In Illinois primary voting Tuesday

Odds run against Wallace, Shriver, Reagan

CHICAGO (UPI) — George Wallace, Sargent Shriver and Ronald Reagan looked to Illinois today for a lifeboat to keep their sinking presidential campaigns afloat. The odds seemed to be running against them.

Wallace, convincingly beaten by Jimmy Carter in last week's Florida Democratic primary, and Shriver, who hasn't shown strength in any of the early primaries, also hoped for help from the 2 to 2.5 million voters who might turn out Tuesday.

Fred Harris also is in the Illinois race, but his campaign appears to be sustained more by faith than votes.

Reagan, in his third direct confrontation with President Ford, was a decided underdog in the GOP primary. But having lost in New Hampshire and Florida, as well as in lesser tests in Massachusetts and Vermont, the former California governor was sorely in need of a victory.

Conflicting factors may affect the turnout and the outcome. A hot contest for the Democratic nomination for governor between incumbent Daniel Walker and challenger Michael Howlett, backed by Chicago Mayor Richard Daley, could push up the turnout. But weather — light snow was forecast — could hold it down.

Recent polls make Ford the GOP favorite and Reagan has all but publicly written off the possibility of beating the President in the "beauty contest" preferential vote. But Reagan still hopes to win enough GOP delegates — 101 are at stake — to remain credible in what now looks like a long battle. Like Ford, Reagan invested considerable time and resources campaigning here.

The Democratic situation is murky because Daley hasn't chosen to favor any of the major candidates, opting instead to back Sen. Adlai Stevenson as a kind of combination favorite son and stalking horse candidate for the state's 169 national convention delegates.

But the major national candidates — except for Sen. Henry Jackson and Rep. Morris Udall — made a showing in Illinois despite Daley's wish to lead a free delegation to New York City in July.

Even if they cannot get a big bag of delegates, a strong showing in the Democratic preference primary of this state, which has voted with the winner in every presidential election since 1920, is worth working for.

The two major Republican contenders finished their Illinois efforts before the final weekend. But Wallace, Carter and Shriver were hard at it right up to the last hours. Wallace was flying around the state in a series of appearances while Carter and Shriver were concentrating on last efforts in Chicago, which with its Cook County suburbs has more than half of the state's registered voters.

Matt Moriarty Sr. is Irish 'Man of the Year'

GOP chairman choice down to Irish, LaBonne

The contest for Manchester Republican town chairman has narrowed to two men — Wally Irish Jr. and George (Ted) LaBonne — and may go right down to the wire Wednesday, when the GOP town committee meets to organize for 1978-79.

Former Mayor James Farr announced this morning he isn't interested in the post and has asked that his name be withdrawn from consideration. It appeared that the post would be his if he wanted it.

Farr said his decision came after much thought. Personal commitments and other reasons precluded acceptance of the post, he said. He said he is honored at the backing he received.

The town committee's candidate-selection committee and executive board both are meeting today to consider what action, if any, they will take. Reports are both groups may submit the names of Irish and LaBonne to the town committee without recommending one or the other and let the full 85-member body make its own choice.

In a statement on behalf of his candidacy, Irish said that he would work to rekindle community interest in local affairs.

He said he would build a "grassroots" organization that would allow the concerns of all residents to receive attention from party leaders.

He said he would achieve his goals by encouraging the election of hard working district chairmen who would meet regularly with residents of their districts, by holding town committee meetings in various locations around town, by continuous recruiting, by caucusing regularly with Republican members of town boards, and by opening a full-time party headquarters manned by volunteers.

Irish said some party members view his involvement in the Eighth District dispute with the town government over the Buckland area as a drawback to his becoming party chairman. But, he said, participation in this issue is consistent with his philosophy of community involvement. He said the utilities district form of government is a classic example of community participation, and there is a grave example of constitutional rights still to be determined.

Asked by The Herald for comment on his quest for GOP leadership, LaBonne said that in his opinion a campaign for party organizational office should not be waged in the media.

"The only people involved in this type of election are the 75 to 80 who are members of the Republican Town Committee. If the office at stake was subject to a primary, my feeling would be different," LaBonne said.

LaBonne said that if he is to be a candidate on Wednesday, his qualifications have already been documented for the benefit of the screening committee and "I'm sure they will be considered by the executive committee at the meeting tonight."

LaBonne said that after the deliberation of these groups, if he is still a candidate these qualifications will be presented to the town committee as a whole.

When the town committee chooses its officers Wednesday (at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room) the only new officer will be the chairman. Nathan Agostinelli announced a few months ago he is giving up the post.

Expected to be re-elected without opposition are Elsie Swenson, vice-chairman; Patricia Lawrence, secretary; Harriet Haslett, recording secretary; and Charles McKenzie, treasurer.

The new committee to be seated tonight has 10 new members and 75 carryover members.

State

NEW LONDON — A truck carrying nuclear waste was scheduled to be shipped under state police escort through Connecticut today from the Brookhaven National Laboratories in Upton, N.Y., on Long Island, to South Carolina. Earlier shipments were made through New York City but new regulations now bar movement of nuclear materials on city streets.

WATERBURY — About 12,000 students were without school bus service today after vandals smashed windshields on 83 of the vehicles during the night. The vandalism was discovered at 6 a.m. today and damage was estimated at about $7,000.

Regional

WESTON, Mass. — Residents of Cape Cod were mumbling today, but not shaking, over a minor earth tremor measuring 2.8 on the Richter scale recorded Sunday night. It was the second within week. The tremor centered at Orleans and was felt throughout the Cape but caused no damage or injury.

National

ROSLYN HARBOR, L. I. — Yakov Malik, Soviet ambassador to the United Nations, his wife, and two other persons, were injured in an auto accident Sunday night. A fifth person died. The 70-year-old diplomat is reported in satisfactory condition in a Glen Cove, N. Y., hospital.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.

Delegates from 156 nations and territories assembled today for the third U. N. Conference on the Law of the Sea and bargaining on such controversial issues as establishment of offshore economic zones and ownership of vast underwater oil and mineral deposits.

PARTRIDGE, Ky. — A section of the Scotia Coal Co. mine, entombing 11 victims of the second of last week's two underground explosions, was sealed off today.

TREVOSE, Pa. — Police say they have some solid leads but have not determined why anyone would shoot six persons one by one as they entered their home Friday. The dead included five members of the John Abt family and the fiancée of one of his daughters.

International

CAIRO, Egypt — A parliamentary committee today approved President Anwar Sadat's decision to abrogate Egypt's friendship and cooperation treaty with the Soviet Union, and diplomatic sources said a further anti-Soviet move will follow — termination of us of naval facilities for Soviet warship at Egyptian ports.

TOKYO — Japan's top legal expert, Vice Justice Minister Yasuyoshi Shiono, will visit Washington this week in a first step of joint efforts to get to the bottom of the $12 million Lockheed Aircraft Corp. payoff scandal, the Japanese government announced over the weekend.

Hearings set for Thursday on state income tax bills

HARTFORD (UPI) — The most controversial issues which face this session of the legislature will be before legislative committees this week.

Both the income tax and the 40-hour week for state employees have drawn large crowds in the past. They are aimed at balancing the state's budget for the year ending in June 1977.

Gov. Ella T. Grasso has proposed the boost from 35 to 40 hours a week work, but opposes income tax proposals.

Appropriations Committee hearings today and Thursday will consider other parts of the governor's plans to balance the budget, including cutting aid to towns and tapping several small funds.

A 7:30 p.m. hearing today will consider repeal of the state law requiring motorcycle riders to wear helmets.

The proposal for a longer week, opposed by state employees' unions, will be before the Public Personnel and Military Affairs committee Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. in the hall of the Connecticut house.

Union leaders urged a mass protest of the measure and planned demonstrations before the hearing.

Hearings on proposals for a state income tax were scheduled for last Thursday, but were postponed one week because of snow. A Finance Committee hearing is scheduled at 7 p.m. Thursday in the House.

Several measures will be before the group, including one to impose a graduated state income tax, and another requiring a referendum among the state's voters before an income tax could be put in place.

The state's automobile clubs oppose a measure scheduled for a 2 p.m. Thursday hearing which would raise maximum weights for vehicles and trailers on highways and bridges in Connecticut.

Police investigating armed robbery case

An armed robbery Saturday night and a break into a Burr Corners store early this morning kept police busy this weekend.

In the first case, the thief or thieves has not been caught.

In the second, a high speed chase into South Windsor ended with the apprehension of three suspects.

Saturday at 9:14 p.m., Wilfred F. Smith, manager of the Shady Glen Restaurant on W. Middle Tpke., reported to police he had just been robbed.

Smith went with the day's receipts to the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co. office at 354 W. Middle Tpke. at 9:13 p.m., he said. He left his car and walked up to the night deposit box.

A man ran up from the rear of Smith's car and put a hand gun to Smith's head. He said, "Gimme that bag...or you're gonna die."

Smith gave him the bag containing a large sum of checks and cash, police said.

Smith got in his car and drove to his store where he called police. Police began looking for a white male, age about 16 to 20, five feet and four inches tall, slim, wearing a dark grey jacket, brown pants and a ski mask. The gun was described as a small, silver automatic.

Det. Capt. Joseph Sartor said police are still seeking the man.

The break took place today at 1:08 a.m. at Tech Stereo in the Burr Corners shopping plaza on Tolland

Winter storm hits Rockies

By United Press International
A powerful winter storm rumbled across Colorado early today, packing heavy snow and strong, gusty winds.

At least six inches of snow was forecast for the mountains and travelers' advisories were posted warning motorists of blowing and drifting snow.

Snow also swept into the Denver area.

IOH swimathon raises $600

Linda Lemieux, a member of the Instructors of the Handicapped (IOH), takes the initial plunge Friday at 9 p.m. at the beginning of a 12-hour swimathon. Waiting to follow her are Nancy Downing, left, Claire Downing and Frank Ley. They swam in 15-minute relays being relieved by other 4-man teams throughout the period. About $600 was raised in pledges to go toward a specially built IOH pool. Co-chairmen of the swimathon were Downing and Ley. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Tpke., police said.

Someone broke the plate glass window in the front of the store and removed stereo equipment, police said. The break set off an audible alarm which alerted Sgt. Orville Cleveland who was on routine patrol within earshot, police said.

He chased a car from the scene out Windsor St. into South Windsor at speeds of over 90 miles per hour, police said.

Police found a late model Ford station wagon rolling slowly across the lawn of 190 Pleasant Valley Rd. in South Windsor. There was several thousand dollars worth of stereo equipment in it and it had been "hot-wired" and stolen from Hartford Sunday, police said.

Manchester police found Charles B. Devore, 18, of Hartford in a corn field across the street from the house.

South Windsor police found William Washington, 20, and Michael Terry, 17, both of Hartford, behind Civie's Restaurant on Rt. 5 soon after.

None of the men was armed.

All three were charged with third-degree burglary, first-degree larceny and second-degree larceny. Devore was also charged with possession of burglary tools.

All three were taken to Common Pleas Court 12 in East Hartford this morning and were awaiting presentment at noon. They were being held on $10,000 surety bond each.

Opinion

Work-study rescues stagnating seniors

It may be questioned whether high school students today are learning more or less or as much as kids did in the old days, but they are learning it faster.

Where it used to be the rule that students carried a full schedule of studies right through the last year of high school, in many cases they are now completing their graduation requirements early in the senior year and even in the junior year.

Thus they are forced to stay in a "holding pattern," as Education USA newsletter describes it, and this has given rise to a malaise called "senioritis." For both college-bound students and soon-to-be job hunters, the senior year can be "boring beyond belief," says New York State Commissioner of Education Ewald Nyquist.

In the search for a cure for "senioritis," high schools across the country are pushing, or being pulled, toward new options for 12th graders, reports Education USA. These range from early graduation to college courses in high school to independent study projects to apprenticeship or work-study programs.

The latter is an increasingly popular option, particularly for students who don't plan to go on to college. Students work part time, usually for no pay, with professionals or craftsmen in a variety of fields. Some students use the opportunity to find out about different occupations, while others get a head start on a chosen career.

A similar but more academically structured program is "Experience-Based Career Education," devised by the National Institute of Education. In this program, students pick a career area that interests them, such as health, banking or law.

During an initial 12-week exploration phase, a student may work in a hospital or in police headquarters or perhaps follow a civil case at a private law firm. The student then concentrates on one particular job for the next 12 weeks, thereby gaining both a general knowledge of a career field and specific knowledge of one aspect of it.

One Long Island high school offers college-credit courses to its otherwise "stagnating" seniors. And in yet another approach to "senioritis," California has instituted a proficiency test which permits a 16- or 17-year-old who passes it to leave school with a high school diploma.

We will no doubt be hearing about many more such innovations.

Creditable gains

It's not just the professional or full-time working woman who is winning economic justice. Widows and divorced women, who once were politely shown the door if they applied for a loan, now have a much improved chance of getting or keeping credit, thanks to new legislation and enlightened lending policies.

While these women are subject to the same lending criteria as anybody else — income, employment, credit history, etc. — factors that are unique to them also now apply, advises the American Bankers Assn. (ABA).

Today's thought

"So you're a prison chaplain, eh? Too bad you couldn't have made a job of the parish ministry. I suppose they have appointed you to a little church on the outside so that you can starve gracefully!"

Without exhibiting too many of my paranoid tendencies, I have the definite impression that the foregoing remarks constitute the tacit usage of the prison chaplain in the minds of most people.

I shared these opinions, too, until I had completed some graduate studies in the field of psychology and found that many of my mind-sets in regard to the convict, the social offender, or the exceptional person were re-evaluated.

Yes, I have been involved with prisons and prisoners for twenty-two years. So much so that I've felt like taking my clerical collar off and tossing it into the garbage can. Day in and day out, seeing the enormous amount of human need that exists in our so-called "correctional institutions" and feeling like one person over against that enormous need, I often feel as if I were giving aspirins to cure appendicitis.

There is a feeling of incredible powerlessness over against an incredible powerful system of criminal justice in this country. That system tends not to correct, but to corrupt and to degrade.

Prisoners are on the lowest rung of the ladder of priorities in our government, and the reason is because the public still wants "an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth."
 Rev. Russell E. Camp, Chaplain, Somers State Prison

Mata Hari is alive and well

WASHINGTON — I do not wish to give aid and comfort to those perine seducers whose hole is Playboy magazine, but I suggest society is reassured by a revelation that the Soviet Secret police still use living breathing girls to pry secrets out of American males working abroad.
 The disclosure came from a pal of my salad days now employed by an American corporation in a Western European country.
 "You won't believe this," writes Jack, "but seven times in the past year the local counterintelligence boys have exposed females, dated regularly by Americans employed in private business, as spies for the Soviet KGB. The word is that these damsels are now languishing in various dungeons while the locals can trade them for some of their own spoils in Russian hogstoves."
 Believe it, Maroon. I see Jack's story as evidence that in this electronic, gadget-ridden age some values persist. In contradiction to voices raised heretofore by the more frenetic feminists, the feisty Russians are saying that there are, indeed, still two sexes.
 There is of course plenty of proof that Moscow, like the U.S., employs the latest sophisticated eavesdropping devices, including space satellites, to steal other nation's secrets. But if not quite despite that of the more ferocious activists hints that if they have their way the concentration camps will be filled with males caught holding a girl's hand and females apprehended in the act of nipping at a male ear. I can accept change; all I ask is that part of the country be set aside for women readily — or even furtively — recognizable as members of opposite sexes.

 I want it in writing that the man who wears pants and eschews lipstick and the woman who favors males with becks and nods and wreathed smiles enjoy equal protection under the law. A pretty girl is still more of a melody than a male, even when the latter douses himself with half a bottle of Unbridled Lust. In short, although I invariably count my fingers after shaking hands with a Communist, the Russians have the right idea. They have opted to live with the fact of it that in the boy-girl field opposites still frequently attract.

When you talk about Beethoven Glee Club, as Reflections did last week, you must, in your next breath, mention G Clef Club.

G Clef was formed June 30, 1927, by Helge Pearson, and it was composed of more than 30 female voices. It outlived Beethoven Glee Club by two years, the same as its birth was two years after the glee club.
 Together these vocal groups gave Manchester excellent representation in secular and sacred music. They often performed together; the last time formally was in 1950 for the 25th anniversary of Beethoven Glee Club. Informally, they had a melodious reunion in 1970 when Helge came "home" to Manchester for a visit.

Reflections could repeat its comments of a week ago because G Clef was formed, and it was composed of more than 30 female voices. It outlived Beethoven Glee Club by two years, the same as its birth was two years after the glee club.

PTA Council backs budget

To the editor,
 The following is the text of a letter sent to Town Manager Robert Weiss, Mayor Moriarty, and all Directors of the Town of Manchester.

Dear Sir,
 As delegated representatives of the parents of the school children of Manchester, we the members of the PTA Council wish to emphasize our strong support of the Board of Education's proposed budget for the school year 1978-1979, as evidenced by the vote at our General Meeting of February 28th.

Being familiar with its provisions the priorities, through the diligent efforts of our Budget Study Committee which worked with Dr. Kennedy and the Board, we feel it represents the minimal funding necessary to maintain the viability of Manchester's school system, reflecting to a painful degree the austerity necessitated by current economic conditions.

Most sincerely,
 Manchester PTA Council

Juror selection process explained

To the editor,
 As chairperson of the Jury Commission for the Town of Manchester, I would like to take this opportunity to explain the process of juror selection.

Each year we receive a request from the Superior Court in Hartford for a certain number of prospective jurors. This number is divided into the total number of registered voters to obtain a factor to be used in the mathematical selection process.

To begin, we pick at random an initial number and then using the aforementioned factor, select jurors until the entire voters' list is utilized. This year the factor was 40 and the first name selected was number 5 on the alphabetical list of voters. Thus the first prospective juror was number 45, the third was number 85, and so on. Each year we receive instructions that "the Jury Commission has no discretion to strike any names which have been drawn and is under a duty to select all other names so drawn."

The only way this committee can eliminate names from the selected jurors' list is if the person named is not registered voters to obtain a factor to be used in the mathematical selection process.

Were we not to use this method of juror selection, this list could be considered ineligible by the state. As you can see, our only purpose is to do the mathematical selection of prospective jurors (by computer) and to turn this list over to the Superior Court. If you are selected and cannot serve, you would then have to state that fact to the Court and wait its decision.

If I can be of service to prospective jurors, please feel free to contact me.

NEWARK, N.J., March 15 — Local authorities imposed price ceilings on imports from the West Indies, allowing for transportation costs, waste in shipping and a reasonable profit. Violators were warned they would be shamed and lose any protection of their persons and property.

Edna Johnson Curtis, Esther Johnson, Beatrice Johnson Pearson, Anna Scheinberg, Grimsman, Esther Noren Reichard, Evelyn Robinson Dabuc, Grace Tourtelotte, Lillian E. Marlock.

There were others in later years, like Jeanette Paton, Dorothy Krause, Nancy Payne, Joan Hathaway, Charlotte Gray, Caroline Forster, Alice Hecker, Gladys Vennart Neill.

G Clef chose "Peace I Leave With You" as a theme song, and it ended each concert.

Another was "The Messiah," performed in joint concert and, Eva says, "your dad was the trumpet soloist."

G Clef did a lot of traveling. They went to Lancaster, Pa., and were welcomed by a "G Clef, Manchester, Conn." sign at Penn Station in New York; they were late, and the train was held up for them.

"We sang wherever we were asked to," Eva says. "In country churches, fraternal groups, the Submarine Base."

There were romances developed from Beethoven Glee Club and G Clef Club. Helge Pearson and his bride, Esther Anderson announced their engagement at a Halloween party for G Clef on Oct. 23, 1929. Esther was president of G Clef. Reports tell us G Clef sang at the wedding.

Al Pearson and Bea Johnson were married July 8, 1933. Erland Johnson met his wife, Helen Dennis, there; so did George Hubbard and Janet Wilson.

Schools to be compared

Manchester's education process will be compared to others in our country in a slide presentation and talk Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Washington School. The event is sponsored by the school PTA. The public is invited.

Speakers for the evening will be Judy Rolfs and Arthur Glaeser, both educators in Manchester.

Also on the program will be Washington School glee club who will sing several selections.

The book fair will be open in the media center from 6:30 p.m. until the meeting begins.

Willie's expansion before ZBA

Plans for expansion of Willie's Steak House, 444 Center St., will be aired tonight when the Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA) conducts public hearings on requested zoning variances.

William Oleksinski and Wallace Parciak, owners of the restaurant, are seeking waiver of parking and front yard requirements so they can build a new banquet room and cocktail lounge.

The site for the proposed addition is property just west of the existing Main St. They use the barn for a home-conducted occupation, allowed by Dec's Drive-In Restaurant, is being purchased by Oleksinski and Parciak.

Preliminary plans for the addition call for a structure of 3,000 to 4,000 square feet, with a 125 to 140-seat banquet room and an 80- to 100-seat cocktail lounge.

The ZBA will start its public hearings at 7 p.m. at the Municipal Building Hearing Room, 41 Center St.

Other items on the agenda: • Peter R. Gavello's request for a continued sideyard variance so he can maintain a rooftop patio at 133 Brent Rd., Residence A Zone.

• An application by Raymond S. and Elaine G. Redens for variances to allow building an addition to a barn at 457 N. Main St. They use the barn for a home-conducted occupation, allowed by variances granted in 1974.

• A petition by Warren E. Howland to allow construction of a two-family house at the Carriage Apartments complex on E. Center St., Residence A Zone.

Sacred dancers to perform

The Women's Society of Community Baptist Church will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the living room of the church.

After a short business session, the Sacred Dancers of South United Methodist Church, under the direction of Marilyn Morton and Nancy Von Hollen, will present a program in the church sanctuary.

Other dancers are Barbara Bradin, Judy Muschko, Ann Charness and Jo Goodson.

The Rev. Ondon Stairs will conduct a Lenten Communion Service in Fellowship Hall after the program.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

Roger Sherman holds the unique distinction of being the only man to sign four of the great documents of the Continental Congress: the Articles of Association of 1774, the Declaration of Independence, the Articles of Confederation and the Constitution. His considerable legal experience before and during the Revolution qualified Sherman for membership of various and many committees and the treasury board of the Congress. The World Almanac recalls.

The Burke-Fortin Funeral Home, 76 Prospect St., Rockville, was in charge of arrangements. Mrs. Graczyk was born in Poland and lived in Rockville many years. She was a communicant of St. Joseph's Church.

Survivors are 5 daughters, Mrs. Catherine Graczyk of Enfield, Mrs. Jennie Brown, Mrs. Helen Chemistruck and Mrs. Jan Pantomella, all of Vernon, and Mrs. Lucy Knybel of Ellington; 4 sons, Joseph Graczyk of Tolland, Walter Graczyk of Windsor Locks, and Henry Graczyk and Theodore Graczyk, both of Enfield; 13 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

School bus crash claims second life

NEW LONDON (UPI) — A 19-year-old New London girl is the second fatality of a school bus crash that followed a school bus-tractor trailer accident.

Mary Ellen Davis died Sunday at Lawrence and Memorial Hospitals as a result of injuries suffered Tuesday in an accident which occurred when a man driving her and two other girls to the hospital hit a tree.

Margaret Carter, 13, of Norwich was killed in the crash. The third girl, Kerri M. Davis, 15, of East Lyme, remained hospitalized in good condition early today.

The chain of events began about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday when a tractor-trailer on Interstate 95 in Waterford collided with a school bus carrying students from the Williams School in New London to homes in the Essex-Old Saybrook area.

John C. O'Sullivan, 19, a passing motorist, who was driving an old Waterford police cruiser that had been traded in at a car dealership but still had police markings, stopped the bus driver and two other girls to the hospital.

Grasso budget called 'blackmail'

HARTFORD (UPI) — Gov. Ella T. Grasso's budget balancing proposals involve "political blackmail," according to a state employees' union leader.

Michael Ferrucci, executive director of Council 16 American Federation of State County and Municipal Employees, said Saturday the governor was using "dictatorial methods" to force passage of her program.

Both Mrs. Grasso's plan to lengthen the week of state workers from 35 hours to 40 hours and to take over the $2 million Soldiers, Sailors and Marines Fund are critical to her program to finish the fiscal year with a balanced budget.

'White-knucklers' in NCAA tourney

NEW YORK (UPI) — The NCAA basketball championship tournament got off to a spectacular start Saturday with a half-dozen "white-knucklers" among the 16 first-round games, but top-ranked Indiana breezed into the Midwest semifinals.

This year's Indiana team generally is not considered as deep in talent as last year's squad. But this year's Hoosiers have a healthy Scott May. "I thought May played really within the scope of everything that we wanted to do," Indiana coach Bobby Knight said after his All-America forward had scored 33 Western Michigan's final 35 points.

The East region on Thursday pairs Rutgers against Connecticut and VMI against DePaul, while Alabama meets Indiana and Marquette plays Western Michigan in the Midwest.

Thoughts ApLENTY

Just fantastic Know what the word means? Many people do but the University of Connecticut basketball team doesn't consider it part of its vocabulary.

The Huskies, down by 15 points with less than 10 minutes to play, just refused to cave in and their hard work resulted in an 86-76 overtime victory over Hofstra University Saturday afternoon in a first round NCAA test.

The first half was a bad one for Connecticut as it fell behind 43-30. Leading scorer Tony Hanson had to sit out the final 14:31 with three fouls while inside men John Thomas and freshman Jeff Carr, who would prove to be the hero, were finding the going rough against rugged John Irving.

They (Hofstra) started off with a combination defense, half zone and half man, and it confused us," explained UConn backcourt star Joe Whelton. "We felt he (Irving) but this team doesn't know when to quit."

The Huskies were badly mauled off the boards the first half and 10 turnovers compounded their headaches — many turned into points — as the Flying Dutchmen in the initial 20-minute session had four turnovers.

UConn advances

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) — The road to Philadelphia and the Final Four has started off a little bumpy for third-ranked Rutgers, but Coach Tom Young is confident his club's spurring offense will be able to shift into high gear from here on out.

The Scarlet Knights, who've relied mostly on a fast break attack to build a perfect 29-0 record, have been slowed to a virtual halt in their last two games against St. John's in the final of the ECAC regional basketball tournament and against Princeton Saturday in the first round of the NCAA Eastern regional tournament.

Rutgers fast break off to bumpy start

In fact, they're rather lucky they've been able to survive. A missed foul shot by Princeton reserve guard Pete Molloy with four seconds remaining was all that prevented Rutgers from possible elimination from the tournament Saturday.

The Scarlet Knights were able to squeak out a 54-53 victory, but the message was clear. A team has a better chance of beating Rutgers if it is deliberate and patient on offense and refuses to get into a running game with the Scarlet Knights.

But there are no teams remaining in the Eastern bracket that employ Princeton's overly cautious style. Rutgers' next opponent, in the UConn game, is Virginia Tech.

The other two teams left in the Eastern bracket are DePaul and Virginia Military Institute, neither of which is as deliberate on offense as Princeton.

Kuhn says baseball will start on time

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — The gates to spring training remained closed today amid more legal jousting between baseball's club owners and players, but Commissioner Bowie Kuhn gives his assurance the 1976 season will start on schedule.

The owners and players negotiated for nearly six hours Sunday before adjourning until 11 a.m. today. And although the controversial reserve clause remains the stumbling block to a settlement of the labor dispute, it was the spring training issue which suddenly moved to the forefront of the talks.

The owners would like to open the camps, but not without a "no-strike" pledge from the players.

"We're a long way from having a key to the padlock or a backslap for the chain," said John Gaherin, chief negotiator for the owners, referring to the closed camps. "Opening the camps is not immediate."

However, Kuhn, in his first official comments on the stalemated talks, expressed optimism that the camps would open soon and that the jeopardized start of the '76 season also would not be affected.

East runners fourth

Mark Skehan took fourth place in the mile run for the Eagles.

East's best finish ever in the open was paced by Brian Foley in the 600-yard run who won the event with 1:15.7 clocking. Cephus Nolen took third in the 60-yard dash, fifth in the long jump and was a member of the 200-yard x 4 relay team which placed fifth. Others in the quartet were Bob Frank, Jim McCann and Rich Briggs.

Bullets top Celts as Robinson stars

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Boston Celtics now know about Len Robinson, although gaining the knowledge cost them a game.

Elvin Hayes got his 26 points, Phil Chenier and Dave Bing put on their penetrating guard routines and Wes Unseld did his usual brick wall imitation under the boards.

But the added dimension of Robinson's 25 points, six rebounds and three blocked shots was the difference as the Celtics outled the Celtics, 102-89, Sunday in a nationally televised NBA game between the leaders of the Central and Atlantic Divisions.

The 6-foot-7 second-year player scored straight Bullet points in the second period to carry Washington from a 30-26 deficit to a 35-34 edge.

But the 225-pounder from Tennessee State was back in the lineup replacing Mike Riordan when Washington won the game with a 10-4 burst in the third period.

The Kansas City Kings shaded the Atlanta Hawks 114-113, the New Orleans Jazz defeated the Golden State Warriors 118-103, and the Kentucky SuperSonics topped the New York Knicks 113-103, the Los Angeles Lakers routed the Buffalo Braves 137-109, and the Portland Trail Blazers downed the Detroit Pistons 114-103, in other National Basketball Association games.

The Spirits of St. Louis defeated the San Antonio Spurs 111-95, the New York Nets edged the Virginia Squires 110-106, and the Kentucky Colonels beat the Indiana Pacers 130-119 in American Basketball Association games.

"His biggest problem," Miller explained, "is not the amount of money who might be playing out their options, but the amount of money it will cost to keep them. As a possible solution to that problem we said 'Why not consider a one-year agreement instead of a four-year one. This way, we can consider the cost for just one season instead of 1977's, 1978's and 1979's, too. We could negotiate again in October if they (the owners) felt the cost had been too high."

Miller admitted the "one-and-one" problem has been "most troublesome" to the owners. "We spent much of the morning discussing that issue," he said. "The impact of one-and-one on current contracts and the future of the reserve system is what's at stake here."

Purim Festival starts tonight

The festival of Purim, which symbolizes the Jewish quest for religious freedom, starts at sundown tonight and will last through sundown Tuesday. It will be observed in synagogues and homes throughout the world, with the theme, "Freedom," being emphasized by religious and secular leaders of local and world Jewry.

Purim has its roots in the Biblical story of Queen Esther who saved the Jews from Haman, the Persian minister who persecuted them. Purim means "lots," the method Haman used to pick the day on which all of the Jews in the Persian empire were to be done away with.

The story of Queen Esther is told in the scrolls, or Megillah, which will be read tonight in all synagogues. Queen Esther, after learning from her uncle, Mordecai, of the schemings of Haman, went to

Moses rules in favor of para-professionals

Town Counsel Victor Moses has ruled in favor of three para-professionals in the Manchester school system and has concluded they may make retroactive contributions to the town's pension plan for the years between 1970, when they were hired, and 1973, when their pension contributions began.

The opinion was requested of Moses by Fred Geyer, chairman of the Pension Board, after Wilson Deakin, assistant superintendent of schools, and the three para-professionals, all full-time second grade teachers in the Head Start Program, requested permission "to buy past experience in the pension plan."

Moses answered "yes" to both questions asked of him by Geyer.

"Were the three para-professionals employees of the Board of Education at the time of the commencement of duties in 1970 and therefore eligible to participate in the pension plan?"

"If they were eligible to participate in said pension plan at the time of commencement of their duties, does the Pension Ordinance now permit them to buy past experience, by way of retroactive contributions, for the period of their employment in which no pension deductions were made between 1970 and 1973?"

Police report

Phyllis Madrak, 52, of Glastonbury was reported in serious condition late this morning at Manchester Memorial Hospital from injuries suffered in a one-car accident Saturday.

She is being treated for a fractured hip and multiple contusions and lacerations, a hospital spokesman said.

She was in a car driven by John Orr, 33, of Boston Hill Rd., Andover heading north on S. Main St. at about 7:56 p.m. Saturday when he was blinded by an oncoming car, he told police. His car went off the right side of the road and struck a utility pole snapping it off at the base.

Police said the driver was taken to MMH. Orr was treated for chest injuries and multiple lacerations, admitted for a short time and discharged.

The car was towed from the scene. Orr was given a written warning for driving after drinking.

Keith Robertson, 22, of 202 Oak Grove St., was arrested Saturday at 2:35 p.m. on a first-degree criminal mischief in an incident Sept. 26, 1974. He was released on a $500 surety bond for appearance in Common Pleas Court 12 in East Hartford March 29.

Israelis to tighten belts

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Israel's world's most heavily taxed people have been given a new economic burden — a rise of up to 25 per cent in the price of dozens of basic commodities.

Beginning today, they were paying more for food and fuel as part of a government plan to get the nation's ailing, defense-oriented economy back on its feet.

The government also announced a 2 per cent devaluation of Israel's shakhy currency — the eighth since the Jewish state began its policy of "creeping devaluation" in June, 1975.

Arnon Galin, director general of the Israeli treasury, said Sunday the price of bread would go up 25 per cent, milk 22 per cent, eggs 25 per cent and flour 25 per cent.

Galim told a news conference the cost of gasoline would rise 14.5 per cent, cooking gas 12.5 per cent and home heating oil 12 and 13 per cent.

The price of poultry will jump 20 per cent and beef 22 per cent.

There was a small bit of good news. The cost of rice will remain the same and the price of sugar will actually drop 9 per cent.

But the government also said the cost of public transportation — buses and taxis — would go up 25 per cent within 10 days.

Treasury officials said the increases would enable the government to cut subsidies to the domestic products and use the money saved to stimulate exports.

Galim said Israel wants to increase exports to reduce its $3.7 billion annual balance of payments deficit without cutting military expenditures.

The government, which has allocated 40 per cent of its $11.5 billion budget for defense, had been paying subsidies of up to 50 per cent of the cost of such basic commodities as bread.

Uccello urged to run again

HARTFORD (UPI) — Former Mayor Ann Uccello will be asked to consider another congressional run, according to the Hartford Times.

State Republican party Chairman Fred K. Bichel will ask Miss Uccello to run against Rep. William R. Cotter, D-Conn., as she did five years ago, the newspaper reported Sunday.

Since her defeat in that race, she has been director of consumer affairs at the U.S. Department of Transportation.

Several breaks took place over the weekend. They included:

- The Kenney St. School Saturday.
- An unknown white male, carrying a knife, held up the 7-Eleven Store at the Five Corners in Ellington Sunday and fled the scene on foot with $137.

Police report

Phyllis Madrak, 52, of Glastonbury was reported in serious condition late this morning at Manchester Memorial Hospital from injuries suffered in a one-car accident Saturday.

She is being treated for a fractured hip and multiple contusions and lacerations, a hospital spokesman said.

She was in a car driven by John Orr, 33, of Boston Hill Rd., Andover heading north on S. Main St. at about 7:56 p.m. Saturday when he was blinded by an oncoming car, he told police. His car went off the right side of the road and struck a utility pole snapping it off at the base.

Police said the driver was taken to MMH. Orr was treated for chest injuries and multiple lacerations, admitted for a short time and discharged.

The car was towed from the scene. Orr was given a written warning for driving after drinking.

Keith Robertson, 22, of 202 Oak Grove St., was arrested Saturday at 2:35 p.m. on a first-degree criminal mischief in an incident Sept. 26, 1974. He was released on a $500 surety bond for appearance in Common Pleas Court 12 in East Hartford March 29.

Rev-share foes attacked for partisan politics

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford suggested today opponents of the federal revenue sharing program are trying to force cities to cut public services and jobs or raise taxes.

"It is becoming increasingly apparent that the Congress fails to understand the importance of this program to the people of the cities and counties and states of our nation," he said.

Ford said revenue sharing has financed numerous public safety programs, education, transportation, education, environmental protection and other programs that local governments would have had to forego.

Moreover, he said, the money has been provided at a fraction of administrative costs for most assistance — proving "bureaucratic overhead need not rob the taxpayer blind, nor bind your cities and states in a maze of red tape, in order for a federally funded program to succeed."

Ford said he knew many cities "face the imminent prospect of firing thousands of workers because the Congress has not provided the funds you need to pay them."

He said he would seek fast congressional approval of a $1.7 billion bill that would continue funding of

Car rate low till Saturday

The Savings Bank of Manchester has lowered its interest rate on new car loans to 9 per cent annually, but the reduced rate is only good until Saturday.

Bank President William Johnson said the 9 per cent rate is the lowest in Greater Hartford. A February survey of financial institutions showed only one — The Stonington Community Credit Union — with a rate as low as 9 per cent, Johnson said.

"We thought it was time someone gave the consumers a break on auto finance rates," Johnson said. "So for a limited time we're offering the 9 per cent rate."

Johnson said the end of the offer is the first day of spring, March 20. He said the rate applies only to new cars and for loans made directly to the car buyer. Life insurance is optional and not included in the rate, he said.

Engineers to meet
The Hartford Engineers Club will meet at The Colony, Rt. 83, Vernon, at 6:30 p.m. Thursday. Capt. Christopher Ptuchnik of the U.S. Air Force will explain the government's B-1 Bomber program.
