Without committing itself to any future action, the Manchester Board of Directors Tuesday night instructed the town's Data Processing Advisory Committee to explore the availability of a systems analyst...

The committee is to report its findings to the board, prior to any approval for the contract or an allocation. The board learned to its surprise that the 117-page Phase I Data Processing Report it received in January is considered by the advisory committee to be meager, incomplete, and 'insufficient for an evaluation of the present system and for recommending future operations.'

Charles Forbes of Columbia, a patient, is being assisted into a Red Cross station wagon by Mark Hill of 56 Buckingham St., a Red Cross volunteer, who will drive his passenger to the Hartford Rehabilitation Center in Hartford. Mrs. Forbes drove her husband to the Manchester Red Cross office where he was transferred to the Red Cross Motor Service.

Red Cross ambulance used for variety of assignments

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Herald Reporter

Do you have a doctor's appointment but no way of getting to his office?

Are you scheduled for special treatment at a therapy center in Hartford, with no available transportation?

Does your economic situation prevent you from hiring a taxi?

Is your own car in the driveway, but unavailable to you because you are incapacitated in some way?

Is there a retarded child attending the Sheltered Workshop at Lincoln Center who needs a ride home in the afternoon?

If you should see a station wagon bearing two white flags with red crosses over each front door, it is a vehicle providing at least one of the above services.

And most likely it is one of two three-seat, nine-passenger Chevrolet Impala station wagons fully equipped with air conditioning belonging to the Manchester-Bolton Branch of the American Red Cross.

There are about 12 volunteer drivers, mostly retired persons, two of whom are women, who operate from schedules that start early in the morning and go all day.

One such scheduled day could include a trip to the Hartford Rehabilitation Center, the Newington Childrens Hospital, the Blood Center in Farmington, and a doctor's office in Manchester, including return trips.

An average of 190 persons per month who either geographically, physically, mentally or economically are unable to get transportation to medical stations are served by the motor service of the Manchester-Bolton Branch of the American Red Cross.

Their volunteer drivers have covered an average of 4,382 miles per month performing these services.

The Manchester-Bolton Branch is unable to take care of all the requests for transportation, but it tries to work as many requests into the schedule as is possible.

Many persons are transported from outside Manchester including Glastonbury, East Hartford, South Windsor, Rockville, Tolland and Bolton—all areas belonging to the Greater Hartford Chapter.

These station wagons, which provide transportation without any charge, are replaced yearly by the American Red Cross, Greater Hartford Chapter, with an average accumulation of 25,000 miles. The average monthly gasoline bill is $225.

At present, there is no local Red Cross vehicle equipped for wheelchair patients.

Most drivers serve two or three days a week but more volunteer drivers are needed to fill emergency calls, replacements in case of illness, and to lighten the schedule of the existing drivers.

The motor service of the Red Cross is one of many services provided by an organization that is nationally and locally governed by volunteers, whose duties are performed by volunteers, and which is financed by voluntary contributions.

Student praises regional alternative school

Shanti School, the Hartford-based regional alternative high school, received a glowing testimonial last week from Robert Gryb, one of two Manchester students in the school.

"I'm getting more out of it that I was at the (local) high school," Gryb told the Manchester Board of Education. He said Shanti is more flexible, more stimulating and more profitable for him than a traditional school.

The school board heard Gryb's comments as it received a report from Shanti by its director, Linda Woodard. The local board allocates $2,100 a year to pay tuition for the two Manchester students attending Shanti, who are chosen by lottery.

Ms. Woodard, describing the program at the five-year-old Shanti School, told school board members that Shanti isn't an art school, despite the impression created by its "alternative" label.

"We have strong academic and basic skills programs," she said.

Of the four Manchester students who have attended Shanti School, Ms. Woodard said one has graduated, one dropped out, and two are still there. (Gryb and Bruce Law are still there).

Ms. Woodard said Shanti now has 82 students enrolled and has graduated 119 students since the program began in 1971. The school, housed in Hartford's Union Station (the railroad station), was begun by the Hartford Board of Education and is now a program of the Capitol Region Education Council.

Other towns participating in Shanti are Avon, Bloomfield, Cheshire, Glastonbury, Plainville, Rocky Hill, Simsbury, Suffield, West Hartford and Wethersfield. A small number of students attend on their own, paying their own tuition.

Names of prospective students, after they file an application, are selected by a lottery. In Manchester, about six students applied and two were chosen last year. This year, just three applied.

Vote means many things to many candidates

BOSTON (UPI) — To Mo Udall liberal. Jackson, who vied with Wallace for the anti-busing vote, said "a long road" lies ahead. "But there's no secret to our victory. We brought America back together again in the state of Massachusetts, and we will do it for the rest of the 50 states," Jackson said.

Wallace, watching returns on a Miami hotel room television said he was "almost speechless" over his second-place showing. "Second is a victory as far as I'm concerned," he said.

Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, who claimed a victory with 18 per cent of the vote in New Hampshire last week, wound up with just four per cent in Massachusetts.

reassessing his campaign amid speculation he would quit. In Vermont, Carter beat Shriver, Harris and McCormack in a "beauty contest" involving no delegates for the coming national conventions.

But Massachusetts was for real politics. The Democrats divided 104 delegates and the Republicans split 43.

He also cut into the Wallace's anti-busing support in Boston, torn by controversy over court-ordered public transport, by taking the offensive with a pledge to limit federal judges' powers in the field.

Indians' defense stops Bridgeport, pre-tourney favorite Lee High next

By LEN AUSTER
Herald Sports-writer
Defense has been the pride and joy for CCIL champ Manchester High this campaign. That was the story last night as the second-ranked Indians used this weapon to eliminate defending Class LL Division champ Bridgeport Central, 63-53, in a first round clash.

A crowd of 800 at Sheehan High in Wallingford, about 650 Silk Town rosters, saw the locals move into Friday's quarterfinals at Crosby High in Waterbury. The opponent will be pre-tournament favorite seventh seed Lee High of New Haven, a 74-57 victor over Shelton.

Manchester High this campaign. That was the story last night as the second-ranked Indians used this weapon to eliminate defending Class LL Division champ Bridgeport Central, 63-53, in a first round clash.

The first quarter got off slowly with play somewhat sloppy. There were three lead exchanges before the Indians forced a 14-8 edge at the turn thanks to six markers from Quesnel. The Silk Towners upped the lead to 18-12 at the 3:54 mark of the second stanza before the Hilltoppers' press bothered Manchester for one of the few times.

final period and cut the lead to 55-49 with 2:11 left. The 56th point at 3:11 on an offensive rebound by Quesnel gave him the scoring record. The teams traded two points before Manchester got two crucial buckets — one by Jeff Kiernan fed by Quesnel and the other from defensive whiz Bruce Ballard assisted by McNickle.

Pisch led all scorers for Manchester with 20 points, 16 in the second half. Kiernan clipped in with 10 points while McNickle dished out seven assists. The Indians had 12 turnovers which pleased Pearson. "They pressed all night and that's not bad. You're going to lose the ball sometime but overall we handled their press well. We also held our own against them rebounding."

New Haven's Barbieri unseated after 22 years as Demo boss

By United Press International
Arthur T. Barbieri's 22-year reign as New Haven's Democratic town chairman is apparently over.

While the national attention was focused Tuesday on presidential primaries, Connecticut voters elected Democratic and Republican town committee members in New Haven, Waterbury, and Hartford.

When the returns were counted, the center stage was occupied by Barbieri, a former ice cream salesman whose organizational ability catapulted him to New Haven's Democratic town chairmanship in the spring of 1953.

Of the Democratic town committee's 90 seats, the so-called anti-Barbieri candidates won a total of 55. These included candidates pledged to Mayor Frank Logue and Alderman William Jones.

"I've been expecting to get about 25 votes and that's just about what I got," Barbieri said. "The question mark is that neither Logue nor Bill Jones has a majority. Together, they can name someone and in all probability Logue will give his votes to Bill Jones and in that case, Bill Jones will be the town chairman," Barbieri said.

Head in the clouds; feet on the ground

By BETTY RYDER
Family/Travel Editor

Bob Sztatkowski of Manchester became interested in airplanes when he was just a youngster but never got around to building them.

As he explains it, "I was always interested in building planes but it took me until 10 years ago to be able to afford them."

Bob, who lives with his wife, Jeanette, and their five children at 58 Bush Hill Rd., has really delved into the art of building model planes and has a workshop in a section of the barn on his property.

There, Bob has completed several models, all radio controlled. Some have plastic fuselages, others are of balsa wood and silk, and one is plastic covered.

"Some of the smaller planes take about two or three weeks to complete. The scale model planes which duplicate a real one in every detail takes about six months if done in your spare time," Bob said.

The walls of his workshop are lined with storage bins of balsa wood, bottles of glue, paint brushes and cans of paint. Another area houses equipment to repair and service his radio control boxes.

As a member of the Northern Connecticut Radio Club, Bob flies his planes with club members every chance he gets. The club has about 120 members, 40 per cent of whom are active.

"We usually fly in Granby. There is also a sod farm in Rocky Hill which the farmer lets us use," he said.

To get off the ground, including the engine, the whole package usually costs about $500.

"The planes also need mufflers to keep down the noise factor. They use 1 1/2 or 3 engines and we sometimes

On second thought

By Jan Warren

I'm very conscientious about storing leftovers. I keep plastic margarine containers for the purpose and after each meal scrape the pots and pans and deposit every edible pea and every dab of mashed potato in its own container.

"Waste not, want not!" I say, with a glow of pride, to the children, feeling like my thrifty New England grandmother.

So far, so good. The problem is, that after I've stored the leftovers I can't get anyone to eat them.

At each meal I give it a try. "Who'd like to eat up that last little chicken wing?"

"Who's for a side order of pea soup?"

"Who's for finishing these three ravioli?"

The result of my efforts is that eventually when I go to clean out the refrigerator, the leftovers are still there, each one growing its own fuzzy head of pencil.

"Ugh," I say as I scoop them down the disposal.

Now, European housewives solve the problem of leftovers by keeping a pot on the stove into which everything is thrown. The pot simmers, the flavors blend, and Julia Child goes into ecstasies over the results.

Clever American housewives solve the problem by making prize-winning casseroles. They take a little bit of this, a little bit of that, top it all with breadcrumbs and grated cheese, and their families' clamor for more.

There must be something wrong with my family, because when I try to do creative things with leftovers, the result is just more leftovers.

The other day, I read of a new idea that sounded good. It's called a leftover smorgasbord. The setting is all important. You use your best cloth, flowers, and candlelight, and then spread your leftovers out attractively.

According to the article, everyone loves the novelty of it and eats with gusto.

Last Sunday night I decided to give it a try. I heated up the weeks' leftovers, sprinkled them with parsley and paprika, and my table, if I do say so, was a triumph.

"Smorgasbord is being served," I announced in my most gracious voice.

"For a moment I thought I had captured my family. They were visibly awed by the table and the candlelight, but as their eyes became accustomed to the darkness their attitudes change."

"Leftovers!" said John.

"Green," said Kate.

"Not that stuff again," said Sara. At least my husband tried to enter into the spirit.

"Well, what have we here?" he said poking at a portion of creamed asparagus. "It certainly looks interesting, but you know...I'm really not very hungry."

Roots are important to dynamic designer

By BETTY RYDER
Family/Travel Editor

"If you give up your roots, you give up an awful lot," says Rick Repko, award-winning designer and president of Flair Home Furnishings Limited in the Manchester Parkade and Repko Designs, Inc.

Repko, who lives with his wife Sandra in Willington, captured a plum in the world of design this past summer when he won a contract as design consultant to Gates of Marlborough, W. Va.

The 31-year-old designer vied for the position with a number of well-known international designers. Gates, one of the leading U.S. manufacturers of contemporary upholstered furniture, selected Repko after viewing his presentation of a number of designs and following 12 verbal interviews.

Repko, who is perhaps the first New England designer to have his work distributed internationally, said: "People used to tell me I should go to New York to design, but I think that would have been the disaster of my life."

He obviously intends to keep his feet planted firmly in Manchester and at Flair will be showing the latest contemporary furniture the earliest in the country.

"Sample premarket pieces will be shown here in April," he said.

Repko won national acclaim in 1967 for his "marshmallow sofa" design. He studied at Yale University and Paier School of Art, both in New Haven, and the University of Connecticut.

The colorful designer is also an architect and usually designs one or two houses a year.

As design consultant to Gates, Repko presented many of his designs in the October furniture market show.

"Ninety-eight per cent of the designs were sold to manufacturers. The usual percentage is about 30 per cent," he said proudly.

Sandra is his severest critic.

"She does a critique on my designs for different income levels. She also does a personal critique on my designs. Many designers do great designs, but if they don't sell, they're worthless," he said.

In his new position, Repko travels frequently giving lectures and showing his designs.

In May, he and his wife will go to Copenhagen for the Furniture Fair. They will also go to Italy, France.

Rick Repko

Spain, and in October to the Southern Furniture Market in this country.

At Flair, the successful young designer offers free interior design service, several of his own furniture designs, and some from other companies.

"My Connecticut background has been my greatest asset, he said.

"It helped round me out. When it comes to competing on a large scale, there is nothing like a good education," he added.

His goal? To be the Frank Lloyd Wright of the design industry.

And why not? At 31, he has a good headstart.

Your Neighbor's Kitchen

Caring for a 9-room house and two active boys, Cory, 4, and Grant, 14 months, makes Mrs. Wayne (Marcia) Kupferschmid of Ellington especially thankful that she has a microwave oven.

Marcia, whose husband is one of the owners of Agway in Ellington, has been using her GE Versotonic range for seven years in her home on Snipisco Lake Rd.

"This particular range has just one oven which can be used microwave, regular heat, or with both," she explained.

Marcia said when she was working as a legal secretary in Windsor Locks, the oven was just wonderful.

"It can bake a potato in about 4 minutes, and a 9-lb. roast takes about 5 minutes per pound."

The flavor of food cooked in a microwave oven are not affected by the quick cooking, she contends, in fact, she says it captures the flavor fully.

Both she and her husband are graduates of Rockville High School. Young Cory will be entering Ellington Center School in the fall.

The attractive young mother, the former Marcia Kloter of Vernon, is expecting her third child in July.

"We are expecting a girl," she said with a smile, "but will be happy with a boy."

Marcia likes to crochet, read and care for plants. Her husband Wayne plays the organ and she recently bought him an auto-harp.

"I took organ and piano lessons and can hardly play. Wayne comes in, says 'Let's hear how it goes' and he sits right down to the organ and plays the tune," she said.

"He plays by ear. Just hum a tune and he can play it."

One of Wayne's favorite desserts is chocolate covered cherry pie.

"Anyone who likes chocolate covered cherry candy will love this pie," she said.

Here's her recipe for Chocolate Covered Cherry Pie: 1 baked 9-inch pastry or cookie crumb shell.

1 pkg. (6 oz.) semi-sweet chocolate pieces

1 can (15 oz.) sweetened condensed milk

1/4 tsp. salt

Cool pie shell while preparing filling. Put chocolate, milk and salt in 1 1/2 quart casserole. Cook at high power in microwave oven 2 to 3 minutes or until boiling. Stir vigorously until well blended.

Add 1 can (1 lb. 5 oz.) cherry pie filling

1/4 tsp. almond extract

Mix in pie filling and almond extract. Pour into shell. Chill at least 2 hours or overnight. Garnish with 8 stemmed Maraschino cherries, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Another recipe which her family and friends enjoy is chili frank hors d'oeuvres.

"These are simple to make and everybody raves about them."

Chili Frank Hors d'oeuvres: 3 frankfurters

1/2 cup chili sauce

Cut each frankfurter into eighths and place on 9-inch plate (glass) or plastic coated paper plate. Distribute pieces evenly then cover with sauce. Stick each piece with wooden toothpick.

Place plate on center shelf in oven Cook at high power 5-6 minutes. Makes 24 hors d'oeuvres.

Two cans (4 oz. each) of Vienna sausages can be substituted. Drain and slice in half. Follow same procedure as above.

Both of these recipes can be made on a standard range, but the time must be adjusted accordingly.

Mix in pie filling and almond extract. Pour into shell. Chill at least 2 hours or overnight. Garnish with 8 stemmed Maraschino cherries, if desired. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Another recipe which her family and friends enjoy is chili frank hors d'oeuvres.

"These are simple to make and everybody raves about them."

Chili Frank Hors d'oeuvres: 3 frankfurters

1/2 cup chili sauce

Cut each frankfurter into eighths and place on 9-inch plate (glass) or plastic coated paper plate. Distribute pieces evenly then cover with sauce. Stick each piece with wooden toothpick.

Place plate on center shelf in oven Cook at high power 5-6 minutes. Makes 24 hors d'oeuvres.

Two cans (4 oz. each) of Vienna sausages can be substituted. Drain and slice in half. Follow same procedure as above.

Both of these recipes can be made on a standard range, but the time must be adjusted accordingly.

Credits are described that help pay taxes

By ROBERT J. PUE President, Conn. Society of CPA Having identified the deductions, exemptions and adjustments that will save money on your 1975 income taxes, now we can zero in on the credits.

Those taxpayers whose earned income credit is greater than their income tax get a "refund" check for the difference.

If during 1975 you bought a car or other asset used even partly in business, you may be in line to get back a prorated share of the cost, up to 10 per cent, as a business investment credit.

Another credit (which, if you prefer, can be taken as a deduction, instead) is the one for political contributions.

Overwithholding of Social Security taxes, a common occurrence for those holding two jobs, creates a credit that should be applied to the income taxes you still owe.

Income taxes paid to a foreign government can be treated either as a deduction or a credit.

If you used large quantities of gasoline and lubricating oil in machines other than highway motor vehicles — boats, tractors, mowers or saws — it might be worthwhile to claim the credit of two cents a gallon on the gasoline, six cents a gallon on the oil.

Scattered primaries & failure

WEST HAVEN (UPI) — The scattered system of presidential primaries has failed and a system of regional primaries is needed to better focus candidates on the main issues, Gloria Schaffer, a candidate for the Democratic senatorial nomination said Tuesday.

"Primaries results would clearly carry more weight if outcomes represented a broad regional sentiment instead of reflecting the views of voters in a single state," she said.

Mrs. Schaffer, who is seeking the Democratic nomination to unseat Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., told the West Haven Chamber of Commerce she was disappointed attempts to establish a New England regional primary failed.

"The crucial national issues relevant to the presidency are very often obscured by state and local issues over which the candidates, even if elected president, would have little or no jurisdiction," she said.
