Bicentennial flag raised at Bentley School

A Bicentennial flag is raised beneath the U.S. flag during ceremonies Tuesday in front of Bentley School as the student body witnesses the event. Mrs. Harriett Duff, left, representative of the school Parent-Teacher Organization, presented the Bicentennial flag to the school. Student Dobby Jezouit hoists the new flag after Debbie Hare, right, finishes fastening it to the rope while school principal Douglas Townsend watches. The flag will hang permanently in the school lobby at the end of the school year. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Herald Reporter
 A frustrated and unhappy Board of Directors Tuesday night balked at taking any action on proposed pay raises for Manchester's top and middle management personnel and labeled Town Manager Robert Weiss' request and report incomplete, inconclusive and inadequate.
 Weiss' recommendation (the report was prepared by Assistant Town Manager Charles McCarthy) would increase Manchester's salary base by about $48,800, at an immediate cost of about $24,900. He is recommending pay raises for about 25 top and middle management personnel, to correct inequities among them and other inequities when compared to wages for union personnel, with raises this year retroactive to Jan. 1, 1976.

 The board instructed Weiss and McCarthy to prepare a more complete report (a professional report, is how Director Paul Willhide described it) and indicated considerable opposition to pay raises other than at budget-making time.
 Pascal Prignano set the tone of the discussion when he chided Weiss for not clarifying his recommendations.

He said he received an explanation only by reading newspaper articles which, he said, were as clear as Weiss' were unclear.
 Prignano said he is in sympathy with the employees and believes they deserve raises but will reserve judgment until complete information is received.
 Willhide called the report "hit-and-miss, hit-and-miss." He predicted there will be no improvement in personnel reports "unless we get a professional presentation."
 That presentation, he said, should include an explanation of duties, responsibilities of employees, relationships to superiors and subordinates, the rationale for the recommendations, relationship of earnings of each classification to another, and how classifications are determined, among other points.
 "And, lastly," said Willhide, "in no way would I go for retroactivity."

Peylit Jackson, Vivian Ferguson and Carl Zinsner also said pay revisions should be made only at budget-making time.
 Mrs. Jackson said the directors were told two years ago (the last time they approved reclassification) that there'd be no future problems, "yet, here we are today being told otherwise."
 She said she won't be bullied by middle management threats they will unite. "Let them unite," she said.
 Mrs. Ferguson said the proposed pay raises are too high. She wanted to know what will happen next year after management personnel see the raises the unions now are negotiating for.
 She charged also, and Mrs. Jackson agreed, that at least two women in middle management positions are being discriminated against. She said men with similar responsibilities are in higher job classifications.
 Zinsner said, "The time for pay revisions is at budget-making time, otherwise, we'd throw the budget out of balance. Revisions during the year create new cycles, and we'd never catch up."

 John Thompson remarked that the recommendations only compound the inequity situation. He said the funds for a federal WPA grant to those subordinates now receiving overtime and receiving more pay than department heads.
 He too recommended more study of job functions and clarification of the pay-scale formula.
 Jack Goldberg suggested that the board should look at the town's pay raises, pointing out requests are coming in every week for additional funds to ease shortages. "Let's see how we make out with them before we go ahead with this. I wonder where all the money we need will come from?" Nobody enlightened him.
 Weiss agreed that budget time is the proper time for pay raises but insisted there are times when interim raises are advisable.
 He said the directors should take a good look at salaries paid top personnel, compared to what similar personnel are paid in other towns and compared also to what the Board of Education pays its top personnel.
 He cautioned the directors to give consideration to keeping its capable employees here, noting, "Many of them are young and becoming more skilled every day. They'll prove to be of vital importance to the town."

Salaries, he said, should reflect what it would cost the town to replace an incumbent with a capable person.
 He said there's a need for a properly staffed personnel office, adding, "We, in my office, don't have the personnel or time to prepare an effective presentation, such as the one you are seeking. It embarrasses me sometimes because, for lack of personnel, I can't get the proper report to you."
 The discussion ended with Weiss and McCarthy promising to prepare a complete report for the directors.

Mayor terms windfall as 'found money'

"Found money" is what Manchester Mayor Matt Moriarty calls it.
 Moriarty told the Board of Directors Tuesday night that a mystery bank account of about $22,000 was discovered by Controller Thomas Moore in the Savings Bank of Manchester.
 Moriarty said the mystery was unraveled after much digging and after many talks with old-time Manchester employees.
 As Moriarty explained it Tuesday night, the funds date back to the early 1930s, before WPA (Works Progress Administration) days.
 Town employees formed the Manchester Emergency Employment Association and donated money to it for paying laid-off employees to work on public projects. When the federal WPA program began, it replaced the Manchester program.

 The funds were placed in the Manchester Trust and Safety Deposit Co. During the depression of the 1930s, the bank closed and defaulted on part of the $21,000 balance in the account—paying off on about 65 percent of it and leaving a balance of about $15,000.
 The fund was placed under the trusteeship of the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co., which placed it in an account in the Savings Bank of Manchester.
 The interest paid to date has produced a balance in excess of $22,000.
 Moriarty said a determination will have to be made for using the money and suggested it might be used for Bicentennial Year expenses.

State

HARTFORD — The latest state tax revenue figures are 11 million below expectations and presumably will add to the $37 million budget deficit forecast for June 30, Gov. Ella T. Grasso says.

LITCHFIELD — Superior Court Judge John A. Spitalo has rejected a state move to throw out of court a new trial petition made by Peter A. Reilly, convicted of killing his mother. His ruling Tuesday will require the state to call witnesses who can contradict or dilute previous testimony.

Regional

BOSTON — Plans to fire more than 1,000 employees and consolidate several of the city's federally desegregated schools would be "educationally harmful," according to Henry Robinson, president of the Boston Teachers Union. The plan would cut more than $6 million from the school budget and was submitted to U. S. District Court Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr. Tuesday.

MONTPELIER, Vt. — The Vermont Yankee Nuclear Power Corp. today was anxiously awaiting word from federal officials on its request to re-start the state's only nuclear power plant. Gov. Thomas Salmon Tuesday urged a go-slow approach despite the report that regional utilities were paying an estimated $250,000 a day to buy power from other sources until the nuclear plant is brought back on line.

WASHINGTON — Lockheed Aircraft's revelations lead the Ford Administration to shift its policy from playing down corporate scandals to full investigation and punishment of them.

HOLLYWOOD — Actor Marlon Brando has turned down the NAACP's humanitarian award, saying only a black person can understand black suffering. It was to be presented at a banquet Saturday.

WASHINGTON — Former Gov. Tim Babcock of Montana must serve four months in prison for being the middle man in a $4,000 illegal contribution to Richard Nixon's 1972 campaign, according to the U. S. Court of Appeals. Babcock pleaded guilty to receiving money from Armand Hammer, president of Occidental Petroleum Corp., and delivering it to Nixon's committee in his own name and that of four other Occidental officials.

SAN FRANCISCO — Patricia Hearst's trial has bogged down in legal technicalities and her former comrades Bill and Emily Harris claim she lied about being raped and beaten by her kidnapers.

International

MOSCOW — Workmen have begun installing wire meshcreens on windows at the U. S. Embassy, apparently to shield American diplomats and their families from possibly harmful microwaves beamed at the building by Soviet agents.

In ravaged Guatemala Rescuers struggle to reach victims

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala — One week after a deadly earthquake rocked this Central American nation, rescue workers still struggled to reach victims and survivors in remote mountain areas. A government spokesman predicted the final death toll may reach 25,000.
 International aid — including urgently needed food and medical supplies — has helped alleviate some of the most crucial problems in popular regions. But officials have not been able to reach many isolated villages, where thousands may still be buried in the debris of their shattered homes.
 Although the government put the official death toll at 17,032, presidential spokesman Guillermo Estrada said Tuesday, "The final death toll will be somewhere between 20,000 and 25,000."
 The government asked the United States to send in eight two-man Green Beret teams from the Special Forces unit stationed in the Panama Canal Zone to help search for victims in isolated mountain areas.

The teams — consisting of a paramedic and a communications specialist — will be lowered from helicopters into villages that are inaccessible by road.
 The state of Alabama has donated a 200-bed disaster hospital to be installed in the southern city of Colapa as a recovery center for the 23,000 injured from nearby Chimaltenango, the hardest hit area in Guatemala. Another 9,000 persons died in Chimaltenango, about 40 miles west of the capital.

Directors give schools Instant Lottery funds
 The Board of Directors Tuesday night approved giving the Board of Education immediately the $25,981 due it from Connecticut's first Instant Lottery.
 Under an act by the 1975 General Assembly, the allocations must go to school boards and the only question raised by many municipalities is, "Must the funds be given school boards in this fiscal year, or can they be held for the new fiscal year?"
 The state's attorney general has said the law is hazy on that count and needs clarification.
 Manchester's board voted unanimously to give the school board the first $20,581 but indicated the second sum, expected in June, and the third and fourth, expected in the next fiscal year, will be figured into the 1976-77 school budget. It will appropriate in May.
 At Carl Zinsner's suggestion (it was Zinsner who pointed out the possibilities) the town council was instructed to check into state requirements for the allocations.
 The board approved two other appropriations to the school system. By an 8 to 1 vote with Zinsner opposed, it approved a $22,676 appropriation for the work incentive program, financed by a federal WPA grant. It provides 41-weeks employment for three Hartford residents and takes them off the welfare rolls. And, by a unanimous vote, it approved a $4,500 appropriation for tutorial services for 15 Vietnamese refugee children in the schools, to be financed by a federal grant.

 In other financial actions, all by unanimous votes, the board approved:
 • A $6,654 allocation from the Capital Improvement Reserve Fund for money due the state for reconstruction work at Broad and Hilliard Sts.
 • A $3,521 allocation from the Special Taxing District Reserve Fund for the last payment on property it owns on Oak St.
 • A $2,000 transfer from the Contingency Account to the Probate Court Account, to erase a deficit caused by inflated costs for supplies.
 • A $3,750 claim settlement for Kathleen Thompson of Manchester, stemming from a September 1971 fall on an Oak St. sidewalk.
 • A $495 pay raise (only $242 for this year, retroactive to Jan. 1, 1976) for the duplicating-room operator — by reclassifying her to account clerk.
 In order to permit the town council time to study possible changes, the board tabled a $961 charge-off of water and sewer fees owed by Tracy Cole on the 111 Walnut St. property he formerly owned.

Youth wins $10,000

With stars in his blue eyes, 18-year-old Paul Tranchina of 80 Chapel Rd., South Windsor is on cloud number nine.

He won $10,000 with an Instant Lottery ticket purchased shortly after he reported for work this morning at Top Notch on N. Main St. It was the second lottery ticket he had ever bought.

At first he couldn't believe it when he scratched off the film and saw the matching number. His fellow employees confirmed it.

 When he called home, his mother wouldn't believe it either. "Because I'm always telling jokes," Tranchina said. One of the cashiers took over the phone and convinced his mother.
 He said he will bank his winnings. In the next breath, he said he will buy a brand new car, a Corvette. A black one. And maybe some new clothes.
 Tranchina has worked at Top Notch for about two years as a shelf stocker and a cashier.

Should courtesy be regulated?

Coventry's Town Council voted unanimously Jan. 19 to prohibit town employees from commenting to members of the press on matters pending before the council. Council members spoke of the "courtesy" the employees owed them.

We ask, should courtesy be regulated?

More important, should courtesy come before a citizen's right to speak?

We opt for his right to speak.

By virtue of our American citizenship ours, yours, and the town employees — we all have the right to free speech. It is the First Amendment of our Constitution. It is a cornerstone of our democracy.

The right provides a sanctuary around our thoughts and beliefs. Our ideas, our convictions are our own, not those of the federal or state or local government.

We believe no restrictions beyond those public safety should be placed on our right to speak our minds in the American tradition. (By public safety we mean, for example, yelling "fire" in a crowded theater when there is no fire.)

Would we be American if we accepted someone else's telling us when we could and could not speak?

It is true the Coventry town employees should go to town leaders with town problems. It is the leaders' duty to be aware of town problems and to attempt to solve them. Also, the town employees are paid by the town to serve the town. Part of the loyalty they should owe the town is respect. That respect calls for them to go first to town leaders with town problems.

We suspect this happens most of the time in Coventry and other American towns because it must to some extent in order for them to function. Did something occur in Coventry to block this flow of problem data to town leaders? It has been suggested to us that it did.

Coventry has just last exchanged majority rule by Democrats on the Town Council for Republicans. Perhaps the new leadership has not yet developed all the avenues of communication to its employees. Several "leaks" to the press about recent town problems may have angered the new leaders. Their reaction was the Jan. 19 gag rule.

The public outcry over the rule must have shaken council members. They voted unanimously Feb. 3 to "reconsider." The council member who made both the Jan. 19 and Feb. 3 motions said, "My intent was not to harm anyone."

We are sure the intent of the councilmen was the best functioning of Coventry town government. They are volunteers doing an often thankless job. They bear great responsibility and put in long hours, most at night.

Townpeople and especially town employees owe the councilmen their respect. But they do not owe them one of their most crucial rights.

The councilmen asked for public comment on their rule before they vote again. We offer this suggestion. The Coventry Town Council should do no more than remind town employees they owe councilmen the courtesy of going first to them with town problems. For the council to do more is to strike at the roots of the American system.

We also suggest "leaks" to the press may often be of great benefit to the council and the town. A free people such as we believe ourselves to be is dependent upon a free press. The people need to know about the problems if they are to help in their solution. If the press efforts to gain accurate information is blocked by a council, the press must seek the information from any good source.

If the council can block the flow of information from itself and also block it from leaving the lips of its employees, the free people of Coventry will have that much less access to the truth they need to remain free.

The raising of this question by the government of Nathan Hale's home during the nation's Bicentennial may be a good thing. It forces us all to find a clearer view of what it means to be American.

Vivian Ferguson ends career as columnist

Vivian Ferguson today is bringing to an end her contributions to a Herald column, "From Your Neighbor's Kitchen." She has been writing it since Oct. 10, 1968.

The column was first introduced to Herald readers on Nov. 5, 1959, when Marge Flynn was the women's editor. Doris Belding Gorsch succeeded Marge on Nov. 9, 1961, and continued the column until she left Herald employment Oct. 3, 1968.

Vivian was prevailed upon to write it after Doris left, and has been doing so for 88 months.

The column began as a favorite recipe from Herald readers. The story usually included a brief resume of the contributor.

Vivian brought a new dimension to the column by researching foodstuffs and ingredients, and a history of some dishes.

The column, now in its 17th year, will be continued by Betty Ryder, family-travel editor.

By SOL R. COHEN
 For what they're worth, we've got a whole lot of goodies to serve up today.

In Philadelphia last week, a shoemaker in the oldest section of the city and for over 30 years in the same location hoped his shop might have some historical worth he could exploit in this year of the Bicentennial.

However, after checking and researching, questioning and prying, he could find nothing of any worth.

He struck a sign in his window. "On this spot in February 1776, not a darned thing worth anything happened."

Not so a 105-year-old woman in Nepal. She found out it was worthwhile after all to reach the age she's reached.

She reported she's grown two new teeth and that her white hair is becoming dark again. Nobody in Nepal could explain it. Nobody tried.

In Paris meanwhile, a man walked up to a visitor in the world-famous Louvre Museum and asked his advice on which painting to steal.

The visitor went along with what he was sure was a gag and told him the 14th Century "Virgin and the Child" probably was worth stealing.

The man grabbed the painting from the wall, raced outside with it and disappeared into the crowd.

"The Virgin and the Child" is thought to have been painted by a student of Giotto. Nobody has volunteered an estimate of its worth.

In Mount Clemens, Mich., two brothers-in-law are suing each other over what both admit is a worthless coin.

The gold-colored, brass-alloy coin was found on the property of one of the men by his niece. It's been identified as one of thousands of similar coins handed out in 1971 in a card-sharper's gimmick.

The two men persist in their court battle because, as each says, to give in now would be an admission of sorts.

Said one, "If the coin really isn't worth anything, why did I spend all this money fighting for it?"

In England, a girl and her boy friend answered the age-old question, "How much is love worth?"

He poured a glass of beer on her head, rammied her car and opened her up with a rifle.

She said she loved every minute of it. "Instead of hating him for what he did," said the brain-washed girl, "it made me realize how much I enjoyed it. I love him and I agreed to marry him at once. It was well worth it."

The judge thought it was worth something else again. He fined the boy $50 and gave him a suspended sentence.

Asked if he'd do the same thing again, the young man answered, "No. It wasn't worth it. Now, I guess I'll have to marry her."

In Chicago last week, 52 non-paying passengers on a southbound street

For what it's worth...

bus found it wasn't worth all the trouble. They refused to pay their fares. The driver pulled his holdup alarm and six squad cars and a police van surrounded the bus. Several officers boarded it and commandeered it to the nearest police station.

Charged with theft of services, the non-paying passengers paid fines equalling many times the fare.

The most impressive statistic reported last week was the record $1.1 billion gamblers lost in Nevada casinos in 1975. That's a figure worth thinking about.

The club owners indicated they expect to relieve visitors of even more money in this Bicentennial year.

Certainly, you know there's a National Bicentennial Commission. But do you know there's also a National Non-Bicentennial Commission?

This one is seeking candidates for the National Bad Taste Award which will announce the winner Feb. 29 in Lubenack, Texas, pop. 3 (yes 3).

In seeking entries from "those who have abused our 200th Anniversary," the commission states, "We are certain there are some examples of bad taste we cannot even imagine."

There's the story of a newly-rich art collector who bought a moderate painting much-loved by his friend, a self-proclaimed art critic.

The painting was one huge square of black, with only a white dot in the center.

A year later, the art collector bought a second painting by the same artist. This one also was one huge square black, but with two white dots in the center.

He hung the painting and called his friend to come over and look at it.

The self-proclaimed critic took one look, wrinkled his nose in disdain and said, "It's in poor taste. It's too cluttered."

OPEN FORUM

State worker responds to Tollard letter

To the editor,
 I reply to Tollard's Concerned Citizens, the $300 annual raise proposed by Governor Grasso is another gimmick, as is the budget based on an "anticipated" upturn of tax revenue, which could place the State of Connecticut in a more precarious position in the next fiscal year. It appears that it is time to enact legislation to allow our legislators to have some input into the conduct of state finances to assure that the public is made aware of the true fiscal condition of the state so that accounting gimmicks would not be necessary or permitted in order to balance the state's budget.

The number of state employees has risen from the year 1955 because of the services Connecticut residents require and in some instances demand. In 1955 you did not have an active Consumer Protection Agency, nor did you have an Environmental Protection Department, the Gaming Commission or a new Public Utilities Commission Authority, for which the Governor has requested one-half million dollars more for the next fiscal year. Your demands have grown and so must the roster of state employees.

Concerning the $10,872 "average" salary you quote, I wish you would tell that to the state employees who earn less than $8,000, the true median, per year. Your gross simplification by using the $10,872 figure necessarily includes the high paid commissioners, aid assistants, judges and attorneys, medical doctors, dentists and psychiatrists, military officers and Governor's aides, almost all of whom are in the $20-40,000 category, and whose numbers have proliferated in recent years, again primarily because you have demanded state services for the increasing number of citizens who are elderly, handicapped, poor, and sick; for the increasing number of criminals and crimes and civil actions you have brought and delayed on the court's calendars; for the more than 5,000 active reservists you demand to be paid for weekend drills and two weeks of camp in northern New York State, Virginia, or elsewhere.

The "goodies" you mention are the programs where you and every other working citizen take for granted: State employees pay just as much as you for Social Security; our Retirement Plan is keyed to Social Security benefits, and is contributed to by each employee; Unemployment Compensation covers nearly every employee anywhere and is required by law; Group Life Insurance is a voluntary, contributory plan; longevity "bonus" payments are in lieu of annual increments once an employee reaches the highest pay level within his grade; CMS, Blue Cross plans are paid for by the state but only for the employee and not his family members.

I defy you to ask any one of a dozen employed people on the sidewalks of Hartford to trade their employer benefit plans with their justly earned, but few would. We have no reduced purchasing plans, no travel benefits, no subsidized meal programs where we can eat lavishly at enormously reduced prices, no profit sharing or matching-stock purchase options which in a few years can result in enormous profits for the employee; and our health plan does not cover optical or dental problems, our retirement benefits are adequate but far from those available in private industry, and annual increments are not automatic but conditioned upon satisfactory work performance evaluations.

I also disagree with you that our legislature is weak-kneed. I think they realize that the state employee has not received a salary increase in four years and that their real spending power has dropped 23 per cent in that time, and to ask state employees to contribute five hours a week (7 weeks) of their free labor in asking them to do more than any private

Edward Levi is a live on

WASHINGTON — We've got a live one in Atty. Gen. Edward Levi. He wants to abolish the federal parole system and force federal judges to dispatch more convicted criminals to prison.

Should Congress go along with Levi's proposal, the legislation of course would apply only in cases of federal jurisdiction. But there's a good chance states generally would follow the Washington lead. At any rate, Levi's first job is to sell his ideas to Capitol Hill, where neither house has acted on President Ford's 1975 proposal which provides mandatory minimum sentences for certain crimes.

Levi's plan to reform the federal judiciary's permissiveness would require a trial judge to fix sentences within limits set by a permanent federal sentencing commission. The judge could deviate from those guidelines only by citing specific reasons for doing so, and his judgment would be reviewed by an appellate court. Under present law, a judge has wide discretion in determining how long a sentence — if any — a criminal must serve, and his decision cannot be reviewed.

What Levi wants to do is put the element of deterrence back into the criminal justice system. He notes that a major shortcoming of justice is the inconsistency in sentencing, with different judges setting widely different sentences for identical or similar crimes. He makes the point and cogent point that "judges... have not imposed prison sentences with enough consistency to make the deterrent effect work. Deterrence requires considerable certainty, and we do not have that certainty."

Indeed we don't. Career criminals he learned by now that for various reasons, judges generally are reluctant to throw the book at a convicted defendant. They know, too, that the make-work for practitioners of the legal trade offer them a good chance of getting off scot free.

Consider Pete, a dope pusher I encountered while writing a book on narcotics smuggling. "Sure they caught me with the goods," he said. "But I wasn't looking at any 20 years in the slammer. My lawyer came up with all them technicalities and the judge gives me two years. Hell, I'll be out in six months." He was out in four.

In fact, the professional crooks don't find prison all that uncomfortable. Most of them find friends in jail, and there are creature comforts — including sex — available for a price, or a favor. Meanwhile, slick lawyers work to get them sprung by some mushy-brained parole board.

Said Pete: "The only thing I worry about is that I knock off somebody and maybe get burned" — in the electric chair.

Pete has been around long enough to know that most federal criminal statutes now do not include minimum sentences. Judges can even waive sentencing completely and put a criminal on probation. "It figures," said Pete. "They got too many people in jail already. Judges know there ain't much room left in the prisons. They figure they have to take a chance and let some of us jokers go."

Arguing for a return to swift and punishment, Levi obviously is not moved by such considerations. In criticizing the parole system under which an independent board can make or break a man's freedom of behavior," he noted that "Very few offenders are required to serve anything close to the time imposed as a sentence." As a result, he said, there is a "lack of credibility in sentencing which undermines the deterrent effect of criminal law and adds to the sense of unfairness."

I lift a flag to Edward Levi. He has made a start. He is in there trying. Now I wish him luck in persuading the bladders that he is not placing the Constitution in peril by trying to get criminals off the streets and into police before they take over the Pentagon.

Parents to appeal fines in Boston school case

BOSTON (UPI) — A group of mothers is appealing their $20 fines for not sending their children to public schools presently being desegregated under federal court order.

Thirteen mothers from the city's Charlestown section Tuesday demanded a "jury trial with 12 good men and women hearing the case" after being found guilty in District Court.

U.S. District Court Judge W. Arthur Garrity Jr. has ordered the busing of students outside their own neighborhoods to racially balance the city's schools.

Following the court session, which was closed, a spokesperson for the women said "we are not against children going to public schools as long as they are in Charlestown near their homes."

Charlestown, Hyde Park and South Boston have been hotbeds of resistance to Garrity's orders.

A School Department spokesman said jury trials for all of the women could tie up already backlogged courts and impose tremendous expenses.

Similar charges have been lodged against parents in other neighborhoods.

Thousands of students have been listed by the School Department as missing since the second year of Garrity's desegregation program began in September, 1975.

VFW Post will honor Saturday essay winners

The VFW Post and Auxiliary will present awards to the annual Voice of Democracy essay winners Saturday at the post home.

The event will open at 7 with a buffet. After the presentation of awards, music will be provided for dancing.

Mr. and Mrs. Jay Stager of 30 Forest St., was first place winner in the local essay contest and fourth place winner in the district contest.

Keith Costa of 316 Grissom Rd. placed second in the local contest, and Miss Inara Punga of 333 Kennedy Rd., third.

Manchester High School, is a member of the American Field Service (AFS), the JV field hockey team and co-sponsor of Somersham.

She plans to spend the summer after graduation in Greece and hopes to spend a year in Denmark with her friend, Helle Hansen, an AFS student who lived with the Stagers for a year.

More information on the annual Voice of Democracy Awards might be obtained by contacting Edwin Edwards, chairman, Mary E. LeDuc, co-chairman, or at the post home.

Town gets $2.4 million in state per-pupil aid

Manchester is among several Connecticut communities receiving more than $1 million this year in state per-pupil aid. It will receive $2,464,999.

Others in the area receiving more than $1 million are South Windsor, $1,265,269, and Vernon, $1,749,193.

The aid, based on Average Daily Membership (ADM) in schools for 1974-75, amounts to $250 for each pupil in a statewide total of 649,853.

Nine school districts which are regionalized from kindergarten through Grade 12 will receive an additional 10 per cent, or $275 per pupil.

The largest amount of aid, $7,176,856, will go to Hartford with an average daily membership of 28,703 pupils.

Two accused of rape, robbery and kidnaping

NEW BRITAIN (UPI) — Two New Britain men have been charged with rape, robbery and kidnaping after they allegedly held up a store and took a woman hostage who was later released.

Authorities said George Gay, 23, and John Thomas, 21, were arrested and ordered held on $25,000 bond each after the Tuesday afternoon robbery of a Cumberland Farms store on Broad Street.

Police said one man was captured on the street and took authorities to the second suspect in a city apartment where the hostage was found.

When a gunman entered the convenience store shortly before 3:30 p.m. and took the woman hostage, she was forced to strip nude and leave the store wearing only a short coat and shoes.

Store Manager Virginia Kneeland, contacted by UPI shortly after the robbery, broke into sobs as she described the gunpoint abduction of Sylvia Guyette, a 20-year-old woman who reported to work at the store for the first time Tuesday.

Mrs. Kneeland told UPI said the gunman made her, the young clerk, a man and a boy strip while inside the locked store.

"I guess he thought we were concealing the money," she said. "I told him it was all in the blue bag."

She said, "I was scared to death. I was thinking we might end up like the Donna Lee people," a reference to the killing of six persons at New Britain's Donna Lee Bakery Oct. 19, 1974.

She said a second man was waiting in a getaway car which she described as a blue automobile with Connecticut registration 2E-4799.

Police report

Arrests made or summonses issued by Manchester Police included:

- Joseph A. Healy, 18, of Colchester, charged Tuesday with fourth-degree larceny, on a Common Pleas Court re-arrest warrant for failing to appear in court. The charges were lodged at the East Hartford court and Healy was returned to the state jail at Brooklyn where he's serving a one-year sentence, police said.
- Katharine E. Raymond, 47 of Millstream Rd., Amiston, charged Tuesday afternoon with fourth-degree larceny (shoplifting) at Caldor of Manchester, Barr Corners Shopping Plaza. Court date is March 1.

Thefts reported to Manchester Police Tuesday included:

- A burglary at the Lutz Junior Museum, 121 Cedar St., in which offices were ransacked and $8 to $10 in cash stolen.
- Theft of a $170 Citizen Band radio from a station wagon parked on Cooper St.
- Several baseboard heaters, taken in a break into a subcontractor's construction trailer at the Regional Occupational Training Center site, Hillstown Rd. and Wetherill St.
- Jewelry and a stereo phonograph, taken in a burglary into a Hilliard St. apartment.

The prosecution in Circuit Court 12, East Hartford, has nolleed (not prosecuted) a charge of reckless driving against Bridget Vogelsang, 37, of 35 Foster St.

The nolle was entered Feb. 10. The charged was placed Jan. 29 after a near accident with a police cruiser.

G&S begins patron drive

The Manchester Gilbert & Sullivan Workshop begins its patron drive this week. Mrs. Janet Acker of 21 King Rd., West Hartford, is chairman of the drive.

The workshop is rehearsing "H.M.S. Pinafore" for production March 19 and 20 at East Catholic High School.

Proceeds from the show will be donated to New Hope Manor in Manchester, a residence for teen-age girls with drug and alcohol problems. A patron subscription for $10 entitles the subscriber to two preferred seats at any performance. Contributing patrons pay $20 and receive four tickets for preferred seating at any performance. Both receive listing in the program.

March 8 is the deadline for purchasing patron tickets. Those interested in becoming patrons may do so by calling Mrs. Acker, at 521-6168, or her assistant, Mrs. Jeri Lyons of Vernon at 873-6694.

Open reservations for "Pinafore" are available at Watkins Gift Gallery, Fair Home Furnishings, Vernon Drug, at the box office the nights of the performances, or by calling Mrs. Lyons.

Guatemala radio contact said poor

Richard Reichenbach's radio, Reichenbach is a telephone has been local radio ham who is working better than he offered his services in contacting earthquake-stricken Guatemala.

He has had three requests so far, but radio conditions are poor and no messages have been sent out.

Reichenbach will try and contact an emergency medical team for a Manchester doctor and relay two personal requests.

Reichenbach said that people who didn't know where to turn or had exhausted other communication efforts, called to use his radio.

Another volunteer, Mrs. Lois Barnes, the local Friends of Children (FOC) representative, said her phone rang all day, after a Herald article stressed the need for funds to purchase medicines for Guatemalans.

Several callers offered personal service to the cause and many more callers offered food.

Mrs. Barnes did receive some monetary contributions but the FOC needs more funds for medicine.

ECHS Parents Club will sponsor dance

The East Catholic High School Parents Club is sponsoring a dinner dance in honor of the school's 15th anniversary Feb. 20 at the Colony in Vernon.

The event will open at 7 p.m. with a cocktail hour followed by dinner and dancing. Proceeds will benefit the school's band and athletic department.

Tickets may be obtained by calling the school.

Little problem foreseen expanding Project Concern

Little school administrators see problem with funding or arrangements with suburban towns in the city's plan to expand Project Concern, a spokesman for the voluntary tutoring program said today.

The Hartford Board of Education has asked the 14 suburban towns involved in the project to approve a three-year expansion plan which requires a cut in the tuition fees charged for the city children.

The tuition reduction sought by Hartford—from $700 to $600—would allow the city to host Project Concern enrollment from 950 this year to 1,235 in three years.

Manchester's Board of Education Monday night became the first participating school board to agree to the expansion and reduced tuition fees, effective in September 1977.

Indications are that the other 13 towns will also approve the plans by March 1, the deadline set by Hartford so it can figure the changes in its new school budget, the spokesman said.

Project Concern started in 1965 as a two-year experiment funded by a Ford Foundation grant. In 1967, when the Ford grant ran out, the city's plan to continue the program succeeded by state approval of new sources of funding.

Under legislation enacted by the General Assembly in 1968, Hartford receives a double ADM (Average Daily Membership) school grant and transportation funding for city students in the project.

The regular ADM grant is $250, the spokesman said. So the Project Concern grants total $500 per Project Concern student, and Hartford also receives $50 per student to help defray the transportation costs.

(An account of Manchester's role in Project Concern, appearing on Page 1 of Tuesday's Herald, incorrectly stated that Hartford pays all the tuition and transportation costs of the project.)

Wilson Deakin, assistant school superintendent in Manchester, said the only operating cost to Manchester is the textbooks and supplies used by Project Concern students.

Besides the tuition payments to Manchester, Project Concern also provides two teacher aides in local schools, Deakin said.

There are now 33 Project Concern students in Manchester's public elementary schools, but the total has been as high as 70 in past years, Deakin said.

Local educators are now considering expanding the local participation to include Manchester's junior high schools, Deakin said. Manchester is alone in limiting the program to elementary schools, he said.

Republican board member Fred DeGiacomo, a critic of the program, charged that commitment to the project was "an emotional one." He said he has never seen any justification for it.

"If we could bus some of our students out of South Windsor for the price it costs Hartford ($700), we'd do it too," said DeGiacomo.

The state has recently received a federal grant for $15,000 to evaluate Project Concern. The evaluation is expected to be complete in June.

Republican board member Bill Neal asked that the board make no further decisions on the program until the results of the study are available.

Goldman said, however, June would be too late to make a commitment.

The matter was tabled to another meeting pending a ruling on Burghuis' right to vote on the program.

South Windsor

By JUDY KUEHNEL
Herald Correspondent

Project Concern is in trouble here. South Windsor Board of Education Chairman Donald Burghuis may be forced to abstain from voting for the continuation of Project Concern.

Burghuis, a Democrat, is employed by the Hartford Board of Education.

Republican board member Joan Cushman has charged Burghuis with conflict of interest because the Hartford board is in charge of Project Concern.

"Without Burghuis' tie-breaking vote, the four Republicans on the nine-member board may be able to block a vote okaying continuation of the program."

Burghuis is expected to seek the advice of Town Attorney Thomas Dennis.

School Supt. Robert Goldman Tuesday night recommended the board continue the program as well as endorse an increase of 10 per cent per year on a space available basis.

South Windsor now has 37 children

President signs defense fund bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford Tuesday signed a $12.3 billion defense appropriations bill, but denounced a provision halting U.S. aid to Angola and said he accepted the measure only because of importance of the programs it finances.

pointed that the Congress has acted in this bill to deprive the people of Angola of the assistance needed to resist Soviet and Cuban military intervention in their country." Ford said in a statement. "I believe this provision is an extremely undesirable precedent that could limit severely our ability to play a positive and effective role in international affairs."

The huge money bill included funds needed by the Pentagon for continued research on the B1 bomber, increased accuracy for nuclear weapons, the Trident missile-firing submarine and the Cruise missile — essentially a pilotless plane carrying nuclear weapons.

Window on Europe

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet leadership is in a combative mood and diplomats believe a high-level decision has been made to fight back against criticism from the West.

"The Soviets have been stung by post-Helsinki criticism and are disappointed at being put in the dock even by neutrals," one Kremlin observer said.

Several nations have accused the Soviet Union of failing to live up to the declaration on personal liberties agreed to last summer at the Helsinki conference on European security.

As a result, the Soviets have started a campaign to advertise their measures to simplify emigration and to open military maneuvers to Western observers, while hitting back hard at "enemies of détente" who attack Soviet policy.

The Vatican and Khadafy VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Whoever suggested the Vatican send delegates to Libya for a great religious meeting with Moslem leaders may be in deep trouble.

The widely publicized Islamic-Christian symposium in Tripoli this week turned into one of the biggest diplomatic fiascos of recent Vatican history.

The host, temperamental Libyan leader Muammar Khadafi, in an unexpected personal intervention, accused Christians of drifting too easily into atheism.

said the Jews altered the Bible and called Islam "the best of all religions."

Vatican participants, led by Cardinal Sergio Pignedoli, head of the Secretariat for Non-Christians, were taken aback. The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano said "strongly politicized" statements created "a certain uneasiness among delegates and observers."

Vatican sources said Pignedoli's secretary, which sponsored the conference, seemed certain to come under sharp, behind-the-scenes attack in the Roman Curia, the church's central government.

In Tito Alina? BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (UPI) — Western diplomats are intrigued by a recent newspaper interview given by President Josip Broz Tito in which the 83-year-old leader made more than passing mention of his departure from the scene.

Tito's death is a topic Yugoslav officials do not like to discuss and, the diplomats said, when Tito himself talks about it, a closer examination of the Communist leader's health is in order.

Tito recently was reported to be suffering from a cold and a recurrent attack of sciatica. He has not been seen in public since the first of the year.

In the interview, Tito said he could die tomorrow, confident he would leave behind a strong Yugoslavia whose six republics and two autonomous provinces would remain united and not succumb to the nationalist tendencies that in the past have threatened to rip the country apart.

Ulster Outlook Break LONDON (UPI) — The 78-member Northern Ireland convention is meeting for its second effort to agree on a new political setup for the province, but UPI correspondent Joseph W. Grigg said prospects appear bleak.

Meryl Riees, Britain's minister responsible for Northern Ireland, called the convention back for another month after it failed last November to agree on a new constitution that would give minority Roman Catholics a share in government with the Protestant majority.

Grigg said it appeared likely the hard-line representatives of the Protestant faction would prevail again. If the convention does fail, Britain is prepared to continue direct rule of Ulster indefinitely.

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — U.S. and Greek officials are holding talks on the status of American bases in Greece. Whatever the outcome, UPI correspondent John Riggs believes the bases eventually are doomed.

The anti-American climate now prevalent in Greece, he said, will be intensified later this year when Greece and Turkey begin negotiations on a Cyprus settlement.

Town meeting okays new ambulance

Andover

DONNA HOLLAND
Herald Correspondent
During a lengthy 3 1/2 hour Town Meeting, Andover residents voted on five matters.

They approved the purchase of a $20,000 emergency medical care vehicle, the financing of the already approved recreation field on Long Hill Rd., the keeping of Bolton out of the Andover Disposal Area, an ordinance making the Board of Selectmen in charge of town owned personal property, and acceptance of Birch Dr. and Lakeview Dr. as town-owned roads.

They also heard a report from the Town Hall Improvement Committee. Ed Yeomans moderated the meeting attended by about 100 residents.

The meeting sought to have action taken in March 1978 rescinded. At that time residents approved $22,000 for an emergency vehicle. It was thought Andover would pay $8,000 and a federal grant the balance.

Andover did not receive the federal grant and the action was rescinded. J. Russell Thompson, selectman and chairman of the commission, said Andover's present vehicle cannot be used after Jan. 1, 1977 because of state regulations of the Department of Transportation and the Health Department.

Andover's ambulance falls short of the height and cooling regulations. Thompson said a committee has worked for two years on specifications for an ambulance. It recommended a van type over a modular type because of the cost.

There were 86 ambulance calls in 1975. The figure does not include the calls made by the ambulance when it responds to fires.

Robert Post said if the state and federal government, changes a regulations making things unobtainable, they should come up with some money to help pay for the new ones.

The present vehicle has 45,000 miles on it. There are 17 Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs) in Andover.

The motion carried by a 33-30 vote. Residents, however, refused to have a fine imposed.

The Town Meeting approved Birch Dr. and Lakeview Dr. as public highways. Many directly concerned with the roads attended the meeting.

He charged the constables with improper use of the radios.

Jerome Griner said if the ordinance was approved, "it won't be worth the paper it's written on because state statutes take precedence."

Andover has no charter to override state statutes.

Board begins budget labors

East Hartford

SHIELLA FULLER
289-4283
The Board of Education held two budget workshops this week.

For the board, this is only the beginning of many more hours of work before the budget is ready to present to Mayor Richard H. Blackstone.

Tuesday night, Leonard Baker, supervisor of the custodial department, was present to explain his budget requests to board members, including records, films and television programs. He said budgeted equipment such Walter Miles and Emory Daly, board members, said inventory lists from each school should be studied before making decisions on adding these requests to the new budget.

Daly also had questions on the use of sophisticated and costly audio visual equipment. Supt. Eugene A. Diggs explained such equipment is needed because no classroom teacher has the expertise to offer the variety of materials gained from educational slides, records, films and television programs. He said the town's schools were present to answer questions and explain their requests, which ranged from blackboards to water coolers with phonographs, tape recorders, calculators, and television sets.

Board members will continue to study school and departmental requests for the next few weeks before finalizing the 1976-77 budget.

Commission shows 'Wild Country'

Hebron

EVELYN CROSTON
The Recreation Commission will sponsor a movie tonight at 8 at Gilead Hill School. "Wild Country" is a Walt Disney film about an Eastern family that moves West. A low fee will be charged to cover the cost.

The commission ran a summer movie program last July and August which was very successful. This coincides with the school's February vacation.

The commission is seeking persons interested in serving on the commission which meets once a month. To learn more contact either the Board of Selectmen or commission members.

Student says he'll cure what's bugging you

STORRS (UPI)—If bugs bug you, take heart. A University of Connecticut graduate student says he has a cure. But he's not telling anyone what it is.

Thomas Condon, a doctoral candidate in clinical psychology, is advertising on the UConn campus for 70 persons who are afraid of roaches and other insects. He is seeking them for a project to investigate a new technique for helping people overcome their fear of insects.

He said Monday he does not want to reveal his methods because he is afraid people's reactions would change if they knew what he planned to do. Condon says his tests should be completed in June.

Claim adjustments to your income

By ROBERT J. PUE

Conn. Society of CPA One way to hold down income taxes is to claim all the "adjustments to income" which you are entitled.

What is the difference between an adjustment and deduction? Very little, except that adjustments are applied to gross income rather than to adjusted gross, and thus are taken even if you use the standard deduction. The principal adjustments to income are:

- Sick pay
- Moving expenses
- Certain employee business expenses
- Household-related education expenses
- Depreciation of property used in business
- Contributions to deferred retirement plans
- Whether and to what extent the pay you received while out of or injured from a job should be excluded from income depends on a number of factors, including the existence of an established, employer-of any financed sick-pay plan; the length of time you were absent; and whether you were hospitalized for part of the absence. In any case, the most that is tax exempt is $100 a week.

The rules covering sick pay are too extensive for full explanation here; if you are affected, you'll want to research the subject further or have it done for you. Use IRS Form 2440. Any workmen's compensation for injuries or illness, insurance benefits for health insurance on which you paid the premiums, or disability benefits for loss of income under a no-fault auto insurance policy. If you have moved to a new home in order to work

Olsen resigns grid post

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sportswriter

Making the decision he wanted, Larry Olsen has resigned as head football coach at Manchester High.

Olsen, seventh coach in the school's history, submitted his resignation to George Emmerling, high school principal, last Friday and it was announced Tuesday to enable the outgoing coach to talk to his former players.

"I'm not walking away from a problem," stated Olsen who has had rocky times in his three years at the helm. "Running away from a problem is no solution. I've weighed my decision for a long time and I feel good about it. You've been leaving something you've been after seven years as an assistant to Dave Wiggins, current director of athletics. His three-year record is five wins, 23 losses and one tie with the last two years Manchester finishing in the OCL cellar. "I have no regrets," Olsen stated. "There have been good times and bad times but the best part always was working with the kids. I've had a lot of fond memories."

Olsen in the letter submitted to Emmerling penned, "For reasons of a personal vein, I am now resigning my position as head football coach at Manchester High School. It is not without a great deal of mixed feelings that I leave this position. I have many pleasant memories of the years that I have been associated with football and they are part of me forever. However, I find that at this time of my life, my interests are such that I will be devoting my time to other areas."

Olsen stated he will remain in Manchester and will continue as a math teacher on the secondary level.

Wiggins, who coached for eight years, called the resignation a total surprise. "I thought Larry wanted to continue another year. We had talks about next year and as far as I was concerned he was going to continue on."

The search for a new coach will begin immediately.

'Lou who?' to lead Jets

NEW YORK (UPI) — The burning question among New York's pro football fans today is, "Lou Who?"

The New York Jets filled the last coaching vacancy in the National Football League Tuesday, bypassing some of the premier names in college football and selecting Lou Holtz, the highly successful but little-known coach at North Carolina State.

Holtz, a frail, scholarly looking type, who speaks in rapid-fire, machine-gun bursts and considers himself an accomplished amateur magician, made his reputation in the college ranks by turning losers into winners. He'll have another opportunity to work his wizardry in New York.

Holtz, who turned both William & Mary and N.C. State into instant winners in his last two coaching assignments, takes over a Jet club that finished as the poorest defensive team in the NFL. The 3-11 record and last-place finish in the AFC East marked the Jets' worst season ever.

Ski race clinic

Tonight at 7:30 the annual Manchester State Bank Ski Clinic for youngsters will be staged at the State Bank.

Featured will be three members of the Kneisel race team and Jerry Donnan, director of skiing at Mt. Southington. Admission is free.

Saturday, weather permitting, ski races will be staged at the Northville slope for children six to 14 starting at 9 o'clock.

Illing's Steve Pyka eyes basket Bennett's Ed Kennison thwarted basket try

Bennet triumphs

Gaining sweet revenge yesterday afternoon when the Bennett Junior High basketball team in posting an easy 82-50 decision over Illing at the latter's gym.

Leading the powerful Bears' attack were John Wilton and Jim Taylor with 20 and 15 points. The winners tallied 25 points in the second period while employing an effective zone press.

Bennet led a 36-29 margin at intermission. Dave Tye tallied 10 points to lead the Bears who also got a fine performance from Walt Adams.

No scoring totals were given for the Illing quintet.

Mahovich stars in Montreal win

NEW YORK (UPI) — Peter Mahovich, who centers the most productive line in pro hockey, plays like a true capitalist.

"Today was pay day. I had to earn my salary. I need three of my checks to match one of Guy Lafleur's," he joked Tuesday night after he, Lafleur and Steve Shutt led the high-flying Canadians to a 6-1 National Hockey League rout of the St. Louis Blues.

Mahovich, a 6-foot-5, 205-pounder, had two first-period goals — his 24th and 25th — and assisted on Shutt's score as the Canadians overcame a 1-0 St. Louis lead and rolled to their 40th victory in 55 games.

Guy Lapointe and Shutt connected in a 41-second span of the second period to make the score 4-1 and Yves Lambert and Lafleur, the league's leading scorers, added third-period goals.

"I think I'll battle Philadelphia's Bobby Clarke right down to the wire for the scoring championship," said Lafleur, who has 85 points in the league's leading scorers, added third-period goals.

Walton rammed home two goals such as Minnesota snapped a five-game winless streak and climbed into a third-place tie with San Diego in the West Division. Batch Deadmarsh's 35-foot screen shot midway through the third period gave Calgary its win over Toronto.

Charleston seventh Negro Hall of Famer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Oscar Charleston, seventh member of the old Negro League to be elected to baseball's Hall of Fame, was described today by one of his contemporaries as "Ty Cobb on the bases and a Tris Speaker in the outfield."

"You might say that made him something of a ball player," said Judy Johnson, one of the six stars of the old Negro League, who preceded Charleston into the shrine at Cooperstown, N.Y.

"And you'd be right. He was one of those players you don't see every day. He was something to watch."

Charleston, whose career spanned five decades from 1915 through 1954, was selected for Aug. 9 induction into the Hall of Fame Tuesday by the Special Committee on Negro Players.

He will be inducted along with pitchers Robin Roberts and Bob Lemon, first baseman Roger Connor, third baseman outfielder Fred Lindstrom and umpire Cal Hubbard bringing the list of immortals enshrined to 157.

MCC outshoots Middlesex quintet

By CHRIS BLAKE
Correspondent

Manchester Community College has waited a long time for a rematch with Middlesex Community College but the Cougars avenged a Dec. 1 defeat last night with a resounding 86-69 CCCAA basketball victory at East Catholic.

Since the first meeting in Middletown, when Middlesex took a 72-70 decision, the Cougars have struggled in vain to make the CCCAA playoffs. Middlesex' fortunes have gone completely bad as the Hornets lost nine in a row.

MCC, now 8-16 overall and 6-9 in league play, closes out its home and CCCAA schedule tonight at Cheney Tech against South Central Community College.

As is usually the case, the Cougars got superb scoring efforts from Nick DeMarco and George Smith and a yeoman's job on the boards from 6-5 freshman center Lum Jefferson. Shut down in the first half, DeMarco turned on the steam in the second half for 24 of his 27 points in hitting 12 of 20 field goal attempts.

Smith contributed 20 points and kept the Hornets wary by sneaking behind the front line for layups. Jefferson hauled down 15 rebounds with Smith adding 11 caroms.

The first half looked like a replay of the first game with neither side able to gain an edge. MCC broke an 8-all tie with an 8-2 surge led by Smith who tallied 10 points in the first six minutes.

Middlesex came back with eight straight points. The Hornets went on top, 26-23, with 3:06 left in the half but Jefferson scored four points and forward Pete Lober the last three in hitting 2 of 3 free throw attempts.

Middlesex center Larry Farmer had the hot hands in the first half, tallying 16 points and five rebounds. But the trouble with Middlesex' offense is that it revolves around Farmer and as he goes so goes the team. The Cougars, particularly Jefferson who picked up Farmer in the game edge, MCC broke the tie with an 8-2 surge led by Smith who tallied 10 points in the first six minutes.

Middlesex came back with eight straight points. The Hornets went on top, 26-23, with 3:06 left in the half but Jefferson scored four points and forward Pete Lober the last three in hitting 2 of 3 free throw attempts.

Walsh proposes income tax

Coventry

People are simply fed up with paying a different tax to the state every time they turn around," says State Rep. Robert "Skip" Walsh, D-Coventry.

Walsh said his bill "will provide funding for local education at the 1974 per pupil average expenditure of $1,200 per student, will eliminate taxes on sales, gasoline, cigarettes, and liquor, and will provide an equitable way for Connecticut residents to provide revenue for state and local services."

Walsh's bill would also reduce the local property tax by providing for state support for a major portion of the costs of elementary and secondary education.

He said, "Tolland, Coventry and Willington will all benefit immensely from this bill since our per pupil expenditures is very close to the $1,200."

He claims his proposal will stop state residents from going to Massachusetts and Rhode Island to make purchases. Connecticut, without a sales tax, will be the least expensive.

Walsh said, "Many of the voters have expressed concern that an income tax would simply be one more tax burden that the state placed upon citizens in addition to other taxes."

Seven awarded Eagle Scout

Presentation of Eagle awards to seven senior Scouts of Troop 25 was the highlight of its Court of Honor at Center Congregational Church Wednesday evening.

The Eagle badges were presented to Scott Alemany, Barry Cottle, Randall Joyner, Mark Kimball, Jeffrey Metheny, Eric Thomas, and Robert Weiss.

Alemany, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Alemany of 40 Parker St., has been a member of the troop since 1969 and has served as patrol leader and junior assistant scoutmaster. He is a 17-year-old senior at Manchester High School.

Cottle, a 17-year-old junior at Manchester High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Cottle of 17 Grandview St. A member of the troop since 1971, he has served as patrol leader and junior assistant scoutmaster.

Joyner has been a troop member since 1969 serving as junior assistant scoutmaster. A 17-year-old senior at Manchester High School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Joyner of 27 Saulters Rd. He is the third son of the Joyner family to become an Eagle Scout, his brothers Richard and Raymond having previously earned the award.

Kimball, the fifth Eagle Scout of a family of five sons, described in a separate story in Thursday's edition of The Herald.

Metheny joined Troop 25 in 1969 and has served as patrol leader and junior assistant scoutmaster. A 17-year-old senior at Manchester High School, he is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Metheny of 18 Ardmore Rd.

Thomas, a 16-year-old Manchester High Junior, joined the troop in 1970 and is a junior assistant scoutmaster. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester

Thomas of 8 Gerard St. Weiss, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Weiss of 323 Spring St., is a 16-year-old junior at Manchester High School. A junior assistant scoutmaster of the troop, he has been a member since 1970. He also holds the Pro Deo et Patria religious award for scouts from Concordia Lutheran Church.

Merit Badges were received by Bernard Alemany, 3 Scott Alemany, 9 Brad Aronson, 3 Scott Aronson, 1 David Beckwith, 1 Kendrick Beckwith, 1 Neil Berggren, 1 John Boehm, 3 David Boggini, 1 Robert Bohadik, 1 Andrew Browne, 2 Gregory Castellis, 1 Michael Charette, 2 Jeffrey Chmielewski, 1 Barry Cottle, 6 Mark Darna, 1 Matthew Darna, 1 Edward Dzato, 3 Stephen Edwards, 1 Robert French, 1 Richard Gardner, 1 Charles Glade, 3 Jonathan Grzyb, 6 Joseph Grzyb 7.

Law officers urge repeal of Las Vegas night statute

HARTFORD (UPI) — Law enforcement officials Tuesday sought repeal of a statute permitting charities to operate gambling nights, claiming many of the operations were infiltrated by organized crime.

Lt. Walter J. Scholtz, commander of the Statewide Organized Crime Task Force told the General Laws Committee known underworld figures were involved in some of the "Las Vegas night" operations.

Scholtz, who said it would cost the state about $1 million to adequately police such operations, said one organized crime figure received 25 per cent of the gross take at "Las Vegas nights" at the Terra Mar in Old Saybrook.

"The intent of these statutes was, I assume, to benefit non-profit organizations and at the same time allow the citizens to enjoy an honest evening of fun and games," he said. "However, this purpose is being thwarted as our investigators have disclosed that little, if any, proceeds derived from these operations are benefiting the non-profit organizations and the average citizen is being fleeced by card sharks and gimmicks," he said.

House Minority Leader Rep. Gerald F. Stevens, R-Milford, asked the committee to tighten — but not repeal — the law because it enabled many legitimate charities to function.

"Church groups and other legitimate fund raising groups have used Las Vegas Nights successfully and honestly ... with no taint of scandal — this must be allowed to continue with proper safeguards."

Lt. William F. Ellert, speaking for State Police Commander Edward P. Leonard said the present statute should be taken off the books to give lawmakers a chance to study the matter.

"I would then suggest that only after considerable deliberation should the General Assembly redraft legislation that will allow charitable organizations to again operate such fund raising activities," he said.

Both Scholtz and Ellert said repeal of the legislation would help police stop illegal gambling because then all persons with such equipment would be violating the law.

Robert M. Richards, a New Britain attorney representing the Charitable Equipment Operators Association, said the push by state officials to repeal the law was motivated by Gov. Ella T. Grasso's dislike for gambling.

Penney studies the community

East Hartford — The "Community" study of the town both past and present, has been added to the curriculum of Penney High School and the Adult Education program.

The semester course was developed in a summer workshop by John Larson and Elaine Williams of the Penney High Social Studies Department. The course was offered for the first time in September.

Last week, Penney High students who recently completed the semester course presented a program on East Hartford to show parents, town leaders and friends what they learned about the community.

A slide presentation prepared by Mrs. Williams and Larson was also shown and many of the guest speakers for the course were seen and heard via videotape presentation filmed during the course.

Among the guest speakers, many of whom were present for the East Hartford Night, were Mayor Richard Blackstone, Ralph Secord, librarian, Lge. Paquette, town historian, John Brennan, former mayor, Doris Sussman, John McGill, Henry Cummings, Richard Strong, Fred Fredette, and George Goodwin.

These people spoke on the history of the town. A bonus feature of the past semester course was following the local election. Several speakers were invited to speak on the political process. Among these speakers were James Fitzgerald, Democratic Town Chairman, John Shaughnessy, former mayor, Raymond Donovan, Barbara Dunn, Esther Clarke, Jan Brennan, and Mike Sheridan.

The students also took part in a panel discussion and answered audience questions with knowledge gained from their lessons.

During the semester the students studied the history of East Hartford, the political process, economic activities, the education system, and cultural activities.

Field trips were also included in the course including a guided tour of the town.

A report to the Board of Education by course teachers said the prime objective of the course was to foster a sense of community in the students.

If the students and audience enthusiasm during last week's program was an indication,

Smith to head Stevens School

East Hartford — Stanley Smith will assume a full-time position as principal of Stevens Elementary School effective August 1, said School Supt. Eugene Digg.

Smith has been principal for both Stevens and Woodland Schools since late last fall when he filled the vacancy created by the resignation of Mrs. Emma Civello. Smith had been vice-principal at the O'Brien Middle School.

His schools have enrollments of 129 at Woodland and 137 at Stevens. In September Stevens will increase to 248 students with the transfer there of Sunset Ridge Elementary School students.

Sunset Ridge will become a middle school housing only Grades 6 through 8 beginning in September.

Woodland School would continue to have one of the smallest enrollments in town. The other small school in town, Second North with 129 students, is administered by Mrs. Margaret Bleezarde, head teacher at the school.

O'Brien holds sports night

East Hartford — The Robert J. O'Brien PTO has planned a Sports Night for Thursday Feb. 19 at the school from 7 to 9:30 p.m.

The highlight will be an all star game between the Grade 5 team and the first gang all stars.

All O'Brien parents and students are invited to attend. Parents can play or watch. All children must be accompanied by an adult.

This printing test pattern is part of The Herald quality control program in order to give you one of the finest newspapers in the nation.

Dear Abby
By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Why do you repeatedly tell women to stay out of their husbands' billfolds and drawers? Why should a married man have something in his billfold and drawers that his wife shouldn't be able to see? Are you saying that if a man is carrying on a secret love affair with another woman, it's none of his wife's business? I'm a wife who discovers that her husband is committing adultery when she finds the evidence hidden in his billfold or drawer. Then, at least she has the choice of treatment or holding onto the evidence in case she decides to divorce him. Thank you.

BEEN ON BOTH SIDES
DEAR BERN: Sorry, but I can't condone invasion of privacy for any reason. P.S. If women can pry, why can't men also? Such snooping is dirty business.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 62-year-old, divorced woman in comfortable circumstances. I'm slim, attractive and stylish, and no one ever takes me for a day over 50. Six months ago, I met a handsome, refined, very well-to-do gentleman who is 58. (I'll call him "Harry.") After a few dates, we enjoyed each other's company so much, neither of us wanted to date others. I expected a proposal of marriage on New Year's, but instead Harry told me that even though he cared for me, he'd never marry again because he had had a prostrate operation 10 years ago that left him impotent. I told him that sex wasn't important to me and it's not. But he insisted that even though I might say that and now, once married, I'd soon feel cheated, and the marriage would blow up.

Harry's first wife died five years ago, and he married again. That lasted one year, and I understand Wife No. 2 took him to the cleaners. Please tell me how to get Harry to marry me.

MARRIAGE-MINDED
DEAR MARRIAGE: If you're willing to sign a prenuptial agreement stating that if the marriage doesn't work out, you won't "take him to the cleaners," suggest it. If that doesn't work, face it. Harry isn't for marrying.

DEAR ABBY: You've received countless letters from people who complain because their spouse snores. Well, how's this for a switch? My wife and I are chronic insomniacs. When we do fall asleep, we occasionally snore. Whenever I hear her snoring, I lie in bed and think, "I know that she has finally been able to fall asleep. That, in turn, makes me feel so mellow and relaxed that I can't doze off, too. My wife tells me that she is not bothered by my snoring for the same reason." "H!"

DEAR "H": Orchids to both of you. That's what I call love of the highest order. Your words are music to my ears.

For Thursday, Feb. 12, 1976
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be careful today not to use more than you can manage. Juggling several large projects could prove disastrous.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Proceed cautiously today when plans that have yet to prove their worth. Mistakes could be done to regret.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Take extra pains to manage resources prudently the next few days. Set definite limits on your spending.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) Evaluate goals and priorities weekly today. Don't chase rates that offer no net of gold at the end.

LEO (July 22-Aug. 22) Try not to make demands upon others today. It could create embarrassment.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's good to be optimistic, but also impractical to assume something is a foregone conclusion when it isn't.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Don't rely too heavily upon an associate today who formerly has made unkind promises. His record isn't likely to change.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) It would be unwise to try to sell others on something today that you don't totally believe in. It could backfire.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Take care today not to suffer a loss due to another's carelessness or craftiness. Keep strangers out of your affairs.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Select your companions discriminately today. Avoid persons whose aims are not in accord with your high standards.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Today's ideas aren't likely to be as clever as yesterday's, especially concerning work. Think each move through carefully.

Pantomime brings smiles

By BETTY RYDER
Family/Travel Editor

"I was asked to entertain at the inauguration celebration for Truman, Eisenhower and Kennedy," he said. "I campaigned with Stevenson — and entertained at Eisenhower's inauguration," Kahn said with a smile. "I had no political affiliations — just entertaining," he added.

Most recently Kahn had been asked to hit the campaign trail with presidential hopeful Ronald Reagan. "I work in the furniture department of a Hartford store, and just can't take the time of like I used to," he said.

In the comfortable living room of his Manchester apartment is a sculpture of three birds in flight which was given to him by the U. S. Air Force in appreciation of his service with the USO.

He also has a large photo presented to him by Adlai Stevenson and one from Kennedy seated in his office chair.

Among his souvenirs is a plaque from the Defense Department inviting him to a testimonial dinner at the Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf Astoria, at which time he was to be honored for "the untiring devotion you gave for the service of your country, Jan. 7, 1969."

Others similarly honored at that dinner were Raymond Burr, Charlton Heston, Martha Raye and Lena Horne.

A quiet, unassuming man, Kahn said, "Joseph Kennedy invited me to entertain at a party for Jack [the late president Kennedy] one time and he [Jack] just fascinated me."

"I also presented political pantomimes at a party for the Diplomatic Corps hosted by Walter Lippman at his home," Kahn said.

"Most of the time I repeat my old skits. People remember them and ask me to do them. I have close to 60 different presentations."

from Nashville's Grand Ole Opry with Eddy Arnold.

"When I was in Europe with the USO Camp Shows, the servicemen could head for Paris or Berlin for entertainment. But when you visit remote places like Greenland, there is nothing at all, and they are just dying for performers to visit," Kahn said.

"Many times, when they hear that I'm from Connecticut they'll ask me to drop their family a note, or if possible give them a call and tell them we met," he added.

As for campaigning, Kahn says he found out long ago, he must let the candidate go on stage first.

"If I do my pantomime first and then the candidate comes on, the audience starts to laugh at his every move because they just saw me doing them."

Kahn's daughter, Mrs. Arline Wallace, also lives in Manchester with her family.

"Arline used to entertain with me at the Institute for the Deaf. She knows sign language, so along with her pantomime she would delight the audience with her performance," Kahn said.

Now, he performs for local organizations, with the Insurance Group Entertainment Bureau which visits hospitals, prisons, and homes for the elderly.

As for television work, Kahn said, "I have done commercials out of New York for Check Fall of Nuts, but nothing locally."

Now, in his mid-fifties, Kahn, whose varied career has taken him to many parts of the world and put him in touch with thousands of our servicemen and women, sums up his work in a few words.

"I perform not for the money, but because I enjoy it immensely."

Harry Kahn proudly displays trophy presented to him by the U. S. Air Force in appreciation of his service with the USO Camp Shows. In foreground, are photos of Adlai Stevenson and the late President Kennedy, which were also given to him. (Herald photo by Pinto)

From Your Neighbor's Kitchen

By Vivian Ferguson

Today, I bid you farewell! This is my last Neighbor's Kitchen Column. Please note that I did not say it is my final piece of writing as I intend some day to return to this field of endeavor. This decision is mine alone. Life is leading me in other directions and I have chosen to pursue some other challenges for the moment.

My first column was written on Oct. 10, 1968. My good friend, Donald S. Anderson of 22 Timber Trail was my first subject. Since then, I have made innumerable new friends. One of my greatest rewards has come to me when strangers associate with me calling me by my first name.

I have written more than 380 columns plus a few other specialized articles. It was my privilege to compile the last four editions of the Herald cookbook and judge one recipe contest for this newspaper. During these more than seven years, many organizations have honored me as guest speaker at a multitude of functions.

The Connecticut Chefs Association honored me for outstanding coverage of the Culinary Arts Exhibit for the years 1970, 1971 and 1972. This touched me deeply especially since I have never had professional training either in haute cuisine or in journalism. The Junior Women's Club of Manchester named me Woman of the Year in 1974. How very special it was to be recognized by women young enough to be my own children.

As a result of the research connected with foods, I have added to my own knowledge. I have learned much about the culture, history and habits of peoples throughout the world from prehistoric man to modern day. My personal library is sufficient to provide hours of pleasurable study. The research room of Mary Cheney Library is an excellent source and I often found good material in the children's section.

I have permitted each child to cook as he chose. Sometimes, it took a lot of patience. Laurie, now 22 and engaged, is proficient in the preparation of both simple and gourmet meals. She has improved upon many of my own recipes. Leigh, 19, a college student, likes the simple things in life. She makes homemade bread, a bowl of chili or a good meat loaf.

My son Tom, 18, can take care of himself very nicely. I feel that a child of 10 should be able to prepare a simple meal. Hamburgers, baked potatoes and a canned or frozen vegetable are good for starters. If Dad and I have a dinner engagement, Tom will often plan his own dinner. Like his sister, he has experimented with boxed convenience foods, too.

Laurie appeared in this column giving instructions on how to pack cookies for mailing along with cookie recipes. I gave her her delicious chili. Being camera-shy, we took a photograph of a bowl of the mixture atop our garden wall surrounded with Mexican artifacts.

It seemed fitting that I leave you today with a family recipe prepared by another generation. Tom has made a northern Italian dish which my Italian grandmother gave to her daughter-in-law, my mother. No written recipe passed between the two. My mother worked it out for her daughters.

I never cooked a thing until I married at the age of 26. I read cookbooks as others might read a novel. My husband, Tom, an avid reader, who is frequent visitor to the

- (Stuffed Steak a la Marie Firato)
- 4 top round steaks, cut about 1/2" thick, then pounded thin
  - 1/2 lb. salt pork
  - 2 large raw carrots
  - 2 hard boiled eggs
  - 1 bunch Italian parsley

While there were often no recipes, each cooking by feel and taste. I later came to realize that those early exposures were helpful as I struggled during those first years of married life.

Both these women, so different in appearance and temperament, had one thing in common. They would cook for hours and even days to provide their loved ones and friends with pleasurable aspects of the dinner table. Both cooked a great variety of dishes and not just those of their ethnic heritages.

From earliest times, man has recognized the value of the meal. Whether he squatted about an open fire or sat before a great banquet table, he recognized food as an important facet of special occasions.

In our home, meal time, most especially the evening meal, has varied depending upon the activities of the family. We have been successful in eating together more of the time when the children were small, each was given his own time at table to tell the events of the day. Sometimes the stories were good, sometimes they were boring, and sometimes they were hysterically funny.

We are a family of needlers, teasers and jokers. No one has any illusions about himself even at the dinner table. Everyone pitches in with the table-setting, clean-up, etc. This is stuffed steak of the Piedmont region in northern Italy. It is similar to braziolo. My grand-parents came from Ciccario di Penango, a little town of 400-500 people. There, across the street from the house where my father was born, is a fantastic restaurant owned and operated by my cousin, Giuseppe Firato. People come from miles around for the excellent food and wine, much of which comes from their own lands. When we visited Italy last June, my husband commented, "This is like finding a pot of gold at the end of the rainbow."

I do not say "good-bye" but rather an revoir. I hope you will continue to call me with your cooking problems [until we meet again — good health and good eating!]

On 2nd Thought

By Jan Warren

On becoming a two-telephone family

One day last December, my husband tried to phone home to say he would be late for dinner and got a busy signal that lasted for an hour and thirty-three minutes. That night, after a long debate, we decided to buy the kids their own telephone for Christmas.

I wish we'd done it years ago! That second phone has brought joy to our children and, even more important, harmony to our household. If I was ranking a second phone in a list of luxury items it would get top billing, before a second oven, or a second television or a second car.

My husband and I had difficulty reaching the decision because deep down in our frugal New England hearts we feel that one telephone should be enough for six people. We also feel that learning to share is an important part of growing up.

Important notes we tried to foster a spirit of sharing. First we just talked about cooperation. Then we set rigid time limits. Finally we bought an egg timer and put it next to the telephone. Despite our efforts, the hassle of living with one telephone and four children was tearing our family asunder.

In retrospect the problem was basic. Our two generations look at the telephone very differently. To me the telephone is a secondary form of communication. I use it to set up dentist appointments, make tennis dates, and invite people to dinner. But the telephone is a cold substitute for the pleasure of visiting with a friend over a cup of coffee.

the mysteries of life. They also say goodnight over the telephone and once I actually had to pry the receiver from a sleeping daughter's hand.

Since psychologists tell us that communication is vital to good health, everytime I pass one of the kids curried up with the new telephone I get positive vibrations. "They're communicating," I say to myself. "All must be right in their worlds."

Interestingly I didn't get those positive vibrations when they were communicating on my phone and not theirs.

Now I'd like to say that once we got our second phone we all lived happily ever after, but just last night the girls greeted their father with lots of hugs and a new request.

It seems that they aren't satisfied with a simple two-sided conversation. They want their father to get them one of those fancy new Total-Phones.

Agnes Waickowski of 39 Union St., at left, flips through a few old advertisements for Bon Ami as she donates a bar of Bon Ami soap to Mrs. Montgomery. At right, Edna Wark of 85 Wetherell St. presents a can of Bon Ami cleanser which Mrs. Montgomery is cataloguing.

Call for Bon Ami products is heard

By BETTY RYDER
 Family Travel Editor

Bon Ami's chick that hasn't scratched yet, drew a great deal of response with its "beep" for old Bon Ami products issued by the Faultless Starch Co. of Kansas City, Mo.

In a news item appearing in The Herald, the company had asked residents who had any Bon Ami products to contact Mrs. Gloria Weiss, wife of the town manager. She monitored the calls as area residents phoned in telling her of the various items they had.

Christopher Montgomery, director of marketing services for Faultless, and his wife, Mary Linda, hosted a coffee social at the Manchester Country Club for all those who responded.

Montgomery explained that his company is planning a television commercial soon and wants to feature some of the old Bon Ami products.

One resident, Mrs. Shirley Naczowski of Hackmatack St., said she purchased a can of Bon Ami three years ago in a 100-year-old store in Pennsylvania.

"I hadn't seen a can of it in ages, so when I did see it on the shelf I bought one. It was only 15 cents. Now I wish I had bought more," she said.

Men and women, young and old, brought cakes of soap, cans of cleanser, and the rug and fabric cleaners.

Many items were similar to the modern ones, but the packaging had been changed slightly through the years.

Mrs. Marian Robertson of 77 Henry St., whose grandfather invented Bon Ami, brought a copy of the Ladies Home Journal published in 1909. In it was a full page advertisement for Bon Ami.

Helen Warner of Manchester said, "I've had one can of the cleaner on my shelf at home for years."

As the items were brought in, Mrs. Montgomery affixed a sticker to each one and catalogued it along with the owners' name.

Edna Wark of 55 Wetherell St. said she had purchased several cans when she heard the company was moving.

"I've had some of the products for 10 years," she said.

Some of the items were from the Lutz Junior Museum.

FOCIS meets on Thursday

The Family Oriented Childbirth Information Society (FOCIS) will hold a membership meeting on Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the conference rooms at Manchester Memorial Hospital. The meeting is to advise members and be served following the meeting.

Pinochles scores

Top scorers in the Manchester Senior Citizens Pinochle Group game Thursday at the Army and Navy Club are Gladys Seebert, Marge McLain, 694, Alfreida Hallin, 594, Lev Steimyer, 578, Francis Miner, 573, Robert Schubert, 569, John Gally, 567, and Ellen Bronkie, 563.

Ice Capades aids research

The proceeds from the opening night of the Ice Capades last month at the Hartford Civic Center settled the Heart Association of Greater Hartford $14,819.

This is the largest amount of money generated in its special events fund raising history. Total money raised last year in association's special events drive netted only about $11,000.

Many happy returns

Mrs. Angelina Moriconi, affectionately known as Ma-Ma Mia, looks over one of the cards she received on the occasion of her 94th birthday on Feb. 9. Mrs. Moriconi, who makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. Joseph De Simone of 202 Oak St., is still quite active and enjoys crocheting, knitting and cooking Italian dishes. She has eight children. Five reside in Florida and three in Manchester. She also has 21 grandchildren and 29 great-grandchildren.

East, West Coast prefers contemporary ballet

Classical ballet as such was not included in the recent Hartford Ballet's Hartford Ballet, as he program in Hartford's Bushnell Memorial Hall dance during a reception following the program.

"We plan a much more classical program in Kansas, for instance, than we temporary favor to the dance as compared to Hartford," Anderson said.

Michael Uthoff, director of the Hartford Ballet, ultra classical with the tutued ballerinas, the ballets were apparent in the more contemporary adaptations. And the ballerinas wore short skirts of a soft, free flowing fabric.

Anderson made a dramatic solo appearance in the Hartford premiere of a South American type dance choreographed by Uthoff.

Hadassah: Past, present and future

The Manchester Chapter of Hadassah has its first four generation family of life members. They are, from left, Mrs. Nathan Lappin of Swampscott, Mass., a past president of Hadassah who is now serving as chairwoman of the life membership committee for the New England Region; her mother, Mrs. Samuel Padovitz of the Winthrop (Mass.) Chapter; Mrs. Lappin's daughter, Mrs. Eileen Jaffe, a vice president of the local chapter; and Mrs. Jaffe's daughter, Marjorie Ellen 4. Money received from life membership is actually designated for cancer research in Israel but it is used wherever the need is the greatest. Those desiring to be come life members or who wish additional information may contact Mrs. C. M. Gorman, 139 Richmond Dr.

Local men nominated to academies

Sen. Lowell Weicker, (R-Conn.) has announced the nominations of Kent R. Murphy of 21 Sleep Hollow Lane to the Forbes, and Robert W. Mumford of 872 Vernon St. to the Merchant Marine.

The men will compete with other nominees from Connecticut for a position in each class of 1980 in each academy.

Students will be judged on the basis of Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) scores, grades and extra curricular activities.

The final selection will be made by the academies in the spring.

Gardening

With Frank Attwood

One of the finest, and easiest to grow, of winter flowers for the home is the paper white narcissus. Purchase in the fall, the bulbs will stay in good condition for a number of weeks and can be started into bloom whenever flowers are wanted.

In my experience it takes about a month for "paper whites" to produce flowers. Started at Thanksgiving, they should be ready at Christmas. Started at New Year's, they will put on a show in very early February.

The bulbs need only water, and small stones to hold the bulbs right side up. Narrow leaves grow first, then flower stalks, each with a fat bud that will open into a generous cluster of white flowers. They have a delightful fragrance.

The small stones in Mrs. House's container are pebbles picked up on the beach by children during vacation days at the Connecticut shore and given as a "present to Grandma." More people probably use the marble chips sold for the purpose at garden centers, generally white but sometimes dyed a bright blue.

It is convenient to have a handful of extra stones to fill in around the bulbs as the roots grow and have a tendency to push the bulbs out of their sandy anchorage. In the picture you may notice also a bamboo stake and a green plastic tie to help in holding the plants upright when the flower stalks and flower clusters, heavier than the leaves, can sometimes pull the plants over to one side.

Come from France. Unlike the other kinds of narcissus and most of the tulips and hyacinths that we grow outdoors or can force to bloom in the house, the "paper white" comes from France, not Holland. The climate in the Netherlands is too cool for plants of this species, and the climate in Connecticut would be fatal to them if they were set outdoors.

There is no way that these narcissus can be held over to bloom again here. Regrettably, they have to be thrown out when they have finished blooming and to be replaced by new ones.

Scheduled about a month later is the Connecticut Home Garden and Farm Show at the West Hartford Armory on Farmington Ave., March 25-28. A feature intended to appeal to children in a "bar-nyard" with horses, cows and calves, baby chickens and other livestock brought to the show by vocational agriculture students. Some of the boys sleep in the armory so that they will be nearby if the animals need attention during the night.

What is billed as the "First Southern New England Garden Club" have taken a large space for a standard flower show in which they hope that many of their members clubs will participate. They have listed one exhibit class open to men, to be placed on a tree stump 18 inches high with a top that is 14 inches in diameter. These will be placed around an Indian tepee.

Natural aging doesn't make our Great Beef older. It just makes it better.

We have our own big meat plant. And our own special way of vacuum sealing fresh beef while it's still in whole, butcher-sized chunks. What does vacuum sealing do? Keeps our beef fresh and juicy for days... so we can let it get tender and flavorful... naturally. And when our butchers take the beef out of its vacuum package to cut it into steaks and roasts in our stores, it's still fresh. Still juicy. That's what makes our Great Beef great.

The shoes didn't fit

Four witnesses in a recent purse-snatching case identified the defendant as the guilty party. But as luck would have it, the actual thief, while fleeing from the scene of the crime, had lost one of his shoes. The shoe did not fit the defendant's foot and the case against him collapsed.

Of course, this particular defendant was only too happy to try on the telltale shoe. But suppose an accused person refuses to submit to such a test. May he be compelled to do so? The answer involves the Fifth Amendment to the Constitution, which says that no one may be forced to give incriminating evidence against himself. Consider this case:

A man on trial for murder was requested to roll up his sleeve so the jury could see whether or not he had a tattoo on his arm. He refused to comply, invoking the constitutional privilege against self-incrimination. But the court ordered him to do as he was told. The court said the Fifth Amendment applies only to the giving of testimony, not to the mere establishing of identity.

Under similar reasoning an accused person may ordinarily be compelled to make fingerprints, remove glasses, or try on a shoe. On the other hand, the law does frown on procedures that are needlessly demeaning.

In a robbery case, after the defendant had admitted his guilt, the jury took up the question of punishment. At that juncture the trial judge required the defendant to pose in the hat, the mask, and the pistol he had used in committing the crime. But an appellate court ruled later than this was improper, inasmuch as there was no need to establish the defendant's identity. The court said the only effect of such a demonstration would be to "arouse (the jurors) to passion."

Social Security

Q. I am 64 and will be retiring soon. My 66-year-old husband, who has been ill and unable to work for the past several years, collects a small Social Security benefit. I have been supporting him for the last several years. Could he be entitled to a benefit on my record?
A. Possibly. If he has been dependent on you for at least one-half of his support in the year immediately before you become entitled to Social Security retirement benefits, he could qualify as a dependent husband on your Social Security record. He can collect the larger of the benefits, either on his own record or on yours. He cannot collect both benefits.
Q. Next year, I'll be 62. If I retire then, how much will I collect from Social Security?
A. Talk to the people at the Social Security office to get an approximation of the dollar amount of your monthly benefit. The earlier you retire, the less you get. Your basic retirement benefit is figured on your average earnings covered by Social Security up to age 65. If you elect to retire as soon as you are 62, your benefit would be 20 per cent less than the amount you could expect at 65. The benefits are reduced 5/9 of one per cent for each month before you're 65.
By the way, if you decide to retire next year—or any time before age 65—don't drop any private health insurance you may have. Medicare health insurance is not tied to retirement benefits. You must be 65 or over to be eligible for Medicare.

Business and the consumer

Record sales
Caldor Inc., the Norwalk-based discount department store chain, has reported record sales for the 34th consecutive year. Sales for 1975 were up 23.7 per cent to $241,650,000, the company reported.
Caldor also announced record sales of $86,714,000 for 1975's fourth quarter, up 31 per cent from the fourth quarter of 1974.

Lydall shows gain

Earnings of Manchester's Lydall Inc. jumped 65 per cent in 1975 to a total of nearly $12 million, the company has reported. At the same time, sales declined 5 per cent. After a provision for discontinued operations, the company earned $1.10 per share in 1975, compared to 84 cents per share in 1974.
Lydall President Millard Pryor Jr. said a comparison of fourth quarter results illustrate the company's improved position. While 1975 sales of $7.1 million for the period increased 16 per cent, the 32-cents-per-share earnings were up 256 per cent, he said.
Reporting on the Lydall divisions, Pryor said Colonial Fiber's sales continued to increase; demand for Lydall & Foulds' paperboard improved slightly; Fiber Process reported record specialty paper sales; and Spheric ball sales remained level.

He became superintendent, group pension revisions, in 1965. Hoffman, a graduate of Manchester Community College, joined Aetna as a programmer, training in 1972 and became analyst programmer in 1974.

Mini-bus to transport Echo Ridge children

Vernon
Five children in the Echo Ridge Dr. area will be transported to the Lake Street School via a mini-bus until April 15.

On recommendation of the Board of Education's Transportation Committee, the board approved the action Monday night. In September Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kullas of Echo Ridge section, off Lake St., requested transportation for the children, contending walking was dangerous, they said.

The board turned down the request. The parents appealed to the state. Recently Mr. and Mrs. Kullas again approached the board with a new problem, that of the icy road conditions and the fact the town could only plow so only one car can pass at a time. There are no sidewalks in the area so the children have to walk in this same path.

The mini-bus now goes up into the area to pick up one handicapped child so picking up the others at this time won't be any extra expense. Mr. Joanne Worthen, chairman of the Transportation Committee, said the April 15 cutoff date was set as it felt the ice should be gone by that time.

The children to be picked up are from the upper Echo Ridge Dr. area only.

Teacher termination policy proposed

Vernon
BARBARA RICHMOND
Herald Reporter
The Board of Education Monday referred a proposed policy on termination of certified employees to the Personnel Policies Committee for review.

Dr. Raymond Ramsdell, superintendent there has been great resistance among the teachers about dismissing staff at all. He said he wants to be able to reduce the staff should the time arise when there is great dedication in pupil population.

Dr. Robert Linstone, assistant superintendent outlined the proposed policy for the board. When the teachers in the area of reduction set by the board have equal length of continuous service in the school system without any breaks, performance will decide the teacher to go.

Teachers must be notified in writing prior to March 1 if their contract is not to be renewed.

The teachers will then be given two options. They may, upon written request filed with the board within 10 days, be entitled to a board hearing. The second option would allow the teacher to go before an impartial hearing panel and appear with the counsel of his choice at the hearing.

Subsequent to the fourth year of continuous employment by the board, a teacher's contract is renewed from year to year, except that it may be terminated at any time for one or more of several reasons.

These reasons are: Inefficiency or incompetence; insubordination against reasonable rules of the board; moral misconduct; disability, as shown by competent medical evidence; elimination of the position to which the teacher was originally appointed if no other position exists to which he may be appointed if qualified, or other due and sufficient cause.

Rockville Rotary seeking citizen

The Rockville Rotary Club is now seeking nominations for its 20th Annual Citizen of the Year Award scheduled to be presented at a banquet on March 10.

The Rotary has honored four women and 16 men for excellent achievement, leadership and service for the betterment of the community. Candidates must live or work in Vernon, Tolland, or Ellington. They may be public officials, provided their contribution has been above and beyond the normal duties of their office. William Repol, president said.

Nominations must be in writing and signed by the sponsoring person or group with complete details on the candidate. Nominations should be sent to The Citizen of the Year Committee, Rockville Rotary Club, P.O. Box 342, Rockville, 06066.

The banquet will be at The Colony in Talbotville. The deadline for accepting nominations is Feb. 22.

MANCHESTER PARKADE

WEST MIDDLE TPKE.

The OLD CODGER'S COGITATIONS

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. had a favorite Sunday trip which can illustrate how different conditions for transporting were in days gone by.

For a nickel fare per person who could board the subway train in Brooklyn, pass through the tunnel under the East River to the Battery, then the thirteen-mile length of Manhattan Island, across the Spuyten Duyvil ship canal and to the terminus in Van Courtland Park. That must have been between 20 and 25 miles for a nickel, and fast.

But you can't do it now. When the subway reached the farms on the upper part of Manhattan it came up and was an elevated railroad the rest of the way.

From Van Courtland Park another five-cent fare on electric trolley took us to Yonkers. From there a ten-cent fare on the little ferry "Daisy" took us across to Alpine, N.J. in the Palisades Interstate Park.

Tied up at the Alpine dock was a full size replica of Henry Hudson's ship the "Halfmoon." It was even smaller than the replica of the Pilgrims' Mayflower that is tied up at Plymouth, Mass.

What courage those old timers had to brave the Atlantic in those tiny and clumsy vessels! Every one, and especially with children, should go aboard the Mayflower to see what uncomfortable conditions our forebears endured to get here. View the Plymouth Rock and hear the attendants' lecture. See the reconstructed homes on the hill.

It's worthwhile trip for a Sunday so convenient for Manchesterites. Just take Rt. 44 where it passes through at our Center St. Stay right on 44 until it ends right in Plymouth. It's that simple.

Getting back to Palisades Inter-state. It begins in New Jersey and follows the Hudson Palisades north across the line into New York State. Beautiful! We spent many happy days roaming the park and exploring the Palisades and the shores along their feet.

One Sunday we spent climbing around the cliffs and rocks until time to catch the last boat for home and arrived there in the evening. First thing next morning (Monday) our first baby was born naturally and in perfect health.

A few weeks later she was making the trips with us and spent most of her days peacefully sleeping in and an opened out suit case for bassinets among the rocks. Any wonder she has always been a lover of God's great outdoors?

Some strollers who noticed her wondered how she could be so contented in such surroundings. Even the banging, roaring and screeching of the subways seemed to be natural for her. She slept through the whole trip home.

We were often amused to see people boarding a train and trying to avoid sitting near a baby that might annoy them with its squalling. That one never made a peep while traveling. She didn't cry for or because of a bottle. She always dined as nature intended she should and was always contented and happy.

Action urged on election bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House Democratic leaders Tuesday urged speedy legislative action to meet a March 1 Supreme Court deadline when the Federal Election Commission will go out of business.

But the leaders did not take a stand on the controversial issue of whether to reconstitute or even retain the FEC.

The 24-member Democratic Steering and Policy Committee approved a resolution stating that "speedy legislative action is essential to provide for the continued vitality of the Federal Election Campaign Act."

The court ruled Jan. 30 the act is unconstitutional in parts, including the way the six FEC members were selected.

The Democratic action came as Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, chairman of the House Administration Committee with jurisdiction over election reform, called his panel into a closed session. Hays said he wanted to determine if there was a consensus on either abolishing the FEC, as he favors, reconstituting it like President Ford suggested, or reorganizing it with a special Watergate-type prosecutor.

Fire Safety

1. Have enough outlets so you don't have to overload any.
2. If you can afford to, install a 3-wire system in your home; 3-hole type outlets are safer than the two hole type.
3. Use a 3-prong plug in a 2-hole outlet only with a properly connected adapter.
4. If you use an extension cord, it must match the size and type cord supplied with the appliance.
5. Check cords and plugs often for signs of wear.
6. Use special outlet covers to keep toddlers' fingers out.
7. Prevent wear. Don't put cords under rugs, in doorways, over nails.
8. Buy cords labeled by a nationally recognized safety testing laboratory.
