticut that owe the most money in taxes? The deficit did not fall from the sky with yesterday's snow. It has been building up for a very long time and writing off notions of unpaid taxes owed by large corporations has, in part, created the deficit.

Concerned Citizens of Tolland you can cut down on government expenses by going in person to any of the motor vehicle offices throughout the state and renewing your licenses and registration rather than have them conveniently mailed to you. No motor vehicle employee has had a weekend off (consisting of Saturday and Sunday) since 1972. We work on Saturday mornings and Thursday evenings to serve you — at no extra cost to you. Most people get paid overtime and double time for working nights and Saturdays.

Let's all fight for no increase in gasoline taxes, "hands off the Sailor and Soldier Fund," no increase in state employees work week, light controls on government spending, and a reduction on all present taxes through a state income tax, which

THOUGHT

I need not shout my faith. Thrice eloquent are quiet trees and the green listening sod; Hushed are the stars, whose power is never spent; the hills are mute; yet how they speak of God!

In our own faith, it is not so much our words, our spoken things, or the well thought out phrases, but what is in our hearts. The love and concern shown toward others, the serenity with which we face our days. The way we treat the little child, what are what counts.

Are we contending in our attitude toward other human beings to so lucky as we? There, but for the grace of God, I, or our quietness, and the way we live, is what counts with God.

Pay hike proposal would add $49,800 to town salary base

By SOL R. COHEN

The proposed pay raises Town Manager Robert Weiss is recommending for top and middle management personnel would increase Manchester's salary base by about $49,800.

Weiss is recommending that the raises should be retroactive to Jan. 1, 1976, at an immediate cost of about $24,900. However, the entire increase of $49,800 would be added to the salary base and would affect salary negotiations for 1976-77 (the fiscal year to begin July 1).

The proposed pay scale involves 56 employees, including three vacancies (superintendent of highways, laboratory director and deputy building inspector).

The $24,900 in raises retroactive to Jan. 1, 1976 amount to a 2.56 per cent raise for the 1975-76 fiscal year. Added to the 5 per cent raise given top and middle management as of July 1, 1975, their raise for the entire year would come to 7.56 per cent. However, because $49,800 would be added to their pay scale and not only the $24,900 retroactive to Jan. 1, their pay scale base actually would be increased by about 10.9 per cent.

It appears unlikely that the Board of Directors will react favorably to the recommendations. They will consider them at their meeting tonight.

On Jan. 12, the directors were briefed by Weiss and Assistant Manager Charles McCarthy on inequities existing between pay raises given union personnel on July 1 and pay raises given top and middle management. They said management personnel were unhappy because they received a 5 per cent raise then and the unions were granted 6 and 7 per cent.

Weiss said middle management had hired an attorney to represent them in negotiations and said he's concerned some members of the group might establish collective bargaining rights.

The directors indicated they'd be amenable to adding to the pay raises given them as of July 1 — to bring them up to the 7 per cent raise for 1975-76 given union employees.

It instructed Weiss to come in with cost figures for correcting the inequities. The report by Weiss for pay raises equivalent to 10.9 per cent for 1975-76 is the one the directors will receive tonight.

Among the proposed revisions in the pay scale (all on a yearly basis although only half would be paid in this fiscal year) are: a $1,391 raise for the director of public works; $1,135 for the chief of police and the fire chief; $1,180 for the assistant town manager and the town clerk; $1,165 for the controller; $1,088 for the water and sewer administrator; the town planner and the assessor; $1,061 for the rec director and the data processing director; $1,074 for the town engineer and $1,045 for the chief building inspector.

Comparable raises are provided for some middle management personnel, with some exceeding the figures for department heads. The average raise for the 56 employees comes to about $835. It would be in addition to the estimated $790 average pay raise given each of the 56 as of July 1, 1975.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

The first paper money issued on the national level, June 18, 1775, was $2 million in bills of credit, with the 12 federated colonies pledged to share in their redemption. Paper money not only paid for guns and military supplies, but also served as propaganda encouraging Americans to fight. Notes bore such slogans as "An Appeal to Heaven" and "Pro Arme et Focis," and featured woodcuts of victorious battles, "The World Almanac notes.

Commission members charged their chairman, Theresa Parla, with responsibility to making a recommendation to the state Department of Environmental Protection on a town plan to suspend a sewer pipe from a bridge over the Hockanum River on New State Rd. just east of Hilliard St. The pipe would be part of a project to provide sewer service to apartments in the area which now have septic tanks. Some concern was expressed over the possibility that the pipe would interfere with the future development of the Hockanum River linear park. The pipe would not hang below the level of the bridge structure, however a town spokesman said today.

The commission has long regarded the pond as a potential recreation area for the town and has favored public acquisition of it.

The commission Monday decided to ask Public Works Director Jay Giles to take steps to be sure the area is included in a flood survey which is to be conducted in town.

Plans for cleanup of Case Mt. later in the year are also being formulated by the commission.

Looking still further ahead, the commission is planning to assist in an effort to have more town land set aside this year for use by citizens as garden plots.

St. Bridget Junior High School is having registration for students entering Grade 7 in September.

Auto mileage data available

By State Department of Consumer Protection

Years ago, and not too many years at that, the main concern of new car buyers was appearance of the vehicle. Today the emphasis is on the specific performance of the car — like how many miles it gets to the gallon.

A booklet designed to help you make your choice this year is provided by the federal government. For a single free copy of "Miles Per Gallon for 1976 Cars," write to Consumer Information Center, Dept. 84, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

Several factors that influence gas-oil consumption are mentioned in the booklet.

For instance, vehicle weight and engine size are one of the most important of these factors. Optional equipment, too, such as an air conditioner, not only adds weight to the car, but also requires power from the engine and additional fuel for operation. For example, an air conditioner in operation can reduce gas mileage by more than 10 per cent in city driving.

Reduced mileage is obtained from a car with automatic transmission as compared with a manual transmission vehicle, and rapid acceleration can reduce fuel economy up to 15 per cent over moderate acceleration. Best fuel economy is obtained at speeds between 30 and 40 miles per hour with no stops and no rapid speed changes, according to test results.

Other factors that influence fuel consumption point to an idling engine that may burn about a half-pint of gas every six minutes. Unnecessary braking and excessive driving in low gears will result in reduced mileage, and a properly tuned car will average six per cent better mileage than one which is not tuned properly.

Answers to questions of general interest will appear in this column. Address questions to: Of Consumer Concern, Department of Consumer Protection, State Office Building, Hartford, Conn. 06115, or dial toll free 1-800-942-2649.

Spring cleanup of areas planned by commission

Spring may be a long way off but the Manchester Conservation Commission is already taking action toward spring cleaning.

At a commission meeting Monday, Jacqueline Aronson, a member reported that she has discussed with the owners of the Hilliard Pond land a request that the commission be allowed to organize a cleanup of the area. She said the owners granted the request and asked that it be made in writing with some assurance that no liability would incur to them.

The cleanup work there would be done by Boy Scouts. It has been tentatively scheduled for April.

The object of the cleanup is to make the pond area, north of W. Middle Tpke. and east of Adams St. more presentable.

The commission has long regarded the pond as a potential recreation area for the town and has favored public acquisition of it.

The commission Monday decided to ask Public Works Director Jay Giles to take steps to be sure the area is included in a flood survey which is to be conducted in town.

Plans for cleanup of Case Mt. later in the year are also being formulated by the commission.

Looking still further ahead, the commission is planning to assist in an effort to have more town land set aside this year for use by citizens as garden plots.

Commission members charged their chairman, Theresa Parla, with responsibility to making a recommendation to the state Department of Environmental Protection on a town plan to suspend a sewer pipe from a bridge over the Hockanum River on New State Rd. just east of Hilliard St. The pipe would be part of a project to provide sewer service to apartments in the area which now have septic tanks. Some concern was expressed over the possibility that the pipe would interfere with the future development of the Hockanum River linear park. The pipe would not hang below the level of the bridge structure, however a town spokesman said today.

The state of the insurance industry.

The returns are in. For some segments of the insurance industry, especially the property-casualty business, 1975 will go down as the poorest financial year in history.

Inflation. It hits us hard.

We buy most of the goods and services you buy, except in massive quantities. One of these services is health care. We share your concern for the rising costs. We both have to pay for this service. For example, daily hospital charges have risen 62.5 percent since 1970. The premiums we charge simply haven't come close to catching up with these whopping increases in the cost of medical care.

And we all know about the increase in new car costs. But did you know that the cost of replacement "crash parts" such as grilles, bumpers and radiators has gone up an incredible 84 percent in the last five years? Not to mention a 58 percent increase in labor costs over the same period.

You can't sell something for less than it costs.

Perhaps you've suffered a major loss not covered by insurance. In a sense so have we. Even though we exist to cover your possible calamities, nothing exists to cover ours. If we suffer a tremendous underwriting loss (if our premium income does not cover the cost of claims we pay), all we can do is take our losses. And 1975 was the worst year in our history with underwriting losses by Connecticut property-casualty writers alone exceeding one-half billion dollars.

Malpractice insurance. It's beginning to hurt.

While considerable national attention has been focused on the increasing numbers of very costly jury verdicts and settlements, Connecticut is in better shape than many other states. However, the number of malpractice claims in Connecticut has more than doubled in the past five years and the average cost of paying these claims has more than tripled. So the situation is serious.

A report to the people of Connecticut.

We're optimistic anyway.

Historically we have been one of the nation's best managed and most stable businesses. So we have the strength to ride through the valleys as we look forward to the peaks.

One positive point to consider is our industry's support of Connecticut's vital new Comprehensive Health Care Act which was enacted by the 1975 General Assembly, and goes into effect April 1. At no other time is comprehensive health care insurance more important than in economically distressing times. The new act is geared to make ample coverage available to all Connecticut citizens — most particularly that part of the coverage protecting the insured from catastrophic situations that can financially cripple individuals and families. This new act is the most comprehensive in the nation.

Energy. Our conservation programs are working.

A variety of measures to reduce the use of heating, lighting and electricity continues to produce encouraging results. In addition, two years ago our insurance companies began programs to promote the use of buses and carpools. Today, nearly half of our 35,000 employees are either taking part in a carpool or riding to work on a bus. This means we are keeping some 13,000 cars off Connecticut streets and highways each working day. Meanwhile, employees are saving money on gas, keeping the traffic volume down, keeping our air that much cleaner and helping to promote mass transit.

Unemployment. We're still a stabilizing force.

In a year which saw record levels of unemployment in Connecticut and the nation, our insurance industry employment stabilized in 1975 after reaching a record high level of 35,000 jobs in 1974. Directly and indirectly, the insurance companies of Connecticut currently account for nearly 10 percent of the State's working force, contributing nearly $2 billion to Connecticut's payrolls.

We continue to be encouraged by the fact that we provide Connecticut's economy with stability during this disturbing period of economic downturn.

Betty's Notebook

By Betty Ryder

It's that time of year again. The time for flowers, candy and valentine's cards. Some are quite bitter. For example, one of the vengeful valentine's shows a grotesque woman wearing a bell for a hat, with the clapper sticking out of her mouth, and it reads "Your tongue is ever on the swing — and has a harsh discordant ring — how I hate its scolding tone — your clapper is the curse of home."

These "Penny Dreadfuls" as the cards were originally known, first appeared in Victorian England. They quickly crossed the Atlantic and despite their barbarity became wildly popular.

Whatever the reason for sending spiteful cards, thousands and thousands were exchanged in the 1800s.

One year the Chicago post office even refused to deliver about 20,000 of the mannerless missives, calling them too vicious and obscene.

Not surprising, when the tender words of adoration inside often read like this: "I'll treat you with scorn whenever I pass, you deceitful, oily-tongued snake in grass."

Isn't that awful? I must prefer the mushy ones, like "With you I'm as snug as a bug in a hug."

This year, the ladies have an advantage. It's leap year and it's okay for women to ask men to marry them.

Don't be shy. Leap Years like 1976, when February has 29 days, go back to 46 B.C.

Nobody knows what the Leap Year custom of women proposing to men began, but researchers say there is a Scottish Law of 1288 that reads as follows: "It is ordained that during Leap Year any maiden lady of high or low estate shall have the liberty to bespeak the man she likes. Albeit he refuses to take her to be his lawful wife, he shall be mulcted in the sum of one pound, except he can make it appear that he is betrothed to another."

So, ladies, if you're single and looking, this is the year. And, if you follow Scottish law, even if you don't find a husband, you'll be a pound richer.

Some of the more humorous Valentine's bring a smile. One of this year's announces "Valentine, my heart belongs to daddy. The rest of me is up for grabs."

Another shows a young woman on the cover saying, "I've already had 25 handsome young men ask me to be their valentine. Would you like to be mine?"

On the second panel, it reads, "Would you believe five middle-aged gent's?" Then the payoff line: "How about one dirty old man?"

Exercise with a punch

Worried about your outlines? Are those lumpy lines adding years to your calendar age? Well, there's a form of exercise no one ever thinks of for a woman — the punching bag.

I hear it's fantastic, especially for a female. No muscle of the body escapes. Try a light ball. Maybe you can hang a ball from the ceiling. Get someone (your husband preferably — that way he'll know you are potentially dangerous) to teach you the movements of the punching exercise and go through the motions without the bag, if you need to. Try it for a month (no not steadily) and you should feel light as a breeze.

Growing old

Read this recently and thought you might have missed it, so will pass it along.

"Growing old is only a state of mind — brought on by gray hairs, false teeth, wrinkles, a big stomach, short breath and an all over feeling of being totally pooped."

Thank heavens I haven't reached that stage yet (no comments, please).

Timely Tips

Came across a couple of hints I thought you might find interesting.

You can save energy if you unplug your electric dishwasher between washing and drying. Let dishes drip dry in the machine.

When serving cold cuts, buy them unliced. It's cheaper that way, sometimes by as much as 15 cents a pound.

On the job

I was interested in the actions of the Hartford policemen as they steadily pass out parking tickets. I guess they have a right to strive for higher pay and more benefits.

What I couldn't understand was does this flurry of ticket writing mean they weren't doing their job before — or are they just doing it better now?

Friendship

"The feeling of friendship is like that of being comfortable filled with roast beef, love, like being enveloped with champagne." Sam Johnson.

Happy Valentine's Day.

Symposium on Careers

Aimed at helping women to enter the job market after some absence, the Manchester Women's Center, cooperatively with the Manchester Community College Career Counseling and the Nutmeg Branch YWCA, is holding a Symposium on Careers, Thursday morning from 9 a.m. until noon.

At 9 a.m. Gail Patrick, MCC counselor, will talk about new styles of resume writing especially suitable for women who may lack a background of paying jobs. Also reviewed will be some basic interview techniques, and suggestions about promising possibilities in the current job market.

Following this Pat Wilson, director of the Nutmeg YWCA, and Tim Borders, director of the Manchester Women's Center, will lead a discussion of the personal obstacles faced by women who currently are or who plan to work outside the home. Family pressures, and the lack of education and experience common to most women wanting to work will be some topics covered. For women who have doubts and questions about the realities of managing a "double life" and for those currently dealing with some of the problems (and rewards) the discussion will be a chance to ask questions and share information.

Symposium on Careers is part of the Manchester Women's Center's "Women's Week" (Feb. 9-13) and will be held at the main campus (Biswell St.) of Manchester Community College, in the Women's Center trailer. For further information call 646-4900, ext. 288.

Learned that state-hired auditors were to visit Manchester today to examine records of Manchester's special education program. The audit, required by recent state legislation, is to make sure state special education grants are being spent properly. Pupil Personnel Director Allan Chesterford said. Dr. Horwitz's topic will be "M.A.S.H. — Middle East Style." He served with the Mobil Army Surgical Hospital in Korea and will show slides of his experiences. Hostesses will be Miss Sally Robb, Mrs. Francis Akin, Mrs. Ernest Benson, Mrs. Warren LeFort, Mrs. John Hubbard and Mrs. Robert Richmond. The Marine Corps League will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. at the Marine Home.

The West Side Old Timers Committee will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Nicholas Angelo, 682 Parker St. Ticket returns for ladies night on Saturday should be made at this meeting.

The Manchester Chapter of Parents Without Partners (PWP) will hold a Sweetheart Dance Sunday from 7 to 11 p.m. at Fiano's Restaurant in Bolton. All past members and their husbands or wives are invited. Tickets will be available at the door.

All renovations in the new store have been completed and new equipment is being installed, the spokesman said. The new facility "hopefully" will be ready to open in six or eight weeks, he said.

The 25 employees at the E. Center store will have the option of accepting transfers to the new store, and more employees will be needed to staff the larger facility, he said. Though the new store is larger and in what the spokesman called a "good traffic area" with ample parking, many of Manchester's elderly living in the downtown area are concerned because they will no longer be within walking distance of a large food market.

The E. Center St. store is the last of a number of stores operated by the A&P Springfield Division to be closed in a program which started in early 1975 to phase out outdated stores, the company spokesman said.

Project Concern

The last of the large food markets in Manchester's downtown area will disappear Feb. 21 when the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. (A&P) closes the doors of its 25-year-old store on E. Center St.

The closing is in preparation for relocating the store in an expanded facility in the Burr Corners shopping complex on Tolland Tpk., a company official said. The present facility is also being replaced, he said.

Indians CCIL hoop champions First outright crown in 13 seasons

Manchester held a 38-27 halftime edge with a seven-second spurt early in the second canto proving decisive. Leading 18-14 at the 7:34 mark, Pisch made one of his five steals but missed the layup. Scott Hyde, however, was in position for the offensive tap. Pisch stole the ball again and scored and before you could blink your eye, Hyde damped in another two-pointer off another steal.

The Silks Towers moved their lead to 52-36 after three quarters but Perm, now 9-6 in the CCIL and 9-8 overall, cut the deficit to 58-50 with 2:17 left. But Ballard, who wound up with seven points and 10 rebounds, popped in a jumper from the lane at 1:43 and 10 seconds later Pisch off a steal of an inbound pass tossed in a three-point play to ice the verdict.

Mike Quessel, in another fine all-around effort led Manchester with 16 points, 15 rebounds, four steals and four assists. Pisch and McNickle each tallied 14 points and combined for eight swipes.

"We like to play as a team and we think that's the way the kids like it. We play the best defense of any team I've ever coached," Pearson related. "Our guards were just out of this world on defense and Ballard was just super. This is a great win. We deserve to be champs of this league."

Keith Patenaude led the Fermi attack with 14 points, five under his average, while Terry Thomas and Baskerville each had 12 points. Fermi was 22 for 55 in field goal attempts while Manchester, which has won six straight and 15 in 17 games over-all, was 29 for 69 from the floor.

Manchester's jayvees started the tempo off right with a 61-56 overtime victory over Fermi. The young Indians had trailed by 13 before coming back strong. Barry Rick Marshall had 13 points and 14 rebounds for the Fermi.

Manchester's 6-3 junior Bill Baskerville came out with fire in his eyes and scored eight points in the first quarter which Manchester led after the turn, 15-12. He finished the half with 12 points, four rebounds and three blocked shots. Literally he was finished also. Bruce Ballard, Manchester's defensive specialist, hounded Baskerville the second half and the 6-4, 185-pound Indian senior denied him the ball — only two second half shots — and scoreless the final 16 minutes.

The Herald Angle

Touched lives of thousands
Before stepping down officially as Manchester's dog warden earlier this year, Lee Fracchia touched the lives of thousands of local residents. After all, in 29 years he handled over 35,000 complaints.

Fracchia was one of the best news sources The Herald ever had. If he channeled one tip to this writer, and The Herald, he passed along hundreds. Lee knew more than was going on around town than any 10 people, thanks to his contacts made while he operated an Esso service station on Center Street and in scouting from one end of town to the other, rounding up dogs, and just about every other type of four-legged animal, as well as those with two legs.

Fortunately, Lee had a good, understanding wife who assisted him by taking calls and by offering sympathy to callers, young and old, who sought help in regaining their loved animals.

The couple was also blessed with two daughters, the type you would be proud to have your sons bring home. When not rounding up dogs, fishing and hunting took up Lee's leisure hours. A deep sea striped bass fisherman of note, he was a frequent winner in the Martha's Vineyard striped bass contest, pulling in 47 and 48-pounders to bring back top awards, including a boat.

Russian skater rebounds to garner bronze medal

Winding up 15th in the ice dancing competition of the Winter Olympic Games was the tandem of Judi Genovese of Vermont and partner Kent Weigl of West Hartford. The pair was able to complete its performance in the free dance phase of the competition despite a hard fall by Miss Genovese. "I really whacked my elbow," stated 18-year-old Judi, "I was stunned and hurt at the same time and for a moment I didn't think I could finish. I guess I just slipped on my hoot when making a turn. We lost a lot of time and music trying to catch up."

Russia's world record holder Evgeny Kulkov is the favorite and he'll race immediately after Mueller, so he'll have the benefit of knowing what time he must beat for the gold medal.

The women's 10-kilometer cross-country race, is one in which the U.S. has no chance. But the race, normally ignored by all but Nordic athletes and officials, will be of special interest because Galina Kulakova of Russia will be making her first public appearance since being ordered by the International Olympic Committee to return her bronze medal won in last Saturday's 5-kilometer race.

The U.S. picked up a bronze medal in ice dancing Monday night when Colleen O'Connor and Jim Mills of Colorado Springs finished behind the behind five-time world champions Ludmila Pakhomova and Alexander Gorshkov of Russia.

Manchester High's varsity girls' basketball team

Rutgers advances in hoop rankings

NEW YORK (UPI) — It has been five years since a New York metropolitan area team finished the season in the top 10 in the United Press International Coaches' rankings and it's been nine years since one broke into the top five. But this week undefeated Rutgers made a strong bid to join this select company.

The coaches retained Indiana, Marquette and North Carolina as the top three in the 10th week of regular season rankings. With the losses suffered last week by No. 4 Nevada-Las Vegas and No. 5 Washington, Maryland and Rutgers each moved up two places to fill those positions.

This past week the Scarlet Knights took a giant step when, in a game billed as "The Battle of New Jersey," Rutgers beat then 19th-ranked Princeton, 75-62, Monday night. Victories over West Virginia (86-76) and Navy (86-71) following

Holy Cross tops in N.E. scramble

BOSTON (UPI) — The Minutemen, with their first win at Boston College in a dozen years followed by a revenge victory at Connecticut, earned eight first place votes and a total of 85 points. Massachusetts is 12-4 going into tonight's game at Boston University.

Providence College, with three wins last week including a pasting of Holy Cross, was a close second with 43 points. The Friars, 13-4, received seven first place votes and 15 of the 16 New England Division I coaches voted. Rhode Island, which

Rockets advance nearer top spot

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Thank goodness," guard Mike Newlin told teammate Rudy Tomjanovich at halftime, "we're not ahead by 20."

Houston held a slim 47-45 lead, but Newlin remembered all too painfully in the Rockets' two previous NBA games that they blew 21 and 15-point leads. Trained to repeat against the flustered Kansas City Kings Monday night.

The first three quarters went with two minutes gone in the last quarter, the hustling Newlin watched the Kings catch up before scoring 11 of his 32 points and sparking the Rockets to a 105-86 win, which pulled them to within three of the NBA Central Division lead.

The Rockets are still third behind Washington and Cleveland but with performances like they put on in the fourth quarter, they could challenge the leaders. Houston led 74-73, before outscoring the Kings, 31-13, in the final 10 minutes.

Rockets Coach John Egan showed he was still stung by the two previous games.

"They were just freak situations where we shot phenomenally the first two halves against the Jazz and Chicago," he said. "And then everybody starts talking and writing about how the Rockets are blowing big leads. Well, we won one game (by two) and lost the other. It hasn't happened all the time in the NBA."

Ron Riley came off the bench to score nine points and grab nine rebounds in bringing the Rockets out of their early sluggishness.

BASKETBALL
Faced by Paul Tucker's nine points, Burger King topped Willie's, 17-14, last night at the East Side Rec. Marc Luppachino added four markers to the winning total while Tim Foley had nine and Dave Lavertie five for Willie's. Roger Greenwood had 14 points and Dave Lammy nine as Top Notch outscored the Celtics, 31-23. Tim Carmel tossed in 17 markers and Brian Feschler four for the Celtics.

Businessmen
Bruce Hance pumped in 31 points, Artie Bierra 29 and Garry Angilo 10 as Duhaldo Electric stopped Westway Pharmacy, 81-75, last night at Hiller Junior High. Craig Phillips had 25 points, Walter Bogar 25 and Paul Bushnell 14 for Westway.

Three shipped Army & Navy, 106-105. Jack Lawrence poured in 24 points, Don Cooper 18 and Merrill Myers 15 for the winners while Charlie Steenson had 37, Tom Malin 33 and Joe Massolini 11 for the losers.

Action at the Community Y last night saw UAC Barons outscore Fred's Athletic Club, 81-65, and Sportarm dump Second Congo, 84-71. Vic Laptik had 22 points and Matt Tesli 17 for Barons while Joe Gietek had 25 and Don Storrs 25 for Fred's. The Bulls popped in 34 markers and Tom Staigaita 21 for Sportarm while Rich Raimondo had 18, Jay Howroyd 13 and Rich Marwick 12 for Congo.

MHS Girls
Ending its campaign yesterday with a 6-13 record, the Manchester High girls' team upended East Hartford High, 45-44, at Clarke Arena. Pressure which forced numerous turnovers spelled the difference for the Indian maidens.

Playing well for Manchester were Sue Linsenbiger, Leslie Bartlett, Ellen Donadio, Colleen Shane, Kathy Strand, Karen Turek and Nancy Watt. Mary Cochran and Nancy Downing were also named.

Helping Newlin were guard Calvin Murphy and center Kevin Kumerit with 16 points each and Ed Ratliff with 13. The Kings were led by Scott Wedman with 19 points and Jimmy Jones with 15.

There were no other Atlanta Braves announced Milo Hamilton as the new Pirates broadcast team this season.

Area police report

VERNON
An armed robbery took place at the Gas Land station on Rt. 30 Monday night, said police.

The attendant said two white males displayed a shotgun and after taking an undetermined amount of money, told the attendant's car and were last seen heading toward Tolland on Rt. 30.

The car was a 1972 green Pontiac.

SOUTH WINDSOR
Anthony Visone, 27, of Hartford, was charged Monday night with third-degree larceny in connection with the theft of shingles from the Skywarrior development.

Police said an alert resident noticed the truck in the area about 9:30 p.m. Police went to the scene and found 20 bundles of shingles loaded on the truck.

Visone was released on a $1,000 non-surety bond for appearance in Common Pleas Court 12, East Hartford, March 1.

Skywarrior retires to museum

Commander Joel Graham, U.S. Navy bomber pilot, discusses his aircraft with officials of the Connecticut Aeronautical Historical Association at Bradley International Airport Monday afternoon. Graham's plane, a Douglas A-3B Skywarrior, was donated by the Navy to the association's Bradley Air Museum. The aircraft used in Vietnam through the 1960s is powered by Pratt & Whitney 357 engines. It made its last flight Monday afternoon, coming to Bradley from Patuxent River Naval Air Station, Md. Talking with Graham are Philip O'Keefe (center), museum curator, and Morris Ertman, a director. The Skywarrior, newest aircraft in the museum's collection of 115 planes, engines and related equipment, will go on display this spring. (Herald photo by Bevens)

Picnic, fireworks July 4 proposed

Hebron
EVELYN CROSTON
The Board of Selectmen suggested to Bicentennial Commission Chairman John Sibun there be a July 4 family picnic with fireworks.

Selectman Arthur Pinney suggested asking donations from local businesses to finance the fireworks.

Residents with suggestions should contact Sibun before the commission's Wednesday meeting. Roads poor. The selectmen were told by First Selectman Aaron Reid town roads are "self destructing" due to the weather. He said all the roads that should have been oiled in the last two years but were not done for lack of funds are "letting us know now."

Pot holes and soft shoulders have created problems. Reid said this is more than was used all last year. The board voted to remove Eric Emt and Richard J. McDonald from the Recreation Commission. They missed four consecutive meetings.

Under coordination which includes the business office, data processing and such, the total is $770,564, up $89,668. Other services such as food, health, insurance and transportation is down $22,198 to $354,071. The transportation was down $36,123 to $201,071.

Dartmouth's Edmonds new court hot-shot

DURHAM, N.H. (UPI) — The New England basketball scene has a new hot shot — Dartmouth sophomore Sterling Edmonds.

The 6-foot-7 center from Chesapeake, Va., — by hitting 16 of 21 field goal attempts last week — is shooting at a 62.2 rate this season, according to statistics released Monday by the University of New Hampshire.

Edmonds' streak shooting pushed his shooting percentage up 18 points and lifted him ahead of season-long leader Bill Eason of Providence. Eason, who made 12 of 23 shots last week, dropped 19 points to 59.

In free throw shooting, Fairfield's Joe DeSantis jumped from fifth to first place as the four players above him experienced poor weeks at the foul line.

DeSantis made four of five free throws to maintain his .815 percentage. Mike Stokes of Massachusetts, the regional and national leader the past few weeks, dropped out of the top 10.

Maine junior Paul Wholey continued as the region's scoring leader with a 22.2-point average and John Thomas of Connecticut led first in rebounding, with 13.7 carous per game.

Baseball progress nil

NEW YORK (UPI) — Major League baseball owners and the Players Association return to the bargaining table today with the owners hoping to inject some life into the stalled negotiations in time to begin spring training as scheduled.

With spring training precariously near — only three weeks away — and an almost total lack of progress in negotiations to date, the owners met Monday to receive a report on the negotiations from baseball's Players' Bargaining Committee.

The stone wall in the negotiations neither side has been able to overcome has been baseball's controversial reserve clause, but the owners were optimistic there would be some progress when the talks resume today.

With both clubs handicapped by sickness and injury, the Bennet Junior High girls' team downed crestfallen yesterday.

Sharon Maher had 15 points for Bennet followed by Jennifer Hedlund, Wendy Warren and Jean Hemming with eight apiece.

Upon approval of the state Department of Environmental Protection, the town added 50 cents to the fee for nine holes for all non-residents.

Residents to carry ID cards

East Hartford
SHEILA TULLER
289-4283
Mayor Richard H. Blackstone announced this week the town will issue photo ID cards to residents.

The ID cards will be the only acceptance proof of town residence for obtaining resident rates at the East Hartford Golf Course.

Upon approval of the state Department of Environmental Protection, the town added 50 cents to the fee for nine holes for all non-residents.

Any East Hartford resident wanting a card can simply come into the Town Clerk's office and get one, said the mayor. The fee is $1, the cost of materials.

A special bus run for senior citizens will be made at that time. A birth certificate, driver's license, or medicare card will be sufficient proof of age. Senior Citizens are welcome to come to the Town Hall before or after Feb. 20 to obtain cards.

The town with the Commission on Services to the Elderly plans to have the ID camera at the Senior Citizen's Center Friday, Feb. 20 from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Teachers and students study colonial life

Vernon
BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter

The children wrote the cookbook after much research. It includes Johnny Cake, Huckleberry Grunt, Indian Pudding, Nutmeg sauce, and Hartford election cake.

In spelling class they list the names of herbs and cooking terms and compare the colonial spelling.

During writing class they copy recipes for the cookbooks. In English class they give written and oral reports. The children learn to follow directions through the recipes, to alphabetize the recipes, prepare tables of content and listen.

Social studies class concerns the Indians, Indian foods and gardens, grinding corn, preparation of a meal, and study of the history of herbs.

In health class the children learn about making medicine with herbs, soap making and menu planning.

Even in art class they learn about colonial living as they study the sources of dyes and Indian war paints. They also illustrate the cookbooks, and make pine brooms, and apple, cornucop, and cornucop dolls.

In math they learn to measure for recipes including how to double or halve them and to make change from selling the foods and cookbooks.

The guide has step-by-step instructions. Nothing is left out. It even contains games on the Bicentennial theme.

Mrs. Kilpatrick also gathered films and slides and a long list of books on the subjects studied.

The teachers said the children will take a field trip with the $200 award.

The second-graders at the Northeast School are learning how their forefathers lived in everyone of their daily classes.

The children have their teachers to thank for this. The teachers and their children have been rewarded by winning a magazine contest and receiving a check for $200.

Last summer The Herald told of the second-graders and the herb garden they planted as part of the Bicentennial.

Three classroom teachers, the reading teacher and the school librarian worked during the summer on their own time to prepare a curriculum guide to be used this year.

The teachers submitted their efforts to the "Scheme-a-Thema" contest conducted by Early Years, a magazine designed for teachers of kindergarten through Grade 3. The program is featured in the February issue.

The president of the magazine, Allen Raymond, praised the teachers, Anne Mackey, Brenda Somers, Marilyn Kudra, Margaret Clayton, and librarian Carolyn Kilpatrick. They were winners among some stiff competition, he said.

The guide focuses on early American gardening and cooking.

In early fall the children harvested the herb garden. They dried them and are using them in recipes. They used them in preparing the Thanksgiving dinner at the school.

New park department subject of hearing

Vernon
The Town Council will conduct a public hearing at 7:30 p.m. on Feb. 11 on an ordinance creating a new Parks Department for the town.

The department will unite the Board of Education's grounds maintenance program with that of the town. The department will be responsible for the supervision and maintenance of certain school grounds and all recreation areas and facilities belonging to the town.

Mayor Thomas Benoit plans to recommend the appointment of Erhardt (Cookie) Koelsch as superintendent of parks and such other employees as the council sees will be needed.

When the 1976 budget is made up, the expenses of maintenance will be charged to the Parks Department.

The Board of Education agreed to the merger with the stipulation that there be a two-year trial period.

Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent of schools, said the stipulation was added to protect the board in the event that the plan is not successful.

He said he believes it will be successful if Koelsch is appointed supervisor. He said Koelsch has been employed by the Board of Education and has been responsible for the maintenance program of the school grounds.

Stanley Reesler, director of administration, prepared the proposal for establishing the new department and outlined the facilities and areas which would become the responsibility of it.

The town-owned facilities include: Henry Park, Legion Field (leased), Valley Falls Park, Boulder Ridge, Burke Road playground, W. Main St. playground, and Camp Newhous.

Six of the schools have playground areas used during the summer by the Recreation Department. The Northeast School has three ball fields also used and Rockville High School has two each of softball, baseball, football and soccer fields plus eight tennis courts and one track.

In addition to maintaining these facilities the Parks Department will also be responsible for the outer areas of the school grounds; the Senior Citizen Center; the Little Fisk Building; furnishing a driver for the senior citizen bus; and special activities such as Christmas Decorations, the Easter Egg hunt, fireworks, the fishing derby, and road races.

The refuse removal and pickup, cemetery care and maintenance, and the maintenance of Central Park and Talcott Park and the Hale Street Mall will also come under the department.

The Board of Education has a great deal of equipment which will now be used solely by the new department but initially most of it will be based at the high school since it is centrally located.

Footlighters give show

Coventry
By HOLLY GANTNER

Coventry audience continue to have an event worth looking forward to with the annual presentation of a musical by The Coventry High Footlighters.

This year's production of "Mame" is no exception.

"Mame", as presented last week at the high school, had its ragged moments but was, nevertheless, an outstanding high school production of a musical that is staggering in terms of organization.

The cast is large. There are 17 musical numbers, numerous (and hasty) costume changes, and several dance numbers. This, coupled with the fact that the theater at Coventry High School is inadequate, make for a challenge to cast and director.

But Kristina Elias, the high school faculty member who took over as director of the annual musical several years ago, has once again shown the depth of her imagination by using the entire auditorium. Walls are plastered with murals depicting scenes from the play.

Cathy Mohan, playing Mame's best friend, actress Vera Charles, was suitably kooky and shows a good spark of comic talent, as does Kristina Kelson as the unfortunate Agnes stage.

Mrs. Elias also infects her casts with enthusiasm. And she makes an audience feel a part of the production.

In the demanding lead role, Kim Naviaux sparkled. As Mame Dennis, she is on stage almost constantly, and, at least on opening night, progressed from a somewhat weak and nervous first act opening to much greater assurance, culminating with a tender and winning rendition of the play's one "serious" song, "If He Walked Into My Life Today," late in the second act.

Miss Naviaux is an actress of natural grace and poise, and conveyed very well the warm-hearted eccentricities of Mame, the free-wheeling bachelorette who does the best she can when her 10-year old nephew is thrust into her care.

As the Young Patrick, Christopher Fitch, a grammar school student, was excellent. Eric Underwood, portraying Patrick in later years, also did a fine job.

Cathy Mohan, playing Mame's best friend, actress Vera Charles, was suitably kooky and shows a good spark of comic talent, as does Kristina Kelson as the unfortunate Agnes Gooch, a role which is a comedienne's plum.

Miss Kelson was good in a scene in which Mame and Vera decide Gooch should cut loose and get rid of those eyeglasses and orthopedic oxford.

The ubiquitous Douglas Fitch, appearing in several small roles, but mainly as the Japanese manservant, Ito, and the obnoxious Junior Bobcock, defies description. He was very funny indeed.

Other standouts in the cast included Joe Tommelli, Brian Fish, Tim Coon, Ellen Toomey, Lezraine Glynn, and, as Pegeen Ryan, the girl Patrick eventually marries, Melissa Gilbert. Miss Gilbert deserves a much larger role in another production.

Christine Kardys was technical director for the production, with Mrs. Elias and Douglas Fitch handling the choreography.

Lark Gobie and Robert Usab directed the small orchestra.

One final note: One would hope that in years to come, these productions would receive more publicity.

Few people seem to be aware each year that the special is going on for three nights at the high school.

Alternative funds sought

Coventry
MONICA SHEA

Dr. Donald Nicoletti and Frederick Hartung, co-chairmen of the Alternative School Committee, are seeking funds to set up an alternative school.

They want grants for community education, career education, cooperative work experience and teacher intern training programs.

Their committee hopes for one or two of 10 grants sought. This would allow for staff planning next summer and a late September opening of the school.

Dr. Nicoletti listed five goals for the school. They are:

- Provide students with bridges between the schools and the community.
- Place emphasis on marketable skills.
- Aid students to decide career choices and life styles.

Meet the needs of students unable to function in the regular high school programs.

Provide job experiences.

The committee hopes for a separate building. They have asked the Town Council for use of the Cummins property.

Dr. Nicoletti said the cost of setting up the program is high. But the ongoing expenses would be about the same as for students in the high school program.

Food complaints

Dr. Arnold Elman, school superintendent, said complaints about food at the high school should lessen.

Students had complained about the small portions, the food quality and the possible loss of food to cafeteria workers.

Dr. Elman said only rarely are food service employees allowed to take home food and only leftovers. Also, this food has always been paid for by them.

Cooking methods have been changed to prevent wrinkled hot dogs and hard grilled cheese sandwiches.

Sour milk can be exchanged for fresh, he said.

He warned students using foul language with the workers in the future would be punished, even suspended.

Reports indicate a happier cafeteria.

Scout dance

Girl Scouts held a father-daughter early American dance Jan. 27 at St. Mary's Church hall. The dance included a show of flags including four from colonial days made by the girls.

A square dance caller taught dances from 200 years of American life including the Virginia Reel. The dance is part of their program, "If I Were A Girl Scout in 1776."

Tonight the Brownie Girl Scouts bring their "dates" to St. Mary's for a frolic of their own.

PZC hosts three speakers

Whyte drafted the conservation program enacted in Connecticut.

Working with Laurence S. Rockefeller and the American Conservation Association, he produced the book, "Cluster Development." He worked with Jane Jacobs and others in writing "The Exploding Metropolis."

March 4, Atty. Thomas P. Byrne, author of "Planning and Zoning in Connecticut" and "Connecticut Zoning Board of Appeals," will speak on proper procedures for planning and zoning commissions in Connecticut.

Mrs. Byrne will cover subdivision and zone request procedures, the conflicts of interest and other items related to the statutory obligations of PZC members in Connecticut.

March 17th, Daniel P. Mandelher, author of "Managing our Urban Development" and "The Zoning Dilemma," will speak on the "Role of the Comprehensive Plan and Regional General Welfare."

Mandelher is the director of Urban Studies of Washington University School of Law, St. Louis.

The seminar series, funded by a federal grant, has been carried on for over two years, and has included speakers on a variety of growth issues facing towns.

To learn more, call the Coventry Planning Office.

DEAR ABBY

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 36-year-old man who is in love with a beautiful, 26-year-old divorcee. I want to marry her, but she keeps wanting more time to think it over.

In the meantime, she's seeing another man, and I'm afraid he has the edge on me. You see, he's part Kickapoo Indian, and I hear Indians are superior to the white man when it comes to lovemaking: Closely guarded tribal secrets on how to satisfy a woman are passed down from father to son. If there is any truth to that, I'm willing to pay whatever is necessary to find out.

Let me say that I was married for four years, and I never had any complaints from my wife, but if Indians are better lovers than white men, I would like to find out why.

Maybe your readers can help.

ED IN EAST ILLINOIS

DEAR ABBY: With reference to that ding-a-ling who is seriously considering suing his parents for $100,000 for having had him circumcised as an infant - a "barbaric surgery, an assault on his person, which permanently maimed and disfigured him." In my opinion, he should be circumcised at the wrong end.

YIDDISH MAMA, SILVER SPRINGS, MD.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 50-year-old nurse who has been widowed for 15 years.

In the line of duty, I took care of a very attractive well-to-do widower, age 69. When he left the hospital, I asked if he could see me again so we could get better acquainted. I agreed.

It took him nearly six months to call, after which we started dating. I was on cloud eight. We've been going out for over a year now, and he proposed marriage.

My problem is that he admits that he is still seeing several other women and says that until he has a definite answer from me he will continue to date others.

Abby, this has turned me off on him and made me skeptical of his so-called marriage proposal. I am losing my respect for him. If a man thinks enough of a woman to want to marry her, why would he want to date other women?

How can I say yes tonight when I feel I had another woman in his arms last night?
