Explosion devastates grain facility

Heavily damaged grain storage tanks and a missing section of the Goodpasture, Inc., concrete grain elevators give evidence to the force of the explosion which leveled parts of the Houston Ship Channel Sunday. Firemen expect the death toll to reach at least 12 and at least six others were injured in the blast believed caused by a spark from welder igniting volatile grain dust. (UPI photo)

Democrats making last pitch for New Hampshire votes

MANCHESTER, N.H. (UPI) — The Republican campaign tents were folded but four Democrats continued to scratch for votes today as New Hampshire prepared to cast the first presidential primary ballots of 1976. Democrats Birch Bayh, Jimmy Carter, Fred Harris and Morris Udall, thought to be running in a close-bunched pack in the contest for 17 national convention delegates, remained in the populous Manchester-Nashua area for final pleas for votes.

The four, plus Sargent Shriver who was already in neighboring Massachusetts seeking support for its March 2 primary, were to meet in Boston tonight for a forum which is to be telecast nationally on public television stations.

President Ford was in Washington and GOP challenger Ronald Reagan flew west to Illinois for two days of campaigning for that state's March 16 primary. Reagan was scheduled back here Tuesday night to hear the returns from the first test of his effort to unseat Ford.

Reagan, who some think will beat or run very close to Ford in their competition for 21 GOP national convention delegates, used the weekend of New Hampshire campaigning to reply to a late volley of charges from the opposition.

"I found myself accused in recent weeks of everything but eating my young," the former California governor told a rally. He denied he had proposed to make the social security system voluntary and asked why Ford twice had offered him cabinet posts if the President believed Reagan was a political extremist.

Ford spent four days in New Hampshire to Reagan's 19, but his strategists felt the President helped himself by visiting twice in the last two weeks of the campaign.

Ford has tried to avoid letting New Hampshire seem to be a show-down. He has pledged to stay in the contest until the end.

But New Hampshire is the first statewide test of candidate voter appeal and the state's boosters like to point out that since 1952 no one has been elected president without having won the New Hampshire primary.

Ford and Reagan won't be matched again until March 9 in Florida, but the Democrats are all in the Massachusetts test in only eight days.

Their problem, which could be alleviated by results here, is to separate the public perception of their campaigns. Bayh, Harris, Shriver and Udall all used national television appearances Sunday to try to present themselves as more liberal alternatives to Carter, the former Georgia governor who is believed to be the leader here.

Carter told about 700 cheering supporters Sunday that Udall was the leader a few weeks ago but later polls showed no more than a two-or-three-point difference. "We should be first," he said.

Ford asks governors' help in extending rev-sharing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford showed the nation's governors his "mess chart" of bureaucratic red tape today, and asked them to help him win a five-year, $30 billion extension of federal revenue sharing programs.

If Congress does not extend revenue sharing, Ford told the annual mid-winter meeting of the National Governors' Conference, "It could force the states to fire workers, to increase state taxes, and even to institute new taxation."

He asked the governors to help him win approval of his revenue sharing program.

"You are right in saying that our present economic recovery would be endangered if the Congress would end revenue sharing," he told them.

Ford also announced several legislative proposals aimed at ending "a complicated and categorical tangle of federal regulations." Calling for a reduction in categorical grant programs, the President pointed to two large charts which showed bureaucratic entanglement in following federal health care programs. He referred to them as his "mess charts."

He asked the governors for help on Capitol Hill, where state officials have indicated a growing concern that Congress might not pass an extension of the revenue sharing program due to expire at the end of this year.

He said chances of re-enactment might be less than 50-50 and that such a failure would have "some catastrophic effects in local government."

Hearing set on budgets

A public hearing on the tentative budgets and tax rates for 1976-77 to be recommended by Town Manager Robert Weiss has been scheduled for April 5 at 8 p.m. in Waddell School.

Weiss said today his recommendation will be released during the week of March 22. The deadline date for his budgets is March 29.

The deadline date for adoption of the 1976-77 budgets and tax rates by the Board of Directors is May 7. The fiscal year will begin July 1.

Weiss said he has no projection at this point on what he will recommend. "It's too early in the process and because of the late release of our Grand List, we must wait until the board of tax review finishes its hearings," he explained.

He did say, however, that the budget process this year is much more difficult than it's been for the last several years, including last year when he recommended a 5.5-mill increase in the general fund and the Board of Directors cut his figures and increased the tax rate by 1.35 mills.

Weiss indicated also he may recommend a hike in water rates. He said the price of chemicals and of electrical services has escalated to the point where the increase might be the only way to balance the water department budget.

Steakhouse expansion hearing for zoning changes delayed

A zoning application which would allow expansion of Willie's Steak House, 444 Center St., has been withdrawn from its scheduled public hearing tonight before the Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals.

Wallace Parciak, a partner in the venture with William Oleksinski, said plans for a banquet room and cocktail lounge addition aren't final, so application for zoning variances is being postponed until March.

Oleksinski and Parciak had filed a petition seeking variances of front yard and parking requirements to allow construction of an addition of between 3,000 and 4,000 square feet.

The addition would be built to the west of Willie's existing building, and Oleksinski and Parciak are buying the adjacent Dec'i's Drive-In property at 462 Center St. to use for parking.

Zoning variances are required, town planning officials said, because the new parking area wouldn't provide enough spaces and because the addition would violate front yard requirements in a Business 2 Zone.

Oleksinski's and Parciak's purchase of the Dec'i's property from Crescent Decantis, rumored for several months, is expected to take place soon, Parciak said today. He said the owners have reached agreement of the sale and a real estate closing is expected within two weeks. Preliminary plans for the addition call for construction of a 125-to-140 seat banquet room and an 80-to-100 seat cocktail lounge, Parciak said.

Zoning applications remaining on tonight's ZBA agenda are:

- Donald Lessard, side yard variance for addition to dwelling at 55 Avondale Rd., Residence A Zone.

- Polish American Club, variance to convert club to catering business not allowed in residential zone, 106 Clinton St., Residence B Zone.

- Town of Manchester, variance to reduce area of nonconforming lot at 446 Adams St., Residence A Zone, to allow highway improvements.

The ZBA is to start the public hearings at 7 p.m. at the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

Gov. Robert Ray of Iowa, conference chairman, told a news conference Sunday the status of a new bill was "much more critical than we dreamed of a year ago."

$2.5 billion asked for nation's poor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford asked Congress today to approve a $2.5 billion annual block grant to the states for aid to needy families.

In a message to Congress, Ford said his plan calls for ending requirements that each state provide matching funds. No state would receive less money under his Financial Assistance for Community Services Act than in the past fiscal year, the President said.

Ford's plan cuts out much federal bureaucratic paperwork in getting the money to states for use in such programs as day care, family planning, foster care, and special services for the aged, the alcoholic, the disabled and drug addicts.

"This proposal is in keeping with my philosophy of reducing unnecessary and burdensome federal restrictions while increasing state and local flexibility and responsibility in the administration of social services," Ford said in his message.

He stressed his plan would: — "Eliminate the requirement that states must match one state dollar for three federal dollars."

— "Eliminate numerous restrictive conditions on how federal funds may be used..."

— "Concentrate federal dollars on people most in need, those under the poverty threshold and those receiving public assistance."

— "Assure that no state will receive less money" this year than last in the program.

— "Decrease federal monitoring and oversight of state plan requirements and expenditures..."

According to a list provided by the White House, Connecticut would be given $36.75 million under the Community Services plan.

Proposed bill outgrowth of Manchester case

By SOL R. COHEN
Herald Reporter

A bill submitted to the legislature by three Manchester lawmakers is a direct outgrowth of a claim against the Town of Manchester by the estate of the late Police Det. Leo Grover.

It would place heart disease and hypertension claims by municipal policemen and firemen under the state's Workmen's Compensation law.

It was filed by State Sen. David Barry and State Reps. Francis Mahoney and Ted Cummings.

Existing law requires that when a policeman or fireman suffers from hypertension or heart disease, it must be presumed conclusively that such condition is related to his or her work, provided he or she was physically fit at the time of employment.

Mr. Grover died at home of a heart attack in September 1971 after 15 years on the police force. He was 49. The town's insurance carrier said it wasn't liable for compensation payments and Mrs. Grover sought the payments from the town. The town fought the case and lost. The U.S. Supreme Court, last October, refused to review the case and the town has assumed the payments, estimated at $84 a week for Mrs. Grover the rest of her life.

The three legislators said they have no quarrel with the present law, except as it applies to municipal funds.

"We believe that this law should be retained, because of the special hazards of the police and fire protection occupation," they said. "However, we believe the municipalities should be insured against this risk."

GOP to meet Wednesday

Manchester's Republican Town Committee will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room to meet the 10 new members elected Jan. 22, to hear final plans for its March 6 Lincoln Day Dinner-Dance, to receive a preliminary report from its candidate-selection committee, and to transact whatever business comes before it.

Wednesday's meeting won't be an organizational meeting. Actually, that meeting will take place in March, when the new committee will take office for 1976-78 and when officers will be elected. Under the state's election laws, town committees take office after March 2, the date set aside for any primary that develops. No Democrat or Republican has filed for a primary and none will be held. However, the March 2 date is still the one to be announced for organization purposes.

The candidate-screening committee is seeking a candidate for GOP town chairman, to replace Nathan Agostinelli who has announced he is leaving the post because of other commitments.

The group is not ready to make its recommendation but will have one for the town committee's March meeting. The committee consists of Vivian Ferguson, M. Adler Dobkin, Elsie Swenson, Sandra Taylor and Agostinelli.

Three names have been mentioned as Agostinelli's successor, ever since he announced he won't seek reelection. They are Town Director Carl Zinsser, George LaBonne and Wally Irish Jr.

Today, a new name was presented for consideration and has created considerable interest among several committee members. It is that of James Farr, former Manchester mayor and prominent North End businessman.

All four men are members of the town committee, a requirement for office.

Agostinelli, Wednesday, will appoint a rules committee to review and revise the committee's rules and bylaws — to conform with minor changes adopted last fall by an interim State GOP Convention, meeting in Meriden. The rules committee and its chairman, expected to be Scott Ciendani, will be named with the concurrence of the town committee.

School board will start steps to spend $62,581 lottery funds

Manchester's Board of Education is expected to take steps tonight to begin spending $62,581, the bonus it recently received as the town's share of proceeds from Connecticut's first instant lottery last fall.

The $62,581 represents the maximum amount Manchester could get under instant lottery legislation. The town Board of Directors voted earlier this month to give the check to the school board immediately instead of holding it back.

The lottery legislation requires that the money be spent on education, but it's not clear when town officials have to turn the money over to school officials. It appears the Board of Directors will delay turning over the next lottery check, expected in June, until the 1976-1977 fiscal year.

School administrators have indicated they'll spend the $62,581 on graphics arts equipment for Manchester High School, musical instruments for elementary schools, replacement textbooks and supplies.

The school board will meet tonight at 7:30 for a tour of Martin School. Their regular meeting begins at 8 with a comment session for townpeople.

Other items on the board's agenda include reports on the Shantel School, a dental program, and action on personnel matters, new board policies, and extended field trip plan, a washout account, and staff evaluation plans.

The board is expected to conduct an executive session — closed to the public — dealing with pending labor negotiations with teachers and other school employees.

Police checking series of weekend burglaries

Manchester Police detectives today began investigating a series of weekend burglaries into homes and businesses which involved thefts of thousands of dollars in goods.

Police said the largest theft — of merchandise worth at least $2,150 — occurred Sunday morning in a burglary at Tech TV and Appliances, 1139 Tolland Pk.

Police, alerted to the burglary by a 3:38 a.m. alarm, arrived at the Tolland Pk. store within two minutes, but the burglars were already gone.

Store officials said their first check showed that three tape decks and a stereo receiver were missing. A complete inventory is being taken.

The other weekend incidents included:

- A break into Caldor of Manchester on Tolland Pk., reported by alarm at 9:30 p.m. Sunday. Police found that someone entered the store through a roof exhaust fan, using a rope to get down to the floor. It wasn't immediately known if anything was stolen.
- Breaks into two other local businesses, Vitter's Garden Center at Tolland Pk. and Garner's Rug and Upholstery Cleaning at 14 High St. A small amount of cash and some keys were taken from Vitter's, and thieves pried a vending machine to get a few dollars in change at Garner's. Burglars caused about $300 worth of damage at the rug cleaning business.

Sunday Blue Laws should be repealed

It seems that when one looks at the list of proposed bills before the legislature each session, a lot of them are familiar because they have been proposed before and in some instances many, many times before.

One of the perennial proposals - in some form or another - is the repeal or revamping of the Sunday closing laws in Connecticut. More commonly known as the Sunday Blue Laws, the statutes have been subject to perennial controversy and sporadic enforcement.

It seems no one really likes the laws, especially the state and local law enforcement people who will ignore violations unless there is a complaint. It seems that violations become more flagrant during the Christmas buying season and it seems that it is only during the Christmas buying season that complaints are lodged in any significant number.

Didn't ABC do a grand job? The camera work was superb; the settings were beautiful; the Austrians were excellent hosts and provided drama in the opening and closing of the Games.

No, we haven't seen an Olympics Games, but we did visit the site of the Games in Munich in November of 1973, a year after the Summer Games there.

Under the bill, Congress would be required to act explicitly on continuation of almost all federal programs and activities beginning in 1979. Any program that was not reauthorized would automatically be terminated.

Our trip didn't take us to Innsbruck; it did to Oberammergau where the famous Passion Play is produced every ten years, and to Salzburg in Austria to visit the home of Mozart; much of the Bavarian Alps and Tyrolean country.

When Jim McKay bade us auf wiedersehen from Innsbruck at the closing, he said we would view the longest list of credits he had ever seen on television, and he was right. They all deserve that credit.

We could look out of our hotel room and see the Olympiad less than two miles away; the Olympic Village was also nearby, where tragedy struck the Israeli athletes. Those buildings are now apartments.

Moreover, those programs deemed worth continuing would not necessarily be financed to support their current size or to permit expansion. Starting from "zero base," Congress would be required to justify every dollar of authorization as necessary to do the job.

South 'controls' East for crown

By LEN AUSTER Herald Sportswriter

Six points don't appear to be a hefty spread but for some teams it's more than sufficient.

South Catholic led by this margin going into the final period of last Saturday's HCC championship tilt against East Catholic. "You can't be behind South going into the final quarter. They can hold it for 32 minutes," East Coach Stan Ogrodnik advised in the post-game locker room.

Ogrodnik's statement rang true as the Rebels controlled the ball down the stretch, converting 17 of 22 foul shots, en route to a 71-52 win at the University of Hartford. The triumph gives South its fourth HCC championship. A crowd of 2,400 saw East slip to 17-4 heading into the CIAC State Basketball Tournament (see accompanying story).

In a consolation tilt where nine-minute quarters were experimented with, 16-5 Northwest Catholic held off

South led 39-9, with 21 left in the final quarter with Basile the most prolific ball handler. East fouled in an attempt to get the ball back to the hot shooting Hebls refused to miss.

Ayers and Basile each had 15 points for the newly crowned HCC champs and Pinone, who is listed at 6-4 but is at least two inches taller, chipped in 12 markers. Heim in his best offensive effort of the campaign had a game-high 18 points for East. Carlson added 12 and Pete Thompson 10 markers to the losing effort. Lusa was held in check and finished with just eight points for East.

Underrated Irwin in golf spotlight

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Hale Irwin bristled at the question. Clearly, he was tired of answering it. "Let's get out there and print those boys," the bespectacled former University of Colorado defensive back snapped.

"Keep the faith, brother. "No, it doesn't bother me. And yes, I would be nice to be recognized." Irwin may not like to talk about the amount of recognition he does or doesn't get, but the fact remains — he probably is the most underrated player on the tour.

In a re-play of the 1974 U.S. Open, the nine-year pro from St. Louis came from behind to beat British Open champion Tom Watson and capture first place money of $37,000 in the Los Angeles Open. Two years ago, he won the U.S. Open at Winged Foot, N.Y., after trailing Watson by one shot after three rounds.

In the Los Angeles Open, he trailed Watson by three shots at the end of three rounds and was five shots back after the first three holes Sunday. "But I just hate to give up the ship and I wasn't about to give up," said Irwin, 30.

"I still had 15 holes to play. What I needed were quick birdies — which I got. What I needed from Tom were four mistakes quickly — which I got. So I guess it was the roll of the dice."

Watson, who led after the second and third rounds, finished with a 73 to wind up two shots behind Irwin's 72-hole score of 272, a tournament record.

Although the pair played in separate threesomes, it was strictly an Irwin-Watson shootout, and Irwin, winner of two straight World Pricedly Match Play championships in England, was the superior head-to-head man.

Irwin's check gave him $69,995 for the winter and the momentum going into this week's Tournament Players Division championship in Florida. Watson got $21,000.

"Any win is satisfying, but I like the way I won," Irwin continued. "I wouldn't have wanted to win with a 70. Irwin's card included a 60-foot chip shot for an eagle three on the 500-yard opening hole.

Foul shooting leads Tribe to title

Accurate fourth quarter foul shooting powered Manchester High to a 71-60 win over Penney High Saturday at Clarke Arena in the CCIL playoff championship tilt.

A good crowd of 1,400 saw Fernald overpowered Hall High of West Hartford in the consolation game, 65-64.

The victory was the 11th in a row for the CCIL champ Indians setting a modern school record. The old standard was 10 consecutive victories set by the 1955-56 quintet. The 20-3 Silk Towens now sit back and wait to see who they'll play in the first round of the State Basketball Tournament in the Class AA Division (see accompanying story).

The first quarter was played on even terms with the Black Knights, now 15-7, using a fullcourt press from the start. Penney, hitting some long range bombs in the opening canto, led 13-12 at the turn with six points by Bruce Ballard leading the local effort.

Penney continued to hold the edge in the second quarter and led, 23-18, heading into the final four minutes. Manchester's defense then stole the ball three times in the row resulting in easy hoops. Over the final four minutes the Indians outscored Penney, 16-2, and led 36-26 at the intermission. Mike Quesnel had 15 second period points for Manchester.

The locals ran their lead to 20 points, 46-26 midway through the third quarter but Penney pressuring the ball all over the court, forced a couple of turnovers and steals to narrow the deficit to 52-44 going into the final quarter. Mike Mack led the Penney charge in the canto with nine points. Quesnel had six and Ballard four markers in the stanza for Manchester.

The Knights closed the gap to four points, 56-52, with plenty of time left in the final period. They then reverted to fouling tactics in an effort to get the ball but all it accomplished was the fouling out of two starters, Tom Francis and Brent Young. Manchester meanwhile, was converting 11 of 13 foul tries in the period, all in the final three minutes. Quesnel hit six straight free throws down the stretch. Ballard nailed two tries and John Pich pumped in three of five from the 15-foot line. Quesnel, 6-4 senior co-captain, in probably his finest effort of the year netted a season-high 26 points along with 15 rebounds.

Ballard was second high scorer for Manchester with 16 followed by Pich with 11 and Jim McNickle chipped in 10 markers. Pich had five assists and three steals and McNickle passed off for four hoops. Mack paced the Penney effort with 22 points aided by 14 from Francis.

Shooting stats were very close. Manchester connected on 27 of 56 field goal attempts (48.2 per cent) while Penney was 28 for 59 (48.2 per cent). The difference was at the charity stripe where Manchester converted 17 of 20 attempts while Penney went 11 of 11 times making just four.

Board plans hearings on buying land

Public hearings will be conducted March 2 by the Manchester Board of Directors on three proposed additional appropriations and on proposed ordinances for purchasing two strips of land.

The parcels are needed for road and sidewalk improvements under Manchester's Urban Systems Program, expected to go out for bid sometime next month. Both parcels are owned by the estate of the late Alexander Jarvis. The first is vacant land at 525 W. Middle Tpke., to be purchased for $8,400. The other is vacant land at 400 Adams St., to be purchased for $2,400. The town charter requires ordinances for all purchase or sale of town property.

A proposed $1,974 appropriation is to the rec department, for its summer soccer program. It would be financed from fees already received from the participants.

Also, a proposed $1,500 appropriation to the rec department's arts and crafts program, to be financed by fees from the participants.

And, a proposed $4,148 appropriation is to the school system's Vocational Education Program, with $3,200 for distributive education and $948 for home economics and both to be financed by an equal state grant.

Useful Tail
 The beaver, which is descended from an 800-pound prehistoric rodent, resembles a groundhog, except that its tail, instead of being bushy, is flat and covered with horny plates that look like scales. This appendage is used primarily as a rudder but also serves as a mat to sit upon while grooming, as a prop to lean against while felling trees, and as a signal club with which to strike the surface of the water and warn other beavers of danger.
