Candidates make final pleas to voters in Florida primary

By ELIZABETH WHARTON
United Press International
On the eve of the Florida primary President Ford was on the telephone, Ronald Reagan was on television, and Democrats Henry Jackson, George Wallace and Jimmy Carter were on each others' backs. Ford said he would make personal phone calls to campaign workers today urging them to get Ford voters to the polls Tuesday.

On Sunday, Ford invited more than two dozen Florida radio reporters to interview him in the Oval Office and predicted he would defeat Reagan in his opponent's "strongest southern state."
Reagan said the improvement in the economy could collapse after the elections. He said it is based on emergency measures similar to those taken by the Nixon administration in advance of the 1972 campaign.

In an interview on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press," Reagan — who badly needs a victory — predicted the Florida results will be "a horse race ... a close race."
Wallace, on CBS-TV's "Face the Nation," said Carter promised to support him at the 1972 Democratic national convention if Wallace stayed out of the Georgia caucuses and came into the convention with at least 350 delegates. Wallace said he stayed out of Georgia and had 400 delegates but Carter supported Jackson.

Carter campaign in Atlanta, denied the charge.
Carter told a crowd in Tampa that Jackson had been in Congress 35 years and done little but get re-elected, and that Wallace "is wasting his time because he knows he can't be elected."
Jackson said, "Mr. Carter and Mr. Wallace must prove they can win big industrial states like New York. They have to win and win decisively as I won in those areas."
Morris Udall, who is not campaigning in Florida, said Sunday he will pass up the March 23 North Carolina primary to concentrate on Wisconsin April 5.

Cassano holds plaque

State Jaycees honor Cassano as outstanding young man

Stephen T. Cassano of 71 Cushman Dr., assistant professor of social sciences at Manchester Community College, Saturday night was named one of "Connecticut's Five Outstanding Young Men of 1976" by the Connecticut Jaycees in ceremonies in Shelton.
Cassano became eligible for the award when he received the Manchester Jaycee's Distinguished Service award Jan. 23.

Also receiving the award Saturday night were John K. Martin of Bridgeport, Barry L. Wallach of Cheshire, Paul A. Siegel of Danbury, and Jack Jaekle of Stratford.
Excerpts from the tribute given to Cassano Saturday follow:
"Cassano's contributions to his immediate community. Manchester Community College, have left a significant impact that reaches well beyond the physical boundaries of the school, town, and state. As the ombudsman at the college, the first ombudsman in the Connecticut Community College system, he had to handle over 470 cases. The range of problems were as varied as the people they involved.

As a result of the types of problems encountered he developed a continuing program to obtain free psychiatric help for students in the town staffed to treat these problems.
"His work with the voluntary Action Program began in 1970. Since then he has developed a viable volunteer program that extends into the town and surrounding area which has amalgamated all of the previously existing programs into a unified effort. Because of the success of the local program he has been retained by ACTION in Washington, D.C., to act as consultant to the governor's

Citizens honored for aiding police

Police Chief Robert Lannan presented certificates of appreciation today to two town men who "got involved" and helped police make two arrests in separate cases last month.
Honored this morning in brief ceremonies at the chief's office were Bruce Kramer of 40 Olcott St. and Donald Reid of 27 Maple St.
Kramer, an employee of the Shell Oil Co. in Bloomfield, was cited for his help Feb. 26 in subduing a suspect who had assaulted a policeman.
Lannan said Kramer ran to assist Patrolman Stephen Novak, who was having trouble detaining a driver he stopped at Olcott St. The driver, Richard S. Robsky of 40 Olcott St., is facing a variety of charges in Common Pleas Court 12, East Hartford.

Reid, an employee of the Central Connecticut Cooperative Farmers Association in Manchester, was cited for apprehending and detaining a purse snatch suspect on Maple St. Feb. 23.
Lannan said Reid was returning to his home when he saw two youths grab a woman's pocketbook as she was walking on Maple St. Reid chased the youth with the pocketbook and captured him after a short pursuit, then held him until police arrived. The youth's case is pending in the East Hartford court.
Lannan, presenting the certificates to the two men, said it's fantastic to see citizens get involved and help police. He praised them for their cooperation, noting that such cases where citizens help police are rare.

Rex Granum, spokesman for the

Hartford city workers picket tennis match

HARTFORD (UPI) — A picket line outside the World Cup tennis tournament didn't delay the event, but did dramatize municipal workers' plight.
Police were joined on the 500-person picket line Sunday by firefighters and teachers. All three groups have been working without contracts since July.
Jerome Martin, police union head, said his group had "made its point," and planned further actions this week he would not specify.

Martin's plan to arrest players and spectators for violating a law prohibiting some Sunday sports events fizzled when a court order blocked the arrests. None were made, according to a police department spokesman.
He said, "We had to obey the court order. We disagree with it, it is unfair, but we will abide by it, this time."
Pickets handed out pink and yellow leaflets explaining their complaints. Each ended with the suggestion the recipient "call your councilman today."

The police leaflet said, "Your safety may depend on it." The fire leaflet said, "The life you save may be yours."
The pickets intermittently blocked nearby streets parking garage entrances, but the tournament began on time and most of the 10,600 ticket-holders arrived without problems.
Court of Common Pleas Judge Alfred N. Covello Saturday temporarily prohibited enforcement of the blue law — which allows Sunday baseball and football but not tennis — in connection with the tournament.
Police Chief Hugo J. Masini, in a directive read to officers as they reported Sunday, said, "No officer of this department will make any arrest in violation of the injunction."
Covello issued the court ban at the request of tournament sponsor Aetna Life and Casualty Co. and the U.S. and Australian team captains.
The U.S. team Sunday took the World Cup 6-1, its first victory since 1971. The Australian record in the tournament is 5-2.

State

HARTFORD — About 556 Hartford teachers have been sent letters by the school superintendent demanding doctors' notes to prove they were sick Friday. The teachers' union has told them to ignore the letter. Teachers without notes by March 15 will be presumed to have participated in the "sick-out," Superintendent Edythe Gaines said.

It was back to reading by candlelight and milking cows by hand today for thousands of residents in Wisconsin and Michigan because of an ice storm that has snapped power lines serving almost 200,000 customers in the two states. All schools and nonessential industry remained closed today and National Guardsmen were on duty diverting traffic from dangerous roads. The havoc began last Friday.

HARTFORD — Connecticut's 169 towns and cities will receive $15.8 million more in state aid next year under the proposed budget, but the Connecticut Conference of municipalities said Sunday, inflation has made the so-called real budget figures $10.8 million less.

PANAMA CITY, Fla. — The four U. S. partners in the Arabian Oil Co. could agree to a final Saudi Arabian takeover of the petroleum production grant this week at secret meetings which got under way during the weekend.

Regional

BOSTON — Israel is prepared to trade territories captured in two wars in return for a long-term peace agreement with its Arab neighbors, according to a report published in the Boston Globe Sunday.

WASHINGTON — Postmaster General Benjamin Bailar says the Postal Service is caught in a "vicious" economic spiral which will destroy it unless the public is willing to accept cuts in service.

WALDOBORO, Maine — Clam diggers in Lincoln, Knox and Waldo counties have vowed to stay away from the clam flats until the price they are paid per bushel rises to $14. More than 200 diggers walked off the flats Saturday in protest of declining prices. Prices have fallen from $18 to $10 a bushel in recent weeks.

International

VATICAN CITY — Pope Paul VI told a crowd at the Vatican Sunday that his death "cannot be far away." The 78-year-old pontiff made the remark while celebrating a mass marking the 100th anniversary of the birth of the late Pope Pius XII.

National

WASHINGTON — Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., 82-year-old dean of the House of Representatives who lost his powerful chairmanship last year to freshman reformers, died Sunday of pneumonia. Funeral services will be Wednesday at the first Baptist Church in Texarkana, Tex.

RABAT, Morocco — Morocco and Maritania have broken diplomatic relations with Algeria to protest Algerian recognition of the government of pro-independence guerrilla in the Western Sahara.

LONDON — The British pound, once the world's premier currency, plunged to a new low again today, falling to $1.92 before the Bank of England stepped in to bolster it. The dollar also lost ground on European exchanges.

Manchester GOP reaction mixed to Sen. Weicker's proposals

By SOL R. COHEN
Herald Reporter

Proposals by Sen. Lowell Weicker for direct open national primaries for president and for doing away with Republican party platforms drew mixed reaction Saturday night from Manchester Republicans, with most of it favorable.

Weicker was guest speaker at a Lincoln Day Dinner-Dance at Willie's Steak House, attended by about 150 persons.

Charging that "handfuls of Americans, rather than millions, select the candidates," Connecticut's Republican senator said, "The problem is that, while a closed-party system may fit the needs of dictatorships or yesterday's free societies, it fits very poorly with the reality of today's increasingly knowledgeable American democracy."
He urged, "Let all Americans select candidates in this country, by direct primary, with independents allowed to vote in one party or the other. What will be lost except exclusivity? Nothing. What will be gained is a judgment by the American people — and, there are no better judgments in the world."

In calling for an end to the party platform, he labeled it "an irrelevancy or worse, a lollipop," adding, "It isn't a question of party position for our candidates. Rather, let them speak their hearts — how they stand on jobs, housing, education, health, the environment, taxes."

Agostinelli started the program with a tribute to C. Elmore Watkins, who died Friday night at the age of 93. The diners observed a moment of silence in his memory.
He then introduced the people at the head table and called on several of them for brief remarks. Top Republicans at other tables also were introduced.
At the end of the program, a $500 contribution to Weicker's campaign was presented to him by Harriet Haslett, general chairman of the event. Others on her committee were Mrs. Alan Shaw, Mrs. Joseph Swenson, Mrs. Neil Lawrence and Mrs. Walter Doll.

Senator makes a point

Weicker was introduced by GOP town chairman Nathahn Agostinelli, master of ceremonies for the evening.
"Sen. Weicker," said Agostinelli, "is probably the best thing the state has going for it this election year. He has all the credentials."
"I think, if we get more Lowell Weickers elected this year in the nation, this country will be on the right track. He's taken his lumps, but he speaks his mind and we admire him for that."
Weicker in turn praised Agostinelli as "my kind of Republican and my kind of public official." Pledging to back him if he ever runs for office again (Agostinelli is a former Manchester mayor and former state comptroller), Weicker said, "I hope he doesn't sit in the bank too long. We need his type in office. (Agostinelli is president of the Manchester State Bank.)"

Acknowledging his wasn't the traditional kind of Lincoln Day speech, Weicker pledged he'll win re-election in November and predicted Republican wins in the General Assembly.

Speaking briefly were the town's three Republican directors.
Vivian Ferguson said, "We can best represent you by hearing from you, by knowing how you feel about things. We want your opinions, no matter whether they're flattering or critical."

Carl Zinsser took the opportunity to announce he's withdrawing from consideration as Republican town Chairman — to succeed Agostinelli. The latter announced in January he won't seek re-election.
Zinsser said he doesn't believe a town chairman should serve also in an elected position and, much as he'd like to be chairman, he'd rather be on the Board of Directors.
His withdrawal from consideration leaves George (Ted) LaBonne, Wally Irish Jr. and former Manchester Mayor James Farr still in contention. LaBonne and Irish are active candidates. Farr has declined to say whether or not he'd accept.

statewide volunteer program. He has initiated subprograms of the Voluntary Action Program in South Windsor, West Hartford at St. Joseph's College, and in a low-income housing area in Manchester.

"In 1973, he was the organizer of a Civitan Club at the College (the first collegiate chapter in New England) and has acted as its advisor since then. He has also been the New England chairman of Collegiate Civitan since 1973 and has been instrumental in starting two high school clubs in the region. He has been a member of the college's program committee since 1971 and has been the organizer for faculty-intramural basketball, softball, and golf programs since 1970. "Since 1974, when he helped to organize the program, Cassano has worked on Manchester's Emergency Food Pantry -- a program to provide the elderly, welfare recipients, and the unemployed with food on a need basis.

During the December 1975 ice storm, he organized and managed an emergency shelter at the college for people in the town who were without heat and electricity.

"When the local drug advisory council faced a crisis of having to terminate the program in 1972 because of lack of funding, Cassano organized a 30-hour marathon softball tournament which raised over $1,100.

Tax review board sets sessions

The Manchester Board of Tax Review will be in session tonight and Wednesday to hear complaints from taxpayers claiming to be aggrieved by their property assessments. The sessions will be from 7 to 9 p.m. in the Municipal Building.

The Oct. 1, 1975 Grand List, after adjustment by the Board of Tax Review, will be the basis for the 1976-77 tax rates and budgets town directors will adopt in early May.

Guidance counselors to attend college fair

Three guidance counselors from Manchester High School will participate in a National College Fair Tuesday and Wednesday at the Civic Center in Hartford.

Mrs. Sara Robinson, Mrs. Grace Kuz and Miss Anne Beecher will be available for on-site counseling at the fair.

Besides the counselors, representatives of many educational institutions will be on hand to answer questions about their schools.

"In 1972 Cassano founded the Manchester Organization for the Handicapped to bring the programs of the handicapped between the ages of 18 and 65 to the public attention and to improve those conditions. Since then he has continued as its advisor.

Cassano has been chairman of the Manchester Alternative Housing Committee (formerly the Group Homes Committee) since its inception in 1970. He is also a member of the Manchester Community Services Council, a group organized in 1971 to provide support between public and private agencies in the Town on matters of social needs. He is a member of that group's youth committee, the nominating committee, the day care committee, and the cable television committee. The latter committee established a training program for all town agencies to learn the basics of television programming and filming so that they could utilize the available program time on cable television.

"Between 1973 and 1975 he was a voluntary assistant probation officer of the juvenile court. In addition to taking care for the probation officer, he established a court outreach program in the Stafford Springs area where there had been no contact with the juvenile court.

"Cassano was a member of the Manchester's Human Relations Commission from 1972 to 1975, an assistant registrar of voters from 1972 to 1975, an assistant to the director of Human Services for the town during 1975, and was the founder of the Tallwood Men's Club in 1970.

"An example of his involvement with people was demonstrated during the spring of 1975 when Manchester Chapter of the Jaycees was approached by a Jaycee being released from one of the state prisons to assist him in settling in Manchester. He was planning on attending the Community College but the chapter was unable to find him an appropriate place to live. They knew of Steve Cassano's work at college and asked him if he could help in locating housing. Within one week, the necessary housing was available and during this past year Steve has counseled this Jaycee on numerous occasions on his academic and personal progress. This is the concern Steve Cassano shows for all people."

Town Manager Robert Weiss said "The Town of Manchester has been very fortunate over the last few years in having Steve Cassano involved in many important community government issues. His dedication and interest in these issues have gone far beyond the average citizen's involvement and have benefited this community to a great extent.

Representatives of the College Entrance Examination Board and the American College Testing Program will talk about entrance examinations and other services offered by these organizations. Parents and students are invited to attend the fair. The fair hours are Tuesday, 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., and 6 to 9 p.m.; Wednesday, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Manchester GOP reaction

Zinner said Saturday night he's backing Party. Paul Willhite said he hadn't expected to be called upon to speak.

"I came here tonight to be energized by our exciting and energetic senator," he said.

Willhite repeated his campaign pledge to work for accountability and responsibility in town government and for stabilizing taxes.

He said he sees some real progress in accountability and responsibility. "As for taxes," he said, "we've just begun the process and, believe me, it's going to be difficult, with the school board alone out to get the increase provided by the new Grand List."

Weicker, to illustrate his point of "how irrelevant and undemocratic present procedures are, even when they are primaries," said "Most of you know I support President Ford and I'm glad he won in New Hampshire. But, may I point out that while he got 51 per cent of the vote, he ended up with 80 per cent of the delegates. If that's democracy, please find me another plan."

He posed the rhetorical question, "Weicker, with no common platform, no restrictions on membership, and no control over candidate selection, what is the Republican Party going to stand for?"

He replied, "Honestly... when it means criticizing the actions of a fellow Republican, honestly... when it means telling a voter the true cost of policy before, not after, honesty... when it means taking an unpopular stand and sticking to it because you know what's right."

Concluding that if Republicans began to act with honesty at every level of government people would begin trusting politicians and a political party again (the Republican Party), Weicker said, "Trust - you can't buy it with promises and you can't fake it with platforms. You can't demand it with party loyalty. You can't railroad it. Party platforms belong in a politburo, not in Connecticut. Party discipline belongs in a junta, not in America. The blueprint for party success is to throw away the blueprint, by getting the best men and women as candidates, and then turning them loose to be themselves."

Operation Rice Bowl in many homes last Wednesday, families gathered together to pray for the hungry and then to eat a modest Lenten meal, placing the money saved in their "Operation Rice Bowl."

Families participating in Operation Rice Bowl covenant to pray for the starving, participate together in a weekly sacrificial meal and contribute the money saved to the hungry world.

The money saved will be turned by each family to their own church or synagogues, large "Rice Bowl" or sent to Manchester Council on World Hunger. The council and the MACC Division of Special Ministries have asked that 30 per cent of the fund be allocated to hunger relief in the United States.

Thirty per cent of the funds sent to the council will be used to buy high protein foods for the Emergency Pantry.

Guatemala Relief In addition to the first $143,122 collected by Bennet Junior High School for relief in Guatemala, we received another check for $25 from the COEP students at Bennet.

Tuesday, Bill Brin damour brought still a third check, this one for $40 and contributed by Lisa Hebert and Mary Cava, who collected it by standing in front of Frank's Supermarket and asking people to chip in to aid the victims of the earthquake. The children of Mary Meridy have made Guatemala relief "collection cans" and taken them to cooperating area banks.

We want to thank all of you who sent in checks and cash to the Guatemala relief. These funds are being channeled straight through to service agencies working in the disaster areas.

So far all money sent whether through CROP or CIS has been earmarked by us for direct emergency food relief. Rev. Ronald Fournier, Emanuel Lutheran Church, president of the council, Merivie Meridy and Temple Beth Shalom, chairman of the disbursements division: Dr. Abraham Kurier, Jan April, and I are members of the disbursement committee. Alcoholism Month More people suffer from alcoholism than from any other mental or emotional illness. Six and a half million alcoholics and well over 20 million family members are caught in a gigantic web of suffering. The Conference is committed to establishing a climate of Christian acceptance and concern through the endorsement of and participation in Honor Court and a continual educational effort carried on through all available channels.

The most healing and supportive environment can be that provided by the local church congregation. Alcoholics are keenly sensitive to rejection. Their emotional raders pick up the subtle signals of condemnation which many of us, all unwittingly transmit. For the alcoholic, refuge from our rejection is as close as the nearest bottle.

How can we work at melting the hard lumps of unaccepting attitude which to some degree afflict us all? We'll share answers during the next few weeks.

First, understand Alcoholism. Attend "open" A.A. meetings such as Honor Court held at 7:30 every Monday night in Probate Court or the Saturday night meetings in Emanuel Church hall. Start a small study group

Dairy farming in Maine is hard work, and doesn't pay very well

CANAAN, Maine (UPI) — Jack Hicks had a vision of stainless steel vats and milk trucks and old-style milk bottles with the cream floating on the top, right there on his own dairy farm.

The vision didn't work, and the big steel tank trucks still roll onto the farm every other day. They roll out each time with about a ton of milk from Hicks' cows, headed for the processing plant in Newport.

Dairy farming in Maine is hard work, and it doesn't pay well.

Hicks, 51, has been at it seven years, since leaving his demolition contracting business in New Jersey. He is single and lives with his mother in a 12-room house on a 256-acre farm. Hicks grosses about $3,300 month from his 77-cow herd. But with that he must cover $1,600 feed costs, $250 monthly for equipment replacement and repair and a $300 mortgage.

The Maine Milk Commission has been under fire for raising milk prices, and Hicks began to worry when he realized the commission might be abolished. He was concerned farmers would have to go back to milking, processing and selling milk themselves.

That's when the vision happened.

"I called the people who make processing plants to see if I could buy one," Hicks said. "This salesman came up and he said a little plant would cost about $50,000. It burns oil, so you also have to figure the price of oil."

"That $50,000 didn't cover the cost of the small laboratory you need to check the bacteria and butterfat levels."

"Then, I thought maybe people would go for going back to a glass bottle, and get away from the mouthful of wax you get with the cardboard carton. I started checking the cost, and found you have to have a returnable deal, and a sterilizing unit to sterilize the bottles," he said.

Hicks said he was still excited about the plan even when he realized he would have to buy a truck, and hire a man to drive it.

But the vision began to dim when he realized the cost of posting a workmen's compensation bond, and the need for hiring a bookkeeper, and the profit margin supermarkets would want for selling his milk.

"I had it all figured up," Hicks said. "I could have sold the milk for just about $2.5 cents per quart."

The price of milk as set by the Maine Milk Commission is 40.5 cents per quart. Hicks is still selling his milk in bulk to H.P. Hood and Sons.

The vision wasn't the first of Hicks' dreams. About three years ago he decided Maine's dairy farmers needed publicity, and set about trying to get newsmen and politicians interested in the industry.

No one seemed to care, so Hicks invited some Russian journalists up from New York. "I got the other one and their Soviet news agency in New York, and he and his wives came up for a visit," Hicks said. "After that, the politicians started paying attention."

Wilcox named judicial study director

John T. Wilcox, former vice president and director of public affairs at the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co., has been appointed executive director of the Connecticut Citizens for Judicial Modernization (CCJM), it was announced by Mrs. Virginia S. Burnham, president of the organization.

Wilcox will be the first full-time director of CCJM which is a voluntary citizen membership organization, a non-profit group, whose principal aims are to improve the Connecticut judicial system and to create public awareness and understanding of this branch of government.

Wilcox has been active in social, educational and health services in the Greater Hartford community.

The director's office of CCJM will be located in facilities of the Hartford Seminary Foundation at 55 Elizabeth St., Hartford.

Police arrest three on marijuana charges

Three youths — two of them students at Manchester High School — have been arrested by Manchester Police on marijuana charges in two unrelated cases.

Two 15-year-old boys attending the high school were taken into custody Friday and charged with possession of marijuana.

Detective Capt. Joseph Sartor said the charges allegedly involved a transaction between the two in a high school rest room. Police seized six marijuana cigarettes when the two were apprehended.

The two boys, not identified because of their ages, were referred to juvenile court.

In the other drug case, a 16-year-old Farmington boy was arrested and seven ounces of marijuana seized in a Saturday night incident at the Manchester Teen Center, Garden Grove Dr.

Police said Eric W. Young was taken into custody and the plant-like material was confiscated during a transaction between the two in a high school rest room. Police seized six marijuana cigarettes when the two were apprehended.

The two boys, not identified because of their ages, were referred to juvenile court.

Police report

Arrests made or summonses issued by Manchester Police included:

MCC offers garden plots, instruction

The community services division of Manchester Community College will offer a six-week, non-credit course in backyard gardening.

The classroom part of the course will be offered in two sections to accommodate as many people as possible. One section will meet on Saturday mornings from 9-11 a.m., beginning on March 27. The other section will meet on Tuesday evenings from 7:30-9:30 p.m., beginning on March 23. Topics will include soils, selection of seeds, cultivation, insect and disease control, preservation of the harvest and others.

Each student will be assigned a 20 by 50 foot plot of land in which to plant a garden and apply the information gained in the classroom. The plots are on college property off Wetherell St. The land will be plowed, harrowed, limed and fertilized in preparation for planting.

Students fortunate enough to have large yards will be encouraged to plant gardens on their own land. Students who took the course last year may rent a plot of land this year for a small amount, but will not be required to enroll in the classroom sessions.

The classroom sessions will be taught by George Potterton, an experienced gardener and former head of the science department at Manchester High School. He will be available, also, for consultation when planting begins in mid-April.

Stanley Panas, a member of the Agricultural Extension Service of the University of Connecticut, will be available as an on-site consultant throughout the growing and harvesting seasons.

For information about cost and registration, call the community services office at 646-2137.

Opinion

C. Elmore Watkins

"The quality of leadership is given to few men. The quality of inspired leadership to even fewer. The ability to exercise the quality of inspired leadership by rational persuasion, personal example and unflinching zeal for the common good is rarer still. Blessed is the community which has the good fortune to have in its midst a citizen with these rare qualities..."

That quotation is from the Watkins Resolution of Jan. 23, 1971, when the new north wing of Manchester Memorial Hospital became known as the Watkins Wing.

This tribute you have made tonight will lengthen my years," he said.

Few, indeed, are the residents of this community who have not had the influence of a C. Elmore Watkins touch their lives.

Hospital? He was Mr. Manchester Memorial Hospital.

Banking? He was a director of the Savings Bank of Manchester for almost 50 years. Education? He founded the Verplanck Scholarship Foundation, life director of the Manchester Scholarship Foundation, served his alma mater

Tufts University, and was a trustee at Hillier College now the University of Hartford, and a trustee of the National Delta Upsilon Fraternity.

Health Services? He, perhaps more than anyone, made the Manchester Chapter of the American Red Cross a vital arm in the community.

Civic Service? He was the town's first sanitary inspector and he established the town's first refuse collection system. He earned the Manchester Chamber of Commerce "M" award, and was an active Kiwanian.

Culture? In his youth he was a soloist, formed vocal groups, was an incorporator of Manchester Historical Society, and organized fund drives for the Manchester Civic Orchestra.

Business? He was the dean of Main St. merchants, and on many occasions was honored by the American Institute of Interior Designers and the National Retail Furniture Association.

Religion? He was a lay reader, a deacon, and a trustee.

"Quorum magna pars fui." (In all of these things I had a great part.)

Practical solution

To the editor,
As a student of Bennet Junior High School and a member of Student Council, I feel that the entire problem of whether there should be a tunnel or a bridge over Main Street connecting the Main Building to the remainder of the school can be solved very easily and without any cost to the town. It is simply to lengthen the walk signal which from first hand knowledge is too short now.

Very truly yours,
Francis A. Maffie III

Thanks voters

To the editor,
My most sincere thanks to the people of the Eighth District for turning out in such large numbers last Monday and electing me to serve as clerk of the Eighth Utilities District. It gave me a good feeling to know that the people of our district take such an active interest in their government. I also wish to thank my many friends who, although they live outside the district, gave me encouragement and support during the weeks prior to the election.

I have the highest respect for my contenders for district clerk, Elwood Lechasseur and David Thompson, and know that they, too, will lend me their full support in the year ahead.

I am truly grateful to the Manchester Evening Herald for its fair and honest coverage of all events concerning the Eighth District right up through the election.

I also wish to thank every resident of the Eighth Utilities District. I solemnly responsible for Beethoven, and also the G Club organized for the girls — Helge and G. Albert.

Helge organized Beethoven in 1925 and G Club in 1927. He was director for almost 10 years while serving as organist and choir director at Emmanuel. When he left to further his studies at Westminster College at Princeton, N.J., Helge gave the baton to his brother, G. Albert, better known to all of Manchester as plain Al.

Al was our music teacher at Manchester High School, up on the old top floor of the present Bennet Main Building on Main St.

Freddie Werner had served as organist for both groups before succeeding Robert Knox Chapman. Clarence W. Helsing directed for two years before the choir disbanded.

But not all of the "Beethovens" quit singing. Many of them became members of Jim McKay's Masonic Choir for Manchester Lodge of Masons, any member of a fraternal

Good news

WASHINGTON — "Maturity is the ability to live with imperfection."

Wait Seifert, professor of journalism at Ohio State University, regards that maxim as the best thing he's written. And that's going some, considering the professor is a prolific writer who, among other things, has chalked up 1,800 letters to editors, published in some 200 million copies of U.S. newspapers and magazines.

Today's thought

"When I beheld your heavens, the work of your fingers, the moon and the stars which you set in place —
What is man that you should be mindful of him, or the son of man that you should care for him?"

So sings the psalmist in words which so well echo our own. For when we behold not only the vastness of space in relation to our tiny planet, but the immensity and imperiousness of our bureaucratic and technological society, we are tempted to ask, "Who am I? A mere cog in the machine, a nobody." In the face of the enormous strains imposed by our society and the incredible, global problems of our time, we may wonder, "What can I do, weak and powerless as I am?"

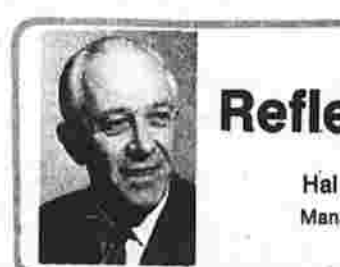

The psalmist does not ask a futile question nor does he lapse into despair. He continues:
"You have made him little less than the angels, and crowned him with glory and honor."
You have given him rule over the works of your hands, putting all things under his feet."
How need he fall into hopelessness. In the myriads of His creation, God knows each one of us by name. It was His goodness that prompted Him to create us and into each of us He has infused some of the qualities of His own perfection. The capability that resides in each of us, no matter how limited in itself or by others, is truly a spark of the divine. It is this goodness in each of us which God truly loves.

Unimportant to the rest of the world we may be, but to God each of us is supremely precious and lovable which so well echoes our own. For of the lovable quality which God finds in us, much as a parent sees in the possibly ugly features of his child a quality of character that endears. Do you ask, "Who am I?" No mere cog in a great machine, but someone quite important. Unloved or unappreciated by society, yet are you well known and beloved by God Himself.

Do you question, "What can I do?" Incredible things, because love has the power to enable and rouse the potential for greatness in the beloved. God's love has infinite power so to dignify and enable you. St. Irenaeus says that the glory of God is man fully alive. Only when you recognize your own individual human dignity, when you respect yourself for what you truly are, can you begin to "fully alive."

"O Lord, our Lord,
how glorious is Your name over the earth!"

organization will tell you how much music means to the ritual.

Beethoven did most of his singing for the entertainment of Manchester audiences, but it did travel. In 1947 it competed with 58 other clubs from eight states in the Choral Festival at the Atlantic Conference of Male choruses.

It often joined with G Club for concerts.

Music sung by the Beethoven Glee Club is unlike compositions you hear from the barbershoppers in the Silk City Chorus. Beethoven sings secular and sacred music.

Solomonson-Conn

Jane Conn and Paul Eric Solomonson, both of Manchester, were married Dec. 5 at St. Bridget Church in Manchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Solomonson

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Conn of 54 Tanner St. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Madeline Solomonson of 39 Oliver Rd. and the late Elsie Solomonson.

The Rev. Robert Stack of St. Bridget Church performed the double-ring ceremony. Mr. J. Murphy of Manchester was organist and soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of chiffon velvet enhanced with imported Venise lace and designed with high Victorian neckline, long fitted sleeves with princess A-line skirt cascading to an attached chapel-length train. Her chapel-length veil of silk illusion edged in lace was attached to a profile headpiece covered with illusion. She carried a bouquet of white sweetheart roses, pink carnations and baby's breath.

Miss Sally Conn of Manchester, was her sister's maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Susan Conn of Manchester, the bride's sister; Miss Karen Benton of Manchester; and Mrs. Cathy Quey of Manchester, the groom's sister.

David Solomonson of Manchester, was his brother's best man. Ushers were Brian Conn of Groton, the bridegroom's brother-in-law; and Paul Quey of Manchester, the bridegroom's brother-in-law.

A reception was held at the American Legion Hall in Manchester, after which the couple left for Cornwall Point.

Mrs. Solomonson is employed at Manchester Packing Co. Mr. Solomonson is employed at Hartford Dispatch.

Junior Women offer baby-sitting course

The Manchester Junior Women's Club is offering a free baby-sitting course, which is a repeat of its highly successful fall course. Classes will be held on three consecutive Thursdays, March 18, 25, and April 1 from 3 to 4:30 p.m. at the American Red Cross Building, 243 E. Center St.

The course will cover care of infants and toddlers, including bathing, feeding, changing, and entertaining the child, mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, and securing a job. A real baby will be present at one of the classes. The classes are open to girls and boys ages 12 to 15. Upon completion of the course, students will receive a certificate stating that they are qualified baby-sitters, and a list of those names will be published and distributed.

This free course is co-sponsored by the Red Cross, and will be taught by Mrs. Laura Boutiller, home economist, and chairman of the club's home life and youth committee.

To register, call Mrs. Marie Maxim at 646-5399 no later than Friday. The class will be limited to 30 students, so early registration is advised.

FOCIS to hear Ms. Bing

Ms. Elisabeth D. Bing will be the featured speaker at the Friday meeting of the Family Oriented Childbirth Information Society (FOCIS). Ms. Bing will speak on "Relating to Your Baby Before It Is Born."

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the conference rooms of Manchester Memorial Hospital. Ms. Bing became one of the co-founders of the American Society for Psychophylaxia in Obstetrics, Inc. in 1960. Since then she has continued her hospital work at the Flower and Fifth Avenue Hospitals as an instructor in childbirth education. In 1974, she was appointed clinical assistant professor in the Department of Ob/Gyn of the New York Medical College, Flower and Fifth Avenue Hospitals.

She is the author of four books, including "Six Practical Lessons for an Easier Childbirth," and "The Adventure of Birth."

Your checking may be free. But does it also pay 5% interest?

First Federal Savings' new free NOW Account does!

Someday all banks will catch up with First Federal Savings. But right now, you get more than a free checking account when you open a Free NOW Savings Account with us.

Our Free NOW Savings Account	Interest Paid
Other Free Checking Accounts	0%

You also get 5% interest on your money! Remember free checking accounts pay nothing. Zero. The word NOW means "Negotiable Order of Withdrawal." For all practical purposes, it looks like a checking account. Works like a checking account. Might as well be a checking account. Except — it also pays interest! A full 5% on the money in your NOW Savings account. And that could add up to a neat sum every year. Money you wouldn't receive from any free checking account.

With First Federal Savings' NOW Account there's no charge per draft (we can't call them checks). No limit on the number you can write. There is no charge for pre-numbered drafts printed with your name. You can also choose, at a slight cost, from a large selection of styles and colors, pre-numbered and fully personalized with your name and address.

You'll also receive each month, along with your cancelled drafts, a free, simplified NOW statement listing all drafts, deposits made and interest earned. By the way, be sure to add that 5% interest to your balance, when reconciling your figures at home. It helps you meet still other bills.

So come into any First Federal Savings office and open a NOW Savings account today. And start earning a sweet 5% on your money. It keeps money coming in even while you're paying out.

Two new elements in baseball dispute

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two new elements were introduced this weekend in the bargaining table battle between the major league baseball club owners and the Players Association — Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and a deadline for owner inactivity.

"The players are willing and able to play," Miller said. "April 15 is their first payday and if the players are not paid, the contract says the clubs have 10 days to correct the situation. The owners will have to either pay the players or their franchisees will have no players."

Both elements were introduced by Executive Director Marvin Miller of the Players Association at a news conference Saturday to explain why his union is not at fault in the stalemate which has caused a delay in spring training.

"That's ridiculous," John Gaherin, the chief negotiator for the owners, said of the alleged Kuhn issue. "Mr. Miller is just refusing to bargain into a contract that may have unpleasant prospects as far as he's concerned."

Miller said the association was worried that if and when a new contract is negotiated, Kuhn might step in to rule it void. He also said the owners would have until April 25 to determine the future of the game because that is the latest day the players can receive their initial pay checks for the 1976 season.

"There's the Bowie Kuhn problem," explained Miller. "During the Andy Messersmith arbitration, Kuhn made the statement that he believed he had the authority to take the matter out of the arbitrator's hands under the integrity of the game and make a decision himself."

Red Sox sign Wise, players impatient

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston Red Sox pitcher Rick Wise, a 19 game winner last season, has signed a one-year contract with the American League champions.
Wise overcame a 1974 shoulder injury to move into Boston's starting rotation. He pitched 255 innings, compiling a 19-12 mark and a 3.55 earned run average.
The 30-year-old righthander started the third game of the World Series, but was not involved in the decision, and won the sixth game with a one inning of shutout in relief.

Dudley does Whalers in CINCINNATI (UPI) — Rick Dudley doesn't have to kick himself in the head today. Dudley scored his 35th goal on a power play at 13:36 of the third period Sunday to lift the Cincinnati Stingers over New England, 5-3, and enable them to regain the WHA East lead from the Whalers.

"Claude Larose made a smart play and rode Rick Ley off the puck," said Dudley. "All I did was flip it into the corner. If I hadn't made that one, I would be kicking myself in the head — and that's pretty hard to do."

"I could see it (the power play problem) early in the season when we weren't up to each other, but not now," Dudley added. "New England came back from a 3-1 deficit in the final period on goals by Stanley Cup and 22 first place finishes, the chief negotiator for the owners, said of the alleged Kuhn issue. "Mr. Miller is just refusing to bargain into a contract that may have unpleasant prospects as far as he's concerned."

Montreal on point spree

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Canadiens, hockey's most successful franchise with 17 Stanley Cups and 22 first place finishes, clobbered the Detroit Red Wings 6-1 Sunday night to maintain their eight lead over Philadelphia in the battle for the most points during the regular season of the National Hockey League.

Meanwhile in Florida, some of the Red Sox fans were impatient to see the team in the start of spring training while the players association and owners try to come to an agreement.

"All this fussing that's been going on is old stuff," Carl Yastrzemski told the Boston Herald American. "It's too bad the players and owners didn't sit down straight through this thing out three years ago. I just want the Red Sox to get going and win the World Series."

Some Boston players have not signed new contracts yet, including Hake Burstein, Carlton Fisk and Fred Lynn.

Both teams played a lot of hockey in the past week, said Pelyk. "By the third period, we had worn them out and they couldn't get to the puck." Pelyk was bitter about recent attendance figures at Cincinnati.

"How about a play for our fans," he said Sunday night. "There were 5,200 persons here and we are going for first place."

Cincinnati now has a one-point advantage over New England in the WHA East. New England's next game is Wednesday with Phoenix in Hartford.

"I set a goal of 20 on the back nine, which I thought would be enough to win. It wasn't 1. I shot the 32 and here we are."

Irwin said he wished they could have finished up Sunday on play in an attempt to beat the darkness. "But I told (Tournament Director) Jack Tuttle when we reached the second playoff green that we couldn't go on."

Irwin, Zarley in golf playoff

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — The Citrus Open golf tournament has already gone two holes further than it ever has before and it still doesn't have a winner.

Hale Irwin and Kermit Zarley tied at 0-30 a.m. EST today on the third hole of a sudden-death playoff that was suspended Sunday when it became too dark to run the breaks in the green.

Zarley, leading by three strokes at the start of Sunday's supposedly final round, needed two long-pressure-packed birdie putts on the final two holes of regulation play to catch Irwin, who seeks his second victory in three weeks.

Both wound up at 18-under-par 270 to finish three strokes ahead of third-place J.C. Snead. But Irwin, winner of the Los Angeles Open and first to become the first and only 1966 U.S. Open champion, was in the hole on the 18th hole of the playoff.

Mayor urges theater purchase

Persons interested in the town's possible purchase of the theater building on School St., Rockville, for use as a cultural arts center, can express their views at a public meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the former Administration Building.

Mayor Thomas Benoit has entered into a cost-free agreement with the owners of the theater to give the town until May 1 to decide to buy. The mayor is appointing a committee to study it. He has had many volunteers from various groups such as the Tri-Town Players. The asking price for the united building is $34,000. For years it was Rockville's only theater. For a short period two years ago it ran a-rated movie house "and set us back two years."

He suggested its use for films, live stage shows, musical programs, and school and recreational programs. The town's Planning Commission has also been asked to review the purchase and to make a recommendation to the council.

He said right now theater arts are having rough sledding. He expressed concern that if things got rougher the theater might turn into another X-rated movie house "and set us back two years."
